

Students recognized

Five Manchester students will be awarded certificates of recognition by the Sales and Marketing Executives of Hartford, Inc. at its annual education and career development night Wednesday at the Hartford Club.

The winning students are Richard Pezullo, Manchester Community College, and Michael Lowry, June Gould, Joan Goulet and Robert Johnson, all of Manchester High School.

The awards are given annually to outstanding junior college and high school students showing unusual promise in the field of marketing.

The students are selected on the basis of performance in competitive events that involve selling situations such as apparel merchandising, food service, petroleum marketing and food industry marketing.

Working with SME professional advisors, the students compete in the 1977 State Distributive Education Career Development Conference.

Carvel Corporation and the local Carvel dealer has announced registration for the 1977 Little Miss Half Pint Pageant now through June 5 at your local participating Carvel store.

All girls between the ages of 2-5 are eligible. Little Miss Half Pint is a yearly national search for a half pint to hold the title and represent the company throughout the year.

Following the registration period balloting will be held in local stores and semi finalists selected.

Local semi finals will be held during the summer months and 30 youngsters will be selected to advance to the finals in October in New York City.

Little Miss Half Pint and her court will, as a grand prize, be featured on the Little Miss Half Pint float in the Orange Bowl Parade, New Year's Eve on Miami Beach.

Award made at luncheon

Employees of Colonial Fiber of Manchester, a unit of Lydall, Inc., were honored recently at an awards luncheon at the Steak Out in Talcottville.

Leonard R. Jaskol, division manager of Colonial Fiber and chairman of Lydall's newly formed Central Safety Committee, presented certificates of completion for a company-sponsored Safety Training Observation Program (STOP) to 38 of its Manchester employees.

Besides the certificates, each employee who completed the course received a first-aid kit. Kerr & Faulkner Associates, Connecticut-based safety consultants, have been conducting the program for the past two months at all Manchester supervisors who, in turn, will implement what they have learned in their various departments.

Lydall, Inc. is a $33 million company with seven operating plants located in Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire, Indiana and Tennessee.

Band shell dedication set

Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell, located on the campus of Manchester Community College (MCC) off Wetherell St., will be dedicated Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m. The ceremonies will be open to the public free of charge.

In the first hour and one-quarter, entertainment will be provided by "Friends and Neighbors of Manchester," an assemblage of 14 vocal, instrumental and dance groups from the town.

At 3:15, the dedication ceremony will begin with Nathan Agostinelli and Rep. Francis J. Mahoney as masters of ceremony. A pledge to the flag will be made, followed by a presentation of the colors by Dilworth-Quey Post, of the American Legion. The invocation will be given by Rev. Dr. James D. MacLaughlin of the Second Congregational Church.

At the heart of the ceremony will be the unveiling of two memorial plaques. Dignitaries attending the unveiling will include Mayor Matthew Moriarty Jr., Town Manager Robert Weiss, Dr. Ronald Denison, MCC president, Searle F. Charles, community college executive director, William Sleith, band shell site selection committee and special gifts chairman; George "Ted" LaBonne, band shell fund drive chairman; Ralph MacCarone, band shell coordinator.

One plaque bears the names of individuals or businesses who have contributed special gifts in excess of $250 to the band shell project. The other plaque displays the names of individuals and others qualified as sponsors of the project, having contributed gifts of $100 or more. There will be room to add names of future contributors. The plaques, both about two feet high, will be mounted inside the building and will face each other from opposite ends. The plaques will be put in place shortly after the dedication ceremony.

The half-hour ceremony will end with everyone singing "God Bless America." After the ceremony, the "Friends and Neighbors of Manchester" will again provide entertainment.

The band shell was planned a family-oriented entertainment center for residents of Manchester and neighboring towns. It will be used for the first time on Sunday, June 5, when Manchester Community College will graduate approximately 750 students in a commencement ceremony.

Opinion

Business education

College students continue to regard big business with a jaundiced eye, if the results of a survey on one campus can be considered representative.

In a survey of more than 500 undergraduates at Kent State University recently, large companies were ranked lowest in trust by 50 per cent of the students, out of 14 institutions listed.

The finding is fairly consistent with previous polls, says Edward C. Logelin, professor of business administration, who has conducted six of them in the past two years.

One of the major misconceptions about big business still held by students concerns average corporate profits. While a 4 to 5 per cent profit is the average for most companies, 25 per cent of the students surveyed believed that it was 6 to 10 per cent, and nearly one of every seven thought it was in excess of 30 per cent.

But it is the lack of trust in big business that bothers Logelin the most, and one of the reasons for it, he suggests, may be due to the "remoteness" of students from large firms. "Students are not familiar with business;

they are mystery."

Public education programs by business, especially in the universities, are the only way to correct false impressions, he says. It cannot be done by advertising or sloganeering, however, because half of the students surveyed at Kent didn't place much trust in advertising, either.

"Business has got to start a dialogue on the campus," says Logelin. This approach is vital because an "antibusiness attitude" has been entrenched on campuses for more than 50 years, and it has steadily increased because business had done little counter it.

An important target within the campus community should be the colleges of education. Their majors, who will teach the next generation of students, seem to have the worst misconceptions of all, says Logelin.

Some companies are providing economics courses for high school teachers, but more needs to be done by business to increase public understanding of the free enterprise system, he says.

"If the public has a misunderstanding, it's not the public's fault."

Region's economic lag

The Northeast section of the country may be withering on the economic vine, but it is a long way from falling off the tree.

The Northeast, which stretches from Maine to Washington, D.C., is still the national leader in personal income, according to an analysis by The Conference Board, the business-supported research organization. The region's sluggish economic growth does give cause for concern, however.

Personal income growth in the Northeast's large metropolitan areas was considerably under the national average between 1969 and 1974. Their share of U.S. personal income declined from 25.9 per cent to 24.2 per cent during this period. If present trends con-time, this share will fall to 20.1 per cent by 1990.

Real personal income in the New York metropolitan area, traditionally the Northeast's pacesetter, has barely grown in recent years. It rose one-tenth of one per cent between 1969 and 1974, compared with a 12 per cent gain for the nation as a whole. New York's particular dilemma has not been in losing firms, but in failing to create new ones to take their place.

The Northeast still has a lot going for it in terms of expanding markets and new investment opportunities. But the problem is not likely to be solved, says the analysis, until the region "recreates that previous environment which spurred the creation of innovative businesses."

Thought

"If the world should stop revolving, spinning slowly down to die" sadly wails the sweet-rock song of the early '70's. "It" is the world a huge watch-like mechanism as the Deists of the 18th century believed with God wound up and simply walked away? No, God has been involved all the way along and it was man who put creation to its death throes.

When man fell, creation fell. When we decided that we wanted to be God, to control things in our own way, this disobedience spilled out and spread to every creature and every environment we came in contact with from then on. Man came in conflict with man, man came in conflict with his environment. We sent people and our natural environment up to suit our needs, to be fashioned into our own image instead of allowing them or it to be fulfilled, to grow as the Creator intended it. If the apple is there, eat of it. This is the distorted view of life which we have held since time began. This is sin.

In the fullness of time, after God tried to woo us back to Himself to our true selves as His image-bearers and His stewards, He sent His Son to put a halt to this distortion. Because of the life, passion, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, there is hope for creation because there is at last hope for its stewards. The wheels of self destruction that the fall set into motion came to a halt in Good Friday and were reversed on Easter. The impossible possibility of renewal, recreation, redemption was set free because we were and are set free because of Him.

ADA a thorn in President Carter's side

WASHINGTON — His articulate idolaters to the contrary notwithstanding, John Kennedy was not always right. Jimmy Carter has found that Kennedy was as wrong as possible when, during the 1960 campaign, he dismissed the liberal Americans for Democratic Action as "on their last legs."

I don't know how many votes the ADA can deliver. It did not deliver enough primary votes to deprive Carter of the Democratic Presidential nomination last year. But the ADA is still in there swinging, and it has just enough influence to make Carter's life in the White House miserable.

McGovern charges
At the organization's 30th anniversary meeting here, Sen. George McGovern, ADA's president, discarded the politeness of politics and accused Carter of abandoning campaign promises because he was afraid of Big Business and too mindful of his image. McGovern was especially scornful of Carter's retreat in the field of social programs — health care, welfare reform and tax cuts for individuals.

And, of course, it was on those issues that Carter campaigned. Now his "retreats" from the President's original economic plan have reduced it from $16 billion to $4 billion this year. At the same time, he has done nothing to redeem his pledge that he would cut defense spending $5 billion during his first year in office.

Still true
John Kennedy remarked acerbically that "ADA has lost the capacity to help a President." That's probably so today; most polls show the voters are becoming more conservative. But as a minority President — Gerald Ford would have been elected had he carried one more big state — Carter doesn't need any more enemies.

Andrew Tully

That's why House Speaker Tip O'Neill and Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors hurried to Carter's defense. Both realize the ADA could whittle away at Carter's strength in Congress, for the simple reason that the ADA's platform is traditional, basic Democratic policy. But both O'Neill and Schultze sounded defensive.

ADA called unfair
O'Neill pleaded for more time. "I think it's very unfair to make a judgment when a man's only been President for 100 days," he told an ABC talk show. "I don't think Carter is going to leave the principles and philosophies and the ideals of the Democratic Party whatsoever."

Schultze, too, could offer only a denial. "I don't believe there's been a move away from the administration's position," he told a CBS audience. He rejected McGovern's charge that Carter is too fiscally conservative, adding,

George McGovern and the ADA couldn't care less. Their sole function is to campaign for more government handouts, and to cry as McGovern did, that Carter is trying to "balance the budget on the backs of the poor, the hungry and the jobless." That's swell rhetoric. And the ADA will be ready with some more juicy language if government spending boosts the price of hot dogs another 10 cents a pound.

Ralph Nader vs. Thomas Jefferson

Lee Roderick

Fathers, however, in a stroke of genius, substituted the "pursuit of happiness" for "property" — thus allowing every citizen such a pursuit in his or her own way.

The bill passed by the House Government Operations Committee with Nader sitting in the audience and buttonholing committee members at will, abrogates the principle of letting individual citizens decide for themselves what product or service is in their own best interests. Instead, it establishes a federal agency with a powerful administrator who theoretically would speak on behalf of all us.

$15 million bureaucracy
The $15 million-a-year bureaucracy would be authorized to intervene on behalf of consumers before most government agencies and to challenge programs and decisions in the courts. As approved by the House Committee, family farms and small businesses with assets of up to $5 million would be exempted from its provisions.

Business lobbyists obviously have been breathing fire at key members of Congress over the proposal. More persuasive testimony against the idea — because the testimony is more disinterested — comes from Leon Jaworski, who was an outstanding constitutional scholar long before he gained fame as the Special Prosecutor who helped force the resignation of Richard Nixon.

A balance needed
"The stability and effectiveness of government depends upon balance among its institutions," Jaworski wrote the House Committee from his office in Houston shortly before the vote on the bill. "Political power inadequately confined creates imbalance and invites abuse. The new Agency for Consumer Protection... would be vested with authority so broad that it could easily be turned to the political advantage of those who control it.

"There are no checks sufficient to harness that authority. Under these circumstances, creation of the new agency is unwise."
Jaworski continued: "...Who are the new agency's constituents? They are called 'consumers' as if there were a difference between a 'consumer' and a 'person.' In fact, of course, there is none. The agency will ostensibly represent the interest of every man, woman and child in this nation. Who will decide?
"This conclusion leads to the question of how the interest of the people will be determined in any given matter. There are no criteria in the bill for defining that interest, nor could there be. Definition of the national interest is the most difficult and most fundamental objective of government..."

The former president of the American Bar Association noted the "extraordinary authority" that would be conferred on the head of the new agency to "express the national interest as he defines it. The political authority inherent in such an assignment is literally enormous."
Jaworski added that such power "could be wrongfully manipulated."
Carter favors bill
"...It is contrary to the most fundamental of our democratic principles to vest in one unselected person the authority to represent, legally and politically, the interests of all of the people."
President Carter endorsed the proposal in a special message to Congress and, unlike President Ford who threatened to veto a similar bill, undoubtedly will sign it if it reaches his desk.
Mr. Carter's acquiescence, however, in no way makes the proposal more palatable. The case against such a "protection" agency is strong indeed and was summarized by Rep. John N. Erlenborn (R-Ill.) who suggested that, if the bill becomes law, "we would have people like Ralph Nader telling what we as consumers ought to want — not what we really want."
• SCRIPPS LEAGUE NEWSPAPERS 1977

Lee Roderick

WASHINGTON — Committees in both the Senate and House passed bills the other day to create an all-powered consumer protection agency. If the rest of Congress goes along — a likely prospect at this writing — it will be a victory for Ralph Nader but a defeat for Thomas Jefferson.

"I am not a friend to a very energetic government," wrote the author of the Declaration of Independence. "It is always oppressive."
To which Nader might reply: "Yes, Mr. Jefferson. But if my friends and I don't tell the people what's best for them, who will?"
Jefferson's answer
Jefferson already answered that question in writing the Declaration. Traditional rights considered "unalienable" in 1776 by other tolerant governments were "life, liberty and property." The Founding leaders who should be detached from the public trough and forced to work. Not that simple.

It's not that simple, however. Only about 150,000 of these AFDC recipients — approximately 1 per cent of the total — are able-bodied adult males who could readily accept employment.

And that leaves 3.1 million blind, aged and disabled individuals drawing welfare through the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program. Neither Carter nor anyone else contends that these people could possibly go to work.

That leaves 11.2 million recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), the group many taxpayers regard as irresponsible and "guidelines" for welfare reform did Carter so much as mention the problem of child care — although it is central to any meaningful attempt to reduce the welfare rolls.

Day care undecided
HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said the administration didn't address the day care issue because no one has yet decided how old children should be before their mothers are encouraged or required to go to work.
"The lower you make the age, the greater the increased need for day care," Califano acknowledged.
It's unlikely that Carter and Califano are feeling squeamish about requiring mothers to work. After all, 40 per cent of all American women with preschool children already work outside the home, as do 56 per cent of all mothers with school age kids.
Money?
As usual, the real explanation is m-o-n-e-y. Carter has insisted his welfare reform scheme will entail no higher initial costs than the current budget-podge of programs. But as Congress discovered a few years ago, any substantial child care program would cost a fortune — more, by far, than simply continuing welfare handouts to nonworking mothers.
Unless Carter is prepared to face up to those costs in order to restore the work ethic and break the cycle of welfare dependency, his promise of jobs for all families with children is a cruel hoax.

Several other town managers and town council leaders from the area will participate in the three workshops for the one-day symposium. The symposium will focus on major areas of concern to persons involved in or interested in council-manager government.

The symposium will conclude with an address by Dr. David E. Morrison, a psychiatrist from Topeka, Kan., who will speak on "Living with stress," as it relates to elected and appointed officials.

The symposium is sponsored by the University's Institute of Public Service and the Connecticut Town and City Managers Association.

Center Springs cleaning bids are invited

The Town of Manchester is receiving bids for cleaning Center Springs Pond. Contractors may pick up the project specifications at the Municipal Building, 41 Center St.

The bid opening will be June 1 at 11 a.m. at the general manager's office of the Municipal Building.
The project will involve a dredging operation of the east end of the pond. About 12 feet of silt has built up at the eastern third of the pond in the last three years, according to Ernest Truck, park director.
From one to six feet of material will be removed from the pond, according to the specifications.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Such a flurry of activities this past weekend. I'm exhausted but it was fun. Early Saturday morning, my daughter, Margaret and her girlfriends, Diane Miller of Bolton, and I went to Webersfield where we were helping the Manchester Civitan Club at the Special Olympics for the Retarded.

I drove the girls out and Dorothy Miller of Bolton picked them up later in the day. At noon time, I attended Civitan district luncheon at which time, Alan Girelli, a senior at Manchester High School, was being honored.

It was a very rewarding day; a little windy on the Webersfield High School field, but the sun was bright. I had never attended the annual event before and all the civic organizations involved did a super job. The participants, some on crutches, others in wheelchairs, and still others walking hand-in-hand, marched around the oval field to the accompaniment of music paraded by two bands.

Our little group had charge of the female softball participants and Margaret and Diane took to the field to catch the balls, measure the distance thrown, and fling the balls back to me. A box lunch was served at noon, and three parachutists dropped into the field for a visit. The youngsters were delighted and ran out to shake their hands.

On Saturday night, I attended the 25th anniversary dinner-dance of the Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens, Inc. (MARC) at Piano's Restaurant. Former Gov. John Dempsey was the keynote speaker and as handsome and witty as he was during the more than 40 years he has spent in the public eye.

Seated at our table were Mr. and Mrs. John McElrae (he was the first president of MARC), Violet Dion, newly-elected president of the Golden Age Club and secretary of the Sunset Club; Ada Wehmann, Mrs. McElrae's sister; Tom Pouch, an active member of the Senior Citizens; and Roger Negro's mom, Roger and Marie (he's treasurer of MARC) were seated at the head table along with Bob and Gloria Weiss; Lew Stein of the Sheltered Workshop and his missus; Ruth McElrae, toastmistress; and Bob Gorman (he's president of MARC) and his wife.

A friendly visit. Stopped in to visit Ross Beggs Sr. of Cottage St. one day last week. He had called the office and said he had some pictures of the flower gardens he used to have at his home in New Jersey more than six years ago.

Sunny Sunday. Sunday we were off to the Child & Family Services Horse Show at the Farmington Polo Grounds.

Retail trade group sets open luncheon. The Retail Trade Commission of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce will have a wide variety of day to day situations which call for creative, resourceful solutions.

Bolton budget vetoed; board won't alter it

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

Bolton residents Monday night rejected the proposed $2,426,270 budget for 1977-78 as recommended by the Board of Finance. The Town Meeting then recommended that $22,000 be restored to the Board of Education budget.

The Town Meeting vote followed by a Board of Finance decision to re-submit the same budget to a Town Meeting next week.

The vote to reject the budget was 64 to 45. Two finance board members said they considered that a message from the people, but the other members debated whether it was a vote to reject the budget or to "stack" the meeting.

Charter unit suggests poll on fire consolidation idea

Vernon

Members of the Rockville and Vernon Fire Departments are being asked to conduct a "referendum" of their own to see how their members are in favor of consolidating the departments under one chief.

Several members of Vernon fire companies and Chief Donald Maguda of the Rockville department were at Monday night's meeting of the Charter Revision Commission to discuss the make-up of the departments and the pros and cons of consolidation.

Seymour Lavitt, commission chairman, asked the men if they would conduct a referendum to give the commission a feeling as to what they want. "The vote would only be advisory to us," he said.

Lavitt said the commission would provide moderators and a monitor for the voting. Maguda said his men have already polled themselves on the question of consolidation "and the answer was 'no' right down the line."

Lloyd Eddy, a member of Vernon Co. 2, said company bylaws say the department chief of each company is in charge of all fires in his district "and that usually doesn't happen in our department." He also said the bylaws say there should be a minimum of 20 members for each piece of equipment and they don't have that either.

"I think a lot of problems would straighten out if we had a chief who would go by the bylaws," Eddy said. Lavitt, who has repeatedly said the commission is not interested in personalities, said, "We have nothing to say about that. We are just concerned with organization."

Commission member Fred McKone said the charter says each fire chief shall make rules and regulations concerning the operation of his department and the conduct of all officers and firemen thereof.

Lavitt said, "The fact is, if we consider consolidation there would have to be new bylaws."

Eddy said, "I don't see how you can vote for consolidation when you are in charge of the fire department in your district. We have two departments being run so differently. I don't think it would be a wise move at this time. I don't think we're ready for it."

Chief Maguda said it wasn't up to him to decide about consolidation. But he said he is happy doing his job as it is now.

Rockville Battalion Chief Robert Kelly said he hasn't heard of any problems in the Rockville Fire Department. "If the problem is in Vernon it's up to them to straighten it out," he said.

Other firemen said they feel there would be a lot of resignations if departments are consolidated.

Lavitt said he was talking about a paid chief but leaving the men volunteers.

Maguda said, "I don't think there's a middle of the road. If we consolidate, I think you have to have a paid department if you have a paid chief."

The questions the commission intends to put on the referendum for the departments are: Are you in favor of consolidation of the two departments under one chief? If answering 'yes' to that, would you be in favor of the chief being chosen from one of the two existing chiefs? Would you be in favor of the chief being full-time and on salary?

In South Windsor

The South Windsor Town Council Monday night voted to set the mill rate at 40 mills in place of a 1977-78 budget of $12,329,224.

The new mill rate will mean a tax increase of 1.25 mills. The 1976-77 tax rate is 38.75 mills.

The 40-mill tax rate will mean an additional $50 tax bill annually for a homeowner whose property is assessed at $40,000.

The mill rate is levied on a 70 percent assessment.

Budget set, pact tabled

Confusion surrounding union membership forced the South Windsor Town Council to table acceptance of a contract with the Civil Service Employees Affiliates.

According to Town Manager Paul Talbot, the contract request and membership membership. New employees of the town need not join the union; but those who do join members must remain members until two weeks before the contract expires.

Some residents argued the new contract called for a "closed shop." Talbot suggested the matter be tabled until clarification of the contract could be obtained. The council has 30 days to act on it.

The Civil Service Employees Affiliates is an affiliate of the Connecticut State Employees Association and covers 18 town employees.

If accepted, the contract will be retroactive to July 1, 1976.

For Coventry streets

Interim boss appointed

The Coventry Town Council appointed William Goodale as temporary street superintendent for the next three weeks. The action was taken after an executive session Monday night.

Goodale has been employed by the town for six and a half years in the town garage mechanics and as a street superintendent in that post as well as street superintendent.

William Blair resigned as street superintendent Friday after just four months on the job. Coventry has lost three street superintendents in two years.

The Town Council also authorized Town Manager Frank Connolly to obtain bids for the proposed alterations to the Town Hall.

Designs for the changes were presented Monday night.

The Town Council released $7,009 in matching road funds to lake associations. The associations getting the money were eligible because of a special act of the state legislature. They are Gerald Park, Lakeview Terrace, Oak Grove, Waterfront Manor, Waterfront Terrace and Pine Lake Shores.

The council voted to transfer $6,449 in Instant Lottery funds to the Board of Education, although the funds will not be received by the town until after the end of the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The town auditor approved this procedure. The school board had asked for money to cover an anticipated deficit in its budget because the money would not be by the end of the fiscal year to act on it.

John Hardy, who has proposed a five-year road repair plan for the town, asked the council for priority status for a drainage problem on Nathan Hale Rd. and Union Dr.

Hardy said a severe water problem there is damaging property in the subdivision. He proposed an underground drainage system. Materials would cost $35,700 and the project would begin this fall so it could be finished next spring.

The council is expected to make a decision on the plan next month.

Admitted Monday: Charles Charlton, Nevers Rd., South Windsor; Carl Gohda to take acceptance of a contract with the Civil Service Employees Affiliates.

Discharged Monday: Edmond Blais, Tunnel Rd., Vernon; Mrs. Virginia Douglas and daughter, Laurel St., Rockville; Joseph Gessay, Middle Butcher Rd., Rockville; Frances Noel, Vernon; Mrs. Robert Musser, Verwood Dr., Vernon; a son was then taken to Hartford hospital by ambulance.

She was in critical condition today.

Finance board members, when asked the impact of the cut, disagreed where the cuts would be made.

Finance board member William Riley explained that specifics could not be given from the school budget. He said that when suggestions were made to the school board it didn't listen.

Eische said he felt the finance board "seriously let the town down."

He said, "This budget should not be passed with the kind of work they (finance board) did."

Robert Thornton, school board chairman, said the budget was "passed" to the bottom line.

School Supt. Raymond Allen asked the Town Meeting to reject the budget with a strong message to the finance board that this time "they have gone too far."

School board members, when asked where the cuts would be made, disagreed where the cuts would be made.

School board member Joseph Haloburdo said there could be reductions in the staff without reductions in the program. Member James Marsalis said he thought there would be cuts in the program at the elementary school.

Siddig Sattar, acting finance board chairman, urged residents to adopt the budget. Sattar said a stretch was being put on all boards but the school board could make do with the cut.

However, at the finance board meeting following the Town Meeting, Sattar recommended to townspeople that they again reject the budget next week because the finance board did not get the message from townspeople Monday.

The recommendation that the finance board restore $22,000 to the school budget carried by a 41-31 Town Meeting vote. Another motion, to recommend restoration of $31,000, was defeated.

The vote was just a recommendation because a Town Meeting cannot increase a proposed budget. Townspeople can only approve it, reject it or cut it.

The $22,000 figure was the school board estimate of extra revenue expected under the state's proposed Guaranteed Tax Base program.

Thornton said his poll of the Finance board said it appeared likely the schools would get that money when it arrives later this year.

Finance board members said they hadn't been asked, and Thornton admitted he had talked to the chairman, Jerry Hasset, who wasn't at the Town Meeting.

At the Town Meeting meeting after the Town Meeting, members voted 5-2 to re-submit the budget that had just been rejected.

Voting to re-submit the same budget were Morris Silverstein, Gary Moricson and William Riley. Voting against re-submitting the same budget were Sattar and Shirley Potter.

The finance board considered cutting another $22,000 from the school budget, but that motion, by Silverstein, failed.

Town Meeting Moderator Catherine Pederson, attending the finance board meeting, told the board it should heed the wishes of the Town Meeting even if it did appear "stacked" by educators.

Silverstein responded that the

Like races here

Two of the state's best distance runners, perhaps No. 1 in their divisions, Amby Burfoot and Carolyn Bravakis have something in common.

Both like to compete in Manchester.

On hand for the kickoff luncheon of the New England Relays last week at Manchester Community College, Burfoot, still sporting his long beard, noted, "New England Relays are for everyone. I can picture an entire family coming to Manchester for the competition. The distance runners in the family can compete the first day (Saturday) and the rest of the family can run the next day."

Dates for the two-day promotion will be June 25-26, the first day at the college campus area and the second day at Memorial Field's Wigren Track.

The former Wesleyan standout, and for a decade one of America's premier distance runners, led the community support and enthusiasm shown last summer when the relays were first offered.

Burfoot took part in the six-mile event and trailed Danny McDavid of Ireland across the finish line.

"I'd like to see a possibility that McDavid would be back, Burfoot said, "I don't think that I can beat him." McDavid is the Irish marathon champion.

Burfoot, who announced after winning the Five Mile Race last Thanksgiving in Manchester that he would stop competitive running and just compete for the fun of it in the future, said he would be in the three-mile run during the New England Relays.

"I'm starting to get the urge again to get into serious training. It would be interesting to see how I do Thanksgiving," he added.

Appeals to all

Last year I didn't know the course. Now I can't wait to come back to run," the dark-haired, petite Mrs. Bravakis said.

"Manchester appeals to all racers and it's good for the spectators. I enjoyed the entire day (last year when she led all females across the finish line in the 12-mile run) and I appreciated the crowd," she added.

Wife of the well-known baseball umpire, Ed, and mother of a five-year-old, Mrs. Bravakis was the first Connecticut woman to finish in the Boston Marathon last month, and 21st of her sex to finish in 3:09.

"More and more women are getting into distance running. Last year, my finishing time when I placed 29th, would only have been good for 50th place this year," she offered as proof that more members of her sex were competing and doing better.

Now a member of the Hartford Track Club, the Windsor Locks housewife and former English teacher, said tips offered by John Vitale and Karen Saunders, the latter of Manchester and a fine distance runner, have been helpful since she decided to get into race competition.

Sportsmanship?

Just one man's way of thinking, the word sportsmanship doesn't seem to fit the cap of David's entry in the Felice League.

The deed of property to the sponsor to non-resident players may be a technicality that will remove the amateur status of said players by the Amateur Softball Association.

Word is now awaited from national ASA headquarters on the issue.

No player may be paid in any form to compete with any ASA entry. The question is whether the move that was executed to allow the non-residents to play was in line with ASA rules.

A fine pitching performance by Tom Arena didn't go for naught as Enfield High pushed across a run in the bottom of the 11th to take a 2-1 CCIL baseball win over Manchester High yesterday in Enfield.

A single, walk and sacrifice-flied'er's choice led the bases with one out and Jay Wheeler delivered a single against a draw-in infield just past the glove of third baseman Bob Hurst. Enfield's winning margin was one 5-9 while Manchester is even at 7-7 and must win two of its last four

Ali retains crown, Evangelista pride

Those short blitzes of his, however, can still rattle the brain of most fighters and it was a credit to Evangelista that he lasted the full 15 rounds, suffering only a bloody nose in the sixth and some puffiness below his eyes. Evangelista, a poor man's Joe Frazier, showed he deserved to be ranked among the world's top heavyweights, who his and miscues chased home 10 Silk Town tallies in the bottom of the frame. The Indians never relinquished the lead adding markers in the third, fourth and fifth innings.

Kahly Strand had a big day at the plate for Manchester with a triple, double, single and four RBIs. Rachel Rosen pitched well, striking out two safeties. Elaine LaVigne pitched for Enfield, now 10-4, with a two-run double and two-run homer.

Manchester's jayvees lost their first of the campaign, 29-24, to Glastonbury yesterday. Colleen MacGillivray, Lisa Schwartz, Debbie Dawson and Cindy Mills had three hits and pitched for the 5-1 Indians.

Evangelista might have caught him with one of his wild left hooks. Ali never really tried hard enough. Evangelista never threatened him. Anytime Ali wanted he seemed able to break through the slower challenger's defenses with quick jabs and capable of putting him away. But the few times he jolted Evangelista, the champion backed off.

"Ali surprised me," Evangelista said, "but he was speaking interesting after a greased pig. It was a charitable affair from start to finish. Ali was kind enough to buy $200,000 worth of tickets for most of the estimated crowd of 12,000, then he restrained himself from seriously hurting me in the 22-year-old phantom challenger from Spain.

Some people will argue that Ali can't hurt anyone anymore, but despite his 35 years and 56 professional fights, he is still the fastest heavyweight alive, if only for 30 seconds a round. That's how he fights now, saving his strength by going into various defensive poses and mounting only brief attacks at the start and finish of each round.

Zahn makes news defeating Garland

NEW YORK (UPI) — Less than six months ago, Wayne Garland was signing a $2.3 million contract with the Cleveland Indians and Geoff Zahn was on baseball's junk pile "praying for one more chance."

The two pitchers' roads crossed Monday, but as has been the case all season, it was Zahn, cast off by two previous clubs, who made the news.

The 30-year-old southpaw, signed by Minnesota as a free agent last winter, hurled the Twins to an 8-1 victory over Cleveland for his sixth win of the season against just one loss.

"I wasn't sure, but I felt I could still pitch," said Zahn who asked the Chicago Cubs for his release after spending last season in the minor leagues. "It was my belief the Lord gave me the talent to pitch and I didn't want to go out that way. I prayed for one more chance."

Zahn, who gave up seven hits in hurling his third complete game, looks like the biggest free agent bargain of them all right now.

Carew supplied the support Zahn needed by driving home two runs with two singles and a double, Garland, meanwhile, never

Two students arrested for MHS false alarms

Two Manchester High School students have been arrested in connection with false fire incidents at the school.

In an effort to suppress the problem of false alarms at the school, school officials are imposing suspensions to those students who are apprehended for the criminal act of setting false alarms.

Bennet choir performance tonight

The seventh grade choir at Bennet Junior High School will present "An Evening of Song" tonight at 7:30 in the school auditorium.

Donations from the concert will be used for the upcoming concert trip by the school band and eighth and ninth grade choir to Cape Cod.

The choir, directed by Walter Grzyb, will sing popular songs, spirituals, and selections from "Godspell" and "Jesus Christ, Superstar."

Soloists on the program are Emily Norman, April Castagna, Dorothy Stratton, Christine Frese, Marita Hagenow, Michelle Everett, Dolores Melendez, Jennifer Joy and Krista Jacobson.

The event is open to the public.

Police report

Two wallets were stolen at the Manchester Country Club while the owners showered, Manchester Police reported today.

The incident occurred last Friday, according to the police. A total of $605, along with travelers checks, credit cards and personal belongings, were in the two wallets, police said.

A tool box was taken Monday from the rear loading dock at Cheney Tech, police said. The box and the tools were valued at $450, police reported.

Tools were also taken Monday from a construction site on Apel Pl., police said. The missing items were valued at $65 to $75. A padlock on a tool box was broken, police said.

Police also reported a calculator, valued at $20, was taken from an Eastfield St. home.

And police reported an attempted break at Iling Junior High School. A small window in the rear was broken, but entrance was not gained, police said.

Suzanne M. Klatt, 18, of 223 Oakland St., was charged with attempting to pass a bad check, police said.

About town

The meeting of the ways and means and program committee of the Manchester Emblem Club scheduled for Wednesday night has been canceled.

The trustees of North United Methodist Church will meet tonight at 7:30 at the church.

The disabled American Veterans Auxiliary will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Home.

The Toastmasters will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Center Congregational Church. Visitors are welcome.

An adult Bible study will be conducted Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church.

One student was arrested for such an act, according to Manchester police. Another student was arrested for setting off a smoke bomb in the school.

The maximum 10-day suspension will continue to be imposed on persons who trigger the false alarms, according to James P. Kennedy, school superintendent.

A fire alarm not only disrupts the school routine by causing a mass evacuation, but it also involves two engine companies and a ladder truck to respond to school alarms in addition to eight or nine firemen.

Town Fire Chief John Rivosa said that the false alarms at the high school have increased substantially over last year's false alarms. Recently, there were two in one day, he said. He said he is reluctant to use less equipment in case there is a real fire.

The prevention of the false alarms requires the cooperation of the entire student body, George Emmerling, principal, said. He added that the students are already showing concern over the situation.

Each false alarm incident is investigated by the fire and police departments.

Emmerling said, "It's very serious and involves risk of injury every time this occurs," he said.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy could not be reached for comment.

Hearing is held

Representatives from the Town of Manchester and the union representing Public Works Department employees met Monday to discuss a charge filed against the union by the town.

Peter C. Horn, assistant labor relations agent for the State of Connecticut, conducted the hearing. He will now decide whether the town's charge is invalid and should be dropped or whether it is valid and should be subject to a hearing by the State Labor Relations Board.

The town and the union, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Local 991, are presently in the binding arbitration stage of contract negotiations.

The town charges that the union, in presenting a contract proposal for binding arbitration, failed to include a dozen items that had previously been agreed upon by the two parties.

The union has denied the charge. Horn has no time limit for making his ruling, but he is expected to act quickly because the two parties are in contract negotiation.

8th District tables action on industrial park sewers

The Eighth District Board of Directors Monday night agreed essentially to a request to install sanitary sewers in the Sunnybrook Apartments on New State Rd., but added a restriction. The board tabled action on sewers for the town's industrial park.

The action to approve the sewer installation was taken at the request of Town Manager Robert Weiss made recently in a letter to Eighth District President Michael Massaro.

Town Directors previously approved the project, but were also requesting permission of the district since the apartments are in the disputed Buckland district.

District director Larry Noone suggested that a written agreement or the form of a developer's agreement or contractor's receipt, be required as part of the agreement with the town. He said such an agreement would protect both the district and the town.

The directors agreed to the added suggestion. The agreement will also include a provision to put the sewer charges to Raymond F. Damato, owner of the apartments, in an escrow account until the Buckland court case has been settled, either in favor of the district or the town. Damato will be charged the town's sewer rates, however, Atty. John LaBelle Jr. said.

Weiss also requested the district to allow the town to proceed with sewer installation for the town's industrial park, also in the Buckland area.

The district directors, also on Noone's recommendation, voted to ask Weiss to send members of the town's Economic Development Commission to the district board of directors with a developer's agreement.

Both issues had been discussed and agreed upon informally recently by Massaro and Weiss, but the form of the agreement had been unclear.

In other business Monday, the directors reviewed the proposed 1977-78 district budget, making some minor changes from previous proposals.

The total budget proposal is $263,435, which is a little more than $9,000 over the current budget.

The Fire Department budget was revised upward by $550 Monday night to a total of $111,645. The Public Works Budget was decreased by $125 for a total of $121,850.

The administration budget was set at $29,940, or $2,000 over last year's figures.

The directors agreed to hold a special meeting on June 6 to obtain insurance bids which have not been received and to finalize the budget proposal for purposes of advertising before the June 22 district annual meeting.

The directors also referred a question by Noone on the cost of legal fees paid by the town for the Buckland district dispute to District Counsel John D. LaBelle Sr.

A letter from Weiss stated that the town's legal fees in the case have been $2,314.66. Noone asked, "What are we going to do about them now?"

His suggestion was that the town be billed the same amount for legal fees incurred by the district in the Buckland case. He said district residents are paying for legal fees against themselves because they also pay into the General Fund of the town from which the fees are paid.

Massaro blasts Cummings

Eighth District President Michael Massaro lashed back at state Rep. and Democratic Town Chairman Ted Cummings Monday night on recent comments by Cummings against the district.

In a strong statement at the close of the district's monthly meeting, Massaro said, "He made some awful remarks I didn't like. He doesn't need my vote anymore."

Cummings criticized the events surrounding the proposed Baldwin-Concord Rd. area sewer project, which required the approval of the district voters because it is north of Middle Tpke. Under Special Act 200, all sewer projects north of the turnpike have to be approved by the district.

Cummings made his critical comments at a meeting of the Democratic Town Committee April 27. At that time he said, "We're through subsidizing the district." He was referring to the project which is being paid for largely with federal Revenue Sharing Funds.

Cummings also called the Special Act legislation a "foolish act." The district recently approved of the sewer project after three meetings of the voters.

Massaro also criticized Cummings for not helping the district. He said Cummings "has never been in here to see if he can help. He has never helped us in Hartford, and in fact, has gone against us."

Massaro said Cummings should be helping the district which is also the 12th assembly district which Cummings represents.

He criticized Cummings for "helping Washington School across town, and not helping Bentley School in the district." Both schools have pending renovations projects which were approved for funding by Gov. Ella Grasso last week among other school projects.

Massaro concluded, "I also think the district can take care of itself without the town." He said he was referring to Cummings' statements that the district is costing the town money.

The comments were met with applause from the district fire fighters and residents at the meeting.

District Director Larry Noone added that "Cummings' comments are not in the character of a state representative."

Mother's Circle to hear The Rev. T. F. Bennett

The Rev. Thomas F. Bennett, director of the Marriage and Family Apostolate for the Archdiocese of Hartford will be celebrant of the Mass and guest speaker for the Holy Hour of the Combined Mothers' Circles of Manchester Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at St. James Church.

A business meeting and social hour will be in St. James School cafeteria immediately following the holy hour.

Little Flower of Jesus Mothers Circle will host the evening. Father Bennett also serves as assistant pastor at St. Joseph Church in Meriden. During eight years of parish work he has been chaplain of parish and civic organizations. He has also worked with Parish Catholic Youth Organizations.

Andirons, fireplace tools from the standard to the unusual spits and pots, bellows, whisk brooms — we have them all. Firescreens, and even an Early American painting to hang over your fireplace, are available at the Barn.

We specialize in Early American and traditional furnishings, and throughout our buildings you'll find accessories to carry out the feeling of an earlier America, with taste and authenticity. Come in and see!

Dress Up for the Bright New Season!

We now carry a delightful line of ready made curtains and, in many cases, matching bedspreads. Made from easily manageable fabrics, the curtains are easy-laundry, no-iron for fresh looking window decoration.

Designed for every room in your home, in colors geared to fit the Early American look, the curtains are reasonably priced — and now are even less expensive during our May storewide sale.

Hand Crafted
A Marlborough Exclusive

In spite of the best efforts by Contemporary Designers, no chair more handsome than a good American Windsor has yet been created. They are comfortable to sit in, because of the carefully shaped and scooped-out seats and the gracefully curved, slanted and resilient backs. They are the very essence of grace and charm and constitute one of the major contributions bequeathed to the United States by early colonial craftsmen in the furniture field.
