Israel voices concern over Carter position

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Foreign Minister Yigal Allon summoned the U.S. Ambassador today to express Israel's "deepened" concern over President Carter's recent statements calling for Israeli concessions in a Middle East peace settlement.

"Our concern has deepened because of recent statements that introduced new elements that may only harden already tough Arab positions," a Foreign Ministry official said.

He said Allon was reacting to statements by Carter and other officials about the need for a Palestinian homeland, payment of compensation to Palestinian refugees and a return to the borders before the 1967 Middle East war.

In Tel Aviv, prospective Prime Minister Menahem Begin said he would put off the nomination of Moshe Dayan to be the next foreign minister.

Ambassador Samuel Lewis told Allon that the United States stood by U.N. Security Council resolutions 242 and 338, which call for Israeli withdrawals to security and recognized boundaries in a general peace agreement.

Lewis told Allon he would convey Israel's concern to Washington, where U.S. officials recently cited other U.N. statements that go beyond the language of the two Security Council documents which Israel considers the only basis for an agreement.

The meeting with Lewis was the third such expression of concern in a week.

It came after Ambassador Simcha Diniz met with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance in Washington and Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin made a similar statement in a cabinet communique.

Allon and the rest of the Labor party government rejected in the May 17 elections are to leave office when Begin's Likud party takes over sometime in June.

The Likud campaigned on a tough stand against returning the lands captured from Jordan, Syria and Egypt in the last war.

Carter said he expected Begin to moderate his position as a result of the negotiations called off by the DMC last week because its leaders were not consulted.

In a letter to Yigael Yadin of the Democratic Movement for Change, Begin said "everything is open" for negotiations, including who will get which job in the cabinet.

The appeal to the DMC came after the Executive Committee of Begin's Likud party reconsidered a previous statement that did not clearly confirm or deny the controversial nomination of Dayan, a one-time Labor party defense minister. Yadin had demanded an explanation. "I am glad to say the executive committee adopted this reply," Begin said.

Ezer Weizman, the likely candidate for defense minister, said the latest statement should persuade the DMC to return to the negotiations that its leaders called off because they were not consulted about the appointment.

Weizman said the Likud hoped to be able to take over power "rather soon" with or without the DMC, which would make the difference between a bare, one-seat majority or a 76-vote domination of parliament.

Ten lose lives in state mishaps

By United Press International

The weather was beautiful in Connecticut for Memorial Day weekend, but holiday remembrances were marred by four highway deaths in the state, three drownings and three fire fatalities.

Dead in traffic accidents were: —Francis P. Cahill, 38, of 17 Lanz Lane, Ellington, who was pronounced dead at the scene of a one-car accident in Ellington at 2 a.m. today. State Police said Cahill was driving east on David Dr., went off the road and struck two parked cars. Police said it is thought the victim may have suffered a heart attack.

—Mrs. Edna Sperry, 94, of South Windsor, who died Monday of injuries suffered in a one-car accident on Rt. 5 in East Windsor Sunday. The car was driven by her daughter, Mrs. Hildred Raymond, 70, who was listed in satisfactory condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

—Charles Maple, 55, of Stamford, who was struck Monday about 4 a.m. as he walked along the Post Road. He was taken to Greenwich Hospital with multiple fractures and died about three and a half hours later.

—Ann M. Marshall, 15, of Chester, who was killed Sunday night when the car in which she was a passenger ran off Rt. 148 in Chester. Another passenger, Valerie Koslawy, 16, of Chester, was treated for injuries. The driver, Amy J. Buckles, 16, of Chester, was charged with misconduct with a motor vehicle and was taken to Connecticut Valley Hospital in Middletown.

—Michael J. Truken, 18, of Waterford, who was killed Saturday in a car accident in Baltimore, Md. He was a senior at Waterford High School and was to have graduated June 16.

Drowning accidents took the lives of:

—Regina Ann McCloud, 6, of New London, who drowned Saturday while swimming in Winthrop Cove near her home.

—John Francis Zulaski, 42, of Torrington, whose body was found Monday afternoon in Dog Pond in Goshen. Zulaski had been missing since Friday evening when he went fishing in the pond.

—Edward Zawilinski, 82, of Middletown, who drowned late Friday or early Saturday in Butternut Hollow Pond in Middletown.

In Ansonia, two men died when fire swept through a business and residential building Sunday night.

The victims were identified by police as William Edwards Jr., 42, and Eugene Reuters, 51, who moved to Ansonia from Sussex, N.J., about eight months ago.

Police said the men were believed boarders in the building that housed a sports shop, a dentist's office and a dry cleaners on the ground floor.

A fire Friday night claimed the life of 80-year-old Manuel Nadal, the retired athletic director emeritus of Kent School.

Authorities said the blaze apparently began after Nadal fell asleep with a lit cigarette in the parlor of his home on the private school's campus. Students spotted the blaze and used fire extinguishers to keep the flames confined to the parlor after pulling Nadal's body from the burning room. Nadal came to the school in 1911 and retired several years ago.

Last year, only two Connecticut highway deaths occurred during the Memorial Day holiday.

McKinney hospitalized by mild heart attack

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., has been admitted to a Norristown, Pa., hospital after suffering a mild heart attack, his office disclosed today.

The 46-year-old lawmaker became ill Sunday while attending the Devon, Pa., horse show with his wife, Lucie, and three of their five children, a spokesman in his Washington office said.

The spokesman said McKinney and his wife drove to Sacred Heart Hospital where tests confirmed that he suffered a "mild" heart attack. The spokesman said McKinney was resting comfortably and was in "stable" condition.

The spokesman said McKinney "felt some pain" during lunch. The pain increased and got severe and the congressman decided to go to the hospital himself.

The McKinneys were attending the show with their three daughters who are show horse enthusiasts. Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., McKinney was raised in Fairfield, Conn., and attended Princeton and Yale universities.

After two terms in the Connecticut Legislature, he was elected on Nov. 3, 1970, to represent Connecticut's 4th Congressional District. The district in southwestern Connecticut covers Fairfield County, one of the richest per capita areas in the United States.

Assembly enters final stretch

HARTFORD (UPI) — Having dealt with most of the major issues before them, lawmakers today returned to the Capitol for the final stretch drive toward the mandatory June 8 adjournment date.

Action is still needed on ethics, a presidential primary, a change in the formula under which educational equalization grants are awarded, and a controversial plan to increase salaries for lawmakers, judges and top state officials.

But the major issues of the session — the budget, unemployment compensation, liquor prices, state government reorganization and the bottle bill — have already been handled.

The Senate last week passed a bill giving legislators a 77 per cent pay raise on July 1, 1979 — after all current lawmakers go through another election. Legislators now get paid $11,000 for two years' service, and $1,000 in expense money. The bill would give them $23,000 for two years without expense payments.

Under the bill, the chief justice of the state Supreme Court would get a raise from $40,000 to $41,000 a year, effective July 1, 1979. All judges would receive a $4,000 increase to $38,500 in 1979.

House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, has pledged to fight the bill and its fate apparently lies in how many votes from the Democratic majority Stevens can attract.

In something of a surprise move, the House of Representatives last

Thousands take part in Memorial rites

Thousands of Manchester residents and their neighbors took advantage of ideal weather Monday to watch the Memorial Day parade and to take part in ceremonies at Center Park.

The sun was bright, but not too hot. The shade was cool but not chilly when the crowds lined both sides of Main and E. Center Sts. to watch the half-hour parade.

Bands included in the line of march were Manchester High School band, which also played at ceremonies in the park; the Stewart Highlanders Pipe Band; the Bennet Junior High School Band; the Illing Junior High School Band; and the Quarryville Junior Ancient Fife and Drum Corps which joined the parade late along the line of march and played several numbers in the park.

The Bolton-based corps had a concert in Bolton earlier in the day. Veterans groups, their auxiliaries, as well as Gold Star Parents marched or rode in automobiles.

Manchester Police and fire fighters from the town and from the 8th District were among the marchers as well as color guards and representatives from civic and fraternal organizations.

The Town of Manchester was represented by Mayor Matthew Moriarty and Directors Carl Zinsner and Phyllis Jackson.

Also among the paraders were Girl

Scouts, Boy Scouts, Brownies and Cub Scouts.

The paraders passed in review in the park, with the review stand at the foot of the flagpole terrace.

Mrs. Hope Sasportas, past department regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, delivered the main address. "You're a Good Man, Uncle Sam."

The main thrust of her address was that the United States is a great nation despite its mistakes and that its greatness comes from its people. (The text of the address is printed on Page 2.)

The most solemn moments of the observance came when David Morsey, chairman of the Permanent Memorial Day Committee, read the names of veterans who have died since Memorial Day last year.

Morsey, who served as master of ceremonies, was introduced by Col. Nathan Agostinelli, CTANG, parade marshal.

Wreaths were placed at the foot of monument in Center Park which had earlier been ringed with flags and flowers.

The ceremony closed with a gun salute and the sounding of taps.

Earlier a wreath had been placed at the monument in Monro Park where Alfred Werber of Temple Beth Shalom delivered a eulogy.

Kentucky fire kills at least 160 persons

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (UPI) — Only one of the once-luxurious 23 party rooms in the Beverly Hills Supper Club remains to be searched by investigators armed with bulldozers and torches hunting for more bodies and clues to the Saturday night fire that killed at least 160 persons.

So far, Kentucky State Police Commissioner Ken Brandenburg said, officials have come across no evidence that arson was behind the smoky blaze, the worst in American history since 1944.

But he said it might be a month of digging in the ruins and talking to eyewitnesses before a definite cause is known for the quick-spreading fire that razed the Las Vegas-styled "Showplace of the Midwest" in this suburban Cincinnati community.

Suspect now is an oil-fueled electrical generator that was located in the basement of the Zebra Room, adjacent to the Cabaret Room, the velvet-lined hall packed Saturday night with 3,500 partygoers waiting to hear John Davidson sing. Searchers brought out hunks of melted fiberglass and other material from the basement on a stretcher Monday.

Southgate Fire Chief Dick Riesenberg said, "We only have one more room to go through Tuesday and I'd say the chances of us finding any bodies are very slim. An owner told me that the room was empty the night of the fire."

Besides the dead, another 74 persons were injured in the fire and the panic that followed as the club filled with a dense smoky fog and then went dark. Eleven were treated and released and the other 63 remain hospitalized in conditions ranging from fair to critical.

Solar future is now

The future of solar energy is now. Contrary to the popular impression that harnessing the heat of the sun is one of the "exotic" energy sources whose development is many years away, a veritable boom is taking place in the solar energy field.

A recent estimate by the Federal Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) indicates that some 5,000 homes in the United States are now heated completely or in part by solar energy units. Two years ago, there were just 183 such homes.

In addition, approximately 5,000 new solar hot water heaters are in operation, plus uncounted thousands of solar swimming pools.

The boom is barely beginning. According to one expert, the number of buildings heated by solar is doubling every six or eight months. "It's exploding," President Carter expressed hope that the number of solar homes would jump to 2.5 million in the near future, spurred by his proposed tax credit to homeowners and businesses converting to solar.

Last year, the Department of Housing and Urban Development spent $4 million to encourage construction of nearly 1,500 solar homes. Lending institutions are also financing an increasing number of solar homes, not all of them in sunny parts of the country by any means.

A typical homeowner on Long Island, for example, can reduce his hot water heating bill by 50 per cent with a solar system.

Hundreds of companies are becoming active in the field, ranging from giants like Grumman, General Motors and General Electric to small ones like Mor-Flo Industries of Cleveland and Universal Solar Energy of Miami.

A spokesman for Mor-Flo, which also makes gas and electric water heaters, predicts that solar water heaters will

Civil rights battle goes on

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There are some wars that just won't stop. The same ground must be taken over and over, each time with painful casualties.

They understand that all too well at the Justice Department, where the battle for civil rights which most Americans thought had ended a decade ago continues all but unnoticed in hundreds of small encounters. Even now, in 1977, scarcely a week goes by without some brief notice in our mail like the one dated May 11:

More suits
The Department of Justice filed a civil suit today charging the owner of a bar in Lacy-Lakeview, Texas with refusing to serve blacks and racially mixed groups on the premises.

It is hard to overlook these laconic little press releases. No single case ever appears to amount to much. The "regulars" down at the department shrug them off, calling them "Joe's Diner" cases too minor to merit a news story.

But taken together, the public accommodations suits constitute an astonishing and depressing commentary on the pace of social progress in this country.

Not complicated
There is seldom anything complicated about the "Joe's Diner" cases. The vast majority occur in small towns of the Deep South and involve a blatant denial of access to bars, restaurants, golf courses, swimming pools, ballfields and barber shops.

Some are heart-rending, like the 1974 suit against a white Louisiana funeral home director who refused to make funeral arrangements for the stillborn daughter of a black Air Force enlisted man.

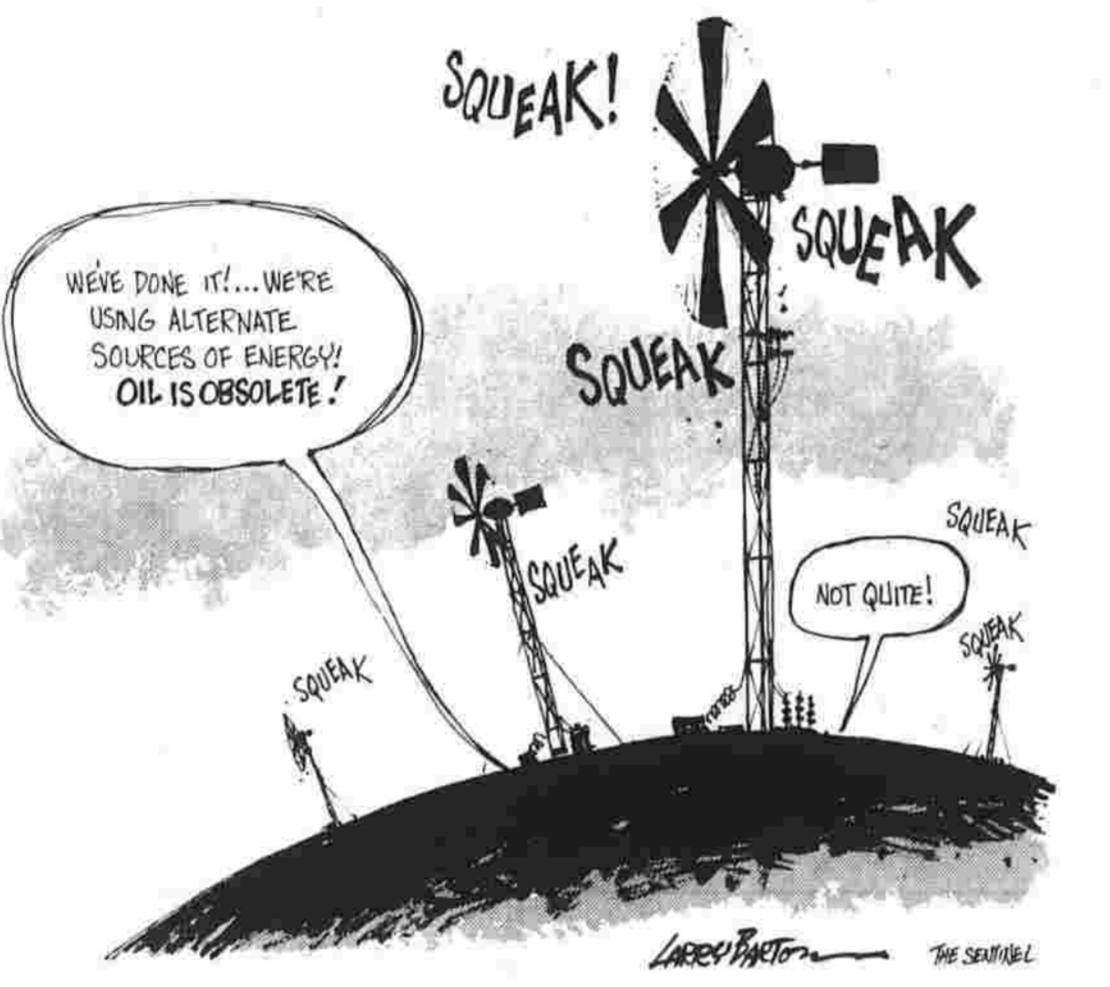

Others are simply absurd, like the Houston night club the Justice Department sued last year for refusing to admit black males without dates. While men, with or without dates, were welcome at the nightclub, women of any race were welcome, with or without escorts.

Most of the public accommodations cases reach the Justice Department after the victims of discrimination complain to their local FBI office, to a civil rights group which refers the complaint upward, or to the local police.

Never lose
According to a department spokesman, Justice has never lost a public accommodations suit. About 85 per cent of the cases are settled out of court through consent decrees in which the owner of the establishment being sued promises to cease discriminatory practices and post notices that his premises are open to all, regardless of race, creed or national origin.

It is reassuring to learn that law enforcement agencies, from Southern police forces to the FBI and the Justice Department, are vigorously pursuing violations of the Civil Rights Act whenever they find discrimination.

But how shameful it is, for all of us — North and South, black and white — that any American should still face humiliation simply for exercising a constitutional right to seek a meal, a drink or a haircut in a place of public accommodation. It is not the victims of such discrimination who should feel degraded, but rather the perpetrators.

Coventry rock concert report said inaccurate

In the 23 May issue of The Herald there appeared an article in regards to a "Rock Concert" in Coventry. I firmly believe that this article was written with tongue in cheek.

Possibly there was no formal complaint made directly to the police but I do know that there was great displeasure expressed by many persons about the Town of Coventry.

First of all there was a 4-H Club in town that rode on horseback to the park area on Saturday morning to have a picnic lunch. This was a group of children and upon arrival at the park dogs chased the ponies and horses. Also there was much drinking going on in the area among other things.

Secondly I disagree that most were high school students and if they were why there were approximately 20 kegs of beer in the area. I firmly believe that the permit was obtained fraudulently.

It is stated in the article that Police Chief Kjellquist felt that a group did a great job on being cooperative and cleaning up afterward. I visited the area Sunday morning and found the area in a littered condition with papers, cans

Reflections

We flew to London May 20, on the 50th anniversary of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris. The TWA pilot noted it to our 184 charter flight passengers.

He recalled the history of aviation from 1927 to the accomplishments in the air today. Our course was pretty much the same as Lindbergh's, the pilot said.

Great Britain, and London, we found, were excitedly getting ready for the Silver Jubilee; as advanced tourists, we were playing some part in that preparation.

Ask Herb and Helen McKinney; they saw the Queen and the Royal Family at Edinburgh, the same day of the Ceremony of the Thistle.

Jubilee finds Great Britain spruced up for the year; most buildings have been sand-blasted; flags of all sizes are flying; it's a year for the colors of red, white and blue.

There were friends to visit in London; Ann Powell is from Bermuda and she is a nurse at Guy's Hospital.

Her mother and father arrive in Manchester tomorrow, the early party of the Bermuda Masonic visit to Friendship Lodge on Friday.

Then there was Ross Pliggs from Wales; we first met him in Bermuda, and he has visited us in Manchester on two different occasions.

George White from the Grenadier Guards; remember this column of April 25 and May 2 about Trooping the Colour? We will go into that in more detail next week.

But you don't know Charlie Brown; and neither did we until May 20. Perhaps you have met Norman Anderson at The Steak Out in Talcottville; you will remember his British accent.

Norman knew we were going to London, and he offered to contact his good friend Charlie Brown and tell him of our impending visit. He did, and he said Charlie Brown would greet us at our hotel.

Great Britain and London are fascinating this year. You can ask the Jack Von Decks Sr. and Jr., the Charlie Burrs, the Dave Nicholls, the Haughs, the Charlie Lynns, the Bob Doungans, the Randy Browns, the Milt Turkingtons who had family over from Ireland for a visit in London.

Winter's deadly toll

Another side effect of the terrible winter just passed has been reported, one much more tragic than high heating bills and fuel shortages.

According to the National Safety Council, the winter-ravished month of January 1977 saw home accident deaths soar 33 per cent over the same period in 1976. Preliminary statistics show that all classifications of home deaths were far above those for an average January.

Fire deaths, for example, zoomed at least 60 per cent and poisonings by gases and vapors, mainly carbon monoxide, jumped 40 per cent because of the strain put on home heating units and the use of makeshift devices to combat the bitter cold.

About the only good thing that can be said about the month is that traffic deaths were down 10 per cent. Surprisingly, the severe weather which forced people to remain at home, away from jobs and schools and off the highways, hit the younger population the hardest. Home deaths for all age groups rose except for the elderly aged 65-74, with the largest fatality rates occurring among children and young adults.

Purchase funds deposited for industrial park

The town of Manchester has spent more than $700,000 as of today on the proposed industrial park, according to a report on town expenditures released by the controller's office. Most of the expense is for money being deposited today with the Superior Court for the purchase of the property that will be needed for the J.C. Penney Co. site. Penney is planning to locate a two-million-square-foot catalog distribution center in Manchester and would be the major tenant in the 300-acre park.

The town has deposited $650,640 with the court. This is an amount with the town expects to spend for condemnation of some of the 160-plus acres that Penney plans to use for its facility, Weiss said. The town has also spent $72,952.75 on planning costs for the park, making the entire park expenditure through today $723,592.75.

The town also expects to serve condemnation papers today to some of the property owners within the proposed park site. The entire Penney site includes 28 parcels, and the town is beginning condemnation proceedings on ten of the tracts. Eight of the ten are private home sites. The parcels that will not require condemnation proceedings are owned by either the State of Connecticut or businesses.

It's official, the praying mantis is the official state insect. Governor Ella Grasso signed the bill this morning at the Center Road School in Vernon and was presented with a stuffed replica of the bug by pupils in the fourth-grade who were the original proposers for the legislation. Vernon's State Representative Chester Morgan supported the bill and pushed for its passage. Richard Grabowski, the fourth-grade teacher, is in the background. He worked with the children all the way and even had large buttons made urging support of the praying mantis. Student Robert Tedoldi, left, was one of the children who spoke during the legislative session urging support for the bill. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Two new doctors coming to Hebron

A lengthy effort involving Windham Community Memorial Hospital, two new physicians and health officials in the Hebron-Marlborough-Andover area has led to the creation of a pediatrics and family practice office in town.

Dr. Gerald O'Brien, physician in charge of attracting doctors to this area, said the facility will be similar to one opened about a year ago in Mansfield and it "will definitely fill a need in Hebron."

Dr. Charles Okstein, a pediatrician, and family practitioner, and Dr. John Hayes, who both came to the Windham area last year, have brought two more physicians to the area to man a Hebron office.

The new doctors are Dr. Richard Moriarty, who will work with Dr. Okstein, and Dr. Peter Jones, who will be associated with Dr. Hayes. Dr. O'Brien said plans for the new office are the result of two years of meetings with town officials and health workers. Last year, after a family practice office was set up in Mansfield, Dr. O'Brien listed Hebron as the next priority area.

Under tentative plans, Dr. O'Brien said one physician will be based in the office full time, but all four doctors will be available to work there. Dr. Jones and Dr. Moriarty will move to the area this summer and the practice will probably start in the area of Coventry, where there is now only one primary doctor, according to Dr. O'Brien.

Rockville Fire Chief Donald Maguda said the buildings were completely engulfed when the fire department arrived but they kept the flames from spreading to the nearby house. He said the house wasn't damaged at all.

Chief Maguda said he didn't know just how much damage was done to the car. He said it appeared the heat blew the windows out and blistered the paint.

Judge files findings in fire district case

The findings of the Superior Court Judge who ruled in favor of the Eighth Utilities District in the Buckland fire jurisdiction case have been filed with the State Supreme Court. Judge Edward Hamill's filing of his findings in the case is one of the procedural steps in the Town of Manchester's appeal of his decision. The town and the district will base their arguments for the appeal on Judge Hamill's findings. Judge Hamill ruled that the Eighth Utilities District has the right to expand its jurisdiction to provide fire protection to the Buckland section of Manchester. The town has appealed to the State Supreme Court. He said in his findings that Special Act 200 is "permissive in nature" and does not "expressly or implicitly suggest that the consent of the defendant town is required." The town has argued that it has to give consent to the expansion of the district to the Buckland section. Judge Hamill said that the Buckland residents have

Off the cuff Larry Panciera, UConn baseball coach, has been named ECAC District 1 coach of the year. The Huskies won 28 of 35 starts and the award was the fifth for the 55-year-old mentor. Lured to Believe Department. Joan Joyce was honored for 13 hits and nine runs in one Women's Professional Softball League game. That's the total the Connecticut Falcon ace pitcher usually gives up in a dozen games. With the pitching distance changed, moving it back several feet, it could affect the world's No. 1 female softball pitcher, at least for a few weeks. Buffalo was the team that beat Joyce before an unbelieving home crowd in that New York city. Frank Galasso reports 84 youngsters, most of whom are eight years of age, will compete in the Rookie Baseball League this season which starts tonight at Bowers Field. Galasso is handling Little League duties with Mike Nimerowski still on the ailing list after suffering a injury while working at his home. Lucille Prior and Edna Hillmski, both of the Manchester Country Club, placed two-three in the Women's State Class B golf tourney last week at Edgewood. Congratulations are due Hiram Parks, Manchester High coach, who gained his 100th coaching win last week in clinching a berth in the State Tournament by beating Windham. Carroll Maddox, public relations chief at Manchester Community College, carries a five handicap in golf while playing out of the Manchester Country Club.

End of the line When Fred Kozicki won the 1977 Men's Scratch Division Town 10-Pin Bowling Tournament he only added proof that he was the best in the field. The champ paced the qualifying field. Fred Kozicki capped the honor by beating his brother, John. The latter was third best in the qualifying round. Moe Morhardt, former Manchester High and major league baseball player with the Chicago Cubs, has again turned out a winner at Gilbert High in Winsted. His team is the defending Class B champ.

Dark made two key moves with San Diego in first day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aside from using 41 players Monday in piloting the San Diego Padres to a 19-8, 9-8 Memorial Day sweep of his former club, the San Francisco Giants, Alvin Dark made two key moves in his first day as manager. He shifted Mike Ivie from fifth to third in the batting order and summoned Rolfe Fingers, his most trusted reliever ace when he was with the Oakland A's, to finish up both games. Ivie responded by tying a major league record with five doubles in the doubleheader. In driving home a total of six runs, while Fingers notched saves in both games, his 11th and 12th of the season. "I had heard a lot about Ivie while I was a coach with the Cubs," explained Dark. "The Cubs pitchers told me he was a tough out because he always gets a piece of the ball and hardly ever strikes out."

Expos get pitching in drubbing Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manager Dick Williams of the Montreal Expos diagnosed his club perfectly in spring training when he said if the pitching came through the team could be a contender in the National League East. When the Expos get the pitching they are indeed a formidable club as they showed Monday when they swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets, 5-1 and 5-0. Steve Rogers tossed a four-hitter in the opener and newcomer Stan Bahsen combined with three relievers on a seven-hitter in the nightcap at the Expos stretched their winning streak to three games and extended the Mets' losing streak to six games. "With more pitching consistency, we could be a contender," said Williams, who indicated the team is shopping around for another starter. "We just haven't been getting it from our starting pitchers. Any time we can improve our ballclub, we'll be ready to make a deal. Yes, I am looking for a pitcher."

Martin and Lee both silent as Yanks rally to top RSox

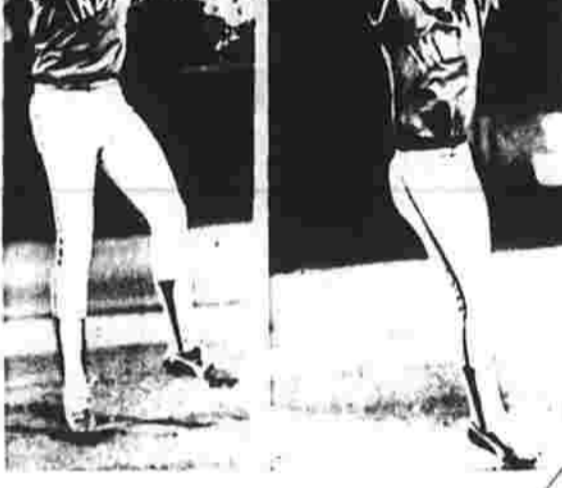

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston pitcher had publicly called the Yankee manager a "neo-Nazi" last week. "People come out to see baseball, not all that other stuff." Martin added he did not show up at Lee from the dugout steps, as he had threatened because, "I don't like to pick on crazy people." With the ballgame downplayed, the two teams stuck to the business on the field and provided an exciting finish to a skilled contest between the second and third place teams in the American League East. Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles hit back-to-back homers off Lee in the second and Jackson drove in one of two fourth-inning runs but it was Thurman Munson's fifth-inning to tag him out. Rick Burleson then ended the game by grounding out. "All three Red Sox Yankees games have been exciting," said Torre, noting each meeting of the clubs this season has been decided by one run. "I like playing for the Yankees because these guys like to win and so do I." Yet few players attack a baseball game as intensely as Lee, the Boston lefthander known for whimsical remarks and a sneaky slider and screwball. He refused to be satisfied with his first complete game since last September and focused instead on his early inning problems. "Early in the game I wasn't hitting my spots," said Lee, who got the first five batters on eight pitches before giving up the solo homers to Jackson and Nettles. "I guess I just got a false sense of security after getting those batters out so quickly. You know they say, 'Beware of Greeks bearing gifts.' " "But it wasn't the second inning that hurt; it was that walk leading off the fifth. It always seems it's a walk that leads to my demise. If we could have kept the score to 4-2, we might have been able to catch them." The Red Sox did lead for a short time, taking a 1-0 edge in the first inning on singles by Burleson and Fred Lynn and a double play grounded by Jim Rice. Boston also tied the game in the second inning on a single by Doyle, but a Lou Piniella triple, a Jackson single and a double by Jim Wynn put the Yankees back ahead in the fourth inning. Lynn, bothered by a lingering lower leg injury, fell twice chasing balls off the wall in the fourth, but attributed the slips to his plastic-soled spikes rather than his sore left ankle. "The first fall was embarrassing but the second one really burned me," said Lynn. The largest crowd of the season was quiet during the falls and well-behaved throughout the game. Only two firecrackers and one frizzle were thrown on the field, along with a softball that hit Jackson in right field. The teams wind up their two-game series tonight with Reggie Cleveland, 2-3, facing Gil Patterson, 1-1.

Eckersley never doubted for moment he was going to throw no-hit game The flame-throwing right-hander walked Tony Solata with two out in the first, the retired straight batters until Bob Bonds reached safely on a third-strike wild pitch in the eighth. Eckersley coasted Don Baylor to bounce into an inning-ending double play to smother that threat and preserve the 1-0 victory. Virtually ignored was the brilliant masterpiece thrown by Eckersley's counterpart Frank Tanana, who pitched a complete game only a triple by Kuper and a squeeze bunt by Jim Norris in the first inning ruined his shutout bid as Tanana's record dropped to 8-2. Elsewhere in the American League, New York edged Boston, 5-4, Oakland dropped Detroit,

Joy of pitching no-hit, no-run game

Mariners 7-9, Rangers 4-3. Ruppert Jones put Seattle in front with a two-run double in the first game and Carlos Lopez banged out two solo homers and an RBI-double in the nightcap to provide the Mariners with the doubleheader win. Enrique Romo, 2-3, picked up the initial win in relief and John Montague pitched six innings in the second game to push his record to 4-3. Brewers 4-3, White Sox 3-8. Ralph Garr belted a two-

Cleveland pitcher Dennis Eckersley signals one more out to go in ninth inning. (left). He then points finger at catcher Ray Fosse after he struck out Gil Flores for final out and right he jumps with joy after tossing no-hitter. (UPI photo) runner homer and Alan Banister smacked a two-run single to give the White Sox the second game of a doubleheader after Leron LaGrow walked Don Money with the bases loaded in the eighth inning of the opener to give the Brewers a victory. Jim Slaton, 3-5, got the win in the first game while Steve Stone upped his record to 6-3 with a complete game win in the nightcap. Orioles 9, Twins 7. Lee May slammed two homers, collected four hits and drove in five runs as Ross Grimsley picked up his fifth win in eight decisions. Baltimore third baseman Doug DeCinces was carried from the field on a stretcher after colliding with Twins second baseman Bob Randall when he tried to advance from first to a grand slam. DeCinces suffered a broken nose and possible internal injuries.

Dear Abby. DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old liberated woman. I've tried sex and I don't dislike it, but it's not worth all the trouble.

DEAR ABBY: I clipped and saved the above from your column because I felt exactly the way CONTENT felt, and I applauded your answer.

DEAR SILENT: Were I to ask my readers for responses to the question of how men and women feel about the importance of sex, the results would not be conclusive because (a) those who readily volunteer information about their sex lives tend to be exhibitionists and therefore not typical; (b) I suspect that people like about their sex lives more than any other subject.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a six-unit apartment house that is small, so we have gotten to know our neighbors.

DEAR NORTH: I fail to see how your neighbor's fascination with his neighbors' trash can be considered a "problem" to you. If it's his "biggest enjoyment in life," why not regard it as a weird and somewhat childish pleasure, and let it go at that.

North Meadows is not forgotten

By MAL BARLOW

East Hartford Reporter "The North Meadows is not forgotten," said Arthur "Gerry" Girouard, chairman of the East Hartford Economic Development Commission (EDC), last week.

Jack Horbeck, member of the EDC and executive director of the East Hartford Chamber of Commerce, told the EDC that business leaders with land in the North Meadows were frustrated.

The North Meadows is an area bounded roughly by the Connecticut River, Governor St. and Prospect St. There is a mix of single-family homes, multi-family homes, stores, and light and heavy industry there.

The town's building inspector, Frank Barone, told the Town Council recently it is the only area in town which might be called "blighted," mainly due to the mix.

Horbeck said six North Meadows leaders who are also members of the chamber are concerned about work plans of the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) to rip up streets there. The MDC will put in sewer lines. Most of the North Meadows now relies on septic systems.

The sewer lines will be paid for largely by assessments on the property owners. This might be alright if, when the MDC was through, the general state of the area was much better than it is now.

With or without sewers, the North Meadows needs a plan for the future, Horbeck said.

North Meadows leaders are hoping the MDC will at least lead the town to re-align, widen and improve the streets, he said.

Girouard told him he worked with North Meadows leaders when he was president of the chamber. He knows their problems.

He appointed EDC members Henry Genga, Frank Collins, Horbeck, himself and the town's economic development director, Warren Sullivan, to a North Meadows committee. They will meet with North Meadows leaders.

"We'll proceed from there," Girouard said.

The six leaders Horbeck mentioned own about 88 per cent of the North Meadows.

Last week, Mayor Richard Blackstone proclaimed Youth Employment Week to help raise consciousness of employers about hiring youth. To get a job or fill a job, call her at 568-0181. The mayor said East Hartford youth need part time and summer jobs. The jobs give them pocket money and meaningful experiences which guide them into adult life. She said she has far found about 15 jobs for kids with local business leaders. But she needs far more for those young people who told her they are eager to work.

Memorial Day address

'You're a good man, Uncle Sam'

By Hope Saspotas
I appreciate being with you today to bring a brief commercial for the good guys...

Tell them about the Wright Brothers who gave us wings...
Thomas Edison who gave us the phonograph so we can hear music more and perhaps enjoy it less...

From the one-room schoolhouse — where the teacher started the fire in the stove each morning and taught all the children to read...

From the one-room schoolhouse — where the teacher started the fire in the stove each morning and taught all the children to read...

We suffer from guilt when we should be saying, 'We're not perfect, we've made mistakes,' but we differ from any other nation in that we try to do better.

Somehow we insist on being apologetic about our accomplishments. Why should a Canadian journalist have to write glowingly in praise of our American generosity to any country experiencing a catastrophe?

Let us remember...
Uncle Sam has no hands but ours...
Uncle Sam has no character but ours...

Tell them about Henry Ford, who put America on wheels, and gave us the impossible dream of two cars in every garage...

from a trip when a trip to New Britain was the long ride, to the controversial Concorde where we can get to England quicker than you can get to West Hartford on I-84 at 5 p.m.

Solar future is now

The future of solar energy is now. Contrary to the popular impression that harnessing the heat of the sun is one of the "exotic" energy sources whose development is many years away, a veritable boom is taking place in the solar energy field.

A recent estimate by the Federal Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) indicates that some 5,000 homes in the United States are now heated completely or in part by solar energy units. Two years ago, there were just 183 such homes.

In addition, approximately 5,000 new solar hot water heaters are in operation, plus uncounted thousands of solar swimming pools.

The boom is barely beginning. According to one expert, the number of buildings heated by solar is doubling every six or eight months. "It's exploding."

In his energy message, President Carter expressed hope that the number of solar homes would jump to 2.5 million in the near future, spurred by his proposed tax credit to homeowners and businesses converting to solar.

Last year, the Department of Housing and Urban Development spent $4 million to encourage construction of nearly 1,500 solar homes. Lending institutions are also financing an increasing number of solar homes, not all of them in sunny parts of the country by any means.

A typical homeowner on Long Island, for example, can reduce his hot water heating bill by 50 per cent with a solar system.

Hundreds of companies are becoming active in the field, ranging from giants like Grumman, General Motors and General Electric to small ones like Mor-Flo Industries of Cleveland and Universal Solar Energy of Miami.

A spokesman for Mor-Flo, which also makes gas and electric water heaters, predicts that solar water heaters will have sales of $893 million within five years, $2.4 billion within 10 years and $4.1 billion in 15 years.

This is only a small part of the action. Nationally, says the founder of Universal Solar Energy, solar heating and cooling will become a $50 billion industry in the foreseeable future.

With so many different solar collectors now available, costing from several hundred to a couple thousand dollars — investments that can be recovered in a few years even if the prices of conventional fuels don't continue to rise — the question is why we still think of solar energy as "something in the future."

One reason, suggests Joseph G. Gavin, president of Grumman Corp., may be the name Solar energy sounds like space technology, something exotic, complicated and expensive. Actually, anyone reasonably handy with tools can build a solar collector from material readily available from a local lumber yard.

Another reason for the misperception, he says, is that most publicity about solar energy has to do with future-oriented research projects being conducted by such agencies as ERDA and NASA. Solar energy is also wrapped up in the idea of "energy independence," which is asking more of it than it will ever be able to deliver.

But while more research is certainly needed, and while solar energy will never account for more than a small, though significant, percentage of our total energy needs, the country is overlooking the opportunity to use what we have right now, says Gavin.

Solar energy requires no invention, no new government agencies, no new installation or servicing skills, no new manufacturing or distribution methods.

All it requires is for individual homeowners who are fed up with the rising cost of fuel to realize that they can become not just energy consumers but energy producers — now.

It is stated in the article that Police Chief Kjelquist felt that the group did a great job on being cooperative and cleaning up afterward. I visited the area Sunday morning and found the area in a littered condition with papers, cans and much other trash all about. I have written a letter to the Town Council voicing my displeasure on the whole matter of this affair.

The article also states that there were three one-car accidents in the area Saturday night. It stated that none of the accidents were serious. I feel that any automobile accident is serious and even more so when injuries occur. Two of these accidents sent people to the hospital. I feel an accident is serious when the police and fire department rescue and ambulance personnel are called upon to respond. I feel that there are enough accidents in any town without letting a group such as this come into town.

I feel that the town manager desires to make some changes to the town rules in regards to this type of gathering and all interested citizens should let him know their feelings. The recreation facilities of this town are for the use of town citizens seeing as we are paying for them to be used and not abused. Thank you.

Sincerely,
George E. Rose Jr.

Civil rights battle goes on

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There are some wars that just won't stay won. The same ground must be taken over and over, each time with painful casualties.

They understand that all too well at the Justice Department, where the battle for civil rights which most Americans thought had ended a decade ago continues all but unnoticed in hundreds of small encounters.

Even now, in 1977, scarcely a week goes by without some brief notice in our mail like the one dated May 11:

More suits
"The Department of Justice filed a civil suit today charging the owner of a bar in Lacy-Lakeview, Texas with refusing to serve blacks and racially mixed groups on the premises."

It is easy to overlook these laconic little press releases. No single case ever appears to amount to much. The "regulars" down at the department shrug them off, calling them "Joe's Diner" cases too minor to merit a news story.

But taken together, the public accommodations suits constitute an astonishing and depressing commentary on the pace of social progress in this country.

17 years after
Seventeen years after the first lunch-counter sit-ins at Greensboro, N.C., and 13 years after enactment of the landmark Civil Rights Act of 1964, these suits still account for the bulk of the civil rights cases filed by the Justice Department each year.

"It's hard to believe, isn't it?" said one Justice Department lawyer who handles many of the public accommodations cases. "You'd think that in this day and age the message would have gotten through."

Not complicated
There is seldom anything complicated about the "Joe's Diner" cases. The vast majority occur in small towns of the Deep South and involve a blatant denial of access to bars, restaurants, golf courses, swimming pools, ballfields and barber shops.

Some are heart-rending, like the 1974 suit against a white Louisiana funeral home director who refused to make funeral arrangements for the stillborn daughter of a black Air Force enlisted man.

Others are simply absurd, like the Houston night club the Justice Department sued last year for refusing to admit black males without dates. White men, with or without dates, were welcome at the nightclub. Women of any race were welcome, with or without escorts. But no black men unless accompanied by a date.

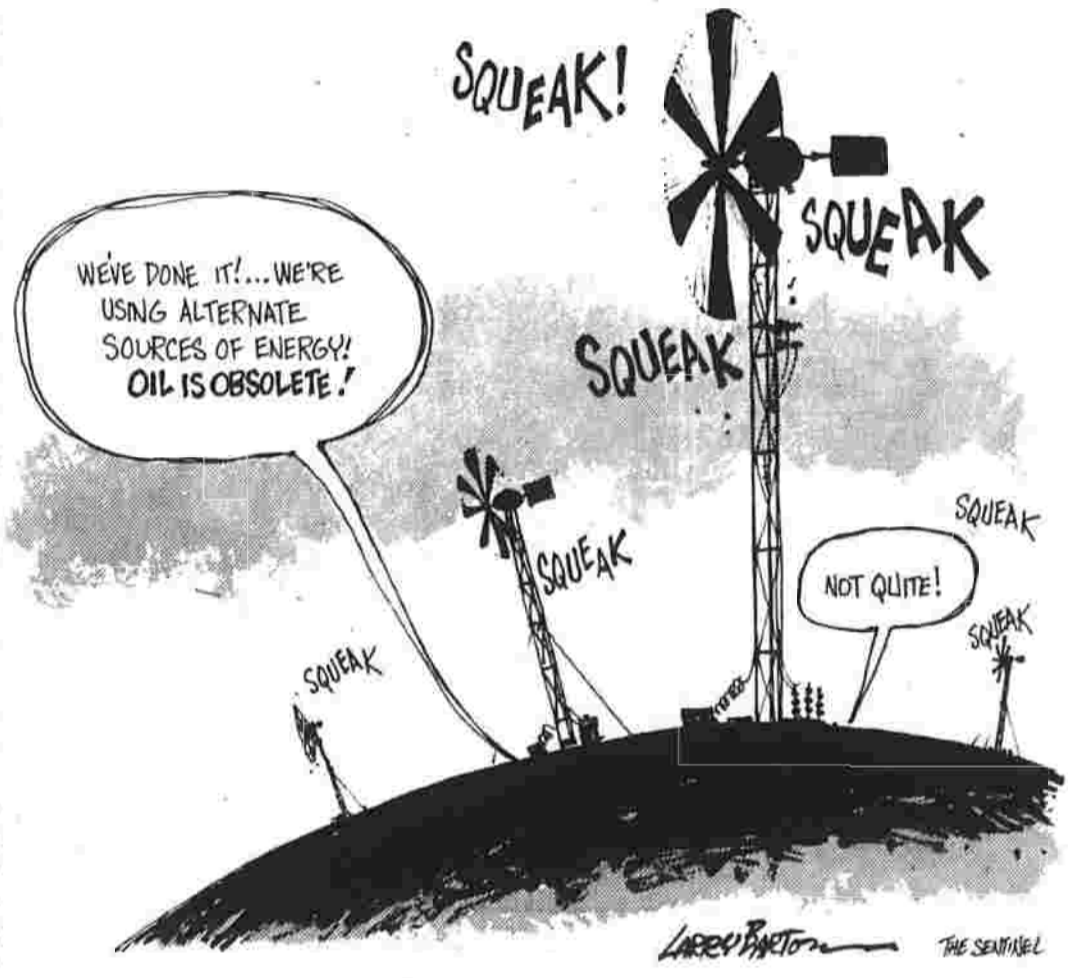

Most of the public accommodations cases reach the Justice Department after the victims of discrimination complain to their local FBI office, to a civil rights group which refers the complaint upward, or to the local police.

Many are brought to the department's attention by the military, for black servicemen are often the victims of exclusion at bars and restaurants near bases in the South.

Never lose
According to a department spokesman, Justice has never lost a public accommodations suit. About 85 per cent of the cases are settled out of court through consent decrees in which the owner of the establishment being sued promises to cease discriminatory practices and post notices that his premises are open to all, regardless of race, creed or national origin.

It is reassuring to learn that law enforcement agencies, from Southern police forces to the FBI and the Justice Department, are vigorously pursuing violations of the Civil Rights Act whenever they find discrimination.

But how shameful it is, for all of us — North and South, black and white — that any American should still face humiliation simply for exercising a constitutional right to seek a meal, a drink or a haircut in a place of public accommodation. It is not the victims of such discrimination who should feel degraded, but rather the perpetrators.

Coventry rock concert report said inaccurate

In the 23 May issue of The Herald there appeared an article in regards to a "Rock Concert" in Coventry. I firmly believe that this article was written with tongue in cheek.

First of all there was a 4-H Club in town that rode on horseback to the park area on Saturday morning to have a picnic lunch. This was a group of children and upon arrival at the park dogs chased the ponies and horses. Also there was much drinking going on in the area among other goings on. Secondly I disagree that most were high school students and if they were why was there approximately 30 kegs of beer in the area. I firmly believe that the permit was obtained fraudulently.

It is stated in the article that Police Chief Kjelquist felt that the group did a great job on being cooperative and cleaning up afterward. I visited the area Sunday morning and found the area in a littered condition with papers, cans

We flew to London May 20, on the 50th anniversary of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris. The TWA pilot noted it to our 184 charter flight passengers. He recalled the history of aviation from 1907 to the accident to Wimbledon on the same day as Lindbergh's, the pilot said.

Great Britain, and London, we found, were excitingly getting ready for the Silver Jubilee; as advanced tourists, we were playing some part in that preparation.

Ask Herb and Helen McKinney; they saw the Queen and the Royal Family at Edinburgh, the same day of the Ceremony of the Thistle. Jubilee finds Great Britain spruced up for the year; most buildings have been sand-blasted; flags of all sizes are flying. It's a year for the colors of red, white and blue.

You should try a Medieval Banquet at Beefeaters! it's a fascinating experience!

We found a poet cabbie who showed us the most haunted house in London and ran off some of his verses; he showed us the magazine story of "The Poet Cab Driver."

Did you read the story about the ADC Accurate vessel that will race around the world beginning in August with Ms. Clair Francis as its captain and a crew of 11? It was docked right at our hotel.

Great Britain and London are fascinating this year. You can ask the Jack Von Deeks Sr. and Jr., the Charlie Burrs, the Dave Nichols, the Haughs, the Charlie Lynns, the Bob Douglans, the Randy Browns, the Mill Turkingtons who had family over from Ireland for a visit in London.

Or Stan Baldwin, the Frank Sheldons, the Tom Fergusons and the Wall Fergusons, the Herb Kingsburys, Clarence Kabrick and Will Johnson, Doris Gorsch, Dot Ford, the Pennys, and Florence Johnson. They were there, too.

The Silver Jubilee is just beginning; the Royal Family spent May in Scotland and now has returned to Great Britain for events leading up to the birthday celebration, the Trooping of the Color, the fireworks show on the Thames River.

Tell you more next Monday.

Supernatural growth
The scientific name of mistletoe, "Phoradendron flavescens," is from the Greek and the first phrase literally means "tree thief."

Growing on the tree, mistletoe makes its own sugar and starch from its own chlorophyll, but draws on its host for water and certain minerals. Mistletoe seeds are carried from tree to tree by birds. In ancient times, the Druids saw something supernatural in a plant growing and flourishing without roots in the earth.

Winter's deadly toll

Another side effect of the terrible winter just passed has been reported, one much more tragic than high heating bills and fuel shortages.

According to the National Safety Council, the winter-ravished month of January 1977 saw home accident deaths soar 33 per cent over the same period in 1976. Preliminary statistics show that all classifications of home deaths were far above those for an average January.

Fire deaths, for example, zoomed at least 60 per cent and poisonings by gases and vapors, mainly carbon monoxide, jumped 40 per cent because of the strain put on home heating units and the use of makeshift devices to combat the bitter cold.

About the only good thing that can be said about the month is that traffic deaths were down 10 per cent.

Surprisingly, the severe weather which forced people to remain at home, away from jobs and schools and off the highways, hit the younger population the hardest. Home deaths for all age groups rose except for the elderly aged 65-74, with the largest fatality rates occurring among children and young adults.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Had a great weekend (not long enough) and hope you did, too. Fond memories were recalled Saturday night listening to the Mills Brothers who were appearing at an area supper club.

When they sang "You Always Hurt the One You Love," "Up a Lazy River," and "You're Nobody Till Somebody Loves You," they took me back (way back) to the old State Theatre in Hartford.

I can recall standing in line with my little autograph book at the rear entrance to the theatre hoping for the door to open.

It usually did — a hand would reach out and take the book — the door would shut. After a few minutes, it would open again, a hand would return your book and you never did get to see the celebrity.

But in those days it really didn't matter. You had seen them on stage, and there on a pink or yellow or blue page were the autographs.

The supper club crowd was very receptive to the Mills Brothers music and they received a standing ovation after almost every song.

Would you believe they first recorded in 1927, and the gimmick they used (as they refer to it) was using their voices to sound like instruments as they sang? They did their original rendition of "Basin Street Blues" in that manner and it was just tremendous.

Had an opportunity to chat with Harry Mills, spokesman for the trio, one day last week and he said the brothers there were originally four, one has passed on) started at ages 9, 10, 11 and 12. Now entering their 51st year in show biz, they have kept their unmatchable style and are living proof that good music never dies — it doesn't even fade away.

I asked Harry if the group had a favorite song and he said, "They all are our favorites, but 'Paper Doll' which we recorded in 1940 is one we really enjoy doing."

If one could turn back the hands of time, would the Mills Brothers have done things differently, perhaps gone into another type of business? Harry says, "No."

"We started at such an early age, our careers moved right along and we are still as busy as we want to be today. We never really gave thought to any other lifestyle."

He also told me that the trio was to be honored soon by several major record companies for making the most records in the history of recording making.

"We have recorded 1,246 songs since 1927. Counting both sides, that's a total of 2,492," Harry said.

On stage, the brothers recalled an engagement in Dallas, and as they sang a man in the audience kept asking for country-western music.

"We finally sang a little tune we had put together called 'Between Winston Salem and Nashville, Tenn.' and it went over big. 'So, currently we have a new album out. That's right — country-western,' Harry said.

When I asked him if there were any little Mills Brothers who might carry on the tradition, he said, "Yes. As a matter of fact my brother's sons are rehearsing now."

So, if we are lucky, we'll have many more years of the Mills Brothers and can look forward to hearing a younger version carry on in their inimitable style.

Israel voices concern over Carter position

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Foreign Minister Yigal Allon summoned the U.S. Ambassador today to express Israel's "deepened" concern over President Carter's recent statements calling for Israeli concessions in a Middle East peace settlement. "Our concern has deepened because of recent statements that introduced new elements that may only hinder already tough Arab positions," a Foreign Ministry official said.

He said Allon was reacting to statements by Carter and other officials about the need for a Palestinian homeland, payment of compensation to Palestinian refugees and a return to the borders before the 1967 Middle East war.

Carter said he expected Begin to moderate his position as a result of the negotiations called off by the DMC last week because its leaders were not consulted. In a letter to Yigal Yadin of the Democratic Movement for Change, Begin said "everything is open" for negotiations, including who will get which job in the cabinet.

The appeal to the DMC came after the Executive Committee of Begin's Likud party reconsidered a previous statement that did not clearly confirm or deny the controversial nomination of Dayan, a one-time Labor party defense minister. Yadin had demanded an explanation. "I am glad to say the executive committee adopted this reply," Begin said.

Ten lose lives in state mishaps

The weather was beautiful in Connecticut over Memorial Day weekend, but holiday remembrances were marred by four highway deaths in the state, three drownings and three fire fatalities.

Deaths in traffic accidents were: —Francis P. Cahill, 38, of 17 Lanz Lane, Ellington, who was pronounced dead at the scene of a one-car accident in Ellington at 2 a.m. today.

The sun was bright, but not too hot. The shade was cool but not chilly when the crowds lined both sides of Main and E. Center Sts. to watch the half-hour parade.

The main thrust of her address was that the United States is a great nation despite its mistakes and that its greatness comes from its people. (The text of the address is printed on Page 2.)

Kentucky fire kills at least 160 persons

SOUTHGATE, Ky. (UPI) — Only one of the once-luxurious 23 super rooms in the Beverly Hills Super Club remains to be searched by investigators armed with bulldozers and torches hunting for more bodies and clues to the Saturday night fire that killed at least 160 persons.

So far, Kentucky State Police Commissioner Ken Brandenburg said, officials have come across no evidence that arson was behind the smoky blaze, the worst in American history since 1944.

Police said Gault went to the home of his estranged wife on Russell Dr. and threatened her and a neighbor with a 22-caliber pistol. He was held at the police station and was to be presented in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, today.

Police said the men were believed to be in the building that housed a sports shop, a dentist's office and a dry cleaners on the ground floor. A fire Friday night claimed the life of 80-year-old Mabel Nadal, the retired athletic director emerita of Kent School.

Two loop opens First taste of action for Moriarty Bros. entry in the Hartford Twilight Baseball League comes tonight at Mt. Nebo's Moriarty Field against Vernon. Manager Gene Johnson of the MB's plans to start Dave Bidwell, ace right-hander out of Manchester High and Assumption College, against the Orioles who boast hard-hitting Steve Krajewski. The latter is fresh from a great season with Eastern Connecticut State College. Action starts at 6...Janet Guthrie, first member of her sex to qualify and compete in the Indianapolis 500, received $16,555 for her efforts. First major league manager of the season to walk the plank was John McNamara of San Diego and once again Al Dark is back in the managerial ranks. Question is what manager will be next to get a pink slip? High up on the list are Joe Frazier with the New York Mets, Billy Martin with the Yankees and Don Zimmer with Boston...Wells Trombly, outstanding sports columnist with the San Francisco Examiner, died yesterday at the age of 41 in San Francisco of an "acute internal disorder." A graduate of UConn, Trombly launched his career with the Willimantic Chronicle and for nearly two decades was on the major scene writing in Detroit, Houston and the West Coast.

Off the cuff

Larry Paniera, UConn baseball coach, has named ECAC District 1 coach of the year. The Huskies won 28 of 35 starts and the award was the fifth for the 55-year-old mentor...Hard to Believe Department: Joan Joyce was touched for 13 hits and nine runs in one Women's Professional Softball League game. That's the record for the Connecticut Falcon ace pitcher usually gives up in a dozen games. With the pitching distance changed, moving it back several feet, it could affect the world's No. 1 female softball pitcher, at least for a few weeks. Buffalo was the team that best Joyce before an unbeliever home crowd in that New York City...Frank Galasso reports 84 youngsters, most of whom are eight years of age, will compete in the Rookie Baseball League this season which starts tonight at Bowers Field. Galasso is handling Little League duties with Mike Nimerowski still on the ailing list after suffering an injury while working at his home...Lucille Prior and Edna Hilmink, both of the Manchester Country Club, placed two-three in the Women's State Class B golf tourney last week at Edgewood...Congratulations are due Harold Parks, Manchester High coach, who gained his 100th coaching win last week in clinching a berth in the State Tournament by beating Windham. Carroll Maddox, public relations chief at Manchester Community College, carries a five handicap in golf while playing out of the Manchester Country Club.

End of the line

When Fred Kozicki won the 1977 Men's Scratch Division 10-Pin Bowling Tournament he only added proof that he was the best in the field. The champ also paced the qualifying field. Fred Kozicki capped the honor by beating his brother, John. The latter was third best in the qualifying round. Also Manchester's former Manchester High and major league baseball player with the Chicago Cubs, has again turned out a winner at Gilbert High in Winsted. His team is the defending Class B champ.

Martin and Lee both silent as Yanks rally to top RSox

BOSTON (UPI) — Pitches and hits replaced tantrums and fits when the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees took the field Monday night for their nationally televised game that had been hyped up for the last week.

With the ballyhoo downplayed, the two teams stuck to the business on the field and provided an exciting finish to a skilled contest between the second and third place teams in the American League East.

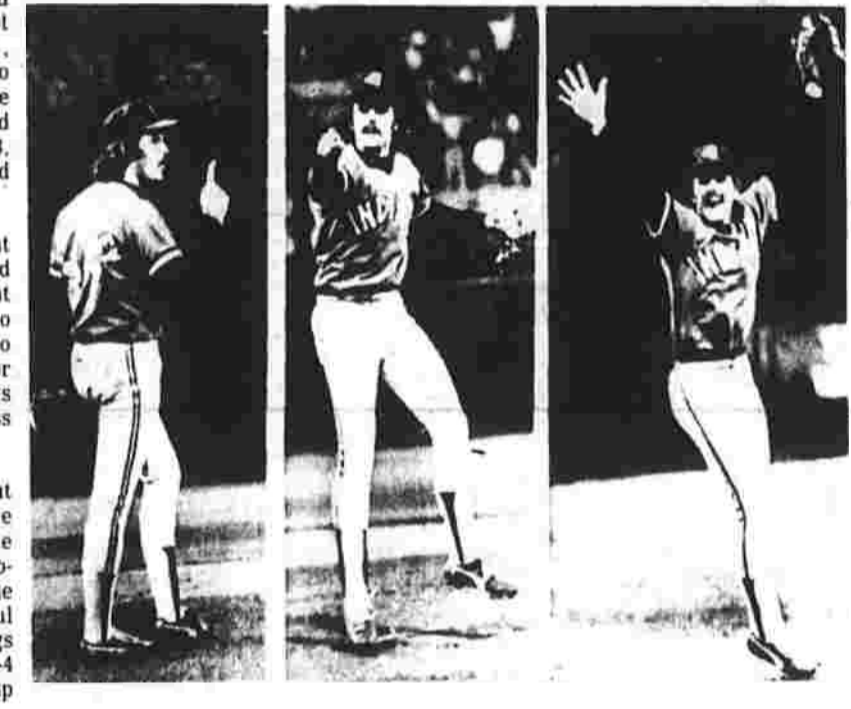

Reggie Jackson and Graig Nettles hit back-to-back homers off Lee in the second and Jackson drove in one of two fourth-inning runs led by Doyle, but a Lou Piniella triple, a Jackson single and a double by Jim Wynn put the Yankees back ahead in the fourth inning.

Eckersley never doubted for moment he was going to throw no-hit game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dennis Eckersley never doubted for a moment he was going to throw a no-hitter at the California Angels Monday night, and Joe Rudi's attempted kiss of death was certainly not enough to prevent it.

The flame-throwing right-hander walked Tom Solaita with two out in the first, then retired 19 straight batters until Bob Bonds reached safely on a third-strike wild pitch in the eighth.

6-3, Kansas City clipped Toronto, 4-1, Seattle swept Texas, 7-4 and 9-3, Milwaukee and Chicago split a pair, Milwaukee taking the opener, 4-3, and Chicago the nightcap, 8-3, and Baltimore outslugged Minnesota, 9-7.

Dark made two key moves with San Diego in first day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Aside from using 41 players Monday in piloting the San Diego Padres to a 12-8, 9-8 Memorial Day sweep of his former club, the San Francisco Giants, Alvin Dark made two key moves in his first day as manager. He shifted Mike Ivie from fifth to third in the batting order and summoned Rollie Fingers, his most trusted relief ace when he was with the Oakland A's, to finish up both games.

Dark employed a total of 13 pitchers in the two games. The doubleheader sweep extended the Padres' winning streak to four and propelled them over the Giants into third place in the National League West. Reds 7, Braves 3. Pete Rose broke a 3-3 tie with an RBI single and Ken Griffey added a two-run triple as the Reds scored four times to provide reliever Dale Murray with his second win. George Foster also had a solo home run for the Reds in the sixth which tied the score.

Jim Slaton, 3-5, got the win in the first game while Steve Stone upped his record to 6-3 with a complete game in the nightcap.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old liberated woman. I've tried sex and I don't dislike it, but it's not worth all the trouble.

Sex never was a very important part of my life, but most people think there is something wrong with a person who doesn't have a strong sex drive.

I am not frigid; I am very affectionate. I can lie in my lover's arms and enjoy the feeling of closeness, but if it doesn't culminate in the sex act, it's all right with me.

Am I weird? Or do you understand what I'm saying?

CONTENT

DEAR CONTENT: I understand what you're saying, and you are NOT weird. I think you are an intelligent, honest woman who values love above sex. No need to apologize for it.

DEAR ABBY: I clipped and saved the above from your column because I felt exactly the way CONTENT felt, and I applauded your answer.

I am a woman in my 50s, married 25 years, and I have a happy home and family life with my husband and three college-age children.

Knowing that a 36-year-old woman also felt that sex isn't worth the trouble gave me a great deal of comfort. So much emphasis is placed on sex these days that one gets the feeling that it is the ultimate in a relationship, and that love, understanding and affection are not enough.

How about running a survey, Abby? It would be interesting to find out how many women feel the same as typical. (a) I suspect that people lie about their sex lives more than any other subject.

THE AFFECTIONATE SILENT MAJORITY

DEAR NORTH: Were I ask my readers for responses to the question of how men and women feel about the importance of sex, the results would not be conclusive because: (a) those who readily volunteer information about their sex lives tend to be exhibitionists and therefore not typical; (b) I suspect that people lie about their sex lives more than any other subject.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a six-unit apartment house that is small, so we have gotten to know our neighbors.

My next-door neighbor is my problem. It seems that his biggest enjoyment in life is going through the trash barrels that sit on the side of our apartment building. These barrels contain the trash of everyone residing in this building, including my own.

How do I deal with this annoying situation?

N. HOLLYWOOD

DEAR NORTH: I fail to see how your neighbor's fascination with his neighbors' trash could present a "problem" to you. If it's his "biggest enjoyment in life," that sex is not really worth the trouble. Let's hear it from...
