PZC denies waiver request for Porter-Highland area

The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) Monday night denied a request to waive sidewalks at an approved subdivision at the intersection of Porter and Highland Sts.
 The request for the waiver was submitted by Joseph Swenson Jr., who is the developer of the proposed two-lot subdivision.
 Atty. Joel Janenda, representing a property owner adjacent to the subdivision, also requested that the commission waive sidewalks for the site.
 "Sidewalks in that area don't make any sense. They don't go anywhere," Janenda said.
 But, the commission voted unanimously not to waive the sidewalk installation.
 The matter of waiving sidewalks has been a recent issue at PZC meetings. Some developers have protested that the requirement to install sidewalks places an unnecessary financial burden on the developers.
 PZC members have said that they feel the sidewalks provide safety and are a step that should be taken when considering the future development of presently undeveloped areas.
 An application from a private developer, Hockanum Valley Associates, has requested that the word "deferral" be placed in the regulations for sidewalks in business areas.
 The application will be a public hearing item at the PZC's July 25 meeting.
 The commission also held a public hearing Monday night for Swenson's request for a seven-lot subdivision on Vernon St. The proposal would be near the Richmond Rd. intersection with Vernon St.
 The PZC took no action on the request, but it did criticize Swenson

Jackston quits MHA position

Nicholas Jackston has submitted a letter of resignation from his position on the Manchester Housing Authority (MHA).
 Jackston, head of the Social Studies department at East Hartford High School, said that he plans to take some courses that may assist him in future promotional opportunities at the school. The courses would conflict with the meeting schedule of the MHA.
 "I thought it would be unfair to serve on the authority in name only," Jackston said in his resignation.
 The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday to decide on Jackston's resignation and an appointment to fill his term, which ends in July 1980. It is probable that the board will not appoint a new member until at least its July meeting.

Zinsser seeks explanation from MHA on state aid bid

Carl Zinsser, a member of the Board of Directors, has sent a letter to the Manchester Housing Authority (MHA) asking why state-approved funds for elderly housing have not yet been applied for by the authority.
 Zinsser, in the letter addressed to MHA Chairman Pascal Mastrangelo, said that a $10 million bond issue to fund additional units of elderly housing has been approved by the State of Connecticut. He said that 28 towns have applied for the funds.
 "Unfortunately, Manchester is not one of them," Zinsser wrote. "And

Directors launch bus plan for elderly, handicapped

The Board of Directors Tuesday night approved the purchase of two buses to establish a transportation system for Manchester's elderly and handicapped.
 The board also appropriated the town's $1.9 million Public Works Employment Act grant. The money will be divided among three projects — repairs of sidewalks, renovation of the police station, and construction of a water tank at the Nike Site.
 The directors gave their approval for Town Manager Robert E. Weiss to enter an agreement to purchase the buses.
 The purchase will cost $46,000, but only $9,200 of that will come from the town. Alan Mason, director of human services, said the remainder of the cost will be paid by a grant from the Urban Mass Transit Act, he said.
 The town's share for the purchase is included in the 1977-78 budget. Thus, the directors will not actually appropriate the funds for the buses until after the new fiscal year starts on July 1.
 Mason said that both buses will include side-door lifts for the handicapped to provide flexibility in the bus system. The buses will arrive around the first of the year, and the South Korean bribery described to probers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former South Korean CIA chief told House investigators today that South Korea's President tried to influence U.S. policies through a "bribery operation" in Congress in the 1970s.
 Kim Hyung Wak, who headed the KCIA from 1963 to 1969, also said in testimony before a House International Relations subcommittee that South Korean businessman Tongsun Park was linked to the conspiracy, but was not on the KCIA payroll during Kim's tenure.
 Kim's remarks were contained in a 29-page statement prepared for delivery at the opening of the hearing. He gave no specific details about the bribery operation.
 Extra police and strict security were ordered to protect Kim, 52, who took part in a 1961 military coup that put President Park in power but left him in 1973 for exile in the United States. He reportedly has helped federal investigators privately for the last two years.
 Tongsun Park went overseas last year after published reports that he ran a multi-million dollar influence peddling operation on Capitol Hill — giving cash, lavish gifts and parties for congressmen. His activity was said to be part of an even broader plan to avert any loss of U.S. aid to Korea during the Nixon and Ford administrations.
 "President Park, while establishing a strong dictatorial system, was apprehensive about the United States reaction," Kim said. "He knew that the opposition of the U.S. government and U.S. Congress would have great influence on his dictatorial actions."
 "To prevent this opposition, the well known Tongsun Park scandal was set up," Kim said. "I assisted him in various matters." He said he would explain that later.
 The subcommittee chaired by Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn., is looking into nearly all U.S. Korean ties and Kim was asked to provide any knowledge he had about "government efforts to influence American public opinion through the use of (KCIA) agents and other means," a spokesman said.

Fire in jail cell kills 20 prisoners

ST. JOHN, New Brunswick (UPI) — A fire in a detention area of 11 city hall police headquarters in this eastern Canada seaport late Tuesday night killed 20 prisoners, a police spokesman said today.
 About a dozen policemen, six firemen and an unidentified number of prisoners were rushed to the hospital in six ambulances and a dozen police cruisers. All apparently were treated for smoke inhalation.
 A police spokesman said the overnight detention cells, built to hold 25 persons, were nearly full at the time. Police said the cause of the fire was unknown but apparently it started in one of the padded cells of the overnight detention center. The deaths apparently were the result of smoke inhalation, a spokesman said.
 Police had trouble opening the doors of the cells, and the police information officer said heat had jammed the locks. He described it as a flash fire.

Senators waffle on two issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a year which Congress has taken speedy, decisive action on complex energy bills, senators are still waffling on long-standing emotional issues such as abortion and gay rights.
 But the House is charging ahead, adding momentum to a citizens' campaign to keep potentially cancer-causing saccharin on the sweetener market.
 The Senate Appropriations Committee considered both abortion and homosexuality Tuesday, but failed to agree with House members on the matters, indicating more lobbying fights are ahead this session.
 The abortion issue came up during debate on a $81 billion Labor-HEW funding bill and the committee included a clause denying federal funds for abortion except where: The mother's life is in danger; the mother has a disease which could "seriously deform or debilitate" the fetus; a woman has an ectopic pregnancy, in which the fetus forms outside the womb; the woman was a victim of rape or incest.
 The bill was more lenient than a House measure which banned federal funds for any elective abortions, meaning most of the 50,000 abortions performed last year on poverty-level women under the federal Medicaid program.
 Then the Senate committee room became a forum on "gay rights," with members finally sidestepping the issue of equal access to public housing for homosexuals.
 Before passing a $67.5 billion bill funding the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other agencies, the Senate considered a House-passed amendment, which would bar the use of any funds to enforce a recent regulation allowing homosexuals and unmarried couples equal access to public housing.

 The committee altered the text slightly in order to assure a House-Senate conference committee battle over its final form.
 The issue approved by a standing vote an amendment forbidding a government ban on saccharin, which a recent Canadian study indicated causes cancer in humans. Opponents called the action hasty and unwise.
 Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., said he understood why some lawmakers would vote for the amendment: "from a purely political point of view" because of immense pressure from constituents.

 Under bright skies that soon turned to no more than threatening, 588 graduating seniors of Manchester High School responded with cheers to Class President Michael Sherman's greeting. He said, "This day belongs to you. Tonight is yours, enjoy it."
 The jubilant attitude continued throughout the ceremony as a few thousand spectators filled the bleachers and surrounded Memorial Field. Cars jammed the nearby streets that barely accommodated the parking needs.

HARTFORD — State regulation of hospital budgets should be a part of any federal plan to control the skyrocketing cost of health care, the Insurance Association of Connecticut says.
PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Convicted felon William H. Bailey hopes to be back on his feet — and out of jail — when his appeal of a 10-year sentence for taking his fight for a Rhode Island House seat to federal court. The state Supreme Court has ruled that the House can deny to seat him because of his felony conviction. He is recovering from surgery in Michigan where he was extradited to serve out a prison term.

TEL AVIV, Israel — Prime Minister Meahem Begin's Likud bloc failed today to win control of the powerful Histadrut union federation, a loss that could spell trouble for Begin's two-day-old government. Election results showed the opposition Labor party would retain control of the umbrella organization, the one that covers Israel's major trade unions.
MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A pair of brown prison fatigues and a bed in a large dormitory await former U. S. Attorney General John Mitchell today when he surrenders to begin a 30-month to eight-year sentence for Watergate crimes. H. R. Grasso signs liquor bill HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today signed into law a bill that is expected to lower liquor prices in Connecticut by roughly 80 cents on every $10 purchase.

 The bill repeals the so-called fair trade statutes that allow manufacturers to set shelf prices for alcoholic beverages in Connecticut. The measure will take effect Oct. 1.
 The "fair trade" laws are one of three minimum price markups guaranteed the liquor industry by Connecticut law. The other two — the wholesale markup, 11 per cent, and the retail markup, 21.5 per cent — will remain on the books for the time being.

ZBA approves waivers

The Manchester Building Code Board of Appeals Tuesday approved eight waivers that will permit the J.C. Penney Co. to obtain a building permit for its proposed catalog distribution center.

The proposed two-million square foot center would be the largest occupant of the town's planned industrial park in the Buckland section.

Fenney applied for a building permit in November but was denied by Chief Building Inspector Francis J. Conti. The denial, however, had been expected because the state building code does not provide for buildings as large as the one planned by Penney. Some of the waivers granted Tuesday dealt with the size of the building, which will cover about 47 acres. For instance, Penney sought a waiver to increase the maximum travel distance to an exit from 225 feet to 400 feet.

Much of the discussion, however, centered on the fire protection system, which also required waivers from the board.

One such waiver was granted for a chemical fire-protection system for the building's data processing area, which would hold the computer equipment.

Glendon R. Mayo, consulting engineer, said a sprinkler system, as required by state statute would cause extensive damage to the computer equipment.

"If anything happens to the electronic data processing area, two-million square feet shut down," he said. The chemical protection system would not cause such damage to the equipment, Mayo told the board.

Other granted variances included technical ones for the sprinkler system, ventilation system, and fire wall structure.

Mayo said that the waivers were for "alternative methods of achieving what the state code calls for."

All eight were unanimously approved by the five members of the appeals board - Acting Chairman William Bayer, Richard Lawrence, Andrew Ansaldi, Walter Sodano, and Wilfred Aubin. The regular chairman, Walter Fuss, has been involved in engineering of the proposed park and did not sit on any of the Penney appeals.

Manchester police report

A burglary was reported at a New State Rd apartment Tuesday night about 9:30. A portable television set was stolen and an air conditioner had been removed from a window and was found on the rear lawn when the resident arrived home.

A theft of a set of golf clubs and a camera were reported stolen from a car of a Tudor Lane resident sometime after 8 p.m. Monday. The items were valued at $800.

A break into a W. Vernon St. home was discovered Tuesday but it had not been determined if anything was missing.

Police reported no problems resulting from after graduation activities for Manchester High School graduates Tuesday night. The only reports were for noise and some fireworks.

Two Manchester men were arrested on a warrant by state police from the Stafford Barracks Monday night. They were Timothy D. Baker, 21, of 178 Woodbridge St. and Fred G.

Yates, 16, of 81 Laurel St., both charged with third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny in connection with a break into Ashford Spirit Shop on June 15.

About $300 worth of merchandise was stolen in the break. Others were involved, police reported, and arrests are pending. The two men were processed at Manchester Police Department and turned over to state police.

By FLOYD LARSON

Kick with caution

Anyone who has never felt the urge to kick a vending machine just hasn't had much experience with the sometimes pesky things. That apparently was the reasoning behind a decision by the National Labor Relations Bureau in ordering the reinstatement of an employee who had been fired, ostensibly for abusing a recalcitrant soda pop machine.

fessed machine-kicker who offered to pay for any damages. Let this encourage an unknown number of repressed machine-kickers to proceed to vent their frustrations, however, it should be noted that there were special circumstances in this case. The worker, the NLRB found, was a "thorn in the company's side," continually complaining about safety problems, and was also known to be an active unionist. It concluded, therefore, that the machine-kicking incident was only a pretext the company used to get rid of his union activity. And that was a violation of labor law.

RPO canceled

Railroad buffs can mark down the end of another era. The last remaining Railway Post Office (RPO) will make its final run between New York and Washington, D.C., on June 30. The New York-Washington RPO, involving two four-car trains on which mail is sorted, has been the Post Service's solitary Railway Post Office since 1972. It began operating on October 15, 1864, five months after the RPO system was inaugurated between Chicago and Clinton, Iowa.

RPOs crisscrossing the country, with 30,000 men working in more than 4,000 individual RPO cars. The decline of the RPOs began in the late 1930s, but was delayed when railroad traffic increased during the war. The really sharp decline began in the 1950s, when the railroads began discontinuing passenger service. Mail will continue to be transported between Washington and New York by rail, as well as by truck and plane, but all sorting and processing will take place in originating and destination post offices.

Laetrile sale urged

To the editor, "There is no prohibition against the use and sale of Laetrile," Dr. John A. Richardson says in his book, just off the press. Dr. Richardson also says, "Last spring, a cancer patient sued the government asking that the Food and Drug Administration order prohibiting distribution of Laetrile be vacated. No such order exists. An order for Laetrile was sent to the Cyto Pharma in Tia Juana, Mexico. This order was sent by the Sloane-Kettering Institute for cancer research in New York, two Laetrile shipments were delivered to Sloane-Kettering, were passed through U.S. Customs without a hitch," according to Richardson who includes photocopies of these transactions in his book. On March 28, 1976 the state legislature of Alaska passed a law specifically allowing doctors to use Laetrile in the treatment of cancer. Several other states also are using Laetrile, including the states of Washington, Texas, Arizona, Indiana, Ohio, New Hampshire, Florida, and California. (I know that Laetrile has been used in California, and I recall hearing the name of Dr. Krebs mentioned as being a giant in cancer research. My personal wish is that the State of Connecticut would legalize the use of Laetrile, inasmuch as it is a harmless apricot seed pulp, which, if it were not a sure-cure for all cancerous growths, but it could help some cancer patients, this substance should be available to them, if that is the patient's wish. In theory and in practice, there is clear cut evidence that Laetrile attacks cancer cells only and causes no pathology on normal cells. I have been employed as a lab assistant in the Department of Serology and Pathology doing microscopic tissue work, agglutinating tests and animal research, and I recall hearing the name of Dr. Krebs mentioned as being a giant in cancer research. Thoughts

The Pentateuch-Exodus The Book of Exodus tells of the enslavement of the Israelites in Egypt and of their liberation under the leadership of Moses. It also contains a system of laws by which the people were to live, including the Ten Commandments which they received at Mount Sinai.

In the view of the later expositors of the Bible, Sinai was a logical consequence of the Exodus. "The Israelites were not truly free," they said, "until they stood at Sinai and submitted to God's laws." This may seem to some to sound contradictory. Laws to some are restrictive and confining. Most people, in free countries, however, recognize that freedom and law go together. Freedom without law is license. Law without freedom is bondage.

Rabbi Leon Wind Temple Beth Shalom

You may not be aware of it, but very quietly last week, an explosion in the growth of the federal bureaucracy was avoided. It seems that the General Services Administration found 25 spotted plants in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare were being neglected and GSA took the watering responsibilities out of the hands of regular federal employees and hired a private maintenance firm to do the task.

The GSA has placed 576 plants in six government buildings as part of its "open space" concept. But because of haphazard watering by secretaries, who are either young enough to believe all greenery today is plastic or have worn out their green thumbs over keyboard or flipping file folders, GSA hired the pros at $1.50 per month per plant or $10,368 a year.

Now this may seem a bit steep but it is really a bargain when you consider the alternatives.

For example, it could have turned the problem over to the Department of Agriculture. Immediately, a special committee would have been named to analyze the problem. Of the 576 plants, perhaps half of them are trees or bushes and would be relegated to the Forest Service which would have to create a Washington, D. C. National Forest, with a supervisor, assistant, secretary, and all the other specialists that a national forest operation requires.

If any of the trees in the Washington, D. C. National Forest should require cutting, there would have to be a study made to determine whether or not clear-cutting or selective cutting should be permitted. A special appropriation for reforestation would require overtime in the General Accounting Office and the congressional committees.

Other incidents would include fire protection, insect control, and the establishment and maintenance of campgrounds and picnic areas near the trees under the Forest Service's multiple-use approach to timber management.

In the meantime, the Army Corps of Engineers would be damming up the Potomac to provide water for irrigation, power generation and flood control. The latter is important since the problem today may be lack of watering, but we know there can be a flood at any time, according to the WASHINGTON - Some whites are racist. So are some blacks, and some Orientals. We can all get together on that, but we should not be forced to stomach what Julius Lester says about the Andrew Young controversy in a New York Times piece. Lester, who teaches Afro-American studies at the University of Massachusetts, is not the world's most lucid writer, but he does come right out and say the following:

A sad reminder "The continuing calls for the resignation of United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young are a sad but real reminder that a particularly pernicious kind of racism is alive and well. This is the racist mechanism which unconsciously expects and demands that any black in a position previously or usually occupied by a white conduct him or herself as whites wish, i.e., act, think and be like a white person."

That's slicing baloney real thick. Of course there are some Americans who are prejudiced against blacks because they're not whites. But Young is being criticized because he has turned bull in the china shop, not because he's black.

Young is guilty, too. Indeed, Young himself injected racism into the controversy by calling Englishmen, Swedes, residents of the borough of Queens in New York, and Presidents Lincoln, Nixon, Ford, Johnson and Kennedy "racists."

Like most people who knew anything about Andy Young, I was delighted when Carter gave him the UN job - not because he was black but because he is a very bright guy. His record in the civil rights movement showed that he was not only a courageous activist but, more important, a man who could negotiate successfully with people who held opposing views. The right kind of shrewd and dealer.

Keeping friends? So Carter hired Young to negotiate at the UN in the national interest. Among other things, that assignment involves keeping what friends we have and, if possible, making new ones. A UN ambassador should be the kind of individual other UN delegates will take seriously. In London Johnson's favorite phrase, our man should be able to "sit down and reason together."

Instead, Young has insisted on his blackness. He has become, not an ambassador, but a crusader for the black race. It is as if an American of Polish descent - or Irish, or Italian, or Spanish - went up to the UN and spent most of his time negotiating in the national interest of the Poles, the Irish, the Italians, or the Spaniards.

Needless to say, the guy would be sacked practically forthwith, to the massive relief of the American people - white, black, yellow and polka dot.

Right the first time. In his Times piece, Lester writes that a black in a role such as Young's "cannot, under any circumstances, talk about race (except to say that all is well), reveal that he or she ever gets angry at whites and might wish, sometimes, that they would leave the planet, or (God forbid) call former Presidents and/or European nations, racist."

Wow! I hope no one takes Lester seriously. I do not wish to wake up some morning and discover that Young's eventual successor is flitting about the world nattering about white supremacy and calling Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees a black racist.

and through roughs, wetting a line for bass and blues. Downtown, summer's signs abound. There's strolling on Constitution Plaza, picnicking at Bushnell Park, clampering about the bobbing horses on the new carousel. The hot dog carts are back again, with blue-jeaned girls dispensing curbside lunch in a bun under blue and yellow umbrellas. The price of the dogs is up a dime this year. Soon, production will come to a standstill for two weeks at United Technologies' Connecticut plants, shutting down for employees' vacations at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group, Sikorsky Aircraft, Hamilton Standard, and Norden. All around, things seem softer now. Life seems calmer. The pace is easier. Summer time is a good time in Connecticut.

Administration deserves the heartfelt thanks of the American taxpayer for having the courage to go outside the ranks of the federal bureaucracy and get the job done for $10,368 a year.

Of course there is still one threat remaining. Even if the plants are watered properly and thrive under the GSA plan, someone in the Department of Health Education and Welfare is going to come up with a study that those HEW plants were not willing to lack of water but something in the air was causing it, and declare Washington as being hazardous to one's health - something the taxpayer has known for years.

By quick calculation of our computer, the problem of adequately watering 576 plants in six government buildings through regular government channels would have added 486,287 people to the federal payroll and cost $1.2 billion give or take $25 million depending on if the Congress approved building a visitor's center for Washington, D. C. National Park for tourists not wishing to get out in the D.C. wilderness.

Obviously, the General Services

Corps' unofficial forecaster Brig. Gen. Noah Sark (Ret.). But the bureaucrats are not ones to be upstaged by other bureaucrats. As soon as the Forest Service, the Reclamation boys and the Corps get their multi-million plans before Congress to save the Washington's "open space," the other branches of the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior heretofore not involved will get involved.

There will be a need for a new experiment station for Washington, D. C., flora studies. In order to keep the nation's capital from being over-run with greenery, some form of subsidies will be devised to pay GSA for not growing plants.

Various special interest groups will want to know why their particular favorite plant is not represented in the national flora showcase.

Company special: One unemployed man to another: "What really hurts is not being replaced by a computer, but by a transistor."

"Do you prefer an insecticide that'll get you later in your food or one that'll get you later in your water?"

McCarthy defends raising of town test grades

"We were technically wrong but not morally wrong in the upgrading of scores for the police dispatcher job," Assistant Town Manager Charles McCarthy said today. McCarthy was responding to the findings of the Human Relations Commission in a charge of age discrimination brought by Roy Thompson in the hiring of a police dispatcher. Though the commission found no evidence of discrimination in the hiring, it condemned the procedure used by the personnel department in upgrading candidates' scores to qualify for eligibility for hiring after testing, identification and interviewing. Flexible passing marks were used because under the town's personnel rules, Police Chief Lannon has the right to have three qualified applicants certified to him. After two applicants were dropped, he was left with only two qualified applicants, McCarthy said. The town also faced another problem in this case, the town had to recruit in a limited way for the post to meet the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) eligibility requirements. "We were cramped into the CETA system, which gives qualified people an opportunity for training and is a benefit to the town and to the town's citizens, McCarthy said. "We should expect to have this thing happen in the future because we get a limited number of applicants under CETA funding and do not have as wide of choice," he said. If local money is used, people who are more experienced apply for posts, he said. "Recruiting for the police dispatcher job 14 months earlier under the merit system, we had an excess of 30 people applying for the post. This was not the case with CETA," McCarthy said. McCarthy hopes someday the town will have a personnel board to monitor the town's employment practices. Thompson, whose charge of age discrimination was denied by the Human Relations Commission, suggested that a member of the town personnel department be present at future job interviews to see that all applicants get equal treatment. Thompson said he felt his interview with Lannon was not conducted in an impartial way.

Ah, Summer. Summer came officially at 8:14 a.m. yesterday. We've taken delight in watching it flower along the slice of the Connecticut Valley visible from United Technologies' corporate offices on the top-most floors of the "gold building" at Pearl and Main in downtown Hartford. From here, the view to the west is of the sun dancing on the golden dome of the State Capitol and of urban building giving way, farther out, to full greenness stretching to hazy hills on the horizon.

Mrs. Parla elected president of Conservation Land Trust

Mrs. Theresa Parla was elected president of the board of trustees of the Manchester Land Conservation Trust recently at the group's annual meeting. She succeeds Dr. Douglas Smith.

Other officers elected are John Papa, vice-president; Mrs. Elaine Law, secretary; and J. Roger Lemelin, treasurer. Mrs. Parla is also the membership chairperson. The Land Trust was started to acquire land to hold in trust for conservation purposes. Land deeded to the trust can never be used for any other purpose but open space. The trust is a tax exempt organization and any dues or donations of land are tax deductible. The Land Trust owns two parcels of land—a pond at Porter St. and Adelaide Rd., and a lot on N. Lakewood Circle. Anyone interested in donating land to the trust for preservation purposes may contact a board member.

The trust has adopted a new membership category, corporate membership. The organization hopes that businesses will support the trust financially. The Land Trust will present a film entitled "Secrets of the Wildlife World" by Dr. John Pailing on Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at East Catholic High School.

Theresa Parla, chairman of the Manchester Conservation Commission, former town selectman and former member of the Democratic Town Committee in the Land Trust, she has been treasurer and vice-president.

Mrs. Parla also represents St. James Church in the Irish Children's Project co-sponsored by St. James and St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

J. Roger Lemelin will fill the unexpired three-year board term of Dr. Fred Spaulding who resigned due to pressures of business. Dr. Spaulding is a life member of the Land

Police capture fugitive after high-speed chase

Colchester Barracks later helped find Dunn hiding in tall grass not far from the accident scene, state police said.

By this time police had learned the car had been stolen from Somerville, Mass.
State police charged Dunn with driving too fast for conditions and turned him over to East Hartford police. In East Hartford he was also charged with reckless driving.

Dunn also faces other East Hartford charges. He is charged with second-degree larceny (stolen auto), possession of burglary tools and first-degree failure to appear in court in connection with an incident in East Hartford March 1.

He is charged with third-degree burglary and second-degree larceny in connection with an April 28 break into the Sage Allen store on Main St. He is charged with first-degree burglary, carrying a dangerous weapon and failure to appear in connection with the May 13 break into the Fred Lock Stereo store on Burnside Ave. Police arrested Dunn on the store's roof in that case.

The alleged escape from custody took place May 25 as he was being brought from the police lockup to the courtroom to face the charges.
Bonnie Tina McLeod, 32, of 11 Ralph Rd., East Hartford has been charged with hindering prosecution in connection with his escape. He allegedly stayed at her apartment after the escape, police said.

Police took Dunn to Hartford Hospital late this morning due to rib injuries he may have suffered in the auto accident. Bond and court details had not been settled then.

educational tactics as enrichment games.

She wondered whether today's educational system adequately prepares a student to face the future. With so many questions in each student's mind, each must answer his own questions, she said.

Robert E. Weiss, salutatorian, compared the students of today to the students of the sixties who, influenced by the irrationalities of the Vietnam War were busy organizing protests. Today's students are more involved with their own personal lives.

"We must vow to have the courage to face the career of life," he said.

Several graduates took their places with the Round Table Singers led by Martha White as they sang a group of selections including "I Won't Let a Day Without You" by Williams and "You'll Never Walk Alone" by Rodgers.

Just before the presentation of diplomas, Allan Thomas, chairman of the Board of Education, recalled that he had graduated in a red robe from Manchester High School 27 years ago when commencement was held in the old State Theater on Main St. Wednesday's event was special in his eyes because he would be presenting a diploma to his own daughter, Suzanne. Her running to her father for a loving embrace was a happy moment for all to share.

Thomas also drew cheers and applause from the class when he told them that the Class of '77 was one of the best behaved classes in the history of Manchester High School according to final reports from the proprietors of Howard Johnson's Convention Center in Windsor Locks, where the seniors held their prom.

and the MHS Alma Mater, the class marched in colorful procession—the boys in scarlet robes and the girls in white each carrying a single red rose—around the field for one last time as a group.

Heading the procession was the banner with the class motto, "In youth, we learn; in age, we understand."

The dignity of the procession soon broke into joyful reunions with friends and families, and cars, many decorated with red and white streamers, and some motorcycles took off through the streets to post-graduation celebrations. It was the end of the school's 84th annual graduating exercises.

Organist for the ceremony was Miss Karen Lynn Krijak, band director at the high school.

Complete texts of the speeches given by Miss Launi, Weiss, and Sherman will appear in the High School World in Friday's Herald.

Laetrile available with affidavit

BOSTON (UPI) — The New England regional director of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration says cancer-stricken patients desiring to use the controversial drug Laetrile need only file a physician's affidavit requesting it.

Richard Davis said Tuesday the affidavit must certify the patient is terminally ill and will receive the drug currently banned by the FDA, along with conventional anti-cancer therapy.

A U.S. District Court judge Tuesday ordered the FDA to allow a Scltuate woman to use the drug derived from apricot pits.

The ruling was handed down after Virginia O'Donnell, 47, presented a notarized letter from her physician requesting use of the drug, in accordance with an earlier court order.

A federal judge in Oklahoma recently ruled the FDA could not prevent a dying patient from obtaining the drug.

711 combats robbery

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — A group of Connecticut convenience stores have decided to lower the "ante" in the dangerous game of armed robbery by stacking the deck in their favor.

Regional and local officials of the 7-11 grocery chain Tuesday unveiled a new anti-robbery plan which will be installed in all 40 Connecticut stores within a year.

A special demonstration was held in one of their East Hartford outlets, with officials staging a simulated robbery to show how the program works.

The incident was recorded by a special camera that takes a series of rapid color photographs which can be used as evidence in court. The camera is activated when the cash drawer is opened.

The camera is the key to a crime.

Citizens group recommends use of CD funds for Hale playground

The Citizens Advisory Committee voted Tuesday night to recommend that the Town of Manchester's Community Development (CD) application be amended to include funds for improving the Nathan Hale School playground.

Also, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has approved the town's three-year grant for $50,000 in CD funds.

The committee's vote to seek funding for the school play area was triggered by recent protests from residents of the school district. A group of the residents appeared at a meeting of the Board of Directors earlier this month and presented a petition requesting funding for improvements.

The directors suggested that CD funds for the upcoming year might be used to improve the playground.

Tuesday night, the Citizens Advisory Committee, which oversees the CD program, voted to allocate CD funds for the Nathan Hale School project. The proposal will also

Buckland School may be rented

School officials are in the process of negotiating an agreement with the Messiah Evangelical Lutheran Church of South Windsor to rent Buckland School for the coming school year.

School Supt. James P. Kennedy said this week that Wilfred Dion, director of school buildings and grounds, is working out the arrangements with the church.

The church indicated an interest in the building for its full-time parochial school earlier this spring. The Board of Education decided in May to advertise the availability of the building to see if any other Manchester groups would be interested in it. The Board received no responses to an ad, Kennedy said, so he decided to go ahead with the arrangements with the church.

The Board agreed that the building would deteriorate less rapidly if it is in constant use. The school has been used only for storage during the past year.

The goal of the board in renting the school is to cover expenses and to get a fair price for maintenance, Kennedy said. The agreement will be kept on an annual basis.

In another school building matter, Kennedy said the preliminary plans for Bentley School renovations are ready for review by the board's building and sites committee. The board will probably be brought before the board at next Monday's meeting.

The plans for the school are fairly close to the time schedule allotted by the board. The work on the project is expected to start next spring.

Weiss agrees with HRC findings in job case

Town Manager Robert Weiss agrees with the Human Relations Commission report of finding no evidence of age discrimination in the hiring of a postal dispatcher and with its recommendation in a letter Tuesday to the town's handling of test scores, but considers its use of the term "hearing" to be misleading.

Weiss in a letter Tuesday to Commissioner Joseph Sweeney called the complaint about the term "hearing" to be misleading and said he would talk to Town Counsel Victor Moses about it. "If the problem is in the Human Relations Commission ordinance, I'll suggest ways it could be adjusted," Weiss said.

Clarification

The Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) of Manchester unanimously denied a request for a variance Monday night to Robert J. Armentano, a permittee of the Army Tavern at 306 Main St.

In Tuesday's Herald the tavern was referred to incorrectly in one instance as the Main St. Tavern.

Also, the applicant's attorney, William O'Connell of Glastonbury, referred to the American Legion Club on Legion Dr., a club within the 1,000-ft. limit for which the variance was sought, as a club which accommodated only its members and is not a place, as is the Army Tavern, which serves the public.

GOP re-elects Biebel

HARTFORD (UPI) — Frederick K. Biebel, working to lead the GOP back into the governor's mansion, was re-elected Connecticut Republican party chairman Tuesday night.

Biebel, who has become an emerging force in national GOP circles, took over the state party in 1975 after a disastrous showing in the previous year's state elections. The Republicans made a comeback on the state level in last year's elections, almost doubling their representation in the House of Representatives and Senate.

However, the Democrats still control both houses of the legislature and the governorship.

One game stand

Looking back on the local baseball scene, Frank Lupien, an officer, recalled the old Cheney Mill League which staged its games at the West Side Oval in the 1920s.

Lupien, one of four brothers, all cracker-jack athletes—Albert, Ulisses, Ted and Frank—who played high school and college ball, the first three at Harvard and the latter at Tufts, remembered when his father was pressed into duty in the Cheney League one night to avoid a forfeit.

The senior Lupien, who carried the first name of Ulisses - the same as his most famous son, who was known during his long professional baseball career as Tony - was an officer of the Cheney League from 1920 to 1922.

One night while Lupien senior was at the Oval to watch the Main Office team play, he was nearly two years before and although out of baseball for nearly 50 years he consented to go in and play rightfield.

"I remember the game well," Frank said. "Jack Burkhardt was pitching. My father was in street clothes. He drove a ball back hard at Burkhardt which hit him in the stomach and bounced away. He recovered in time and threw my father out at first. My father was not any speed demon and was playing in street shoes."

"It was surprising that he even hit the ball as Burkhardt was one of the best pitchers around," Frank recalled.

Lupien senior had been a fine athlete in his youth and his four sons followed in his footsteps.

Frank started at Tufts in the three major sports, baseball, basketball and football, and later coached the same three while teaching high school in Dover, Mass.

Al captained the baseball team at Harvard as did Tony before joining the Boston Red Sox. The latter also captained the Harvard basketball team. All but Tony were outfielders.

Tony Lupien stepped down as varsity baseball coach at Dartmouth last month after a 21-year career. A first baseman with the Red Sox and Chicago White Sox, he still holds the Boston record for a player grounding into the fewest doubles, only three in 1943.

All four Lupiens at one time played on the same baseball team.

The boys are now in retirement, Tony joining the others when he hung up his spikes at the Ivy League school.

Two sides to story

Just one man's opinion. New York Yankee Manager Billy Martin didn't use much tact in removing Reggie Jackson after the latter's lackadaisical play on a batted ball last Saturday against the Red Sox. And, Jackson didn't score any points with his comments directed at the field boss. Enough said? ... Was it right for the Mets to trade ace pitcher Tom Seaver to the World Champion Cincinnati Reds and the commissioner's office did nothing, yet stopping the early entries for the Aug. 37 promotion at the Wetherfield Country Club. Green has won over $118,000 to date. Two years ago he defeated Don Bies for the GHO title in a playoff. Monday night, Carl Zastrow missed a fly ball that went for a double against Baltimore. Luckily, for the Red Sox there was damage. On the other hand, as fate would have it, Reggie Jackson of the Yankees lost a ball in the lights against Detroit and it went for a double. The runner scored and it was the margin of victory for the Tigers.

Met rookie latest hero

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most baseball scouts believe rookie outfielder Steve Henderson, acquired by the New York Mets in the Tom Seaver deal with the Cincinnati Reds, has the potential to become a standout performer in the near future.

Henderson is being used sparingly but is eager to prove that he can handle the everyday job. Tuesday night he made a case for himself by striking a three-run homer in the fifth inning to give the Mets a 5-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Henderson, a left-handed replacement for left fielder Ed Kranepool in the top of the 11th, stroked his game-winning homer — his first in the major leagues — off rookie five-hitter for his eighth triumph and Phil Garner drove in three runs to lead the Pirates over the Padres. Willie Stargell had a solo homer, his 11th of the year and the 299th of his career, for the Pirates while Dave Kingman hit as manager of the Texas Rangers from Frank Lucchesi.

An announcement of Stanky's hiring was expected at a mid-morning press conference.

Stanky, who last managed in the majors in 1968, confirmed Tuesday that he and the Rangers were close to finalization of a contract.

"We're going to Minnesota today and if I can get two or three things worked out, I would say chances of taking the job would be better than 50-50," he said. "I'm very much impressed with the ball club. They must be contenders if they're only three games out."

Meanwhile, Lucchesi said he hadn't been informed of a change in managers.

Everybody in the entire country knows it but I'm not mad. I'm confused. Maybe I'm not confused, maybe I'm just hurt," he said following the Rangers' 9-5 loss to the Minnesota Twins.

Lucchesi, who Monday night expressed surprise that a change in management would be considered when he had propounded the Rangers to their present spot of three games out of first place, said the rumors of the impending loss of his job "have been tough."

Lucchesi has lost the affection of the Texas fans and is consistently booed when he goes to the mound reliever Don Collins had doubled and John Stearns had doubled and Felix Millan had drawn an intentional walk. Kranepool had sent the game into extra innings with a solo homer in the ninth.

George Foster drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a single to lead the Reds past the Phillies.

Johnny Bench added a two-run homer and rookie pitcher Paul Moskau chipped in with a solo blast for the Reds. Foster's homer was his 19th, tying him with Boston's George Scott for the major league lead.

Expos 6, Astros 0

Steve Rogers tossed a four-hitter for his ninth victory and Gary Carter became assistant coach with four hits and two RBIs to spark the Expos' triumph over the Astros.

In joining former Celtic Don Nelson, now the Bucks' coach, Killilea returns to the team that gave him his first National Basketball Association job.

killiea quits Boston Celts

BOSTON (UPI) — John Killilea, the Boston Celtics' first and only assistant coach, has left after six seasons to become assistant coach and assistant director of player personnel for the Milwaukee Bucks.

In joining former Celtic Don Nelson, now the Bucks' coach, Killilea returns to the team that gave him his first National Basketball Association job.

Superb pitching, hitting, defense spells it all for rampaging Red Sox

BALTIMORE (UPI) — "It's almost like pulling a row of bars or lemons or whatever on a slot machine. The Boston Red Sox are getting superb pitching, hitting and defense all at once — and the payoff has been a special kind of five-game 'high.'"

The Red Sox, behind Luis Tiant's two-hit pitching and two more home runs, blanked Baltimore, 7-0, Tuesday night for their fifth straight win and a 4½ game lead in the American League East. The fact all the victories have come against despised intradivisional rivals — the Orioles and New York Yankees — makes the "high" even more intense for Manager Don Zimmerman.

"The thing that hasn't been noticed is that our pitching has been outstanding," said Zimmerman, referring to the attention his club's spring has been getting.

"In spring training, some people didn't think we could win with the pitching we had. But our pitching changed overnight. Early in the season we were allowing 10 runs a day, it seemed."

The 36-year-old right-hander disagreed.

"No," he said from behind his omnipresent Cuban cigar. "I thought I pitched better in Texas (a three-hit shutout nine days ago)."

"The Boomer," who leads the AL with 19 homers, including seven in seven games, said he was surprised that he was being called "the Boomer."

"After the bench-clearing performance, Tiant still wasn't the subject of any post-game clubhouse chatter. That honor went to Scott, who went after Baltimore starter and ace Dennis Martinez in the ninth after being hit in the stomach with a pitch. The hand was shielding his face at the time.

reached Tiant for only a scratch single by Lee May in the fourth and a solid double by Pat Kelly in the ninth."

"Tiant had a great fastball," said Zimmerman. "It was his best outing of the year."

"But that pitch was up around the top of my head and I know he got better control than that. He did right to get away. Added the Boomer," who leads the AL with 19 homers, including seven in seven games, said he was surprised that he was being called "the Boomer."

for? He's one of the few guys we handle pretty good. There's no meaning to what happened. But, of course, the guy that gets hit is always the maddest."

Pinch hitter Dwight Evans popped up for the second out, but Dutch Hobson singled to right, scoring Kelly and Denny Doyle. He cleared the bases with a two-run double to right.

It appeared the first Baltimore hit, May's fourth inning single off Scott followed with an opposite field homer to right.

Crawford stops Yanks

DETROIT (UPI) — Forgotten how to win? Jim Crawford could barely remember what a victory was.

The left-handed long-relief specialist picked up only his second American League win in two seasons Tuesday night in pitching Detroit to a 5-2 victory that was the New York Yankees' fifth straight loss.

The left-handed ball game a juicing from Mickey Stanley and Tito Fuentes, each of whom carried a two-run home run.

Tiger fans received a mild scare in the third inning when outstanding rookie right-hander Dave Ruzema was removed from the game because of a tightness in his right shoulder.

But Manager Ralph Houk revealed after the game it was only a precautionary measure.

The White Sox managed to rely on second baseman Fred Lynn to lead off the first inning and to pinch-hit for Lynn in the second inning — a bass-loaded single by Ralph Garr and an RBI single by Alan Bannister.

Steve Stone, with relief from Lerrin LaGrew, was the winner as Chicago shutout Baltimore in his second start. Don Hood and Jim Kern finished up.

Max and Cindy jog along

A Manchester beauty

Seeks 'Miss Connecticut' title

By BETTY RYDER

Family Travel Editor

Cindy, who captured the "Miss Manchester 1977" title back in February, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Tucker; a brother, Tom; twin sisters, Jerry and Jackie; and a dog named "Max" who loves to jog.

In a warm family surrounding, Cindy admits she has matured since winning the local title.

"Since then, the world started spinning," she said. "My family has been very supportive, but they won't let me get a big head."

"I first entered the local pageant when I realized it would allow me time to prepare myself," Cindy said.

The Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant is sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees.

Rick Lawrence and his wife, Ellen, have been serving as business manager and chaperone, respectively, for the past few years.

Sally Middleton of Manchester, a former Miss Connecticut and a consultant for the Jaycees, has worked closely with Cindy instructing her in posture, makeup, and fashion.

Preparing for the upcoming state pageant, Cindy has kept busy jogging each day with Max, and practicing her dance routine for the talent competition.

"I take lessons from Mary Morlock in East Hartford. And have been doing my routine five times a day for the past few weeks," she said.

Lacking a large enough area in her home to "swing" into her dance, Cindy dons her leotards, top hat, and cane and with her tape recorder piping music, practices in the driveway of her home, much to the delight of passing motorists.

Of this enthusiastic young lady who will enter her junior year at ECSC this fall, Sally says, "She has a natural sense of fashion. Cle is something you are born with. She's a remarkably poised young woman and we feel confident she'll do well on the state level."

All systems have been "go" in preparing Cindy for the competition. Rick said, he and several friends, arranged a "mock" interview session with a variety of questions for Cindy.

"She came through very well. Nothing rattled her, she remained poised and confident," he reported proudly.

Cindy, hopes to receive a B.A. in economics, and then go on to get her M.B.A. She would like to work a while and eventually to hold a position in public relations.

"So far, entering the pageants has been a great experience. I've had the chance to get out and talk to people, and gain a lot of self-confidence. It's something you just can't get out of textbook."

With her family and friends in the audience, plus a large contingent of Manchester Jaycees and area residents rooting for her, we know Miss Manchester 1977 will represent her town well.

"I'm really excited about this weekend," the radiant, 5-foot, 10-inch beauty admits.

And, Cindy, so are we!

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Deprived child

Little Nancy's mother, injured in a bus accident, was left permanently disabled. In due course the bus company was sued not only by the mother but by Nancy as well.

"The child," argued her lawyer in court, "has been deprived of the care and companionship of her mother, all because of the negligence of the bus driver. His company ought to pay for her loss of these services."

But the court rejected Nancy's suit, saying that a child has only a moral—not a legal—right to the services of a parent. The court noted that the injury, in awarding damages to the mother, would probably add something anyhow for the hardship imposed upon the child.

Generally speaking, the child deprived of a parent's attentions through a third party's negligence cannot collect damages. In fact, most courts take that view even if the harm to the parent-child relationship was inflicted deliberately.

Consider: A lawsuit was filed on behalf of a small boy against the "other woman" for having induced his father to abandon his family.

"If for no reason," said the boy's attorney in court, "we want to hold her liable as a warning to other home-wreckers."

But the judge rejected the suit, saying he doubted that a few of damages would have any deterrent effect. Such philandering, said the judge, "springs from motives that seldom if ever count the cost."

However, in a few of these alienation-of-affections cases, courts have ruled in favor of the deprived child. Thus, two youngsters were awarded damages against a man who had lured away their mother. Said the court: "Children, the same as parents, have rights as well as duties. Enticement of a mother is a grievous, outrageous and tragic wrong to her child."

Social Security

Q. I've been getting Social Security widow's payments for the past three years. I'll be 65 in October and will apply for Social Security retirement payments on my own work record. Will my benefits be reduced because I've been getting reduced widow's payments?

A. No. You'll get full Social Security retirement checks on your own record at 65 even though you've been getting widow's benefits before 62, your retirement benefits at 65 would be reduced.

Q. I get monthly Supplemental Security income (SSI) payments. I'd like to move to another state so I can be closer to my grandchildren. Would this mean I'd have to reapply for SSI when I get there?

A. No, but you must notify Social Security of your move as soon as you know your new address so that you get your checks on time. Also, some states add to the federal SSI check. Consequently, the fact that you move to another state could affect your SSI payment.

Q. What is the SSI program all about? A. The idea of the SSI program is to provide a floor of income and to keep people from falling below a certain level of need. Thus, a person with limited income may own as much as $1,500 in resources and still receive SSI payments.

Q. I have about $1,200 in a savings account left from my husband's life insurance. Will this count against my receiving SSI payments?

A. Not if your savings plus your other resources total less than the $1,500 maximum allowed for eligibility for SSI.

Q. Does a wife automatically get monthly checks if her husband is eligible for Social Security disability benefits?

A. No. Payments are made to a wife under 62 only if she's caring for either a child under 18 or a child any age getting disability payments on the husband's earnings record.

Author wants to alert the consumer

Not too long ago someone I know was hospitalized for several days due to a bad reaction from an antibiotic.

In his introduction the author states he is not a physician, medical researcher, pharmacist or employee of a drug company.

In each instance, after heartache, pain and costly medical care, the problem was diagnosed as a reaction to a particular drug.

For this reason the author decided that there was a need for a book to alert consumers to the possible side effects and adverse reactions of the prescription drugs they take.

Growing older

Harold Blumenfeld

Each of these advertised items is guaranteed to be ready, available and in stock at or below the advertised price in each of the stores.

He was assisted in his research by James Molt, Ph.D., and the book's intention is to inform the reader the reason a particular drug is prescribed, precautions to observe while taking the drug, the possible side effects and adverse reactions that may occur.

Additionally, the books gives the generic name of various prescription drugs. Whenever possible, if your physician will prescribe drugs by their generic name, you will be able to save money on prescriptions.

The side effects and adverse reactions to the various medications listed are those the drug companies are aware of, based upon their own research plus feedback received from physicians, pharmacists and consumers.

News for senior citizens

Hi there everybody! Well, we just returned from a very enjoyable few days in one of our most popular spots, Wildwood.

I want to thank all the men for helping with the luggage when we were getting ready to leave. My sincere thanks to Florence Benevento and Lila Zito who really were terrific in helping one of our members when she sure needed it.

Also, many thanks to George Vallone who was in charge of the second bus, for doing an outstanding job.

We no longer get back home, when we start in by getting up before breakfast to register people for two different trips, one to Hyde Park and the other a three-day jaunt to Brown's in upper New York.

Next week we start our meals program for five weeks. Geri Kelly will be in charge of the meals and has some good old tasty summer dishes planned.

Miller gets Ph.D.

Blaine Miller, director of educational data processing and vice-principal at Manchester High School received his Doctor of Philosophy degree in education administration recently at the University of Connecticut.

The title of his dissertation was "A Method of Reducing Error in Public School Enrollment Projections." A case study was made of the Town of Manchester during the years from 1950 to 1975 as it relates to social and demographic variables and their relationship to school enrollment change and projection error.

Dr. Thomas E. Steahr, demographer at UConn served as one of Miller's major faculty advisors. Dr. Steahr completed several long-range enrollment projections recently for the Manchester Board of Education.

One of Miller's major recommendations in his dissertation called for the broadening of an information base that would involve offices from both the Manchester town government and school system.

Before his appointment as vice-principal at MES, Miller served as audio-visual director for the Manchester school system. He has been an officer, for several years in the Connecticut Educational Data Processing Association and he was president of the organization for two terms.

Backyard play equipment

The backyard playground has always been the favorite spot in the neighborhood. Children today get as much fun out of playground equipment as their parents did, and unfortunately, they get as many or more bumps, bruises and broken bones as their mom and dad in their day. Here are some safety tips and advice concerning backyard play equipment.

If the equipment is not fully assembled, be sure there are detailed assembly instructions. Stability is very important. Setting the swing set legs in concrete in the ground is the best anchoring device possible. If you use the anchoring devices that usually come with the equipment, however, make sure all legs are well below ground level and that there is little or no slack in the chain or cable.

no rough play around equipment, no shoving, no pushing, no fighting. Teach them to sit in the center of the swing, not off to the side, and don't allow twisting of the swing chains. Teach them to avoid walking in front of moving swings and train them to never swing empty seats. Supervise young children when they use playground equipment.

Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: "Of Consumer Concern" Dept. of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115.

3 schools are cited as hazard

Three schools in East Hartford are among the 26 cited by state educators for having enough asbestos, a known cancer-causing substance, to pose a health hazard.

The state Department of Education said Tuesday it has advised school officials not to allow use of the affected areas and to take immediate steps to remove or cover the asbestos.

A total of 26 schools in 16 towns were listed. In East Hartford, the areas cited were the East Hartford High School locker room, the Hockanum Elementary School gymnasium and the Sunset Ridge Elementary School gymnasium.

Carl D. Paternostro, head of the department's school buildings unit, said the schools involved — built between 1953 and 1973 — were fireproofed with a spray-on coating containing asbestos with a cement-like binder.

He said a five-month survey of all public school buildings was made to single out schools in which the asbestos was flaking or otherwise deteriorating; the coating was sprayed in ventilation ducts, or the asbestos-bearing material was located in a spot where students could jar it loose.

The other schools cited as having hazardous areas included eight Hartford schools. Paternostro said this was partly the result of Hartford's stringent fire-resistance requirements.

Other schools cited were in Derby, East Granby, Falls Village, Granby, Monroe, Moodus, New Britain, Redding, Stafford, Stratford, Watertown, West Haven, Westport and Woodbridge.

7-11 combats robbery

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — A group of Connecticut convenience stores have decided to lower the "ante" in the dangerous game of armed robbery by stacking the deck in their favor.

Regional and local officials of the 7-11 grocery chain Tuesday unveiled a new anti-robbery plan which will be installed in all 40 Connecticut stores within a year.

A special demonstration was held in one of their East Hartford outlets, with officials staging a simulated robbery to show how the program works.

The incident was recorded by a special camera that takes a series of rapid color photographs which can be used as evidence in court.

The camera is activated when the cash drawer opens. The camera is the key to a crime prevention package that 7-11 store owners think will put a dent in the rash of armed robberies at around-the-clock convenience stores in recent years.

Test cases in other parts of the country reveal that armed robberies decreased by over 30 per cent when the stores adopted stringent security precautions.

Under the crime prevention plan, Banks may spend as much as $2,500 to $3,000 to purchase a videotape machine and $40 a reel for the machine's film. The new convenience store camera will cost storeowners about $2 a day, according to Frank.

Connecticut is expected to be the first state to have the new cameras. Long Island, N.Y. stores will follow shortly and eventually all 7-11 outlets across the country will install the cameras.

Council seeks funds for roads and lands

By SHEILA TULLER Herald Correspondent

In just an hour's time, the East Hartford Town Council Tuesday night adopted two resolutions to improve town conditions and approved payment of seven claims against the town.

The first resolution authorizes Mayor Richard Blackstone to accept $25,922 in state funds for road maintenance.

The mayor said the money would be used for road repair, repaving, and winter maintenance. The amount is $40,000 more than the 1976-77 funds, which have been exhausted, he said.

The council also decided Connecticut Blvd. back to the state. This should save the town much money because the state will do repairs and winter maintenance.

The second resolution authorizes the town to seek federal funds to buy land for open space.

The land, in the Long Hill area of town, is owned by Harry Raveles of Sawka Dr. The 26 acres about the Manchester town line on the east and East Hartford's nature park on the west. The land lies between Burnham St. and the town golf course.

Councilman William Daley, chairman of the committee for land acquisition and disposition, urged the town to apply for funds to buy the land.

The Planning and Zoning Commission, which had reviewed the request, agreed with Daley.

In other business concerning property, the council referred a letter from a real estate agent to Daley's committee.

The letter notifies the town that private property at 803 Burnside Ave., abutting East Hartford High School, is for sale.

The settlements, approved on the recommendation of Asta Corporation Counsel James Kane, cover medical expenses incurred by residents after sidewalk falls in different areas of town.

The council is now on its summer schedule and will meet only once a month in July and August. Meetings are scheduled July 19 and Aug. 17.
