The top of the news

Compiled from United Press International

HARTFORD — Joseph Mike, 38, has become Connecticut's insurance commissioner and the state's youngest agency head. He was sworn in by Gov. Ella T. Gilroy Friday to succeed T.F. Gilroy, who has been nominated for the federal bench.

HARTFORD — The Connecticut Legislature's Black Caucus opposes portions of the state government reorganization plan affecting two agencies handling urban and minority problems. Consideration of the over-all plan is to begin next week.

HARTFORD — Saying it needs a rate increase this year to keep construction of its Millstone 1 nuclear plant on schedule, Northeast Utilities has requested a $90-million-a-year rate increase which could mean about $3 a month more in charges to the typical residential customer.

HARTFORD — The Connecticut Commerce Department is offering to put up more than $30 million to buy land in Stamford for the American Stock Exchange, should the financial institution decide to leave New York City.

BOSTON — New evidence has emerged that Massachusetts motorists have been overcharged by more than $56 million in the past two years, according to the state insurance Department.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. — Teachers from the state's 15 community colleges are planning a series of demonstrations Monday to protest the lack of pay raises. They plan to use bullhorns and megaphones to interrupt the meeting of the Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges at Berkshire Community College.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Springfield firefighters will remain on the job even if a new contract with the city is not negotiated before their current contract expires June 30. Both the city and the union have applied for binding arbitration to settle the dispute since negotiations are at an impasse.

WASHINGTON — The Senate passes an administration-endorsed federal strip mining reclamation bill after some weakening amendments and compromises which now must be reconciled at a Senate-House conference before being sent to the President.

ANGOLA, Ind. — Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who supervised the draft of at least 15 million persons over three wars, dies in his sleep at age 83.

WASHINGTON — Maj. Gen. John Singlaub, abruptly called home from his post in Seoul, South Korea, Thursday, has come to the United States.

Washington prepared to meet President Carter and discuss his recent criticism of South Korea policy.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The fugitives who Indianapolis police suspect killed an eccentric heiress and carried off $5 million from her home were sighted by an FBI agent from a light plane Friday and arrested.

EAST MADISON, N.Y. — Charles Lindbergh's daughter and 1,500 other persons gather near the old Roosevelt Field on Long Island to observe the 50th anniversary of a six-day vacation on St. Simons Island off the coast of Georgia, the White House has announced. He will spend

KINSHASA, Zaire — Zairean forces backed by fighter bombers have attacked the key rebel stronghold of Dilolo on the Angolan border, the official AZAP news agency says. It said Zairean and Moroccan troops enter the town Friday night and predicted its imminent capture.

MAPUTO, Mozambique — A U.N. conference aimed at promoting black rule in Rhodesia and Southwest Africa ends today amid a debate on what measures to take against southern Africa white governments. The Western nations seek to tone down black African proposals for tough measures against South Africa and Rhodesia.

General accord reached on SALT pact formula

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said the United States and the Soviet Union have reached "general agreement" on the shape of a strategic arms pact.

Vance said a news conference after three days of talks with Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko, "We have reached general agreement on a common framework for a strategic arms agreement with the Soviets."

This assertion went significantly further than a joint statement released earlier today, which said only that "progress had been made in developing a common framework for further negotiations" and that "differences between the two sides on several of the previously unresolved questions had narrowed."

Vance and Gromyko agreed it was important to direct their efforts toward a reconvening of the Geneva Middle East peace conference. "It's still too early to say what effect the Israeli elections have had on the process," the secretary of state said.

He said it would be necessary to wait until there is a new Israeli government before any real assessment would be made. "We are confident that our agreement will be an important step toward a re-convening of the Geneva Middle East peace conference," he said.

The previous treaty, known as SALT I, expires in October — this year.

Begin wants to keep Jordan's West Bank

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Member Begin, slated to be Israel's next prime minister, says he hopes to open a "new chapter in U.S.-Israeli relations" by persuading Washington of Israel's need to keep the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Begin, whose rightist Likud bloc scored an upset victory over the previously dominant Labor party, said Friday he does not expect a "confrontation" with Washington over his avowed intention to retain control of Arab territories captured in the 1967 Middle East war.

President Carter, with the backing of Arab and Palestinian leaders, has proposed establishment of a Palestinian homeland on the West Bank and Gaza strip as part of an over-all Middle East settlement.

More meetings set on town layoffs

The town union filed a grievance last summer because the town had said that employees would have to buy the steel-toed shoes that are required when working in hazardous areas.

The town union filed the grievance last summer because the town had said that employees would have to buy the steel-toed shoes that are required when working in hazardous areas.

But, McCarthy said that the contract does state that positions filled by probationary and temporary workers have to be eliminated before layoffs occur. He said that the contract specifically spells out what a temporary worker is, and that this does not include all part-time employees.

"The town is going to live up to all its responsibilities under the contract," McCarthy said. In another matter, Fuller said Friday that the union has filed an unfair labor practice charge against the town because employees have not been paid by the town for the

Democratic leaders reject 3% slash in state budget

HARTFORD (UPI) — With Democratic leaders having refused to buy her plan to slash spending by three per cent, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said the same decision of whether or not to sign the budget.

Mrs. Grasso Friday asked lawmakers to consider such an across-the-board cut in state agency budgets, which she said could save $30 million.

Democratic leaders, informed of her plan in a letter not even addressed personally to each of them, rejected it. Sources said they were upset with her.

She had earlier asked lawmakers to withhold spending part of the budget if there is a fiscal crisis.

Although members of her own party were unhappy, Mrs. Grasso's position was supported by Republicans in the House of Representatives. They said they would vote to uphold her veto if she rejected the budget.

Gov. Grasso signs bills tightening jobless claims

HARTFORD (UPI) — Most Connecticut workers who quit their jobs or get fired after Oct. 1 will be ineligible to collect unemployment benefits.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso Friday signed two bills excluding most "quits" and "fires" from jobless benefits. She signed the bills less than 24 hours after they cleared their last legislative hurdle.

The legislation was supported by business groups and Republicans, but was strongly opposed by labor. Mrs. Grasso, a darling of labor during her career in the legislature, Congress and her campaign for governor, is expected to lose some support in next year's re-election campaign because of the issue.

The fires measure allows a person to collect only if he proves he was not fired for "repeated or willful misconduct" or "voluntary conduct." Under existing law, a person who quits or gets fired from his job, can collect benefits after a four-week waiting period. Persons laid off are eligible for benefits immediately.

GOP solons question Kelley law firm role in Bally license bid

HARTFORD (UPI) — Two Republican state representatives have issued a statement questioning the role of Hartford's Democratic Town Chairman Peter G. Kelly in working to get a Connecticut gambling license for the Bally Manufacturing Co. of Chicago.

Representatives Charles Matties, R-West Hartford, and Dorothy Barnes, R-Farmington, Friday issued a statement saying they question whether the Kelly's law firm, Updike, Kelly and Spelacy, should be working to get a license from the state gaming commission.

Bally is attempting to buy World Jai Alai Inc., which owns four jai alai fronts in Florida and one in Hartford. Published reports recently alleged Bally Co. has been under investigation by the FBI and police from Florida and Nevada who are checking for Nevada connections.

Bally, the largest manufacturer of pinball machines in the world, has been attempting to get state permission to buy the Hartford Jai Alai fronton.

Lindbergh: the right man

Fifty years after his transatlantic flight, Charles Augustus Lindbergh remains the hero of the 20th century, and perhaps the archetypal hero of all time.

Nothing that has happened since that epic event, neither the development of supersonic aircraft or landings on the moon, has so captured the imagination of the world and held it for so long.

Others had flown the Atlantic before Lindbergh (though not alone, not nonstop and not in a single-engine landplane). The Wrights' first flight went virtually unnoticed and unbelieved for years.

But Lindbergh was precisely the right man at the right place at the right time. The 33 and one-half hours it took him to fly from New York to Paris was just long enough for the entire world to be alerted and for people to follow his progress in their minds and hearts and to sit on the edge of their chairs as they awaited news of his sighting over the new medium of radio.

Not only was history changed the moment the wheels of "The Spirit of St. Louis" touched down at Le Bourget, but Lindbergh's life was never to be the same again.

In the next decade came the tragedy of the kidnapping of his first child and his temporary fall from favor because of his opposition to American involvement in World War II, and always, the constant, constant notoriety.

Only in his later years did Lindbergh achieve a measure of tranquility as a private person, and only since his death in 1974 have we begun to appreciate his lifelong interest in fields other than aviation, such as conservation and the environment.

"I never asked to be a hero," Lindbergh once told an interviewer. "I don't want to be a hero, and what's more, I never was a hero."

But he was.

No differences...yet

What's been happening with the children of the "counter-culture" — the offspring of those young Americans who broke away from the traditional marriage system in the late 1960s and went in for communal living and other unorthodox family styles?

A tentative answer has been reported by the Family Lifestyles Project of the University of California, which for the past four years has been gathering data on 150 "alternative" families and living groups and comparing them with 50 traditional families.

The researchers have so far found almost no differences between the children of traditional and various forms of non-traditional families.

Furthermore, parental upbringing during the first year of the children's lives did not vary appreciably, despite the philosophical and ideological differences between the parents.

was the child's presence that molded the parents' behavior. Even in supposedly egalitarian "social-contract" marriages, the mother was the primary caretaker of the child in 95 per cent of the families.

The results were the same in communal situations, even though the child was exposed to more adults. Also, surprisingly, the "alternative" mothers wanted to be at home more with the kids than did the traditional mothers.

They also believe that more pronounced differences among alternative lifestyle youngsters may show up as they grow older, primarily in the direction of more independence for their parents.

Thoughts

One of the Eucharistic prayers in Rite II of the Proposed Book of Common Prayer of the Episcopal Church includes the phrase, "And that we might live no longer for ourselves, but for him who died and rose for us, he sent the Holy Spirit, his own first gift for those who believe, to complete his work in the world, and to bring to fulfillment the sanctification of all."

The sanctification of all — what a marvelous vision. What marvelous promise comes with the gift of the Holy Spirit. What a responsibility to be the instruments of the Lord's purpose on earth. Spirit and material are no longer seen as having nothing to do with each other.

This vision is the Kingdom of God of God's will being "done on earth as it is in Heaven." The Kingdom of God is not heaven set down gently on earth in an all at once act of God, but came in the world in Jesus Christ and as his commissioned believers offer up the things and creatures of this world to Him to be redeemed by and through Him.

The work of redemption, of renewed stewardship of this world has begun in Christ and will end in the Kingdom of God.

Almanac

By United Press International Today is Saturday, May 21, the 141st day of 1977 with 224 to follow. The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Mercury. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini. Glenn Curtiss, American inventor of the hydroplane, was born May 21, 1878. This is actor Raymond Burr's 60th birthday. On this day in history: In 1832, the first Democratic National Convention was held in Baltimore. In 1881, the first American Red Cross chapter was organized in Washington, D.C., by Clara Barton.

'Now they're going to become teachers'

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — "Now they're going to become teachers, and they'll cripple another whole generation like they've been crippled. Sometimes I wish that when their kids go to school they have teachers like them. That would be retribution."

The speaker was Mrs. Ethel Tyree, an assistant professor of mathematics at Washington, D.C. Teachers College. She was commenting on the lunatic: Four students who failed their required courses in mathematics were granted waivers by college president Wendell Russell exempting them from academic regulations so they could graduate.

Standards? The college has some, at least in its catalogue. That document says that in order to graduate students must pass at least a one-year course in college-level mathematics. President Russell waived that requirement for three students. For the fourth, he waived a course in the basic structure of simple arithmetic, which is required for students majoring in elementary education. Some college president.

And that takes us back to Mrs. Tyree's plaintive cry that the four students involved are crippled educationally. They were crippled by the don't-care D.C. public school system, which has been a scandal for the past two decades — and part of whose budget is financed by taxpayers from Maine to Hawaii.

Obviously, those four students and probably many others at Teachers College were not prepared for the college. Yet they were graduated from high schools — as one teacher put it, "to get rid of them."

Says Joseph Thornton Jr., head of the college's faculty association: "Our students become teachers. How in the world are they going to teach what they themselves haven't mastered?"

Don't ask me, Mr. Thornton. Put the question to those "compassionate" bleeders who decided unilaterally, for all of us, that any kind of an "education" was good enough for blacks and other racial minorities, and that ignorance could be concealed behind a diploma.

"Eleventh-hour advisory from Andrew Tully: Teachers College Presidents. Russell bowed to the school's governing board and announced that only two of the failed students would be allowed to graduate. Big deal."

News for senior citizens

Well folks, our Big Week of 1976-77 is now history and once again we had a very busy week with a little of everything added. From bingo to cards, to dancing, to banquets, to sport tournaments, to honoring our volunteers, to naming Mr. and Mrs. Senior Citizen, to a day at the dog track.

Yep, it all started out Monday when it was bingo and cards during the day and then that evening it was dancing to the live and lively tunes of our favorite Lou Joubert and his band, lots of goodies to munch on made by our kitchen crew and served by our students. Also in the morning, we held our Senior Golf Tournament at the East Hartford Golf Course.

On Tuesday, it was our Senior Bowling Tournament at the Parkdale Lanes in the afternoon and that evening was our Sports Banquet. After a delicious lasagna dinner, the action moved upstairs where the trophies were awarded to the following winners.

In golf, Paul Desjardes won low gross with a 33, Russ Nettleton and Vincent Portier tied for low net with 43. One bit of excitement during the golfing day was one member, although not registered in the tournament, but plays in our league, Raymond Biowell, scored a once in a lifetime, hole in one. Ray will be honored for this feat at the golf league banquet later in the season.

Some of the other scores for the day were Harvey Perter, 45, Joe Quinn, 46 and Jack DuPont, 47. In bowling, we had tournaments for the men in both Class A and B and the Women's Class A and B. The high score in the Men's Class A was 196 by Frank Kisonas. Jim Rozza had a 138 for the Men's Class B. For the fairer sex Edna Christensen had a 168 to win the Class A Trophy and Anna Haupt was the Class B winner with a 99.

Jewish holiday of Shavuot begins Sunday evening

The Jewish holiday of Shavuot or Feast of Weeks will be observed beginning tomorrow evening and continuing through Tuesday.

The holiday follows seven weeks after the first day of Passover. This is based on Leviticus 23:15 where we read that the people were told to count seven weeks or 50 days after the first day of Passover and then bring an offering of new grain to the Lord, according to Rabbi Leon Wind of Temple Beth Shalom.

For this reason the holiday is also referred to as Pentecost, Pente meaning 50 in Greek. Historically Shavuot is observed as the anniversary of the giving of the Ten Commandments to the Israelites on Mt. Sinai, Rabbi Wind said.

As such, it is a holiday of great spiritual significance and it is used as an occasion for confirmation services in Synagogue. It also recalls the time when the people in ancient Israel brought the first fruits of the Spring harvest as an offering to the Temple. For this reason the holiday is also referred to as 'Feast of the First Fruits,' he said.

Today it is the spiritual aspect of the holiday that is stressed as the people recall the time when they ancestors stood at Sinai and received the immortal Ten Commandments which have become the cornerstone of civilized humanity, he said.

Services at Temple Beth Shalom will be tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. at time students in the tenth grade of the Temple School will be confirmed. On Monday, services will be 10 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday at 10 a.m. at which time Yizkor (memorial prayers) will be said.

Edmond A. Blais

VERNON — Edmond A. Blais, 70, of 428 Tunnel Rd. was found dead at his home Friday night, police reported. Blais was found by a newspaper carrier who saw a note to call police, authorities said.

Medical officials attributed the cause of death to poisoning, police said. Authorities termed Blais' death an apparent suicide.

The Ladd Funeral Home, 19 Ellington Ave., Rockville, is in charge of arrangements, which are incomplete.

Girl dies in crash

A 16-year-old Massachusetts girl was fatally injured in a one-car traffic accident in South Windsor Friday night, police reported.

The girl, Elizabeth A. Mitchell of Dennipport, Mass., was the driver of a southbound car which went off the left side of Ellington Rd. and struck a utility pole, police said. She and two other passengers in her car — all of them students at the Loomis Chaffee School in Windsor — were pinned in the car after the 11:20 p.m. accident.

The South Windsor Fire Department and the Wilson Rescue Squad were summoned to extricate the three. The East Hartford Fire Department's paramedic unit was called for medical aid at the scene.

The two passengers were Richard Zavarella, 15, of 36 Manor Lane, South Windsor, and Robert R. Howe, 16, of the Loomis Chaffee School, Windsor.

All three were taken to Hartford Hospital by ambulance, police said. Miss Mitchell died at the hospital after arrival. The two passengers were treated for lesser injuries, police said.

South Windsor Police are continuing their investigation of the crash.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Four students win UT scholarships

Four Manchester area residents are among 45 winners of college scholarships awarded by United Technologies to sons and daughters of its employees.

Each scholarship is for up to $2,000 for tuition and academic fees for each of four years' full-time study leading to a bachelor's degree at an accredited college or university chosen by the recipients.

More than 200 students have been graduated or are studying in colleges or universities under the corporation's scholarship program for employees' children.

The Manchester area winners are: Lawrence Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn of 814 Vernon St., Manchester. A senior at Manchester High School, Dunn plans to study mathematics at Dartmouth or Stevens Institute of Technology.

Christin Mary Jaworski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Jaworski at 83 Pitkin St., Manchester. A senior at Manchester High School, Miss Jaworski plans to enter Washington University to study metal smithing.

Stephen Merrill Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Merrill of Vernon. Spencer will enter Trinity College, majoring in pre-medicine. He is senior at Rockville High School.

Anthony Joseph Straceski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Straceski Jr., of East Hartford. Straceski, who will enter Harvard College this fall majoring in Biology, is a senior at East Catholic High School, Manchester.

Contract talks begin

New contract negotiations have begun between Manchester Memorial Hospital and the Connecticut Nurses Association (CNA) Local 26 involving about 200 full- and part-time nurses at the hospital.

A hospital spokesman said today that hospital negotiators and union representatives have agreed not to disclose any of the specific issues being discussed unless there is a loggerhead or unless a settlement is reached.

The current contract expires June 30.

The contract being negotiated is the fourth for full-time nurses and the part-timers working more than 20 hours a week.

For the first time, part-time nurses working less than 20 hours a week are being included under a single collective bargaining agreement with the other nurses.

Band shell dedication Sunday

Perfect weather has been forecast for Sunday's dedication of Manchester's Bicentennial Band Shell, located at Manchester Community College campus off Wetherell St.

The program, which is open to the public free of charge, will begin at 2 p.m. with a variety of entertainment. After a brief dedication ceremony, entertainment will resume.

Folding chairs or blankets are a necessity for those attending the event.

Fund-raising efforts for the band shell are still in progress. During Sunday's program, there will be an opportunity for people to donate to the shell. Pledge cards for tax-deductible gifts will also be available.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Is there any truth to the rumor that Johnny Carson will be leaving the Tonight show? Every other week (maybe a little exaggerated) he has a guest host. CHARLES J. KRIZ, Springfield, Mo.

Nothing official has been announced, but my hyper-active grapevine tells me that something is in the wind. Carson apparently hopes to take it easier in a year or so, and look for some kind of announcement to that effect pretty soon.

DEAR DICK: Is it true that Olivia Newton-John is taking Farrah Fawcett-Majors' place on Charlie's Angels? If not, who is? STACEY PHILLIPS, Stockton, Calif.

Nothing is definite yet — in fact, the people who make Charlie's Angels are still hoping that Farrah will be back. But, if she lives up to her threat to quit, there's no shortage of potential replacements. Nobody is irreplaceable. It probably won't be Olivia, however. It could conceivably be a black woman.

DEAR DICK: Has "Roots" played in Europe? If so, what was the response? PAUL M. REZIN, Nottawa, Mich.

It is just about to be shown in England, on the BBC, which would be its first foreign exposure. After that, France and Australia will see it. So it's too soon to report on any foreign reaction.

DEAR DICK: I read in the papers that pressure groups have finally forced TV shows to reduce the violence of many programs. Do you think that movie companies will also do so and start making movies again where you feel good when you leave the theater instead of feeling like someone kicked you in the stomach? B.G., Santa Ana, Calif.

I wish I could say yes. There are some pleasant movies around — "Rocky," for one — and some more coming. But, by and large, movie producers are still laboring under the belief that they have to out-violence and out-sex TV in order to get the people to go out and see a movie. They're wrong, of course, but that's the way they feel.

DEAR DICK: I just saw an old Clark Gable movie, "Honky Tonk." I am sure I have seen a modern re-make of that film. I think it starred Richard Crenna. Could you please tell me if this is so? BRENDA KEITH, Haverhill, Mass.

Yes, you're right. The Crenna version was a pilot for a series and shown as a TV movie.

DEAR DICK: Is Garry Marshall, the executive producer of Laverne and Shirley, related to Penny Marshall? KAREN HUFFMAN, Hilliard, Ohio.

Yes. They are brother and sister.

DEAR DICK: I have some questions for you about Richard Mantaban, who does the commercials for the Cordoba car. How old is he and where was he born and is he married and has he made any movies? N.Y., Linden, Pa.

First, his name is Ricardo Montalban. He was born in Mexico 57 years ago and, yes, he is married and has been for a long time. He's been in dozens of movies — many of the great MGM musicals — and countless TV shows and been on the stage in New York and around the country.

DEAR DICK: "Rocky" is supposed to be Sylvester Stallone's first movie role, but didn't he have a part in "The Lords of Flatbush" with Henry Winkler? MONA MAGGIO, Ogden, Utah.

You're right, but I don't think anybody ever claimed "Rocky" was Stallone's first movie appearance. What they said was that it was his first starring role.

Signup begins for TV college courses

Registration is going on now for the fall semester of "TV Community College," now in its fifth year of bringing college courses into the homes of people throughout Connecticut. Courses begin Sept. 12 on the five stations of Connecticut Public Television (CPTV).
In fall 1973, the Connecticut community colleges and CPTV cooperated in a special project to offer college-level courses via television. Surveys had pointed out that given the opportunity, a large segment of the adult population would find it convenient to pursue an education in this non-traditional manner.
Through the next four years a variety of courses were offered for full college credit. More than 4,000 students participated in the 18 courses that have been offered.

Many took part in the national courses that were presented over the past three years, such as "The Adams Chronicles" and "The Ascent of Man," which were significant in creating a wide acceptance of the use of television as a vehicle for higher education. Full-time working people, the elderly, high school students and regularly enrolled college students make up the "TV Community College" student body.
Each course has three components: The television presentations, text book or study guide, and on-campus seminars. The courses selected for the coming fall semester area:
• "The Age of Uncertainty" - John Kenneth Gilbraith's examination of economics as a product of history, political science and sociology. This course will be offered nationally in the tradition of "The Ascent of Man" and "Civilization." The 13 programs will be telecast on days and times to be announced at a later date.
• "Child Development" - An introductory course on the physical and emotional growth of children, including the prenatal period, presented Mondays and Wednesdays at 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8:30 a.m.
• "Earth, Sea and Sky" - A study of the earth, including astronomy, meteorology, climatology, oceanography and geology, stressing the scientific method, presented Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.
• "Family Risk Management" - An introductory course dealing with insurance as it applies to family and personal situations, presented Mondays and Wednesdays at 8:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6:30 p.m.
All courses are offered in morning or evening telecasts and carry three credits each. Registration is going on now at the community colleges. Further information is available from community college registrars and by calling 232-4817.

Here's how to fight interference on CBs

By INK DIPPER

RFI, or radio frequency interference, can be annoying, and it can also take away from the joys of CBing.

If you'll divide RFI into two categories, you'll be able to identify and, perhaps, eliminate it. Category one is natural noise. This comprises atmospheric disturbances, sunspots, lightning and so forth. This category is beyond your control.

However, most frequently, it is category two. These are man-made noises. These noises can be produced by electrical motors, vehicle electrical systems, farm machinery, medical equipment, and machinery of all types. And this category you can do something about. It is because of the very low power of CB units that the RFI problem can be so severe.

Most often your RFI is within your own vehicle. You can identify these noises yourself because each has its own distinctive sound and characteristic. It is a matter of knowing where to start looking. This list may help you isolate the ones that are causing you the most trouble.

Take the ignition system as an example. This is a popping sound which increases in tempo with the engine speed. Rev up your motor, then turn off your ignition key. It should stop the pop.

If you are getting a whine that is high-pitched, it is probably your generator-alternator. Unlike the ignition noise, it will not stop immediately when the ignition key is turned off. Also it will increase in rhythm with increased engine speed.

If your voltage regulator is the culprit, it makes a rasping sound, kind of ragged. It is usually heard in connection with the generator noise. It, too, will not end when you turn off your ignition, but will continue for a minute or two.

Often instruments in your dashboard can cause RFI. You can tell this is its genesis for sure when you are going over rough and bumpy roads. There will be a crackling sound on your speaker. It will occur at irregular intervals. If you want to test this in your driveway, just thump your dashboard while your CB unit is turned on.

Several experts have pointed out that the voltage limited behind the dash, which is used with the fuel and oil gauges, will cause a hashing sound at varying intervals. Bouncing your vehicle will activate the fuel gauge. This will identify the RFI for you. Then just disconnect them and the RFI should disappear.

In order to make a first-time check, do so with all accessories turned off. Then activate them one at a time. Listen closely for increased RFI. If your turn signal, warning flashers or windshield wipers are causing it, a capacitor will probably clear it up. Windshield wipers generally require a coaxial capacitor because it is probably the wiper's motor that is causing the trouble.

Wheels and tires, particularly when driving at high speeds on dry roads and highways, will create a rushing sound. You'll know that origin by simply applying the brakes lightly to see if it disappears.

Generally, these are the main sources of RFI in your vehicle. If you can't identify it, try a grounded capacitor which, when touched to all "hot" electrical connects, causes the disappearance of the RFI. Then you'll know which is the offender.

Hope this helps you gain additional pleasure from your CB unit.

Stereo cards show Cheney's operations

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

This contraption is a stereoscope — sometimes called a stereopticon. Almost every parlor had one in the 1910s and '20s. Kids would wander in on rainy days and have fun with the three-dimensional views of Yellowstone Park or Niagara Falls.

This one is a bit special as the card shown here is not a picture of Old Faithful; instead it shows a brave Japanese girl feeding mulberry leaves to some hundreds of "voracious young silkworms."

It is card number 28 in a set of 32 stereos on the silk industry that belong to Fred Towle of this town.

They all seem to be actual photos pasted onto the cards.

The first 25 are pictures of the Cheney Bros. operations from the opening of the bales of raw silk to the printing of the finished cloth. Each card has a title under the picture and an explanation on the back.

Card 3 tells about the Grant bobbin, invented by the Cheney's, "that revolutionized the silk reeling of the world." Card 4 is an as-far-as-the-eye-can-see view of bobbins set up on machines.

The next card may be a surprise, as we have been told that silk was produced after much tedious unwinding of strands from tiny cocoons. (They run to some 500 yards apiece). The Cheney's were able to make many silk products from broken cocoons whence the adult moths had been allowed to escape to perpetuate the species. The picture shows a bale with open cocoons tumbling out. This and other rag-tag and bobtail of silk scrap could be processed to make "spun silk." Several stereo cards take us through the procedures that resulted in rolls of dressed fibre ready for spinning. We see views of drawing, roving, warping, beaming off, quilling and twisting.

Card 19 shows an acre or so of weaving machines. Then there is a close-up of a ribbon loom and a Jacquard loom that makes fancy patterns. Finally there is a picture of the design artists working in their sanctum sanctorum, which looks like a corner of Cheney Hall.

The Japanese views show silkworm cultivation from the incubator to the nests where the wigglers build their cocoons. (There are still a few mulberry trees in Manchester left from early attempts to grow the worms in this area.)

The cards are all from the Keystone View Co., copyrighted 1905 and 1914. The scope was made by Underwood & Underwood under a patent dated 1901.

The stereo principle was known for a long time but these handy viewers had to wait to be invented by "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The camel story

The latest S.P.A. Journal has a story of the camel on the Fort Bliss stamp (Scott No. 976). Take a good magnifying glass and look on the upper left side of the triangle near the tip. There is the camel, a man leading it, and a buzzard overhead.

The War Department imported 78 camels into Texas in the 1850s. They were used as beasts of burden until the Civil War, then auctioned off or turned loose. Their offspring were sighted around Texas parts until the early 1900s.

The Fort Bliss stamp has been in demand anyway as the first U.S. space issue — and now will come the camel-lovers to buy it up!

Coming events

A rare sale

One of the rarest coins in the world, a U.S. trade dollar minted in 1885 and one of only five made that year, has been sold by New England Rare Coin Galleries in Framingham, Mass., for an undisclosed six-figure cash price. The buyer was Forecaster Publishing Co. Inc., a weekly economic and monetary newsletter based in Tarzana, Calif. The coin, issued by the U.S. to compete with dollar-size coins of other countries in the Orient, is considered the best quality of the five specimens known today. (UPI photo)
