Dog licenses now renewable

June is the month for renewing dog licenses and Manchester's town clerk's office will serve dog owners during its regular hours—Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. State law requires that each dog be licensed the month it becomes six months old and that the license be renewed each June. One of the licenses, for unneutered male dogs, has increased in price from $3.50 to $7.70. The fee for neutered males and spayed females remains at $3.50, and the fee for unspayed females remains at $7.70. A veterinarian's certificate must be presented for spayed or neutered dogs that have not previously been licensed. The fee for neutered

Grand jury report clears state of criminal acts in Reilly case

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — Connecticut authorities involved in the Peter A. Reilly arrest and prosecution have been cleared of criminal acts by a grand jury, but the question remains: Who killed Reilly's mother, Barbara Gibbons? The one-man grand jury, Superior Court Judge Maurice J. Spozzo, issued his report Wednesday. He criticized the way state police and the chief state's attorney handled Reilly's arrest and prosecution in the 1973 killing of his mother, but said no crimes were committed. "There have been errors in judgment. There has been a misapplication of the law. Many persons have failed to appreciate the scope and limits of their powers and duties," he said.

Squaring dance is Saturday

Manchester Square Dance Club invites all club level dancers to its dance Saturday from 8 to 11 p.m. at Tilling Junior High School. John Hendron, guest caller on the Red Book label. Hendron also is the club caller for the Windsor Old Towners. Russ and Anita White will cue the rounds. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Gilbert will have door duty. Refreshments will be served by Mr. and Mrs. A. Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Glidie, Mr. and Mrs. Fran Hale, and Mr. and Mrs. Miller Haugh. Dancers are reminded that soft-soled shoes are required.

Smoking ban extension signed

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso has signed legislation increasing further the number of public areas in Connecticut where smoking is prohibited. Currently, smoking is banned at public meetings as long as no smoking signs are posted. The change, which takes effect Oct. 1, would also restrict smoking in classrooms, elevators or health care facilities.

Violation of the law, signed Wednesday, would carry a $5 fine. Mrs. Grasso also signed a bill prohibiting disclosure of customers' financial records by banks except in certain specified situations.

Shriners to get service awards

Three Shriners with strong Manchester connections will receive Shrine service pins during the Sphinx Temple Spring Ceremonial here Saturday. They are Dr. George A. F. Lundberg, who is in his 50th year as a Shriner; Albert Knofla, 51 years; and Phillip J. Ranney, 58 years. Dr. Lundberg lives at 223 E. Center St. Knofla is at the Meadows. Ranney, who was manager of the Southern New England Telephone Co. office in Manchester for many years, lives at 1702 Main St. in East Hartford. The elder statesman of Shriners will ride in the parade that begins at 1:30 p.m. The route is from Bennett Junior High School north on Main St. to the Center, east on E. Center St. and north on Brookfield St. to Manchester High School. When he was more active in the Shrine, Dr. Lundberg was a member of the Medical Directors staff. Knofla belonged to Omar Shrine Club. They will receive their pins from Illustrious Potentate Hal Turkington of Manchester. More than 1,000 Shriners are expected in town for the all-day affair. Ritual work and candidate initiation will be at Clarke Arena of MHS; dinner and an afterglow party will be at The Colony in Talcottville. Invited guests are coming from several New England states and from Masonic bodies in Connecticut. In addition, Bermuda Masons will confer a Masonic degree Friday night at Tilling Junior High School.

Middle East uncertainty

Chances for peace in the Middle East have been placed in jeopardy by the stunning results of Israel's recent parliamentary elections. For the first time in the 29 years of Israel's existence, the ruling Labor party has been ousted from dominance in the Knesset (parliament). Heading up a new coalition government will be the hardline, right-wing Likud party, led by onetime Zionist terrorist Menahem Begin, whose election platform called for continued Israeli control of the territories seized in the 1967 war. Since two of these territories, the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, have been proposed as possible sites for a Palestinian state, and since resolution of the Palestinian problem is at the heart of any permanent Mideast peace settlement, the turnout in Israeli politics is an ominous development. Such is the current speculation, anyway. But this speculation is based on the highly dubious assumption that only Israeli intransigence about the conquered territories stands in the way of peace with the Arabs — that all Israel has to do is return to its pre-1967 borders and the Arabs are prepared to offer a quick pro quo in the form of recognition of Israel and ironclad guarantees of its national security. It also ignores the domestic factors which contributed to Labor's eclipse, particularly the corruption scandals involving high government officials and a 38 per cent inflation rate. The election was much more a rebuke to the Labor party than it was a popular mandate for the Likud hawks, who in any event have far from any election platform called for continued Israeli control of the territories seized in the 1967 war. As for the wider ramifications, it is not impossible that a Likud-led government may actually be able to take bolder strides toward accommodation with the Arab world than Labor was ever able to, just as in this country, conservative, anti-Community Richard Nixon was able to lift the Iron and Bamboo Curtains to an extent no Democratic president dared attempt. The present uncertainty in Israeli politics has, in fact, placed the initiative for peace in the Middle East where it has always belonged — with the Arabs. If this is cause for pessimism, it says more about the Arabs than it does about the Israelis.

Use of returnable bottles suggested

To the editor: Now that the legislature and big business have killed the throwaway bottle bill, it's up to the people to stop getting things pushed down their throats. Anyone interested in buying soda in returnable bottles just has to look under beverage in the yellow pages of the phone book; some even deliver to the home. You would also help if you do buy there and send letter to the soda companies telling them the reason for the change. These local companies have different size bottles too, not only quarts. Now is the time of the year to do it and the big companies will get the message. You won't have to wait another year; they will give you returnable on their own. Also by buying from these local people you may help make a few jobs. Robert Slattery 598 W. Middle Tpk. Manchester

Headline protested

To the editor: The headline on the arrest of Judith Levy, acting chairwoman of the Connecticut Animal Shelter, was unfair and misleading. Mrs. Levy is not a "fan" of animals but a humanitarian who has helped and saved many animals from suffering and certain death. Although I do not know the facts of the case, I am certain that Mrs. Levy was extending herself to help these animals in answer to a complaint of suspected cruelty to animals. If Sarah Sherwin was no longer residing at her previous address, and the animals were left unattended by her, then she (the animal owner) should be arrested and prosecuted, not Mrs. Levy. Let us try to stop the irresponsibility of some pet owners and not the work of humanitarians. Marcella Palumbo 102 Madison St. East Hartford

Pornographers use mails at their own peril

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — What hath the Supreme Court wrought in its latest assault on the publishers of material that is either pornographic or interesting, depending on one's point of view? I can only speculate, but as this is written I must assume that publishers of mags such as Playboy, Playgirl and others are in considerable peril. For the Court has ruled, 5 to 4, that a state cannot compel the federal government to allow the mails to be used for the dissemination of obscene materials. The decision upheld the conviction in Des Moines, Iowa, of one Jerry Lee Smith who mailed dirty magazines and films to two postal inspectors who requested them under assumed names. Smith was convicted and sentenced under the so-called "Comstock Law" passed by Congress in 1873. However, the state of Iowa decriminalized the mailing of such matter in 1974, forbidding distribution only to minors. Thus, Smith argued in his appeal that what he did was confined to Iowa and should be judged only by state law. "Whether the average person, applying contemporary community standards, would find that the work, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest of adults," describes, in a patently offensive way, sexual conduct specifically defined by the applicable state law, and "whether the work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value." Guidelines used Obviously, the jury in Smith's case judged his product by those guidelines. Even so, the Iowa statute almost surely would have won Smith a reversal had it not been for the involvement of the federal government and its Comstock Law. All of which would give me pause were I the publisher of Penthouse, Hustler, Intrigue, et al. There is on my desk a free copy of Penthouse, delivered by its promotion department to my address by U.S. mail. It contains a coupon by which I can buy a year's subscription to the magazine. Copies of the magazine would be delivered by the Postal Service. A federal crime? Given the Supreme Court's decision, then, the question can be raised without prejudice: How many more publishers of purportedly obscene magazines will be hauled into court for improper use of the U.S. mail? The highest bench seems to say that it is a federal crime, per se, to mail certain "sexual" matter; it ruled for the federal prosecution in the Des Moines case. But it also ruled that judges handling federal cases could allow juries to give proper weight to state legislation regarding obscenity. Thus it would seem that the millionaires of the printed flesh trade would be safe in such tolerant states as, say, New York and California. Broadminded juries That doesn't mean that in those states the flesh traders could not be prosecuted by federal law enforcement officers for alleged improper use of the mails. It does mean that New York and California juries would be more broadminded in reaching a verdict. So here we go again. Having won in Iowa, despite that state's decriminalization of smut—or fan—postal inspectors can be expected to pursue their crusade. After all, outside the big cosmopolitan centers, members of the average jury usually do not wish publicly to be discovered endorsing explicit appeals "to the prurient interest." Perhaps the Supreme Court should try again, so both sides will know — incontrovertibly — where they stand.

The Mondale road show keeps rolling along

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters CHICAGO — (NEA) — There is nothing quite like a trip to the Second City to clear a vice presidential head of any delusions of grandeur which might be collecting there. Although Walter F. Mondale seems well on the way to becoming the most active and influential vice president in history, he hasn't escaped the partisan political chaff that presidents traditionally joff off on their second bananas. That is why, less than 24 hours after his return from an exhausting 10-day round of talks with world leaders, Mondale hustled out to Chicago to show the Carter colors at the annual fundraising dinner of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee. A challenge In its way, the Chicago trip represented as great a challenge to Mondale's diplomatic skills as his recently concluded negotiations with South African Prime Minister John Vorster. His presence in Chicago was about as welcome to the Cook County Democrats as his tough talk on apartheid was to Vorster. It's not that Mondale is unloved by Chicago Democrats. During last year's campaign, after all, he spent so much time among them he practically qualified for an alderman's seat. It's just that Fritz Mondale isn't president of the United States. Jimmy Carter is, and by the old rules, he should have been on the date last week with the biggest wheels of the biggest political machine left in American politics. New rules But Jimmy Carter doesn't play by the old rules, as his fellow Democrats are finally beginning to realize. He sent his regrets — and his vice president. Such an affront would have been unthinkable if Hizzoner Richard J. Daley were still among the living. Even with Daley in his grave, the Carter smut was deeply resented. "Mondale," sniffed one Chicago congressman, "is about eighth best. And there isn't any two through seven." No picky Fortunately for Fritz, Democrats elsewhere aren't nearly so picky as the Cook County crew. Like most presidents, Carter is cultivating a lofty leader-of-all-the-people posture. His Los Angeles speech to the United Auto Workers, a liberal union which backed him early and well, was the closest thing to an overtly political appearance that Carter has made this year. But Mondale has taken up the slack, appearing at nine party functions so far. Four were Jefferson-Jackson Day dinners, the traditional movable feast of the Democratic party, in Atlanta, Detroit, Little

Fatter paychecks to begin this month

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There should be a couple of dollars extra in the next paychecks of most Americans, but a few will find their checks short by a dollar or so. The new tax law became effective when it was signed by the President last month. It called for adjusted withholding rates beginning June 1. But the next checks may not reflect the new rates, since many businesses are not set up to change their withholding rates fast enough to reflect the adjustment. Six weeks or longer may be required in some cases. The lower withholding rates will average about $2 per week below old rates, with the largest decrease — about $4 a week — going to middle-income couples in roughly the $10,000-$12,000 per year range. Some single people — those making $13,750 a year or more who use the standard deduction — may find an extra dollar taken out of their paychecks since they actually received a small tax increase in the law. The changes came about when the standard deduction was changed from a percentage calculation to a flat rate of $2,200 for single taxpayers and $3,200 for couples.

Farr-Scheinost

Nancy E. Scheinost of Bolton and David B. Farr of Manchester were married April 23 at St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel at the University of Connecticut.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Howard P. Chase of Glastonbury and the late William F. Scheinost. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Farr of Manchester.

The Rev. Gerald Sullivan of Storrs performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with spring flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Howard P. Chase of Glastonbury, wore an ivory-colored gown with lace angel wing sleeves. She wore a floral crown and carried a bouquet of white carnations, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

Susan M. Bessette of Middletown was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Flavell, Alice Kehoe, and Debbie Fogarty, all of Manchester. Lisa Humason of New Bedford, Mass., the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl.

Donald R. Farr of Manchester was his brother's best man. Ushers were Michael Aronne and Leo Tedone, both of East Hartford; and Damian Tedone of Manchester. Kevin Humason of New Bedford, Mass., the bridegroom's nephew, was ring bearer.

A reception was held at Hale Farm's Clubhouse in Glastonbury, after which the couple left for Newport, R.I. They are residing in Manchester.

Mrs. Farr is attending Manchester Community College. Mr. Farr, a 1977 graduate of the University of Connecticut, is employed by Avco Financial Services in Hartford. (Forrest photo)

Meat, cheese not equal

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have high blood pressure and have been on medication and a diet. I have lost weight so I am off medications. My diet calls for six ounces of meat daily. I don't like meat. Could I have cottage cheese or cheddar cheese in place of meat or are they much higher in cholesterol than meat?

DEAR READER - At least you have demonstrated one point: if a person is overweight and loses weight it will often lower his blood pressure. That is why I always advise people with high blood pressure to eliminate every pound of body fat they can.

To give you more information about blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter number 14. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I would not advise substituting cheese for meat unless your dietitian looks at your entire diet. The cheddar cheese contains over twice as many calories per ounce as lean round steak so you may defeat your calorie control program if you use six ounces of it instead of meat. It is also very high in fat and about half of the fat is saturated fat. It contains a little more cholesterol than lean beef.

Cottage cheese is fine and creamed cottage cheese contains fewer calories per ounce than lean beef - uncreamed cottage cheese contains more protein per ounce than the creamed variety. And you would need to eat about eight ounces of that a day to provide the same number of grams of protein as you get in six ounces of meat.

I think cottage cheese is a good item for weight control diets but it is probably best for most people to still have some meat in the diet. Since there are fewer calories in the uncreamed variety of cottage cheese it is better of the two for this purpose - it provides both calcium and protein.

Because foods contain different numbers of calories per ounce usually you cannot make a straight ounce for ounce substitution of one food for another.

Block offers free service

H&R Block, tax preparation firm, is offering a free service to more than one million taxpayers who will benefit from the newly enacted tax revision bill just signed by President Carter, according to Barbara Gagnon, manager of H&R Block in Hartford County.

As a public service, the tax experts at H&R Block at 527 Farmington Ave., Hartford, or at 358 Rear W. Middle Tpk., Manchester, will help taxpayers amend their 1976 tax returns in order to claim the refund for which they may now qualify under the new tax law.

If taxpayers were paid for the time lost from their jobs last year due to illness or injury, or if the taxpayers were 65 or older on or before Jan. 1, 1977, they may qualify for the benefits of this change in tax law.

To find out, taxpayers should call 238-1801 or 646-8440, or bring their 1976 tax return with them to H&R Block, who will help them fill out their amended tax return free of charge. There is no obligation, and the taxpayer does not have to be a Block customer.

Senate okays housing-aid bill

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Senate has unanimously approved a bill designed to give more people the chance to own their own home.

Eligible persons would receive a state loan to cover the cost of a down payment under the measure approved Wednesday and sent to the House of Representatives. The bill calls for a $4 million fund to be set aside for loans, which would be in the form of low-interest second mortgages.

The buyer would have to qualify for a regular first mortgage from a commercial lending institution to pay the rest of the purchase price.

The fund would be financed from the sale of general obligation bonds, with repayment of the bonds to be made from the state treasury.

The Department of Community Affairs would administer the fund and set regulations covering eligibility, repayment terms, interest rates and what to do if the borrower fails to repay the money.

Two added to honor roll

Mrs. Frank C. Perkins
Mrs. Catherine Corbier Perkins, 62, of 23 Autumn St. died Wednesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Harold G. Davis
ELLINGTON - Harold G. Davis, 83, formerly of Main St., died Wednesday at an area convalescent home.

Mrs. Perkins was employed as an assistant registrar and secretary in the registrar's of voters office in the Municipal Building for 17 years before her retirement Jan. 1.

Mr. Davis was born July 16, 1893 in Ellington, son of the late Dr. E.T. and Lottie Clapp Davis, and had lived here all his life. Before retiring in 1959, he was employed for 17 years at the Assumption. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery.

Mrs. Perkins is also survived by two sons, Charles F. Perkins of Alstead, N.H., and William D. Perkins of Kansas City, Kan.; a daughter, Mrs. Jane Hedlund of New Haven; a brother, Thomas J. Corner of Manchester; a sister, Miss Florence R. Corbier of Manchester; and two grandchildren.

He was a past noble grand of the Rockville Lodge of Elks and a member of Fayette Lodge of Masons Rockville.

The funeral is Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St. Burial will be in East Cemetery.

Survivors are a son, Harold G. Davis Jr. of Norman, Okla.; two daughters, Mrs. Harriet D. Clowes of Sterling and Mrs. Carroll D. Quimby of Salem, Ore.; a brother, Edwin W. Davis of East Windsor; two sisters, Mrs. John B. Godard of Ellington and Mrs. Reginald W. Kent of Vernon; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at the funeral home Friday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that any memorial gifts may be made to the Joslin Diabetic Foundation, 1 Joslin Pl., Boston, Mass., 02115.

Siegfried Lanz
ELLINGTON - Siegfried Lanz, 80, of Hamden, formerly of Ellington, died Wednesday at Yale-New Haven Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Elsie Drayton Lanz.

Mr. Lanz was born in Ellington and had lived in Hamden for the past two years. He was a member of the Christian Apostolic Church in Ellington. Before his retirement 15 years ago, he was employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad.

Other survivors are a son, Kerwin Lanz of Stratford; a daughter, Mrs. Edward D. Gross of Madison; a brother, Otto Lanz of Rockville; two sisters, Mrs. John Laginbuhl of Ellington and Mrs. Werner Kupferschmid of Vernon; and seven grandchildren.

The funeral is Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the Christian Apostolic Church, Middle Butcher Rd. Burial will be in Grove Hill Cemetery, Rockville.

Friends may call at the North Haven Funeral Home, 36 Washington Ave., tonight from 7 to 9.

The Rose Hill Funeral Home, 580 Elm St., Rocky Hill, is in charge of arrangements.

Blame CRLC for bill's defeat
By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
Two Manchester legislators have criticized the Connecticut Right to Life Corporation (CRLC) for its role in helping to defeat a bill aimed at facilitating organ transplants.

The bill proposed that for donors of organs the "irreversible cessation of brain functions," according to customary standards of medical practice, would be sufficient to determine the time of the donor's death.

Administrators will recommend proficiency tests for high school

The school administration will recommend proficiency requirements for graduation, starting with the class of 1980, next fall's sophomores at Manchester High School.

Dr. Kennedy said it has not yet been determined how indication of passing the requirement would be included on a regular diploma.

The Board of Education will be asked to act on the recommendation at its June 13 meeting, School Supt. James P. Kennedy said Wednesday.

Manchester may be the first school district in the state to adopt the skills requirement, if the board approves. Other schools in other states have begun to adopt similar requirements.

EDC expresses some concern on industrial park matters not yet notified the town that it has approved the entire regulation package, according to Atty. Stephen Penney, EDC member who recently met with Penney attorneys to discuss progress.

Penney has also not yet applied for the second part of an indirect source permit, which is required before the firm can begin construction.

Representatives from Penney were expected to attend this morning's meeting to discuss its proposed catalog distribution center with the EDC. But, Alan Lamson, the town planner, said the firm was not prepared in time for today's meeting.

The commission also discussed I-291 and read a letter from Dr. Frederick Spaulding, who asked that the group take action opposing the highway because it is not essential to the Penney Co. or the park.

Grassilli honored for COEP teaching

Mrs. Nancy Grassilli, coordinator of the distributive education program, a phase of the Cooperative Occupation Education Program at Manchester High School, was named Educator of the Year recently.

The event was at the Sales and Marketing Executives (SME) eighth annual career development night at the Hartford Club.

The selection of the special title is based on the involvement and achievement of an outstanding educator.

She majored in marketing and graduated with honors from the University of Massachusetts. She received her master's degree in business and distributive education from Montclair State College.

House gives okay to judicial bill

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Connecticut House of Representatives has given final legislative approval to a bill that would allow a special panel to suspend judges for incompetence, drunkenness or conviction of a felony.

The bill would also allow the state Supreme Court to remove a judge from the bench.

Under the measure, approved unanimously Wednesday and sent to Gov. Ella T. Grasso, a Judicial Review Council would be established to rule on complaints against the state's judges.

The special panel would be composed of three judges, three attorneys appointed by the governor and three laymen not associated with the law profession.

The council would have the power to censure or suspend a judge on a two-thirds vote. The Supreme Court would then rule on the merits of the council's decision and determine if the judge should be removed from his position.

Under existing law, a judge can only be removed if he is impeached by the legislature, a cumbersome process that lawmakers are reluctant to use in most cases.

Last fall, Superior Court Judge Samuel Tedesco was convicted of falsifying a liquor permit. Tedesco was disbarred, but not removed from office. He continues to use his office and collect his annual salary.

In another judicial action, the House approved 12-27 and sent to Mrs. Grasso the so-called "bloody shirt bill."

Under existing law, a judge can only issue a warrant for property used in the commission of a crime, such as a knife or a gun.

Vernon mayor will run again

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit announced this morning that he will seek the nomination of the Democratic party to run for a second term next fall.

Benoit made the announcement at his home with his wife, Lynn; daughter, Marsha, and son, "T.J.," present.

He said he seeks re-election recognizing the job is a demanding one which requires a significant amount of time and effort.

"I reviewed and weighed my personal and business commitments and have determined that I will be able to continue to give the office the time and attention required," Benoit said.

He said he enjoyed his first term and is pleased with the progress made during the past two years "considering the tough job to have more input. He instituted a Citizens' Forum which is conducted before each Town Council meeting. He also started weekly press conferences.

Some other major accomplishments he cited were the creation of a Senior Citizen Advisory Board, an Arson Squad, the position of police captain, a Fine Arts Commission and a Parks Commission.

During the past two years the town also adopted a parking ordinance and a lotterizing ordinance, implemented an Affirmative Action Plan, improved traffic flow on Union St., and continued expansion of the sewer installations and the sewage treatment plant, he said.

Benoit has also been active in the Capitol Region Council of Government (CROCG). He said town officials have to have an open mind about regional problems. He said he has and plans to continue to represent all of the people of Vernon, if re-elected.

Thomas Benoit

McCoy, whom Benoit defeated two years ago, to run again this year. McCoy had served three terms as mayor.

Before he was elected mayor, Benoit served two terms on the Town Council.

Asked about the need to raise taxes this year while some other towns did not, Benoit said each town is different and the services other towns lack have to be considered. He also cited the increase in fixed costs over which the town had no control.

"No mayor or first selectman can predetermine something like that," he said. He added that he will wait until he gets his party's nomination (in August) before getting into any specific campaign promises.

One of the things he is working on now and intends to continue will be a capital improvement and capital equipment budget. He said if these had been addressed in the past the town wouldn't have some of the problems it has now.

Benoit said he feels he fulfilled promises he made two years ago. One of his prime promises was to allow the people of the town to have more input. He instituted a Citizens' Forum which is conducted before each Town Council meeting. He also started weekly press conferences.

Some other major accomplishments he cited were the creation of a Senior Citizen Advisory Board, an Arson Squad, the position of police captain, a Fine Arts Commission and a Parks Commission.

Changes due in Bolton

New board gets acquainted

The newly elected Board of Selectmen that will take office July 1 met Tuesday to get acquainted, set up an agenda for its first meeting, list priorities for the town, list appointments which it must make, and review the Town Charter.

First Selectman-elect Henry Ryba said interested persons will be sought to fill various town boards and offices. He said the charter was reviewed with regard to the selectmen's duties.

Ryba said his board plans to set up a program that will include a meeting of all town boards. Chairmen will be asked to outline their programs for the coming year. He said regular meetings of the boards will continue throughout his term.

Ryba said beginning July the selectmen's meetings will be held in the meeting room of the Community Hall, not in the selectmen's office. He said the first unofficial meeting of the board went well. It's a good working board, he said.

The new board will meet again June 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Bentley Memorial Library.

A group swearing-in of all elected officials is planned June 13 at 7 p.m. Zone hearing hearing on a zone change request Wednesday at the Community Hall. Frances Halilton requested a change from residential to general business for property on West St. to allow expansion of an antique business and creation of a tea room. There would be no new construction; existing building would be used.

Mrs. Halilton and one neighbor spoke in favor of the rezoning. Four other neighbors opposed the change.

The zoning commission plans to inspect the property tonight. The commission has 65 days to make a decision on the request.

South Windsor

The South Windsor Town Council voted Wednesday night to waive competitive rebidding for the Firehouse 1 project. It voted to award the contract to Lupachino & Salvatore of Bloomfield.

Only Deputy Mayor Robert Myette opposed the rebid waiver, on the basis that information he requested wasn't given to him.

Myette said copies of the mechanical specifications and a written statement from the bond consultant (that the method was not circumenting the referendum) were not at his disposal before the vote. Councilman Leonard Sorosak did not attend the Wednesday night meeting. The final vote was 7 to 1.

The meeting had been scheduled next Monday but was held earlier to get the firehouse under way as soon as possible. Work is expected to begin in about a week.

Groundbreaking was originally scheduled for April. All the general mechanical specifications and the amount approved in referendum. After negotiations between architect Gregory Montana and Lupachino & Salvatore, the lowest bidder still interested in the project, a workable figure of $667,000 was agreed upon.

In addition to the contractor's fee, there is an architect's fee of $50,400, another $8,000 for clerk of the works and $18,000 for contingency.

The firehouse is planned for Ellington Rd., across the street from the old Firehouse 1. A November 1976 referendum approved $755,000 for the project.

Private eye gets praise

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — The Peter Reilly grand juror had special praise for a Vernon private investigator who aided the Reilly defense team.

Grand Juror Maurice Spozzo, a Superior Court judge, said in his report Wednesday: "The conduct of the private investigator, James G. Conway, is to be commended."

Conway was widely credited with unearthing much of the new evidence that helped Reilly win a new trial. At one point in his work Conway was arrested and charged with carrying a dangerous weapon, his registered pistol.

Conway had a license to carry the weapon only in his hometown Vernon and was charged after leaving it with court authorities in the Litchfield County Courthouse. The charge is still pending.

Spozzo also investigated allegations of state police harassment of Conway, a former New York City policeman.

The judge said Conway "embarked on an investigation more than a year after the homicide had occurred and after Reilly had been convicted. He met resistance from the police and certain witnesses, whose activities were suspect."

"He persisted in his investigation which led to evidence that brought about the granting of the new trial," Spozzo said. (See story on Page 2-A)

Savin gets I-86 work

Savin Brothers Inc. of Newton has been awarded a $24.3 million contract for reconstruction of a stretch of Interstate 86 (the Wilbur Cross Highway) in Vernon and Tolland.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso announced the contract award today. Two weeks ago, the governor announced the award of another I-86 contract, for $27.9 million of work in Tolland, Willington and Ashford, to Arctite Brothers Inc. of New Britain.

Savin's project begins in the vicinity of Dobson Rd. in Vernon and runs for 7.9 miles to the vicinity of Rt. 195 in Tolland. The Arctite contract is for 8.7 miles starting at Rt. 195.

The reconstruction project calls for building four to six lanes of expressway, some of it relocated from the existing I-86 position. Median barriers will be installed as a safety measure for about half the length of the project. In some residential areas, noise abatement barriers will be built.

The I-86 project is funded 90 per cent by the federal government and 10 per cent by the state.

CROCG prepares goals

'Who will pay for it?'

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

If goals and policy statements being prepared by the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CROCG) are to work, some provision has to be made for financial aid to the towns.

This seemed to be the upmost thought expressed at a sparsely attended meeting in Vernon last night.

The meeting was called by CROCG to explain the preliminary goals and policy statements of a comprehensive regional plan.

John Linderman, chairman of CROCG and Vernon's representative, chaired the meeting. He said the plan will be used as the tool for growth in the region for the next 20 to 25 years, but it will be continually updated and changed.

Some of the major issues addressed by the policies concern preservation of agricultural land, acquisition and preservation of open space areas along major rivers to provide shoreline access, and expansion of overall transit ridership.

Also, development of concentrated centers of mixed land use along major transportation corridors, and maintenance of at least the current level of public transit.

William McMillan of Ellington, a consultant who does some work with the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), asked Linderman what plans CROCG has to carry out its policy statements. He said some are fine, but the towns need the money to back them up.

Linderman agreed but noted that his is primarily a policy-making body; the decisions lie with the towns. He suggested, and several others agreed, that CROCG should go further with its policy statements to include plans for financial support of them.

William Houle of the Vernon Planning Commission said the policy concerning agricultural land had been watered down. He said a stronger policy should be formulated and the Capitol Region could be a catalyst for other regions to preserve these lands.

CROCG feels, based on preliminary population and employment projections, that sufficient land is available regionwide to accommodate projected growth to the year 2000.

CROCG wishes to encourage a regional development pattern that would provide necessary balance between the manmade and natural environment, minimizing adverse effects on environmentally sensitive areas and scarce natural resources.

Another goal is to provide adequate services such as sewer, water, solid waste disposal and energy in the most efficient manner, to serve the existing and future needs of the region.

In housing the goal is to increase the range of choice for persons of all income levels, especially for those who have had the least choice. And to maximize the opportunity for decent housing in a healthy environment to serve needs of the region on a non-discriminatory basis.

CROCG also wants to encourage the adoption of municipal tax ordinances which provide incentives for housing rehabilitation, such as deferred tax payments in designated rehabilitation areas.

Area CROCG also wants to:

- Encourage maintenance of viable residential neighborhoods.
- Increase jobs available by attracting new industry and promoting existing industry.
- Encourage uniform administration and enforcement of federal air quality legislation in the Northeast.
- Encourage development of a multi-modal regional transportation system to minimize travel costs and travel time.

Vernon mayor will run again

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit announced this morning that he will seek the nomination of the Democratic party to run for a second term next fall.

Benoit made the announcement at his home with his wife, Lynn; daughter, Marsha, and son, "T.J.," present.

He said he seeks re-election recognizing the job is a demanding one which requires a significant amount of time and effort.

"I reviewed and weighed my personal and business commitments and have determined that I will be able to continue to give the office the time and attention required," Benoit said.

He said he enjoyed his first term and is pleased with the progress made during the past two years "consistent with fiscal responsibility."

He said he doesn't know who his Republican opponent will be, but Republicans reportedly are encouraging former Mayor Frank McCoy, whom Benoit defeated two years ago, to run again this year. Benoit said each town is different and the services other towns lack have to be considered. He also cited the increase in fixed costs over which the town has no control.

"No mayor or first selectman can predetermine something like that," he said. He added that he will wait until he gets his party's nomination (in August) before getting into any specific campaign promises.

One of the things he is working on now and intends to continue will be a capital improvements and capital equipment budget. He said if these had been addressed in the past he wouldn't have some of the problems it has now.

Benoit said he feels he fulfilled promises he made two years ago. One of his prime promises was to allow the people of the town to have more input. He instituted a Citizens' Forum which is conducted before each Town Council meeting. He also started weekly press conferences.

Some other major accomplishments he cited were the creation of a Senior Citizens Advisory Board, an Arson Squad, the position of police captain, a Fine Arts Commission and a Parks Commission.

During the past two years Benoit also adopted a parking ordinance and a lotterizing ordinance, implemented an Affirmative Action Plan, improved traffic flow on Union St., expanded housing for the elderly, and continued expansion of the sewer installations and the sewage treatment plant, he said.

Benoit has also been active in the Capitol Region Council of Government (CROCG). He said town officials have to have an open mind about regional problems. He said he has and plans to continue to represent all of the people of Vernon, if re-elected.

The meeting was called by CROCG to explain the preliminary goals and policy statements of a comprehensive regional plan.

John Linderman, chairman of CROCG and Vernon's representative, chaired the meeting. He said the plan will be used as the tool for growth in the region for the next 20 to 25 years, but it will be continually updated and changed.

Some of the major issues addressed by the policies concern preservation of agricultural land, acquisition and preservation of open space areas along major rivers to provide shoreline access, and expansion of overall transit ridership.

Also, development of concentrated centers of mixed land use along major transportation corridors, and maintenance of at least the current level of public transit.

William McMillan of Ellington, a consultant who does some work with the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), asked Linderman what plans CROCG has to carry out its policy statements. He said some are fine, but the towns need the money to back them up.

Linderman agreed but noted that his is primarily a policy-making body; the decisions lie with the towns. He suggested, and several others agreed, that CROCG should go further with its policy statements to include plans for financial support of them.

William Hoole of the Vernon Planning Commission said the policy concerning agricultural land had been watered down. He said a stronger policy should be formulated and the Capitol Region could be a catalyst for other regions to preserve these lands.

CROCG feels, based on preliminary population and employment projections, that sufficient land is available regionwide to accommodate projected growth to the year 2000.

CROCG wishes to encourage a regional development pattern that would provide necessary balance between the manmade and natural environment, minimizing adverse effects on environmentally sensitive areas and scarce natural resources.

Another goal is to provide adequate services such as sewer, water, solid waste disposal and energy in the most efficient manner, to serve the existing and future needs of the region.

In housing the goal is to increase the range of choice for persons of all income levels, especially for those who have had the least choice. And to maximize the opportunity for decent housing in a healthy environment to serve needs of the region on a non-discriminatory basis.

Area police report

South Windsor
Luis Soto, 17, of Willimantic, was arrested by South Windsor Police Wednesday afternoon on charges of stealing a car from his home town. Police said Soto was taken into custody after the car he was driving broke down on Sullivan Ave. Soto was hitchhiking when authorities found the disabled car and learned it was stolen, police said.

Soto was charged with second-degree larceny. He was released on $5,000 non-surety bond for court appearance June 13 in East Hartford.

Reynold J. Berube, 21, of Windsorville, was issued a summons for failure to obey a stop sign. His car and car driven by Stephen J. Ahoan, 18, of 185 Abby Rd., South Windsor, were in collision Wednesday night at Avery St. and Beetzub Rd. Police said no one was hurt in the 8:45 p.m. accident. The cars sustained minor damage. Court date is June 13 in East Hartford.

Tolland
Elmer Nielson, 48, of 10 Hunter Rd., Tolland, and Edward R. Nielson, 25, of 9 Hunter Rd., Tolland, were charged Wednesday night with breach of peace.

Police said the two men were involved in a disturbance in which an officer was thrown through a window of a trailer. The older Nielson was released on his promise to appear in court in Stafford July 11. Edward Nielson was held overnight in lieu of a $100 cash bond. He was to appear in court today.

Vernon
Michael Williams, 25, of 55 Village St., Rockville, was charged Wednesday with disorderly conduct. He was released on a $100 non-surety bond for appearance in court June 22 in Rockville.

John Brennan, 30, of 108 Broad St., Manchester, was charged early this morning with third-degree criminal trespassing and misuse of registration plates. He was released on his promise to appear in court June 22 in Rockville.

Changes due in Bolton

New board gets acquainted

The newly elected Board of Selectmen that will take office July 1 met Tuesday to get acquainted, set up an agenda for its first meeting, list priorities for the town, list appointments which it must make, and review the Town Charter.

First Selectman-elect Henry Ryba said interested persons will be sought to fill various town boards and offices. He said the charter was reviewed with regard to the selectmen's duties.

Ryba said his board plans to set up a program that will include a meeting of all town boards. Chairmen will be asked to outline their programs for the coming year.

He said regular meetings of the boards will continue throughout his term.

Ryba said beginning July the selectmen's meetings will be held in the meeting room of the Community Hall, not in the selectmen's office.

He said the first unofficial meeting of the board went well. It's a good working board, he said.

The new board will meet again June 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Bentley Memorial Library.

A group swearing-in of all elected officials is planned June 13 at 7 p.m.

Zone hearing
Several residents attended a public hearing on a zone change request Wednesday at the Community Hall.

Frances Hailston requested a change from residential to general business for property on West St. to allow expansion of an antique business and creation of a tea room. There would be no new construction; existing building would be used.

She persisted in his investigation which led to evidence that brought about the granting of the new zone," Spozzo said. (See story on Page 2A)

Private eye gets praise

LITCHFIELD (UPI) — The Peter Reilly grand juror had special praise for a Vernon private detective who aided the Reilly defense team.

Grand Juror Maurice Spozzo, a Superior Court judge, said in his report Wednesday, "The conduct of the private investigator, James G. Conway, is to be commended."

Conway was widely credited with unearthing much of the new evidence that helped Reilly win a new trial.

At one point in his work Conway was arrested and charged with carrying a dangerous weapon, his registered pistol.

Conway had a license to carry the weapon only in his hometown Vernon and was charged after leaving it with court authorities in the Litchfield County Courthouse. The charge is still pending.

Spozzo also investigated allegations of state police harassment of Conway, a former New York City policeman.

The judge said Conway "embarked on an investigation more than a year after the homicide had occurred and after Reilly had been convicted."

"He met resistance from the police and certain witnesses, whose activities were suspect."

"He persisted in his investigation which led to evidence that brought about the granting of the new trial," Spozzo said. (See story on Page 2A)

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

The Wisteria grew from seed, the gift of a relative who lived at Twin Lakes in Salisbury. The parent vine bore the customary blue blossoms but those on the daughter plant in Manchester are white. The color is a variation that sometimes shows up when plants are grown from seed.

Mrs. Claribel Karr, whose Wisteria climbs to the roof of her porch on the south side of the 59 Foster St. house, estimates the age at about 100 years. The number of years she has lived in Manchester. It would be many feet taller if it had not been cut back many times. It follows a wooden trellis from the ground to the porch roof and then spreads to both sides. If allowed to continue growing it might easily climb another story.

The flower clusters, at least a foot long, hang straight down and close together. Their fragrance attracts honey bees from far around. When the picture was taken, the flowers were at their best. The blossoms are short lived, however, and now are gone for this year.

We have written all that Mrs. Karr could tell us about the origin of her white Wisteria, but the Gardening Encyclopedia written by Donald Wyman, horticulturist emeritus of the Arnold Arboretum, describes the white variety as occurring here and there when the plants are grown from seed. In fact, there are other possible colors - pink and several shades of lilac, as well as the regular blue. There are Wisterias, also, with double flowers, but these are not recommended because they are not reliable bloomers and the flowers decay quickly in wet weather.

Wisteria is capitalized, if anyone should wonder, because it was named, back in the early 1800s, for a person, Dr. Caspar Wistar of the University of Pennsylvania.

Twist tells story

Mrs. Karr has lived in the Manchester house since 1920 and for years her late husband worked for Cheney Bros. She now lives alone but there are neighbors on the other side of the two-family house, and her daughter, who lives in the area, comes frequently to see her. Mrs. Karr is 94 years old, but takes care of her own home. She reads a lot, she said, and her daughter brings books to her from the library.

Clematis lovely
We are now in the season when flowering vines add much to the beauty of our surroundings. Clematis is one of these and it has a long period of bloom. It needs support, but once started upward, seeming to take care of itself, the tendrils grasp the taller stalks.

We have one that starts to bloom in May, an English variety, Mrs. Cholmondeley, pronounced in the English fashion, Mrs. "Chumley." It has light blue flowers, up to eight inches across, with separated sepals.

Wisteria blossoms hang gracefully from a vine estimated to be nearly 40 years old at the home of Mrs. Claribel Karr on 59 Foster St. The blossoms are white, a variation from the usual Wisteria blue. (Herald photo by Pinto)

New buds are forming while the first buds bloom, and the plant continues to produce flowers to September. It grows on a five-foot fence, supported also by a wire trellis. It is also in the partial shade of an apple tree but seems to get enough sun. When the vine reaches the top of the five-foot fence it reaches for a low branch on the tree and keeps right on climbing.

We have a second clematis, following Mrs. "Chumley" by a week or so and now in bloom. It is red, with flowers about five inches across and the vine has hundreds of buds. It will bloom for many weeks. It also is against a fence but has no tree to climb so it will form a mound of vines at the top of the fence and some vines will topple over on the other side.

GOP responds tonight to Carter energy plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican Party has prepared a $20,000 nationwide television program featuring Ronald Reagan and other GOP stars to respond to President Carter's energy plan. The program — filmed at coal mines, auto plants, shopping centers, suburbs, farms and gas stations — contends the energy situation is less critical than Carter claimed and charges his is a tax program, not an energy program.

NBC has given a half hour to the Republican Party at 8 o'clock tonight to respond to Carter's mid-April address. An advance screening Wednesday showed:

Eight prominent Republicans on the program endorse Carter's call for energy conservation, but criticize his proposed tax on gasoline and gas-guzzling automobiles.

Republican National Chairman Bill Brock, moderating the show, says the GOP favors conservation, mass transit, more fuel-efficient cars, tax incentives for home insulation, higher production of oil, gas and coal, and development of new energy sources.

Normally such programs by the party out of power are formal shows featuring members of Congress talking into the camera. But the GOP energy show, filmed across the country, features congressmen interviewing citizens about energy.

A salesman in Washington, D.C., tells Rep. Jack Cunningham the proposed 57 cents a gallon standby tax on gasoline "will just about kill me."

Rep. Jack Kemp is told by an auto worker at a Buffalo plant that "more taxes means less jobs."

An Ohio farmer tells Rep. Clarence Brown that if he has to pay more for his gasoline, and petroleum-related items like fertilizer, "production will go down, there will be a shortage of food and prices to the consumer will rise."

William Coleman, transportation secretary under President Ford, rides a Washington subway and says mass transit — not mentioned in the Carter program — "is the way people should get to work."

The Republican position is summed up by a named Ronald Reagan standing in front of classic California landscape.

"This (Carter's) program will bring us to a halt — dead in our tracks," Reagan said. "It could cost the average family $1,000 a year. This is not an energy program it is a tax program. The biggest tax program in the history of our country."

Two Manchester men received fractured collarbones when they were thrown from a motorcycle Wednesday at Main and Strickland Sts.

Mark A. Antonucci, 21, of 107B Oakland St., driver of a 1974 Honda motorcycle, was thrown from the bike at the intersection of Main and Strickland Sts. Police said Antonucci was thrown about 16 feet from the vehicle and Thurston was thrown about 36 feet.

According to the police report, the motorcycle was attempting to pass a car stopped and signaling to turn left onto Strickland St. from Main St. The cycle struck the left front fender of the car and continued several feet before striking a curb, police said.

The driver of the car was Nancy L. Stavinsky, 21, of 189 Gardner St. She was not injured.

Antonucci was charged with disregarding traffic markings.

Francis C. Benvento, 52, of 79 Homestead St., was charged with a motor vehicle violation after his car left the road and struck a pole on Woodland St. He was not injured.

He was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and scheduled for court June 21.

Other arrests Wednesday included Robert Cormier, 20, of 445 Oakland St., charged with three counts of issuing bad checks, second-degree larceny and third-degree larceny. The charges stem from incidents on several dates in Hartford. Cormier was turned over to Hartford police.

Vincent S. Marino, 25, of Wethersfield, was charged early today with operating a vehicle while his license was suspended and speeding. He was released on a $100 surety bond for court appearance June 14.

Grasso silent on pay veto plans

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today refused to say if he would veto a bill to almost double lawmakers' salaries, but said the legislature would have the sense not to pass the "excessive" measure.

The Senate last week approved a bill that would raise from $13,000 to $23,000 the two-year compensation, including expenses, for lawmakers. Legislative leaders would get larger raises and Superior Court judges would get a $4,000 increase. The House of Representatives is expected to act on the measure before the constitutionally mandated June 8 adjournment date.

"I don't think the legislature would ever ask to have such a bill signed," Mrs. Grasso told a Capitol news conference. "Percentage wise it is quite excessive."

The governor said she would want to see what action the House takes before deciding whether she would sign the bill.

She is on record favoring a proposal passed by a legislative committee to increase the two-year salary to $15,000. However, that plan later died in another committee and the larger salary increase was added on as an amendment to an otherwise uncontroversial bill.

She said she had talked with legislative leaders in both houses about the pay raise bill and said there seemed to be support for changing the version that passed the Senate last week.

Mrs. Grasso also said she would sign the ethics bill that passed the Senate this week. The bill, which still must go to the House, is considered weaker than the plan she requested earlier this year.

"Half a loaf is a step down the road," she said.

Red Sox move up in AL standings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Like most of the other American Leaguers, Carl Yastrzemski was angrier last winter as the New York Yankees apparently put together an invincible team. But now the season is approximately one-third over and, again like most other American Leaguers, he thinks the Yankees can be beaten.

"This club has bounced back all year," said Yastrzemski Wednesday night after hitting two homers in the Boston Red Sox 7-5 victory over the Texas Rangers. "Everybody on this team has a lot of pride. Everybody is putting out."

The victory, combined with the Yankees' 4-3 loss to the Minnesota Twins, moved the Red Sox into second place in the AL Eastern Division, only 1 1/2 games behind the first-place Baltimore Orioles. It was a particularly satisfying win because the Red Sox rallied from a 5-0 deficit.

Yastrzemski opened the sixth with a homer off Doyle Alexander cutting the Red Sox deficit to 5-3 before George Scott singled and Dwight Evans walked. Rick Miller drove in one run with a double and Rick Burleson put the Red Sox in front with a two-run double. Yastrzemski's second homer came with one out in the seventh inning. Reliever Mike Paxton, who worked 2-3 shutout innings, won his first game with the relief help of Bill Campbell while Alexander suffered his second loss against six wins. It was the eighth loss in 11 games for the Rangers.

Twins 4, Yankees 3
Rod Carew singled with two out and the bases filled, capping a three-run ninth-inning rally, which lifted the Western Division leaders over the Yankees. Carew's blow came off Sparky Lyle, who had relieved Rob Garby with none out in the ninth and retired the first two batters he faced. Chris Chambliss hit his sixth homer for New York.

Royals 11, Jays 3
Duane Kuiper drove in three runs and drove in five runs and George Brett hit a two-run homer to spark Kansas City's 15-hit attack. Dennis Leonard went 7-2-3 innings for the win while Bill Singer, tagged for six runs and six hits in 4-1/3 innings, lost his seventh game against two wins.

A's 6, Mariners 3
Tony Armas' two-run triple and Gary Williams' two-run homer were the big blows for Oakland when Doc Medich won his fifth game as Doc Glenn Abbott was the loser for Seattle, which rallied in the ninth only to have Joe Coleman end the game by coming out of the bullpen and throwing a double play ball.

Game rescheduled
Manchester High's girls softball game against Hamden was postponed because of rain. The State Tournament first round tilt is slated to be played today at 3:15.

Locally, all softball and little league contests were washed out. They'll be rescheduled.

Thirty-nine doubles teams and 46 singles entrants were on hand when play began. Action was suspended by rain with matches to resume today with the championships Friday.

Defense eyeing Erving closely
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Julius Erving knows he'll never be left alone on the offensive end of a basketball court, but he's drawing bigger crowds than usual in the NBA championship finals.

The Doctor has remained his spectacular self even in the two overwhelming defeats the Portland Trail Blazers handed him. His Philadelphia 76ers to square the best-of-seven series at two games apiece.

But with George McGinnis hopefully mired in a shooting slump and center Caldwell Jones offering little more on offense than bringing the ball up court, Erving has drawn two, and sometimes three, Blazers around him each time he's touched the ball.

Coach Gene Shue protested early in Tuesday night's 130-98 Portland romp that the Blazers were playing a zone defense but the referees disagreed. Erving, however, thinks his coach was right.

Shue tried to open up the offense

For Erving by working the ball inside to McGinnis. But McGinnis was guarded effectively by Maurice Lucas and when he managed to elude Lucas, Bill Walton moved in to intimidate or block shots.

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay hopes his team keeps its aggressive, fast-breaking game intact when the series resumes Friday night with Game 5 at the Spectrum. Portland lost by six in the first game and by 18 in the second before returning home and winning two games.

"I'm very pleased with the way we played," Ramsay said following Tuesday's win, "but all it means is that we are now involved in a three-game series with two games to be played on our floor."

The series returns to Portland for Game 6 Sunday afternoon.

Tennis career budding
By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
With a flourish Manchester High sophomore Cherie Dow has burst upon the tennis scene. And her budding, promising career will get a big lift the last week of June and the first two weeks of July when she'll be competing in her first 16-and-under National Tournament sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association (USLTA).

Dow, who recently completed a 14-0 campaign to lead the high school girls' team, revealed she'll be competing for the first time by the New England Country Club and will begin practice at Stanford University June 23.

Tournament action begins four days later at San Jose, Calif., for a week-long tournament with stops in the California cities of Burlingame and Belvedere also on the agenda. Expected return is around July 15.

"I'm really excited," bubbled the petite 16-year-old youngster with short blonde hair cut close to her face. "I can't wait to go." Dow was selected for the first time by the New England Tennis Association (NETA) to play in the national tournament having played and done well in junior tournaments in the region.

What makes Dow's rise so much more remarkable is she's been playing for only four years. Most of her top players are nurtured from age five or so but the local product got a late start. It hasn't hurt. In the

"I'm working now on sharpening my volleys and overhead. Girls tennis is not at the net and if you can get up there you can win a lot." Dow asserts.

Priscilla Mally, Manchester High girls' coach, points out Dow is interested in tennis, has self-motivation and has a tremendous attitude. Mally was quick to add that Dow has helped her teammates in improving their games, "she is an excellent leader."

Dow practices very hard. Mally remarked, and that inevitably rubs off on the rest of the squad. Also, "she may lose a match but she'll analyze her game and her opponent's and she will win the next time. She is a very smart player and a super-super person."

The CIAC State Tournament began yesterday with Dow one of the top seeds, probably in the top three or four, in the Class L Division. She might win it. "I want to win," Dow said. "When I go to (junior) tournaments I'm there to compete."

"I'm very serious about tennis," she continued. "I think I'm capable of beating anyone in New England. I may not do it but I have the strokes and confidence in my game. As long as I enjoy it I'll play. I'm getting a lot of opportunities thru tennis right now and enjoying it. There are so many things I haven't learned but I'm learning all the time," she summarized.

What are her major assets? "I'm a thrower," she articulates, "and that throws a lot of people off. I feel I have an effective serve. There's a lot of topspin on my forehand and that throws people off, too."

Cherie Dow

"76 rankings of 16 and under which were just released. Dow was in the No. 11 slot. Easily that place will be better when the '77 New England poll comes out next year (rankings are always one year behind).

But she didn't get going until age 12 at Natick Country Club and really didn't get serious until the following summer. Previously it was swimming and softball for the athletically gifted Dow.

Talk breakdown
NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiations between Madison Square Garden and

Top Rank, Inc. for rights to the Muhammad Ali-Earnie Shavers world heavyweight title fight in September may have been kayped Wednesday by Garden President Stanley Cropper.

Mike Burke saying he is "turning the matter over to our attorneys."

Burke was angry about statements from Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, which suggested that the Garden was seeking special tax breaks from New York Gov. Hugh Carey to stage the fight here on Sept. 20.

"I wouldn't bother the governor with such a thing," Burke said. "We pay our taxes and I have no intention of asking for a special tax break."

Bit of nostalgia
There was a baseball game played last Saturday at East Catholic's Eagle Field. For some it brought back memories and for others it introduced some realization.

The first East Alumni Game went to the "old timers" by an 11-9 count. The grads have put on a few years but 80 per cent remembered how the game is played. They pulled off a few tricks which the present varsity wouldn't, couldn't or can't.

What it boils down to in a nutshell is savvy, and these veterans had it. The lessons learned were still in their grasp. Having not played together, let alone practiced, one of the memorable plays was a relay from leftfielder John Quinn to shortstop Dan Socha to catcher Brian Shulman which nailed Ken Brass at home.

It showed two things. No. 1 is baseball sense and No. 2 is the intense competitiveness. None of the vets wanted to lose. They played hard and wanted to win and to all a loss would've been a bitter pill. To too many players today all they want is to see action. Losing doesn't hurt and the competitiveness is lacking. That last ingredient no coach can teach.

The reunion, which Coach Jim Penders hopes to turn into an annual event, brought back those who've gone on, gone on in many cases to become a success. For example Quinn, who resides in Manchester, is a graduate of Holy Cross and the University of Connecticut Law School and is a practicing attorney in Hartford.

Steve Longo, Class of '71, is a Central Connecticut grad now a medical lab technician at Rockville General Hospital and as someone noted, that's just one step below being a doctor. Mike Jubo, a '71 grad, is a Northeastern grad and an accountant. Sullivan, also a '71 grad of East, is a junior high teacher in Naugatuck and is Naugatuck High Jayvee baseball coach. His '77 team compiled a 12-8 record. Mike Jeffrey is at UConn grad school while Bob Love, one of the most recent graduates, is at Case Western Reserve in Washington, D.C. studying architecture.

Don Gaudreau, also of the Class of '71, is a graduate of Assumption College, now attending Western New England Law School. He didn't lose the touch with three hits versus the present-day varsity. Other vets were Dan Pinto, Joe Banning, Russ Bilodeau, Tom Jaknis and Tom Hapenny. The latter got the award for traveling the farthest from Orlando, Fla. Hapenny, a University of Hartford grad, is a deputy sheriff in Daytona Beach.

All have or soon will be successes in the biggest game — life. And one final note, when addressing the Eagle coach it's still "coach" or "Mr. Ponders." There's a reason for that.

Bits and pieces
Upon hearing that the New York Mets fired Manager Joe Frazier, one thought came to mind. M. Donald Grant, club president, has been accused by some dissident players of not wanting to be first. Not that he's humorous in that Grant couldn't pull himself to be first in firing a manager, he was waiting for San Diego to pull the rug out from under John McNamara before acting... Tom Seaver, the biggest Met dissident, wants to be traded yet it's reported his market worth is not that great. He's been hit with a troublemaker tag, maybe rightly so, and that's made some have a "hands off" policy towards the three-time National League Cy Young Award winner...

After watching the last two games played in Paris, who has 14 saves and a league-leading 0.98 earned run average in 24 appearances this season, gave up the tying run in the ninth inning, but still struck out nine batters over five innings. Hernandez, the 21-year-old rookie left-hander with a 2.10 ERA, came on in the 11th and proceeded to strike out five of the six Cardinals he faced in nothing his second victory.

"They're just superb," said Franke. "I felt like I was in a doghouse for a while. He's been just sensational so far, but if we didn't have a day off tomorrow, I wouldn't have gone that far with him."

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh blanked Philadelphia, 3-0. Cincinnati downed Atlanta, 5-2. San Francisco put away San Diego, 2-0. New York edged Montreal, 6-4, and Los Angeles stopped Houston, 6-4.

Pirates 3, Phillies 0
In a game shortened by rain after 7 1/2 innings, John Candelaria halted the Phillies on two hits while Al Oliver tripled home one run and scored another on a single by Renee Stennett in a three-run first inning. Pittsburgh ended a five-game losing streak.

Reds 4, Braves 2
Dan Driessen drove in two runs to support the three-hit pitching of Pat Zachry as the Reds captured their fifth straight win and moved to the 500 mark for the first time since the fourth game of the season. Driessen's two-run single in the second inning came after George Foster was hit by a pitch and Dave Concepcion singled.

Cub relievers coming through
NEW YORK (UPI) — Although they are not household names to the average baseball fan, Bruce Sutter and Willie Hernandez are two primary reasons the Chicago Cubs are currently in first place in the National League East.

Cubs' Manager Herman Franks had to gloat over the latest performance of his bullpen stars Wednesday night. It was Steve Ontiveros who singled home Jerry Morales with the winning run in the 13-inning, 4-3 Cubs' win over the Cardinals. But Sutter and Hernandez were even more impressive, combining for 14 strikeouts in seven innings of relief work.

Ed Halkic went the distance for the first time in 11 starts, struck out 11, and yielded six hits in halting the Padres' winning streak at five. Jack Clark singled home the first Giant's run in the sixth and the added another in the eighth on a double by Rob Andrews and Derrel Thomas' single.

Relief ace Charlie Hough buried three shutout innings to earn his 14th save while Ron Cy drove in three runs with a double and a single in helping Los Angeles snap a four-game losing streak. Ted Martinez, filling in for the injured Bill Russell at shortstop, singled the first Dodger run and scored two others.

Jones after a torrid start cooled down a bit but still finished with a fine .338 batting average and leading 17 RBIs. He collected three homers, two triples and one double to lead the Indians in the extra hit department.

Expected to draw the starting mound assignment against Staples is junior left-hander Mike Jordan. He compiled a 5-3 won-lost record and in

Tennis career budding
By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
With a flourish Manchester High sophomore Cherie Dow has burst upon the tennis scene. And her budding, promising career will get a big lift the last week of June and the first two weeks of July when she'll be competing in her first 16-and-under National Tournament sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association (USLTA).

Dow, who recently completed a 14-0 campaign to lead the high school girls' team, revealed she'll be competing for the first time by the New England Country Club and will begin practice at Stanford University June 23.

Tournament action begins four days later at San Jose, Calif., for a week-long tournament with stops in the California cities of Burlingame and Belvedere also on the agenda. Expected return is around July 15.

"I'm really excited," bubbled the petite 16-year-old youngster with short blonde hair cut close to her face. "I can't wait to go." Dow was selected for the first time by the New England Tennis Association (NETA) to play in the national tournament having played and done well in junior tournaments in the region.

What makes Dow's rise so much more remarkable is she's been playing for only four years. Most of her top players are nurtured from age five or so but the local product got a late start. It hasn't hurt. In the

"I'm working now on sharpening my volleys and overhead. Girls tennis is not at the net and if you can get up there you can win a lot." Dow asserts.

Priscilla Mally, Manchester High girls' coach, points out Dow is interested in tennis, has self-motivation and has a tremendous attitude. Mally was quick to add that Dow has helped her teammates in improving their games, "she is an excellent leader."

Dow practices very hard. Mally remarked, and that inevitably rubs off on the rest of the squad. Also, "she may lose a match but she'll analyze her game and her opponent's and she will win the next time. She is a very smart player and a super-super person."

The CIAC State Tournament began yesterday with Dow one of the top seeds, probably in the top three or four, in the Class L Division. She might win it. "I want to win," Dow said. "When I go to (junior) tournaments I'm there to compete."

"I'm very serious about tennis," she continued. "I think I'm capable of beating anyone in New England. I may not do it but I have the strokes and confidence in my game. As long as I enjoy it I'll play. I'm getting a lot of opportunities thru tennis right now and enjoying it. There are so many things I haven't learned but I'm learning all the time," she summarized.

What are her major assets? "I'm a thrower," she articulates, "and that throws a lot of people off. I feel I have an effective serve. There's a lot of topspin on my forehand and that throws people off, too."

Bit of nostalgia
There was a baseball game played last Saturday at East Catholic's Eagle Field. For some it brought back memories and for others it introduced some realization.

The first East Alumni Game went to the "old timers" by an 11-9 count. The grads have put on a few years but 80 per cent remembered how the game is played. They pulled off a few tricks which the present varsity wouldn't, couldn't or can't.

What it boils down to in a nutshell is savvy, and these veterans had it. The lessons learned were still in their grasp. Having not played together, let alone practiced, one of the memorable plays was a relay from leftfielder John Quinn to shortstop Dan Socha to catcher Brian Shulman which nailed Ken Brass at home.

It showed two things. No. 1 is baseball sense and No. 2 is the intense competitiveness. None of the vets wanted to lose. They played hard and wanted to win and to all a loss would've been a bitter pill. To too many players today all they want is to see action

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago when I was 16, I fell in love with my brother's buddy. He was 19 and gave me no encouragement. I was ashamed to admit it, but the summer I turned 18 I threw myself at him in a way he couldn't turn down, and we had an affair. He was my first and only, but I was neither his first nor his only. He told me about the others. He never once said he loved me, but I told him I loved him. He said he couldn't get serious about any girl, but I notice he got a steady now. He treats me like a sister except for those times I beg him to be a lover to me. I feel so cheap, Abby, but I can't help myself. I love him so much. When I see him with a girl, I get physically sick. I turn down dates with other guys just to sit home and play records that remind me of him. How can I make him love me?

IN LOVE AND MISERABLE DEAR ABBY: You can't. And if you invest any more time and longing on this hopeless situation you're asking for the misery you feel. A budding girl for some unattractive, so substitute that with some back and forth yourself to get busy with other things and thoughts of other people. You can get over him if you try, and try you must. Pray for strength. It worked. How can I make him love me?

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for your understanding letter to TEN YEARS TOO LATE. You said, "No one steals affection; people are usually drawn together by a mutual need." How wise you are. When I was 26 I looked into a pair of dark eyes and felt as though I had met the other half of my own soul. I wasn't married, but I was God himself and I longed to have a romantic encounter with this man, but I ran from my feelings as though they were poison. In these days when most people seem to grab whatever they can get, I was foolish because never again will I see that man. Foolish or not, I honestly believe that this way I have never regretted. No answer is necessary, Abby. I just wanted to get this off my chest.

DEAR BETTY: Thanks for a powerful letter. DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon, and when my aunt asked me what I wanted for a wedding present, I replied, "How much do you want to spend?" Well, my mother heard me, and she really took me apart. Abby, I still can't understand why my question was out of line. I know that what my aunt is going to buy me something, so what's wrong with finding out what she had in mind? I can use anything from a can opener to a color TV. DEAR BRIDE: Since she asked, I see nothing wrong with offering a few suggestions. You could have started with the can opener and ended with an eye opener - like a color TV.

Win at Bridge

Restricted choice helps play

East plays the three. West wins with the jack and West leads anything, but a club and South catches all his high cards to see if anyone is short anywhere. Both opponents follow the possibility that East about the possibility that East was dealt Q-4-3-2 or the singleton three spot. It looks like a toss up but it isn't. The odds are 3-2 that if either opponent holds the rest of the clubs it will be West. The principle of restricted choice applies to both hands. If East held Q-4-3-2 he had three choices; if West held Q-4-3 he had two choices. Three choices are more than two, so South must play his ace of clubs. He will find East is out and make the sure-fire club finesse against West.
