

New library gets council's okay

South Windsor
South Windsor library officials left Monday night's special Town Council meeting elated and one step closer to the long-awaited move from their cramped quarters on Sullivan Ave.
The Town Council unanimously agreed to apply $438,000 in public works funds to the construction of a new library. All that is left to do is the formal approval by the federal government.
The other project being considered for use of the federal funds was the new fire headquarters on Ellington Rd. Officials found, however, that the firehouse was not eligible for the grant because it was already under construction.

Town Manager Paul Talbot will submit the library application by July 12. He said he sees no reason why the use of the funds for the library would be turned down.
Councilman Len Sorrosiak, who led the move to use the money for the library, told more than 40 persons at the meeting, "I'm elated over what's been happening tonight. I can't believe we are this close."
The council also unanimously agreed to the larger of two sets of plans suggested by Talbot—a 15,000-square-foot structure, which will cost about $331,500.
The library is now operating in 5,000 square feet of space in the Sullivan Ave. Shopping Plaza. Library Director W. Clayton Massey said the council's approval would be the natural geographic center of the town.
"This is where things will be happening in the future," Massey said. "Plus it has access from the highway to all points in town."
"In a matter of years, building costs will be higher and it will cost more to then add the additional 5,000 square feet," Massey said.
The estimated cost of the library does not include furnishing it. Massey said the present furnishings would fill about 80 per cent of the new structure and the South Windsor Friends of the Library would probably take care of the additional needs.
Three sites were discussed, but the council agreed on building the library close to the Town Hall. Massey said

Coventry balances the books

Approaching the end of the 1976-77 fiscal year, the Coventry Town Council made several decisions Monday night to balance the town's books.
A number of budget transfers recommended by Town Manager Frank Connolly were approved by the council. The council also established a special capital projects fund to take care of expenses which will run over into the next fiscal year.
The budget transfers, totaling $4,303, involved taking surpluses from some town accounts and putting them into areas where deficits are expected. There were more accounts with surpluses than there were with deficits, and Coventry is expected to finish 1976-77 with a total surplus of nearly $6,000.
The transfers approved Monday night involved surpluses in accounts for the Board of Tax Review, registrars of voters, town hall maintenance, town clerk and treasurer, surety, tax sale, and charter revision. Deficits were seen in accounts for the assessor, police, maintenance garage, engineering, insurance, legal fees and dog damage. The capital projects fund, the subject of much discussion before it was approved, was suggested by Connolly to handle special appropriations when payments would be made in more than one fiscal year.

The council unanimously established the fund and unanimously put a total of $11,400 into it. The money is $600 for Robertson School library books, $10,500 for Town Hall alterations, $2,000 for a box culvert on South St., and $1,000 for heating alterations at the Town Hall.
In other business Monday night, the council established a special account to receive and spend about $9,000 in state and federal funds for street signs.
Funds used okayed
In a Special Town Meeting before the Town Council meeting, voters approved allocation of $48,186 in federal revenue-sharing funds.

Less than a dozen voters attended the short meeting, which approved spending $14,700 on general government items and $28,400 on school heating alterations at the Town Hall. The general government items included new equipment for the Board of Health, parks and recreation, the Police Department, and other town offices. Spending was also okayed for street numbering.
The school items were a variety of maintenance and equipment expenditures.

Few are going to the dogs

Andover-Bolton
The neighboring towns of Andover and Bolton, which on occasion have found themselves at odds, are now having the same problem. Neither town is going to the dogs.
With only three days left for dog owners to license their dogs or be subject to a penalty.
Andover Town Clerk Ruth Munson reported she has only issued about 150 dog licenses out of a possible 400, and Bolton Town Clerk Catherine Leiner reported she has only issued about 200 licenses out of a possible 720.

The cost of a license is $3.50 for neutered males and spayed females. For unneutered males and unspayed females, the cost is $7.70.
Licenses may be obtained by mail by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, license fee and necessary information to the respective town clerk's office.
In Andover, licenses may be obtained at the Town Office Building daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. In Bolton, licenses may be obtained from the Community Hall daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Additional cost unveiled for school renovations

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
The Manchester Building Committee Tuesday night learned of additional expenses that might be required at the West Side Recreational Center renovation project.
Richard Lawrence, architect for the project, told of several unbudgeted items which might need to be included in the work.
The most costly of the items mentioned by Lawrence is the replacement of 52 windows in the old wing of the school. Estimates of about $3,000 had been set for repair and patching of the windows, but Lawrence said that several contractors felt this work was not worth doing.
He said that contractors have estimated the cost of the replacement at $30,000-$40,000, but the replacement would result in savings in energy and fuel costs.
The State of Connecticut might also provide funding for the work because of the expected energy saving, Lawrence told the committee. The committee agreed that the window replacement item be included as an alternate in the bid document.
Lawrence also said that improvements in the school's kitchen, particularly expansion of freezer and storage area, will be needed. He estimated this cost at $15,000, but he still has to meet with workers to establish exactly what is needed.

He also read a letter from Travelers Insurance that listed improvements it feels are needed for the school's fire protection system. Some have already been included in the school renovation plan, Lawrence said.
But two—replacement of existing sprinkler head and extension of the system into the new wing—have not, he said.
The replacement of the heads would cost $800 to $1,000, Lawrence said. Committee member Donald Kuehl suggested that the heads be replaced to see if they need to be replaced.
The extension of the sprinkler system into the new wing, which is made of noncombustible material, is not required by building codes governing the project, Lawrence and Committee Chairman Paul Phillips both said.
Lawrence said that the extension of the system would be quite costly. The committee agreed that the drop in fire insurance costs would not be worth the cost of expanding the system.
The committee also decided to in-

Aide sought to get funds for dental health clinic

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter
Manchester health department officials will begin today to find out how they can get a grantman to procure necessary funding for a proposed dental clinic in Manchester.
At a meeting of local health representatives Tuesday, it was learned that a municipal dental clinic may not qualify for Federal Community Development (CD) Funds.
A grantman is a person who is experienced in searching out grants available in various areas. Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, said the health department's budget may have sufficient funds to permit such a grant search. She said she and Ronald Kraatz, assistant director of health, will work together on this project. Today they will contact Susan Addis, state director of health planning, who has contacts who can get funding, according to Dr. Turek.
There are also members on the staff of the North Central Connecticut Health Systems Agency (HSA) who are familiar with available grants that would help the proposed dental clinic.
Dr. Turek said if the group can't get the help it wants from Ms. Addis' staff, it will contact the HSA.
Dr. Turek said Ms. Addis will be invited to speak to the next meeting of the dental clinic committee July 28 at 4:30 p.m. in the health department office.
The proposed dental clinic is planned to serve low-income residents, particularly children, in the seven core area census tracts besides Squire Village and Beechwood Apartments.
The availability of CD funds has been restricted somewhat since the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development has tightened its regulations. CD money might not be available for a dental clinic project, said Alan Mason, community development coordinator.
Mason said it would be difficult to justify an application for a CD grant for a dental clinic under the existing regulations. However, he said the ac-

Decision to keep Gormley protested

HARTFORD (UPI)—Officials of all three branches of state government want a review of the law governing appointment of the state's top prosecutor and Gov. Ella T. Grasso today said she thought the office itself needed to be studied.
The issue came to a head because of the decision Monday by Supreme Court Chief Justice Charles Housie to reappoint Joseph T. Gormley as Connecticut's chief state attorney.
Associate Supreme Court Justice John A. Speziale Tuesday was the first to speak out, strongly criticizing Gormley's reappointment.
Gormley's handling of the Peter Reilly case has been criticized by a special grand jury who investigated Reilly's arrest and prosecution.
"The chief justice should not have the sole authority to appoint the chief state's attorney," Speziale said Tuesday. "Under this arrangement, the chief state's attorney answers only to the chief justice and, in effect, becomes his alter ego."
Speziale said he plans to ask the legislature to "assist the judiciary in addressing this serious problem."
Gov. Ella T. Grasso also suggested a legislative investigation, but she refused to say whether she agreed with Gormley's reappointment.

"Two respected jurists have expressed strong differences on the reappointment of Mr. Gormley. It is obvious there must be a review of the office by the General Assembly," she said.
Mrs. Grasso said today she wants the legislature's Judiciary Committee to examine the entire office of chief state's attorney. She said a review by the committee of Gormley's conduct of the Reilly case would be "inevitable" during such a study.
But she emphasized the review was not intended to be a "witch hunt" and added "I am not asking them (the Judiciary Committee) to investigate individuals."
The House chairman of the General Assembly's Judiciary Committee, Ernest N. Abate, D-Stamford, termed the present process of choosing a chief state attorney "peculiar."
"The Superior Court judges determine who the state's attorneys shall be. So why depart from that procedure in the appointment of the senior law enforcement officer?" Abate said.
Abate said he would welcome a change in the law to allow a panel of judges to appoint the chief state's attorney.
Speziale presided over Reilly's 1974 trial and in March 1976 granted him a new trial. He said on the basis of the grand jury's report alone, "It is obvious that Mr. Gormley has lost his effectiveness to head the judicial department's criminal justice division."
"This action by Chief Justice Housie does nothing to address the problems referred to in the grand jury's report. Nor does it improve the recently tarnished public image of the criminal justice division," Speziale said.
Housie said, "I have no comment whatsoever to make on Judge Speziale's remarks with which I find nothing to agree."
Concerning the way Gormley handled the Reilly case, Housie said, "If it was in error, it was an error in judgment and, after all, we're all human and make mistakes in judgment from time to time."

Top court bars death in murderless rapes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 2 today it is "cruel and unusual punishment" to execute a man for rape when no life has been taken.
The decision that it is unconstitutional to sentence a rapist to death spurs Ehrlich Anthony Coker, a man in Georgia for sexually assaulting a 16-year-old girl in 1972.
The ruling also affects four other men in Georgia and one in Florida awaiting execution for rape.
Justice Byron White dissenting on the last day of the court's current session.
"We have concluded that a sentence of death is grossly disproportionate and excessive punishment for the crime of rape when no life has been taken," White said.
The court said its ruling was in line with "the country's present judgment concerning the acceptability of death as a penalty for rape of an adult woman. At no time in the last 50 years has a majority of the states authorized death as a punishment for rape."
Only Georgia still imposes the death sentence for rape on an adult woman.
The issue of whether the death penalty is "disproportionate" for rape was left undecided last year when the Supreme Court ruled that capital punishment for murder is not prohibited by the Constitution if fairly and evenly administered.
Since the government began keeping records in 1950, 45 men—90 per cent of them blacks—have been executed for rape in America. Before the Supreme Court struck down all existing capital punishment laws in 1972, it has sanctioned the death penalty for rape.

Speed law enforcement

It was announced this week that the State Police now have 36 cruisers equipped with new two-way radar equipment which will permit them to clock motorists coming or going to determine whether the 55 m.p.h. speed limit is being violated.

This is all to the good and we agree with State Police Commissioner Edward Leonard that no amount of law enforcement efforts will totally succeed without public acceptance of and voluntary compliance with the imposed speed limit.

This leads to us to repeat an observation we have made several times and an experience we have almost every time we are on the road.

The motorist going 55 m.p.h. or less is passed up by many other motorists, but the major offenders are the truckers with their big rigs.

We suggest Commissioner Leonard might do more with his new radar equipment to slow down all motorists if he could see just one trucker being ticketed on occasion.

We grant the highway patrol force cannot be everywhere at once, but it appears the truckers are exempt from the speed limit.

Instead of telling us next month that so many thousands of summonses were issued, we'd like to see a breakdown as to how many were given to truckers, to family motorists, etc.

Nothing, we have found, encourages speeding more than to have a huge semi-truck whistle by you at 70 m.p.h. And they do it because the odds of getting ticketed are not as great as they could be.

Keep the Hatch Act

The House voted 244 to 164 the other day to let federal employees take part in partisan politics, which shows that even a bad bill can pass if it has the proper promoters.

In this case, the AFL-CIO and its public employe unions, backed by President Carter, are trying to rewrite the Hatch Act so that federal workers can run for office, make campaign speeches and raise money for partisan political causes. It's a terrible idea and should be rejected when it reaches the Senate later this year.

Why should government workers be used as political foot soldiers? Why should they be pressured to get out the vote for some influential congressman? Or raise money for the next senatorial campaign?

It's easy to forget why the Hatch Act was enacted in 1939. It was enacted because federal employees were being dunned, prodded and otherwise coerced into taking sides politically. The classic example was the 1938 Senate race in Kentucky, where workers on federal projects were told to back Sen. Alben W. Barkley for reelection. Some were fired when they refused.

The bill passed by the House does offer some protection by prohibiting federal law enforcement officers, field inspectors and workers who handle grants, contracts and licenses from taking part in partisan political activity.

But there is no reason why other employees, in other departments, should be considered fair game for political recruitment.

An owlish editor's notebook

By FLOYD LARSON

Now that Connecticut, next to Nevada, is probably the premier gambling state, maybe it ought to consider the proposal made last week by Marlboro, Mass. City Councilor Varoojan Aykanian.

He wants to conduct a raffle with free property taxes as a prize. Of course, Uncle Julius doesn't think much of the idea — he thinks the politicians are doing too much gambling with taxpayers' money. Besides, getting a free ride for one year would only make paying the next year's taxes that much harder.

It now appears that Connecticut's Instant Lottery IV may get off the ground sometime this fall instead of last February.

We wonder who will make book on the outcome of the proposed state law suit against the printer whose low bid was outstripped by an even lower performer? If the state recovers a nickel on the dollar of the $10 million it alleges is lost by the delays, it will know how the average lottery ticket buyer feels. By average, we mean the guy who always buys but virtually never wins.

According to reports, it may be that man's so-called best friend, the dog, will have his relationship with man truly tested. Now, the test won't measure a dog's loyalty to man — that is unquestioned. Instead, if New York legislators follow through on a bill, man's loyalty to his dog will face the ultimate test.

The legislature in Albany last week approved a bill to require dogowners to clean up after their dogs when they relieve themselves in public places.

If the proposal can be made national, it could very easily solve the economic doldrums everyone is talking about. Everybody knows the most miserly man in the world will not stint when it comes to providing for his pet. This is evidenced by the fact it seems like about one-half of the shelf space in almost every supermarket is taken up by pet foods and commodities.

The disposing of doggy litter, once collected under the mandate of law, will present the major problem for American technology (and sociology) to solve.

After all, if dog owners wanted to take care of the doggy litter at home — they would't be walking the mutts, would they?

Does this mean each community must set up doggy litter stations just like we set up litter barrels for candy wrappers and other junk?

Should the dog owner or the general taxpayer be saddled with the burden of establishing and maintaining such stations? How can a government determine the need for the number of stations needed without a dog census? Since a census would reveal a substantial number of unlicensed dogs, will dog owners hide from the census taker thus distorting the census?

This will be a real dilemma for the politicians because they cannot — due to the nature of dogs — let sleeping dogs lie as they are so prone to do in other matters of state.

Corn Patch special: There is this oddie about the two dogs who were talking. "What's your name?" asked one. "I'm not too sure," responded the other, "but I think it's 'Down Boy.'"

Happily, in France, there is wine and wine

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — One glorious evening in Paris I interviewed a French statesman whose well-stocked wine cellar was the envy of friends and enemies alike. He also had two beautiful mistresses he dutifully provided with expensive apartments and the costliest of attire and gems.

In my common way, I jokingly asked what he would do if he were faced with bankruptcy and the choice of doing without either his wine cellar or his girlfriends. "he replied, "one can do without love, but not without art!"

A matter of lifestyle

I am reminded of the occasion a few years ago when the French colony over a good meal and note the reverence my companion pays to the wine. It tells me that despite its frightful politics, a very special France still exists in the matter of lifestyle.

For, whatever his station, the Frenchman has always had a sense of values where the table is concerned. He can go into ecstasy over a superb bottle of wine and reject with shocked indignation one that is merely good. For the French, wine can make or break the day. They will acknowledge that bread (French bread, of course) is the staff of life, and then add that wine makes life worth living.

Good living and bad lives

With Frenchmen, wine is a conversation piece. Heady dispatches from the land of good living — and bad lives — reporting that the latest vintage may turn out to be as good as the great ones of previous harvests will be discussed with joy and enthusiasm far into the night. They will look back nostalgically at the 1929 product, and threaten a punch in the mouth to anyone who dares deny it homage.

Americans generally have found it difficult to understand a Frenchman's — or Frenchwoman's — excitement over a good wine. It seems to some Yankees another sign of what is fondly believed to be the basic decadence of LaBelle France. "Why don't they invent a telephone system that works?" asks the tourist from Brooklyn.

Good wine crop report

But for those in this tired world who seek news of something besides the latest massacres decreed by idiotic dictators and the indolence of the United Nations, a good wine crop report is a pick-me-up. In the rush toward nuclear destruction and rule by smart peddlers, we have been inclined to forget that this special France is still around. A nation that spends so much time drinking and talking about fine wine has less time to make mischief.

Forgetting for a moment France's political sins, even Americans who are chauvinistic about bourbon and brandy can't help but be impressed with the Frenchman's love affair with wine. Wine drinking in France is not simply something one does at meals, or before meals, or after meals — it is a way of life. A Frenchman does not drink wine to quench his thirst or to get loaded; he goes in to savor one of life's cultural experiences.

Attitude is unique

A Frenchman's attitude toward wine is unique, but it may be compared approximately with his attitude toward a pretty girl. In France, a girl with the proper equipment is not merely someone of the opposite sex, she is part of the endowment bestowed on France by a beneficent Nature to add enjoyment and spice to a Frenchman's life.

Happily, too, there is wine and wine, just as there are girls and girls. Rich Frenchmen may enjoy their vintage stuff, but the poor Frenchman is not looked down upon because he is happy with some unassuming wine of the country. What matters is having on your table that magic bottle or carafe so that your life may be enriched and dreams of greatness dreamed.

Carter vs. Tennessee

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With friends like Jimmy Carter, who states he is not a punning blow after another.

Sasser, a Senate newcomer, has been a Carter fan since the days when most of the political establishment was still saying "Jimmy who?"

He first met the former Georgia governor in 1974, when Carter was beating the bushes on behalf of the Democratic National Committee's previously dormant campaign committee, Sasser, at the time, was Democratic chairman of Tennessee, engaged in rebuilding a state party torn by dissension and weakened by GOP victories in 1970 and 1972.

Hit it off

The two "new South" politicians hit it off, and when Carter launched his presidential campaign, Sasser — by then a candidate for the U.S. Senate — began singing his praises all across Tennessee.

When the votes were counted last Nov. 2, Carter had carried Tennessee by 56.8 per cent, a margin second only to his landslide victory in his home state of Georgia. Sasser defeated GOP Sen. Bill Brock by a much closer 52.7 per cent of the vote in the senatorial contest.

Arrive confident

Sasser arrived on Capitol Hill sublimely confident that both he and his constituents would soon be enjoying a shower of federal project and patronage from a grateful Jimmy Carter.

It hasn't worked that way, to put it mildly.

Instead of rewarding Tennessee for its faith in him, Carter has dealt the state one punishing blow after another.

Clinch River

First came his move to kill the Clinch River nuclear breeder reactor, a $2 billion project which Carter opposes because it would produce plutonium and hence pose some potential risks of nuclear proliferation. Then, while the howls from Tennessee were still reverberating, the president announced plans to move a $4 billion uranium centrifuge project from Oak Ridge to Portsmouth, Ohio.

As if that weren't enough, Carter put the popular Columbia River Dam in middle Tennessee on his water "hit list." A Chattanooga munitions plant was closed. A separate munitions plant in Milan, Tenn. is losing a $30 million addition.

And a culback of the state's lone military installation, an Air Force base outside Memphis, provided icing on the cake.

Wants some proof

"From the President on down, they keep telling me they've got great plans for Oak Ridge and for Tennessee. But it sure would be nice to see some proof," Sasser said recently.

"I think Carter really does have a warm feeling toward the state and toward me personally," the senator added with nervous smile, "but there's no question he's making things tough for me now."

Carter may not care much about the ruffled feelings of one freshman senator, but he could be losing away a golden political opportunity of his own by giving such short shrift to Tennessee.

Baker eyes 1980

Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., is almost certain to seek the GOP presidential nomination in 1980 — provided he wins reelection to the Senate next year.

Carter's political operatives would dearly love to nip Baker's ambitions in the bud by knocking him out of his Senate seat. But the President, thus far, has merely given his potential GOP rival valuable political ammunition back home — which Baker is firing off at every opportunity.

"I can't say I blame him," Sasser said grimly. "If I were Howard, I'd be doing the same thing."

Popular politician

Baker has long been the most popular politician in Tennessee, enjoying consistently high approval ratings among Republicans and Democrats alike. Although prominent Tennessee Democrats are standing in line to run for governor next year, there have been no volunteers for the Senate race.

Carter's treatment of the state — and his "friend" Jim Sasser — has not exactly encouraged Democrats to take up arms against Baker.

The purpose of Boys State is to enlighten responsible youth of American form of government, its functions, and its place in the community.

During the week's program, the boys work together organizing local government, meetings, and legislature for the "towns" to which they are assigned. They are also divided into two political parties.

Nutmeg Boys State is a function of the Connecticut Department of the American Legion to develop trained future citizens and leaders of America.

Memorial trees honor A.H. Keeney

Three flowering crabapple trees have been planted on the Keeney St. School grounds in memory of the late Albert H. Keeney, who lived at 172 Keeney St., Leland Dr. area in honor of Mr. Keeney who had befriended the neighborhood children for many years, allowing them to use his pond and the surrounding woodlands for summer fishing and winter skating. He also has had the pond lighted on many winter evenings for family skating.

Some of the young people who contributed funds for the trees are students at Keeney St. School, while others are attending Bennett Junior High School, Manchester High School and various area colleges.

On to College

A couple of thousand years ago, Aristotle said something that's as true today as it was then. "Education," he wrote, "is the best provision for old age."

Even back then, thinking people knew that learning was a key to a satisfying life. And they realized that learning could get a head start through formal education.

With so many demands and pressures on young people today, they can use all the help they can get. That's why we take such pleasure in helping young people with their college education through a special scholarship program we set up more than 20 years ago for sons and daughters of United Technologies employees.

This year, we have 45 winners, most of them from Connecticut.

They'll receive up to $2,000 each for tuition and academic fees for each of four years' study leading to a bachelor's degree at an accredited college or university of the students' choice. The total awards could reach $360,000 by the time they get their diplomas.

Nearly 900 children of United Technologies employees applied for the 1977 scholarships. They were first-rate young people. Picking the winners was tough.

The field was narrowed to finalists through a review of applications, high school records, and test scores. The finalists then were visited at home by company people, who not only met the candidates and their families, but also got to know such pets as dogs, cats, gerbils, snakes, and even chickens. One student went through his interview forcing a smile through painfully puffed jaws where wisdom teeth had been yanked out the day before.

"I'm glad I didn't have to pick the winners," said one of our company interviewers. "Every candidate I met was a well-rounded, likable, smart kid I'd be proud to call my own."

We didn't pick the finalists or the winners. That was done by a selection board whose members — none of whom is connected to our company — are seasoned at evaluating applications for admission to college. The board chose the 45 winners after weighing secondary-school records, test scores, and other indications of probable success in collegiate and post-collegiate life.

Our congratulations to the new winners. Next September they'll enter college as freshmen, joining all the other students who have graduated or are currently studying at colleges and universities under United Technologies scholarships.

Our special wishes go to all of them and their parents.

List of delinquent taxes

First Hartford Realty Corp. and its subsidiary firms operating out of a Parker St. office are the major delinquent taxpayers to the Town of Manchester for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The firms at the 685 Parker St. address owe a total of $62,299.95 in personal property and real estate taxes to the town.

Two other subsidiary firms operating at other addresses owe another $18,000, and the president of the corporation has a pending appeal on $69,000 worth of taxes for three parcels on Broad St.

Taxes are due to be paid to the town in July and January of each fiscal year. Taxes that have not yet been paid are considered overdue for the 1976-77 tax roll figures. The town has sent lien notices to those who owe real estate taxes in an attempt to speed up collection of present year levies.

The town faces a particular problem this year because Collector of Revenue James Turek has forecast a $320,000 shortfall in tax collection. Such a shortfall could result in the town's 1976-77 budget finishing with a deficit.

The following firms at 685 Parker St. owe the specified amount in real estate and property taxes to the Town of Manchester: First Hartford Realty Corp., $1,734.57; First Hartford Corp., $5,126.94; F.T.C. Corp., $1,014.34; EF Associates, $41,722.24; Green Manor Construction Co. Inc., $1,102.76.

Two other connected firms, not listed at the Parker St. address, also owe taxes, according to the tax list compiled at the end of May. They are Journal Publishing Co. Inc., 306 Progress Dr., $11,128.05, and Manchester Modes Inc., this time listed at Pine St., $5,508.17. Turek said that he has been told both payments will be made by June 30, which is the end of the fiscal year.

Neil Ellis, listed in the town directory as president of both Green Manor Construction Co. and First Hartford Realty Corp., also has appealed taxes on three Broad St. parcels.

The taxes, which total $69,595.22, are listed under the names of Neil Ellis and Constance Kaplan, 685 Parker St.

Other firms and individuals also owe substantial amounts to the town. Those who have outstanding tax debts of over $5,000 are in alphabetical order (The address listed is the mailing address. The taxes may actually be owed on other properties):

State dropping suit against dead woman

HARTFORD (UPI) — When Mrs. Carline Toner was killed in a traffic accident, the state sued her for $34.15 — the cost of cleaning up the accident.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso said Tuesday, however, the suit was being dropped.

"This is an unfortunate and regrettable incident. We can all appreciate the requirements of the law. However, there are circumstances when mercy tempers justice," Mrs. Grasso said.

"I am pleased to know that the state Department of Transportation is withdrawing its suit in Small Claims Court against the estate of Carline Toner," she said.

The South Windsor woman was killed when her station wagon was struck by a garbage truck as she pulled into traffic on Rt. 5 in East Windsor. A coroner later found Mrs. Toner at fault.

A law passed by the 1977 session of the State Legislature will permit 17-year-olds to pre-register to vote beginning July 8.

Any 17-year-old Manchester resident who will become 18 before Nov. 8, Election Day, and is a U.S. citizen can pre-register in the registrars office — open Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. — or the town clerk's office — open Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The new state law is aimed primarily at those 17-year-olds who will be attending out-of-town

Heritage Savings
Loan Association • Since 1891

A Message from the President

As you know, throughout the years equity and fairness have been the trademarks of Heritage mortgage loans to all home buyers. That's why, in compliance with the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act of 1975 requiring mortgage loan disclosures from all banking institutions, we are proud to make our disclosure statement available to you, our community. I invite you to stop in at either our main office at 1007 Main Street in Manchester or our K-Mart branch on Spencer Street in Manchester and inspect the mortgage loan disclosure of your bank. I will be happy to personally entertain any comments or suggestions that you might have. For your easy reference, the following paragraph outlines the categories represented in the statement:

Loans on properties located within this standard metropolitan statistical area have been itemized by census tract. Loans on properties located outside this standard metropolitan statistical area are reported on in total by the metropolitan areas in which those loans are located. Loans are itemized by conventional mortgage loans, loans insured or guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration and home improvement loans. Loans on multi-family dwellings of more than four units are reported on separately.

It is my, and the board of director's, promise to you that the lending policy of Heritage Savings and Loan Association will continue to be fair and equitable to all home buyers. When funds are available, loans will continue to be granted to any qualified buyer of property which is adequate security for a loan. This is more than a promise, this is the policy of Heritage Savings.

English project may be forerunner for solar-energy heated home

A high school English project may be the forerunner of things to come in the housing industry, specifically the solar-heated home industry.

Paul Turek Jr. of 468 Vernon St. chose to write about an experimental solar energy program for fourth-quarter independent study English assignment recently.

Finding the challenge increasingly involved, he decided to build a model to illustrate his paper. Called "Solar One," the model is constructed according to a design that appeared in a mechanics publication.

After he completed his English paper, he said he felt limited by his inability to describe what he really meant. Building the model and drawing the blueprint of the energy process fulfilled his purpose.

The model is designed from a test model built in 1973 by students at the University of Delaware. Students there are experimenting with a new kind of cells called cadmium sulfide, in the roof solar collectors.

Turek said the new cells convert solar radiation directly into electricity. They're cheaper than solar cells, Turek said.

Instead of a rock bed normally used as the medium for holding solar heat, the experimental home uses a heat storage tank of liquefied salt. The salt heats the air which warms the house. The system would also

Pension board okays four retirements

The Manchester Pension Board Monday approved retirements for four Board of Education employees.

All four of the workers were granted retirements effective July 1. They are: Marjorie Boland, who began work in the school system in September 1962; Kathleen Luby, who started in July 1962; Helen Nielsen, who began in September 1963; and Ethel Rollason, who started in September 1968.

Ms. Rollason's is a normal retirement; the others are early retirements.

Water law is signed

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso said Tuesday she has signed legislation that regulates the sale, lease and assignment of water company lands.

The legislation will protect 130,000 acres of watershed lands from uncontrolled sale and development, she said.

"The new law will also preserve the purity and adequacy of public drinking water supplies affected by the watershed lands," she said.

Under new law, the Public Health Council must adopt minimum standards to assure the long-term purity of the drinking water supply for the state.

It also divides watershed lands into three categories and sets specific standards for each of the categories. And it requires the state health commissioner to report by Dec. 1, 1980 to the legislature how the system is working and whether any changes are needed.

Apathy and Third Reich

By TERRY ANZUR

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Andreas Wegener fights apathy in inner-city America because the history of his native Germany tells him where it could lead.

"Apathy is the base for fascism, what happened in the Third Reich," said Wegener, a 22-year-old with shoulder-length blonde hair from Hanover, West Germany. "It's important to make people aware of what's going on so they can help themselves avoid that kind of government."

Wegener has spent the past year as a community organizer in Providence's downtown Elmwood neighborhood under a program begun in 1968 by German Roman Catholics to atone for the war crimes of Hitler and the Nazi party.

"We wanted to show that Germans can do something constructive instead of destructive," he said. "We felt

Talks set on park booze ban

Vernon

The Vernon Town Council will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building to read and adopt an ordinance to prohibit alcoholic beverages in town parks.

Ordinarily, proposed ordinances go to public hearings before action by the council. But because this ordinance falls under the emergency category, the council, according to the Town Charter, may act and put it into effect immediately.

On request of Police Chief Herman Fritz and James Roche of the Recreation Commission, Martin Burke, town attorney, was directed to draft the ordinance.

The requests were prompted by problems in Henry Park and Valley Falls Park with crowds gathering and drinking and making it unpleasant for others.

The special meeting will also be asked to give Mayor Thomas Benoit permission to sign Comprehensive Employment Training Act programs under a new provision which allows the town to hire workers for a specific job.

The town is expected to receive $281,000 to clean up the Hockanum River and $85,339 for a Bolton Lakes drainage survey.

The Bolton Lakes project was in the engineering budget but was deleted by the Town Council.

A project coordinator, three each of crew leaders, equipment operators, and rodent exterminators, plus 15 laborers will be needed for the river program.

For the lake project, one civil engineer, two surveyors and six engineering aides will be needed.

The council will also discuss an ordinance concerning extension of sanitary sewers in several areas of town.

Rec programs planned

The Vernon Recreation Department has planned a variety of programs for the summer months. Registrations for the programs, the present youth officer is a member of the Police Department.

The suggestion was made by Deputy Mayor Robert Myette, who said he doesn't think a police officer can effectively "play the role of youth officer part time and police officer the rest of the time."

lessons can be made at the office, 26 Park Pl.

The municipal playground program started this week at eight neighborhood sites—Henry Park, Legion Field, Vernon Elementary, Maple Street, Skinner Road, Lake Street and Center Road Schools.

A new playground is being added this year at Boulder Ridge Park, a 13-acre site off Tunnel Rd. Registration should be made at the playground to be attended.

Tennis lessons will be offered for boys and girls aged 9 or older. It will be a six-lesson course with each class to meet two mornings a week for three weeks.

Two classes in ballet are also being offered, one for pre-schoolers aged 3 to 5 and the other general ballet for those 6 to 11.

Another program is the theater workshop on mornings at Rockville High School. For the first time, the department will sponsor a wrestling camp evenings at the high school.

Funds coming for road work

South Windsor

Pleasant Valley Rd. — one of the South Windsor streets expected to feel the effects of the Manchester J.C. Penney warehouse traffic — has been included in the Transportation Improvement Program and will receive state matching funds to help South Windsor pay for road improvements.

The Transportation Committee of the Capitol Region Council of Government (CROC) has amended its program to include the road. The addition of Pleasant Valley Rd. must now be approved by CROC's policy board.

Pleasant Valley Rd. has been accepted into the federal Urban Systems Program, which will pay for 70 per cent of the improvements.

Because the road has now been accepted into the Transportation Improvement Program, the state will pay 15 per cent and South Windsor will pay 15 per cent of improvement expenses.

Town officials are concerned about the traffic impact on many local roads, once the massive Penney warehouse is built in Manchester near the South Windsor line.

Many South Windsor officials fear the roads are not adequate to handle the wear and tear created by commuting cars to and from the Manchester area.

South Windsor Mayor Sandra Bender feels the construction of the proposed I-291, which will cross into South Windsor near the Bussell Bridge, will eliminate some of the traffic impact.

However, the new highway is not expected to reach South Windsor until the early 1980s. There are some local residents who are opposed to the effect they believe I-291 will have on the environment of the town.

New youth officer?

The South Windsor Town Council is investigating the cost of hiring a youth officer and will meet with the local Community Service Council to discuss the matter.

Myette said he believes the youth officer should be an employee of the Social Services Department rather than the Police Department.

Howard Fitts of the Community Service Council said he also feels the role of youth officer would not be confused with police officer.

The council is expected to discuss the matter, along with suggestions for obtaining the funds necessary to hire a person for the Social Services Department.

On second thought

Mother Nature is no friend of mine!

Last month when a friend offered to come to work with his tractor and plow up a "little" garden, I was so overwhelmed by his generosity that I said "Yes!" I never considered the fact that I don't know a hoe from a rake or that my husband, bless his heart, doesn't even want to know.

The "little" garden our friend plowed for us measures six rows wide and is longer than my 40-foot garden hose stretched to full length. The "very sight of it exhausted me."

"Don't worry. There's nothing to it," said our friend. "Just plant your seed, add some fertilizer, and with a little help from Mother Nature, you're bound to have a bumper crop."

Using the philosophy "no work, no eat," I recruited the whole family to help with the planting. It was a full day's job. We put in tomatoes, egg plant, bush beans, radishes, bell peppers, hot peppers,

Anderson-Stearns

Darlene Anita Stearns of Brookfield and Mark Joseph Anderson of Manchester were married June 25 at St. Joseph's Church in Brookfield.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Madeline Stearns of Brookfield and Darrell Stearns of Newtown. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Anderson of 104 Columbus St.

The Rev. James Dennis of St. Joseph's Church in Brookfield performed the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with gladioli, daisies and spider chrysanthemums. James Keane of Brookfield was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an organza gown designed with a lace bodice, open lace on sleeves with pearl appliques and circular skirt. She wore a picture hat with matching lace and appliques and carried a bouquet of spider lilies, daisies baby's breath, spider chrysanthemums and carnations.

LeFlore keys Detroit past slumping RSox

DETROIT (UPI)—The key to the Detroit Tigers is often found in Ron LeFlore's shoes. LeFlore's fleet feet and stinging bat churned out three hits Tuesday night... The game-winning single with two out in the ninth inning, and he figured in all three runs of a 3-2 Detroit victory that was the fifth straight loss for the Boston Red Sox.

The pitching staff, LeFlore probably means just as much to the offense. He singled in the fourth and scored all the way home on Tito Fuentes's double to left. Then he set up the run that negated Boston's home runs by Boston's Fred Lynn, who hit his seventh in the first, and Carl Yastrzemski, who belted his 13th leading off in the first. Tim Corcoran pinch-hit a bloop single to center off the end of his bat in the ninth—a ball Lynn would have caught had he not reacted naturally to Corcoran's mighty swing by taking a step back. LeFlore, attempting a sacrifice, then pushed a bunt past between the pitcher and third baseman and beat it off for a single. That hit Fuentes sacrifice

Baseball Taylor no-hitter paces Moriarty's

ALUMNI JUNIOR Behind the two-hit, 12-strikeout performance of Shawn Spears, Krause Florist applied the whitewash brush to Manchester State Park, 10-0, last night at the West Side. Spears added his own cause with two hits including a solo home run. Moriarty pitched last night at ML. Nebo. Taylor tossed a no-hit, no-run game for Moriarty's in a 4-0 decision over Society for Savings. It was the first pitching gem of the season and boosted the locals over the 500 mark at 4-3 and second place in the

It went down to the wire as Carl Guzzardi's two-out single scored Mike Furlong with the winning run giving unbeaten East Hartford a 1-0 Zone Eight decision over Manchester hurler Bruce Manchester last night at Shea Park. The victory boosted the Zone 7 entry to 7-0 in the zone and 9-4 over-all.

Determination, and skill exhibited by Chris Evert

WIMBLEDON (UPI)—It takes determination as well as skill to win the world's most prestigious tennis tournament. Defending champion Chris Evert has displayed both qualities in Wimbledon this year and that's why nobody is betting against the Florida "Ice Maiden" in her bid to win the 100th year of Wimbledon. Evert showed she has no place for sentiment in the way she dispatched 14-year-old Tracy Austin and six-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg advanced toward their expected clash in the final of the men's event. Borg looked the more impressive of the two in Tuesday's quarterfinals.

Reason for absence

If anyone deserved appearance money, or as the AAU feels, travel fee, it would be Burfoot. He didn't ask for any travel money or try to hold up MCC officials. The former Westway star was anxious to help promote a race the following day in his hometown, a race that helped propel him into the national spotlight over the past decade and decided it would be too much to run both days, especially in semi-retirement.

Royals find missing link

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Kansas City Royals appear to have found the missing link that has prevented them from making a serious bid to retain their American League West championship—the strong right arm of Dennis Leonard. Leonard, a 17-game winner last season, appears to have come off an extended "vacation." He performed poorly in the final six weeks of last season and he began this season in much the same fashion as he had last season, struggling to remain in contention in the division race.

Hough offers helping hand

NEW YORK (UPI) Charlie Hough figures the least he can do is help Tom Lasorda win a National League pennant in his first season with the Los Angeles Dodgers. Hough pitched in the first game of the season when Lasorda was in his prime, and later when his name was still big in the track world, he traveled from coast to coast to compete and throughout Europe. It cost money and meet promoters were willing to make it worth his while.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I realize that the water shortage in my area has caused a great deal of inconvenience for some, but count us as a couple for whom it has been a real blessing...

DEAR J AND J: Can it then be said that "the family who bathes together stays together"?

DEAR ABBY: My husband saves newspapers and magazines. We've been married nearly 12 years, and each year I have begged him to get rid of the two daily newspapers...

DEAR DESPERATE: Tell him that he has met such a nice girl to make room in the garage to store the lawn furniture...

DEAR ABBY: You claim there's no such thing as a "trig-dear"—only clown men.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married almost 12 years, and each year I have begged him to get rid of the two daily newspapers...

THE FAMILY LAWYER
by Will Bernard

Anyone facing a serious criminal charge, if too poor to hire his own lawyer, is entitled to have one provided by the state. But which lawyer? May the accused person insist on naming whomever he pleases? Could he, for example, demand "the best lawyer in town?"

In most cases courts have refused to give him that much leeway. One judge commented: "The Constitution does not assure every man that only a leader of the bar will speak for him. Even the State cannot command such representation; most criminal cases are prosecuted by young men who have yet to be acclaimed but who are not in the least unequal to their responsibility on that account."

Courts are also wary when an indigent defendant, after being found guilty, blames the outcome on bad work by his lawyers.

"Monday morning quarterback," said one court in dismissing such a complaint, "always would have won the game. hindsight is easier than foresight."

Nevertheless, even though the indigent defendant is not entitled to special treatment, he is indeed entitled to competent representation. If he does not get that, he has been cheated of his constitutional right to a fair trial.

One man pleaded guilty to a fraud charge only because his court-appointed lawyer warned him mistakenly that otherwise he faced a long term in jail.

Another man, convicted of burglary, pointed out that his court-appointed lawyer was functioning in an alcoholic haze during most of the trial.

In both of these cases the defendant was held entitled to a new hearing. Such proceedings, as one judge put it, were "a mockery of justice."

He added: "Even the worst criminal is entitled to his day in court."

Q — I have a $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. I would like to know if I can change my beneficiary designation through my last will and testament?

A — No. Your request for a change in beneficiary should be sent to the VA insurance center where your premiums are paid.

Q — I was receiving educational assistance under the GI Bill last semester. I terminated school attendance in the middle of the term and received two checks to which I was not entitled. I have been receiving notices to repay this debt. Since I plan to resume training sometime in the future, can I defer payment until then?

A — No. The indebtedness will have to be liquidated. Please contact the Veterans Administration Center, Federal Building, Fort Snelling, St. Paul, Minn. 55111, ATTN: Centralized Accounts Receivable Section, to arrange for repayment.

Q — I am a widow receiving Dependency and Indemnity Compensation. If I become employed, will this employment have any effect on my DIC? Also, does my late husband's estate affect my benefits?

A — No, income and corpus of the estate are not factors in determining a widow's qualification for DIC.

Q. What's this I hear about getting a driver's license with a photo?

A. Starting with drivers who renew their licenses after July 1, there will be photo licenses. However, the four-year photo license will be issued only to those born on an odd day of the month. Those born on an even day of the month will get a two-year, non-photo license. All new drivers after July 1 will receive a photo license. More than two million Connecticut drivers will receive a photo license over the next four years. Renewal date will be the driver's birthday.

Q. What will the new license look like?

A. It will be about the size of a credit card and be sealed with a wallet-size vinyl pouch. It will be a colored photographic print in which all elements of the license — photo and signature of the driver, personal information and validating signature of the commissioner — are combined into a single image.

Q. What if the picture comes out with my eyes closed from the flash? Will I have to come back?

A. No, on-the-spot issuance guarantees that a driver won't have to make a second trip to DMV to be rephotographed. The issuing person sees the photo one minute after it is taken. If the subject blinks or looks away, the employ can reshoot it and send the driver away with a valid and permanent license.

Q. What is the renewal cost?

A. The fee is unchanged from the current $5 per year, for a total of $20 for the four-year period. There is also a $1 fee to cover administrative and personnel costs, as well as firm and equipment.

Andorra Tucked into the Pyrenees mountains between France and Spain, Andorra has enjoyed effective sovereignty since 1278. Officially a principality, it was two nominal co-princes to whom it pays annual tribute — the president of France, 660 francs, and the Spanish bishop of Urgel, 400 pesetas. Actual government, however, is conducted by a 24-member Council-General.

Youths are 'park rats'

By MAL BARLOW
 East Hartford Reporter

They call themselves park rats.

In the summer, out of school, and without a job, East Hartford's young people often have no where else to go but its parks.

They range in age from as young as their mothers will permit to their early 20s.

Richard Balesano, 19, of 211 O'Connell Dr. said Tuesday he spends most of his time at Gorman Park during the summer. He swims, plays pickup baseball and just hangs around.

"I'm looking for a job," he said. "I haven't had any luck so far. But I'll do anything."

He's been out of Penney High School for several years, doesn't have a driving license, and isn't sure what he wants to do. He's too old now to play in the Park and Recreation Department summer softball league.

"I hang around the park at night too," Balesano said. "I'm a parkie, a park rat."

Mark Lewis, 15, of 16 Burke St. is both better and worse off than Balesano because of his age. He is too young to hope for a good summer job. But he's still young enough to get into the sports programs at Gorman Park.

Lewis will play on the park's basketball team. He also swims a lot in Lord Pool at the park and plays pickup games of baseball, softball and stickball.

He said he's phoned for jobs on Glastonbury tobacco farms. But they don't need any more, he said.

Lewis will be a sophomore this fall. He said he hopes to get into Penney's computer program by his junior year so he can become a computer processor.

About the only adventure he expects this summer might be trying to hitchhike to the beach. He's never done it before. His brother, Tony, 13, said their mother wouldn't like that.

Neither youth has a steady girl friend. They said there are no places to take them for dates anyway. East Hartford does not have the kind of hang out such as Arnold's in the TV show "Happy Days."

Balesano said East Hartford must be worse than other towns, especially in the summer.

Lewis disagreed saying, "It's good around here. I like the sports."

Frank Cipolla, 23, the Gorman Park supervisor in the summer, defended what the park offers.

"Kids have to be led by the hand to do anything," he said.

Things to do at Gorman include weight lifting, pee wee baseball, basketball, tennis on four courts, a baseball clinic, a popular stickball court, swimming and paddle tennis on a court painted by Mark Paris, park maintenance man.

A girl, Karen Kuckel, 13, of 60 Green Manor Dr., said there's not enough sports for girls.

"She's got a legitimate beef there," said Cipolla. "The girls are a little slighted."

Another park rat, Paul Cordello, 14, disagreed with the older park rats and Karen.

"The sports are great here," he said.

Parent accused of harassment

The mother of a Burnside School first-grader has been trying to harass the boy's teacher, according to Principal Norma Kibbe.

The principal accused the mother, Mrs. Sandra Dutra, of spending long hours in the teacher's classroom, of making frequent complaints about the teacher and the school, and of exaggerating an alleged spanking incident.

Mrs. Dutra said in May that Mrs. Patricia McCabe, her boy's teacher, had "smacked" him on the behind. "If anyone lays a hand on my child," she said, "it'll be me."

She said her child came home after the incident highly upset. He was afraid to go back to school. She said he was under a doctor's care after it.

"Kevin is a very lovable, likeable child," she said. "Mrs. McCabe admitted she did it. She can't control her temper."

Mrs. Dutra said Mrs. McCabe's classroom had 31 students, which violates the Board of Education maximum class size. She said Mrs. McCabe yelled at her students constantly.

Mrs. Dutra said she is concerned about Woodland School students coming to Burnside in the fall. Woodland is closing and its 100 students have been reassigned to Burnside, which had about 380 students this past school year. About 80 of the Woodland students are expected to attend in the fall. Some of the rest will attend Langford school and other schools by using the open enrollment program.

Mrs. Dutra praised the Woodland School. "I requested a Woodland teacher for Kevin next year. When I toured Woodland, you could have heard a pin drop. After a day at Burnside, I needed a tranquilizer. There's no reason for all that yelling.

"It's too bad they're closing down Woodland," Mrs. Dutrasaid.

Miss Kibbe said, "We are aware of the allegations by Mrs. Dutra. A full investigation of them has been made by the school administration."

"The principal has met with Mrs. Dutra often. The school concludes at this point that Mrs. Dutra's actions are designed to harass the classroom teacher."

Miss Kibbe did not deny that Mrs. McCabe, a mother of seven and teacher for eight years, did spank Kevin in May.

School Supt. Eugene Diggs said the teacher "swatted" him once. He said he considers the matter closed.

School board Chairman Larry DePonte said the board will investigate the case further. He said spanking is against board rules.

"We are going to find out what's going on," he said.

The board will discuss the case in closed session Tuesday night.

Sam Leone, assistant superintendent, said earlier this year the U.S. Supreme Court's decision that teacher discipline does not violate the Constitution did not affect East Hartford. Local rules prohibit physical discipline, he said.

East Hartford police report

State police picked up two young East Hartford men hitchhiking in Colchester after midnight Tuesday. Investigation revealed they had just been involved in a one-car accident with a car stolen Monday night in East Hartford, police said.

David A. Bliven, 22, of 27 Highland St., and Roger D. Kimball, 16, of 40 Christine Dr., were both charged with second-degree larceny. They appeared in Common Pleas Court 12 Tuesday and their cases were continued to July 12. They were released on $2,000 surety bonds.

They had allegedly stolen a local resident's car from 113 Tolland St., police said.

Roland D. Moss, 18, of 55 Williams St., East Hartford, was arrested Tuesday night and charged with procuring liquor for minors and possession of less than four ounces of marijuana. He was held overnight on $100 surety bond for court appearance today.

Barbara J. Shaw, 37, of 13A Howard Court, East Hartford, was arrested Tuesday at the J.M. Fields store on Silver Lane and charged with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting). Court date is July 18.

Game results reported

Little League
 The National League's champion farm team, IOOF, edged the Eastern League champs, K of C, by 6-5 Tuesday night at Gorman Park.

IOOF pitcher Denny Welles had 12 strikeouts and hit the game-winning triple.

In the sixth inning after two outs, the IOOF scored twice to knot the score at 2-2 sending the game into extra innings. IOOF had to come from behind three times before winning.

IOOF got strong help from Tom Dionne who struck out eight.

The IOOF team will next meet the American League farm champs (not yet determined) in the town championship game next Tuesday at Labor Field at 6 p.m.

Neil Welles, shortstop for the IOOF Little League team, showed Tuesday night he is back in form after a knee injury. He made an unassisted double play as his team beat Exchange 7-3 at McAuliffe Park.

Dave Young and Doug Smith of IOOF hit home runs.

St. Marys topped Rotary 4-2.

Summer basketball
 In the East Hartford's Men's Evening Basketball League Thursday, Hose Co. 3 closely trailed Elm/400 throughout the contest. At the end of the game, the score was Elm/400, 63, Hose Co. 3, 58.

Elm's scoring was consistent, with John Dixon hitting for 16 points, followed by Al Pressamarita with 15 and Bart Pettit with 14. Hose Co. 3 was led by Jim Fagen with 24 tallies and Pat Ryalls and Neil Guerin each contributing 10.

The next game, between Hockanum and Forans, went all the way to the last whistle.

The lead changed hands for the last time within four seconds remaining and Hockanum ahead. Final score was Hockanum, 72, Foran's, 70.

Scoring for Hockanum was led by Michael Mack with 22 points and Nick Demarco with 20. Foran's scoring saw Tom Foran popping in 16 and Tony Foran and Ken Lane added 12 points each.

Women's softball
 In a nip and tuck game, Lion's Den outlasted Ferrando's 10-9 in 10 innings of women's softball Tuesday night.

Mary Fay led the 9-1 Lion's Den with three hits, including a game-winning single.

Jan Tirinzonie, Donna Miano, Molly MacFarlane and Pat Wood each had two hits. The Den's heavy hitter, Pam Cooper, was intentionally walked twice.

Tricia Callahan and Sue Tyska, members of the 7-3 Ferrando's club, each had two hits for the losers.

The Lion's Den women's softball team will play the Sanitary Waste team Thursday at McAuliffe Park under the lights. Game time is 9 p.m.

Talks set on park booze ban

Vernon

The Vernon Town Council will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building to hear and adopt an ordinance to prohibit alcoholic beverages in town parks.

Ordinarily proposed ordinances go to public hearings before action by the council. But because this ordinance falls under the emergency category, the council, according to the Town Charter, may act and put it into effect immediately.

On request of Police Chief Herman Fritz and James Roche of the Recreation Commission, Martin Burke, town attorney, was directed to draw up the ordinance.

The requests were prompted by problems in Henry Park and Valley Falls Park with crowds gathering and drinking and making it unpleasant for others.

The special meeting will also be asked to give Mayor Thomas Benoit permission to sign for Comprehensive Employment Training Act programs under a new provision which allows the town to hire workers for a specific job.

The town is expected to receive $281,500 for a Bolton Lakes drainage survey.

The Bolton Lakes project was in the engineering budget but was deleted by the Town Council.

A project coordinator, three each of crew leaders, equipment operators, and rodent exterminators, plus 15 laborers will be needed for the river program.

For the lake project, one civil engineer, two surveyors and six engineering aides will be needed.

The council will also discuss an ordinance concerning extension of sanitary sewers in several areas of town.

Rec programs planned

The Vernon Recreation Department has planned a variety of programs for the summer months. Registrations for the programs, the day camp at Newbova, or general swim lessons can be made at the office, 26 Park Pl.

The municipal playground program started this week at eight neighborhood sites — Henry Park, Legion Field, Vernon Elementary, Maple Street, Skinner Road, Lake Street and Center Road Schools.

A new playground is being added this year at Boulder Ridge Park, a 13-acre site off Tunnel Rd. Registration should be made at the playground to be attended.

Tennis lessons will be offered for boys and girls aged 9 or older. It will be a six-lesson course with each class to meet two mornings a week for three weeks.

Two classes in ballet are also being offered, one for pre-schoolers aged 3 to 5 and the other general ballet for those 6 to 11.

Another program is the theater workshop on mornings at Rockville High School. For the first time, the department will sponsor a wrestling camp evenings at the high school.

To learn more, contact the recreation office.

Funds coming for road work

South Windsor

Pleasant Valley Rd. — one of the South Windsor streets expected to feel the effects of the Manchester J.C. Penney warehouse traffic — has been included in the Transportation Improvement Program and will receive state matching funds to help South Windsor pay for road improvements.

The Transportation Committee of the Capital Region Council of Government (CROG) has amended its program to include the road. The addition of Pleasant Valley Rd. must now be approved by CROG's policy board.

Pleasant Valley Rd. has been accepted into the federal Urban Systems Program, which will pay for 70 per cent of the improvements.

Because the road has now been accepted into the Transportation Improvement Program, the state will pay 15 per cent and South Windsor will pay 15 per cent of improvement expenses.

Town officials are concerned about the traffic impact on many local roads, once the massive Penney warehouse is built in Manchester near the South Windsor line.

Many South Windsor officials fear the roads are not adequate to handle the wear and tear created by commuting cars to and from the Manchester area.

South Windsor Mayor Sandra Rander feels the construction of the proposed I-291, which will cross into South Windsor at the Bissell Bridge, will eliminate some of the traffic impact.

However, the new highway is not expected to reach South Windsor until the early 1980s. There are some local residents who are opposed to the effect they believe I-291 will have on the environment of the town.

New youth officer?

The South Windsor Town Council is investigating the cost of hiring a youth officer and will meet with the local Community Service Council to discuss the matter.

The present youth officer is a member of the Police Department.

The suggestion was made by Deputy Mayor Joseph Myette, who said he doesn't think a police officer can effectively "play the role of youth officer part time and police officer the rest of the time."

Myette said he believes the youth officer should be an employee of the Social Services Department rather than the Police Department.

Howard Pitts of the Community Service Council said he also feels the role of youth officer would not be confused with police officer.

The council is expected to discuss the matter, along with suggestions for obtaining the funds necessary to hire a person for the Social Services Department.

The South Windsor Cultural Arts Commission has announced two recipients of the art scholarships for this year. They are Judith Shuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Shuart, of Tallwood Dr., and Bryan Manion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manion of Mark Dr.

Officers of the commission for 1977-78 are Gayle Sheppard, president; Pat Nowak, vice-president; Pam Gobelz, recording secretary; Mary Lou Wall, corresponding secretary; Christine Clegg, treasurer, and Judy Larson, programs.

Sampling the goodies is half the fun of cooking. Here, Laura Valente, with clown makeup, and Beth Giguere, serve Wilson Deakin Jr., assistant superintendent of schools, and Dr. Richard Lindgren, principal of Iling Junior High School, at a Mardi Gras celebration at the school. (Herald photo by Pinto)

The Mardi Gras came to Iling Junior High School recently when members of the school's home economics class, using authentic recipes, duplicated some of the delicacies which might be served during Mardi Gras in New Orleans.

With the help of their teachers, the students prepared several items and served them to invited guests.

Here are a few of the recipes.

Old-fashioned Fruit Salad
1 large orange, sectioned
1 large banana, sliced
1 large apple, sliced
1 cup drained, crushed pineapple
1 cup green grape halves
6 large marshmallows, quartered
Grated rind and juice of one lemon, lime and orange
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipped cream
Combine orange, banana, apple, pineapple, grapes and marshmallows in large bowl. Chill. Blend lemon, lime and orange rinds and juices together in double boiler; add egg and sugar mixing well. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Chill. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon fruit salad into dessert dishes, top with salad dressing.

Creole Kisses
3 egg whites
2 cups confectionary sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Beat egg whites with a beater until they are firm. Beat sugar and vanilla in a little at a time. Stir in pecans. Cover cookie sheet with brown wrapping paper. Drop the kisses from the teaspoon onto the ungreased paper. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 45 kisses.

French Donuts
2 this shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1 egg beaten
3/4 cups sifted flour
2 cups confectionary sugar
Place shortening, sugar and salt in a mixing bowl; stir in 1/2 cup boiling water. Add milk; cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in 1/4 cup of lukewarm water; add sugar mixture to yeast mixture. Stir in egg; add 2 cups flour. Beat thoroughly. Stir in remaining flour.
Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top of dough. Cover and chill. Do not let dough rise before frying. Roll chilled dough out to 1/4-inch thickness; cut into 2-inch squares.
Fry, several at a time, in deep fat 375 degrees. Brown on one side for 2 minutes. Turn and brown on the other side for 1 minute. Drain. Place confectionary sugar in shaker or sifter; coat each doughnut with sugar. Yield: 30 servings.

On second thought By JAN WARREN

Mother Nature is no friend of mine!

Last month when a friend offered to come over with his tractor and plow up a "little" garden, I was so overwhelmed by his generosity that I said, "Yes!" I never considered the fact that I don't know a hoe from a rake or that my husband, bless his heart, doesn't even WANT to know.

The "little" garden our friend plowed for us measures six rows wide and is longer than my 40-foot garden hose stretched to full length. The very sight of it exhausted me.

"Don't worry. There's nothing to it," said our friend. "Just plant your seed, add some fertilizer, and with a little help from Mother Nature, you're bound to have a bumper crop."

Using the philosophy "no work, no eat," I recruited the whole family to help with the planting. It was a full day's job. We put in tomatoes, egg plant, bush beans, radishes, bell peppers, hot peppers, green squash, yellow squash, onions and okra. Finally, when every row was planted, we collapsed by the side of the garden and looked at our handiwork.

"Okay," I said to my family. "We've done our part! We've plowed, planted and fertilized. The rest is up to good old Mother Nature."

"That night before I went to sleep I said a little prayer for rain. The next morning I took off with my family for a two-week vacation.

While we were gone, Mother Nature supplied our garden with lots of good nourishing rain. She also supplied it with lots of chiggers, slugs, cut worms, white fly, yellow fungus, fire ants and a tangle of weeds that would rival Jack's beanstalk for fast growth and productivity. Mother Nature must have issued an "all clear" to every bunny rabbit in the State of Mississippi for

Rodgers wanted $500 fee

It would have been nice to have had a few more big names in the Manchester Community College-sponsored New England Relays last weekend in both the distance runs and track and field events.

Fellow jock Bill Rodgers, Frank Shorter and John Vitale, to list a few with national reputations, would have added a little more class to the distance runs.

Rodgers, Pat Mistretta, coordinator of the relays reports, was contacted but his appearance fee was $500. No doubt the one-time winner of the Boston Marathon and 1976 USA Olympic squad member, is out of his busy standing at the present time. Rodgers won in Boston two years ago.

Neither Shorter, considered the finest long distance runner in the country, nor Vitale, the well-known Connecticut resident was contacted. Both men, as well as Rodgers, have been hop-scotching around the country taking part in road runs of various distances, no doubt for appearance stipends.

Amy Barfoot, who reported after winning the Five Mile Race in Manchester for an eighth time last Thanksgiving that he was going into semi-retirement and would be running only for fun in the future, had planned to run in Manchester last Saturday.

Several athletes hinted that they might have transportation problems getting to Manchester, Mistretta said, which was a way of saying they wanted travel fees.

Reason for absence

If anyone deserved appearance money, or as the AAU feels, travel fee, it would be Barfoot. He didn't ask for any travel money or try to hold up MCC officials.

No appearance money was given to any athlete in either Saturday's or Sunday's 54-event program and there were some real Sunday's 54-event performers, Olympians, too, like Albert Tomasco, the meet's outstanding open division performer.

Once you start laying appearance money, you are headed for trouble.

Several athletes hinted that they might have transportation problems getting to Manchester, Mistretta said, which was a way of saying they wanted travel fees.

Two sides to coin

There are always two sides to the coin and in Rodgers' case, he has to get all he can while his name is still in big print.

The life of a top runner isn't too long.

No doubt if he had appeared, the crowd would have been bigger.

The relays need more athletes with identification, and this will come in due time. There were eight one-time Olympians in the two-day carnival. Next year there could be double that number.

One may ask how the AAU, this slim-purse union can allow an athlete to ask for $500 to travel less than 200 miles, round trip, Rodgers residing near Boston. This corner doesn't have the answer.

George Frenn, for one, paid his full expense air travel, hotel and meals from Los Angeles to compete Sunday in the 54-pound weight throw.

When Manchester's Joe McCluskey was in his prime, and later when his name still big in the track world, he traveled from coast to coast to compete and throughout Europe. It cost money and meet promoters were willing to make it worth his while.

One can't fault Rodgers, or anyone for that matter, to get all he can while on top.

Hoop Celtics busy

BOSTON (UPI) — Red Auerbach went out for his favorite lunch — Chinese food and returned to his office Tuesday with a Pu Pu platter full of information about the Boston Celtics.

The Celtics president and engineer of 13 NBA titles announced.

The club is close to signing first-round draft choice Cedric Maxwell of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Free agents John Havlicek, Sidney Wicks, Kevin Stacom and Jim Ard, all represented by NBA Players Association counsel Larry Fleisher, remained unsigned.

Former Boston star Tom Sanders, now the Harvard University basketball coach, has been offered the assistant coach job vacated last week by John Killiam.

LeFlore keys Detroit past slumping R Sox

DETROIT (UPI) — The key to the Detroit Tigers is often found in Ron LeFlore's shoes.

LeFlore's fleet feet and stinging bat churned out three hits Tuesday night, one the game-winning single with two out in the ninth inning, and he figured in all three runs of a 3-2 Detroit victory that was the fifth straight loss for the Boston Red Sox.

It's no coincidence some of Detroit's best feasts come when the Tigers' speedy center fielder is having a picnic at the plate or on the bases.

While it is true that Mark Fidrych, who pitches tonight against Boston's Bill Lee in a battle billed as "The Bird Versus The Spaceman," moves a lot to the pitching staff, LeFlore probably means just as much to the offense.

He singled in the fourth and scooted all the way home on Tito Fuentes' double to run. Then he set up the end of his first inning, Fred Lynn, who hit his seventh in the first, and Carl Yastrzemski, who belted his 15th leading off in the fourth.

Tim Corcoran pinch-hit a bloop single to center off the end of his bat in the eighth — a ball Lynn would have caught had he not reacted naturally to Corcoran's mighty swing by taking a step back.

LeFlore, attempting a sacrifice, then pushed a bunt past and between the pitcher and catcher and beat it out for a single. That let Fuentes sacrifice

Royals find missing link

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Kansas City Royals appear to have found the missing ingredient that has prevented them from making a serious bid to retain their American League West championship, the strong right arm of Dennis Leonard.

Leonard, a 17-game winner last season, appears to have come off an extended "vacation." He performed poorly in the final six weeks of last season and he began this year in much the same fashion as the Royals struggled to remain in contention in the division race.

But since June 1 Leonard has been pitching the way he did during the first half of last season and, as a result, the Royals have begun to get it together.

The 26-year-old right-hander turned in a game overpowering performance in five days Tuesday night when he outpitched Frank Tanana and led the Royals to a 3-1 triumph over the California Angels.

Leonard allowed only two hits in stopping the Angels. Only a solo homer by Rusty Torres in the sixth inning prevented him from posting his second straight shutout.

He prepares for Tanana like I prepare for anybody else," said Leonard. "I let the hitters worry about opposing pitchers and I worry about the hitters. I'm not afraid of Tanana. I don't care who's pitching against you when you're down only 1-0 you still have a helluva chance.

"It's definitely harder to win this kind of game (against) the second time around because everybody battles you. That includes the Seattle Mariners. I know they're going to be on top of me. I'm not afraid of Tanana. I don't care who's pitching against you when you're down only 1-0 you still have a helluva chance.

In other AL games, Minnesota downed Milwaukee 3-2. Detroit beat Boston 3-2. Chicago won from Lamar Johnson, Jorge Orta and Richie Zisk to crush the Mariners. Francisco Barrionero's homer in the eighth put Texas ahead 4-1, but relief pitcher Adrian Devine couldn't hold it.

The Patriots also signed starting center Bill Lenkaitis, linebacker Pete Barnes, safety Willie Germany and rookie lineman John Rasmussen.

East Hartford Legion preserves perfect slate

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports Writer

It went down to the wire as Carl Guzzardi's two-out single scored Mike Furlong with the winning run giving unbeaten East Hartford a 1-0 Zone Eight decision over Manchester last night at Shea Park.

The victory boosted the Post 7 entry to 7-0 in the zone and 9-4 over-all.

Determination, and skill exhibited by Chris Evert

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — It takes determination as well as skill to win the world's most prestigious tennis tournament.

Defending champion Chris Evert has displayed both qualities at Wimbledon this year and that's why nobody is betting against the Florida "Ice Maiden" to keep her title in the 100th year of Wimbledon.

Evert showed she has no place for sentiment in the way she dispatched 14-year-old Tracy Austin and six-time Wimbledon champ Billie Jean King on her way to today's semifinal match against Britain's Virginia Wade.

"I cannot afford to let emotion take over," Evert said. "I might lose, but I'm stronger when the British Barker's penetrating crowd gets behind Wade.

"Virginia is quite capable of beating me and she knows it, so will not be taking any chances out there," said Evert, who lost to Wade in the semifinal of this year's San Francisco Virginia Slims tournament. But Evert has a 22-5 career record against Wade, who twice has lost semifinals at Wimbledon.

If she wins, Evert is likely to face another Briton in the final, if fourth-seeded Virginia Ruzici defeats the Soviet's Betty Stove as expected.

Scored a run in the top of the eighth inning. B.A. Club won its first of the campaign 8-7 over Fitzgerald. Four runs in the seventh inning did the trick for Klock which trails by five after five frames. Don Simmons had three safeties for Fogarty's.

WOMEN'S REC Twenty-six hits, 21 errors and 30 runs were accounted for in a 2-7 victory by Tikey Painters over SBM last night at Cheney.

Fast pitch Two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning gave Windsor Locks a 7-6 win over Formal's Inn girls last night in Windsor Locks. Losing hurler: Shi Adams struck-out seven but walked seven, four scor.
