Globe Hollow project under way

Work is in progress at Globe Hollow Swimming Pool to improve the quality of its water. The work involves changing the pattern of water circulation. Under the present setup, water flows into the pool from Globe Hollow Reservoir and then flows through the west end of it and out again, without changing the water in the most used portion of the pool. The improvement calls for redirecting the flow by piping through the woods (left) and across the paved portion of the pool (right) where most of the swimmers congregate. The lines across the paving indicate the cut for piping. Eight openings in the pipe will release the water at spots where it will prevent the pool from getting stagnant. (Herald photos by Pinto)

May 26 court hearing set in town pension dispute

The Manchester Pension Board has been ordered to "show cause" why it should not be dissolved at a hearing May 26 by legal action taken in behalf of our paraprofessional Board of Education employees who are attempting to make retroactive payments to the town's pension plan. The legal action has been taken by the Manchester Federation of Paraprofessionals, Local 3175, and the Connecticut Federation of Teachers, both members of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT-CIO). The Hartford teachers' union is also backing the women in the suit, according to Helen Diehl, president of the local union and one of the plaintiffs. The court order was signed by Judge James F. Herbery of the Hartford Superior Court. The hearing, scheduled for 11:30 a.m. May 26, will give the Pension Board the opportunity to "show reason why an injunction or writ of mandamus should not be issued." The court can then act to order the Pension Board to allow the employees to contribute to the pension plan if it finds enough evidence in their favor, according to Atty. Robert McWeeny of Hartford, who is representing the employees. The complaints of the four women, that they were mistakenly omitted from the pension plan for the first three years of their employment, has been pending for some time. A title Board of Education member who was similarly omitted from the plan has not taken any legal action. The latest move on the part of the union was precipitated by the refusal of the Board of Directors in March to change the town's pension ordinance, according to Mrs. Diehl. Pension Board had ruled that back payments are illegal under the ordinance. Town Counsel Victor I. Moses ruled a year ago in favor of the employees making the retroactive payments. The Board of Education administration is also backing the women. Moses said today he has not yet seen the papers that have been served, but that he will have to take time to study them carefully to decide what action can be taken. Moses said he is not sure whether the town counsel's office can handle the case because of his earlier decision. The inaction was sought against the Commerce Department because the local residents in the industrial park area feel the department did not take sufficient environmental studies before approving the park's project plan. The case is still pending in Hartford Superior Court. The court case could delay the industrial park project, which includes the J.C. Penney Distribution Center. Rep. Cummings said the legislative action was taken to prevent the delays and save the project at the possible more than 2,000 jobs at Penney's.

President signs public works bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today signed a $4 billion public works bill to create 600,000 jobs and also signed a bill authorizing $20 billion in revenue sharing funds. "We've still got a long way to go" before the economy recovers, Carter commented after signing the bills. The ceremony attended by congressional and local leaders, governors and mayors.

Nixon recalls foreign policy in second Frost interview

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon, reminiscing on the foreign policy he saw as the hallmark of his presidency, says détente and his own "godfather" firmness kept Israel in line and avoided confrontation with the Soviet Union in the 1973 Mideast War. Obviously at ease and apparently happy discussing with British broadcaster David Frost, Thursday night the former president recalled his best contribution to history, the former president pictured himself — not Henry Kissinger — as the man who made the big decisions. Kissinger, Nixon said, was a genius, but brooded about decisions after they were made and had his head turned by starlets and Georgetown parties. Nixon explained why he put the nation on nuclear alert in 1973 — while Israel and the Arabs were engaged in the Yom Kippur war. "The Yom Kippur war, once the fighting turned in Israel's favor, asked for a joint American-Soviet force to come in and keep the peace. Nixon said he regarded the idea as "sheer madness." But Nixon said, he got an "ominous" note from Brezhnev saying the Soviets would move into the Mideast by themselves if the United States did not participate. It was then, Nixon said, that he ordered the alert. "It was because we did not want to have major powers rubbing together in a critical area of the world like the Mideast," he said. "It was because of that, that I decided that we had to take a strong position." Nixon said the move worked — because of détente, and because Brezhnev knew from previous conversations that "we would not tolerate actions which would destroy Israel." Nixon, in a scathing put down of American intelligence capabilities, said he had been told just before the war broke out that an attack was unlikely "which shows you the brilliance of our intelligence." "If I may paraphrase from the 'Godfather,' he said, "we gave them an offer, but that they, ah, could not refuse." Nixon, being paid $200,000 plus a share of the profits for his televised interviews with Frost, said he knew at the beginning of his administration "we were going to deal with great events." He said it was he — not Kissinger — who conceived the idea of developing friendly relations with China in 1971, a move widely regarded as the most significant accomplishment of his presidency. "I was the one, as he (Kissinger) of course agrees, who raised the issue and kept pressing the issue," Nixon said. "But he pursued it with enormous enthusiasm." Nixon said Mao was in control of his country even in 1972 after he apparently suffered a partial stroke. "Ah, he was a colossus," Nixon said. "Mao was in charge of himself and he was in charge of China." He had less kind words for Brezhnev. "Intellectually, not as quick as Khrushchev... somewhat of a fashion plate... he liked beautiful cars. He liked beautiful women... has a lot of animal magnetism... very earthy in his humor." But he said, though Brezhnev was not as bright as Khrushchev, he was "a much safer man to have sitting there with his finger on the button." It was Kissinger, however, who drew Nixon's sharpest barb. "While praising his secretary of state as a genius, Nixon also said he was jealous of competition, decided to resign 'maybe half a dozen' times, was always having second thoughts about decisions and "was not a personal friend."

Carter cautious on Mideast peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says the Palestine Liberation Organization may break its stance and recognize Israel's right to exist, but any "reasonable" solution in the Middle East must include a Palestinian homeland. Carter, during a wide-ranging, nationally televised news conference Thursday, cautioned that peace in that troubled area remains "very much in doubt." "We have a long way to go, but I do believe there's a chance the Palestinians might make peace in the Middle East in hopes of helping reach a settlement. "It's absolutely crucial that no one... ever doubt that our No. 1 commitment in the Middle East is to protect the right of Israel to exist," he said, "... and obviously part of that is to make sure Israel has adequate means to protect themselves." On other issues he said: — Richard Nixon was guilty of breaking the law during Watergate. The interviews with David Frost "didn't change my opinion about President Nixon. I think he did violate the laws. I think he was guilty of impeachable offenses." — "I don't think there can be any reasonable settlement of the Middle Eastern question... without a homeland for the Palestinians," he said. "For the Palestinians to have a homeland and for the refugee question to be resolved is obviously of crucial importance," said Carter, who has been meeting with leaders in the Middle East in hopes of helping reach a settlement. — "There is no timetable for establishing full diplomatic relations with China, but he expects Leonard Woodcock, the United Auto Workers president, "to be ambassador to the People's Republic of China" when the time comes. — "There are no definite plans to go to France at the end of the year, although he has an invitation from President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing. — He agrees with his top pollster, Patrick Caddell, that it is important to stress style rather than just substance to gain public trust. "The confidence of people in government is a crucial element of leadership," he said.

Act for industrial park may face legal test

By SUSAN VAUGHN (Herald Reporter) Legislative action by the state House of Representatives Wednesday to clear the way for Manchester's industrial park and other parks in the state has brought concern for its legality from local attorneys involved in a pending court case on the park, and a strong defense from local legislators. The House of Representatives passed an amendment to a bill on municipal development by a vote of 134-9 on the urging of local legislators. Rep. Ted Cummings (D-12th), Francis J. Mahoney (D-13th) and Abraham Glassman (D-14th) sponsored the bill designed to halt court action against the state Department of Commerce by seven local persons. The injunction was sought against the Commerce Department because the local residents in the industrial park area feel the department did not take sufficient environmental studies before approving the park's project plan. The case is still pending in Hartford Superior Court. Cummings said the action was "a matter of complying with technicality." Atty. Bruce Beck, attorney for the seven residents, said the action "vindicates our position. It proves that our claim is correct, that the department has not complied with the law." Beck also said that he is concerned with the action, calling it a "bad precedent anytime the legislature interferes with court procedure." He said he is concerned that such action will not be limited to this case. Julie Mannarino of the Connecticut Citizens Action Group said that this is the first time a state agency has been challenged under the Environmental Policy Act. She said she is concerned with the department's apparent request for "amnesty" from the act. Ms. Mannarino also said she is concerned that other state agencies may do the same thing. She said it is also "quite unusual" for the legislature to act when there is a pending court case. Ms. Mannarino indicated that Commissioner Stanley Pac of the Department of Environmental Protection originally opposed the amendment "because it would make a mockery of the Environmental Policy Act," but she said Pac withdrew his position Wednesday without explanation. Beck said he did not know whether the action by the legislature could be unconstitutional, but that he intends to pursue his present action in court.

Town receives bids on chemicals

The Town of Manchester has received bids on several chemicals needed in the water treatment process.

Jones Chemicals, Inc., of Warwick, N.Y., was the apparent low bidder for three of the chemicals sought by the town.

The firm bid $1.047 per pound for liquid caustic delivered in bulk and $3.51 per pound for the same chemical delivered in 55-gallon drums.

It also bid $1.186 per pound for the delivery of one-ton containers of liquid chlorine.

A Massachusetts firm was the apparent low bidder for liquid chlorine shipped in 150-pound containers. The company, Hampden Color and Chemical Co., of Springfield, Mass., set a price of $1.18 per pound for the chemical.

A second Massachusetts firm, E & F King & Co., of Norwood, Mass., entered the apparent low bids for calcium hypochlorite - $4.60 per pound - and sodium fluoride - $3.98 per pound.

Faesy & Besthoff, Inc., of Edgewater, N.J., submitted the apparent low bids for sodium hexameta-phosphate - $3.30 per pound - and copper sulfate - $3.380 per pound.

William Tierney, acting director of general services, reported that there were no bids on one other chemical, aluminum sulfate liquid.

He said that most of the submitted prices are guaranteed for only 30 days with escalation clauses included by some firms.

Florida builder has area office

More and more New Englanders are opting for the warmer climate, lower cost of living and more relaxed lifestyle offered by Florida.

Three years ago, Deltona developed a compact home with an attempt to cut down on the "frills," but buyers started asking for the frills again. Wolf said, so the extras are now included in the standard houses.

Condominiums are also big sellers, with two of Deltona's condominium communities selling out within a few days each, Wolf said.

Although houses are still bigger sellers, people are starting to buy land again for future homes, Wolf said. Buying land now makes acquiring a mortgage easier later, he noted.

The Florida homes are either in the luxury category or not, Wolf noted.

Deltona since its office opened 10 months ago, four were sold to Manchester or East Hartford residents.

Of the 15 buyers, six are already retired and some are about ready to retire. However, Wolf said, Deltona sells to young families, too, who want a vacation home.

The Deltona communities are not strictly retirement communities. In fact, in one of them, Spring Hill, three schools have opened since 1968, Wolf said.

Deltona donates the land for schools and churches when there is a need for them.

The Florida homes are not all in the luxury category either, Wolf noted.

Welfare roll drops

The Town of Manchester's welfare roll showed a drop during the month of April.

The number of cases fell from 137 to 125 during April, Mary DellaFera, director of social services, said. The cost for welfare vouchers also dropped from $28,119 in March to $19,207 in April, she said.

The number of welfare recipients on work relief also dipped slightly in April. A total of 53 persons worked for the town on work relief in April compared to 34 in March.

Work relief provides welfare recipients with an opportunity to work for part of their welfare pay.

Visit Canada

Students from Bennet Junior High School's French class were exposed to a real French atmosphere when they visited Canada recently.

About 40 students with their French teacher, Mrs. Barbara Haskell, and their English teacher, Mrs. Eleanor Skinner, visited our French speaking neighbors in Quebec and Montreal.

During their three days in Quebec, they enjoyed an evening view of the city from a ferry on the St. Lawrence River, a promenade through the old walled city of Quebec including the Chateau Frontenac, a pilgrimage to Ste. Anne de Beaupre, visits to Montmorency Falls, LaVale University, and the hot bread ovens.

In Montreal, both the old and new cities were visited including the sites of the Exposition '67, the Olympic Stadium, Notre de Dame de Montreal, and the Botanical Gardens. A highlight of the Montreal visit was a ride on the new metro subway.

Red Cross honors workers

Three members of the Manchester-Bolton Branch of the American Red Cross were among 99 volunteers from 37 organizations honored Wednesday night for service to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Newtonington.

The three are Mrs. Anna Reideaman of 28 Stone St., 4,000 hours; Mrs. Lucie Bangston of 32 Porter St., 2,000 hours; and Mrs. Jane Bayer of 23 McKinley St., 300 hours.

The special recognition ceremony took place at Newtonington High School, with more than 200 representatives of civic, fraternal, veteran and service groups attending.

It was noted that the volunteers honored had contributed more than 23,000 hours of service since the beginning of 1977, and that 2,000 hours of voluntary duty represent one year of time by a paid worker.

Hall high entertains Cheney Tech

High kicking girls in spangled costumes, a brass band with the "big" sound and jazz vocalists put on an hour's floor show for students at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School Wednesday morning.

It was an extravaganza put on by members of the music department at Hall High School in West Hartford in a performance called "Pops and All That Jazz" led by William Stanley.

The group's appearance is part of a cultural arts program which has been arranged for the Cheney Tech curriculum by Mrs. Marilyn Slade, the school's librarian.

The young musicians have cut several record albums with Columbia and RCA and are preparing for their third European concert tour next year. They have won first place in several jazz competitions.

Their big performance is a five-night stand during the spring at Hall High. Enrollment in the school's classical music program is required for eligibility in the performing group.

The program given by the 65 sophomores, juniors and seniors was called "a lot of class" by John Garofalo, director of Cheney Tech, as he told them at the program's end that he hoped they would come again.

Hawaiian tourists return tired, aching, happy

Tamed, aching, tired and happy, the 125 MHS students are back from a spectacular week in Hawaii. Members of the Round Table Singers and the MHS Wind Ensemble were on a combined concert tour on the island of Oahu over April vacation.

Round Table, under the direction of Miss Martha White, and Wing Ensemble, directed by Miss Karen Krinjak, had several concerts planned for their week in the islands. They also had tours, dinners, and fun activities to look forward to when they left Bradley Airport on the Saturday that began vacation.

Their flight was a long and tiring one, lasting nine and a half hours with only one brief stop in San Francisco Airport for refueling. They arrived in Honolulu with severe cases of jet lag. These were soon forgotten in the excitement of moving into the hotel. The evening was spent adjusting to the new surroundings, whether by sleeping, sunbathing, or walking around the Ilikai Hotel compound.

The next day, Sunday, began with a rehearsal for both musical groups as well as a welcoming breakfast from their tour guide. It featured hula dancing, Hawaiian music and phrases, and a briefing on the island of Oahu and its activities.

The rest of the day was spent seeing the city, "beaching it" and generally "hanging loose" (a popular Hawaiian expression) to get used to Honolulu time. That evening, both groups attended a traditional Hawaiian luau with island dancing and cuisine.

They were least impressed with "poi," a chalky, grey, wallpaper-pasty substance often referred to as the staple food of Hawaii. It is eaten (if necessary) with the fingers. It is thick and sticky enough to scoop up without having it drip, much like chilled frosting, but with a non-descript flavor.

The same evening featured a show at Oahu's sea life park, where dolphins, whales, and seals were performing. Every day for the rest of the week

Teahouse debuts tonight

Tonight is the night. The night you've all been counting the days of the past few weeks for. It's the opening night of Sock and Buskin's latest presentation: Teahouse of the August Moon.

Yes, it is the same play that ran for so long on Broadway and became one of the biggest hits ever. That was on Broadway, but we know that it will be twice as big a hit in MHS's Bailey Auditorium with such crowd-enticing characters as Mike Wilson, Paul Marie, Mari Brennan and Mark Gubosky leading the cast.

John Patrick's light comedy is being directed superbly by Lee Hay and his student assistant Beverly Byam. The stage is being handled by stage manager Lynn Woble and her assistant Lisa Siegenski. S's B plays have always been successful, whether they were dramas, comedies or fantasies, and no one should expect any less of tonight's star-studded attraction, especially all the numerous people who have worked on the crews, making each production just a little bit better.

The play, taking place in an Okinawa post World War II setting, deals with a bumbling American army officer trying to "Americanize" an assigned village by introducing concepts of democracy and by building a school house. The sly villagers turn his democratic lectures into good use when they convince him of building a teahouse instead of a schoolhouse.

After the intervention of cricket cages, geisha girls, live goats and homemade booze, the play ends happily ever after, except for a few minor complications.

Tonight is the night, but if perhaps you can't make it to Bailey Auditorium by 8:00 p.m., then be reassured, tomorrow is the night, too. In fact, next Friday and Saturday also the nights. So come on any night you want for the meager sum of $1.50 with SAA and $2.00 without, but do come and be truly entertained. — Carolyn Egan

Principal discusses litter problem

Recently, Principal George J. Emmerling addressed the student body at MHS on a number of issues. First, he spoke concerning litter, which he feels is a major problem afflicting the school. Emmerling referred to the "clean-up campaign" launched a few years back and asked that "we begin another campaign to keep our building and grounds free from a littered condition both inside the building (especially in the cafeteria) and outside on our grounds... for one, am getting sick and tired of listening to our critics in the community who are continually labeling our school the Garbage Pit because of the vast amount of litter that continues to appear on our campus. That plus occasional acts of vandalism to our building do much to destroy the over-all appearance to certain areas of our school."

Emmerling then requested that each student assume the responsibility for keeping the school and its grounds as clean as they were after spring vacation. He went on to reinforce the idea that "it is still illegal to have any kind of liquor on public property here in Manchester, including school buildings and grounds. It is still illegal to possess or sell any kind of drugs on campus. Anyone apprehended will be subject to both school discipline and the law enforcement agencies. Any further acts of vandalism to our building and grounds will be prosecuted in a similar fashion."

Emmerling did, however, express satisfaction with the large percentage of students who "have pride in our school, who are conscientious together the national competition. Very few honorable mentions are given in his phase of judging (only about fifth), and the competition is extremely stiff because of the thousands of fine pieces that are submitted from throughout the country. Thus, it is quite an accomplishment for Meridy to receive such an award.

The winning pewter goblet, which stands about eight inches tall, consists of an elongated tulip-shaped vessel supported by a long stem. The stem itself consists of two stylized pewter cylinders joined with a round wooden insert and rests upon a round, slightly domed base. It is, in fact, quite a beautiful piece, and certainly deserves the award it received.

Students visit Hyde Park

MHS social studies students recently traveled to Hyde Park and West Point, N.Y., and toured three of the nation's historical landmarks. E. Zaturaki and R. Korbasinski were the sponsoring teachers.

The first stop was the F. William Vanderbilt estate, the spring and fall home of the great industrialist-philanthropist. After he had completed tours of the pavilion, where the hired employees stayed, and the main estate, we traveled two miles down the road to the 32-room Franklin Delano Roosevelt estate.

The FDR estate, although somewhat more modest than the $50,000 Vanderbilt estate (built in the mid 1890s), was much more interesting. We visited the FDR library, which houses many of his documents, records, photos and traces of his political career. We looked at Roosevelt's study where he broadcast many of his famous "Fireside Chats," and also toured the stables, the estate, and the Roosevelt gravesite.

After taking time out for lunch, we traveled to West Point, where we first visited the Chapel. We were fortunate enough to listen to a sampling of some cathedral pipe organ music performed by the chapel organist. The highlight of the trip was the touring of the West Point Museum. Students found the re-creations of many famous war battles such as Bull Run most interesting. The items on display included old war uniforms, a model of the Hiroshima-Nagasaki A-bomb, old ammunition and other war materials.

The culmination of our day came with reviewing a military parade on the front lawn of the main building at West Point. It was a magnificent display of rifle skills and army discipline. We left West Point immediately after the parade. Some people were disappointed that they had come, and some left surprised that they had enjoyed themselves.

The Vanderbilt estate, which displays "great symbols of wealth" was met with much snickering. The exhibits of Moreau paintings, ancient Persian rugs, and delicately carved nude statuettes just didn't arouse the awe of the spectators. Nevertheless, it was an excellent learning experience. — Jeff Howard

Meridy wins award

This spring, Mark Meridy, a MHS junior, was awarded honorable mention in the national 1977 Scholastic Art Awards. He received his award in the crafts division for his pewter goblet entry.

Prior to being judged on national level, Meridy's entry was considered in the state level of competition. An award of a blue ribbon in the state competition made the goblet eligible for the national competition. Very few honorable mentions are given in his phase of judging (only about fifth), and the competition is extremely stiff because of the thousands of fine pieces that are submitted from throughout the country. Thus, it is quite an accomplishment for Meridy to receive such an award.

The winning pewter goblet, which stands about eight inches tall, consists of an elongated tulip-shaped vessel supported by a long stem. The stem itself consists of two stylized pewter cylinders joined with a round wooden insert and rests upon a round, slightly domed base. Webb wins

The winner of this year's coveted typing award is Diana Webb, a senior at MHS. She represented Manchester High School at a typing contest last Saturday at the Holiday Inn in Meriden, the results of which determined the state champion.

The musicians and vocalists spent most of their free time cultivating their talents on the beach, but there were other interesting things to do in the city, and many opted to use the cheap ten cent buses to tour Walkiki. Walkiki beach itself was often visited as well as the International Marketplace, a large center of craft shops in a shady, green setting; the Ala Moana shopping center, which contains an almost infinite supply of shops; the city zoo which, well, was just a zoo; and the Ala Moana Park, which is a beautiful grasscovered strip of land near the beach studded

Foot health week

Children's foot health valuable

"A child's feet are not invulnerable," states Dr. Elliot Pollack, president of the Hartford County Podiatry Society, now sponsoring national Foot Health Week.

"Many parents take it for granted that their children's feet are normal and healthy." He noted that the number of children with foot problems is higher than the public realizes.

"Just as dental care, foot health through podiatric care should be an integral part of a child's health classes in grammar and high school."

"The worst thing a parent can do is to ignore these warning signs." He stressed that many of the problems with adults' feet stem from ignorance or unintentional abuse to their feet when younger.

Grandparents frequently notice problems with their grandchildren's feet which were overlooked by the parents.

Through proper foot health education and parental concern, children can have a better chance of keeping their feet healthy, strong and pain-free.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My friend is a wealthy 76-year-old widow who is being "taken" by a couple in their 40s who live near her.

"This couple is a husband-and-wife team who have made a "career" out of being the widow's friend. They see that she has company every evening (inviting themselves to her home for dinner), they do all her chores: shopping, cleaning, painting, yard work, etc.

Understand they even have a key to her home and her safety deposit box! She bought them a new car and has given them an interest-free loan so their son could go to college.

I am told that these con artists are going to get a bulk of her estate when she passes on. I think her estate should go to her son, who is living in a faraway state, don't you?

Should I get in touch with her relatives and tell them what is going on here? They haven't been here in years, so they have no way of knowing.

CONCERNED FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Allowing for your good intentions, I think you are meddling in your friend's affairs. She obviously appreciates the couple's companionship and help, and unless she is mentally incompetent, she's entitled to do whatever she wants with her money—now and later.

Her kindof who haven't visited this aging widowed relative in years seem less deserving to share in her estate than the neighbors you describe.

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is entirely too friendly to strange women. For instance, he will bury his nose in an elevator operator's hair and say, "My, you have beautiful hair—and it smells nice, too."

Or he will compliment a waitress on her "beautiful legs" or "school-girl figure."

When I tell him that it shows a lack of respect for me when he does this in my presence, he says he is only trying to make a poor working girl feel good.

How do you feel about this sort of thing, Abby? Am I wrong to resent it?

BARRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is ill-mannered and presumptuous for a man to make personal remarks (complimentary or otherwise) to strange women in (or out of) his wife's presence.

Tell Barry if he doesn't cut it out, one of those poor working girls is apt to work him over.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have a CB radio. Last month I met someone in person that I used to talk to on the radio. We go to the same school, so he was easy to meet. This person is 15 and spends his weekends at Juvieville Hall. He told me last week that he has six months more at Juvie Hall, after which he will be on probation for a long time. He said he would rather kill himself than to keep going back there for weekends, and that is what he is planning to do.

He said his mother is finally sick of him and his stepped couldn't care less about him. I asked if he didn't have some relatives he could stay with, and he said nobody wants him.

Do you think it would be a wise decision to ask this person to come and live with my family because that's exactly what he needs. A family. I think living with us could help him a lot. What do you think?

T.S.

DEAR T.S.: I think you are to be commended for your concern about this person's welfare, but it's up to your parents to make that decision, not me.

heart and (inspired) dummy's jack. East had taken the trick with his king and some five minutes later South had written down 50 points on the opponent's side of the score.

He could only come to 11 tricks because he could only collect two in the heart suit.

If South had stopped to think before playing to trick two, he would have seen that he needed three heart tricks to make his slam. He was sure of them unless hearts broke 4-1. He would also have seen that any 4-1 break, except a singleton king, would have surely beaten him. But he could handle that break by simply playing dummy's ace of hearts right away. This safety play would cost him an overtrick if West held K, but what is an overtrick when you are trying for a slam?

By Oswald & James Jacoby

"Blatant, blank, deleted," muttered South. "When will I ever get a decent break?"

"Whenever you start to use appendages above your neck for thinking," yelled North.

Two charged with assault

Two Vernon men were being held in lieu of $5,000 bond at the Manchester Police Headquarters on several charges in connection with an incident on Oakland St. in which two other men were allegedly threatened and assaulted Thursday night.

Robert T. Stearns, 26, was charged with threatening, and having weapons in a motor vehicle. Matthew L. Staronick, 25, was charged with second-degree assault and weapons in a motor vehicle.

Police said the arrests followed a report of two Ellington men who had been followed as they were driving on Oakland St. At the intersection of Oakland and Tolland Turnpike, the occupants of the car, which had been following the men, got out and threatened the men, according to the report. One of the men was struck with a hammer, police said, and the other was threatened by a man carrying a small ax, police said.

Charges of fourth-degree larceny were also alleged against Stearns and Staronick in connection with their failure to pay for food at a local restaurant earlier in the evening. The two men were to be presented in court today on the charges.

Bankers oppose bill concerning appraisals

HARTFORD (UPI) - The banking industry says a proposed state regulation forcing lending institutions to reveal information gained in real estate appraisals is unfair and puts them in a precarious position.

Industry spokesmen Thursday delivered the message to Consumer Protection Commissioner Mary Heslin, who said she expected the bill would pass.

Under her plan, banks making real estate appraisals on mortgage loans would be required to reveal the evaluations to the consumer if the applicant paid for it.

Mrs. Heslin said a department study showed 75 percent of all state banks charge up to $75 for such an appraisal, but only a fraction of them let the customer see it.

She called such activity "unfair and deceptive trade practices" and threatened court action if the proposed regulations are rejected by the legislature's Regulations Review Committee.

Lending institutions are reluctant to make appraisals available for fear of being caught between the buyer and seller of property if their evaluations of worth differed, said Lawrence K. Green, executive vice president of the Savings & Loan League of Connecticut.

"The association should not submit the appraiser to the potential of a lawsuit by either the seller or the buyer who may disagree with the results of the appraisal," he said at a hearing on the proposed regulations.

"If each appraisal may be the subject of a lawsuit it is clear the appraiser will build into the cost of his appraisal the potential of defending his judgment in court," said Green.

Banking spokesmen contended under the law their institutions are not within the Consumer Protection Department's jurisdiction.

"Only a governmental body with banking expertise can effectively regulate" the industry, said John T. McIrwin of the Savings Banks Association of Connecticut.

Banking Commissioner Lawrence testified in favor of the proposed regulations.

MHA backs suggestion on agency cooperation

The Manchester Housing Authority has letters ready to mail to 18 town boards indicating its willingness to cooperate with other commissions.

The letter, addressed to the heads of most town boards and commissions, states, "The Housing Authority stands ready, in any manner possible, to fulfill the functions of the town."

The action is being taken at the suggestion of Dr. Joseph Danyliw, vice-president of the authority. He recommended that the authority take a more aggressive stand on issues, particularly housing issues, as they relate to the town. He recommended more communication with other boards.

Dr. Danyliw also made the suggestion that the authority could help private developers involved in housing projects.

Job security big concern of IAM in upcoming talks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Job security and concern over the contracting of work overseas will be the top priorities when bargaining talks begin late this year at United Technologies Corp. plants in Connecticut, a union official said today.

Gordon Sawyer, of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said a survey showed the chief concern among UAC workers was whether their jobs would be retained.

Sawyer, business representative for IAM District Lodge 91 in East Hartford, Conn., spoke before the 29th annual IAM Aerospace Conference where negotiators planned strategy for this year's round of contract talks with the industry.

He took issue with UTC's "Joint ventures overseas" and its reassurances that co-production deals would not affect jobs "but the job losses speak for themselves.

In 1976 alone, our bargaining unit was depressed by 1,780 jobs. Highly skilled metal workers now find themselves pushing brooms in other departments or even other plants," Sawyer said.

He charged that UTC was "banking these skills for use in the 1980's when next-generation hardware is scheduled for the commercial marketplace."

UTC's Pratt & Whitney Division in East Hartford is the world's largest producer of jet engines and the firm is the largest single private employer in Connecticut with about 20,000 workers.

Sawyer said the union would seek language limiting the contracting of outside work to overseas operations, fair standards for absenteeism, seniority and early retirement improvements.

Contractors at the Connecticut plants expire Nov. 29.

Police chief cautions public about strangers

A warning to the public, and particularly parents, to be on guard for strangers approaching their children, was issued by Police Chief Robert D. Laman and Det. Capt. Joseph Sartor today.

The warning was issued because of at least four recent incidents involving young girls who were approached by a man in the Spruce and Walls St. area.

The incidents occurred between April 27 to early this week, between the hours of 4:30 and 7 p.m., Sartor said. The girls approached were between the ages of 9 and 12.

There have been no injuries so far, police said, but he urged that children, approached by any stranger attempting to carry on a conversation, ignore them and go straight home. He emphasized that any incident should be reported to police immediately.

The man involved in the incidents is described as white, about age 20, of medium build with shoulder length dark hair as having long sideburns or a chin.

Police are also investigating reports of an older blue vehicle with rust marks on the wheels seen in the area.

Home show Saturday

Manchester will have its first Home Show in 23 years Saturday and Sunday at the Manchester State Armory, 330 Main St.

The show will open to the public Saturday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m.

At least 45 exhibit booths will show home improvements, cabinets, sewing machines, indoor and outdoor planting, plumbing and heating, pools, furniture, home insulation, home decoration, appliances, bedding, organs, and fireplace equipment. The Manchester Public Health Nursing Association and the Connecticut National Guard will also have booths at the show.

Those attending the show will receive free samples, how-to pamphlets and brochures. There also will be special gifts.

The show is being sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees.

Police report

Two men were charged in connection with incidents at Center Springs Park Thursday night and early today.

Joseph A. Healy, 19, of Rockville, was charged with threatening in connection with threat to a young woman in the park late Thursday.

Healy was being held on a $1,000 cash bond for presentation in court today.

James R. Harney, 20, of 536 W. Middle Tpk., was charged with disorderly conduct in connection with another incident in the park about 2 a.m. today. Police said they were attempting to disperse a group of young persons in the park and that Harney was uncooperative with police efforts. He was later released on a $100 nonsurety bond for court May 24.

The detective bureau said the youths have also been arrested by East Hartford Police for about 90 signs in incidents in East Hartford. Hays was released on a promise to appear in court May 23. Curtis was released on a $150 nonsurety bond for court May 23.

Roger H. Anderson, 38, of Torrington, was arrested on a warrant Thursday on a charge of non-support of two minor children. He was released on a $3,000 surety bond for court appearance June 8.

Rockville water is safe

"It is my conclusion (from these reports) there is no public health problem with respect to the Rockville Water and Aqueduct supply," Richard Woodhill, chief of the water supplies section of the state Environmental Health Service, told Mayor Thomas Bennit.

The state had been called in when several Vernon residents complained that water pipes in their homes were developing pitting-type corrosion. Homeowners felt the water was causing the problem.

The state Health Department laboratory took water samples and pipe scrapings to analyze. It was from these tests that Woodhill drew his conclusions.

Woodhill spoke at a Town Council meeting a few weeks ago. He said the results of the tests tend to confirm the opinion that he expressed at the meeting that manganese, which has been deposited within the pipes in the system over previous years, may be an important element in the corrosion.

He repeated recommendations that the pH value of the water be held between 7.4 and 7.6; the manganese content of effluent from the water treatment plant be held at less than 0.01 if possible; homeowners reduce the temperature of their hot water heaters to less than 140 degrees; and that both the water company and the homeowners should flush water lines to remove accumulations of manganese.

He also suggested that homeowners experiencing pitting of pipes in their homes should check for the possible grounding of electric appliances to water pipes. He said he would strongly advocate that a completely independent grounding system be used.

A number of reports from various agencies and concerns have to come in before any final conclusion can be made about the cause of the pitting.

Many need summer jobs

Vernon
 About 90 young persons have submitted applications for the Comprehensive Youth Work Experience Program (CYWEP) in Vernon this summer but the Youth Services Bureau has only received 15 commitments for employment from non-profit agencies.

Charles Allen, youth service bureau director, said work sites are critically needed and he hopes more will be available.

The CYWEP program which is in its third year, provides employment for economically disadvantaged youth and is federally funded.

Allen said youths will be placed, when possible, according to their interests and aptitudes.

"It is important that youths receive a feeling of accomplishment in the tasks that they perform in an effort to develop positive work habits," he said.

The summer program, sponsored by the Capitol Region Education Council, will start about July 5 and run for seven weeks. Youths participating must be between the age of 14 to 21 and must come from families that qualify under federal economic guidelines.

If any nonprofit agency wishes to offer a job for the young people, Allen can be reached at the Memorial Building, Rockville, 872-8261, extension 25.

Applications for youth are available at Rockville High School, the Middle School or the youth bureau office.

Mayor hopes budget OK

Vernon
 Vernon Mayor Thomas Bennit said Thursday he strongly hopes townspeople will accept the proposed $15.5 million budget at the Annual Town Meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Middle School.

At the same time the Board of Education is hoping that the budget will be rejected. The school board budget to be presented to the meeting will reflect a cut of $250,000 requested by the Town Council.

The school board Monday night agreed on a $190,000 cut and expressed the hope that the Town Meeting will turn down the budget so the $60,000 can be restored.

At a press conference Thursday, Bennit said he doesn't want to get into a donnybrook with the board but he couldn't justifiably sit back, knowing there is a need for other equipment. Life-saving equipment, which had to be cut from fire and police budgets.

He said he feels the council has done an excellent job in working on the budget and both the school and the school board can live with the $250,000 cut.

Budget meeting tonight

Coventry

Coventry taxpayers will go to the Annual Town Meeting at 7:30 tonight in the high school gymnasium to decide whether to accept the Town Council's proposed budget. The budget, if accepted, would reduce Coventry's tax rate by one mill. The tax rate is now 71 mills.

The $4,270 budget projects appropriations of $2,764,092 for education, $1,181,690 for general town government, and $304,666 for debt service. Revenues include $793,837 from education, $308,635 from general government, $21,433 from anti-recession funds, $45,166 from cash surplus, $11,000 from bridge bonding return and $72,000 from Guaranteed Tax Base.

A total of $3,021.71 is to be raised through local taxes, which would supplement the 70-mill tax rate for 1977-78. Added state and federal revenue and the equivalent of one mill in cash surplus provides for the reduced mill rate, although the proposed budget is about $300,000 more than the 1976-77 budget.

The Town Council cut about $40,000 from the proposed education budget and $35,000 from the proposed general government budget. The proposed budget, before council revision, recommended a tax hike of 4.5 mills.

The council also removed $28,000 from education and $15,000 from general government budgets and earmarked federal revenue sharing toward to cover these amounts. A public hearing on these items will be held after the budget meeting tonight.

The Board of Education and school superintendent have asked town residents to vote approval of the proposed budget. They have expressed concern, however, about the education budget reflecting less than a five per cent increase over 1976-77.

The Republican Town Committee praised the council for its efforts to lower the tax rate, but recommends the budget be reduced another mill using available cash surplus.

The Democratic Town Committee also supports the budget plan but recommends no further reduction and expresses concern about future tax rates. Department heads from the Town Hall, the Town Council and Board of Education members will be in the lobby of the high school auditorium tonight at 7 to answer questions about the proposed budget.

Road crew blames bosses

Coventry

Members of the Coventry highway crew responded today to charges they were partially responsible for the high turnover in street superintendents in town.

"It seems management should try to take a little of the burden on themselves and look into their own backyards," the highway crew union said.

The town has lost three road foremen within two years. Wayne Blair, who was hired in 1973, resigned this week saying the road crew and a personality conflict with road consultant John Hardy were among the reasons for leaving.

The union said there are too many supervisors for the street superintendent to report to. He is not able to run the department as a "boss" but as a man for management, the union said.

It's just good common sense to want great gas mileage these days. But there are more economies built into these Toyotas than just what you'll save at the gas pump.
Durability. It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold up. Toyotas are built to last. That's why you see so many older Toyotas still on the road.
Reliability. It makes sense to buy a car you can depend on. Toyota built its reputation with reliable cars. For example, you can't buy a new Toyota that doesn't have a transistorized ignition system for dependable starting. And there are 27 different Toyota models to choose from. Value. It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold its value. Toyotas have traditionally high resale value. A Toyota is like money in the bank. *These EPA results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment.

Kitchen shape, cabinet style surveyed

Well-built kitchen cabinets not only provide ample storage space, but are designed to take the hand knocks of everyday use. They should be built to withstand such abuses as cans being dropped on shelves or drawers.

Both the shape and style of kitchens are important considerations in any home. A recent survey of kitchen products and designs, for example, discovered that about 80 per cent of the single-family houses studied had either U-shaped or L-shaped kitchens.

Regarding style, modern was the choice of about 45 per cent of those looking to buy a home. Early American and Spanish styling were next in popularity. The poll was conducted by the Bureau of Building Marketing Research with the assistance of the National Kitchen Cabinet Association and a major appliance manufacturer.

Just as important as the style and design of kitchens, says NKCA, is the construction and performance of kitchen cabinets. Whether you're looking at new or used houses or considering modernization as an alternative, the way to determine if quality has been built into the kitchen cabinets is to look for a circular blue and white label on the inside of a cabinet door or drawer.

Schools can help

If the faucet leaks and drives you out of your mind because you don't know how to stop that constant drip, drip, drip; if a fuse blows and you're afraid to try to fix it for fear of being electrocuted; if the master's favorite chair is weak at the joints and it's safety is threatened because no one knows how to fix it, or if the window drapes have the "fades" and may grow worse because you don't know how to make new ones—have you ever considered the opportunities offered by Manchester's educational institutions which may help you solve any of the above problems plus many more.

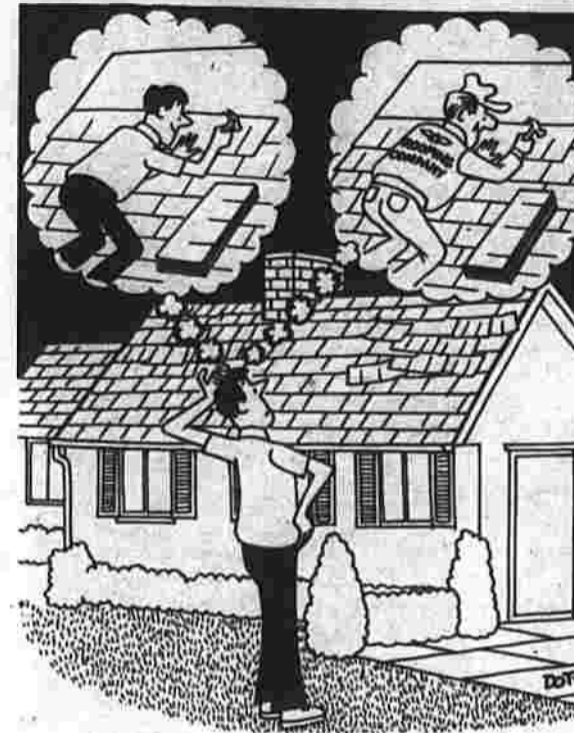

Adult evening education courses are offered at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School from September through April serving the demands of those who register.

A course in basic carpentry usually spins off into courses in cabinet making, furniture repair, minor house repairs. There is also a course in basic home emergency repairs.

Cheney Tech's evening adult courses are held Monday through Thursday each week during the program. The program is open to all adults in the Manchester area.

Roof jobs require caution

Reroofing, like many other home improvement projects, has been influenced by the do-it-yourself trend. Approximately one-quarter of residential reroofing projects in the U.S. are done all or in part by do-it-yourselfers, according to Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association. Surveys conducted by others place the figure even higher. Everyone agrees, however, the percentage has increased dramatically in recent years.

The principal reason for the increase is the potential savings in labor costs when a homeowner reroofs his own home. But there are certain safety precautions to be observed.

Roofing manufacturers agree that the installation of roofing is best left in the hands of skilled mechanics where the job is high, hazardous or too tricky for the average weekend handyman. A one-story home or garage, or a two-story home with a relatively low slope, perhaps is all a nonprofessional should attempt.

If you undertake a reroofing job yourself, wear rubber-soled shoes on the roof. Secure ladders firmly to the house with rope. Never place ladders against tree trunks or in contact with electrical wiring. An assistant to help move materials and ladders can make the job easier. When applying shingles, be sure to follow the roofing manufacturer's recommendations. Leave difficult or high-up work for the professionals.

Information on the selection of quality roofing, including application instructions and advice on how to select a roofing contractor if you prefer to leave the job in the hands of a professional, may be obtained by sending 50 cents to ARMA, Dept. DY, Box 3248, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017

Remodeling hinges on planning

Since remodeling is listed as one of the most popular spare time activities among homeowners, many want to make sure their modernization project is one that not only adds to their comfort and convenience, but to the value of their home as well.

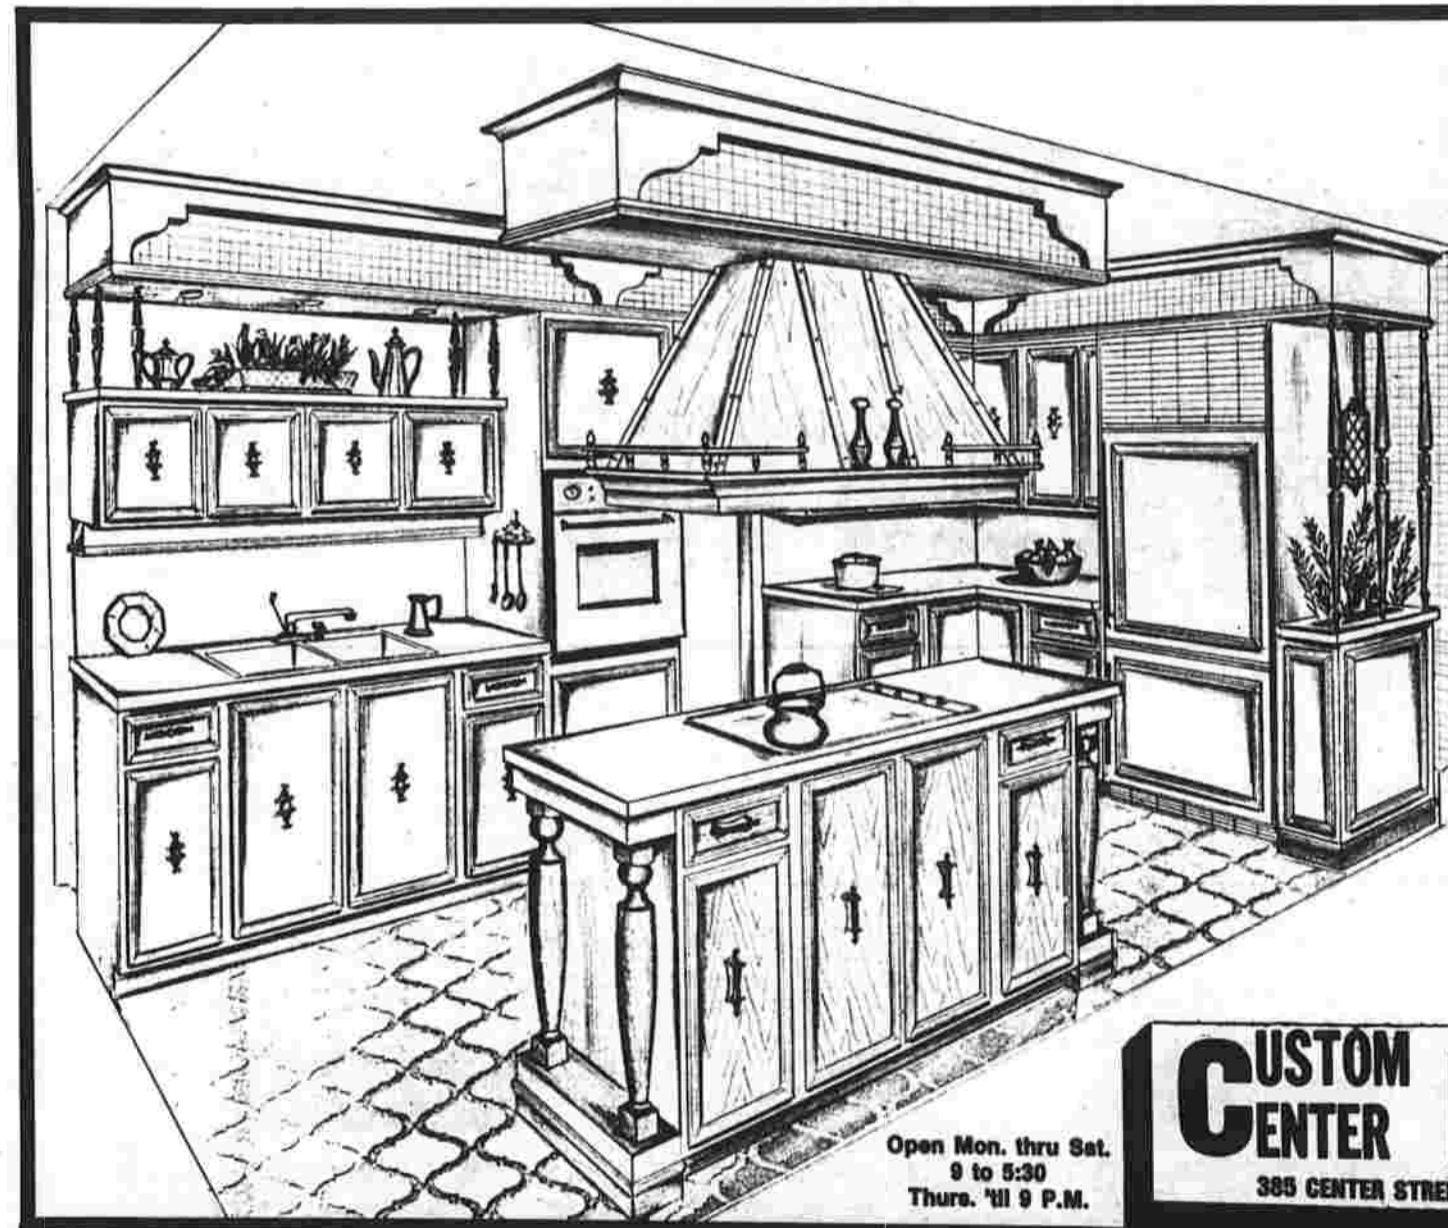

According to a study of the remodeling market, two major home improvement projects that remain consistently popular are enclosing a porch or breezeway and adding a room. Both exceeded the one million mark in 1975, according to industry reports.

These figures suggest the scope of remodeling, but do not indicate the important role that planning has in the success of a modernization project.

Consider the job of enclosing a porch or breezeway or adding a room. Both often involve the replacement of old windows or the installation of new ones.

Quality windows, says the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association, are the sum of a variety of factors. They should be easy to operate, provide plenty of light, ventilation and views and help conserve energy as well. These qualities are available in windows that have wood sash and frames and are equipped with insulating glass—two panes of glass with an insulating air space between.

Workbook offered on saving energy

Homeowners need specific information in order to make their homes more energy efficient — and save money, too. That's why, as part of Connecticut's Home Energy Savers Program (HESP), the State Department of Planning and Energy Policy is offering a free "Home Energy Savers Workbook." It's designed to help Connecticut homeowners determine what measures will make their homes more energy efficient, and what they can expect to save in home heating costs this winter by taking such steps. "Everyone's home is different," explains State Energy Commissioner Lynn Brooks. "But the simple procedures described in the workbook allow homeowners to evaluate their homes' unique features and calculate possible energy — and money savings. "Utility bills will continue to rise, but personal bills will be less if homeowners make some of the home improvements toward energy conservation outlined in the workbook."

Consumers can obtain a copy of the workbook by writing to HESP Workbook, c/o Department of Planning and Energy Policy, 20 Grand St., Hartford, Connecticut, 06115. Consumers can also get information about saving energy in the home by calling toll free 1-800-842-1648.

What are degree days?

Degree days are a numerical temperature measure for indicating the nominal heating requirement in winter. There are as many degree days as there are degree Fahrenheit difference in temperature between the mean temperature in a given day and 65° F. If the mean temperature exceeds 65° F, then that day is ignored in calculating the accumulated total degree days. Example: In a month during which the outside temperature averaged, say, 25° F for 10 days and 35° F for 20 days, there are 1,000 degree days, i.e. 10 (65-25) + 20 (65-35) equals 1,000 degree days. In other words, one "heating degree day" is gained for each degree that the daily mean temperature drops below the 65° base.

Gov. Ella Grasso and State Energy Commissioner Lynn Brooks install more insulation in the attic of the Governor's residence in Hartford. The insulation was only two or three inches deep, rather than the ten inches recommended for most houses. This may have been a factor in the home's $3,900 a year heating bill.

Carpet squares delineate, decorate

Apartment living, condominium ownership, second-home hideaways have changed our living attitudes.

And, making the most of a one-room lifestyle can be quite a challenge!

Changing lifestyles bring new thinking in decorating techniques because multi-purpose rooms are not restricted to sleeping or eating anymore.

One way to visually separate certain activities is by using different colors in the floorcovering.

Carpet squares make it easy to do. In a simple "L-shaped" design, one area is isolated for study or dining, while the other (in a contrasting color) is confined to space for relaxation with books, stereo, and television.

Pictured is a guest-room/study/den created by Armstrong's Interior Designers. The print and solid-color fabrics that cover the couch, pillows, and frame the shutters were coordinated with the Wedgewood Blue and Doncaster Beige of the carpet squares.

The flexibility of the flip-leaf table allows it to work successfully as either a desk or dining table. A single bed placed along the wall becomes a studio couch, and the storage cube doubles as a night stand.

Warm terra cotta colors of pottery...the straw color of wicker...and the light wood "naturals" of the contemporary furniture are highlighted against the handsome dark brown of the cork wallpaper.

The Founders wall system does more than provide storage space; the collections that are exhibited openly also decorate the room in a very personal way.

In a larger home, this kind of room can be "a quiet place" for reading, sewing, or snoozing. In a smaller home or apartment, the arrangement makes the most of limited space.

Because of the ideal configuration of the room (a 12'x15' rectangle), there is absolutely no waste or trimming. In other, less ideal, rooms, there is still minimal waste with carpet squares.

A multi-purpose room with wall-to-wall carpet in an "L" shape to separate the "work/eat" area from the rest of the room is created by using blue and beige carpet squares. The 12' x 15' installation was accomplished in only three hours.

Graphics helped to identify owner

The design problem? A typical builder's kitchen that left little room for the personal expression of its owner. The solution? Redesign within a basic U-shaped layout and a carefully planned work triangle.

The initial step in the kitchen revitalization began with the homeowner getting artist Alan West to paint a striking mural on the dining room wall. From there, the eye-catching graphics were extended to include the ceiling.

A partition between the dining area and the kitchen was removed and a new counter extended a foot and a half.

Accessibility to the base cabinets in the new counter is from either the kitchen or dining area.

The entire space was redesigned to include a more personally expressive setting for the owner within a framework of increased efficiency. A chimney shaft, for example, now includes a wall toaster on the dining side and an intercom-stereo on the kitchen side.

The Community Services Division of Manchester Community College offers a home maintenance and repair course which covers water supply problems, electrical, sinks, plumbing, furnace, flooring, wallpapering and patching plaster.

This summer, MCC will offer a house analysis course taught by an architect which might be of interest to persons planning house renovations or considering land locations for building. A course on perspectives of house design, also to be taught by an architect, is scheduled for next fall.

More information is available by contacting the Community Services Division at the college by calling 646-4900. The teacher of a minor household repairs course in the adult evening education course at Manchester High School brings a complete toilet to class for instruction on a particular phase of plumbing.

Other evening courses at the high school teach practical subjects as well as home decorating classes. One may take furniture refinishing, upholstery, wood working, and chair caning. For those who are interested in home decorating, the evening program has offered courses in drapery making, rug hooking and braiding, decorative painting on household hardware, weaving and decoupage.

Bath requires lasting materials

Bathroom areas ought to provide the most in family convenience, yet give satisfactory service for years. Bathrooms can be practical as well as attractive if they are planned carefully and if quality materials and good workmanship go into them.

The National Kitchen Cabinet Association offers these suggestions to homeowners considering a bath remodeling project:

- Be sure to comply with plumbing codes and building regulations to insure a safe and satisfactory installation.
- Get a written agreement from the contractor who handles the remodeling. The agreement should include the price, a description of fixtures and materials to be used and a date the job should be completed.
- Consider the ways a bath area will be used.
- Will it be used by several family members getting ready for school or work? If so, think about additional fixtures such as an extra lavatory and perhaps a stall shower as well as the tub.

In a bath adjacent to a master bedroom that will also serve as a dressing room, ample storage space, counter areas, generous mirrors and good lighting are desirable.

Since bathroom fixtures, vanities, cabinets and floor coverings are considered permanent, they should be selected on the basis of durability as well as good looks.

Vanities, for instance, come in a wide range of sizes, styles and finishes.

Appearance and price are no guarantee of quality. There is, however, a way to determine whether vanities are built to last.

The certification seal of the National Kitchen Cabinet Association, usually found on the inside of a vanity door, indicates the vanity has met the tough construction and performance standards of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI).

Only bath vanities and kitchen cabinets that meet the rigid ANSI standards are qualified to display the NKCA certification seal.

Enclose a porch for added room

Enclosing a porch is an excellent way to get that extra room you need without the expense of the usual room addition.

Conversion of an open porch should be less expensive than new construction because the floor, roof and one wall are already there. Both the ceiling and any wall space in the porch enclosure should be insulated to conserve fuel. A free-standing fireplace or baseboard elements might be used to heat the new room.

If the porch has a particularly attractive view, consider converting it into a glass walled sunroom. Casement windows are a good choice because they offer ample viewing area, open out to provide top to bottom ventilation and permit plenty of sunshine to flood the porch with light.

To assure comfort and convenience, the windows should be precision-engineered so they operate easily, yet close snugly to seal out air infiltration, a source of considerable heat loss.

Properly designed windows also have other features designed to make them weather resistant and easy to care for, according to Andersen Corporation, manufacturers of Perma-Shield vinyl-sheathed wood windows.

Patio, firepit spark backyard barbecues

An expansive deck with sunken firepit and surrounding benches makes this backyard addition a center for family entertaining. The deck and benches were built using 2x4s of western wood framing lumber. The firepit is made of concrete blocks. A wood cover converts the firepit to a table top.

Anyone who has spent some time in the woods, whether on a family picnic in a neighborhood park or in the wilds of a national park, knows that food tastes better outdoors.

There just isn't a kitchen in the world that can impart the aroma and flavor of a hot dog roasted over an oven flame outdoors or a potato slowly baked in the embers of a dying fire.

That's one reason backyard patios complete with fireplaces or barbecues are so popular. Another is homeowner appreciation of a spot for relaxed, informal dining or for entertaining friends.

Building a patio and firepit, complete with cover that doubles as a tabletop and benches, is the kind of weekend project that any competent do-it-yourselfer can handle. The cover for the firepit and the benches are made from western wood framing, which is available at local lumber supply dealers.

Plans for this cozy addition to a patio or deck are available for 25 cents from Western Wood Products Association, Dept. SRH, Yeon Building, Portland, Oregon 97204.

Some facts about wood

Some timber companies in the West are growing tree seedlings in one by five inch plastic tubes filled with peat and vermiculite, to speed nursery growth and replanting of new forests.

mellowing of unfinished wood on an interior wall, such as western hemlock, apply white stain, then in a few moments wipe it off.

California produces five billion board feet of lumber per year, enough to build almost a half-million new homes. A semi-transparent stain will tint wood while allowing the grain pattern to show through.

Western cedar house siding can be left unfinished.

Clinic on repair set for May 18

The Tolland County Extension Service will sponsor a program on energy saving home improvements and repairs May 18 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the activities building, Rt. 30, Vernon.

Albert Gray, 4-H agent, will discuss problems such as doors that may not close properly and windows that admit too much cold air.

John Grenier, extension agricultural engineer, will explain how to repair leaky faucets, insulate pipes, and repair toilets.

John Kolega, extension engineer, will discuss various devices on the market designed to save fuel while heating homes. Each demonstration will include tools needed, supplies for different situations, and booklets of instruction. A 50-cent registration fee may be paid at the door.

Building material costs increased

The cost of construction materials and labor across the nation increased an average of 8.9 per cent during a 12-month period, slightly above the 7.9 per cent rise registered a year earlier, it was reported by the Dodge Building Cost Services Department of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company.

A leading source of information on the construction market, the firm produces statistical and economic data, construction costs guides, Dodge Reports on construction activity and Sweet's Catalog Files of construction product information.

The information released by Dodge Building Cost Services, for the 12-month period ended March 1977, is based on a semi-annual survey of building trades unions, contractors and materials suppliers in 183 cities in the continental United States.

During the latest 12-month period, cost hikes were highest in the region covering the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain States, up 11.3 per cent. The smallest cost hike, 7.7 per cent, was posted by Southeastern and South Central States.

The full report containing additional information on Canadian construction costs, titled "Dodge Building Cost Indexes for U.S. and Canadian Cities," may be purchased for $5.00 from Dodge Building Cost Services, Department 2051, McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company, 1221 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Work in progress

Closets are often the orphans of building design, especially those in apartment buildings. Seldom are there enough of them to meet a family's needs. Frequently, they are located in strange, out of the way places. Sometimes, they seem to have been added as an afterthought.

But, there are ways to get the most out of apartment closets, scarce as they may be. One is to organize storage. An inventory of items stored in closets is a good place to start. The inventory may turn up quite a few items that belong at the local "flea market" or in the storage room of the apartment house.

One space saving technique for clothes closets is to put similar items together. Longer items, such as raincoats, topcoats, overcoats, furs, etc., can be placed on one side and shorter things such as suits, sports-jackets, pantsuits, blouses or shirts on the other. Extra space is left below the shorter items for storing smaller things such as umbrellas, shoes or hat boxes.

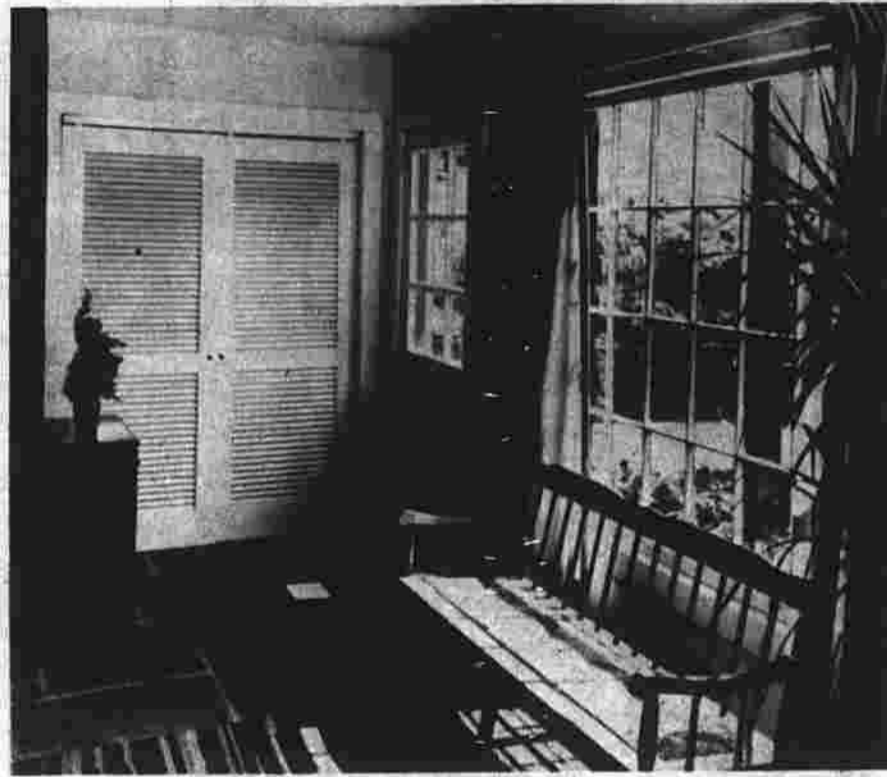

Another device that has a couple of fringe benefits involves the closet doors. In many apartments, ordinary closet doors that swing open can steal much needed floor space, especially in tight spots such as narrow hallways, small bedrooms or tiny foyers.

Wood louver doors, on the other hand, are available as folding doors, which open and close like an accordion, taking up little floor space, or as sliding doors which need no floor space.

When closed, wood louver doors create the appearance of added dimension and they can be stained or painted to match or complement interior colors.

Stock wood louver doors come either fully-louvered or with louvers in the top half and eye-appealing paneling the lower half. They are available in a wide range of sizes at local building supply dealers or home centers.

Besides their ability to save floor space and their attractiveness, wood louver doors permit the free flow of air.

Closets are often located in awkward places. With ordinary doors that swing out, they can be downright inconvenient. Replacing them with sliding wood louver doors makes access easier because they require no floor clearance. The louvers also permit the free flow of air to keep clothes fresh smelling.

Institutions studying new mortgages

Retired homeowners could use their mortgage for retirement income and young people could arrange mortgages with extra low payments in the early years if new mortgage instruments now under study are implemented by the savings and loan business.

Top executives of Connecticut savings and loans discussed the new mortgages recently at a management conference. Five basic features discussed include graduated monthly payments, variable interest rates, deferred interest payments, "reverse annuity" for retired people, and payment moratoriums and line-of-credit provisions. The new provisions require changes in federal and some state laws. They are the recommendation of the National League of Savings Associations, a Washington-based trade group of savings and loans whose general counsel, Harding C. Williams led the discussion.

"Housing is being priced beyond millions of deserving Americans," Williams said. "As primary home lenders, we are investigating new mortgage instruments which will make home ownership available to low and moderate income families. We also want to be sure older people are not forced from their homes by the inability to meet today's inflated cost of living."

Graduated interest would let a young couple start with low monthly payments which would gradually increase over the life of the mortgage. Or the payment might stay the same low level for the first five years and then rise gradually for the remainder of the mortgage. Another variation would have the loan payment increase for the first 10 years; then convert to a constant payment for the next thirty years. These mortgages are designed for people with rising income expectations, and in some cases would even permit "negative amortization" when the payment does not fully cover interest cost.

Deferred interest mortgages would permit a buyer to pay only the principal or part of it for the first five years. Then he would refinance the home with a standard loan and repay the deferred interest plus a fee. This represents the most lenient loan under consideration.

To meet the problem of older people who have paid off their first mortgage but who do not want to move, the lender would pay the borrower a monthly income based on a percentage of the current value of the home. The homeowner would make no payments until the house was sold. This income feature is called a reverse annuity.

Other plans call for a method of using the mortgage as a source of general credit through a line-of-credit provision or the permission to skip payments under certain circumstances.

and any high school student who is 16 years of age who has permission from the student's school principal.

The Community Services Division of Manchester Community College offers a home maintenance and repair course which covers water supply problems, electrical, sinks, plumbing, furnace, flooring, wallpapering and patching plaster.

This summer, MCC will offer a house analysis course taught by an architect which might be of interest to persons planning house renovations or considering land locations for building. A course on perspectives of house design, also to be taught by an architect, is scheduled for next fall.

More information is available by contacting the Community Services Division at the college by calling 646-4900.

The teacher of a minor household repairs course in the adult evening education course at Manchester High School brings a complete toilet to class for instruction on a particular phase of plumbing.

Other evening courses at the high school teach practical subjects as well as home decorating classes. One may take furniture refinishing, upholstery, wood working, and chair caning. For those who are interested in home decorating, the evening program has offered courses in drapery making, rug hooking and braiding, decorative painting on household hardware, weaving and decoupage.

Variable rate mortgages would have a floating interest rate which would permit savings associations to remain in the mortgage market even during periods of tight money. The shortage of financing has practically shut down the home building business in previous periods of tight money. Monthly payments could be kept constant by varying the term of the loan. In fact, the graduated payment plan could work with a variable rate according to the savings officials.

Commenting on the discussion, William H. Hale, president of the CT Savings and Loan League, said, "Housing is in trouble in America. As the nation's leading home financiers, we savings and loans ought to do our part in solving the problem. I think we can bring housing within reach of more families — young and old — with more flexible mortgages. The new plans aren't for everybody, but certainly there are millions of Americans who could benefit from them. Right now, they're only recommendations, but I think we will see most of them implemented in the near future."

Why cheaper paint is more expensive than Touraine:

When they cut the price of the paint, they cut the quality as well. By thinning out the oil base with mineral spirits. By using pigment extenders to beef-up the content of the paint.

The end result: "bargain paints" cover less, fade and peel a lot sooner.

So you have to buy more paint and do the job all over again, before you should have to.

Touraine Paint is made to last up to 50% longer. Because we use the finest linseed oil, acrylic emulsions, and the maximum amount of rich pigments to give you a paint that covers more and lasts longer.

So which really costs you less? The paint, or your time?

Rockville water

"It is my conclusion (from these reports) there is no public health problem with respect to the Rockville Water and Aqueduct supply," Richard Woodhull, chief of the water supplies section of the state Environmental Health Service, told Mayor Thomas Benoit.

The state had been called in when several Vernon residents complained that water pipes in their homes were developing pitting-type corrosion. Homeowners felt the water was causing the problem.

The state Health Department laboratory took water samples and pipe scrapings to analyze. It was from these tests that Woodhull drew his conclusions.

Woodhull spoke at a meeting a few weeks ago. results of the tests tend to confirm the opinion that manganese has been deposited within the system over previous years, an important element in corrosion.

He repeated recommendations that the pH value of the water be between 7.4 and 7.6; the content of effluent from the treatment plant be held at 0.01 if possible; and the temperature of the water be kept below 60 degrees.

Many need summer jobs

Vernon

About 90 young persons have submitted applications for the Comprehensive Youth Work Experience Program (CYWEP) in Vernon this summer but the Youth Services Bureau has only received 15 commitments for employment from non-profit agencies.

Charles Allen, youth service bureau director, said work sites are critically needed and he hopes more will be available.

The CYWEP program which is in its third year, provides for economically disadvantaged youth and is federally funded. Allen said youths will be given work experience when possible, according to their interests, abilities, and skills.

"It is important to receive a feeling of accomplishment in the tasks that they perform and to develop positive work habits," he said.

Tax hike smaller with extra data

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter
Mayor Richard Blackstone Thursday night made this election year even tougher for East Hartford Republicans with new budget data.

At the Town Council's public hearing on the budget, Blackstone said he must change his proposed tax increase.

He had recommended a 0.6 mill increase to 47.2 mills. This would still make East Hartford's tax rate one of the lowest in the region.

But Thursday he said more money is expected from the state for funding town schools. This means the tax rate increase need only be 0.3 mills.

"How can you beat that," said Mrs. Esther Clarke, Republican minority leader on the council. She is also the GOP's most often mentioned candidate to run against Democrat Blackstone this fall.

The only comment raised by members of the public Thursday night came from Mrs. Mary Goodwin, member of the East Hartford League of Women Voters. She said funds could have been proposed for a full-time director to work with the Human Relations Commission.

Despite the low tax rate, Mrs. Clarke said Republicans worked over the mayor's proposed budget for four hours Thursday night. They did find some weak points and expect to find more as they work on it this weekend.

Republicans will present their own budget proposal by Monday, she said.

"I think we can easily find another 0.1 mill to cut," she said. "After all, 0.1 mill is equal to only about $50,000 in town taxes."

Mayor Blackstone has fought town unions this year and has so far kept contract settlements at five per cent or less. Fire fighters are still in arbitration with the town and are seeking more.

Yet the mayor is asking for more than five per cent raises for many of his department heads and the staff close to him, said Mrs. Clarke.

Michael Valuk, the mayor's assistant, is now being paid $14,565. The mayor proposes he be paid $16,200 next fiscal year. This is an increase of 11.2 per cent.

Town Clerk John Barry stands to get more than 18 per cent more in the new budget. He now gets $14,123 and will get $16,800.

William Miller, director of personnel, will go from $16,433 to $18,200.

The larger increases for department heads appear from the budget to be those leaders at the lower side of average department head salaries. Those being paid closer to $18,000 or more per year are getting five per cent or less.

Mayor Blackstone announced his proposed budget April 29. He said then he was proud of it and cited much work that made it possible to keep the tax rate down.

The main credit for the budget, he said, must go to East Hartford's form of government. It is one of the few strong mayor forms in this region. Most others are town manager-council forms.

A town manager cannot prune a budget as closely as an elected mayor, he said. In such a town, the job of cutting the budget is left to the elected council.

East Hartford Police, assisted by the fire department, captured one man on the roof of Fred Locke Stereo, 1071 Burnside Ave., and one man inside the building at 2:43 a.m. today.

Police said they received an alarm that there was a burglary in progress in the building. When they arrived, the building seemed secure. They found a drain pipe pulled away from the building and assumed there was someone on the roof.

The fire department was called and Peter Dunn, 21, of 9 Burnside Ave. was found on the roof. He was charged with first-degree burglary, conspiracy to commit burglary, first-degree larceny, possession of burglary tools, and carrying a concealed weapon (a knife).

Police said Richard Olson, 19, of 392 Burnside Ave. was found inside the building. He was charged with third-degree burglary, first-degree larceny, and conspiracy to commit burglary.

Dunn was held on a $25,000 bond and Olson on a $20,000 bond. They were to be presented in court in East Hartford today.

Anthony Lombardo, 22, of 7 Ridgewood Dr., East Hartford, was charged Thursday with second-degree assault and illegal possession of narcotics.

Police said Lombardo assaulted a man in an apartment at 485 Burnside Ave. The bag of some type of narcotics fell out of his pocket while he was in the process of being arrested on the other charge. He was released on a $1,000 surety bond for court appearance May 23.

William J. Lucas Sr., 27, of Hartford, was charged Thursday with breach of peace. Police said he refused to stay in line in an orderly fashion at Healey's Comet, 12 Eastern Park Rd. He was released on his promise to appear in court May 23.

Claudette Violette, 26, of 38 Edgerton St., Manchester was charged Thursday with fourth-degree larceny on complaint of the J. M. Fields store. She was released on her promise to appear in court June 8.

Dr. Ellington, was charged Thursday with driving while under the influence of liquor and driving left of the center line. He was involved in a head-on crash on Rt. 83 Wednesday night.

Vernon Police Lt. Edwin Carlson and his mother, Mrs. Alice Carlson were in the other car. Lt. Carlson was treated and released at Rockville General Hospital and his mother was admitted. Court date is June 8.

Jose A. Breton, 66, of West Shore Rd., Ellington, was charged Thursday with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was involved in a two-car accident on I-86.

Rockville water is safe

"It is my conclusion (from these reports) there is no public health problem with respect to the Rockville Water and Aqueduct supply," Richard Woodhull, chief of the water supplies section of the state Environmental Health Service, told Mayor Thomas Benoit.

The state Health Department laboratory took water samples and pipe scrapings to analyze. It was from these tests that Woodhull drew his conclusions.

Woodhull spoke at a Town Council meeting a few weeks ago. He said the results of the tests tend to confirm the opinion that he expressed at the meeting that manganese, which has been deposited within the pipes in the system over previous years, may be an important element in the corrosion.

He repeated recommendations that the pH value of the water be held between 7.4 and 7.6; the manganese content of effluent from the water treatment plant be held at less than 0.01 if possible; homeowners reduce the temperature of their hot water heaters to less than 140 degrees; and that both the water company and the homeowner should flush water lines to remove accumulations of manganese.

He also suggested that homeowners experiencing pitting of pipes in their homes should check for the possible grounding of electric appliances to water pipes. He said he would strongly advocate that a completely independent grounding system be used.

A number of reports from various agencies and concerns have to come in before any final conclusion can be made about the cause of the pitting.

"It is important that youths receive a feeling of accomplishment in the tasks that they perform in an effort to develop positive work habits," he said.

The summer program, sponsored by the Capitol Region Education Council, will start about July 5 and run for seven weeks. Youths participating must be between the ages of 14 to 21 and must come from families that qualify under federal economic guidelines.

If any nonprofit agency wishes to offer a job for the young people, Allen can be reached at the Memorial Building, Rockville, 872-8591, extension 28.

Applications for youth are available at Rockville High School, the Middle School or the youth bureau office.

Mayor hopes budget OK

Vernon

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit said Thursday he strongly hopes townspeople will accept the proposed $15.2 million budget at the Annual Town Meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Middle School.

At the same time the Board of Education is hoping that the budget will be rejected. The school board budget to be presented to the meeting will reflect a cut of $250,000 requested by the Town Council.

The school board Monday night agreed on a $190,000 cut and expressed the hope that the Town Meeting will turn down the budget so the $60,000 can be restored.

At a press conference Thursday, Benoit said he doesn't want to get into a donnybrook with the board but said he couldn't justifiably sit back, knowing there is a need for other equipment, life-saving equipment, which had to be cut from fire and police budgets.

He said he feels the council has done an excellent job in working on the budget and both sides feel the school board can live with the $250,000 cut.

Budget meeting tonight

Coventry
Coventry taxpayers will go to the annual town meeting at 7:30 tonight in the high school gymnasium to decide whether to accept the town council's proposed budget. The budget, if accepted, would reduce Coventry's tax rate by one mill. The tax rate is now 71 mills.

The $4.270 budget projects appropriations of $2,784,992 for education, $1,181,690 for general town government, and $304,666 for debt service.

Revenues include $789,837 from education, $308,535 from general government, $21,835 from anti-recursion funds, $43,166 from cash surplus, $11,000 from bridge bonding return and $72,000 from Guaranteed Tax Base.

A total of $3,021.77 is to be raised through local taxes, which would determine the 70-mill tax rate for 1977-78. Added state and federal revenue and the equivalent of one mill in cash surplus provides for the reduced mill rate, although the budget is now the 1976-77 budget.

The town council cut about $40,000 from the proposed education budget and $35,000 from the proposed general government budget. The proposed budget, before council revision, recommended a tax hike of 4.5 mills.

The council also removed $20,000 from education and $15,000 from general government budgets and marked federal revenue sharing funds to cover these amounts. A public hearing on these items will be held after the budget meeting tonight.

The Board of Education and school superintendent have asked town residents to vote approval of the proposed budget. They have expressed concerns, however, about the education budget reflecting less than a five per cent increase over 1976-77.

The Republican Town Committee praised the town for its efforts to lower the tax rate, but recommends the budget be reduced another mill using available cash surplus.

The Democratic Town Committee also supports the budget plan but recommends no further reduction and expresses concern about future tax rates.

Department heads from the Town Hall, the Town Council and Board of Education members will be in the lobby of the high school auditorium tonight at 7 to answer questions about the proposed budget.

Fair housing resolution sparks council debates

South Windsor
The South Windsor Town Council is expected to pass a fair housing resolution, intended to insure all persons equal opportunity for adequate housing.

The resolution was adopted by the Capital Region Council of Governments (CRGOG) Policy Board on March 2. CRGOG is asking all its member towns to adopt it.

The resolution, however, sparked some heated discussion within the town Council this week, with Deputy Mayor Robert Myette and Councilman Raymond Dankel contending that Hartford was asking other towns to pass equal opportunity resolutions, but practicing reverse discrimination.

"Hartford discriminated by requiring all its municipal employees to live in town," Myette said.

Mayor Sandra Bender, however, told the council that Hartford, having what could be considered a discriminatory policy, has nothing to do with South Windsor passing a resolution saying "anyone coming into town wanting to buy a house may do so."

She reminded Myette that the resolution came from CRGOG, not from Hartford.

"I just think you see when you say CRGOG or Hartford," Mrs. Bender told Myette.

"You just dig your heels in," she said. Myette said it appears CRGOG tells the suburban towns to pass a resolution and "we just automatically do it."

Myette said today, however, he will support the revised resolution when it comes before the council Monday.

Road crew blames bosses

Coventry
Members of the Coventry highway crew responded today to charges they were partially responsible for the high turnover in street superintendents in town.

"It seems management should try to take a little of the burden on themselves and look into their own backyards," the highway crew union said.

The town has lost three road foremen within two years. Wayne Blair, who was hired in January, resigned this week saying the road crew and a personally conflict with road consultant John Hardy were among the reasons for leaving.

The union said there are too many supervisors for the street superintendent to report to. He is not able to run the department as a "boss" but as a middle man for management, the union said.

"Two years ago the town had a man doing the job of superintendent of streets for approximately $12,000 per year and now the town is paying approximately $20,000 for two men to do the job," the union said.

Michael Pease, street superintendent two years ago, was familiar with the town, government, road crew and maintenance of roads. Pease was fired by the Town Council.

The crew said William Kennedy, the next street boss, had no knowledge of union contracts and local government. They said he was well qualified for building state highways but "found it difficult to adjust to maintaining town roads."

Blair, the union said, was also hired with no knowledge of the town, government and road maintenance. The union also said Blair lacked experience in snow and ice removal and purchasing procedures.

The union said neither Kennedy nor Blair had experience in management of men.

The highway department employees have been with the town from one to 15 years, with the majority of the crew being employed by the town for more than five years, the union said.

"The superintendent of streets came and went," the union said.

Firemen plan open house

Bolton
The Bolton Volunteer Fire Department will have an open house Sunday at 1 p.m. at the firehouse. At 2 p.m. the department will officially present its forestry truck to the town.

Emergency medical technicians will be on hand to take blood pressure of those interested. The department's new emergency phone stickers will be distributed.

Refreshments will be served by the Women's Auxiliary.

Uniform problem
A request by Donato Rattazzi, road foreman, to have the cost of uniform rental for town employees deducted from their paychecks has not yet passed the clerk for the Board of Selectmen.

Clerk Shirley Riley told selectmen at their last meeting that the state Labor Department doesn't allow payroll deductions for such purposes.

Softball champs play Sunday

Andover
The Reed Construction Fast Pitch Softball team will open the 1977 season with a doubleheader Sunday at 3 p.m. at the recreational field on Long Hill Rd.

The local team, the 1976 Connecticut Class A champions, will play the West Hartford All Stars.

Reed Construction School, Mrs. Margaret Talbot will talk on "climbing the family tree." The public is invited.

The first Congregational Church will host the East Central Pommer, Grade No. 3 Sunday at 7:30 p.m. for its annual Grange Sunday. There will be a special evening worship service.

Rally in eighth inning nets MHS 3-2 triumph

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor

As the old axiom in baseball says, the game's never over until the final out.

That point was never more clearly illustrated as it was yesterday at Jordan Field. Hard-throwing Fermi High right-hander Jim Chevalier was breezing along with a one-hitter through seven innings and it looked like Manchester High was heading for its fourth consecutive loss.

But the Silk Towners came up with three runs in the eighth frame to register a come-from-behind 3-2 win and snap their loss skid. The victory improves the Indians to 7-5 in the CCIL while Fermi, upended twice by the locals, splits an 8-4 docket.

Kevin Hanlon started the rally with a one-out double to left. Mike Jordan walked and leadoff slicker Frank Livingston singled to right scoring Hanlon and sending Jordan to third. Jeff Backofen's roller to second resulted in a forecourt but Jordan toed the plate with the tying marker.

Chris DeCantis blooped a single to short right centerfield among a cluster of Fermi fielders and took second as it was bobbled. Ray Gliha drew an intentional free pass and Tom Jones, swinging at the first pitch, sent a dribbler down the first base line. First baseman Bill Tidwell picked it up and flipped to Chevalier covering but Jones beat him to the bag with Umberto Mike Buttafuso, working the contest solo as the other assignee failed to show, ruling Jones safe.

That 73-foot blow drove in the winning run, and was Jones' 14th RBI.

Fermi had taken a 2-0 lead in the top of the seventh without benefit of a hit. Two wild pitches and a throwing error gave the Falcons their markers.

Jordan, junior southpaw, went the distance for Manchester giving up three hits, walking five and striking out 10. His record is now 4-1. Two of Fermi's three hits were triples. Stu Sibley, who also singled, rocketed a fifth inning three-bagger in the fifth but was cut down at the plate on a Gliha-to-Backofen-to-Jones relay trying to stretch it into a homer.

Manchester managed four hits off Chevalier, 23, who walked four and fanned 12. He retired the first 12 before giving up a leadoff single in the fifth.

Manager-less Braves check losing streak

NEW YORK (UPI) - Atlanta Braves' owner Ted Turner, who Wednesday sent Manager Dave Bristol on a 10-day special assignment and naming himself manager Thursday night by American League President Chm Feeney he was not eligible to manage the team, so the Braves played without a manager.

They must have been doing something right - they ended their 17-game losing streak with a 5-1 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

With Turner banished to the stands and no manager in the dugout, Coach Vern Riffe, who managed the Phillies and Greg Luzinski had a run-scoring double.

Cardinals 10, Reds 1 - John D'Acquisto, Buddy Schultz and Al Hrabosky held hard-hitting Cincinnati to only one hit - an eighth inning double by Ken Griffey. Schultz, who pitched four innings in relief of D'Acquisto, got the victory. The Cardinals got 13 hits.

Padres 5, Mets 2 - Top Griffin homered and combined with Rollie Fingers on a six-hitter as the Padres handed the Mets their fourth straight loss and 10th in 11 games. Jerry Koosman struck out 10 and allowed just five hits in a losing effort. John Milner homered for the Mets.

The last three were coaches' awards. Recapping the season, the women's softball team won the state Community College championship, the soccer team won 10 of 14 games and was ranked fifth while the baseball team finished at 12-10. The women's volleyball squad placed third in New England.

Perry win away from history bid

NEW YORK (UPI) - Gaylord Perry, who needs only one more victory to become the second pitcher in major league history to win 100 games in each league, hasn't been pitching too well this season.

But with the prospect of being removed from the rotation for the first time in his 15-year major league career, he turned in his 45th career shutout Thursday night, to give the Texas Rangers a 3-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Phoenix - Dick Van Arsdale joins twin brother Tom in retirement. SEATTLE - Seattle SuperSonics expected to name Bill Russell's cousin and assistant, Bob Hopkins, Friday to succeed Russell as head coach.

PHILADELPHIA - Assistant coach and ex-player, Barry Ashbee, managing the team himself, was told Thursday night by American League President Chm Feeney he was not eligible to manage the team, so the Braves played without a manager.

They must have been doing something right - they ended their 17-game losing streak with a 5-1 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

With Turner banished to the stands and no manager in the dugout, Coach Vern Riffe, who managed the Phillies and Greg Luzinski had a run-scoring double.

SPRING is the time for preparing your home for next winter. Caulk around doors and windows and wherever two different materials or parts of the house meet. Weather stripping should be applied around all exterior doors and around inside of windows. Check to see if the putty on your windows needs replacing. By cutting down on all drafts in this manner your house will be much more comfortable year round.
