Witness links ex-solons to South Korean bribes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former chief of South Korea's CIA says the agency helped bankroll a "bribery operation" to influence congressmen, and sources said he revealed that former Reps. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., and Richard Hanna, D-Calif., were involved.

As a result, Kim said he got Park $200,000 but then burned the list and did not recall the names on it. Earlier, Kim said Park told him "two close friends" in Congress had agreed "to help in modernizing the Korean armed forces" if South's government would assist them in sales of U.S. rice overseas. He said that was arranged, but he refused to name the congressmen publicly.

In a closed session later, congressional sources said, Kim told the panel he was referring to Gallagher, a close friend of Park's who headed a subcommittee on Asian affairs, and Hanna, a partner in business with Park and member of banking subcommittees. Gallagher got out of prison in late 1974 after serving less than two years for income tax evasion. Hanna has said he received more than $60,000 over three years as a silent partner with Park in an import-export venture.

Park earned millions of dollars in commissions as a special broker for Korean rice imports and allegedly used that money to win help on Capitol Hill during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

Carter defense bill faces little controversy on Hill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress found little controversy in President Carter's defense spending package, but there are still questions on Capitol Hill about two new-fangled weapons — the neutron bomb and the B1 bomber.

The General Accounting Office Wednesday informed Accounting John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee that two studies placed the cost of building a B1 bomber at $117 million, or 16 percent higher than the Pentagon's estimate of $101.7 million.

"I am sending a copy of these GAO findings to President Carter, so that he can be aware of the apparent cost-juggling involved in these estimates and of the enormous real cost of this unnecessary and wasteful program," said Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, who released the report.

The President is close to a decision on the B1. Congress has authorized, but not appropriated, funds for five of what would be as many as 244 planes.

Blasts rip through Akron sewer system

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — A series of explosions, apparently triggered by a "volatile liquid," roared through part of the city's sewer system early today. The explosions blew massive holes in streets and broke open crypts in a nearby cemetery.

There were no immediate reports of injuries although the area on the west side of this northern Ohio city of 272,000 — part commercial and part residential — was evacuated as a precautionary measure. Police Dispatcher Sgt. Hugh Bennett said: "I saw a crater 80 to 90 feet across right after the explosion," said Police Capt. David E. Whitmire who was at the scene. "The major thrust of the blast was in the area by Glendale Cemetery."

"There are some crypts that have been broken open by the blasts and I would say that area of the city is hardest hit," said Whitmire. "We didn't go all the way into the cemetery but there definitely have been some things turned over by the blast."

Whitmire said the explosion also broke a large water main and a gas main in the area. Whitmire said the sewers were flushed with water to clean them out.

Grasso would limit use of state school aid funds

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso says towns should use state education grants specifically for education and not to lower taxes or balance budgets.

"If money is given for education, it certainly should be used for education," she told her weekly Capitol news conference Wednesday. Mrs. Grasso's position represents a break with the traditional New England concept of "local autonomy," a dictum that provides local school boards will decide how to spend their money, state-provided funds included.

Mrs. Grasso predicted Wednesday Connecticut cities and towns may soon be required by law to use their state education grants solely for educational purposes. "I think this will be a statutory requirement in the near future," she said.

Existing state law requires municipalities to spend an amount equal to the state's total educational grant on education. Most communities spend significantly more on education than the state gives them.

HARTFORD — A challenge to the constitutionality of the state's dividends tax is expected to be decided by the Connecticut Supreme Court later this year. The suit, brought by Carl E. Cindy ranks high at twirling meet

A 14-year-old Manchester girl came close to becoming Miss Majorette of Connecticut in a recent contest at Springfield, Mass.

Earlier this year, the state Supreme Court ruled in favor of Horton in a related case. The high court declared unconstitutional Connecticut's system of funding education because it favored students in affluent communities at the expense of children in property-poor towns.

The legislature, on orders from the Supreme Court, came up with a plan to double the state's education equalization grant to municipalities from $10 million to $20 million.

8th District elects Lassow

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter
Eighth Utilities District Voters elected Gordon B. Lassow of 102 Hollister St. as district president for the coming fiscal year at the district annual meeting Wednesday night at Bentley School.

Lassow defeated Peter Dubaldo of 5 Irving St., a last minute candidate, by a vote of 96 to 65. Lassow, a district director for the past three years and who was up for re-election to that post, decided Monday night to seek the president's spot when Michael Massaro announced he would not seek a fourth term as president.

Lassow is president of Ellsworth and Lassow, Inc., a gasoline wholesaling business, which has been located in the district at 282 Oakland St. for the past 42 years.

Lassow is a graduate of Oakland University and did post graduate work at New York University. He served in the Air Force in the Korean War. He has also been active as a District fire fighter, a trustee of Latz Junior Museum and as a former director of Temple Beth Shalom. He and his wife, Marilyn, have three sons.

Lassow said Wednesday his first duty as president when he takes office the third Monday in July will be to call a joint meeting of the district directors with the Town Board of Directors to discuss mutual problems relating to fire, sewer jurisdiction and other concerns.

The district also elected two directors for three-year terms including Willard Marvin, for a second term, and newcomer Robert Froehlich of 15 Thistle Rd. Froehlich defeated Dubaldo also in Wednesday night. (Herald photo by Vaughn)

Directors reappropriate sewer department funds

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
The Manchester Board of Directors met Tuesday night to complete its June agenda. Actions taken by the board included a reappropriation of $43,043 to the Sewer Department's operating budget.

The directors had cut the operating budget in an attempt to build up the department's reserve fund. But, officials had expressed concern that the cut might result in layoffs.

This Tuesday night, the board reappropriated $12,029 from the reserve fund to the operating budget. Another $31,014 was transferred from an expected industrial park out-let charge that had also been placed in the reserve account.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss also suggested that the directors review the department's budget after six months of the fiscal year to see if more funds will have to be transferred from the reserve fund to the operating budget.

Director Phyllis Jackson said that she was concerned about expected funds from the park being used in the operating budget. This could present a problem if the park doesn't develop, she said.

The directors also took the following action:

- Transferred $2,000 in the 1976-77 budget from the Contingency Fund to the street lighting account. This will cover a shortfall for street lighting costs.
- Transferred $2,164 in the 1977-78 budget from the street lighting account to the public works administration account.

No asbestos problems found in local schools

Manchester schools were not among those found in 26 school buildings in the state found to contain cancer-causing asbestos material.

The state Department of Education building unit inspected schools across the state, including Manchester High School, which were built between 1953 and 1973 and where there was a suspected asbestos problem contained in a fireproofing material.

A total of 26 schools in 16 towns were cited as having possible health hazards. Three schools in East Hartford — East Hartford High, Hockanum Elementary and Sunset Ridge Elementary — were said to be asbestos-free by the state building unit of a rear wall of the Manchester

High auditorium showed that the composition of the wall material was not considered hazardous, according to School Supt. James P. Kennedy.

Dr. Kennedy said the area is a section of acoustical panels which contains a fibrous material with less than 1 per cent asbestos. He said it is flaky in parts, and needs minor repairs, but will not need the major repairs which are being ordered for many schools.

Repairs of such an area would have been an expensive undertaking, Dr. Kennedy said, and would have taken a major area out of school and community use. The high school will help support the council's many charities in the Manchester area.

Tickets will be available at the door on all other schools proved acceptable.

WASHINGTON — As a lifelong baseball fan, I have my own personal enemies' list. It contains the names (or numbers) of those self-anointed aesthetes who look down at the game as a sport by and for the unwashed proletariat.

Andrew Tully

Most of these elegants belong to that society produced by expensive boarding schools, who sail boats and play tennis, and whose spectator time is spent watching soccer and polo games. To them, baseball is just not aristocratic enough.

Loves the game But more of all, this man about the country's most fashionable town unashamedly — nay, ardently, even zealously — pays tribute to the most exciting and cerebral game ever devised for more than two players.

A real baseball book A real fan who can wear a button-down collar with the best of them, and — for all I know — may be adept at handling a job sail.

Whether he's conversing with a player or a bleacherite, Angell is fascinated by the utter exposure to a baseball team submits itself. These nine players are always in plain sight of the crowd, whether at bat or in the field. Their excellence is visible to every fan not engaged in negotiating the purchase of a hot dog, and so are their mistakes.

A grandstand person Anyway, Angell is one of the grandstand people. He writes: "Enthusiasm and interest took me out to the ballpark; I never went out the failed dam."

PZC meeting coverage called incomplete

To the editor: I was astonished to read The Herald's coverage of the May 13th PZC meeting. The article was incomplete, slanted and failed to inform the residents of Manchester just what is taking place.

Politics Pearson

By GREG PEARSON

One might have thought that Stephen T. Penny's appointment to the Manchester Board of Directors would have caused a stir in the Penny family.

Steve was appointed to the board as a Democrat. Most of the members of the family, including his father, Alexander, and his mother, Edna, are registered Republicans.

Steve Penny said that one other family member, an uncle, is also a Democrat. But, aside from a few family bets on political races, the bipartisan Pennys have managed to keep peace in the household, Steve said.

Incidentally, Penny, who is 28, is not the youngest person to ever serve on the board. Although it has not been possible to research the category completely, the youngest person ever to serve on the board appears to be Republican Dave Odegar, who was elected at the age of 25.

Town informed CETA program is being expanded

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss has sent a notice to the Board of Directors that the Town of Manchester may be receiving additional Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) positions.

Weiss said that the positions are being created under Title II of the Comprehensive Manpower Program, and the town could be receiving as many as 20 to 40 new CETA positions.

If we are not able to fully utilize all the positions available to us, we may have to consider ways we could allow non-profit organizations in town to submit requests for positions, Weiss wrote.

He said this morning that he is considering CETA positions for non-profit organizations because he does not want to create any unneeded positions in the town government.

He did present the directors with a list of five positions that have been recommended for CETA employees. These include a building inspector, highway construction inspector, and drainage construction inspector.

In a related matter, the town has had a construction project approved under Title VI of the Comprehensive Manpower Program.

The project involves the removal of existing concrete stairs near the high school tennis courts and the construction of a concrete ramp and retaining wall at the school. The project will employ three persons for about four months, Weiss told the directors.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

Many hours of work are required to "tidy up" a garden for inspection by friends or strangers. Three local gardens have had such critical inspections recently, those of Fred and Phyllis Boss of E. Center St., Miss Millicent A. Jones of Tolland Rd. in Bolton, and Caprilands Herb Farm in Coventry, operated by Mrs. Adeline Simmons.

Members of the Herb Society of America from 20 states, holding their annual meeting at the Hotel Sonesta in Hartford, came first on Wednesday of last week, 399 of them in seven buses. They visited the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Boss as their first stop, then went to Miss Jones' garden in Bolton and ended their tour at Caprilands Herb Farm.

On Saturday of the same week, members of the Connecticut Horticultural Society and members of local garden clubs visited the Boss and Jones gardens, coming in their own cars and in smaller numbers, 15 by Mrs. Boss's count.

The weather was superb on both days although an overnight storm had left some knocked-off petals for the second visit. The local gardeners had been notified two years in advance of the Herb Society's visit. The herb growers choose a different part of the country each year for their convention. Those traveling the greatest distance this year were from California.

Started months ago Mr. and Mrs. Boss and Miss Jones do all their own work, except that Miss Jones hires a high school girl to mow the lawn. They have been working every day since spring clean-up started and Miss Jones made some preparations in the winter, doing most of her pruning during the winter months.

They planted seeds, some of new, and to them untried, varieties. They had the plants from clippings taken in their gardens. If there was a bare spot where some plant had failed to survive the winter, the plant had to be replaced. In the last few days before the visitors were due, the gardens had a thorough inspection for any overlooked weeds, broken branches, or signs of disease or insect damage.

Mr. Boss could be of more help to his wife this year since he retired on July 31 of 1976 from a job as chief inspector at the Klock Co. They have always gardened together, he says, first in St. Louis and since 1941 in Manchester when they moved here. Getting ready for visitors was not as hard work, however, as starting their E. Center St. garden. The grounds around their house and barn were a tangle of weeds, fallen trees and rubbish. It took two years to clean out the litter, cut into the steep bank behind their house to form terraces, lay stone steps from one level to another and, finally, to plant some flowers.

There are three acres at the top of the bank where they plant some vegetables but consider the area mostly as a bird sanctuary. There are bluejays, cardinals and redpolls there now, with a few rabbits. A pair of raccoons is raising a family in the barn loft.

Metal ornaments
Mrs. Boss and Miss Jones age sisters, born in England, where they first learned about gardening. Both have herb gardens, but many other kinds of garden flowers in addition. Mrs. Boss said their visitors remarked especially about the great variety of plants in the Boss garden. Metal garden ornaments made by Mr. Boss decorate the garden.

Metal ornaments made by Trevor Jones, brother of Millicent and Phyllis, add interest and a touch of humor to Miss Jones' garden. There is a peacock, a flamingo and a huge metal spider that seems to walk across the lawn.

Miss Jones said her herb garden was, she thought, in splendid condition for inspection. Her old-fashioned roses were also in full bloom. A budlea shrub dripping with long lavender blooms was a high point. Japanese peonies in a deep rose-red and masses of Johnny-jump-ups were admired. Clumps of foxglove were at their best. Columbine, in pink and white, bloomed in perfection.

Miss Jones explained that some six-foot thistles were grown from seed sent to her by the Royal Horticultural Society of England. They are not yet in bloom but the gray-green leaves and heavy stalks made them a focal point.

Fred and Phyllis Boss of E. Center St. prepare their garden for visitors. They had guests from the American Herb Society and from the Connecticut Horticultural Society last week. Mr. Boss indicates a rue plant in the herb garden. (Herald photo by Vaughn)

Navy trims its sailors

GROTON (UPI) — The right kind of diet and regular exercise. That's what the Navy is prescribing for overweight sailors — and there are plenty of them.

Capt. George Griffin of the U.S. Naval Submarine Base's medical center said about 30 per cent of the sailors are overweight and the ones who need to shed the most pounds are those assigned to submarines.

"If I disqualified everybody who is overweight from active duty, we'd never get a ship out of here," Griffin said.

Griffin attributed part of the problem to the type of food served in the mess halls. "The diet is bad here," he said. "It is full of carbohydrates and cholesterol."

He said Navy personnel on cruises spend a lot of time eating — up to six meals a day. Even if they choose to skip a couple of those meals, they don't get much exercise. Griffin said the highest percentage of overweight sailors are those on submarines.

Last year, the Navy decided to emphasize the importance of keeping trim by reducing allowable weight limits and telling personnel on active duty they must lose weight or leave the service.

Griffin said a 6-foot man used to be permitted to weigh up to 228 pounds. Now he is supposed to weigh only 202 pounds.

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., is awarding a $1,000 American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS) scholarship to Stephen Latham of Manchester. The award presentation was made recently at the annual meeting of the AIFS High School Board of Academic Advisors at in Greenwich.

Latham wins grant

Stephen Latham of 103 S. Lakewood Circle received a $1,000 American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS) scholarship recently. The presentation was made by Sen. Lowell Weicker who has assisted the AIFS in selecting the recipient of their annual scholarship for the past several years.

The AIFS summer program provides our nation's young people with an opportunity for study and travel abroad while gaining outstanding insight into the languages and the cultures of foreign people.

Business forum participants optimistic

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

A Congressman and an economist indicated to about 350 business leaders Tuesday that the economy in the state and nation is "on the mend" and holding up for the first months of 1977.

The setting was a business forum sponsored by the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. (CBT) at The Colony in Vernon. One of a series of forums, this one was for business persons in the Central Region of Connecticut. Congressman Christopher Dodd (2nd Dist.) was the guest speaker.

Dr. Edwin L. Caldwell, vice-president of economics for CBT, said that Connecticut has improved at a faster pace than the nation with a business index up 17 per cent compared to the U.S. Business index up 14 per cent from last year. Unemployment is down in the Hartford Labor Market by 6.9 per cent, he said.

"The consumers are still the backbone of the economy," Caldwell said, as they were in 1976. The consumers are stronger than expected for the first three months of this year despite the promise of a rebate being dropped, he said.

The boom area of the economy right now is housing with a 20 per cent increase in real terms, Caldwell reported.

The real estate activity has kept pace with 1976 with a 6 per cent increase, despite a hard winter and the rebate withdrawal Caldwell said.

The most likely possibility for a dampening effect on the economy would be an increase in the expected 6 per cent inflation rate for this year. However, there is a good probability the rate could be lower, Caldwell said.

Dodd told the business leaders he thinks things "are on the mend a little," despite thousands still out of work in the second district that he represents.

Dodd said he is committed to a comprehensive energy program, however, he said it is still in the developing stages in Congress.

He said the energy program needs to be comprehensive and sustainable in order to work. He suggested more technical improvements in the automotive industry and more exploration of alternative energy sources, however he said it is going to take time before new sources are developed.

Dodd said he is tired of hearing that people don't want to work. He said it is not true in most cases, pointing to an example in New York City when 20,000 youth stayed up all night to get in line for 10,000 $57-a-week summer jobs.

A coalition of Congressmen from 19 Northeast and Midwest states has organized for economic improvements in their areas. He said most of the states in these areas are coming out short in terms of benefits received for taxes paid.

Dodd said the Community Development Act should help put people back to work. The small towns are beginning to qualify for funding under the act on a new formula, Dodd indicated.

The basis for awarding government contracts is also going to be changed, Dodd said, with more consideration for the economic conditions of an area.

Dodd has co-sponsored a legislation bill for an investment tax credit for businesses when re-located within a 10-mile radius of their present locations to induce them to stay in the same area. He said Connecticut has a large number of businesses located in very old buildings, with the highest number in the eastern part of the state. For example, he said, Tolland County has the highest percentage of business floor space over 50 years old, at 68 per cent. He said he hopes the new legislation will make some differences for these areas.

Dodd also said he hopes that 1-84 from Manchester to the Rhode Island border will get built as a help to the economy of eastern Connecticut.

Habit's countryfolk see little conflict between Christianity and wood. The Great Master, they say, should not be bothered with little problems. Reversely asking his permission before starting a Saturday night ceremony, they get down to cases with duties whose job it is to take care of everyday matters: crop, sickness, love and money.

Woman gets prize for public service

Mrs. Olga Mele, 58, of East Hartford this morning was among five local community leaders from across the nation to receive the 1977 Thomas Jefferson Award for outstanding public service.

The other four included a San Francisco priest who organized a program which feeds 1,200 poor a day, an Arizona woman who founded the "Traditional Indian Alliance," a Seattle, Wash., doctor who sparked the emergency medical technician programs now used across the country, and a Massachusetts woman who founded the first mental health clinic in the Marlborough area.

Mrs. Mele says her job is just a matter of giving hope to those who have none.

Her job is to help out through the bureaucratic red tape of Hartford's Hispanic community, for which she was recognized earlier this year in winning a state award.

Mrs. Mele is a bilingual family counselor for the Hartford Community Renewal Team, the latest in a series of community service jobs she has held for more than a decade with CRT.

Manchester police report
A car driven by George T. Wilson, 34, of Hartford, over-481 Spring St., was reported Wednesday. About 17 screens turned into a swamp off an access road near I-86 south of W. Middle Tpk., about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday. Wilson and the three other passengers in the car were not injured, police reported.

Police said Wilson's car was traveling at a high enough rate of speed to run off the road and scrape the bottom of the car on an embankment and then overturn into the swamp. Wilson will be charged with reckless driving, police said. He was turned over to State Police on other charges, but information on those charges was not available today.

Other accident-related arrests Wednesday included Beth A. Alemany, 17, of 40 Parker St., charged with evading responsibility in connection with an accident at E. Middle Tpk. and Princeton Sts. Police said the Alemany vehicle swerved to miss another car and struck a utility pole at the intersection about 9:25 p.m. Ms. Alemany left the scene and was apprehended a short time later. There were no injuries reported.

Peter M. Heimgan, 18, of 222 Ralph Rd., was charged with failure to drive in the proper lane; his vehicle smashed into two utility poles early Wednesday on Olcott St.

Virginia H. Bridges, 64, of 482 W. Middle Tpk., was charged with failure to obey a control signal in connection with a collision at W. Middle Tpk. and Adams St. Wednesday morning. The driver of the other car was Jessie B. Sampson, 39, of South Windsor, who was reported having minor injuries. Both cars were towed from the scene.

Robert L. Gilbert, 56, of Warehouse Point, was charged with disorderly conduct in connection with a disturbance at Manchester Memorial Hospital Wednesday. Police said he was brought there by ambulance for treatment in the emergency room, but he annoyed patients and was abusive to employees of the hospital while there. He was released on a nonreturn bond for court appearance July 1.

The detective bureau reported that three juvenile boys were apprehended Wednesday in connection with the use of slugs in coin changing machines at a Spruce St. laundromat. They were charged with larceny and turned over to juvenile authorities. Police recovered several of the slugs and are investigating the case. Seven cars were reported broken into at the Buckland Community Bus parking lot on Tolland Tpk. Wednesday. Several items were stolen from the vehicles, including CB radios, tape players, radio parts and a suitcase of clothes. 64 Bolton graduates focus on the future

By DOUG BEVIN
Suburban Editor

The uncertainty of the future, the drive to succeed, and the need to dream were the words spoken Wednesday night as the Class of 1977 ended its years at Bolton High School.

Sixty-four seniors received their diplomas in a traditional outdoor ceremony which lasted almost until dark.

Most of the ceremony was quiet and serious. Not till the end — and the diploma presentation — was there much noise from the graduates and the audience.

But as School Supt. Raymond Allen called each senior to the podium, there were bursts of applause, some cheering, and a lot of picture-taking.

The ceremony did run a little late, and the evening was cool, but the graduates showed warm smiles when it was all over.

There was little talk of the past and a lot of hope for the future.

"We are graduating as only a small step in a long and exciting road ahead," Susan Murdoch said in her introduction. "Reach out to the sky, hold your head high. And begin with a smile."

Robert Thornton, chairman of the Board of Education, talked about the septic system at the Alpha-Omega Inn on Bolton Lake, and most everyone involved is optimistic that the long-standing problem will be solved.

The DEP administrative order which affects the tenants of the inn, coincides with a court stipulation which affects the owners.

It calls for completion of an engineering study by the end of June. By July 31, plans must be submitted to the DEP; by Aug. 31, construction must begin; and by Sept. 30, the new system must be in operation.

The timetable is similar to one set almost a year ago, which wasn't met. Since that time, the tenants have changed, complicating the problem.

The building, owned by the Negro brothers of Bolton, is being leased to Elizabeth Voyiatzakis, who opened it as the Alpha-Omega last winter. A year ago, the building had been leased by Eaven and Michael Boudreau and was known as The Scenes Inn.

"We realize there's a problem here and we're doing our best to fix it," said Mrs. Voyiatzakis, who, with her husband, Yannis, renovated the inn to open it last December.

One of the main problems under the old tenants, she said, was that the septic system was never cleaned out. In the last six months, the system has been pumped two to three times a week, she said.

And during special events, like last year's outdoor music festival, the system is being pumped two to three times a day, said the inn's general manager, John Gorgoglione.

Both Gorgoglione and Mrs. Voyiatzakis agree with Randy May, a DEP sanitary engineer, who said the state would prefer a more rapid solution to the problem.

But they all agree that a solution is time consuming and costly. A new septic system, which might be required when the engineering study is finished, could cost up to $25,000.

Mrs. Voyiatzakis hired the Tolland engineering firm of Everett O. Gardner & Associates to do the study, which is almost complete. Gardner had been hired last year by the Boudreau brothers to do the same job, but work was stopped when money ran out, officials said.

Because the 1976 timetable wasn't met, the state attorney general's office intervened. A court action has resulted in a lawyers' agreement to try again, under a different financial arrangement.

Richard Webb, the assistant attorney general who has handled the case, said the financial agreement will insure that the work will be done.

"There is now an agreement between the Negro brothers and Mrs. Voyiatzakis whereby she will withhold rent and accumulate money to pay for the engineering phase of the solution," Webb said.

Webb said that although there has been a long-standing violation, Mrs. Voyiatzakis is now proceeding in good faith to solve the problem.

Calvin Hutchinson, Bolton's building inspector, acknowledges an atmosphere of cooperation that hasn't been seen in the past. But he is still bitter about his year of work to get the septic system fixed.

Hutchinson said he sought help from the DEP, the state Health Department, the attorney general, the Liquor Control Commission and local officials.

He said all the state agencies promised help and action at the beginning. "But when it came time for action, they backed off," he said.

"After enough time passes, and if you live long enough, the offenders can be brought to court," Hutchinson said.

Atty. Josiah Lessner, who represents the Negro brothers, admits the problem went unsolved for a long time.

"It was a landlord-tenant problem last year," Lessner said. "Now I think we're on the right track. We've put a lot of money, sweat and our reputation into trying to work it out."

Valuedictorian Kathleen Morianos, in her speech, mentioned the uncertainty of the future, and the possible difficulty of adjusting to adult life.

"As we prepare to enter the world as adults, we are faced with decisions that force us to re-evaluate our priorities."

"It is the tendency of students, as graduation approaches, to look back and evaluate their school years. Very few of us can remember a time when we didn't attend school and therefore it is difficult to imagine never sitting in a classroom or feeling the pride of writing one's own name for the very first time," Miss Morianos said.

State Treasurer Henry Parker, guest speaker for the event, first spoke to the parents: "In spite of difficult times, you have successfully guided your children to their graduation, and for that guidance you deserve our highest praise, indeed a parental medal of honor."

Parker urged the graduates to develop their full potential, and citing words of Robert Kennedy, he told them to dream.

"Throughout history, dreamers have helped to shape the world," he said. "They are responsible for inventions and scientific discoveries that have caused the world to move through the atomic and hydrogen ages and into the space age, within a period of 35 years."

He told the graduates they will grapple with tough problems in the next 50 years, and he told them they can't escape those problems.

"The quality of the solutions you develop to overcome these issues of your day will depend on your ability to dream the impossible dreams and set priorities for their orderly and creative implementation."

"On the one hand, this is a formidable task. On the other hand, it is an exciting and challenging prospect for the next 50 years," Parker said.

Others speaking at the ceremony included Robert Murdoch, president of the Bolton Scholarship Fund, and Joseph Fleming, high school principal.

There was no cap-tossing when it was over. After the benediction, the graduates marched out to Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," and were met by parents' hugs and fistbumps.

Donald Doughty, 26, of 161 Cooper Hill St., Manchester, was charged Wednesday night with failure to grant the right of way at an intersection. He was involved in a two-car accident.

The driver of the other car was William F. Phillips, 18, of 345 Barber Hill Rd., South Windsor. Court date is July 1 in East Hartford.

Four Vernon young persons were arrested Wednesday on Tolland County Superior Court bench warrants on drug charges. The arrests followed a six-month investigation by the Capitol Region Narcotics Squad and the Special Services Unit of the Vernon Police Department.

Charged with illegal sale and possession of LSD were David S. Turner, 19, of 34 Elm St., Rockville; Cynthia Sandberg, 20, of 8 Eastbrook Court apartments, Rockville; and Richard L. Charette, 19, of 1239 Hartford Pike, Vernon.

John J. Brow, 18, of 31 Ridgewood Dr., Vernon, was charged with illegal sale and possession of an hallucinogenic drug. He was charged in connection with a Jan. 20 sale to an undercover agent in Vernon, police said.

Turner was charged in connection with a March 25 sale to Ms. Sandberg in connection with a March 10 sale, and Charette in connection with a March 23 sale, police said.

The four were arraigned in Superior Court in Rockville later in the day and were released on $5,000 surety bonds for court appearance July 5.

Turner was also bound over to Superior Court Wednesday from Common Pleas Court 19 in connection with a June 3 charge of illegal possession of a narcotic substance. A charge of possessing less than four ounces of marijuana wasn't prosecuted in the lower court.

Ms. Sandberg also wasn't prosecuted on the same charge.

Charles S. Farnham, 18, of Merrow, Conn., was returned from Florida Wednesday on a re-arrest warrant issued by Common Pleas Court charging him with violation of probation. He was held overnight in lieu of a $5,000 bond and was to be presented in court today.

Bolton inn septic problem near solution

The state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has set a timetable for fixing the septic system at the Alpha-Omega Inn on Bolton Lake, and most everyone involved is optimistic that the long-standing problem will be solved.

Council debates funding library

The South Windsor Town Council is battling among itself — and will continue to do so Monday — about whether a new library should be built on the site of the old firehouse.

The firehouse, which was approved by the town in referendum, may not be eligible because the federal Economic Development Administration requires certification that work on a project has not yet begun.

Mayor Bender, however, told the audience that the Economic Development Administration has not clarified when it considers a project "begun." Site preparation is now under way for the firehouse and the contract has been awarded, although no construction work has started.

Backing the proposal to apply the public works funds to a much-needed new library were Councilmen Leonard Soroasiak, John Mitchell, Michael Eves and Edward Weisberg. Although four council members voted in favor of making the library first priority for the funds, five votes were needed to make the proposal official.

Councilwoman Cle Decker, who has said she favors the library as top priority, and Councilman John Archibald were absent from the meeting.

Assuming that Councilwoman Decker votes in favor of the library when the council meets again Monday, the town may finally have some funds to put toward the library project, which was turned down twice in referendum.

Both times the voters turned down the library proposal, a large elaborate structure had been proposed. Once the library proposal was defeated as part of the massive Plum Gulley project.

Town Manager Paul Talbot presented two sets of plans for the board. One of the proposals was for a 15,000-square-foot structure and one for a 100,000-square-foot building. The library is now operating in 5,000 feet of store space on Sullivan Ave.

According to Talbot, the 10,000-square-foot building would cost about $642,500. The larger plans would run the town about $831,000. The library has a trust fund, amounting to about $25,000, which would also be applied to the public works funds.

Red Sox hot streak fails to fizzle out

BALTIMORE (UPI) — All the evidence seemed to indicate the Boston Red Sox' amazing hot streak was about to fizzle out.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, a three-time Cy Young Award winner, was protecting a 4-3 lead in the ninth — a situation usually tantamount to an Oriole victory. But the Red Sox had the last word again Wednesday night, with what has become their trademark — the long ball.

After Jim Rice doubled, Carlton Fisk batted Boston's fourth home run off left fielder Pat Kelly's glove into the Oriole bullpen. Butch Hobson added another two-run shot later in the inning as the Red Sox won their sixth straight, 7-4.

"The feeling kept coming across that we'd come back and win the game," said Boston's George Scott, who homered early. "You have to feel that somewhere in the course of the game we're going to explode. Tonight we had two big innings. The rest of the time Palmer was in tall command."

"When you get down 4-1 to a guy like Palmer, it usually stays 4-1, because he's one of the greatest pitchers who's ever pitched," said Fisk. "I thought he was throwing well tonight."

Rash of injuries

Every time Manchester American League baseball Coach Jack Holik looks up recently, another player went down and out of the lineup with an injury.

The current list is occupied by second baseman Frank Livingston (ankle), pitcher-first baseman Mike Jordan (ankle), catcher Mike Linsenbaker (sore arm), infielder Mike Freiheit (sore arm) and pitcher Ken Hill (sore arm). The latter, out of Iling, is out for the summer.

The severest loss is Jordan, expected out another week or so. He was No. 2 man in the rotation and certainly an asset, the presumption based on his performance this past campaign with Manchester High. And there is no telling how well he'll pitch when he does return.

What's been gained by Holik by these misfortunes is the knowledge that he has some depth, reserves who can be called on to fill the bill. Howie Furlong and Dave Bottaro, both out of East Catholic, have taken starting positions and filled the roles admirably.

There is a major difference between this and last year's Post 102 entry — and that's competition — competition for jobs. If someone fails to hustle, Holik won't hesitate to send in a replacement. That wasn't necessarily true last summer. Having players from both high schools — Manchester and East — seems to be most beneficial.

The Junior League program appears to be a success with some fine talent being developed there. Some fees, verbal and otherwise, were raised, that with East Jayvee Coach Al Freitas' help, the junior program would have an all-East look. Those speculative notions have proven groundless.

Yankees end skid

DETROIT (UPI) — If the New York Yankees are indeed out of their slump, the Boston Red Sox will be the first to know.

Stanky, of the "nice guys finish last" philosophy, managed the St. Louis Cardinals from 1963-68 and Chicago White Sox from 1966-68 and has coached at the University of South Alabama the past nine years.

He started his new job with the Rangers Wednesday night and came away with a 10-8 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Stanky was asked if he thought the Rangers, four games behind in the American League West Division, still had a chance to win the pennant.

"Certainly we have a chance," he said. "I believe we've got balance, anything can happen."

But he let his coaches make out the lineup for Wednesday night's game and said that for the moment he'll "just watch and observe and we'll see where we go from there."

Stanky said he had "very deep concern for the man I replaced," who sobbed along with his son when he was bumped from manager to a job as administrative assistant to General Manager Eddie Robinson.

"I was in the same situation with the White Sox in 1968," he said. "I had three of my children crying."

"A manager is like a fellow swimming in the ocean with a cut on his arm. Sooner or later the sharks are going to get him. Do you think I'm going to manage here for 20 years? Hell, no."

'The Brat' returns as Rangers' pilot

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Eddie "The Brat" Stanky is back in big league baseball as new manager of the Texas Rangers — hoping to win a pennant but aware that some day the "sharks" will get him.

The fiery, stubby Stanky, 60, who Leo Durocher described as "my kind of player" when Stanky was with the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, took over a Ranger team he'd never seen play Wednesday, with a multiyear contract.

Stanky succeeded Frank Lucchesi, who was fired.

Bowa muscles Phils to win over Reds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wave back those outfielders, here comes Larry Bowa.

Prior to this season, Bowa had hit just four major league home runs in seven seasons. But in 61 games thus far this year, he's already matched that total.

The latest Bowa homer, however, will probably go down as his most dramatic.

With the Philadelphia Phillies locked in a see-saw slugfest with the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night, Bowa capped a five-run seventh inning with the first grand-slam homer of his career, which led to the eventual 15-9 Philadelphia victory.

The stage was set for Bowa's slam when, with the score tied 9-9, the Phillies loaded the bases and took the lead on a wild pitch by Joe Hoerner. Ted Sizemore was then intentionally walked in order to get to Bowa.

"This was my greatest thrill next to making the big leagues," said the elated Bowa. "Joe Hoerner is a friend of mine and I didn't want to show him up by jumping up and down, but I couldn't help it. I'll have to call my father in California tonight because when he sees the box score tomorrow, he'll think it's a misprint."

The Phillies also got a pair of homers from Mike Schmidt. George Foster had a two-run homer for the Reds and Johnny Bench a three-run shot.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago downed San Francisco, 4-2;

Evans out

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Boston Red Sox right fielder Dwight Evans has a knee cartilage injury and will probably be sidelined at least two weeks, according to club officials.

Evans was hurt in the sixth inning of Wednesday's game against Baltimore. He was hit by a pitch from Jim Palmer, who at one point retired 13 batters.

Evans is expected to miss the rest of the season. He has played in 154 games, hitting .276 with 17 home runs and 105 RBIs.

Evans was acquired from the Oakland Athletics in a trade last year. He was a key contributor to the Sox' success last season, leading the team in RBIs.

Fire truck and voting on Andover's agenda

Andover will have a Town Meeting tonight at 8 at Andover Elementary School. Residents will be asked to appropriate $70,000 from the fire engine fund for a new fire truck. They will be asked to allow the fire commissioners to sell the old fire truck. Residents will be asked to repeal a November 1971 Town Meeting vote which provides that voting hours at referendums would be from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. If the vote is repealed, voting hours for referendums will be from noon to 4 p.m.

More money needed

At its last meeting, the Board of Selectmen decided to send a letter to the Board of Finance, alerting it to the need for money for a bulldozer at the dump and for bleachers at the recreational field on Long Hill Rd.

Dog licenses

Dog owners must license their dogs during the month of June at the town clerk's office. Licenses obtained after July 1 will be subject to a penalty. The cost of a license is $3.50 for unneutered males and spayed females. For unneutered males and unspayed females it is $7.00.

School health visits

In June, the Andover Elementary School health room was visited 647 times. The visits included 149 for illness, 23 for administering medicine, 27 excuses from school for illness, and 448 for first aid.

YMCA plans classes

The Indian Valley YMCA is offering three physical education programs for youth or adults during July. Also during July classes in multi-crafts, sewing skills, photography and magic piano, will be offered to young people. Tennis for beginners aged 9 to 13 will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays starting July 5 at South Windsor High School. Nola Carney will be instructor for tennis. Tennis for teens and adults will be offered Tuesdays and Thursdays on Saturdays. Mrs. Kenneth Goodwin will be instructor. Fundamental techniques of tennis, featuring grips, strokes, positions, and rules will be taught for eight sessions. Judo-Self Defense classes will be taught by Paul Arel starting July 5 at the Middle School, Vernon, and starting July 7 at the Wapping Community Hall, South Windsor. These will be for those aged 6 to 16.

Trust to benefit regional school

Through a trust agreement under the will of the late Ruth T. Britton, the Talbotville School will receive $3,902. The trust fund is classified as a private foundation and must distribute a percentage of its assets to a charitable organization, to avoid a penalty tax. According to the will, $5,000 was left in trust to be used at the discretion of the trustee to benefit the school or schools in the Village of Talbotville. The Talbotville School is a regional school for educable mentally retarded students.

Baskeball clinic for boys and girls

A baskeball clinic for boys and girls aged 8 to 13 will be conducted starting July 11, 18 and 25 with each session lasting one week. These classes will be taught by Tim Forbes at the Middle School in Vernon. Classes in beginning chess will start July 11 for those aged 9 or older. There will be five sessions on a weekly basis at the YMCA office, Vernon Circle. Jonathan Benson will teach. The multi-crafts class for those aged 7 to 13 will start July 7 at the Good Deal Craft Store, Sullivan Ave., South Windsor. The classes will be on Thursdays. Wayne Brethler will teach glass staining, tissue art, fabric painting, shrink art, decoupage, bread dough, fabric flowers, and chenille critters.

Woman gets prize for public service

Mrs. Olga Mele, 58, of East Hartford this morning was among five local community leaders from across the nation to receive the 1977 Thomas Jefferson Award for outstanding public service. The other four included a San Francisco priest who organized a program which feeds 1,200 poor a day, an Arizona woman who founded the Traditional Indian Alliance, a Seattle, Wash. doctor who sparked the emergency medical technician programs now used across the country, and a Massachusetts woman who founded the first mental health clinic in the Marlborough area. Mrs. Mele says her job is just a matter of giving love to those who have none. Mrs. Mele is a bilingual family counselor for the Hartford Community Renewal Team, the latest in a series of community renewal teams she has led for more than a decade with CRT. 64 Bolton graduates focus on the future

By DOUG BEVINS
Suburban Editor

The uncertainty of the future, the drive to succeed, and the need to dream were the words spoken Wednesday night as the Class of 1977 ended its years at Bolton High School.

Sixty-four seniors received their diplomas in a traditional outdoor ceremony which lasted almost until dark.

Most of the ceremony was quiet and serious. Not till the end — and the diploma presentation — was there much noise from the graduates and the audience.

Robert Thornton, chairman of the Board of Education, talked about the so-called "students most likely to succeed." He said all of the Class of 1977 can be successful.

Patricia Maneggia, one of the top five students selected to address the group, noted that the ceremony was a landmark in students' lives. She said each graduate will move further ahead now, not as part of a class but as an individual.

"We will separate, as we each go our own way searching for that which we feel is important," Miss Maneggia said.

Donna Mageau, another senior speaker, offered the only remarks which didn't include references to success in the future.

"I is the tendency of students, as graduation approaches, to look back and evaluate their school years. Very few of us can remember a time when we didn't attend school and therefore it is difficult to imagine never sitting in a classroom or feeling the pride of writing one's own name for the very first time," Miss Morianos said.

State Treasurer Henry Parker, guest speaker for the event, first spoke to the parents.

"Throughout history, dreamers have helped to shape the world," he said. "They are responsible for inventions and scientific discoveries that have caused the world to move through the atomic and hydrogen ages and into the space age, within a period of 35 years."

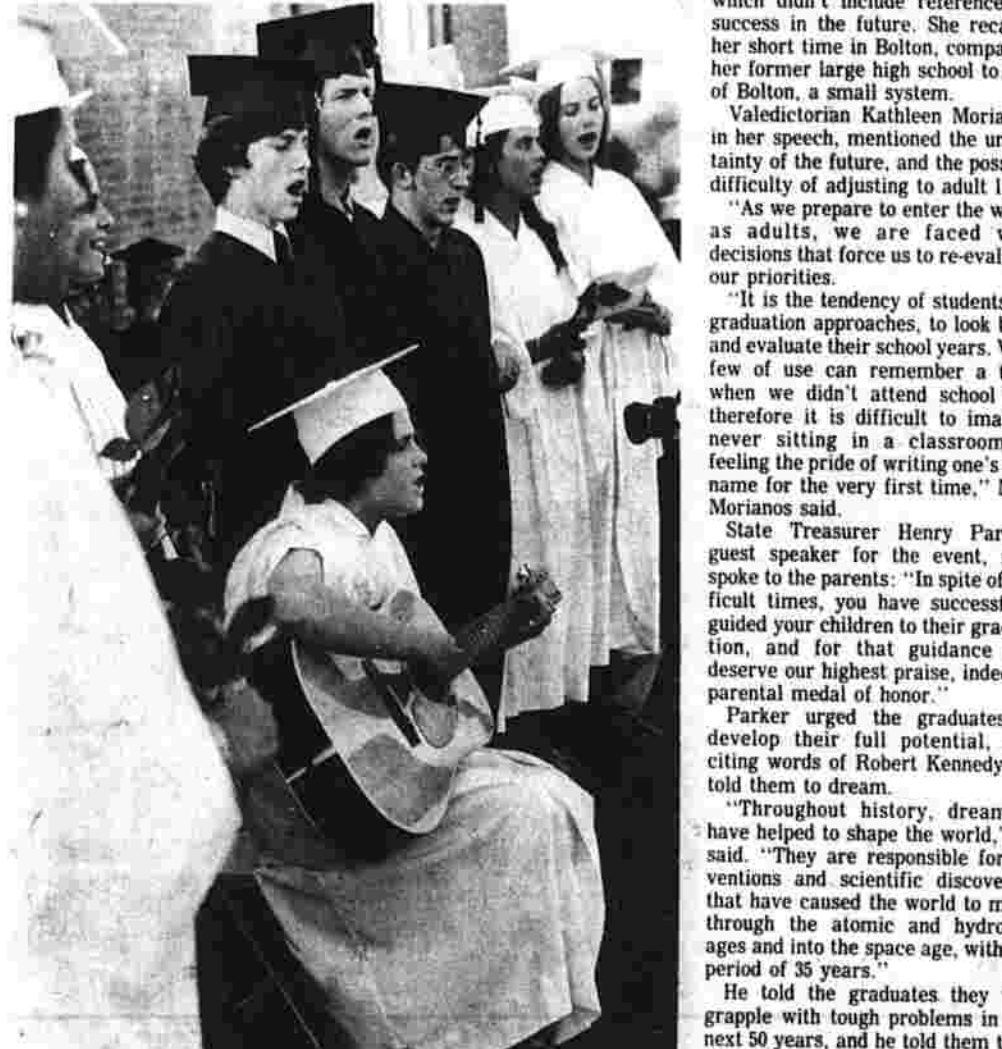

He told the graduates they will grapple with tough problems in the next 50 years, and he told them they can't escape those problems.

"The quality of the solutions you develop to overcome these issues of your day will depend on your ability to dream the impossible dreams and set priorities for their orderly and creative implementation."

"On the other hand, this is a formidable task. On the other hand, it is an exciting and challenging prospect for the next 50 years," Parker said.

Bolton inn septic problem near solution

The State Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has set a timetable for fixing the septic system at the Alpha Omega Inn on Bolton Lake, and most everyone involved is optimistic that the long-standing problem will be solved.

The DEP administrative order which affects the tenants of the inn, coincides with a court stipulation which affects the owners. It calls for completion of an engineering study by the end of June. By July 31, plans must be submitted to the DEP; by Aug. 31, construction must begin; and by Sept. 30, the new system must be in operation.

The timetable is similar to one set almost a year ago, which wasn't met. Since that time, the tenants have changed, complicating the problem. The building, owned by the Negro brothers of Bolton, is being leased to Elizabeth Voyiatzakis, who opened it as the Alpha-Omega last winter. A year ago, the building had been leased by Steven and Michael Boucraud and was known as The Souces Inn.

Council debates funding library

The South Windsor Town Council is battling among itself — and will continue to do so Monday — about whether a new library should get first priority when $436,000 in federal public works funds are delivered to the town.

Site preparation is now under way for the firehouse and the contract has been awarded, although no construction work has started. Backing the proposal to apply the public works funds to a much-needed new library were Councilmen Leonard Sorosiak, John Mitchell, Michael Enos and Edward Haven.

Vernon owes state $5,806

The Town of Vernon has to refund $5,806 to the state because grants awarded by the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) weren't administered in compliance with state guidelines.

Manchester Legion bows

Getting the hits but not the runs last night was the Manchester American Legion baseball team, bowing 5-1 to Bloomfield in a Zone Eight tilt.

Manchester, 3-2 in the zone and 3-4 overall, has a makeup tilt tonight at 8 at Eagle Field against zone foe Rockville. Pete Kiro draws the bill assignment.

Wildness on the part of Manchester starter Ken Brasa hurt his chances.

Two walks, a passed ball and Steve Likke's single resulted in two Bloomfield runs in the first inning.

The winners, now also 3-2 in the zone, added a run in the second on a Bill Clarke rolling homer and another in the third on a single, walk and two wild pitches by Brasa. Bloomfield added its final tally in the fourth against reliever Kevin Hanlon.

Manchester, which outbit Bloomfield 8-5, was able to score in the seventh inning but that was it. Kiro walked and moved to second on a wild pitch. He moved to third on a left fielder's single and scored on Bruce Ballard's single.

The Post 102 entry loaded the bases in the fifth with no outs but Bloomfield reliever Kevin Kearney struck out the next two and got the final out on a force play.

Ballard, Brasa and Howie Furlong each had two hits for Manchester, which stranded 10 on base. Brasa in 2 2/3 innings gave up four runs, four hits, four walks and fanned two.

Western Open begins play

OAK BROOK, Ill. (UPI) — PGA champion Dave Stockton gave a shot of confidence to the field of 154 golf pros and two amateurs beginning the $200,000 Western Open today at Butler National Golf Club.

Playing in the pro-am, Stockton matched the course record of 65 established in 1975 by Dave Graham and John Lister, but because par for the course has been changed from 71 to 72, he was seven under regulation figures, compared to six for Graham and Lister.

His round indicated scores should be about the same as those of the past three years on the same links, or possibly lower, but the performance compared to par will be better.

Par for the 72-hole tournament will be 288 compared to the previous 294, broken only once by Hale Irwin in his 1975 victory, and parred once by Bobby Cole in the same year.

Stockton had 11 pars and seven birdies on his round, including a birdie on the revised 12th. "It was all putting," he said. "I didn't hit the ball that good but I only took 23 putts. It took

Two-time Olympian in sprints on Sunday

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

Among the many outstanding athletes due in town Sunday for part two of the two-day MCC New England Relays will be a 26-year-old sprinter answering to the name of Leighton Priestley.

The former Indiana University sprinter from Jamaica, West Indies, now residing in New York City, completed in both the 1972 and 1976 Olympic Games in the 200 and 400-yard runs. His best times were 45.4 in the 400 and 20.6 in the 200. While a collegian, Priestley reigned as the Big 10 champion for three years.

Priestley will be one of a half dozen former Olympians in the 64-event competition Sunday at Memorial Field's Wigren Track.

The Relays officially get off the mark Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the MCC campus with three and 12-mile runs.

Robert Cox, another former Indiana harrier, and Big 10 880-yard champ, will be another favorite. He and Priestley will compete with the BOHAA.

Kevin Price of the New York Pioneer Club, ICA indoor 600 king, will be in the 440 field. A teammate, Craig Masbach was second best in the ICA indoor mile last spring and is capable of turning in a four-minute performance.

Boston University's Tom Mahan has reigned as both the Yankee Conference and New England 120-yard high hurdles champ as well as a two-time Greater Boston champ. He also won his specialty here last summer.

Mark Duggan of the Greater Boston Track Club is the American record-holder of the two-mile steeplechase and the current national champ in this spring.

Art Kadish of New Haven will defend his crown in the pole vault as will Joe Martens of Manchester and the University of Massachusetts in the high jump.

Rick Kurrick and Bill Rutkowski will be shot put men to keep a close eye on the mile run.

The highlight of the field events will be the National AAU championship 56-pound weight throw with ponderous Al Hall back to defend against the likes of Bob Backus of the New York A.C. Both are ex-Olympians, Hall earning a berth on four occasions and Backus twice.

Competition Sunday starts at 10:15 with the last scheduled at 4:05. The Relays will be staged rain or shine.

Four divisions are listed in both the Connecticut AAU 12-mile and three-mile Saturday. Danny McDaid, Ireland's Olympic champ, will risk his 12-mile crown.

Post entries will be accepted for Saturday's runs but not for Sunday. Deadline for the latter was last Saturday.

Sports briefs

Galento ok'd

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Tony Galento, former heavyweight boxing contender, was reported strong and on his way to recovery Wednesday after an operation to have his left leg amputated.

The 67-year-old boxer, known as "Two-Ton Tony," underwent surgery for a mid-ankle amputation at Beth Israel Hospital, caused by complications of diabetes.

Hours after the operation, a spokesman said Galento was talking about leaving the hospital and going back to work with young boxers in Orange, N.J.

With Jamie Gallagher and Dave Blake combining to toss a no-hitter, the Manchester Junior Legion baseball team blanked Hartford PAL, 3-0, in JC-Courant League play last night at Eagle Field.

Gallagher hurled the first inning, his arm tightening up, with Blake going the final six frames. Blake was helped by a spectacular diving catch of a pop fly by centerfielder Mike Gilbertero in the seventh.

Manchester, now 4-0 in the league and 7-2 overall, scored all its runs in the first inning. Jon Brandt singled and scored on Mike Freiheit's triple off the right centerfield fence. Freiheit scored on a wild pitch. Dave Fournier walked and scored on a Blake double to right.

Kathy Cooney played well defensively for the Bankers, who only had four hits.

Two three-run frames lifted Krause Florist past Credit Union, 8-3, last night at the West Side. Ed Ezzrins doubled and tripled, Chris Schaefer, Phil Foreman and Dave Iobichard each had two hits and Shawn Spears clubbed a two-run homer and fanned 14 in gaining

Vernon council rejects gift of land

The Vernon Town Council has rejected a gift of a piece of land on Chestnut St. The council, in voting against the offer, Tuesday night, asked that a letter be sent to the donors to thank them anyway.

Atty. William Wood Jr., on behalf of his clients, Mary L. Wood and Richard B. Lewis Jr., who own a vacant lot on Chestnut St., said, "It is their hope and desire to convey title to the town as a gift."

He said that in 1959 the town was willing to accept a similar gift conveyance from their mother, Dorothy White Lewis, but the transaction never closed. He said all current real estate taxes have been paid.

Atty. Wood said if the town is unwilling to accept the gift for open space, then the donors would be willing to convey title absolutely to the town, for its general uses and purposes.

The Planning Department and Commission both noted the lot would be worthless to the town at this time and it would have maintenance and liability problems for years to come.

The council, in voting against the offer, Tuesday night, asked that a letter be sent to the donors to thank them anyway.

Executive session

The council went into executive session Tuesday night to discuss insurance problems. Later it asked the Insurance Advisory Board to do the best it can with the $150,000 budgeted for insurance.

The Hartford Insurance Group told the town in May that it didn't intend to renew the town's liability insurance on streets and sidewalks when the existing policy expires July 1.

Arnold Zackin, head of the advisory board, talked with Hartford officials later and they agreed to provide the coverage, but for about triple the cost of the current rate of $45,000.

While recommending that the board do the best it can for now with the money budgeted, the council also agreed the town should continue to take a hard look at a proposal to self insure.

The town is also looking into the possibility of another insurer and will know about this sometime next week.

Self insurance?

Mayor Thomas Benoit has been investigating the possibility of limited self insurance. Under such a plan, the town would assume liability for some of the claims and the insurance company would cover the remaining ones.

Experts in governmental finance claim that self-insurance can work, but is not ideal, for every town; that a major requirement for a self-insurance program is a strong safety and loss control program; if a town decides to buy insurance, it should develop a set of reasonable criteria for the selection of the agent or broker.

In announcing it would be canceling the town's liability insurance, the Hartford Group said its main reason was the increasing number of lawsuits against the town. Most were brought by people who fell on roads or sidewalks in the Rockville section.

But the financial experts said that officials of towns experiencing doubling or quadrupling of their liability premiums often find little relationship between this increase and their own loss experience.

New school committee shows plans to board

Vernon Guidelines for the newly formed Committee on Public Education (COPE) in Vernon were presented to the Board of Education this week.

Joseph Belanger, speaking for the group Monday night said members want to continue to operate over the summer and to have a big push in the fall.

The committee was formed after many parents appeared at several board meetings to complain about problems of communication between school officials and townspeople.

Belanger said the purpose of the new group is to provide a means of direct communication among parents, citizen taxpayers, teachers, students, the Board of Education and the school administration.

It will provide a forum for issues in the Vernon school system and act as a fact-finding body to research issues for the board.

According to committee plans, the membership will be open to the educators and people of Vernon. There will be a coordinating committee of 17 members, made up of one board member, one administrator, one principal, three teachers, nine parents, one citizen taxpayer and one high school student.

A steering committee of the present subcommittee members will be temporarily empowered to act on full committee assignments.

The subcommittee members are Asst. School Supt. Robert Linstone, Miriam Boulet, Gerard Chappellaine, Nancy Chappellaine, Beth Phelps, Lee Belanger and Joseph Belanger.
