JFK Jr. to take part in island survival test

HURRICANE ISLAND, Maine (UPI) — John F. Kennedy Jr. will spend three days alone this summer on a small island with no food and only one gallon of water, one match for every meal and a Euel Gibbons book on edible wild plants. The late President's 16-year-old son — whom many still remember as the tyke saluting his father's funeral procession in 1963 — has signed on for the 26-day Outward Bound summer wilderness survival course in Penobscot Bay. "He will be spending most of his time on the water sailing in a 30-foot open pulling boat," which must be rowed, school development director Pen Williamson said. "This will be his floating classroom for most of the course." Williamson said the goals of the unique program on the rock-ledgeed Hurricane Island off Rockland are to boost self confidence and instill an awareness of other people by personally challenging the students. Williamson said the program also calls for rock climbing and working at least three days on the island's boat rescue station. He said the students manning the

Washington window: Voting and cheating

By ARNOLD SAWLSK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A visitor from Chicago was talking recently about the reaction in his town to the Carter administration's proposal to permit voters to register at the polls on election day. "They'll have hundreds of people going from precinct to precinct voting all day long," he said. He said "even" the city Democratic machine's own people were appalled at the opportunities for fraud presented by the administration proposal. "Vote often and early" His argument was that election day registration would make it easier for crooked politicians to steal elections by sending out platoons of volunteers and hirelings to "vote early and often." Apparently, it did not occur to the visitor that there might be another way to deal with the problem of ballot box stuffing. Chicago could crack down on dishonest election practices. Easy to say and hard to do, perhaps, but other cities where election fraud was once common have done it. For example, one simple expedient was recently suggested by Mark Green, director of Ralph Nader's Congress Watch project: He proposed adopting a system used in India — requiring election registrants to dip a finger into a bottle of invisible ink that shows up under a special light. It takes several days of scrubbing to eradicate the ink, so no one could vote twice on the same day without being detected. Someone would find a solvent Naturally, someone probably could find a quick solvent for the indelible ink used to mark new voters and still try

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter asked today he is committed to a national health insurance plan early next year, but personally urged supporters of the plan to concentrate now on containing "inordinate" medical costs. Detained newsman prepares to leave

MOSCOW (UPI) — An American journalist who underwent two days of interrogation by Soviet authorities has been told he is now considered a "witness" and is not accused of a gathering state secrets. Robert Toth of the Los Angeles Times said after six hours of "very hostile" grilling Wednesday that authorities had made wide-ranging probes about his contacts with dissidents and scientists. Toth, scheduled to leave Moscow Friday with his family, said he asked whether he would be required to undergo more questioning and an official of the Justice Ministry told him, "We'll see."

But he asked the group to advise him quickly on ways to keep down the "inordinate costs" of hospital care. Later, in another of an accelerated series of meetings with members of Congress, Carter spoke to about 25 representatives, including Paul Rogers of Florida, Robert Cornell and Robert Kastenmeier of Wisconsin, and Martha Keys of Kansas. He praised Congress for its action on his proposed energy department and program as well as executive reorganization. But he said "some very difficult questions remain."

On Tuesday, Toth was accused by the Soviet Foreign Ministry of collecting "secret information of a political and military nature." Although the questioning Tuesday suggested he might formally be accused of espionage activities, Toth said the authorities insisted Wednesday he was only a witness. He was questioned extensively about his contacts with Anatoly Shcharansky, a 29-year-old mathematician, a leader of the Jewish activist and civil rights movements. Shcharansky was arrested in March shortly after being accused in the Soviet press of gathering military information for the CIA.

Cheney Tech speakers echo past and future

By JUNE TOMPKINS

A bit of reminiscence and encouragement for the future were subjects covered in speeches at the graduation of the Class of 1977 Wednesday evening at Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School. There was no race with threatening clouds as there has been in recent years since the school began holding outdoor ceremonies. Families and friends, including the wife of one of the students, surrounded the area where 91 seniors waited through a program climaxed by the awarding of diplomas. Appropriately referred to as "Reflections" on the program, Class President Mark St. James of East Hartford told his classmates, "We cannot live in the past, yet we cannot live without memories of the past."

Penney to need variances from state building code

state standards. This would also require a variance from the building code. "For the privilege of exceeding the exit distance, they're installing an extraordinary fire protection system," Conti said. Penney is also planning to install electrical system based on the 1975 national electrical code. But, the state's building code still requires that the 1971 electrical code be used. This will also require a variance. The firm is also seeking a variance from a state requirement for a certain number of cubic feet per square foot of space.

"You have a choice," he said. "You can choose to be involved in your country, or you can choose to be involved in your family and do nothing else, or you can do all that plus involving yourselves. Use your talents to better the community around you and your country," he said.

He also stressed the importance of vocational training and a skilled work force to maintain industry in Connecticut. "You are Connecticut's greatest asset," he said.

His final message was that life and the world can be much more exciting "if you participate fully in the events of your day."

In his greeting to the class, Garofalo noted that all but three members of the graduating class began with the group four years ago. He said that within the next few years, he hoped to see the Cheney Tech building twice as big as it is now.

Dr. Peter Horoschak, deputy commissioner of education, brought greetings from the state Department of Education. He said that there is a 12 per cent overall increase in the vocational training system compared to last year.

Diplomas were handed to the seniors by Lennart O. Johnson, guidance counselor at the school for many years until his retirement this year.

Melvin Lumpkin performed an organ selection, "The Impossible Dream," and the Rev. Ronald J. Fournier of Emanuel Lutheran Church pronounced the invocation and benediction.

Central job bank proposed as major need for youth

By SUSAN VAUGHN Herald Reporter

Proposals to aid Manchester's youth in employment, housing and recreation were the result of an all-day conference this week of agencies representing youth from the state, local, school and private sectors.

The conference was organized by Robert J. Digan, director of Youth Services in Manchester.

Establishing a central job bank for youth employment was the main proposal from the youth employment workshop. An ongoing committee was established by Neil Lawrence, director of the Cooperative Occupational Educational Program (COEP) at Manchester High School.

The committee will be in charge of finding one place which can deal with an employer and the youth.

Major employers in the town were also invited to become involved in the program.

The immediate plan resulting from the youth crime program is a cooperative recreation program for the town's two moderate income housing projects, Squire Village and Beechwood Apartments.

A group of social service representatives met earlier this spring to deal with specific problems, particularly youth vandalism, in the two projects.

The plan which will be initiated this summer will be two recreation programs directed by the cooperative efforts of the Manchester Recreation Department, Manchester Community College, the Manchester Police Department, Youth Services Bureau and the Connecticut Youth Work Experience Program.

Youth workers will be employed to staff the program. Sgt. Patricia Graves, youth officer of the Manchester Police Department led the youth crime workshop.

Another proposal is to explore the possibility of having written working agreements between all local agencies on any efforts to help youth. One of the reasons for the written agreements is that most federal funding now requires them, Digan said.

A keynote speech by Mrs. Jean Zurbrigen of Youth Services set the tone that all youth agencies in working together should be like a family when working on youth problems.

The conference concluded with an agreement to review the initial plans in a few months.

Department to compile a list of available housing for youth. An appeal will also be made to homeowners to rent rooms and to find more homes for the shelter care program.

One of the main purposes of the meeting was to establish interagency cooperation and communications. The committee on that topic agreed to make an effort to cooperate with the existing Manchester Community Services Council. They also will ask the town Board of Directors for a clarification of the role of the human services director.

vice Department to compile a list of available housing for youth. An appeal will also be made to homeowners to rent rooms and to find more homes for the shelter care program.

Opinion

Will the melting pot come to a real boil?

Back around the turn of the century, during the high tide of immigration, Teddy Roosevelt saw a danger of the United States turning into a "polygot boarding house."

It didn't happen, chiefly because in those survival-of-the-fittest days, it was sink or swim for immigrants. Either they learned English or they had little chance of entering the mainstream of American society.

Today, however, the ruling philosophy seems to be that every private problem must have a public remedy. Recent phenomenon of a continued high immigration rate, especially of the illegal kind — are making it increasingly likely that the United States will become a bilingual, if not a multilingual, society, say some observers.

In 1974, for example, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that San Francisco schools must provide special language classes for non-English-speaking students. This ruling, says James Farrel in a book called "Give Us Your Poor (The Immigration Bomb)," opened the door for multilingual educational programs throughout the nation — "programs which will ultimately cost the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars annually" at a time when many schools are being forced to cut back or eliminate programs in art, music, drama and sports due to a lack of funds.

Hatch Act: Labor cashes in its chips

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives voted 244 to 164 the other day to virtually wipe off the books the Hatch Act — a law that, for nearly 40 years, has both protected federal workers from political coercion by their superiors and prohibited them from involvement in many partisan political activities.

Its next test will come in the Senate; it is not known when the measure will reach there. When it does, passage is less assured, owing in part to Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Governmental Affairs Committee that must clear the bill. Ribicoff voted against a like proposal last year and again appears dubious.

Repeal of the Hatch Act has long been a top priority of organized labor, whose government unions claim allegiance of some 50 per cent of federal workers — a figure disputed by pro-Hatch Act groups. The strong House vote for repeal is seen as a victory much needed by labor.

More realistic projections, they say, would take into account the 800,000 illegal immigrants, mostly Spanish-speaking, believed to enter the country each year. Assuming nothing is done to curb illegal immigration, the U.S. might have nearly 100 million more people in the year 2025 than would be expected on the basis of the current natural increase (2.1 million births per year) plus legal immigration (400,000 per year).

In the same issue of the magazine, Richard Downes paints two "scenarios" of the possible consequences of illegal immigration, one optimistic, the other pessimistic. In the first, the United States gradually and peacefully accomplishes the transition to a Spanish-speaking society. In the second, mounting social strife eventually leads to a break-up of the U.S.A.

All systems go for new U.S. warhead?

WASHINGTON — (LENS) — The Pentagon's strategic planners may be about to take a dangerous new step in the arms race. Unless prevented by a new SALT agreement, they aim to introduce a nuclear warhead known as the MX-12A, "a silo-buster" that should radically improve the accuracy and destructiveness of the Minuteman III missile.

close correlation between congressmen who have been wooed by organized labor and congressmen who voted the other day to gut the Hatch Act.

For a minority Arizona Democratic Rep. Morris Udall, in closing arguments prior to the Hatch Act vote, conceded that most federal workers "do not care" to get involved in partisan politics, despite the efforts of others to win the right for them.

California Rep. Robert Lagomarsino among others, disagrees. "The civil service employees in our district regard the Hatch Act as virtually the only protection against some of the more subtle forms of pressure," said the Ventura Republican.

Public opinion surveys indicate a great majority of Americans agree with Lagomarsino's position. A Decision Making Information across the U.S. last year, for example, showed 73 per cent of those interviewed favoring retention of the Hatch Act.

It is difficult indeed to argue persuasively against this majority view. If the Hatch Act is unpatched, labor may win but the nation will lose.

Disturbing Technicalities, aside, the effect on the strategic balance would be disturbing, just as would similar developments on the Russian side. A sound strategic maxim is never to allow one side to believe it can destroy the weapons the other side needs to retaliate with.

What, no tests For God's sake! In my ignorance I had naturally assumed that all such would-be teachers were screened to make sure they could all, at least, spell C-A-T. Silent man speaks of art

WASHINGTON (UPI) - He has performed thousands of times before millions of people without uttering a word, this bright-eyed man with the wonderfully expressive gestures who may be France's most beloved export.

"It is dangerous to ask a mime to talk," joked Marcel Marceau. "For he may never stop."

And he never did.

The occasion was a small press luncheon in his honor Tuesday, marking a week of performances at the Kennedy Center.

Marceau was polite enough not to remark that the luncheon wine at the French Embassy was Sangre. He was wrapped up in giving long, flowing answers to questions about his art.

"What would have thought 4,000 kids in Poughkeepsie would act as if I were the Beatles? There is a great wave of youth interest. It is extraordinary to witness the reaction of young people. I cannot explain it. You must be there to see it."

"There are more than 400 young mime groups in this country now. There is a mime craze. They are just in awe over this art form. They want to know everything of the history of mime."

"They have become aware of the silent movie stars - Chaplin, Keaton. One student newspaper wrote that if there were no silent movies, Charlie Chaplin would have been the Marcel Marceau of his time."

"What is the secret of mime?"

"To bring to the public realities through illusion. When I am on the floor miming a tightrope walker 10 feet in the air, the audience must feel it so strongly they scream 'Ohhh, he's going to break his leg.'"

"What is in his future?"

"Immediately, Australia for two months, then back to the United States. Next year the one-man shows are going to be rare. The French government has given me a grant to create a national mime company and school in Reims, and I have realized my dream of 15 years."

"You must be proud of your New England success, will not fade entirely to a blank sheet, but they could discolor, Ms. Stepanek said.

"Some colors are fugitive; others are stable," she said. "With time, it's probable the stable colors will darken or discolor."

Discovery adds color to old masters

BOSTON (UPI) - American artist Winslow Homer was a more colorful painter than his works reveal today, according to a Boston Museum of Fine Arts expert.

Stephanie Stepanek, a curatorial assistant at the museum, said her examination of the artist's water-colors show their hues have faded in the 67 years since his death, probably from exposure to light.

She says her discovery may apply to other watercolor artists as well.

"His palette seems to be deeper and stronger in tone and much warmer in hue than was originally believed," she said.

Ms. Stepanek, calling her discovery "sort of a thunderbolt," said it could affect the worth of Homer's works, and prompt increased reluctance by museums to lend his paintings because of risk they will fade further.

Works of the Boston-born artist, remembered chiefly for his New England sea scenes, will not fade entirely to a blank sheet, but they could discolor, Ms. Stepanek said.

"Some colors are fugitive; others are stable," she said. "With time, it's probable the stable colors will darken or discolor."

Capsule interred

HARTFORD (UPI) - A collection of mementos - including a videotape of Gov. Ella T. Grasso's inauguration and a letter to a future congressman - were buried in a time capsule Wednesday at the state library.

The two cubic foot capsule will stay underground until the year 2076, when state officials hope their successors will open it to find out what life was like during the nation's 200th birthday.

Several state officials, including Mrs. Grasso and Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., attended the ceremony which is part of the continuing state's bicentennial activity.

May. Gen. John Freund, adjutant general of the Connecticut National Guard, contributed a videotape of Gov. Ella T. Grasso's inauguration to the time capsule.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Benjamin Muzio gave his own driver's license photo and a 1977 drivers manual to the bicentennial cause.

Dodd wrote a letter to the future representative from his district outlining the problems he faced as a congressman. He concluded his correspondence with a political twist.

"I hope the district has demonstrated its continued good sense and elected a Democrat."

Quilt illustrates highlights of term

Ethel Tautkus, right, admires the quilt given her recently after she served five years as president of the Women's Relief Society of the Manchester Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Making the presentation are Sheila Gray, second from right, president, and her two counselors, Linda Stevens, left, and Martha Moe. New homemaker service name to reflect broader new role

By BARBARA RICHMOND

The Manchester Homemaker Service, Inc. will soon be known as River East Homemaker-Home Health Aide Service, Inc. The words Home Health Aide have to be in the name if an agency is going to be a Medicare provider. The Board of Directors decided on the new name at a workshop meeting Tuesday night. And because the agency now services such a broad area it was decided that Manchester in the title was no longer appropriate. New brochures and logos will be made up soon. Mrs. Hylic Hurwitz, director of the agency, also reported to the board that a nurse has been hired for the new Home Health Aide program. This portion of the service has been operating under the contract with the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association. Several weeks ago the nursing association informed the homemaker agency that it would not renew its contract but rather will be operating its own home health aide program. The board decided to continue the program by hiring its own nurse supervisor, Jennie Kosowski of South Windsor was hired. She has a background in public health nursing.

This brand new siding from Johns-Manville doesn't do what other sidings do. (And that's why it's so much better.)

Doesn't show scratches. Different color goes with the wall, so scratches don't show.	Doesn't show its age. All siding looks good as long as it's clean.
Doesn't rust or corrode. Unlike metal siding, vinyl siding is resistant to weather.	Doesn't sound like a drum when it rains. Vinyl siding is much quieter than metal siding in a hailstorm.
Doesn't dent. Hail and baseballs make their marks on metal siding but not on vinyl.	Doesn't interfere with your TV. Metal siding can adversely affect your TV reception. Not vinyl.
Doesn't ever need repainting. Maintenance-free vinyl is the only siding that never needs repainting.	Doesn't support combustion. Protecting your family and belongings is always important.
Doesn't rot. Vinyl is totally resistant to rot.

Volunteers are needed at day camp

Volunteers at and least $600 is needed before the opening of the Interfaith Day Camp, sponsored by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, July 18 at Concordia Lutheran Church. Ten-year-old volunteers are needed to serve as counselors and adults to work with the staff during the weeks of July 18 and 25. Mrs. Nancy Carr, executive director of the conference, said: "Donations to date total $1,200, and an additional $600 is needed to operate the camp program, she said. A contribution of $25 will provide a child with two weeks of camp, she said. Normally, an equal number of children from Manchester and from Hartford's inner city attend the annual day camp. This year, in response to requests from town social workers and local youth, 10 more than the usual 30 local children are being accepted at camp. Mrs. Carr reported. The camp will only accept 20 Hartford children this year, she said. Those wishing to volunteer their services may contact Mrs. Edward Gross, camp manager, 640-6256, or the conference office, 649-2093.

The newly elected president has been a member of the local league's board of directors for three years. Collective bargaining changes eyed HARTFORD (UPI) — Legislative leaders, unhappy with certain parts of the law governing collective bargaining with state employees, have set up a special committee to recommend changes. The Legislative Management Committee, composed of leaders from both parties, have set up a panel to recommend changes in the collective bargaining law.

Lawmakers this year said they were unhappy with provisions of the law giving them only 30 days to either reject the pact or let it take effect. They said 30 days was not long enough in view of the complexities of such contracts. House Speaker James J. Kennelly, D-Hartford, said some change was needed to alter what he said was an "unrealistic" time frame. "Unless something is done this legislature is just going to be a rubber stamp," he said. The legislature passed a collective bargaining law for state workers in 1975. Before that date wages and working conditions were set by lawmakers.

Two-Chinas sessions proposed

TOKYO (UPI) — Mike Mansfield, the new American ambassador to Japan, Wednesday called on Communist China and the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan to hold bilateral talks to resolve the two-Chinas problem.

Mansfield, who arrived in Japan last week, also said it is common knowledge that the United States has nuclear weapons in South Korea, but added that he did not know if they would be withdrawn from the country as part of President Carter's troop pullout plan. Speaking at a news conference at the American Embassy, Mansfield said Japan-U.S. trade problems are increasing and a great degree of mutual understanding will be needed to solve them and avoid protectionism.

"China-U.S. relations are based on the 1972 Shanghai Communiqué, which recognizes there is but one China and expresses the hope that by peaceful means this could become a recognized fact rather than a mere expression," Mansfield said.

"Our policy is to continue to try to further normalize relations with the People's Republic of China, but the one roadblock is Taiwan," he said. "My feeling is the way to solve this is for Taiwan and Peking to get together and reach an amicable decision."

Hands off warning issued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House was on notice Wednesday to keep its hands off the $1.3 billion Labor and Health, Education and Welfare money bill and let House Democratic leaders try to sidetrack efforts to increase the amount.

President Carter has threatened to veto the bill if it is higher than he requested.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill and other Democratic leaders worked with HEW Secretary Joseph Califano, looking for a compromise in cutting back on the $1.4 billion in excess of Carter's requests. None apparently was found.

Republicans again offered to help the Democratic President, as they did in the water projects measure which the House passed Tuesday. That GOP effort, to cut out 16 of the 18 projects Carter said should not be funded, failed.

Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., the House GOP Whip, planned to offer an amendment to cut back the HEW budget by $653.5 million, allocating into several education and health programs, but that too was headed for defeat.

MMH setting for film dealing with malpractice

Manchester Memorial Hospital's main purpose is health service. Recently, however, it provided a setting for a movie to illustrate malpractice avoidance.

As part of its loss control program, the Aetna Insurance Co. is making a series of films and videotapes for training purposes. Recently, a film crew from Aetna spent a week at Manchester Memorial Hospital using hospital personnel to illustrate the importance of documenting everything that is done for the patient. The generally accepted view by the courts, according to a hospital spokesman, is that "something not documented was not done."

This and other films Aetna is making will be shown to Aetna clients throughout the country in an effort to make them more aware of the importance of loss control. In a hospital setting, loss control refers primarily to malpractice avoidance.

The tape made at MMH will be previewed there before becoming a part of Aetna's library where it will be available nationwide to hospital staffs.

Participating in the scene are a paid actress, center, hired to portray a patient coming into the hospital with a sore throat complaint. At right is Wendy Wood, from Aetna's audio-visual department, who is producing and directing the program. (Photo by Marmen)

Gardening

Climbing hydrangea reaches more than 30 feet from the ground, supported by an ancient pine tree behind the home of Barbara Conklin on Olcott Dr. (Herald photo by Dunn)

"Have you ever seen a climbing hydrangea?"

That is the question that came over the telephone from Barbara Conklin of Olcott Dr. and my answer was "no." I had never heard of a climbing hydrangea, either.

Now I have seen one at the Conklin home and it is a whopper of a vine. Planted 20 years ago at the base of a tall pine tree, the vine reaches up now certainly more than 30 feet and is still growing.

The hydrangea is in bloom in June, and our picture shows the typical large clusters of blossoms that one expects on the bush-size hydrangeas that are more familiar.

The background color of the clusters is a light shade of green, with scattered small white flowers in each cluster that made me think of tiny lights on a huge Christmas tree.

The vine draws all its nourishment from its own roots and depends on the pine tree only for support. It clings to the rough bark with tiny, root-like "holdfasts" and the blossoms form on side branches which may reach out three feet from the tree.

There were lower branches once on the pine tree but the only ones left now are at the top and the lower part of the trunk is surrounded and nearly hidden by the foliage of the vine.

We consulted a couple of books this time and I can quote from one I have not used before, "Espaliers and Vines for the Home Gardener," by the late Harold O. Perkins of the University of Connecticut. Professor Perkins identifies the vine as Hydrangea petiolaris, first grown in this country at a nursery on Long Island, after being introduced from China in 1865.

There is a second climbing hydrangea with a different name that comes from Japan, but we agreed that the Chinese variety is the one that grows on Olcott Dr. Barbara Conklin wanted one because she greatly admired a climbing hydrangea that her father grew on an elm tree at her girlhood home in Windsor. The elm became a victim of Dutch elm disease but her father left a tall stump on which the hydrangea continues to thrive.

The small plant she set out was slow to grow at first but now it continues to reach toward the sky each year. Professor Perkins gives 75 feet as an attainable height for this tremendous vine.

Poinsettias in June

Another caller was Mrs. William Marceau of Tracy Dr. who asked if I thought it was unusual for a Poinsettia to continue blossoming into June. I think it is, although the plant growers for some years have been extending the season in which Poinsettias will keep their red bracts.

Mrs. Marceau said she has two plants, purchased locally at the Christmas season. They were small, no more than eight inches tall, but in bloom. The plants have doubled in size and when one set of red leaves drops, the plant grows new leaves which turn red. Each is close to a window where it gets light. She gives them water twice a week and liquid fertilizer once a month.

White House aides chastised for ignoring recommendations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of House Democrats has called top White House aides on the carpet for failure to hire any of their recommendations to policy-making jobs in the administration. It was learned Wednesday.

The members met with Hamilton Jordan, President Carter's top aide and patronage chief, and bluntly informed him they are unhappy that the President has been in office nearly six months and not a single one of their recommendations has been named to a policy-making position.

Jordan told the elite of House Democrats he hasn't returned their telephone calls or messages because of problems in ousting some 1,200 Republican holdovers and getting clearance for appointees.

He also told Jordan "I don't know of one person in this room or in Congress who has gotten even a GSI appointment." A General Schedule-1 appointment is the lowest on the Civil Service Commission scale.

"It looks to me like some of this should have been taken care of by March," Flowers said. He said the same subject was taken up with Vice President Walter Mondale at a closed caucus of House Democrats nearly two months ago.

Senate panel seeks to avert showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move designed to avert a veto showdown with President Carter, a Senate panel has voted to kill eight water projects he considers environmentally and economically sound.

The Senate public works appropriations subcommittee went into an unusual closed session Wednesday to find a compromise between the zero projects Carter wants funded and the 16 voted by the House on Tuesday.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., talking to reporters after the meeting, made it clear the slashing of eight projects — including three in Colorado — was an attempt to avoid a veto of the $10.5 billion Public Works money bill.

A 17th project which Carter wants to stop — the Grove Lake reservoir in Kansas — was abandoned by the House Appropriations Committee. No effort to restore was made either in the House or in the Senate committee.

Projects which Carter wanted to kill but which were approved by both the Senate committee and the House included the Richard B. Russell Dam in Georgia and South Carolina; Applegate Dam, Ore.; Alchafalaya River-Bayous Boeuf, Black and Chene, La.; Cache Basin, Ark.; Hillside Lake, Kan.; Tallahalla Creek, Miss.; Columbia Dam, Tenn.; and Auburn Dam, Calif.

Application is submitted for industrial subdivision

An application for a 12-lot industrial subdivision off Parker St. has been submitted to the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC).

The subdivision plan, submitted by Daniel C. Guachione of Manchester and Jon Kerin of West Hartford, would cover about 18 acres just north of Best St. The plan includes a road leading from Parker St. to the subdivision's 12 lots.

Kerin said this morning that Guachione's firm, Glenn Construction Co., is interested in locating the proposed subdivision. The firm is presently located on Main St.

Kerin said that they have no other prospective tenants at this time, but they are interested in attracting commercial or light industrial companies rather than heavy industrial firms.

The men have also applied for an inland-wetlands permit because a small brook runs through the proposed site. Kerin said, however, that they plan to leave the brook virtually intact, except for a bridge over the water to accommodate the subdivision road.

The proposed site is already zoned industrial.

The industrial subdivision plan is scheduled to be heard by the PZC during July. The commission's first meeting is July 11, but because of an influx of applications, some matters may be scheduled for the PZC's July 25 business meeting.

The declining number of children is also attributed to the migration out-of-town, Kennedy noted. The movement of students is consistent with the trend for Connecticut and the entire Northeast.

The census, conducted by the United States Bureau with participating workers, counted a total of 15,275 youth ages birth to 20 years.

The number of children 7 to 15 years old, the core group in school, is the 16 to 18-year age group, the census reports 2,591, with 424 of these not attending school or receiving any instruction.

The figures for birth to six-year-olds are 464; birth to one-year-old, 554; two-year-old, 542; three-year-old, 620; four-year-old, 560; five-year-old, 697; and six-year-old, 787.

As a result of the spotlight on the census this year, which included children that it is used by the administration will have suggestions on improving procedures, Kennedy said.

The census is required by the state and the data is used statewide. Census problems are not unique to Manchester, Kennedy said.

The second of two music recitals presented by the students of the Dabaldo Music Center will be held Wednesday night when Carrie Adams, Debbie Willis, Michael Tomkinas, Bruce Eagleson, Mark Eagleson, Frank Hoer, Anthony Sleskey, Jim Atwell, Cindy Healy, Sarah Warrington, Patsy Tomkinas, Steve Sleskey, Steve Frys, Maureen Carney, John Anton, John Warrington, Renee Caron, Brian Bonaldi-Beebes, George Mandelino, Colleen Callahan, Ted Terzo, Wes Willett, Paulase Kurowski, Guy Trombly, Vera Sacuzzo, Greg Etringham, Rose Kallal, Sandra Boves, Susan Kallal, Susan Campanelli, Cindy Kurawski, David Grenier and Beth McEllen.

The Board of Directors last week recommended that the group of concerned residents turn to the Community Development Citizens Advisory Committee for possible funding for this project.

The town's application for its $301,000 third-year Community Development grant has been processed and approved by the Board of Education.

The Citizens Advisory Committee will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 in Woodruff Hall of Center Congregational Church. Residents of the Nathan Hale School district are expected to make their appeal at that meeting.

Mason said that he and other town officials expect to have some more accurate details on the cost of the proposed project for that meeting. If it is decided to include funding for the work, the work would not be able to start until early September, he said.

But, Dion said that the Board of Education has set aside $6,000 for improvements to the school playground. He expects that the improvements made with that money will be done over the summer.

"We'll do what we can while the children are gone," he said. He also said that the Board of Education funds will be concentrated on making improvements on the south side of the school. Other sections of the schoolyard are expected to be included in the improvements proposed to be made with the Community Development money.

Dion said that some work has already been done with the Board of Education money. A concrete tennis court that had decayed was removed, and some loam has also been delivered to the playground area.

Other improvements to be made with the Board of Education funding including a backdrop and fence for the ball field on the south side of the school, Dion said.

Rylander Jr. of 184 E. Middle Tpke. has been named clerk-of-the-works for the construction of the housing for the elderly project on Spencer St.

Rylander's appointment is subject to the approval of the Department of Community Affairs, Pascai Mastara director of the federal Housing Assistance Payment Plan, he said.

Leon Enderlin, executive director of the Housing Authority, and Mastrangelo Wednesday night reported that they had selected three out of about 12 applicants for the project. The firm was chosen by the architectural firm of Olson and Miller, architect for the project, made the final selection.

Canonization rites Sunday for Bishop John Neumann

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — More than 100,000 pilgrims will throng St. Peter's Square Sunday to hear Pope Paul VI declare the "Little Bishop" of Philadelphia America's first male saint.

The canonization climaxes a 91-year sainthood drive by the followers of Bishop John Neumann — the third American to be proclaimed a saint of the Roman Catholic Church.

Neumann died from exhaustion in 1860 on the streets of Philadelphia at the age of 48. Reports of miraculous cures soon appeared.

A shy, self-effacing man who stood only 5-foot-2, Neumann was considered such an unlikely candidate for sainthood that he almost missed joining the rolls of new saints marching into the church this year.

In fact, Neumann's candidacy was held up for 10 years because the Vatican Congregation of Rites considered his life "too ordinary" — a series of everyday actions accomplished fearlessly but unexceptionally.

But in 1921, Pope Benedict XV overruled the Congregation, saying: "Works, even the most simple, performed with constant perfection in the midst of inevitable difficulties, spell heroism in any servant of God."

That it was that John Neumann came to join Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini and Mother Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton as the only three saints from the United States.

Neumann's efforts as a horseback circuit priest and English teacher in upstate New York have been credited with spreading the parochial school system throughout the United States.

Born March 28, 1811, in the village of Prachatitz in what is now Czechoslovakia, Neumann originally wanted to become a doctor of medicine.

After his mother persuaded him to enter a theological instead, Neumann decided to become a missionary in the United States and in 1838 set out for the New World without having been ordained and without an assignment.

Hebron had voting and protests

Voting and protests were the words used at this week's Special Town Meeting at Hebron Elementary School.

Salvatore Mastandrea, Roy Wirth and Bruce Gallant were elected to four-year terms for the Rham District Board of Education in a five-way contest for the three board seats.

Defeated in their bids for slots on the board were Michael Monaccio and Kityu Sibun. The election was by plurality, with Mastandrea polling 63 votes, Wirth, 49, and Gallant 47. Mrs. Sibun and Monaccio received 39 votes each.

Mastandrea and Wirth were both elected to the board last December when membership from Hebron was expanded from three to five members. Gallant is new to the board.

Mrs. Sibun completes her three-year term June 30. Monaccio has never held a seat on the board.

Jack Weisel was elected to fill a one-year vacancy on the board, beginning immediately and ending June 30, 1978. His election was without opposition on a voice vote. He will fill the vacancy created by the Democratic Town Committee, but the board had refused to accept the names until the committee could provide at least three names for the positions.

A third candidate was Lorraine Bilecki of Hope Valley Rd. Mrs. Bilecki submitted her resume for the position in response to a request from the board last month for persons interested in board membership.

Board member Charles Barasso objected to the method employed in the resignation of Everett Graham. Protests were lodged by Joseph Krist concerning smoking at the meeting. Those who were smoking extinguished their cigarettes amid alternating waves of laughter and applause, when Krist challenged smokers with the state statute prohibiting smoking at public meetings.

At the front of the room, school board secretary Louise Bourret and Selectman Arthur Pinney hastily extinguished their cigarettes.

Finance Board Chairman Richard Grant told the meeting a fine is imposed only after arrest and conviction for violation of the smoking statute. He continued to smoke.

Krist then demanded that First Selectman Aaron Reid make a citizen's arrest in his capacity as chief of police.

Grant then extinguished his cigarette, saying he didn't want to embarrass Reid.

Mrs. Krist went to the nearest exit and stood in the open doorway, enjoying her cigarette, as the votes for regional board members were counted.

No further disruptions were encountered as the meeting went on to pass by voice vote an ordinance providing tax exemption for installation of solar heating or cooling systems.

The exemption must be applied for annually and covers only the first 15 assessment years following completion of the system. Construction must begin between Oct. 1, 1976, and Oct. 1, 1991.

In other action, the selectmen were authorized to enter into agreement with the state transportation commissioner for spending any state funds available for use on town roads.

making the appointments, which was by direct motion for each slot. He said the action should have permitted additional nominations.

In other business, the local school board approved budget adjustments resulting in a total budget for 1977-78 of $1,636,858, the amount approved at the Annual Town Meeting in May.

The board also authorized the superintendent to spend any additional unanticipated surplus for audio-visual supplies.

Board seats finally filled

The Hebron Board of Education finally has named two Democrats to fill board vacancies created by the resignations of Barbara Stanchfield and George Roman.

The board voted last week to appoint Edith Long of Old Colchester Rd. and Marita DeCarvalho of Burd Hill Rd. Mrs. Long will fill Mrs. Stanchfield's vacancy and Mrs. DeCarvalho, that of Roman.

Three members of the Eighth District Fire Department stand by an old hose cart they recently refurbished as a show piece for parades. From left, they are Ken Roback, project coordinator, Jim Searles, who did the pinstripping and paint work, and Gary Zito who did the polish work. The cart was purchased by the Manchester Fire Department, Eighth School and Utilities District, about 1888 when the department was formed, and used until 1921 when the department's first motorized truck was purchased. The handdrawn cart was pulled to fires by several men and later by a milk truck owned by Fred and Harold Sankey, both members of the department. (Herald photo by Dunn)

New IOH pool would cost $4,000 a year to operate

A new pool for the Instructors of the Handicapped (IOH) program would cost the Board of Education about $4,000 a year in maintenance, according to preliminary figures prepared by Wilfred Dion, director of school buildings and grounds.

David C. Moyer, chairman of the IOH board of directors, recently asked the board for its consideration of a proposal to build the shallow pool next to the existing high school pool.

Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education Monday night that he is not prepared to make a recommendation on the pool. In addition to obtaining the maintenance estimates, he said he needs to examine whether the pool would get enough school and community use to justify the town's expense.

However, Kennedy said, as the estimates now stand, he cannot bring a recommendation to expend $4,000 of education money for four hours of use each Sunday. He underscored the worthiness of the project, but said he needs additional information.

IOH has been compiling a pool fund for several years and now has about $100,000, however, the organization found that cost to build a separate full-size pool would be prohibitive.

IOH proposed to pay for the construction of the pool, but asked for the Board of Education to handle maintenance.

A breakdown of the estimated maintenance costs on a monthly basis includes heating the water, $300, pool chemicals, $80, heating the building, $115, custodian fee, $45 and electrical, $20. The cost does not include summer total cleanup and building and equipment maintenance. The costs are based on a pool approximately 35 feet long, 15 feet wide and 3 feet deep. IOH now uses the pool every Sunday, but is not charged for use of the pool, lights, shower and locker facilities or

U.S. leads in world arms sales

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—The United States was the world's leading supplier of major weapons to Third World nations in 1976, the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute said Wednesday.

The institute's 1977 yearbook said U.S. sales of major weapons to the Third World accounted for about 40 per cent of the total, while the Soviet Union sold about 20 per cent of the total and Britain and France 8 per cent each.

The worldwide total of $334 billion spent last year to major weapons such as tanks and war planes represented a 3 per cent increase over 1975, spurred by a 10 per cent jump in arms purchases by Third World nations, the yearbook said.

The yearbooks of the institute—formed in 1966 to mark Sweden's 150th year of unbroken peace and funded by the Swedish parliament—have been used by the U.N. and Geneva disarmament negotiations as an objective source of information on the international weapons market.

The Third World was responsible for 15 per cent of the world's military expenditure in 1976, compared with 12 per cent in 1975 and 3.2 per cent in 1965, the yearbook said.

More than half of Third World purchases were made by Middle East countries, which now have accumulated as many combat aircraft and tanks as NATO forces in Europe.

Spying continues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department is continuing to spy electronically on foreign powers in this country, and the Carter administration has approved five new surveillance projects since taking office last January.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown made the disclosures in testimony before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that is considering legislation that would require the government to get court warrants for electronic surveillance in foreign intelligence cases.

Approval in each of the five new instances was given by the attorney general, Brown said. He said a sixth request was turned back by an inter-agency panel of the National Security Council.

The secretary declined to discuss the surveillance in open session but said: "I want to emphasize that none of these involved U.S. citizens. In fact, none involved individuals. They were foreign powers."

Carew painfully reminds Tanana

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Tanana didn't learn any new lessons Wednesday night, but his encounter with Rod Carew amounted to a painful refresher course.

American League

Rangers 6, Indians 0. Mike Marshall recorded his first American League victory since 1969 and Dave May and Jim Sundberg each drove in two runs as Texas completed a three-game sweep. Marshall allowed three hits in seven innings. Don Money's two-run homer and Steve Brye's two-run double keyed a six-run second inning. Jim Slaton earned the victory with relief help from Sal Hinds. Ken Singleton slugged his eighth homer of the season for Baltimore. Mariners 6, A's 5. Juan Bernhard and Larry Milbourne singled home runs in the bottom of the 11th after the A's had taken a 5-4 lead in the top of the 11th on Jim Tyrone's pinch-hit single to score Larry Linares. Carlos Lopez, two-out batter, tied the game for Seattle in the 10th after Matt Alexander raced home from third on Wayne Gross' 15-foot dribbler in the top of the inning.

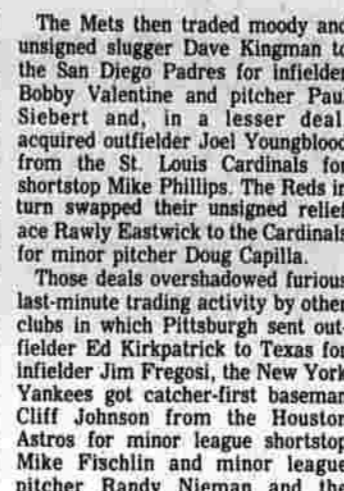

Red Sox enjoy evening off atop AL standings

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox players had Wednesday off to enjoy the sensation of being No. 1, and resume play tonight against the Chicago White Sox. Boston moved into first place in the American League's Eastern Division this week after six consecutive victories on their current home stand and nine wins in the last 10 games. The Red Sox front office was not taking it easy, but by the Wednesday midnight trading deadline the Boston brass failed to engineer a couple of deals to give the club some added depth.

Their efforts to land a pitcher and a utility infielder did not lead to any transactions, which means they will try to win their second divisional crown in three years with the cast of players that have gotten them to the top. One man who has been missing during Boston's rise to the top is relief pitcher Jim Willoughby, but his services will be needed in order for Boston to enjoy a successful campaign. Willoughby, who broke his right ankle May 22 while chasing a fly ball during batting practice, had been told by team doctors that he would have to wear a cast for six weeks. The 28-year-old righthander, however, had his cast removed Wednesday and was fitted with a walking cast which he will wear for about a week.

Sports transactions

Wednesday Baseball Pittsburgh — Traded utility outfielder Ed Kirkpatrick to Texas for reserve infielder Jim Fregosi. California — Signed right-handed pitcher Joe Blyleven, Ricky Stier, Doug Thompson, Steve Trumbauer and Monte Mendenhall, left-handed pitcher, George Tucker, Jim Vallone and Mark Miller and shortstop Melvin Quires, all selections in the free agent draft. Oakland — Purchased outfielder Willie Crawford from the Houston Astros for an undisclosed amount of cash and sold outfielder Dennis Hasting to the Astros' Charleston farm club in International League. Cincinnati — Traded relief pitcher Rawley Eastwick to the St. Louis Cardinals for minor league pitcher Doug Capilla; traded relief pitcher Mike Caldwell to the Milwaukee Brewers for minor league pitcher Rich O'Keefe and minor league infielder Gary Fyke; purchased minor league utility infielder Rick Auerbach. New York Mets — Traded pitcher Tom Seaver to the Cincinnati Reds for pitcher Pat Zachry, infielder Doug Flynn and minor league outfielders Steve Henderson and Dan Norman; traded outfielder Dave Kingman to San Diego for infielder Bobby Valentine and left-handed pitcher Paul Siebert; traded shortstop Mike Phillips to the St. Louis Cardinals for outfielder Joel Youngblood. New York Yankees — Acquired catcher-first baseman Cliff Johnson from the Houston Astros for minor league shortstop Mike Fischlin, minor league left-handed pitcher Randy Niemann and a player to be named later. Pro Football Dallas — Signed quarterback Glenn Carrano, second-round draft choice from Nevada-Las Vegas. San Francisco — Bought quarterback Pat Sullivan from Chicago and placed quarterback Marty Downs on waivers. Pro Hockey Colorado — Announced the retirement of veteran right wing and team captain Simon Lotz.

Tom Seaver

Reuschel, Rhoden continue streaks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amid the chaos of eleventh-hour trades involving such National League pitching notables as Tom Seaver and Rawley Eastwick, a couple of far less heralded hurlers quietly continued along as the league's top winners by chalking up their ninth victory.

National League

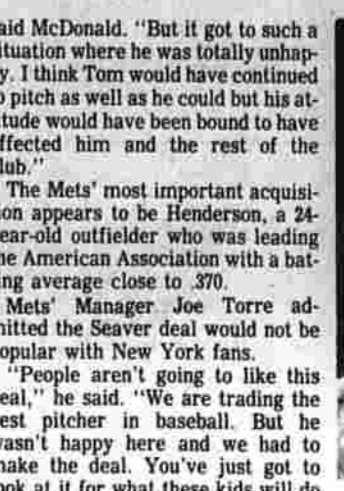

Rick Reuschel, the Chicago Cubs' journeyman right-hander hurled a four-hit, 2-0 victory over the San Diego Padres to improve his record to 9-2 Wednesday night, while the Los Angeles Dodgers' Rick Rhoden coasted to a 1-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. "This is the best defense I've ever had," explained Reuschel of his sudden success this season. It was Reuschel's first shutout, but he has now gone 28 consecutive innings without allowing an earned run. He struck out nine, walked one and allowed only one Padre as far as second base. He got the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Gene Clines led off with a triple and came home on an infield out by Bill Buckner. Meanwhile, the Dodgers, who lost out in the bidding for Seaver, can at least find solace in the steady pitching by Rhoden, who spaced eight hits in eight innings en route to his ninth win against three losses. Steve Garvey slammed his fourth home run in as many games and the Dodgers scored seven runs in a nice comeback. Dusty Baker's bases-loaded single was the key hit in the seven-inning game. Jackie Brown scattered four hits for his first National League shutout while Willie Garret and Gary Carter each drove in a run for Montreal. Brown, 4-4, struck out four and walked three.

Loss of Seaver hurts the city

Editors Note: The author of the following commentary described himself as "Me!" fan from their inception in 1962 until a few hours ago. By WILLIAM GOLDSCHLAG NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dodgers leave Brooklyn inconceivable. New Yorkers cried after the baseball season. But the beloved "Burns" looked at the bottom line, left Ebbeitz Field and went west to Los Angeles. The Giants abandon Manhattan? Impossible. New Yorkers insisted that same year. The Giants took their young center-fielder for a guy named Willie Mays — from the Polo Grounds and relocated to San Francisco. Wednesday night, Tom Seaver went the way of the Dodgers, several dozen corporate headquarters, a few hundred dried garment factories, and the Johnny Carson Show. The Mets' superstar utility infielder Mike Phillips to St. Louis. But Phillips is one of those players you wouldn't know without a scorecard. But Seaver. Trade Seaver? The heart and soul and pride of the Mets, the perennial All-Star? Impossible. But they did it.

Boisclair eases loss of Kingman

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bruce Boisclair apparently will be playing left field for the New York Mets on a regular basis now that Dave Kingman has been traded away.

American League

Boisclair, a 24-year-old New Englander in only his second major league season, was already outting Kingman by 45 points although not matching the big slugger's power. Wednesday night he set up the Mets' first run with a sacrifice bunt; drove in the next two with a long home run to dead centerfield; then scored the winning run by racing home from third on an infield out. "We've got a lot of young players on this club," said Boisclair, for whom the last-in-the-National-League-East Mets have played 11-5 ball since he became their manager a little over a year ago. "It's people like Bruce Boisclair who are the future of the Mets." The Mets, who also traded away pitching ace Tom Seaver Wednesday night, showed some strong pitching while winning two of three games in Atlanta. Jerry Koosman pitched a four-hitter Monday night and Jon Matlack and relievers Bob Apodaca and Skip Lockwood gave up a total of only six hits Wednesday night. The Braves gave 20-year-old Joey McLaughlin (1st 6-0) a second chance Wednesday. He allowed seven hits and five runs in 4-2-3 innings. But, at that, he lowered his earned run average from 135.00 to 18.00. Credit the Mets' new-found (under Torped) speed on the basepaths for Wednesday's win over the Braves. With the score tied at 5-5, Boisclair led off the top of the eighth with a walk and an out later raced to third on a single by Ed Kranepool. Kranepool streaked to second while the Braves were making a play on Boisclair at third so when the next batter, John Stearns, hit a sharp grounder to short it resulted in only one out and the game-winning run instead of a double play. "That's the kind of hustle I like," said Torre. "Our players were concerned about the pending trades, but that didn't stop them from playing heads-up baseball."

Obtain Brett

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — The California Angels, just beating the trading deadline, obtained left-handed pitcher Ken Brett from the Chicago White Sox today in exchange for pitchers Don Kirkwood and John Verhoeven, infielder John Flannery and an undisclosed amount of cash. Brett, 28, who was 6-4 for Chicago this year, was to report to the Angels immediately. Kirkwood posted a 1-0 record with a 5.09 earned run average in 13 appearances for California. Verhoeven and Flannery both played for the Angels' Salt Lake City farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Two CIAC State Baseball Tournament games were played last week at East Catholic's Eagle Field with the four visiting clubs, and their accompanying media, impressed by the layout.

Nothing but accolades must be handed to Penders and staff for the manner in which they staged the games. Their efforts were first-rate with none of the "I don't care" attitude found elsewhere in instances.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You never gave worse advice than when you told that 20-year-old theology student to go ahead and get married without getting any premarital sexual experience. You said the mating instinct was natural, and he didn't need any lessons.

DEAR MODERN: Call it "mating" or "lovelinking"

DEAR MODERN: Call it "mating" or "lovelinking" or whatever you wish, it's the same act. A truly kind, loving, usefully man does not need to be taught tenderness and consideration. This will come as naturally as the mating instinct. Almost every church has premarital counseling, and there are some excellent manuals on the subject.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling that young man

DEAR ABBY: Talk about two dumb kids: My husband and I were about as inexperienced as two people could be. He was 20 and I was 17 when we married. That was 66 years ago, and now we can look back with a smile, because we figured out exactly what had to be done and how to do it.

Wickham Park trustees will oppose I-291

The trustees of Wickham Park plan to express their opposition to the state's plan to take a portion of the park for construction of a segment of I-291 at a public hearing on the highway proposals Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Nathan Hale School.

The 300 acre park in both Manchester and East Hartford is in a trust held by Hartford National Bank which administers the park under the supervision of the probate court in Manchester.

The trustees are disturbed at the nearness of the proposed highway, and with the noise and visual disturbances the highway will cause, according to Probate Judge William FitzGerald.

The Department of Transportation proposes taking 6.5 acres of the extreme northeast corner of the park. The highway would be about 1,000 feet from the park's tennis courts.

The trustees are already on record in writing with the DOT, opposing the land takeover, Robert Johnston, trust officer from the bank for the park, said today. He said the trustees knew about the proposed takeover of the park land about two months ago.

The plans for the highway have been recently changed to accommodate Manchester's new industrial park on Tolland Tpk. The highway plans were moved south which included the portion of Wickham Park.

Students to conduct interviews

Interviews will be made of residents in 30 rural towns in Connecticut in June and July by rural sociologists at the University of Connecticut.

Dr. Thomas Steahr, associate professor and project director, said that the results of the survey will be used to determine the quality of life in rural Connecticut in a two-year study funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Assisting Dr. Steahr in the interviewing will be Jack Wright and Ms. Jennifer Brown, project coordinators.

Dr. Steahr noted that the project will explore two basic factors known to be related to people's assessment of the quality of life in their community.

The first degree of social integration of residents into the local town - church participation, involvement in civic associations, neighbor visitations, and other community activities.

The second factor concerns the general feeling of safety of the community as indicated by the degree of fear of crime reported by the residents. This will be evaluated by questions on how likely residents feel they might be

Home for kids gets PZC okay

The East Hartford Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) Wednesday voted to allow the Capitol Region Education Council (CREC) to house up to 10 emotionally disturbed children in a home at 219 Silver Lane.

Anthony Kayser, a PZC member who lives at 23 Dartmouth Dr., said his only concern was the small size of the home and yard. He favored approval.

Kayser said CREC has a similar home next to his.

"We've had no trouble. In fact people living next to O'Brien (Middle) School have more trouble with children than we have," Kayser said.

Friends of his who live near O'Brien School have told him they would gladly trade addresses.

Town Planner David Juliano said the town had sent a notice to all the homes near the proposed CREC home.

PZC member Jack Davis said the notices were only done for good will. The decision belongs solely to the PZC after the hearing.

The PZC then voted its approval of the CREC home.

Other PZC votes

- Denial of proposed amendments to zoning regulations to ban recreational vehicles from mobile home parks as requested by V.C. Brewer & Son Inc., owners of two large parks. The PZC members said the rules would have proved a hardship to the owners of the vehicles, who now park them next to their mobile homes.
- Denial of the application of the Madison Development Corp. to build 28 more apartment units next to present units at 8 and 11 Ralph Rd., as well as two tennis courts, two handball courts, a basketball court and parking for 42 cars. Many residents had objected. The PZC vote was based on added traffic to already congested Latimer St. nearby.
- Approval of the plans of Frank R. Wood of the Madison Development Co. to build another eight apartments onto his existing building at 560 Burnside Ave.
- Approval of the request of the Alexco Co. to fill in land at 490 Roberts St.
- Approval of the construction of a golf driving range and miniature golf course on about 15 acres of land on the west side of Hillside St., across from the Coachlight Village Apartments. The applicant was David Torza.
- Approval of the subdivision of land between 486 and 522 Goodwin St. There will be 12 lots on 6.3 acres of land. The owner is George Leaska.

Many callers say they know 'Norma'

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) - State Police have been besieged by telephone calls from out-of-staters who think they may know "Norma," an unidentified young woman who died Christmas Eve when she was struck by a car.

Police attempted without success to identify the girl for six months. Tuesday, the young woman was buried in East Hartford's Hillside Cemetery in the presence of two dozen strangers.

She was known only as "Norma" - the name inscribed on a belt she was wearing when she was struck and killed on Rt. 15, about half a mile from the cemetery.

State Police said Wednesday they have received more than a dozen calls from persons in seven different states since the funeral.

Spokesman Adam Berluti said many of the calls were quickly dismissed because the callers' descriptions did not match the dead woman.

But Berluti said four of the calls - from West Virginia, Maine, Pennsylvania and Texas - were "well worth pursuing."

He said the callers will be sent a touched-up police photograph of "Norma."

State Police originally sent a description of the girl across police wires throughout the country. But they said no one responded until the young woman's funeral received national exposure in the press.

"They're on the phone right now with a woman in Michigan who lost her daughter three years ago," a state trooper said Wednesday. "I hope somebody will come up and identify the poor girl."

At Tuesday's funeral, employees from the East Hartford Town Hall contributed flowers to the grave and created a simple headstone, commemorating the town's tender six-month relationship with the dead girl. It read:

Unidentified Female. Dec. 24, 1976, June 14, 1977.

East Hartford police report

Robert C. Johnson, 17, of 158 Chester St., East Hartford, was arrested Wednesday and charged with third-degree larceny (four counts) and fourth-degree larceny. The charges stem from four recent thefts at Radio Shack at the Charter Oak Mall and theft of cash from a register at Battistion's Cleaners in the J.M. Fields plaza on Silver Lane. He was released on his promise to appear in Common Pleas Court 7 July 5.

April 26, a park department employee discovered someone had stripped the bark from a flowering crabtree on Brookfield Dr. The tree died. Cost was $25. Also that day, someone urinated a foul pool at the baseball field and broke a player's bench at a cost of $18.

April 25, vandals removed several bricks from the storage shed at Center Playground. Shed was not gained.

April 24, someone threw a rock through a large window on the ground floor of the Town Hall. No one was injured.

April 23, someone drove a motorcycle over the ballfield turf at Goodwin School.

April 21, someone broke the water fountain at McAuliffe Park. Also that day, someone broke four bleacher boards at a cost of $45 at Gorman Park's hardball field.

April 19, someone stole the framing for bleachers at the Goodwin School playground at a cost of $50. The same day, a park worker found three bleacher boards at Gorman Park had been broken at a cost of $140. Also, someone broke two windows on the northwest corner of the academic wing of E.H.S.

Teachers honored at Burnside

In front is Ray Provencher, then Miss Ruth Maroon and Peter Gannutz. All teachers of both schools were so honored. The day also included races, plays and a picnic lunch partly paid for by the Board of Education. (Herald photo by Barlow)

School principals move

Eight schools in East Hartford will have a new principal this fall, Jerry Marcus, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of personnel said today.

Center School will have William Corcoran, who was principal of the Anne E. Norris School.

McCartin School will have Gerald Welch, who was principal of the O'Connell Middle School.

Norris School and the Second North will have a new principal not yet hired, Marcus said.

O'Brien School will have Stanley Smith, who was principal at the Stevens School.

O'Connell School will have George Scheyd, who was principal at O'Brien.

Pitkin will have James Fallon, who was at Center.

Silver Lane will have David Walls, who was at South Grammar.

And Stevens School will have Val Magro, who was at Silver Lane.

All other assignments will remain the same. The principal changes came about partly because one principal's post has been cut and two principals have retired.

Supl. Eugene Diggs also said it's healthy for principals to move to a new school every two years anyway. The changes also reflect the Board of Education's discussion of closing more schools in the next few years.

Vernon Fire Department Mayor says talk solves problems

Mayor Thomas Benoit feels the internal problems with the Vernon Fire Department can be ironed out with a better line of communications among the men, the officers and the chief.

Internal disagreements have come to light over the past three months, with many of the volunteer firemen expressing criticism of the management.

Benoit says he doesn't want to make any comments about the revision commission's work until the commission comes to him and the Town Council with some concrete recommendations.

He added, "Who better to say whether they want consolidation or not than the firemen involved?"

The Charter Revision Commission, after hearing various complaints from the firemen, asked the mayor and the council to investigate the operation and management of the Vernon Fire Department.

The meeting with the mayor Tuesday night was the first step in this direction. Several of the men said the meeting helped solve some of the problems.

Vernon Fire Chief William Johnson also feels that directives are old and should be updated. There will be future meetings to discuss these matters.

Bolton board at odds on paving cost query

At a recent Bolton Board of Selectmen meeting, it was decided a letter would be sent to the Ball Co. asking why there was such a difference in the estimated and actual costs of paving Tunxis Trail.

The paving was estimated at $5,769, but the town received a bill for $9,091, a difference of $3,322.

The selectmen's clerk was told to write Ball and ask for an explanation of the difference. She was told to tell them, "based on the budgeted funds it will be difficult to get the additional money."

Members discussed lawn maintenance, cleaning the building's floors and the status of the Connecticut State Library Grant.

They discussed the Title I summer program that will be run in conjunction with the school, displaying a Deway Decimal System poster, gifts from the Bolton Lions Club, and the possibility of displaying nursery school student's artwork next year.

U.S. leads in world arms sales

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—The United States was the world's leading supplier of major weapons to Third World nations in 1976, the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute said Wednesday. The institute's 1977 yearbook said U.S. sales of major weapons to the Third World accounted for about 40 per cent of the total, while the Soviet Union sold about 20 per cent of the total and Britain and France 8 per cent each.

The worldwide total of $34 billion spent last year on major weapons such as tanks and war planes represented a 3 per cent increase over 1975, spurred by a 10 per cent jump in arms purchases by Third World nations, the yearbook said.

The yearbooks of the institute—formed in 1966 to mark Sweden's 150th year of unbroken peace and funded by the Swedish parliament—have been used by the U.N. and Geneva disarmament negotiations as an objective source of information on the international weapons market. The Third World was responsible for 15 per cent of the world's military expenditure in 1976, compared with 12 per cent in 1975 and 12 per cent in 1965, the yearbook said. More than half of Third World purchases were made by Middle East countries, which now have accumulated as many combat aircraft and tanks as NATO forces in Europe.

Spying continues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department is continuing to spy electronically on foreign powers in this country, and the Carter administration has approved five new surveillance projects since taking office last January. Defense Secretary Harold Brown made the disclosures in testimony before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that is considering legislation that would require the government to get court warrants for electronic surveillance in foreign intelligence cases.

Approval in each of the five new instances was given by the attorney general, Brown said. He said a sixth request was turned back by an interagency panel of the National Security Council. The secretary declined to discuss the surveillance in open session but said: "I want to emphasize that none of these involved U.S. citizens. In fact, none involved individuals. They were foreign powers."

New IOH pool would cost $4,000 a year to operate

A new pool for the Instructors of the Handicapped (IOH) program would cost the Board of Education about $4,000 a year in maintenance, according to preliminary figures prepared by Wilfred Dion, director of school buildings and grounds.

David C. Moyer, chairman of the IOH board of directors, recently asked the board for its consideration of a proposal to build the shallow pool next to the existing high school pool.

Dr. James P. Kennedy, superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education Monday night that he is not prepared to make a recommendation on the pool. In addition to obtaining the maintenance estimator, he said he needs to examine whether the pool would get enough school and community use to justify the town's expense.

However, Kennedy said, as the estimates now stand, he cannot bring a recommendation to spend $4,000 of education money for four hours of use each Sunday. He underscored the worthiness of the project, but said he needs additional information.

IOH has been compiling a pool fund for several years and now has about $100,000, however, the organization found that cost to build a separate full-size pool would be prohibitive.

IOH proposed to pay for the construction of the pool, but asked for the Board of Education to handle maintenance.

A breakdown of the estimated maintenance costs on a monthly basis includes heating the water, $200, pool chemicals, $30, heating the building, $115, custodian fee, $45 and electrical, $20. The cost does not include summer total cleanup and building and equipment maintenance. The costs are based on a pool approximately 35 feet long, 15 feet wide and 3 feet deep.

IOH now uses the pool every Sunday, but is not charged for use of the pool, lights, shower and locker facilities or custodial coverage. The custodian cost listed by Dion is for additional custodial coverage.

Sorenson to sell his stained glass terrariums. It was just a Christmas season venture but now Sorenson has three permanent co-op handicraft shops in shopping malls in California. He handled goods for 500 independent craftsmen and did a business last year of about $1 million.

Others have grabbed the idea and Rest thinks it is going to spread to the east. He also says it has aroused the interest of such major retailers as Marshall Field in Chicago, Lord & Taylor in New York and W. & J. Sloane in Washington in the products of contemporary American independent handicrafters.

The co-op differs from the traditional consignment gallery in that the handicrafters have a definite role in the management and operation. Each handicrafter rents a space in the shop, then stocks it and displays the merchandise.

He pays anywhere from $15 to $50 for the space. In downtown Santa Barbara, Calif., in Gary

Lots of winners, lots of ways.

More than 33,000 winners in the Daily Numbers, in just 13 weeks. And, they've taken home more than four and a half million dollars in winnings. So far, the Daily Numbers has averaged more than $380,000 won every week. It's Connecticut's "most won" game!

1 You can pick your own number in whatever ticket comes your way. You can play a system or you can play the same one.

2 You can choose your own best way to play. A win on a straight play brings you 500. Feeling conservative? Play the box and get up to six possible winning combinations on one ticket. Nobody wins less than $25... and the winning happens six days a week, every week in the year.

3 You can decide on how much to play. For. Play for 50¢, $1, $1.50 — up to $5 per ticket. You can win from $25 to $250, depending on how you play and how much you play for.

4 You can't win if you don't play. There are 6 drawings a week. If you play, you can win every night. Buy a different ticket daily. Play in advance, for the week. Either way, you're in the game, and you'll never be caught off your number.

If you haven't tried The Daily Numbers lately, time's wasting. Pick up a copy of "How to Play The Daily Numbers" wherever you see a store with The Daily Numbers sign, and join the game with lots of winners. And lots of places to play.

Seaver gets wish, swapped to Reds

Dave Kingman

Carew painfully reminds Tanana

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Tanana didn't learn any new lessons Wednesday night, but his encounter with Rod Carew amounted to a painful refresher course.

American League

Rangers 6, Indians 0
Mike Marshall recorded his first American League victory since 1969 and Dave May and Jim Sundberg each drove in two runs as Texas completed a three-game sweep. Marshall allowed three hits in seven innings.

Brewers 6, Orioles 2
Don Money's two-run homer and Steve Brye's two-run double keyed a six-run second inning. Jim Slaton earned the victory with relief help from Sal Hinds. Ken Singleton slugged his eighth homer of the season for Baltimore.

Mariners 6, A's 5
Jani Berardit and Larry Milbourne singled home runs in the bottom of the 11th after the A's had taken a 5-4 lead in the top of the 11th on Jim Ogilvie's three RBI backed Fernando Arroyo's first major league shutout. Arroyo scattered five hits and cruised after Detroit scored four times in the first inning. Ogilvie drove in a run with a first-inning sacrifice fly and homered in the fifth.

The Mets then traded moody and unsigned slugger Dave Kingman to the San Diego Padres for infielder Bobby Valentine and pitcher Paul Siebert and, in a lesser deal, acquired outfielder Joel Youngblood from the St. Louis Cardinals for shortstop Mike Phillips. The Reds in turn swapped their unsigned relief ace Rawly Eastwick to the Cardinals for minor pitcher Doug Capilla.

Those deals overshadowed furious last-minute trading activity by other clubs in which Pittsburgh sent outfielder Ed Kirkpatrick to Texas for infielder Jim Fregosi, the New York Yankees got catcher-first baseman Cliff Johnson from the Houston Astros for minor league shortstop Mike Fischlin and minor league pitcher Randy Nieman and the Oakland A's purchased outfielder

Willie Crawford from the Astros for an undisclosed sum.

In lesser deals, the Reds traded relief pitcher Mike Caldwell to the Milwaukee Brewers for minor league pitcher Rich O'Keefe and minor league infielder Gary Pyka and bought minor league infielder Rick Auerbach.

"The Reds will show people how great Seaver is," commented Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds. "He's the greatest. His statistics are incredible and the guy is a great performer."

"There is no way for us to be happy about the deal," said Met Board Chairman M. Donald Grant. "I'm very satisfied with it, however, under the circumstances. The deal will have to prove itself."

"We didn't want to trade Tom,"

McDonald. "But it got to such a situation where he was totally unhappy. I think Tom would have continued to pitch as well as he could but his attitude would have been bound to have affected him and the rest of the club."

The Mets' most important acquisition appears to be Henderson, a 24-year-old outfielder who was leading the American Association with a batting average close to .370.

Mets' Manager Joe Torre admitted the Seaver deal would not be popular with New York fans.

"People aren't going to like this deal," he said. "We are trading the deal," he said. "I'm best pitcher in baseball. But he wasn't happy here and we had to make the deal. You've just got to look at it for what these kids will do to help us in the next few years."

Boisclair eases loss of Kingman

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bruce Boisclair apparently will be playing left field for the New York Mets on a regular basis now that Dave Kingman has been traded away.

If he plays like he did Wednesday night in the Mets' 6-5 win over the Atlanta Braves, Kingman probably won't be missed.

Boisclair, a 24-year-old New Englander in only his second major league season, was already outshining Kingman by 65 points although not matching the big slugger's power. Wednesday night he set up the Mets' first run with a sacrifice bunt, drove in the next two with a long home run to dead centerfield; then scored the winning run by racing home from third on an infield out.

"We've got a lot of young players on this club," said Joe Torre, for whom the last-in-the-National-League Mets have played since he became manager a little over two weeks ago. "It's people like Bruce Boisclair who are the future of the Mets."

The Mets, who also traded away pitching ace Tom Seaver Wednesday night, showed some strong pitching while winning two out of three games in Atlanta. Jerry Kosman pitched a four-hitter Monday night and Jon Matlack and relievers Bob Apodaca and Ship Lockwood got up a total of only six hits Wednesday night.

The Braves gave 20-year-old Joey McLaughlin (still 0-0) a second chance Wednesday. He allowed seven first and five runs in 4.2-3 innings. But, at that, he lowered his earned run average from 13.00 to 18.00.

Credit the Mets' new-found (under Torre) speed on the basepaths for Wednesday's win over the Braves. With the score tied at 5-5, Boisclair cut off the eighth with a walk and an out later raced to third on a single by Ed Kranepool.

Kranepool streaked to second while the Braves were making a play on McLaughlin at St. Louis. But Phillips is one of those players you wouldn't know without a scorecard.

For New York, it was not the same as losing an entire team. But it's close. It was Seaver who came to the hapless Mets as a rookie in 1967 and gave them respectability.

It was Seaver who pitched the 1969 Miracle Mets to a pennant and the World Championship—and another pennant in 1973.

It was Seaver who helped fill the seats at Shea Stadium as the team went into decline while across the river, the new power of the Yankees spent millions to make that team a power again.

It was Seaver — four-time 20 game winner, three-time Cy Young Award winner, a certain Hall of Famer — they called "The Franchise."

The trade culminated a long feud with M. Donald Grant, the Mets' board chairman and a serious contender in any poll for "Public Enemy No. 1" among New York sports fans.

Seaver said he loved New York but could not stand working for Grant any

National League

Elsewhere in the NL, New York edged Philadelphia, 3-2, Cincinnati outlasted Atlanta, 8-7, in 10 innings. Montreal blanked Houston, 2-0, and San Francisco put away St. Louis, 9-6.

Reds R, Phillies 7
Pete Rose's two-out single, his third hit of the game, scored pinch runner Champ Summers from second with two out in the 10th inning to give the victory to the Reds. George Foster tied the game 7-7 with a two-out ninth inning homer, his 27th RBI in the last 21 games.

Giants R, Cardinals 6
Four Giant players each drove in two runs including Keith Hernandez who had a seventh-inning double. Ted Simmons had three hits and two RBIs for St. Louis, while Garry Templeton snuffed a 6-6 tie in the seventh with an RBI single.

Expos 2, Astros 0
Jackie Brown scattered four hits for his first National League shutout while Wayne Garrett and Gary Carter each drove in a run for Montreal. Brown, 4-1, struck out four and walked three.

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The oldest and most prestigious golf tournament in the United States opens today and the people who run it are still trying to grow grass.
Just how well they succeed may determine who wins the U.S. Open and all the acclaim that goes with that achievement.
"There are 133 people here and any one of 100 of them could win it," said Arnold Palmer, who captured this tournament 17 years ago and has come close several times since. "But whoever wins it will have won on a magnificent golf course."
The 6,873-yard, par-70 Southern Hills Country Club, south of the holes and being in the trees is just as bad or worse than being in the rough."

Gary Player, who pronounces himself as a good bet to win, said, "Even if the rough does not grow very much it will be difficult, because you are going to get real bad fliers."
There was no clear favorite going into the opening round of the 77th Open. But as the first tee time approached, more and more people were coming around to Tom Watson, the year's leading money winner and Masters champion.
"It's a little bit calmer than I was before Augusta," said Watson. "I took a couple of weeks off, got some rest and I feel good."

Far ranging results for Manchester teams

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer

There was a far ranging diversity of results for Manchester High sports teams in 1976-77. It ran the gamut from being very good to...

Combined ledger (added with the boys) of 146 wins, 133 losses and three ties in 19 sports.

Individual and team records for the state basketball team were noted. Coach George Saitor's boys' cross country team took second place...

On the distaff side were eight interscholastic teams with five at 500 or better.

Two of the local tennis coaches weren't overly pleased with the seeding in recently held CIAC tournaments. The singular complaint was that top singles players would be paired, having not played together in the regular season, and left unknocked. The result was good teams got bumped off, knocked each other out, in early rounds.

Soap Box Derby racers ready for checkered flag Sunday

Thirty-eight handmade racers will be ready to speed down Brookfield St. in Manchester's first soap box derby in 30 years on Sunday at noon. Four previous derbies were held in Manchester from 1944 through 1947.

The Town Fire Department's Local Union 1579 is responsible for reviving the fire. The fire fighters have held inspections and trial runs at the local racers.

The children in the derby will have a final inspection and weigh-in Sunday morning. The "soap boxes" can weigh a maximum of 220 lbs., including car and driver.

The winner of the derby will be sent on an expense paid trip to the National All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio, Aug. 20. Judges for the local derby will be Town Manager Robert Weiss, Town

Fire Chief John Rivosa, Police Chief Robert Lannan, and Eugene Pinto, winner of the 1947 derby.

Starting point for the race will be at the top of Brookfield St. at E. Middle Tpke. The finish line will be near Durkin St.

Any proceeds from the derby will be put into a special youth fund for youth projects.

Emissions test delay is likely

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Environmental Commission Tuesday said it is unlikely federal officials will mandate auto emissions in Connecticut before next year, if lawmakers enact inspection legislation.

that lawmakers must either do something or have the federal government do it for them.

In hopes of convincing lawmakers of the need for such a program, the state will hold a special conference to explain to them the need for the legislation.

They EPA seem receptive to having the state work out a plan of its own until next year when the legislature can act," Pac said.

The EPA has said if the state doesn't create such programs itself, the federal government will impose them.

Pac said the federal government would hold hearings for September on a proposal to institute such regulations.

He said the EPA appeared "receptive" to the idea of putting off implementation of such regulations in Connecticut until it gives the legislature a chance to enact a program of its own.

Some legislative leaders are more optimistic about its fate now than they were last year.

Among Connecticut towns eligible for federal money under a $5 million Public Works Employment Act program known as "pockets of poverty," West Hartford and Fairfield.

Last fall large public works grants to the state of Connecticut and West Hartford caused controversy because less-affluent towns felt the wealthy communities didn't deserve the money.

The "pockets of poverty" program, state officials said, is intended for areas not qualifying for the $5 million.
