Opinion

Once in a while it's nice to be wrong

Being human, we do not like the idea of being proved wrong. But happily there are exceptions. For example, as we grow older we have a rising resentment of the label "senior citizen." Too often in the past this has had a connotation of putting someone out to pasture or on the shelf. Retirement was a convenient way of getting someone out of the mainstream and being quickly forgotten.

varied schedule of activities. One of the first to get a senior citizens center around which social and other activities could be coordinated. Manchester has been a leader in the senior citizen movement. Because our elders are continuing their interest in the community, our ideas of a senior citizen as a lonely, and often bitter, recluse have been proven wrong. The mayor has proclaimed May 16 through May 20 as Senior Citizens Week in Manchester. We can think of no more fitting occasion than this week to say thanks to our senior citizen neighbors who continue to do so much to help make our town a better place to live even though they may have earned a well-deserved rest from such labors. But most of all we want to say thanks for proving us wrong by showing us every day that retirement need not be the end of the line, but can be a new and even more rewarding challenge.

Too much license taken

The propensity of Americans for making constitutional mountains out of legalistic molehills has seldom been better illustrated than by the case of the New Hampshire license plate dissenter. A few years ago, New Hampshire decided to emblazon its license plates with the motto, "Live Free or Die." To one citizen of said state, George Maynard, the slogan was ideologically offensive. In his opinion, live was more precious than freedom—a belief to which he was and is certainly entitled. Maynard, however, proceeded to tape over the slogan in violation of state law forbidding the defacement of license plates. This act of disobedience was not to be tolerated. In contradiction of its own motto, New Hampshire did not offer the dissenter the option of living according to his beliefs or departing this life, but rather began legal action against him. To make a long story short, the case eventually wended its way up to the Supreme Court of the United States, which in its august majesty has just decreed that New Hampshire's attempt to compel Maynard to display the motto was a violation of his First Amendment right of free speech and amounted to a form of thought control. That it may well have been. But it is also an awful lot of nonsense, and the real clowns in this comedy are the New Hampshire authorities who made a martyr out of Maynard in the first place. Now if the man had defaced his plates so as to alter or obscure the numbers or had changed the expiration date or something like that, it would have been a different matter. It would also have been resolvable at some judicial level below that of the highest court in the land, without the employment of batteries of constitutional lawyers and the expenditure of thousands of dollars. But so what if someone tapes over a portion of a license plate that is not essential for identification purposes? Who should care? The legislator who dreamed up New Hampshire's "Live Free or Die" motto apparently thought it was an important statement or affirmation of some kind. We believe that an older motto still says everything that needs to be said: "Live and let live."

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Saturday, May 14, the 134th day of 1977 with 231 to follow. The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus. Gabriel Fahrenheit, a Prussian who developed the thermometer, was born May 14, 1686. Singer Bobby Darin was born on this day in 1936. On this day in history: In 1804, the Olympic Games were held in the United States for the first time, in St. Louis. In 1942, Congress established the WAACs — the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps — for World War II duty. In 1969, President Nixon proposed withdrawal of all American, Allied and North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. The Communists rejected the proposal. In 1973, the U.S. Skylab space station was blasted into earth orbit. A thought for the day: British novelist George Meredith said, "A witty woman is a treasure, a witty beauty is a power."

Quick grasp of issues

The Canadian-born son of Japanese parents got his marks from his staff and Senate colleagues for his quick grasp of complicated issues. Although he enjoys an afternoon nap, Hayakawa has translated his passion for the work ethic into methodically learning the intricacies of the Senate. Clearly, he's enjoying himself: "When you become a United States Senator, people finally treat you as important as you always thought you were."

Yesterdays

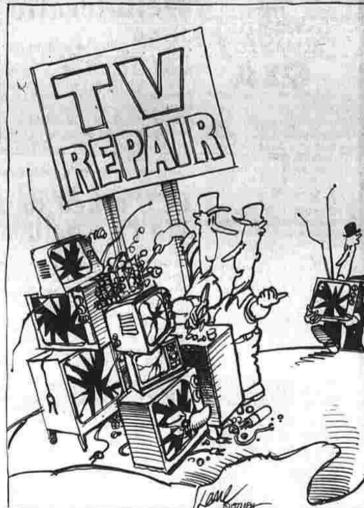

25 years ago General Manager Richard Martin proposes a six-year capital improvement plan. Herman Schendel, head of Manchester's Civil Defense, says 100 more ground observers are needed. Benjamin Horowitz to succeed father as president of American Drying Corp. Edward Moriarty to manage Meriden unemployment office. 10 years ago This date was a Sunday; The Herald did not publish.

Praise is sacrifice

Do you find it easy to thank the Lord for good things, but almost impossible to thank Him in the bad times? Perhaps you feel hypocritical when you try to say "thank you, Father," when you don't feel at all thankful. "But true praise is a worthy sacrifice; this really honors me. Those who walk my paths will receive salvation from the Lord." (Ps. 50:22-23) God wants us to thank Him — especially in times of trouble.

Thought

"Faith" is believing He is using even our difficulties to unfold His perfect plan for our lives. You don't have to be good enough to deserve God's loving care, but you do have to trust Him in order to receive it. "Tell God you love Him, and even though you cannot understand how He can use it, you will thank Him and praise Him for your life just exactly the way that it is." Margaret M. Webb South United Methodist Church

"Here comes another one of those 45 million Nixon watchers."

The wit and wisdom of S.I. Hayakawa

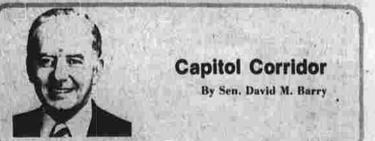

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON — The audience in the National Press Club ballroom is starting to stand and applaud. A small group of people is now entering the door and inching its way toward the rostrum, but since he's only 5-feet-6 you can't be sure he's among them. Until — sure enough, up shoots a hand waving an orange and green tam-o'-shanter. Hee-hee! S.I. Hayakawa!

Hayakawa, already a world-respected semantist, author, and psychologist, gained fame in the late 1960s for his hard-nosed confrontation with anti-war protesters while president of San Francisco State College. He succeeded in parlaying his popularity into the GOP senatorial nomination last year and, as the Press Club emcee said, "defeated California's golden boy, John Tunney, coming to the Senate in his golden years."

Does the 70-year-old freshman plan a long career in the upper house? "Let me put it this way," says Hayakawa. "After three terms I shall only be 88. And my mother is alive and well at 91!"

"Panama?" Hayakawa repeated over and over again in last year's campaign. "Why shouldn't we keep it? We stole it fair and square." Reputation preceded him. The Senator's reputation as something of a clown, based on such lines, preceded him to the capital. Rock-ribbed conservatives licked their chops at the thought of having this new boy on the block. Surely, they reasoned, he can be counted on down-the-line to champion the conservative cause. What they hadn't counted on is how very unpredictable this new boy can be. The Senator has now quietly dropped his opposition to negotiating a new canal treaty, explaining that "Panama has a legitimate grievance in being cut in two. Their national pride is outraged." Relations not only with Panama but with all of Latin America are at stake, he added. "They want us to maintain defense of the canal," said Hayakawa, "...but I do want to see a reasonable treaty worked out."

Capitol Corridor

Most Republican members of the State Senate and a few Democrats, including myself, combined last week to pass two bills repealing present laws regarding unemployment compensation benefits for people who quit their jobs or who are fired. Adequate protections remain in the law to protect people who are unjustly fired or who are forced to leave their jobs because of conditions created by their employer. I think that most members felt that some steps had to be taken to return to an unemployment compensation fund to solvency and that their vote on the "quits and fires" legislation was a step in the right direction. The bills now go to the House of Representatives where labor and business leaders will continue their lobbying efforts with the same intensity they exhibited in the Senate. The best debate of the session occurred last week when the Senate took up the Bottle Bill. After weeks of committee work and passage of minor less controversial legislation, the atmosphere in the Senate Chamber last Thursday was right for a good debate. The bill had been lobbied by both sides heavier than any bill of the session.

The amended bill was passed by the narrow margin of 20 to 16 and now goes to the House of Representatives.

I supported the Bottle Bill both vocally during the debate and in the vote itself because I believe that it is a step in the right direction in the war against waste.

Women in politics

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters WASHINGTON — (NEA) — More women than ever before sought elective office in 1976. They were, on the whole, better qualified, better organized and better financed than any in history. But in politics, it isn't how you play the game that counts, it's whether you win or lose. And by that standard, women still have a long way to go.

Statistics may be dreary but they illustrate more vividly than words the discouraging under-representation of the majority sex in public office, especially at the national level. Only 18 made it. Of 112 women who set out to run for Congress last year, only 18 actually made it to the House of Representatives — one fewer than in 1974. All but two of the 1976 winners were already incumbents and the newcomers, Reps. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., and Rosemary O'Keefe, D-Ohio, had only taken general election positions as they captured open seats voluntarily vacated by men.

Of four women seeking U.S. Senate seats last year, only one — Democrat Gloria Schaffer of Connecticut — made it as far as the general election, where she was defeated by incumbent GOP Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. There hasn't been a woman in the Senate since Margaret Chase Smith of Maine was defeated in 1972.

State level better The picture at the state level is only slightly brighter. Two states, Connecticut and Washington, now have women governors while three others have women lieutenant governors. A dozen states have women occupying the largely ceremonial office of secretary of state.

No woman, however, has ever been elected attorney general, the statewide political office which most often serves as a springboard for bigger and better things. And although women made significant gains in state legislative elections last year, increasing their numbers from 615 to 688, they still constitute only 9.1 per cent of all state legislators.

Having had its origins several years ago with environmental groups, its support had grown to the extent that every poll taken in the Senate showed heavy public approval of the measure. Its opposition came mainly from union leaders, the glass and bottle making industry and the owners of grocery stores and package stores. Every conceivable argument for and against the bill was made during the more than five-hour debate. Every parliamentary move to prevent the matter from coming to a vote was employed by Senate members who opposed the bill. An attempt to send the bill to the Appropriations Committee at the eleventh hour was unsuccessful as were all attempts to amend the bill except one providing for wage compensation and job retraining for people whose jobs might be lost by passage of the bill.

The amended bill was passed by the narrow margin of 20 to 16 and now goes to the House of Representatives.

I supported the Bottle Bill both vocally during the debate and in the vote itself because I believe that it is a step in the right direction in the war against waste.

News for senior citizens

By GLORIA BENSON

Hi everyone! One item of importance was omitted from Wednesday's column and that is the signing up for a terrific day trip to Vermont to see an Apple Blossom Festival. On Monday, May 16, we will register at 8 a.m. for a scenic tour of apple blossom country in Vermont, go over country roads and covered bridges, enjoy a demonstration of weaving and design at Dabblers, watch the making of stuffed toys and Mary Meyer toys and luncheon (roast beef) at the old inn at Newfane. Price is $14 and the date are going in May 28.

Tuesday we had a real busy cardiac making all kinds of things, including, if you can believe it, Christmas trees. We were so happy to see Dot and Phil back again because I can really feel a void when they aren't with us. They are a big help at the center.

Bowling Tuesday afternoon we worked on things for the Big Week which is breathing hard down our necks. Also on Tuesday, the bowlers were at the Parkade Lanes knocking down the pins with the following top scores: Men Class A (over 130 average) high triple, Clarence Peterson, 545; high single, Bob McComb, 225; Men Class B (110 average and under) high triple, Ray Bernstein, 476; high single, Art Buckler, 193; Women Class A (over 100 average) high triple and single, Bea Cormier 175-248. Women Class B (100 average and under) high triple and single, Florence Guerra, 124-235.

Wednesday morning came and so did 17 members of the Fellowship Circle. This is a friendly group of ladies who work on various items and get ideas, and do exercises, and exchange recipes. I had a special delivery of most of the samples they bring in are really fattening.

Wednesday evening, I had the delightful experience of enjoining our Seniors Program at the Volunteer Flu Clinic's Appreciation Dinner. I was so proud to be associated with them. I did make one little lily blunder, but have sworn them to secrecy. To Ida and Henry Cormier, Tony Pouch, Rita Bowler, Helen Burford, Andy Lamoreaux, Emmet Farrell and Bernadette Noel, I say thank you.

Thursday was an exciting day for me. It was the day of our Mother's Day Tea. We had over 150 mothers here. In the main, we were busy putting the finishing touches on our decorations. Thanks to Helen Martino who helped make them, and to our custodian Ray, the hall looked real nice.

After a delicious chop dinner, we went upstairs for our knocking down the pins with the following top scores: Men Class A (over 130 average) high triple, Clarence Peterson, 545; high single, Bob McComb, 225; Men Class B (110 average and under) high triple, Ray Bernstein, 476; high single, Art Buckler, 193; Women Class A (over 100 average) high triple and single, Bea Cormier 175-248. Want bigger tax drop Few debate budget

Coventry
By LINDA LOVERING
Herald Correspondent
A handful of Coventry residents debated the 1977-78 town budget before voting to accept it Friday at the Annual Town Meeting.

Only 185 residents attended the meeting this year. Only about 10 residents spoke to the meeting about the $4.27 million budget which will reduce the tax rate one mill. The new 70-mill rate will take effect July 1.

Those residents who debated the Town Council proposed budget wanted further reduction to it. Roland Green recommended cutting the budget another $200,000 or three mills.

Several residents recommended using cash surplus and cutting the cost of education.

Alice Heckler spoke against the Sequential Learning Program in Coventry schools saying, "I suppose traditional classrooms at less expense to Coventry taxpayers."

Frank Kristoff recommended the $130,000 cash surplus be applied to reduce the mill rate further.

Kit Hurlock told town residents not to accept the proposed budget because "it's a snowjob, a farce and a joke."

Hebron's PZC is busy

Despite a decision to defer action on the zone descriptions and other amendments to the regulations due to the absence of two members, the Hebron Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) conducted a lengthy meeting this week.

A petition was received from Joseph and Althea Stula, Paul Coates and William H. Hills for a change in zone from residential to general business on their property, on the north side of Rt. 66 east of Blackman Rd.

The request will be taken to a public hearing May 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Office Building. It will involve amendment of the Plan of Development to include a general business zone in that location, addition to the zone to the zoning regulations, and amendment of the zoning map.

A hole under I-86
This hole along the south side of I-86 in East Hartford leads down to the beginning of a tunnel under the six-lane highway. The town is paying a contractor $44,000 to shove a pipe 84 inches in diameter through the firm clay below the highway. The pipe is part of the Willowbrook Relief System for storm drainage. Coventry

Coventry Police Chief Robert Kjellquist has issued a plea to all residents to keep garden tractors, lawn mowers, garden tools, motorcycles and bicycles and other such small equipment locked up when not in use. He said the police department has been investigating many complaints of the theft of such items which have been left in front yards at night. He said they should be kept in a locked shed, garage, basement or barn.

East Hartford

A military whist party will be held at Temple Beth Tefilah, 465 Oak St., next Saturday at 9 p.m. Refreshments will be served and prizes awarded.

South Congregational Church will sponsor a Walk for World Hunger May 22 at 2 p.m. in observance of the church centennial. The walk includes stops at places important to the church's history. Starting point is First Congregational Church on Main St. Proceeds will go to World Hunger Relief and the East Hartford Human Needs Fund.

South Congregational Church is seeking items for its centennial year strategy festival and fair. It will be held at the church June 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. An auction will be at 2 p.m. Roger Lane is fair chairman. Areas needing help are: Candy, Julia Durrenberger, 568-6796; arts and crafts, Irene Hinds, 568-4217; or Madeline Martikainen, 568-0091; plants, Wanda Bates, 568-8922; and shortcake, Elvia Trinks, 568-5668.

The East Hartford Human Relations Commission, with funding aid from Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, is hosting a meeting of 15 regional commissions May 24 at South Congregational Church on Forbes St. Dr. John Rogers, black historian, will speak. The local HRC will show its new film telling the story of black slaves who became free men in Connecticut.

Deadline for the Junior Women's Club poster contest, "What Conservation Means to Me," is May 27 at the principal's office of the student's school. Girls from 11 to 14 in the town's middle schools are eligible. Prizes will be given three winners.

Mag Eaton of 34 Larrabee St. was elected recording secretary of the Mountain Laurel Chapter of Sweet Adelines of Greater Hartford. The chapter's chorus recently won first place in the North Elaine Plover. They will next compete in Los Angeles with choruses from around the world.

Students take drink survey

East Hartford
"Do you drink alcohol?"
This question and 54 others on drinking were put to Penney and East Hartford High School students Monday by school staff and members of Central Connecticut State College. They surveyed 12 per cent (400) of the high school students.

The survey's aim is to get an accurate picture of students' drinking. Results will be released in a few weeks, said Supt. Eugene Diggs. An analysis of the results will not be ready until this summer, he said.

South Windsor

Dolores Mercure has been elected president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the South Windsor Little League. Other officers are Marge Kimmy, vice-president; Sylvia Demers, secretary; Marion Morrisette, treasurer. Committee chairmen are Terry Samsel, Claire Nizankiewicz, Marge Kimmy, Peg Moriarty, Barbara Cherechini, Elaine Plover, Eileen Lane, JoAnn Sivo, Marie Wochoski, Lorraine Baxter, Barbara Donahue and Madeline Huot.

Tolland

The Nathan Hale Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor a special bloodmobile visit Thursday from 1 to 5 p.m. at St. Matthew's Church. While blood donors will be welcome, a special appeal is being made for all "negative" donors, since it is negative blood which is in shortest supply now. For more information or to make an appointment, call the Red Cross office, 875-3377. Walk-ins will be welcome.

Vernon

The Vernon Assembly of God Church, Old Town Rd., will start weekly anniversary services Sunday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Rayder Jacobsen, district superintendent of the Southern New England District, as guest speaker. At the 3 p.m. service, the Rev. Robert Lundstrom, evangelist of the prophetic ministry, will speak. Monday through Wednesday he will conduct a prophetic clinic at 7 p.m. The 7 p.m. Sunday service will be a gospel concert by the Area Singers from Mystic. Speaker for the Thursday and Friday services at 7:30 p.m. will be the Rev. Jack Mitchell of Natick. He will also speak at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services on May 22.

The Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a "Moonlight Cruise" aboard the Dolly Madison June 3. The cruise is open to non-chamber members also. For reservations or more information, call the chamber office, 872-0587.

In Bolton school system

Curriculum work is steady

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

Persons attending Board of Education meetings or reading about them in the newspaper will periodically learn that the curriculum council is recommending changes in curriculum, educational philosophy or priority goals.

Curriculum, curriculum council, curriculum council guidelines, curriculum council projects, priority goals, educational philosophy — what are they and why do we have them?

The words and their meanings are commonplace to the staff of the Bolton school system, but to the average parent, they have little or no meaning.

Bolton schools, of course, have had curriculum for as long as the schools have been in existence. The definition of curriculum is a course of study in a school. The curriculum council, however, is fairly new in comparison, only three years old. It is responsible for overseeing, directing, coordinating and recommending curriculum decisions to the superintendent who, in turn, makes recommendations to the Board of Education.

About two years ago, in-depth revision of curriculum began. It is still in progress. Guidelines for the council were adopted in 1974.

According to the guidelines, the functions of the council are:

- To provide overall direction and coordination in curriculum development, implementation and evaluation for kindergarten through Grade 12.
- To give attention to articulation between curriculum areas and consolidation of curriculum areas.
- To assess, recommend areas for curriculum revision and provide a three-year curriculum development schedule with budget implications.
- To assess completed curriculum revisions and submit assessment, with recommendations, to the superintendent.
- To recommend to the superintendent in-service programs for curriculum implementation.
- To keep the professional staff and the community informed of its work.

Budget meeting Monday

Bolton
Bolton's Special Town Meeting and Annual Budget Meeting will be Monday at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.

Residents will be asked to approve a budget for 1977-78 totaling $2,205,270.

They will be asked to appropriate from the reserve fund the following amounts: $1,800 for amesite resurfacing at Bolton High School; $4,000 for amesite resurfacing at Bolton Elementary School; $2,800 for roof drains at Bolton Elementary School; $2,500, improvements to Memorial Field at Bolton Center School.

Also, $2,100, heavy duty snow plow; $1,600, three radios for general highway use; $450, fire police mobile radio; $1,268, two Scott air packs; $1,400, 10-channel mobile radio, and $400, CB radio.

Mag Eaton of the meeting will be asked to appropriate $1,400 from the contingency fund to the general highway budget for gas, oil and diesel fuel; $1,132 from cash surplus to radio repair; and to authorize the Board of Selectmen and treasurer to borrow such money as needed to meet the town's expenses.

Library plans circus day

Bolton
Bolton Friends of the Library will have a circus day for children and a book sale for everyone next Saturday.

The circus day will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m. for children from preschool age through Grade 4. It will be held on the grounds of Bentley Memorial Library.

There will be clowns, games, comics, circus acts, movies and refreshments. Admission is free. Preregistration is required. Signup sheets are at the library.

Anyone wishing to perform a circus act or wanting further information is asked to call Mrs. Robert Chamberland, 646-0346.

The group's second annual book sale will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the library. Donations of books, records and periodicals may be brought to the library. For pickup, call John Worobel, 645-5553.

School near perfect in health inspection

Andover
Andover Elementary School received 98 out of a possible 100 points during the state Department of Health annual inspection.

The reason for the not-quite-perfect mark, according to Beatrice Kowalski, chairman of the Board of Education, is "the inspectors found a can opener blade in the cafeteria had not been sharpened."

Mrs. Kowalski said everything else was okay.

At the school board meeting this week, Patricia Medlin was hired as a teacher aide and the resignation of bus driver Lorraine Reed was accepted.

Patricia Tieman, former board member, was presented a plaque for her eight years of service on the board.

The school board approved the purchase of a one-year subscription to the American School Board Journal for $18.

There will be a special education class at Andover Elementary School in September. The class will have three students. The Area Special Education Association will provide the teacher.

For the 1977-78 school year, Dave Caron has been reassigned to Grade 2 and Evelyn Lauter to Grade 3.

Members of the council are Michael Soleniz, Barbara Nicholson, Ann Rudolph, Laura Szczechowicz, Tony Falocita and Joseph Shanahan. There is a partial change in the council's membership each year.

School Supt. Raymond Allen said, "The work of the curriculum council is one of the major and more important ongoing activities in the Bolton school system today."

Allen said it is the curriculum that guides teachers in their daily classroom instruction. He said the council is also developing an evaluation program that will tell teachers how well their classes have learned and where additional time must be spent. The aim is for all children at all grade levels acquire the skills they should have to move to higher grade level work.

Educational philosophy
In January 1976, the Board of Education adopted the "Educational Philosophy of the Bolton School System."

The first draft of the philosophy was written by Blamberg. He sent a copy to all staff members for input. The curriculum council revised the original draft and a copy was sent to Allen and the school board, where it was revised one more time before adoption.

In part, the philosophy reads, "The goal of the Bolton school system shall be to challenge each individual intellectually, emotionally, physically and ethically to his fullest potential for his own sake as well as for his contribution to society."

Priority goals
In February 1976, the school board adopted "Priority Goals for the Bolton School System."

They were formulated after input from parents, students, teachers, town officials, school board members and school administrators.

Blamberg said the goals will be looked at every two years because revision will be needed. The goals are:

- Develop skills in reading, writing, speaking and listening.
- Develop pride in work and a feeling of self-worth.
- Learn to respect and get along with people with whom we work and live.
- Gain a general education.
- Learn how to be a good citizen.
- Develop a desire for learning now and in the future.
- Learn how to examine and use information.
- Learn how to respect and get along with people who think, dress and act differently.
- Appreciate culture and beauty in the world.
- Develop skills to enter a specific field of work.

Allen said he cannot comment on the attainment of the goals and there has been no attempt to measure it.

"In the case of the affective development of students, I don't believe we could obtain objective data," Allen said.

The curriculum council and others will continue their work as long as there are schools in Bolton.

Cheney in upset

Runs in the first and third innings gave Cheney Tech a 2-1 Charter Oak Conference baseball upset victory over previously unbeaten Vinal Tech yesterday in Middletown.

The victory was the Beavers' third in 12 starts since they were defeated by the COC by three games, dropped its first after 13 triumphs.

Bob Walter went the distance for Cheney earning his third win against five losses. He walked two and fanned five, scattering seven hits.

Vinal's lone tally came in the second inning as Joe Kolenda singled, stole second and scored on Bob Whitehead's single. The home-standing Hawks loaded the bases in the fifth but Walter got out of the jam.

Cheney got a run in the first as freshman Chris Vann reached on an error and scored on Lew LaBrec's single.

LaBrec and Ed Lachard each collected two hits for Cheney which over-all totaled five safeties. John Demelis started and took the loss for Vinal.

Manchesters High's girls' track team ran off a pair of victories yesterday at Pete Wigen Track. The Silk Towners easily outdistanced Ferni, 107-16, and topped Penny High of East Hartford, 68-55, to run their overall record to 8-4 for the season.

Sophomore Tracy Culbertson was a double winner against Ferni and triple winner against Ferni. She had personal best efforts in the shot put with a toss of 39-feet, 9 1/2-inches and in the javelin with a throw of 106-feet, 3-inches.

Teri Arendt was a triple winner against Ferni in the 80-yard hurdles, high jump and long jump.

Junior Lori Veal set a school record in the two-mile run with a 22:54.8 clocking although coming in third against Penny.

Katie Hennessy set a personal best in winning the mile run. Veal lowered her own school record by about 25 seconds.

Homers defeat Eagles

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports Editor

Wasted opportunity. That's what yesterday's 4-2 baseball loss by East Catholic to Rockville High at Eagle Field will be remembered by.

The Eagles, 6-6 and with a tilt this morning at 11 against South Catholic at Eagle Field, had nine hits compared to seven by the 9-1 Rams. But two of Rockville's hits were two-run homers that gave them a four-in-three games, and Nick Tedeschi, both coming in the fourth inning. East got the hits, Arerio (5) def. Valentine and that was the difference.

East got an unearned marker in the second as Ram miscues sandwiched around a walk and Don Martin's fielder's choice produced the tally.

East starter and loser Frank Greene, 0-1, set down the first 10 batters but Tom Burke drew a walk and Johnson belted a roundtripper against him. Wind over the centerfield fence, about 350 feet away.

After the second out, Larry Kelly singled and Nick Tedeschi hit an opposite field wind-aided drive over the rightfield barrier for a 4-1 lead.

The Eagles got three hits but no runs in the fourth. Ken Brasa and Dave Botlaro each got infield scratch hits sandwiched around a liner by John Murphy. But Mark Dumais' chopper back over as at the end of the third sacker Tedeschi whose peg nipped Dumais by a half-step at first with East Coach Jim Penders holly-nasted the runner.

In the ninth, pinch-hitter Mike Freheit and Dumais each singled and that was all for Rockville starter Joe Murphy. Flame-throwing junior righthander Russ Allen was greeted by Pete Kiro's RBI double to the corner in right with Dumais holding third.

But Allen, ace of the Ram mound staff, fanned Mike Furlong and Mike Gieras looking and Brasa on a swinging third strike to end it.

Greene went the distance for East, allowing seven hits, walking two and fanning four. Joe Murphy, 2-0, in eight innings plus two batters gave up eight hits, striking out five and walking three.

Tedeschi had two hits for Rockville while Kiro had a pair for East. The Eagles were without the services of lefthanded batter Tom Gerbo, who twisted his right knee while he operated on his left knee in warmup. He might be out for the season, Penders noted.

Schroeder opened the Colonial with a 65 Thursday, the same day 23 golfers dipped below par in the 7,190-yard course which must now consider among the five best they play.

But that was when all agreed Colonial was playing easier than it had in years. The rough was low and thin because of cool weather, the fairways were hard and there was no wind. On Friday the wind came up. Schroeder, the son of Davis Cup tennis great Ted Schroeder, fired a five-under-par 65, giving him a

Glenn Cunningham couldn't recall the number of races he ran during his brilliant track career in the 1930s when he was king of the milers but he did remember the only time he made up his mind to break a record.

The former University of Kansas runner, a two-time member of the United States Olympic team, a teammate of Manchester's Joe McCuskey in both Games, was a visitor to town Thursday. He stopped off at the Manchester Community College campus first and the same night was the featured speaker at the college's annual Sports Awards Night at the Country Club.

"It was in New York," the 67-year-old Cunningham recalled, "that I was challenged that I couldn't beat Paavo Nurmi's record in the mile and one-half."

"I told them that I could beat the record in a warmup suit. They only laughed but it was just a breath of air. I had made up my mind that I could break Nurmi's record and I did." Nurmi was the great Finn.

"I never set my mind on any records in any race I ran except that one. My goal was always to come in first," said the man who calls Conway, Ark., his home these days.

Coming in first, Cunningham did hundreds of times during his illustrious career, which spanned seven decades, and his 4:04.1 mile clocking in 1938 was the world record for that distance.

"My workouts were always light. I used to train three days a week, never running more than three-quarters of a mile."

Cunningham was told at the age of seven, after suffering burns on both legs, that he would never be able to walk again let alone run. The accident happened when Glenn and his brother arrived at school first one morning and were about to start a fire in the polished stone when gasoline that had been put in by error the night before exploded and both boys were enveloped in flames.

The Kansas boy did walk and run — and he did so that today his name is still well known despite the passing of the years.

Could Cunningham have broken the four-minute mile? "Gene Venzke had a 4:10 mile in a meet at Madison Square Garden and several track writers were talking about the possibility of a four-minute mile."

"I said I wouldn't be surprised to see someone do it in 3:58."

As the years passed, the magic four-minute mile was established and broken. Today, it's a slow mile if over four minutes. Perhaps if pushed, or challenged, Cunningham might have been the first to cover a mile in four minutes or less.

Cunningham speaks like a member of the clergy, but said he had no special ties with any church, but was and is a strong believer in God.

Because of his success in track, the mile being "the event in every meet, just as it still is today, Cunningham became a very wealthy man and in his own words, "without working, maybe a day or two a week."

"I had everything that I wanted in life, my wife, my family and recognition, but something was missing. It was that then that I decided to devote my life to helping others."

Twenty-nine years ago, Cunningham and his wife, Ruth, founded the Glenn Cunningham Youth Camp for underprivileged children and since the first arrived at the 80-acre ranch, over 8,000 more followed at no cost to any.

Family grew "We started out with six to eight children and we have had as many as 86, plus our own 12 at the ranch."

"We should all strive to do what we can to give every child an opportunity to make something of him or herself in this nation. There are only one million youngsters in this country today who need help."

"We have had to make sacrifices but things that I was taught in sports have proven invaluable," he noted. Pat Mistretta, college director of athletics, said, "This is one of the greatest men I have ever met. He's a unique man."

Friday 13th lucky for Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Friday the 13th proved to be a lucky day for the usually unlucky New York Mets.

It was a day in which Tom Seaver should have been playing in the first place. Mattlack was the pitcher of the game.

It was a day when nobody asked to be traded, nobody complained about anybody else and all was right with the world. Dave Kingman hit one of the longest home runs in the history of Shea Stadium and the last-place Mets beat the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2.

Before the game, the Mets were notified of National League President Chuck Feeney's selection of the second game of the doubleheader against the Giants in San Francisco on May 14 was improperly called off and would be rescheduled and played to completion July 28.

The Mets were losing 10-0 in the seventh when the umpires called the game without warning. League rules call for a 30-minute waiting period before a game is called. That was not done, so the last three games were called off.

Randle said he gave in a little to superstition before the game. "I'm not usually superstitious," he said, "but as I walked down the tunnel toward the dugout I saw a cat walking in front of me and I turned the other way." In addition to his homer, Randle came up with two superb fielding plays.

After Randle's homer, Ed Kranepool singled and Kingman walloped a pitch over the wall in left for his eighth homer of the season. The ball took a short hop around striking a fence surmounting the parking lot, 518 feet from home plate. Rick Rhoden suffered his first loss after five victories.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago topped Montreal, 5-3. Philadelphia edged San Diego, 4-3. Louis Riano blanked Atlanta, 3-0, Cincinnati beat St. Louis, 6-4, and Houston shut out Pittsburgh, 3-0.

REC Pushing across at least one run in every inning, Turnpike hit outlasted Flaherty, Ben Grzyb, Bob Blass and Merrill Meyers. Big hitters were Bruce Gardner with four hits, one double, three hits each by Don Fortstrom, Darrell Netto and John Griffin and a homer by Al Lange, all for the winners.

Best for the Bankers were Jon Neuner with four blows and Bill Connor and Dave Richard with three each.

WOMEN'S REC B&J Auto Repair was awarded a 7-0 forfeit win when Lavalle Ford failed to field a team at Cheney. FELINE Scoring a dozen runs in the first inning, David's baseball team topped Pizza last night at Nebo, 30-3. Big hitters in the win were Fran Mansoli, Blair Fish, Diane Repoli, Ben Anderson, Amy Franson and Chris Swenson, all with three hits, and Mary Gracynay, Joan Krogh, Katie O'Dea, Michele

Bishop discusses three major issues

Editor's note: The following report on recent Catholic Bishops Conference in Chicago was prepared by The Most Rev. John F. Whealon, archbishop of the Archdiocese of Hartford.
Three specially important questions were discussed by the Bishops in Chicago. Each question was complicated, easily understood. In reporting on them I choose words carefully — and ask you to read and reach conclusions with equal care.
The first question: the Call to Action resolutions. The Call to Action conference, as you recall, took place last October 21-23 in Detroit. There the 1340 delegates considered, approved and addressed to the U.S. Bishops 182 resolutions. In Chicago the Bishops divided into eight groups to analyze these recommendations. The Bishops also voted to assign all 182 resolutions to appropriate Conference Committees for study. And the Bishops developed as a preliminary general answer to the Call to Action, an 18 page document. This is a carefully, considerably expressed document.
As time goes on I am perhaps beginning to understand better the Call to Action conference. During the small group analysis of the Personhood resolutions, we bishops repeatedly found the language of a particular resolution to be vague or faulty. Just as repeatedly the observers in the room, veterans from Detroit, asked us to look at the spirit and thrust more than at the language. Similarly, our diocesan delegates spoke much of the spirit of the Detroit conference. The Bishops' problem is that Civilization has been and must be built on words, precisely selected and precisely understood by others when the spirit and time are otherwise.
The second question: a request to the Holy Father to repeal the penalty of excommunication of Catholics who divorce and remarry. Certain sins are so serious that the Church attaches to them the penalty of excommunication from the Church community. Such is cooperation in an abortion. Such, since the 1884 Third Plenary Council of Baltimore, has been divorce and remarriage for U.S. Catholics.
Now in 1977 the Bishops think that the divorced and remarried Catholics need compassionate, sensitive treatment. Does this mean that the Church approves divorce and remarriage? Of course not. The Church must follow Christ's clear teachings concerning divorce and remarriage (look at St. Matthew's Gospel, Ch. 19, verses 3 to 12). May a Catholic, divorced and not remarried, receive Holy Communion? Yes. Should a divorced and remarried Catholic be faithful to Mass and parish life? Yes indeed. May a divorced-remarried Catholic receive Holy Communion? No, because of the Lord's teaching.
The third question: a possible request to the Pope to allow in our nation the optional practice of receiving Holy Communion in the hand. The vote in Chicago was indecisive. For passage of a liturgical question, two-thirds of all active bishops must vote positively. Because slightly less than the two-thirds voted positively in Chicago, the absent 28 active bishops will be asked to vote by mail. The proposal will then pass or fail according to their vote.
If it fails, we continue as at present. If it passes, we must ask the Holy Father for the option and, if permission is granted, prepare for a lengthy instruction on reverence towards the Sacrament. I do hope that no one will be upset by whatever happens. May all remain in peace, thinking of the reverence which must always be shown to the Lord's Eucharistic Body and Blood.

Four arrested on gaming charges

The state police Organized Crime Investigative Task Force Friday arrested four men, three of them residents of East Hartford, and charged them with multiple counts of illegal gambling.
Arrested are:
Robert Brannick, 31, of 46 Bonner Dr., East Hartford, manager of Billy Grant's Colonial Drive-In in Rocky Hill who was arrested while cooking hot dogs during the noon rush hour.
Joseph J. Brennan, 38, of 29 Bonner Dr., East Hartford, manager of the Colonial Drive-In in Vernon, also arrested during the rush hour.
Jack Mazzarella Jr., 40, of 79 Wildflower Rd., East Hartford, an employe of Augie and Ray's on Silver Lane in East Hartford arrested after he turned himself in Friday.
And Ernest Salomone, 36, of Hartford, an employe of the U.S. Postal Service, arrested at his home.
The arrests stem from a court-approved wiretap earlier this year.
The three East Hartford men are all employes of a fast-food chain owned by William F. Grant, 34, of East Hartford, a man police say is linked to a kingpin of the Massachusetts Cosa Nostra.
Grant was arrested in March on seven counts of illegal gambling. Police describe him as the overseer of an illegal sports-betting operation in Connecticut which did more than $20,000 worth of business during the two-day wiretap.

Task force prosecutor Austin McGuigan said in Common Pleas Court 12 here in March that Grant had met several times with reputed Massachusetts mobster Francesco "Skiball" Scibelli who has allegedly mediated many disputes between Connecticut's illegal bookmakers.

Scibelli is serving an 18-month sentence in a federal penitentiary for illegal gambling and conspiracy.
All but Mazzarella were released on written promises to appear in court here June 6. Mazzarella was released on a $1,500 nonsurety bond.

Director requests budget analysis

Republican Director Carl Zinsser has called on Town Manager Robert Weiss to provide an in-depth analysis of the proposed budget for next year to see if the revenue estimates are inflated and if services will be cut back.
In a letter to Weiss, Zinsser says he is concerned over the layoff of four highway department employes and talk of layoffs in other departments.
He says he wants the report for June 7 directors meeting.
Weiss has said he will report at the June meeting on spending plans for each department, possible layoffs, and revenue projections.

Weiss has asked department heads to report by Monday on their spending plans for the next fiscal year.
Zinsser has contended that the town's estimate of 98.5 per cent for collection of taxes is unrealistic. Collector of Revenue James Turek says it can be met.
The $24.8 million budget calls for tax increase mills. It anticipates $1.5 million in revenue beyond the amount anticipated by Weiss.
Democratic directors say their revenue estimates are based on sound information about sources of grants, some of which came into existence after Weiss completed his budget recommendation.

Manchester police report

David J. Swanson, 22, of East Hartford, was being held today at Manchester Police Headquarters in lieu of $500 bond on charges of two counts of third-degree larceny. Swanson was arrested Friday night on a warrant. The charges are in connection with two thefts from the display window at Marlow's store on Main St. A portable television set was stolen on Jan. 15 and an electric typewriter was stolen on April 14.
Angelo A. Trapuzanno, 32, of 437 Center St., was arrested on a warrant and charged with third-degree assault in connection with an incident on Forest St. on May 1 in which a woman was injured. He was released on a $250 nonsurety bond for court June 6.
Other arrests Friday night or early today included:
Bruce L. Eidson, 19, of Vernon, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, failure to obey a control signal and failure to drive right. A court date of May 24 was set.

Patrick McCann, 18, of 149 School St., charged with operating without a motorcycle license and misuse of plates and scheduled for court May 31.
Kenneth E. Trudeau, 23, of 71 Jarvis Rd., charged with operating a motor vehicle with a suspended license. He was scheduled for court May 24.
A tool shed on Woodbridge St. was broken into in the past week and welding materials and other items were stolen, police said.
About $100 in photographic equipment was reported stolen from a car Friday afternoon, when parked in the parking lot of Manchester Community College on Hartford Rd. or at Main and Pearl Sts.

Town sends out back tax notices

In an effort to collect delinquent taxes before the usual late June rush, the Collector of Revenue's office is sending notifications now to about 350 individuals and corporations.
As of April 30, the town had $425,000 in outstanding real estate taxes, according to James Turek, collector of revenue. The amount is "substantially above" delinquent amounts in previous years, Turek said.
The past due notices are normally sent out June 1 for payment by June 30, the last day of the town's fiscal year. Many of the delinquent taxpayers wait until 3:30 p.m. on that day, causing problems in collection and in making out the liens, which have to be processed in the Town Clerk's office.

Turek said the early notices are asking for payment by May 31.
The back taxes are a combination of late first and second installments for the current year. The delinquent taxpayers include many large corporations in town, Turek said.
Expected tax revenue for the year is $15,947,477.
Part of the notices were sent out Friday and the rest will be mailed

Hospital held guilty of unfair labor tactic

HARTFORD (UPI) — A federal judge has ruled Windham Community Memorial Hospital guilty of unfair labor practices for refusing to bargain with striking nurses last year.
A National Labor Relations Board judge Friday ruled the hospital's refusal to bargain with a lawfully authorized union violated federal labor laws and said the "strikers are entitled to reinstatement."
The nurses' strike by the 72-member Connecticut Nurses Association Unit 62, which began April 21, 1976, was the first of its kind in Connecticut.
Of the 57 members of the bargaining unit who went on strike, six resigned and nine returned to work. During the strike, the hospital hired 42 replacements who worked through Aug. 23.
The union on Aug. 23 requested a resumption of talks but hospital officials refused, claiming the unit no longer represented the nursing employees and because of unresolved issues, "didn't feel it would be prudent to continue the discussions."

Administrative Law Judge James L. Rose ruled that "dissatisfaction with the course of bargaining is not grounds for withdrawing recognition."
Briefcase stolen
Mrs. Carol Kuehl of Manchester, a photographer, reported someone stole a briefcase out of her car parked on Pearl St. Friday about 4:30 p.m.
She had parked the car there for about 10 minutes as she went into the Nassiff Camera store on Main St. On her return, one of her two briefcases with much photography gear was missing.
Much of the material was irreplaceable, she said. It included negatives and contact sheets. She asked that anyone who comes across the briefcase leave it at the Municipal Building for her.

Man hurt in crash

New London man was injured in a two-car accident at Spruce and Wells Sts. about 2 a.m. today.
Clarence F. Reynolds, 22, suffered multiple injuries but was reported in satisfactory condition at Hartford Hospital this morning. Reynolds was transported by the Manchester Ambulance Service to Manchester Memorial Hospital and later to Hartford.
Police said Reynolds car was traveling west on Wells St., went through a stop sign and was struck broadside in the intersection by a car driven by Robert E. Dunfield, 32, of 145 School St. Dunfield was not taken to the hospital.
Reynolds car continued into a parked car, some bushes and a sign. The parked vehicle, owned by Ilse M. Gyokeri, of 97 Wells St. received only minor damage.
Reynolds car was demolished and Dunfield's was towed from the scene, police reported.
Reynolds was charged with reckless driving. Dunfield was cited for operating without a license.

Tax break law signed

Legislation that permits the Town of Manchester to fix a tax ceiling of 25 cents per square foot for the next seven years on the property of the J.C. Penney Co. has been signed by Gov. Ella Grasso.
The law extends to towns with a population of more than 38,000 the right to make tax agreements as a means of developing industrial parks. The right had been limited to towns of more than 80,000.
Penney is the major tenant in a proposed town industrial park which is having a couple of legal hurdles before it can be developed.

Town Manager Robert Weiss said the 25-cent figure was negotiated with Penney on the basis of the town's estimated 1980 tax rate and tax value of a Penney center in Columbus, Ohio, similar to the one it plans here.
The assessment will result in $500,000 in real estate tax revenue. An equal amount is expected in personal property tax on inventory.

East Hartford police news

Mrs. Carol Silber, 27, of 541 Burnside Ave., East Hartford was arrested Friday on a court warrant charging her with reckless endangerment and first-degree arson (three counts).
The charges stem from recent incidents which took place along Burnside Ave., police said.
She appeared in Common Pleas Court 12 here Friday where she was released on her promise to appear in court again soon. The date was not available this morning.
Stephen Chmura Jr., 34, of 216 Main St., East Hartford was arrested Friday and charged with risk of injury to a minor. The charge stems from a complaint involving his own child, police said. He was released on his promise to appear in court here June 6.
Tim Coffey, 16, of 55 Concord St., East Hartford was arrested Friday afternoon at East Hartford High School and charged with third-degree assault (two counts). The charges stem from a disturbance he allegedly caused at the school. He was released to his father for court appearance June 6.

Joel Tomlinson, 16, of 31 Farm Dr., East Hartford was arrested Friday about 10:15 p.m. and charged with third-degree criminal trespass.
Tomlinson was allegedly prowling around a home in the 700 block of Tolland St. when he met a resident and knocked his glasses off, police said.
He is scheduled to appear in court here June 6.

'Adeline' is an enjoyable mish-mash

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Beginning its 101st year, the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam has opened the 1977 season with a revival of the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein musical, "Sweet Adeline."

The show opened in 1929 on Broadway to glowing reviews, but its longevity was doomed by the Wall Street crash.

Although Jerome Kern is credited with saying that "Sweet Adeline" was the "easiest and pleasantest musical I have ever been associated with," it is a kind of mish-mash of songs and scenes, many of which are loosely associated with the story.

The story is about a beer garden waitress in Hoboken who yearns to go on the stage. She is discovered and eventually gets fame and fortune on Broadway. In addition to her growing popularity as a star, Adeline also loves and loses.

In the original show, Helen Morgan starred and made famous the act of singing seated on top of the piano. The song that originated with the act was "Why Was I Born."

"Sweet Adeline" opens brightly enough with a rousing company dance in Schmidt's Beer Garden to a Kern-arranged "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." From there, the play gets tangled in a series of solo and ensemble numbers which serve no other purpose than to introduce several members of the cast. The music is bouncy, and leaves little lasting impression. A song sung by Addie and her father, "'Twas Not so Long Ago," is particularly lovely, however.

The second of the two-act show is the more colorful and solid as far as the story goes. Kern has written a classic male choral arrangement of "Some Girl is on Your Mind," a song sung by formally dressed men in the cast in the very elegant Hoffman House bar. The girls in the second act are gorgeously gowned and it is a lovely display of refined gracefulness as the ladies and gentlemen dance.

Cynthia Wells, who also starred last year in "Very Good Eddie," is a very sweet Adeline with a voice to match, which sometimes isn't clear in her lower register.

Cynthia Wells sings "Why Was I Born" from atop the piano, accompanied by Doyle Newberry, in a scene from "Sweet Adeline" at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam. Ms. Wells plays the title role.

Playing Tom, her hometown boyfriend, Scott Stevensen complicates their relationship when he falls in love with Addie's sister. In love with Addie is Sid Barnett, played by Doyle Newberry, who accompanies Miss Wells in her night club acts.

Adding the spice to "Sweet Adeline" that she adds to any show she's in, Travis Hudson plays Lulu, a seasoned second-rate performer who tries to pretend otherwise. She sparks the show with a couple of catchy numbers called "My Husband's First Wife" and "Indestructible Kate."

Although the musical leaves something to be desired, it is enjoyable. In fact, any show seen at Goodspeed is only a part of a whole experience — being in a wedding cake-like theater created in the Victorian era, set on the bank of the Connecticut River with fascinating little shops nearby. "Sweet Adeline" continues through June 18.

Dinner theaters

At Chateau de Ville Dinner Theatre in East Windsor, "Gigi" is billed through May 22.

The Rodgers and Hart musical, "Pal

Joey," is playing at the Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor through June 5.

Another musical favorite, "Oklahoma," is being presented through May 22 at the Pine Brook Dinner Theatre in Higginum.

Dance, etc., at RAW

Tonight at 8:30 p.m. at Real Art Ways, 197 Asylum St. in Hartford, Dana Rietz presents a solo dance premiere.

Friday at 8:30 p.m., Jack Powers, poet, reads an original work with three musicians from the Boston Bookstore/Gallery Avant-Garde series.

May 21 at 8:30 p.m., Malcolm Goldstein presents a program in words, sounds and images. For information, call 525-5521.

Symphony in cathedral

A matinee concert will be given by the Hartford Symphony Orchestra Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Hartford. Music Director Arthur Winograd will conduct works by Rossini, Saint-Saens, Mozart and Tchaikovsky.

As special guest artist, 16-year-old Nai-Yuan Hu has been invited to perform the Violin Concert No. 3 by Saint-Saens.

Reservations may be made by calling the Hartford Symphony office at 278-1450. Senior citizen groups are asked to make reservations.

West Bank concert

The West Bank Singers with soloists and orchestra will present a concert tonight at 8:15 at Trinity Episcopal Church, 120 Sigourney St., Hartford. Works to be heard include Schubert's "Mass No. 3 in B flat" and Ives' "The Celestial Country." For further information, call 633-8400 or 561-3429.

Tolland County art

The Tolland County Art Association will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Lottie Fisk Building, Henry Park, Rockville, and will feature a still-life set-up contest and a variety of model activities from the Tuesday workshops.

There will also be a film, "Illustrators 17," donated by Strathmore Paper Co. It is a representation of more than 100 paintings, drawings, assemblages and sculptures in contemporary American art, judged by the Society of Illustrators at the National Exhibition in New York City.

The display of work done at the workshops will feature various media and technical procedures will be demonstrated. Woodcut printing and canvas stretching will be featured. Participants in the Tuesday afternoon drawing classes will exhibit their figure drawings.

Judge for the still-life contest will be Estelle Laschever.

The "Picture of the Month" will be chosen and a slide show will be presented by association members will be continuous throughout the evening.

Art shows

At University of Connecticut in Storrs, there are special exhibits on display at the William Benton Museum of Art through May 29, and the Jorgensen Gallery through May 22.

Maritime prints by Currier and Ives will be exhibited through the summer in the R.J. Schaefer Building at Mystic Seaport, Mystic. The exhibit is free. For further information, contact Public Affairs, Mystic Seaport, 536-2631, extension 318.

The Stairwell Gallery at Manchester Community College, 146 Hartford Rd., is featuring an all-media exhibition by MCC students.

Weekend

Weekend, an entertainment and television supplement, is published each Saturday by The Manchester Evening Herald, Herald Square, Manchester, Conn. 06040.

Talcott House Museum to reopen

The Talcott House Museum at 68 Prospect St., Rockville, will reopen Tuesday.

Maintained by the Vernon Historical Society, the museum will be open from 2 to 4 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday until Nov. 1. There will be additional open hours on Saturdays in July only. Because the space is limited, only part of the society's possessions are on view at any one time.

The theme of this year's all-new exhibits is "Vernon's Victorian Arts," featuring the cultural events and handicrafts that were leisure activities at the turn of the century.

The women's exhibit shows crocheting, knitting, tatting, lacemaking, embroidery, Berlin work, dressmaking, china painting and beadwork. The men's exhibit shows photography, chirography, whittling and tailoring.

There is a quilt made of scraps of Hockanum woolens by Hoffman the tailor, and a lace-making pillow with a piece of bobbin-lace in progress.

There is a display of musical instruments and programs of long-age concerts, balls, banquets, and fairs; and postcards views of the town, parks and Snipsic Lake.

A mannequin models a beaded dress owned by Mrs. George Sykes, and two little boys wear "Little Lord Fauntleroy" velvet suits owned by James and Roland Taylor.

In recognition that the phonograph was invented 100 years ago this year, there is an antique victrola and a model of Little Nipper, the dog who made "His Master's Voice" a famous slogan.

The society offers guided tours of the museum and the center of Rockville for children's groups. Arrangements may be made by calling Mrs. Thomas H. Connell.

'Alice' in ballet

The children's classic, "Alice in Wonderland," will be presented in an original dance-theater production by the Hartford Junior Ballet Sunday at 1 and 3 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center, West Hartford.

The dance-drama is performed to select music by Dmitri Shostakovich and choreographed by Enid Lynn, director of the Hartford Junior Ballet. For information, call 525-9396.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Hugh O'Brian played on the TV show, McHale's Navy? D.C., Aberdeen, Wash. No, he didn't. He was on Wyatt Earp for a long time, but was not one of the McHale's Navy gang.

DEAR DICK: I have a bet riding on this question, did Angie Dickinson play the part of the lady gambler in the movie, "Rio Bravo"? DUBB SKINNER, Hale, Mich.

DEAR DICK: I always liked Patty Duke. Two of my sisters say she played The Flying Nun. I said that was a different girl. Who is right? DENNIS PALMATIER, Williamsport, Pa. You are. It was Sally Field who was the winged nun.

About books: Capitalizing on Carter

By CAROL FALSENTHAL

Recent news out of Washington has been so outlandish that political novels sometimes read like straight reportage and straight reportage reads like the stuff out of which novels are made.

Lawrence Meyer, author of "A Capital Crime," covered Watergate for the Washington Post. Rather than add a non-fiction account of that incredible episode to the already-published pile of analyses, Meyer has turned his insider's knowledge of how Washington journalists and politicians work into a mesmerizing mystery.

The novel opens four months before the start of the Democratic convention, with the discovery of the body of powerful investigative columnist Les Painter stuffed into a Capital manhole. The number of suspects — politicians particularly — is tremendous. Painter, a Jack Anderson-like character, wrote an extremely influential syndicated column; the kind of column that regularly made and unmade political careers.

Reporter Tony Jordan inadvertently lands hot on the trail of Painter's murderer. Jordan, a reluctant hero at best, is a realistically rendered reporter who sometimes cares more about getting home on time than getting the big scoop. He is a writer who finds writing pure agony and so finds every possible excuse to postpone his confrontation with a typewriter and a blank piece of paper.

The novel is ingeniously plotted and the climax — the most outrageous news conference this side of the Nixon administration — is a gem. But "A Capital Crime" offers much more than suspense. Meyer's insight into what makes politicians run, his descriptions of the clubby atmosphere of the Senate, and his grasp of the nuances of political doubletalk are top-rate. One senator, trying to hide his ignorance of an impending bill, says "We're still studying it, going through it carefully to study all the parameters of the thing. I'm getting input from a lot of sources."

- HOW JIMMY WON by Kandy Stroud (Morrow, 442 pages, $10.95.)

Meyer's portrait of the Democratic nominee for president is also beautifully drawn. Philip Higgins is an anti-Washington, Jimmy Carter-type; a man the political pundits refuse to take seriously until his evangelical fervor starts winning him primaries. Higgins boasts that his campaign is being financed with "the small change of America" and preaches, "it's time that we turn the country back to the people who made it great." To Jordan, both assertions ring false.

Best of all is cynical, wise-talking Tony Jordan. Woodward and Bernstein may be today's hero reporters. Jordan has the making of tomorrows.

"The National Anthem" is an interesting attempt to knock journalists off the pedestal built by Woodward and Bernstein and supported by such signs of the times as a new television series featuring an investigative reporter. Author Barbara Raskin's sometimes too-strident point is that journalists are no better than the politicians they cover and, in fact, are more devoted to hobnobbing with politicians and getting invited to the "right" Georgetown parties than reporting, much less uncovering, the news. The novel opens in the summer of '73 as reporters converge upon Washington to cover the Watergate hearings. Unfortunately, Raskin's huge cast of characters is reduced to a vehicle for carrying her message: The incestuous relationship between politicians and journalists is a national disaster.

Still Raskin writes well and some of her scenes are hilariously accurate — particularly a description of a party, thrown by the editor of a national news magazine, in honor of all those who made the Nixon enemies list. The guests were "surveying the star-studded landscape to select special targets, assiduously avoiding lesser luminaries who were only friends of named enemies."

While "How Jimmy Won" is a good nonfiction account of the Carter campaign, some of its glut of detail could provide the inspiration for a dozen fantastic novels.

Kandy Stroud, former Washington correspondent for Women's Wear Daily, has compiled, sometimes haphazardly, the mass of notes and impressions gathered during two years of covering Carter, his staff, his family and his neighbors.

Although she fails to keep the promise of her title and also fails to catch Carter off stage and unguarded, she does provide the best portrait yet of the President. Focusing on his paradoxical personality, she gives examples galore of Carter's vanity, humility, soft-heartedness, ruthlessness, bad temper under pressure, patience with children.

Some of Stroud's most titillating observations are of the President's staff — average age 26 — whom she divides into Georgia gentlemen and "hell-raisers," the latter enjoying the most influence with Carter. While puzzling over their appeal to the sexually-morally straight President, she relates how, during the campaign staffers gave female reporters inside information in exchange for sexual favors. "They lusted after women with more than their hearts," Stroud concludes.

Togo stamps feature classic autos

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

The world's most unlikely place to issue stamps on classic automobiles would be Togo — and here they are.

England is represented by a Sunbeam, 1904, and a Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost, 1909. The reason for the set is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Louis Renault, "France's most famous automobile designer and manufacturer." That country's contribution to the "Retrospective voitures automobiles" is the De Dion Bouton of 1903 and, most important, the 1908 Renault. There was a car you could sit up straight in, and get out of gracefully.

The stamps are in multicolor, printed by offset. There is also a souvenir sheet showing the Renault and the Silver Ghost plus Thomas Rickett's steam car. There is nothing from the United States — our Stanley Steamer could have run with the best of them, once it got started.

Togo is said to be a memento of the 19th century scramble for pieces of Africa. Any unclaimed coastline was subject to a landing and exploration, and this area went to the Germans. They had it from 1897 to WWI. It was shared by France and Britain until 1946; it became full-fledged and a member of the UN in 1960.

It can be found, with some searching, on the underside of Africa's bay window, between Dahomey and Ghana. The coastline is only 30 miles wide. The country extends 375 miles inland and supports two million people. The language is French and tribal.

Exports are phosphates and the four Cs: Coffee, cacao, cotton and copra. There are good roads and railways and several airports. Tourists are welcomed for big-game hunting.

There is just one large city and seaport — Lome, the capital, which has been described as "somnolent." (pop. 100,000).

Scott's latest catalog lists 936 regular postage stamps and nearly 300 airmails. The very first stamps had a picture of the Kaiser's yacht, the Hohenzollern. Then there were French and British Occupation stamps in 1914 through 1916.

Decreases, too

Overprint values can go down as well as up. Linn's has a story of the Ryukyu Coca-Cola disaster issue, so-called, when nearly two million of the three-cent coral tree flower stamps (Scott No. 99) were run through the presses to revalue them to half-centers (No. 190).

There was a Coca-Cola advertising campaign in the Ryukyus in 1969 that called for cards to be sent in for a lottery drawing. They took one and a half cents postage and this denomination was sold out in no time. Then the halves were used up and they went to repricing the threes. This didn't do much good as collectors started stashing away the overprints to look for varieties and errors.

River post

The Rocky Hill-Glastonbury Ferry, the oldest in the United States, will put out local post labels for the third year. Twelve cents will give your letter a ride across the wide Connecticut in either direction — but it will also require one of the USPS adhesives, making it a quarter in all.

The ferry has carried, 12,000 pieces in the past two years. Proceeds are for a good cause — the enhancement of the Rocky Hill Fife and Drum Corps. FDCs are 40 cents or two for 75 cents; sheets of 25 labels, $3. Address: FLP, Box 1655, Rocky Hill, CT. 06067.

Pioneer CBer recalls the good old days

By INK DIPPER

Ever wonder what it was like for the CBer of 20 years ago? I have, because I'm really a newcomer, only at it for about four years.

The other day I had the good fortune to meet Charles "Big Sarge" Bennett from Hattiesburg, Miss. "Big Sarge" was a CB buff back when, and it was good listening to hear him talk about what it was like when there were only a few thousand CBers in the whole country.

"My first license was 8Q-0093," he said. "That means I was the 93rd licensee in the FCC's eighth region which takes up Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana. And that was 1960."

There were so few CBers around then, according to "Big Sarge," that his long whip antenna caused him to be mistaken for a highway patrolman constantly. Eighteen wheelers lightened up on the pedals when they saw the big whip swishing in the winds in their rear view mirrors. All sets had tubes because there were no transistorized units or printed circuits.

"For a base antenna, all you could get was a ground plane," he recalled. "No beams. Of course, there were a few of us who made our own rigs. You can't do that now, but it was legal then. You just had to have FCC approval for your design, and several magazines published schematics."

Bennett had a home-built transmitter for his mobile rig. He used a converter running through his AM radio. The relay device to connect the transmitter and receiver was half as big as his transmitter, as he remembers it. He had salvaged the device from a defunct pinball machine.

"For my base station I used a home-made transmitter with a Lafayette HE-10," he explained. "If I made a mistake on switches and threw the squelch on the receiver, the feedback was enough to run me out of the house."

Television interference was common then, and Bennett was accused of messing up everything from "The Jackie Gleason Show" to burning out a neighbor's steam iron.

Bennett says he drifted out of CB in the mid-1960s and didn't come back into it until this past year when he bought a little Lafayette HB-23B.

"It's a whole new world," he said, looking somewhat nostalgic. "In the old days a beaver was a small furry animal that cut down trees with its teeth and Smokey the Bear warned you about lighting matches in the forest."

"There's a lack of courtesy, too, on the channels that makes me uncertain about putting a base unit in my home," he added. "I've heard swearing and even dirty jokes that I don't think I'd tell a friend."

He does find it encouraging that the CB population has grown so large and that emergency organizations like REACT and ALERT, the Civil Air Patrol and law enforcement officers are into it now.

TV for 1977-78: Comedy in, cops out

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fall 1977-78 television season presents ABC playing for laughs, NBC showing regularly scheduled specials and CBS offering something old, something new, something borrowed but nothing blue.

Comedy is in, cops appear on the way out, science fiction and fantasy are making a comeback, as is the western, and the audience can expect regular preemptions from all three networks to accommodate their blockbuster movies, one shot specials and mini-series.

The fantasy-science fiction is designed to appeal to the younger set.

Here's how the schedule looks on a night by night basis, always subject to revisions as the networks jockey for position, using Eastern time throughout:

Sunday: The adults can watch CBS' "60 Minutes" from 7-8 p.m., if they can get the kids away from NBC's "Disney" and ABC's "Hardy Boys-Nancy Drew." CBS and NBC go for sitcoms from 8-9 — "Off The Wall" and "CPO Sharkey" for NBC, "Rhoda" and "On Our Own" for CBS. ABC goes with "Six Million Dollar Man." From 9-11 ABC will show movies, NBC's two-hour "Big Event" will include segments of several serialized dramas and part of "Godfather's Father," which is both "Godfather" films plus some footage not included in the theatrical movies. CBS offers "All In The Family" and "Alice" from 9-10, "Kojak" from 10-11 p.m.

Monday: It's kidvid time from 8-9 p.m., with NBC's standby "Little House on the Prairie" up against CBS' equally old-timey newcomer "Dan'l Boone" and ABC's new "San Pedro Bums." From then on CBS presents a pair of sitcoms — the new "Betty White Show" and returning "Maude," and Patrick McGeehan as a dedicated doctor in "Rafferty" from 10-11. ABC offers NFL Football, while NBC goes to the movies, often with a continuation of Sunday night's "Big Event."

Tuesday: From 8-9 the shows to beat are ABC's "Happy Days" and "Laverne & Shirley." CBS will try with an hour of blue-collar comedy-drama in "The Fitzpatricks," while NBC goes sci-fi with "Man From Atlan-ti." CBS has proven winners from 9-10 with "M-A-SH" and "One Day At A Time," challenged by a pair of sitcoms from ABC, "Three's Company" and the spoof "Soap." NBC offers "Big Hawaii." From 10-11 CBS might have a winner with "The Ed Asner Show" against ABC's popular "Family" and NBC's "Police Woman."

Wednesday: The 8-9 spot is hard to call, with NBC's "Grizzly Adams" against ABC's "Eight Is Enough" and CBS's pair, "Good Times" and "Busting Loose." NBC stays Western from 9-10 with "Oregon Trail," ABC offers a different kind of scenery in "Charlie's Angels" and CBS goes to the movies. Lawyers "Rosetti and Ryan" on NBC battle ABC's cop "Baretta" from 10-11 p.m.

Thursday: NBC starts off with a light-hearted look at the highway patrol in "Chips" from 8-9, while CBS sticks with "The Waltons" and ABC presents "Welcome Back, Kotter" and "What's Happening." NBC offers something new in comedian Richard Pryor from 9-10, while CBS has Hawaii 5-0 and ABC presents "Barney Miller" and the new "Carter Country," which should have a new title by fall. Redd Foxx is the newcomer on ABC at 10, while CBS sticks with "Barnaby Jones" and NBC offers the new "What Really Happened to the Class of '65."

Friday: CBS offers an ABC discard, "Wonder Woman," from 8-9, while ABC goes with "Donnie and Marie" and NBC hopes two of its old standbys can get by without their stars — "Sanford Arms" renamed from "Sanford and Son" and without Redd Foxx, and "Chico and the Man," with the same name but without Freddy Prinze as Chico. From 9-10 its sci-fi with "Logan's Run" on CBS, a movie on ABC and "Rockford File" on NBC. "Quincy" on NBC and "Switch" on CBS complete the night.

Saturday: NBC will try "Bionic Woman" from 8-9, competing with Bob Newhart and "We've Got Each Other" on CBS, and "Fish" and "Operation Petticoat" on ABC. It will be movie time on NBC next, including Hitchcock's "Family Plot" and segments of mini-series. CBS will follow "The Jeffersons" with its ABC cast-off, "The Tony Randall Show," while ABC stays with "Starsky and Hutch." The evening ends with Carol Burnett on CBS and "Love Boat," starring Gavin MacLeod, on ABC.
