Carter sets welfare goals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A decent income for those who cannot work and access to jobs for those who can are among President Carter's 12 goals for welfare reform. But he says they cannot be achieved for at least three years.

After offering his statement of principles at a White House briefing Monday, Carter said the next order of business is consultations with governors and community leaders "to accommodate the special and unique needs of each state."

Actual reform — in Carter's view nothing less than scrapping the present system — cannot be achieved until at least 1981, he said, because "The extremely complicated changes must be made carefully and responsibly."

His chief welfare adviser, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano, said in a more colorful description of the pitfalls awaiting the plan: "Welfare reform is the Middle East of politics." Carter conceded it won't come quickly, or politically easily.

The administration will send a legislative proposal to Congress by the first week in August, he said.

If Congress approves a bill by early 1978, another three years would be needed to put it into effect. Hearings begin in the House of Representatives Wednesday.

Carter said HEW concluded after three months of study "the present welfare programs should be scrapped entirely and a totally new system implemented."

Welfare is inadequate, unfair, irrational, incoherent, wasteful, capricious and subject to fraud, the President said, adding: "It is much worse than we had anticipated."

In its place, Carter would consolidate at least three types of welfare — Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps and Supplemental Security Income for needy aged, blind and disabled persons — into a single cash grant.

It would vary geographically only to reflect differences in the cost of living.

Every family with children and an able-bodied adult would have access to a job, Carter said reform should provide incentives to private business and industry to supply the jobs but that 2 million public service jobs could be made available in prisons, parks and among the elderly.

"There will be a heavy emphasis on jobs, simplicity of administration, financial incentive to work, adequate assistance for those who cannot work, equitable benefits for all needy American families, and close cooperation between private groups and officials at all levels of government," he said.

Administration officials shied away from cost estimates.

Creation of one public service job could cost $6,000, said Labor Secretary Ray Marshall.

The expected 1978 cash value of the three potentially consolidated programs is $22.5 billion, said Califano.

For his part, the President set a goal of limiting the cost of welfare reform to "no higher initial cost than the present systems."

Town budget to earmark fund for special buses

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter
The Manchester Board of Directors Monday night decided to establish a $10,000 contingency account in the 1977-78 budget for the money needed to purchase and operate buses for the elderly and handicapped. The board will decide at a later date whether to actually implement the system.

"We'll put the money aside and give you all a chance to vote on it," Mayor Matthew Moriarty told the board.

The board, in its first analysis of the budget, had chopped the cost for the buses from the Human Services Department budget. Monday night, however, the board decided to restore the funds, at least temporarily.

The town's share would be about $2,000 for the operation and $8,000 for the purchase of two buses, one each for Manchester's elderly and handicapped.

Republican Carl Zinsner said that he felt the board could not act until it has full information on the subject and that such a policy decision should be made separate from work on the budget.

Thus, the final decision on providing the bus service will be made at a regular board meeting, possibly in June, after the budget work is completed.

Alan Mason, director of human services, has previously appeared before the board to discuss the proposal and alternatives, such as whether the town should run the service itself or buy the buses and contract the service to a private firm.

When the directors discussed the possibility of another meeting on the buses, they said that they would want all information necessary to make a decision. Some members have expressed displeasure at the amount of information they have received so far.

"I think we should make it clear to Alan Mason that we want all our questions answered. If they aren't, he's not going to get his buses," Zinsner said.

The board also reviewed another matter it has discussed before — the proposal to hire a physician extender for the Health Department.

The board agreed that the final decision on whether to create such a position will be up to the department head and will require final approval by the board.

The department, like most others, has received a six per cent increase over present year spending in the board's tentative budget plans.

"We've set the dollar figure and told them that any new position has to come before the board. There's nothing more we can do," Zinsner said.

The directors also approved a $3,000 contingency account for reclassifications.

The board has decided not to include any of the reclassifications listed in the manager's proposed budget. All of these reclassifications would amount to about a $9,000 increase in salaries. Instead, the board will judge each one separately at regular meetings during the year.

In a budget-related matter, Controller Thomas S. Moore said this morning that the town may receive increased funding through the federal Anti-Recession program.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss had included no such funds in his 1977-78 budget, but later told the board it could expect $50,000 in such payments.

Moore said, however, that present governmental estimates are that the town will receive $180,000, including the $50,000 amount, in direct Anti-Recession payments and another $116,000 in "pass-through" payments, which are handled by the state. Moore said that the person he spoke to called the figures "dart board" ones that might fluctuate.

Leaders seek break in budget impasse

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic leaders, whose party controls the legislature but is split over welfare increases, meet again today with insurgents to try and produce a budget package.

The leaders met behind closed doors Monday with six big city party dissidents and emerged smiling — but no closer to a breakthrough in the impasse.

The six are Democrat Reps.

William R. Dyson and Irving J. Stolberg of New Haven; and four Hartford Democrats, Reps. Abraham L. Giles, Clyde M. Billington Jr., A. Boyd Hinds Jr., and Sen. Sanford Cloud Jr.

"We're no further than we were," said Senate President Pro Tem Joseph Fauliso, D-Hartford. "Nothing can be said in a positive way. There has been no progress."

The urban Democrats want welfare payments increased 20 per cent instead of the 10 per cent sought by the leaders. They held the state budget hostage to their demand in the Appropriations Committee.

The committee's deadline is Wednesday. If the spending plan is not approved by then, lawmakers face the chaotic prospect of drawing up an expected $1.9 billion budget on the floor of the 151-member House of Representatives.

If lawmakers can't draw up a budget by the constitutionally-mandated June 8 adjournment date, they would be forced to return to Hartford for a special session to approve a tax and spending plan.

But both Gov. Ella T. Grasso and House Speaker James J. Kenney, D-Hartford, say they don't think the problem will go that far.

Political traditions broken in Bolton, Andover voting

Political tradition lost in the municipal elections of two area towns Monday.

Democrats prevailed in the Republican town of Bolton and Republicans swept the Democratic town of Andover.

In Bolton, voters chose Democrat Henry Ryba as first selectman over veteran Republican Richard Morra. Only one Republican — Ernest Shepherd — was elected to the expanded, five-member Board of Selectmen, which will be the first under Bolton's new Town Charter.

Republican J. Russell Thompson won a three-way race for first selectman in Andover, defeating Democrat Thomas Anderson and independent Robert Post. Andover voters gave seats to Democrats only where required by minority representation rules.

Recounts of several races are required in each town, because several contests were decided by margins of 20 votes or fewer. The automatic recounts are mandated by state law.

Voter turnout was said to be good in both towns. In Andover, about 60 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls. Bolton's turnout was about 56 per cent.

Details of the two elections are on Page 6.

MCC carnival opens tonight

The carnival to benefit Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell will open tonight at 5 at the Manchester Community College campus near the band shell on Wetherell St.

The carnival will be open tonight through Friday from 5 to 11 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from noon to midnight. Admission is free.

The MCC Student Band Shell Committee is sponsoring the carnival in an effort to raise at least $1,000 for the band shell.

The Andover and Bolton elections were among 23 contests in Connecticut localities Monday.

In Windham, Democrats retained control of town government but a Republican newcomer upset his veteran running mates to become a selectman.

In Stafford Springs, two young Republicans upset incumbent burgesses in the borough elections.

The Republican incumbent prevailed in the first selectman contest in Union, the state's smallest town, despite a tough Democratic challenge for one of the first times in history.

In Danielson, incumbents prevailed in the nonpartisan borough elections.

In the Fenwick section of Old Saybrook, voters maintained the status quo by seating an unopposed slate of officers.

The smiles of victory

Victory shows on the faces of Democrat Henry Ryba (center) and his wife, Janina, as election results are announced Monday night at the Bolton Community Hall. Ryba was elected first selectman by a margin of 144 votes, Richard Morra (right), the unsuccessful Republican candidate for first selectman, appeared happy for Ryba but a little sad for himself. Little boy found

One picture is worth more than 10,000 words as is this photo of David Adams safe in the arms of his distraught mother, Mrs. Gregory Adams of 123 Main St. Two-year-old David caused a flurry of activity Monday afternoon when he took an unscheduled stroll to visit a neighbor and Manchester Police and members of the Manchester CB's Club joined in the search. In less than an hour, the youngster was located in the home of a neighbor who, unaware that he had entered her house, left the building to help in the hunt for the missing child. When she returned, David was there to greet her. (Herald photo by Pinto)

8th District okays sewer project plan

Residents of the Eighth Utilities District voted Monday night to allow the Town of Manchester to install a sewer trunk line through the district to service homes in the Concord-Baldwin Rd. area.

The vote was 37 to 10 on a secret hand-written ballot. The meeting was the third one on the issue of the sewer installation.

The first was an informational meeting in which Town Public Works Director Jay J. Giles explained the $994,000 project. The town wants to take advantage of state and federal funds which are now available and which will pay for a large portion of the project.

The Town Board of Directors also recently approved an allocation of $10,000 for engineering work on the project.

Approval on the installation of sewers is necessary under Special Act 200 approved by the state legislature in 1963. The district has to approve any sewers installed by the town north of Middle Tpke.

Despite the previous town and district hearings on the sewer proposal, several district residents and residents of the proposed area raised questions Monday night.

After several attempts to speak by out-of-district residents were stopped by Atty. John D. LaBelle Jr., moderator, District Director

Lawrence Noone moved that the rules be suspended to allow the residents to speak.

Several residents of the Baldwin Rd. area did speak, some asking questions about the cost, and some still confused about where the main sewer line would be installed.

LaBelle said the lines of the installation have been defined in the agreement with the town. The longest length of the trunk line will be on the west side of Union Pond and then fan out to the Baldwin-Concord Rd. area.

One Baldwin Rd. resident said he was in favor of the sewers because he is convinced they are necessary in the area which is built on ledge. He cited problems in recent weeks of the residents with septic tanks.

Under the funding proposal, the residents will have to pay only $15 per linear foot for the sewer installation instead of the previously estimated figure of $25 per foot.

The district has received assurance from the town that it can tie into the sewer trunk line if it decides to install street sewers, without cost to the district. The connector stubs will be put in by the town. Atty. John D. LaBelle Sr., counsel for the district, told the residents Monday. The district would have to pay for the normal sewer charge, he said.

Auxiliary gives hospital $65,000

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Herald Reporter
The Auxiliary of Manchester Memorial Hospital presented a check for $65,000 to the hospital Monday at its annual luncheon meeting at The Colony in Talcottville.

Receiving the check was Robert H. Smith, president of the hospital's board of trustees, who said that the money was earmarked for renovations in the pediatric department. The renovation project was called "priority number two" which, Smith said, meant it would be considered after the new laundry construction is completed.

Last year's auxiliary gift to the hospital was $67,500, but it included $3,500 raised from the auction of house furnishings owned by the hospital.

Added to past donations from the auxiliary and accumulated interest, Smith said that the special fund should be about half a million dollars by next year.

The largest part of the contribution continues to come from the Penny Saver, the hospital's thrift shop, which raised $43,000 from 1976 to 1977.

Other major sources of the auxiliary's income were from the Gift Shop, $18,000 and baby photos, $942.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

What a great weekend - weatherwise and otherwise.

Saturday night I went to the Andover Sportsman's Club 5th annual "shotgun" dance at the Elks Club in East Hartford. What I didn't know was that I was the guest of honor.

After a scrupulous buffet and before the dancing began, the club president, John Stanizzi of East Hartford, told about a woman who had been fishing at the Times Farm Camp in Andover a couple of years ago, heard the shooting, followed the sound and ended up at the Andover Sportsman's Club. Would you believe this was bright and early on a Sunday morning?

When I arrived at the Club I said "Hi" and just watched the men and women shoot.

They asked me if I'd like to try - I said "yes" and that was nearly my demise.

I thought you just shoot once or twice, but it's not so. You shoot 25 rounds, changing standing positions every time so you can't tell where the clay pigeon is coming out of the hidden trap. Well, I think I hit seven out of the 25, which I didn't feel was too bad for a woman who had never had a gun before.

Saturday was the culmination of a two-year friendship established at the Andover Sportsman's Club. I don't shoot often, but have visited them occasionally on a Sunday and watched them. They also have a great program for their youngsters. When they've sent news releases in,

I've prepared them and dispersed them to the area news page.

Well, let me tell you Saturday night was my night.

The president presented me with my very own shooting jacket (red) with my name tag on it and the club emblem carefully sewn onto it. I also received a lovely plaque inscribed "In appreciation of your devoted interest and support from the members of the Andover Sportsman's Club."

Would you believe, Sunday the good sports were surprised that I didn't show up at the club to shoot. I understand Fred Levitt of Manchester had even packed light-load shells so I wouldn't get so much of a kick when I shoot.

What nice guys.

Tipping the light fantastic was Bill Whitaker and his pretty wife, Joe Back (of Glastonbury) and his lady, Fred and Mary Levitt (she says he doesn't dance, but he does), and June and Cy Tompkins. June is on the Herald staff and was there to cover the event. I was surprised to see her, but she thought that I was part of the event never crossed my mind.

The president's lady, Dolly, pinned me with a pretty pink corsage.

Outwardly, I didn't set any fashion trends wearing a gown, a shooting jacket and a corsage. But, inwardly I felt beautiful.

It was a great time. I felt so proud I could have danced all night. In fact, I think I did.

Hospital Auxiliary plans dance

Circus Buff

Had a call from Frank Hill of Manchester whom I had featured on a People Page a few weeks ago. Frank is a circus buff and has hundreds of models of circus trains and figures. His display is going to be featured in The Hartford Civic Center's shopping area, May 10-15, during the time the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus is appearing there.

He has a fabulous collection well worth a trip to Hartford to see.

Democrats prevail

Many 'firsts' seen in Bolton election

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

Bolton voters went to the polls Monday and for the first time in 46 years they elected a Democratic first selectman — Henry Ryba.

The 1977 election was the first under Bolton's new Town Charter. For the first time, a five-member Board of Selectmen was elected. Also for the first time, a woman was elected to the board — Joann Neath.

The Republicans, who have dominated Bolton government for decades, won just one seat on the Board of Selectmen.

The voters gave seats to 14 Democrats and 11 Republicans, in contrast to past years in which Democrats won seats only when mandated by minority representation rules.

Andover Republicans win all that they can

By DONNA HOLLAND

Andover Republicans claimed a complete victory in Monday's election, giving seats to Democrats only where necessary for minority representation.

In the Andover race, 6 races were contested and 14 were uncontested, resulting in 20 Republicans and 11 Democrats being seated.

In the top race, Republican J. Russell Thompson defeated Democrat Thomas Anderson and independent Robert Post in the race for first selectman. Thompson polled 369 votes; Anderson, 237, and Post, 63.

Gaining seats as selectmen were Republican Peter Manegga, 416 votes, and incumbent Democrat Percy Cook, 247 votes.

As in 1976, 15 persons eligible to vote, 684 (90 per cent) turned out. The high vote-getter, with 459 votes, was incumbent Town Clerk Ruth Munson, a Republican. She ran unopposed.

In the contested races, Cynthia Clark was the high vote-getter for the Republicans, receiving 444 votes in her successful bid for tax collector. James Piro was the high vote-getter for the Democrats, receiving 296 votes in his unsuccessful bid as Planning and Zoning Commission alternate.

Charter unit stays clear of personality questions

Vernon Seymour Lavitt, chairman of the Vernon Charter Revision Commission, read letters about consolidation of the fire departments and a director of senior citizens, and then emphasized that the commission is not involved with personalities.

A letter from Emma Schwartz told the commission Monday night, "We don't need a full-time director for the Senior Citizen Center...there is jealousy in this whole setup...everybody wants Don's (Berger) job."

Lavitt said, "We want you to know we have no intent to threaten or

Several close races

Close votes in three races in Bolton's town election and one race in Andover's town election Monday will result in recounts in both towns. State statute mandates the recount because contests for the Board of Selectmen in both towns and for the Board of Finance and the Board of Tax Review in Bolton were decided by a narrow margin.

The statutes call for an automatic recount if the decision is within 20 votes.

The defeated candidates have all the right to waive the recount by filing a written statement with the town clerk. As of this morning, they haven't waived that right.

Four gift runs in first inning for Windham ends Manchester High winning skein at five

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer

There was a gaggle of could've, might've and should've beens for Manchester High in yesterday's baseball game in Willimantic.

But added up all it resulted in was a 4-1 upset triumph for homebased Windham High as the first half of the CCIL slate drew to a close.

What should've been an easy first inning turned into a disaster. There were two walks issued by pitcher Kevin Hanlon sandwiched around two outs before a grounder was hit to third baseman Brad Ingraham. He couldn't find the handle, however, and that loaded the bases.

skies that scored Hanlon who reached on an infield miscalculation. In the ninth with two out, Baskofen singled and Frank Livingston reached safely as his left to short leftfield was dropped by the shortstop. Ray Gilha followed with a sharp single under the shortstop's reach. But Baskofen, ill-advised, tried to score and was gunned at the plate by left-fielder Bucky Fitch with plenty to spare.

"We might've lost it on the next pitch but I would've liked the try," sighed Indian Coach Hal Parks.

And thus came to an end Manchester's five-game winning streak. But the second-place 6-3 Indians didn't lose any ground as league-leading Simsbury also lost to slip to 7-2.

Righthander Dave Besette, 2-2, went the distance for the Whippets. He gave up nine hits, issued only one free pass while striking out 10.

Problems piling up but Padres victors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The San Diego Padres keep having their problems and Monday night it was Mike Ivey.

Just before their game with the Philadelphia Phillies, Ivey, the team's regular first baseman, was suspended and fined an undisclosed sum when he refused to switch to third base.

Later Manager John McNamara said Ivey telephoned him and said he would play any position in the future.

Notes off the cuff

It Can Be Done Department: Viewers of the NBA playoff game between Philadelphia and Boston had a firsthand look at Celtic Coach Tom Heinsohn who was on his best behavior and his conduct on the bench was unbelievable. The better team when the Celtics just ran out of gas. Boston's bench, which was weak all year, gave little assistance in the finale. Joe Mandeville of Manchester has been re-elected vice president of the Hartford World Series Club. Dick Thurston retains his post as a member of the club's board of directors. Mt. Nebo is no longer Manchester's No. 1 baseball field. That honor has to go to East Catholic High's Eagle Field which is enclosed and with a first-class playing surface. A new high screen behind home plate saves many foul balls that would have rolled down the hill in many foul balls. The varsity started the ball rolling with the Jayvees following and the freshmen playing in the finale. Eagle Coach Al Freiheit, who will coach the American Legion Jayvee squad this summer, has slumped down from the heavyweight to the middleweight class and looks great. Jack Holik, busy looking over talent for the Legion squad, is also active this spring as a baseball umpire. Ed Britner has rejoined the Manchester Chapter of Approved Baseball Umpires after an absence of several years. Condoleances are extended to the family of Jim Chance who died recently. He played football with several North End teams and was a loyal sports fan over the years.

Major league

trailing 2-1, put two runners on in the ninth and pinch-hitter Mike Lum singled home George Foster with the tying run. Cesar Geronimo, trying for the third out, appeared to be a cinch out on the throw from right field, but the ball skipped out of third baseman Herby Cruz's glove and bounded into left field allowing the winning run to score.

Pirates 11, Braves 1

Omar Moreno, Willie Stargell, Fernando Gonzalez and Ed Ott supported the three-hit pitching of Bruce Linton with home runs to power Pittsburgh past the injury-riddled Atlanta, which lost its ninth straight game. Kison, 3-1, yielded the Braves' deciding seventh game that battle will be played Wednesday night.

Portland, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers, who spent their first six years in the National Basketball Association in the cellar of the Pacific Division, reached more promising heights Monday night — the finals of the Western Conference playoffs — by eliminating Denver, 108-82.

The hero's role fell to rookie Johnny Davis, who scored a game-high 25 points as a replacement for the injured Dave Twardzik.

Portland took the best-of-seven quarter-final series, 4-2, and now awaits the winner of the Los Angeles-Golden State Warriors series: The deciding seventh game that battle will be played Wednesday night.

Adjustment period tough for Gibson

NEW YORK (UPI) — For a competitor like Bob Gibson, this is a completely new transition, a period in his life when his subconscious sometimes still urges him to get up and go to the ballpark and his conscious says what for, nobody's waiting there for him anymore.

The sudden change from major league superstar to simple everyday private citizen never is an easy adjustment for any ballplayer to make, no matter how much or how well he is prepared for it in his own mind.

In the case of Gibson, who was so intense, so un-communically private during the 17 years he pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals, the abrupt switch had to be more difficult.

"I don't have to work," he was saying one day this spring while visiting his old ball club, the St. Louis Cardinals, at their St. Petersburg training quarters.

"All that goes so far and then you have to get something to do. You go nuts sitting around. I worked from 9 to 11 in a bank and thought I was going to die. I wasn't used to the regimentation."

Gibson, who retired at the end of 1975, holds more club records than anyone who ever pitched for the Cardinals. He won the most games, 251, started the most games, 3,117, pitched the most shutouts, 56, and had the lowest

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I noticed that you wrote a whole column on parents who abuse their children. That was very nice of you, Abby, but can't you do something for parents who are abused by their children? I am a 42-year-old mother of two. My son is 21 and my daughter is 19. Their father died two years ago and left everything to me, and believe me, it was a lot.

I loved my children so much I gave them everything they asked for - cars, clothes, trips, boats and motorcycles. And now I have nothing. Absolutely nothing. I lost my house, my car, my health, my looks, and now I think I am losing my mind.

DEAR MOTHER: Your husband obviously did not consult the experts in estate planning at the trust department of his bank. Why? He would have suggested any number of plans to provide you with financial security for the rest of your life.

DEAR ABBY: How could you have been so unfeeling to that woman whose son told her she talked too much? (You said, "He did you a kindness.") Some kindness! The poor woman is probably now downhearted, self-conscious and inhibited, when before she was merry, cheerful and uninhibited. Which kind of woman would you rather be unloved?

We all know people who tend to be boring because they talk too much. My own mother was a nonsensical talker. Once she talked without stopping for 42 minutes. (I timed her.) Of course she was boring, but it didn't kill me to listen.

DEAR MRS.: I think it's a kindness to let people know when they talk too much. They can - and should - do something about it. The price paid by those who talk too much is high. Their friends avoid them, and so do their relatives when they can conveniently do so.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a compulsive letter-to-the-editor writer. Milton was an English major and the editor of his high school newspaper, so he knows something about writing. But he has been going at it since he was a kid. He has something to say on every subject currently in the news. If President Carter wants to know what to do about the economy or the energy shortage, he should ask Milton.

I realize that this is a good safety valve for Milton's performance, but every once in a while he gets published, and he is the laughing stock of the community for months. His psychiatrist says it's good for him, but, Abby, I have to live in this house with him.

Please print this because Milton reads your column and gets a big kick out of it, but he says you make up all the letters yourself.

MILTON'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: Tell Milton I don't make up any letters. With people like him around, I don't have to. And to answer your question, I agree with the psychiatrist. Let Milton do his typewriter off.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) 21) You are prepared to pull out all the stops today for someone you love. Even though you may overdo it, it's for a good cause.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's heavy on the life of the day today. It's fine to enjoy yourself, but watch that tendency to overindulge.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Boldness and effort will bring you rewards today, but waiting thinking won't be a person of your own. Complete line of Chrysler parts. Chorches Motors, 649-3646.

Win at Bridge

BRUCE rose with dummy's king, led the seven of clubs and let it ride to West's queen. Now West shifted to the jack of hearts, but it was too late. Hearts were continued, Bruce ruffed the second one, cashed his ace of clubs ruffed a club in dummy and had the rest of the tricks.

A mighty lucky hand when you consider that South became declarer at South's 3-2 in the other room. The Canadian West opened a series of unfortunate guesses South managed to get down one at the three-traffic contract.
