President halts B1 production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter today killed further production of the multibillion dollar B1 bomber, but said testing would continue. He said he was confident Congress would follow his wishes. The B1 has stirred tremendous controversy, Carter, before becoming President, called it "wasteful of taxpayer's dollars." "This has been one of the most difficult decisions I've made since I've been in office," Carter said. "I'm recommending that we discontinue plans for this weapons system." He said the United States should go ahead with development of cruise missiles, and a testing program on the B1 would continue in case there are unforeseen difficulties in the new missile or other strategic weapons systems. Carter's rejection of the B1 came as a surprise. Most observers, including many congressmen who had talked with the President, thought he would approve its production. The cruise missile essentially is a pilotless jet plane that has tremendous accuracy over land because it uses a computerized map in its guidance system. Carter said that while research continues on the B1, each estimated to cost about $10 million, "we should begin deployment of cruise missiles using air-launched platforms, including the B52s." Carter also said he wants research conducted on other planes which could be used to launch cruise missiles, such as the modified jumbo jet. He said the United States will continue to base its strategic defense on the three-pronged triad of submarine-launched ballistic missiles, intercontinental ballistic missiles and existing manned bombers including the B52 and FB11. The Air Force originally wanted 244 B1s at a cost of at least $24.8 billion, but in recent months had backed away from that number. Carter said in answer to a question that if relations with the Soviet Union "deteriorate drastically" in the coming years, "which I don't anticipate ... it may be necessary for me to change my mind." He said he had informed congressional leaders of his decision shortly before the news conference began. "My belief is that the Congress will be supportive, knowing that the request for production funds was based on the previous decision," he said. "I believe the House and the Senate will confirm my decision." Carter said he tried not to make his campaign statements against the B1 determine his decision. During the campaign he said the B1 "ought not to be funded." "I deliberately tried not to make my campaign statements the determining factor in my decision," Carter said. "I always try to keep an open mind and make my decisions based on what's best for the country." He said after he was elected he tried to "take a position of complete open mindedness" on the B1. "I think the B1 is a very expensive weapons system, conceived in the absence of the cruise missile factor," Carter said. The House voted Tuesday to keep full funding for the bomber in the $10.6 billion military appropriations bill for the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1. A day fraught with confusion, delays and anxiety on both sides of the Atlantic ended shortly before midnight last night when a bus carrying teen-agers from Northern Ireland rolled into Manchester. Hosts in 1975 and again this year, was telling everyone gathered at St. Mary's Church that "Our Sean is back." It was with hugs and tears that a young Irish lass, who left five sisters at home, was united with her Manchester sister for the summer. Grinders which had been provided to feed the Irish guests on the bus back from Boston or New York, were distributed at St. Mary's Church to eat later at their hosts' homes or for lunch today. The Rev. Stephen Jacobson, rector of St. Mary's Church, and Odie Coleman, director of the project, both instructed the children to write to their parents today and "tell them the gruesome details of your trip." The teen-agers will get together Sunday evening at St. Mary's Church, and a group forum is scheduled for Tuesday. Wednesday, they will take a bus to Boston to tour the city and attend a Red Sox ball game. But for today, they will probably sleep or at least rest most of the day.

Weariness disappears as Ian Cassidy of Portadown, Northern Ireland, wearing the official Joint Manchester Project shirt, meets his new friend, Kent Stringfellow, of Hillstown Rd. Ian will be spending the summer at Kent's home. (Herald photo by Evans)

MMH conducts disaster drill

Several persons with severe burns, bruises and industrial wounds were rushed to the emergency room at Manchester Memorial Hospital early Wednesday afternoon. Persons already in the waiting room in the area were somewhat disturbed at the unsightly appearance of some of the victims. The spectacle and intense activity were part of a disaster drill, a requirement of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals which is conducted twice a year by participating hospitals. Participating in the drill were 15 victims enacted by volunteer firemen from the 8th District who are Emergency Medical Technicians, hospital personnel and employees of the Manchester Ambulance Service. "The cooperation of the 8th District Fire Department was tremendous," a hospital spokesman said in evaluating the drill. "We couldn't do without them." One of the most successful factors of the drill was the use, for the first time in an emergency exercise, of a recently purchased radio communications system between the emergency department and the ambulance. Ambulance attendants can describe to emergency room personnel vital signs and emergency treatment being given to the patient. The drill revealed a few minor problems which will be resolved in the disaster plan. One involved the radio communications system. No one was assigned in advance to man the radio at the hospital and there was no response when the ambulance first tried to make contact. Not until several minutes later did someone at the hospital take over the radio station. A provision will also be written into the disaster plan to control situations where hysterical persons can disrupt the emergency routine. A nurse participating in the exercise purposely enacted a highly emotional scene, harassing nurses and doctors, which interfered with their routine. All in all, the exercise was considered fairly successful by both hospital officials and members of the 8th District Fire Department and employees of the Manchester Ambulance Service.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

The sun is warm on your back. A much of salt marsh hay between the strawberry rows gives you a clean place to kneel. The strawberries, as you push the leaves aside, are beautiful red clusters, sometimes a big handful, all within easy reach.

This is our first experience of the "pick your own" method of harvesting a strawberry crop on the lot operated by the Clarence Edmondson family just across a stone wall from Middle Turnpike in Coventry.

There are many "pick your own" strawberry lots and it seems likely there will be more. The grower avoids the cost of paying pickers and the possible difficulties of not having them show up for work when needed. The buyer gets berries for a lower price than he would pay at a roadside stand.

Mr. Edmondson, principal of the Robertson School in Coventry, is in his first year of marketing strawberries by the Clarence Edmondson family just across a stone wall from Middle Turnpike in Coventry.

Being picked this year are the berries borne on 7,000 plants of an early variety, Early Dawn, and a mid-season variety, Sure Crop. A late variety, with 3,500 plants set out, developed a virus disease, and was plowed under, a total loss.

Snaw was welcome. To prepare the land for planting the Edmondsons buried stone walls, installed 3,700 feet of drainage tile and built a pond of almost three-quarters of an acre as a means of controlling frost damage in early spring. Strawberry blossoms can be killed by frost but can be saved by spraying water over the plants while the temperature is below freezing.

Fortunately, the cold weather we had at that season was accompanied by a fall of snow and the snow covered the field with a splendid insulating blanket. The pond was not needed and not used.

It takes two years to produce a crop of strawberries, as many home gardeners know. The Edmondsons bought their plants last year from a wholesale grower in Whately, Mass. The berries were cultivated during the summer and, in the fall, were covered with a much of salt marsh hay. The hay was expensive, Mr. Edmondson reports, and hard to find.

It took four people to spread the hay, one to drive the truck, one in back to open the hay bales, and two to spread the hay by hand, covering two rows, one on each side.

This spring, some of the hay was raked lightly off the plants to cover the bare ground between the rows. At the same time, Mr. Edmondson superintended the preparation of an additional four-and-a-half acres for later planting. During the April school vacation, local boys were hired to pick up stones which are abundant in this part of Coventry.

Elaine Galek and Charles Rayner of Storrs pick their own strawberries in lot in Coventry operated by the Clarence Edmondson family. (Herald photo by Dunn)

When a picker brings back his box of berries it is weighed on a spring scale beside the field and half a pound deducted for the weight of the box. The average picker takes six to eight pounds of berries in a single flat but one couple who came and stayed all day took home 80 pounds. There is a minimum charge of one dollar.

Pickers are of all ages except small children. Many are retired couples. People have a tendency, Mr. Edmondson observes, to pick more than they want. In our experience it takes longer to wash, hull and slice the berries and pack them in boxes for the home freezer than it took to pick them, and is not as much fun.

There are five Edmondsons, all workers on this home project, parents and three children. Paul, 18, will start college in the fall. Peter, 16, will be a high school senior. Bonnie, 13, will be in the eighth grade.

Greenwood Dr. Applicants should be interested in local history and have some knowledge of antiques.

Secretarial contracts approved

The final contract between the Board of Education and the school employee groups was awarded Monday night for the school secretaries.

The new two-year contract grants salary increases of slightly more than 13 per cent. It calls for a 7 per cent salary increase in the first year and a 6.25 per cent rate for 1979-79.

The pay scales for the secretaries will range from about $5,000 to about $9,550, depending on qualifications and experience, with additional increments for employees with more than 10 years of service. There are no changes in fringe benefit coverage.

The vote on the contract was 6 to 1, with board member Earl Odum dissenting. The Manchester Association of Educational Secretaries approved the agreement last week.

The board also voted 6 to 1 Monday to increase the salaries of three vocational instructors at the Regional Occupational Training Center by 10 per cent for the coming school year, from $7,000 to $7,700.

Rooney hearing postponed

A hearing before the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration for Brian Rooney, a former sergeant with the Manchester Police Department, has been postponed.

The hearing had been scheduled for last Monday, but could not be held because of a scheduling conflict, according to Atty. Jerome Walsh, who represents Rooney. No new date has yet been set for the hearing.

Rooney, a 14-year veteran of the town force, was demoted from sergeant to patrolman on Jan. 5, 1976. Police Chief Robert D. Lannan called the demotion a disciplinary action.

The union - Manchester Police Union, Local 1495 - last month informed the state Board of Mediation and Arbitration that it had dropped the matter.

School has 155

Of the 155 students entered in summer school at Manchester High School, over 40 are seniors who need the credits to receive their diplomas.

According to Ted Martin, director of the summer school, the number in summer school is more than in past years, which was often under 100.

The summer school, which started Monday, is held for six weeks, mainly for seniors who need the credits for graduation and ninth grade students who need the credits to get into high school. Other students in Grades 7 to 11 are admitted if there is room, Martin said.

The three teachers in the program, except for the physical education, teach many of the classes for the different grade levels simultaneously. The program is strictly a remedial program for Manchester students who have failed a course during the school year.

Opinion

Not for unbelievers

This isn't for drinking drivers, speeders and the other know-it-alls who will be endangering their lives and the lives of others on Connecticut highways over the long holiday weekend ahead.

Those people just don't believe that an accident can happen to them — and Divine Providence has taken care of them so far.

But those drivers who do not drink and drive, do not violate speed limits, and heed advice are asked by state police and safety officials to take extra care this weekend. Plan your trip so that you do not have to speed. Enjoy the holiday but do not overindulge if you are the family chauffeur, be stone sober and wide awake. And above all if the traffic gets hectic and your nerves get frayed, pull off and rest.

Let the drunks, the speeders and know-it-alls have the right-of-way — not because it is theirs, but because discretion is the better part of valor and Divine Providence needs your help to keep them alive.

Death penalty dilemma

In February of 1974, during Mardi Gras in New Orleans, two police officers were called to a neighborhood ruckus in which a young man reportedly had fired a gun several times. When the officers cut off the fleeing suspect in their patrol car, he shot and wounded one and shot and killed the other.

The suspect, Harry Roberts, 19, was convicted of first degree murder. He then was sentenced to die under a Louisiana law requiring the death penalty for anyone who purposely kills "a fireman or a peace officer who was engaged in the performance of his lawful duties."

Justice William H. Rehnquist pointed out in his dissenting opinion that "John Wilkes Booth may well have thought he was morally justified in murdering Abraham Lincoln."

Nevertheless, there are two good reasons for opposing mandatory executions. The first is that no two cases — and no two defendants — are exactly alike. The second is that the death penalty, because of its severity, should not be imposed automatically even for killing a police officer.

Back in 1972 the Supreme Court ruled that executions in this country were too random and too arbitrary. They followed no pattern. Being sentenced to death, Justice Potter Stewart wrote, was like being struck by lightning.

Now, three years later, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled (in a 5 to 4 decision) that automatic execution of Harry Roberts for killing a police officer would be "cruel and unusual punishment" and therefore unconstitutional under the Bill of Rights.

The five justices who joined in the decision said the courts must consider "mitigating circumstances" before passing sentence. The defendant's age, for example, his past record. Whether he's been drinking or taking drugs. Whether he was emotionally disturbed. Whether he "reasonably believed" he was morally justified in doing what he did.

Last year the court went a step further. It said capital punishment was constitutional — but only if judges and juries were given some guidelines and some discretion on whether it should be imposed.

There is nothing simple or easy about any of this. It requires more caution, and more judicial soul-searching, than many law-and-order advocates would prefer.

It seems to us, though, that if the death penalty is to be imposed it should be limited to cases in which such extreme punishment can be justified by the circumstances of the crime itself.

Not-so-blind trusts

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters (First of Two Related Columns)

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The scenario has been repeated hundreds of times in recent decades: A wealthy man is appointed or elected to a high government office, then sanctimoniously declares he is placing all his assets in a "blind trust" so he will not profit personally from his official actions.

But far too many "blind trusts" have 20-20 vision. They can serve as little more than a facade which gives the beneficiary knowledge — and sometimes control — of precisely what is being done with his money at a time when he supposedly is shielded from that information.

Under that plan, all of the assets placed in a "blind trust" — stocks, bonds, land and other investments — would initially be publicly identified. During the initial period of the trust's operation, the public official would avoid participation in any government action which might affect those holdings.

The trust agreement would, however, contain an important clause which specifically directs the administrator to dispose of each of those investments during a specified period of time (six months, for example) and to acquire new assets which are not to be identified to the public official.

Closing loopholes

Now, Congress is moving for the first time to close the loopholes which have allowed abuses of the system. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, headed by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., is considering proposals which would:

- Require full public disclosure of the basic trust arrangement.
- Mandate establishment of a trust which is irrevocable throughout the beneficiary's term of government service.
- Prohibit all communication between the trustee and the public official, with provision for imposition of criminal or civil sanctions if there is a breach of secrecy.
- Forbid the trustee to make any purchases which would create a conflict of interest for the officeholder. Require "turnover"

In addition, one of the most far-reaching elements would require "turnover" of all holdings which might post a conflict of interest.

Under that plan, all of the assets placed in a "blind trust" — stocks, bonds, land and other investments — would initially be publicly identified. During the initial period of the trust's operation, the public official would avoid participation in any government action which might affect those holdings.

The trust agreement would, however, contain an important clause which specifically directs the administrator to dispose of each of those investments during a specified period of time (six months, for example) and to acquire new assets which are not to be identified to the public official.

But Califano and Blumenthal did not specifically instruct the administrators of their trusts to trade all current investments for new, undisclosed assets — the one step which would make the trusts truly "blind."

The only member of the Carter cabinet to voluntarily include such a "turnover" requirement in his trust agreement was Interior Secretary Cecil B. Andrus. But Andrus is not an especially wealthy man, and the only assets involved are less than $75,000 worth of stock in four mining companies.

The legacy of Wernher von Braun

WASHINGTON — "The fool hath said in his heart, there is no God," — Psalms 14:1.

Wernher von Braun, the world's foremost rocket engineer who died here the other day after a bout with cancer, was no fool. One of the most remarkable things about this remarkable man, in fact, was that his faith in God deepened with every secret of the universe he helped unlock.

"Living universe"

"The universe as revealed through scientific inquiry is the living thing that God has indeed been at work," von Braun said in a speech to the Lutheran Church of America last year. "Understanding the nature of the creation provides a substantive basis for the faith by which we attempt to know the nature of the Creator."

Another Apollo astronaut, now U.S. Sen. Harrison Schmitt of New Mexico, in a Senate tribute to von Braun said the space pioneer "contributed as much or more than any other person to advancing and increasing the base of technology from which we now can stand and reach for the solutions to a vast number of human problems. Problems which before were just dark tunnels out ahead of our species — ignorance, hunger, natural disaster, poverty, poor health."

Everything obeys

"Everything in space obeys the laws of physics. If you know these laws, and obey them, space will treat you kindly. And don't tell me man doesn't belong out there. Man belongs wherever he wants to go — and he'll do plenty well when he gets there."

Lee Roderick

Von Braun uttered those prophetic words nearly 20 years ago. Thanks in good part to his vision and genius, man indeed has done "plenty well" as a result of space exploration and the numerous spin-off benefits it has showered back to earth.

Astronaut Michael Collins, speaking at a memorial service in the Washington Cathedral, noted it was von Braun who conceived the huge Saturn V rocket — a technological marvel longer than a football field — and headed the team that built this space vehicle which powered Collins and 11 other Americans to the moon, 9 of them to walk on it.

Another Apollo astronaut, now U.S. Sen. Harrison Schmitt of New Mexico, in a Senate tribute to von Braun said the space pioneer "contributed as much or more than any other person to advancing and increasing the base of technology from which we now can stand and reach for the solutions to a vast number of human problems. Problems which before were just dark tunnels out ahead of our species — ignorance, hunger, natural disaster, poverty, poor health."

A dreamer

Von Braun was a dreamer whose dreams were too big to be shackled by artificial boundaries either in space or on earth. From the time his parents gave him a telescope while other Lutheran boys got watches and parts for confirmation, the precocious youngster was off and running.

His passion for rocketry and ability to organize other engineers and scientists led to his appointment at the age of 20 as chief of the German army's rocket experiment station at Kummersdorf.

Harnessed by Hitler

The following year, 1933, Adolf Hitler came to power and it is sad, if perhaps inevitable, fact of history that the young rocket expert's genius was harnessed by Hitler for his own evil designs. At Germany's new rocket research center on the Baltic Sea, von Braun developed the first successful model of a flying bomb.

Starting in September 1944, some 3,600 of the bombs known as the dreaded V2s, were hurled against English cities and Antwerp, killing an estimated 2,700 persons and injuring another 6,500. Then, in March of 1945 as Russian forces advanced to within 100 miles of the research center, von Braun and some 100 of the other scientists at the project chose instead to fall into American hands.

Fortuitous choice

It was a fortuitous choice, obviously for the U.S. and the free world, but also for von Braun who found fulfillment in his adopted country for both his scientific and religious natures — a realization that would have been impossible in atheistic Russia.

Von Braun may be criticized as an opportunist, and indeed that is what he was — a restless genius forever in search of an opportunity to nudge mankind beyond its presumed limits in space.

He was not amoral

But amoral he was not. In light of the quality of his personal life, it is easy to believe his remark after the war about the V2: "We felt a genuine regret that our missile, born of idealism... had joined in the business of killing. We had designed to blaze the trail to other planets, not to destroy our own."

The Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., of the National Cathedral captured the essence of Wernher von Braun in his memorial prayer thanking God for "one whose vaulting imagination was restive in earth's tiny envelope and would not be prisoner there. For a man of history though still a small boy inside... whose eager life stood in the doorway of the Great Beyond."

Thoughts

"Where is the wise man? Where is the scholar? Where is the philosopher of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? For since in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom did not know him, God was pleased through the foolishness of what was preached to save those who believe... we preach Christ crucified: A stumbling block to the Jews and foolishness to the Gentiles, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God. We are neutral, on the black's side

WASHINGTON — There is about our policy toward Rhodesia the flavor of the youth who shrieks "Look Ma, how liberal I am." It is a cover for self-indulgent hypocrisy.

The United States has set itself up as an honest broker to mediate a solution to the black problem in that unhappy white-ruled nation. But we are neutral on the black's side, because we have delivered what is nothing less than an ultimatum to the white regime: Let the blacks take over, or else.

Andrew Tully

Leery of ultimatums

Or else what? Nobody at the White House or the State Department would think of spelling it out, but after Vietnam I am leery of diplomacy by ultimatum. We could lose our shirt again if we get too tough.

Also, we seem to be in the grip of a pack of purse-lipped reformers who have set themselves up as guardians of the world's morality. From their bureaucratic nooks and crannies, such self-appointed Medici would get us into grave trouble with their mischief-making.

For the love of Aunt Nellie, of course Rhodesia's policies are wrong. But they are just as much Rhodesia's business as our own civil rights laws are our business. Our interference in Rhodesia's internal affairs are just as outrageous as France's action would be in demanding that the U.S. forthwith "free" Puerto Rico.

come Uganda's Idi Amin is still in business? We have joined that assembly of third-rate ward heelers and saloon statesmen known as the United Nations in declaring that the Rhodesian government is illegal. That's a sick laugh. As a state, Rhodesia is as legal as the Republic brought forth on these shores in 1776, and a great deal more legal than those Communist dictatorships which seized power by military force.

Rhodesia's decision

Like Washington, Jefferson & Co., Ian Smith and his pals decided they no longer desired to belong to what used to be the British empire. That is also what Britain's black colonies did — but of course their cases are different, for reasons UN Ambassador Andrew Young has so succinctly stated.

We were luckier. Not even King George III, who had plenty of other crazy ideas, suggested that he was moving to put down the American rebellion because our forefathers were mean to the Indian majority. France did not side with the Mohawks, but gleefully sent us aid to annoy the British. Lafayette did not have a clause in his contract to be so principled that they are offensive.

Should not be offensive

To be sure, it is time the blacks in both Rhodesia and South Africa were granted equal participation in the government of their own countries. That would seem to go without saying. But they are not going to get it peacefully if the U.S. and rest of the world push the present regime into a corner. Moral suasion is fine, but if Rhodesia is taken over by one of its black guerrilla factions, all rhodesians can kiss freedom goodbye.

Ben Franklin was all for morality, but he left us a warning. "Principled men," he said "should be careful not to be principled that they are offensive."

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting a baby, and Jan. 1 is my due date. When I told my husband, he said, "Gee, that's tough because I've already ordered tickets for the Rose Bowl game."

DEAR MARRIED: The Rose Bowl game is an annual event. Having a baby (I presume) is not. Also, the game will be televised, so he could "see" it and be with you, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am a bachelor who has been corresponding with a lonely widow for several months. It all started when I answered a personal ad she placed in a San Francisco newspaper.

Local girl takes part in program

Debra Hallisey of Manchester is one of three University of Bridgeport Fones School of Dental Hygiene students who established a program of dental hygiene at the University of Bridgeport. The students introduced oral hygiene procedures and designed individualized programs of dental care for black and Hispanic seniors at the Bull's Head and St. Mary's senior drop-in centers, as a special project for their course in contemporary dental hygiene practice.

They educated and instructed their clients in proper oral care. Besides bridging a generation gap, the girls were faced with a cultural gap as only one of them was able to speak Spanish.

The program marked a first for the Fones School in which students conducted their project with Spanish-speaking clients in a senior citizen drop-in center rather than a nursing home as had been done in the past.

The program was awarded a trophy for the Fones School in which students conducted their project with Spanish-speaking clients in a senior citizen drop-in center rather than a nursing home as had been done in the past.

Commuters get angry
 Police were confronted with about 15 irate commuters Wednesday afternoon who complained they could not get home to baby-sitters, supper and hair appointments because their cars were blocked in the Burr Corners commuter lot on Tolland Tpke.

The commuters got off their buses after 3:30 p.m. and found they couldn't get their cars out of the parking lot because the only exit, the 240-car lot was blocked by five cars.

The dilemma was solved when two commuters who arrived on a 3:50 p.m. bus moved their cars which were parked legally adjacent to the exit. Police then diverted traffic for the exiting commuters.

The owners of the five cars blocking the drive were met with summons for blocking a driveway.

CG band to stay

NEW LONDON (UPI)— Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Owen W. Siler announced Wednesday the 45 members of the Coast Guard band won't be moving to Washington after all. They—and the band—will stay at the Coast Guard Academy.

Coast Guard officials in Washington had considered moving the band for about two years apparently to give it more public exposure, but dozens of area residents wrote letters to officials to protest the proposal.

The band, which represents the Coast Guard in appearances around the country, gives free summer and winter concerts at the academy.

"This organization provides a great musical experience in the military and civilian community on a year-round basis and we are glad that a move is not found to be necessary," said academy superintendent Rear Adm. William A. Jenkins.

Four favor pay raise

HARTFORD (UPI)— Four Connecticut's representatives voted in favor of the $12,900 annual pay raise Wednesday in Washington. Only Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., was opposed.

Rep. Stewart B. McKinney, R-Conn., was absent for the vote—which kicked salaries to $7,500 a year—because he is recovering at his Fairfield home after a heart attack suffered over Memorial Day weekend.

Voting for the pay increase were Reps. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., Ronald A. Sarasin, R-Conn., William R. Cotter, D-Conn. and Robert N. Giannino, D-Conn.

The amendment rejected Wednesday would have rolled back salaries to $4,600 annually. That was what congressmen were paid before March 1 when a raise of 28.9 percent took effect without a vote.

Town files documents in Buckland dispute

By GREG PEARSON
 Herald Reporter

The Town of Manchester this morning filed three legal documents including one listing errors it feels were made in the Superior Court decision of the Buckland fire jurisdiction case.

The filing is another step in the town's appeal of Superior Court Judge Edward Hamill's decision, which said that the Eighth Utilities District has the right to expand its boundaries to provide fire protection for the Buckland section of Manchester. The town is appealing to the State Supreme Court.

The town had previously been granted an extension until today for the filing of its answer. Town Counsel Victor I. Moses and Asst. Town

The "Assignment of Errors" document lists several areas where the town feels that the Superior Court erred in its decision in favor of the Eighth District.

The document said that the Superior Court conclusions in the case "were reached by an erroneous application of the law."

It cites several of the conclusions in Judge Hamill's finding, particularly those that center on jurisdictional rights over Buckland and the right of its residents to petition the District for fire protection services.

The document also says that, "Such conclusions (in favor of the District) are either based on facts in the finding which do not support them or...were reached by an erroneous application of the law."

The town also filed a "Motion for rectification of the appeal" and a "Designation of the contents of records."

In these two documents, the town is seeking the inclusion of six pieces of evidence it says should have been included in the court finding.

"There is no legal basis for their exclusion from the record or finding," the document says. The town has to request inclusion of the evidence if it is to be included in the appeal to the Supreme Court.

Neither Moses nor Prior could elaborate this morning on what the evidence is.

The town is also seeking to include in the appeal a statement that it says was not challenged by the District.

The statement, which had been included in earlier findings, but not in the final finding, reads, "The officials of the Eighth Utilities District were fully informed of and encouraged by the town to file their appeal to the Supreme Court."

The town is also seeking to include in the appeal a statement that it says was not challenged by the District.

4 injured in crash

A trailer truck went out of control Wednesday at about 6:20 p.m. on I-84 in East Hartford, causing a seven-vehicle accident with four people injured.

State police gave the following report.

The truck driven by Christopher Frost, 24, of Brattleboro, Vt., was heading west on I-84 about a half-mile west of Governor St. The truck went out of control and struck the vehicle driven by Gary Wallace, 33, of 11 Brent Rd., Manchester, then the vehicle driven by Bruce J. Nugent, 30, of 80 Cottage St., Manchester, and then the vehicle driven by Charles Johnson, 34, of West Simsbury.

Then the truck struck the car driven by Calvin D. McCarthy, 58, of 241 Hollister St., Manchester, and that car hit the car driven by Stewart L. Johnson, 58, of Salem, N.H., which hit the car driven by Helen V. Reid, 44, of 99 Whitehall Dr., East Hartford.

The Nugent and Johnson vehicles came to rest underneath the trailer.

All the vehicles were piled against the left guard rail when police came. Johnson was taken to St. Francis Hospital with head injuries. He was in stable condition this morning.

Passengers in the McCarthy vehicle, Marian McCarthy, 58, and Miriam McCarthy, 79, all of the same address, were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital. The younger woman was treated for contusions and released. Miriam was admitted with a head injury and was in serious condition late this morning.

Wallace had also been taken to St. Francis, where he was treated and released.

Police charged Frost with reckless driving. They are still investigating the incident.

Watery trail leads to stolen vehicle

Police discovered a stolen car shortly after 3 a.m. today by following a trail of water and broken stop signs from Brookfield and Durkin Sts. to Porter and Oak Grove Sts.

The car had been stolen earlier from a home on Mountain Rd. which had been burglarized and vandalized. The first report of the car came from a resident of the Brookfield St. area who heard a car strike the stop signs. The crash damaged the radiator of the car, which then left a trail of water which police followed down E. Center St. to Porter and Oak Grove Sts. The car was found on Porter St. and was abandoned in a sand lot off Oak Grove St. Two trails led from the car into deep grass, but police found no sign of the car's occupants.

About the same time police patrol discovered the house on Mountain Rd. with a garage door open and lights on. No one was home and investigation showed the house had been ransacked. Further investigation of the burglary was continuing today.

Manchester police report

John H. Mooney Jr., 36, of 90 Wells St., was arrested Wednesday in connection with an attempt to cash a bad check at Highland Park Market.

He was charged with three counts each of third-degree larceny, third-degree forgery, issuing bad checks and criminal impersonation. The charges were in connection with Wednesday's incident and two previous attempts to cash bad checks at the store, police said.

Mooney was being held today in lieu of $2,500 bond for court presentation July 18.

Two prowlers were caught by two Hilliard St. residents as they were attempting to steal a large tent from a yard of a Hilliard St. apartment Wednesday about 9:30 p.m., police reported. When police arrived two men were chasing the two prowlers carrying the tent and poles.

Those arrested were Daniel L. Stetson, 19, and James L. Mendenhall, 16, both of Springfield, Mass. They were charged with third-degree larceny and Stetson was also charged with carrying a dangerous weapon, which police identified as a knife. They were both later released on $1,000 bond for court appearances July 18.

Patricia A. Beaulieu, 22, of East Hartford, was charged with third-degree larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at Marshall's Store Wednesday afternoon. She was released on a $50 bond for court July 18.

A purse was reported stolen from a Carver Lane home Wednesday night. The purse contained several checks and a small amount of money.

A break-in was discovered at a gasoline station at 947 Center St. Wednesday. An office door was found open, but nothing had been stolen or damaged, police said.

An attempted break was reported at a Farms Dr. home. A door was damaged, but entry was not gained to living quarters, police said.

An estimated $300 to $500 worth of clothing and household items was reported missing from a storage bin of a Hartford Rd. apartment. The items were stolen within the past week, police said.

Group home proposal said not workable

The Town of Manchester has considered a suggestion that one of the homes condemned for the industrial park project be used as a group home, but the idea is not workable, according to Alan Mason, human services director.

Several residences within the park site are in the process of being condemned so that work can begin on the project.

At a meeting held earlier this month to discuss youth services, a suggestion was made that one of the condemned homes might be relocated to serve as a group home for Manchester youths.

The town has been searching for a home to serve as a group residence for youths who, for whatever reason, cannot live in their own home.

But, Mason said that the idea of relocating a condemned home does not seem possible.

"In the brief look I took at it, it's not really feasible. There's no land nearby where you could move one of the houses to, even if you got one of them," he said.

Mason also said that present zoning regulations do not permit such a group home.

Many worried about Vernon Circle road plans

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Shopping center owners, merchants, and Vernon officials haven't given up trying to get the state Department of Transportation (DOT) to change plans for expansion of I-86 in the Vernon Circle area.

On suggestion of Max Javit, owner of Tri-City Plaza at the circle, Mayor Thomas Benoit called a meeting Wednesday. The meeting was attended by other center owners in the area, other town officials, merchants, and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce. The League of Women Voters and the Planning Commission.

Javit's prime concern, along with the others, is the change in the state made in plans which will remove the on-ramp to I-86 east from the circle area.

Javit said that once this ramp is removed, "we might find that five years down the road that Rt. 30 will be ridiculous."

The original plans for the highway expansion were proposed 12 or 13 years ago and have been modified many times. The plans now call for an interchange at the circle with the eastbound exit ramp off Dobson Rd. This will mean that all of the traffic will feed into Rt. 30.

If a person coming from the shopping area wanted to go east, he would have to go through several traffic lights and regress on Dobson Rd. Javit feels that people will just continue on to Manchester shopping areas rather than go through this inconvenience.

"I'm not sure there is contention between the shopping areas. The issue is what is going to happen to the Town of Vernon," Javit said.

"I feel we should take legal action to stop this. The state had agreed not to bypass the circle. They admitted the second plan is not as good but they don't want to bother to redesign again," Javit said.

He said the success of the shopping center affects the tax base of the town.

Arnold W. Aronson, Javit's attorney, noted that there is enough at stake that the studies should be brought up to date. Javit said the state is basing its plans on environmental studies done about 1974.

Benedict G. Barkan, president of Barkan & Mess Associates, traffic engineers and transportation planners, has studied the state's proposal. He said there doesn't appear to be any engineering reason why the alternative plan, with the on-ramp from Hartford Tpke., couldn't be implemented.

Javit said no professional has been hired to see what's best for the Town of Vernon. "I think the town will have to make up its mind to let this pass over or get some professional to do a study," Javit said.

George Risley, also owner of a shopping center at the circle and partner owner of the Goffland complex in Talcottville, said when the highway was first put in there was only one overpass for the entire town. Others were put in later.

He said the Town of Manchester got its overpasses in the first place because they demanded it.

Mrs. Linda Rossin, a member of the Planning Commission, said accessibility is the key issue. She said there will also be a problem getting out of the K-Mart Plaza off Rt. 30 at busy times.

Risley said that the problem in the Rockville section is traffic. He said it's impossible to get in there. "We don't want the circle to go the same way," he said.

Roy Conyers said his concern was the Goffland area, a large complex including a motel, restaurant and two theaters. He said the proposed changes will have an adverse effect on that area.

He said traffic has doubled within the last two years. "That has to be made four lanes within two years. At least they should do what they did on Rt. 83," he said.

He said there will be more expansion in the Goffland area and added he feels there should be a study for the benefit of the Town of Vernon. "Nothing will create a bigger impact on what Vernon will become than this highway," he said.

Mayor Benoit said he doesn't want to stop the highway but he is concerned about the tax impact on the town. He said he will seek opinions of the business people and send a letter to DOT, detailing the concerns expressed at the meeting.

Town Atty. Martin Burke suggested that the mayor contact the local state legislators and the governor's office.

local state legislators and the governor's office.

"You are really eventually talking about the economic impact, and it's very justifiable," he said.

Javit said he would be happy to participate with other businessmen in whatever has to be done.

Mayor Benoit said he thinks there is enough concern to have the town planner and the Planning Commission re-evaluate the plans.

Risley said the state has been short-sighted in its thinking and Atty. Aronson said the state is not looking out for the towns.

Utility costs in Coventry are down $2,000 this year

The Town of Coventry's utility bills for 1976-77 will be nearly $2,000 less than they were in 1975-76, Town Manager Frank Connolly said this week.

In a report to the Town Council, Connolly said conservation efforts have achieved substantial cost reductions, despite rising prices.

Comparing the 1975-76 costs to the 1976-77 estimates, Connolly said the total utility bills will probably be $1,941 less this fiscal year.

The Town of Coventry's utility bills for 1976-77 will be nearly $2,000 less than they were in 1975-76, Town Manager Frank Connolly said this week.

In a report to the Town Council, Connolly said conservation efforts have achieved substantial cost reductions, despite rising prices.

Comparing the 1975-76 costs to the 1976-77 estimates, Connolly said the total utility bills will probably be $1,941 less this fiscal year.

Electricity costs dropped from $5,251 to an estimated $3,739. Oil bills were down from $1,183 to $1,046, and telephone costs were down from $4,609 to $4,317.

NEW YORK (UPI) — For different reasons, Rod Carew and Mark Fidrych had mixed feelings today about their latest brushes with brilliance.

Carew, with his determined attempt to become the first hitter since 1941 to hit 400 over an entire season, raised his average to .411 Wednesday night, with two hits and two walks. His performance was tempered, however, by his team's 1-0 loss to the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I don't like it when they walk me," Carew said. "I like to hit the ball and get on with a walk."

"As for the 400 thing," he added, "like I've said before, I don't want to do it every year and I don't want to dwell on it. If I'm hitting .399 the last day of the season, I'll think about it."

The Twins, who had scored 37 runs in their three previous games, were tamed on six hits by rookie right-hander Larry Sorrensen and two relievers. Sal Bando drove in the game's only run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Fidrych, on the other hand, continued his remarkable comeback from knee surgery by pitching his sixth straight eight-inning shutout.

Elsewhere in the American League, California blanked Kansas City 7-0, Seattle took Chicago 3-1, Baltimore earned a doubleheader split with a 5-3 win in the nightcap after losing the opener to the Indians 11-8 and Oakland split with Texas, losing 4-0 before winning 4-7.

Angels 7, Royals 0
Nolan Ryan fired a five-hitter and struck out 12 to win his season's total to 200, while Chad Busby cracked a triple and single to drive in three runs in his major league debut. The 29-year-old Busby, playing for the injured Joe Rudi, arrived just before game time from Salt Lake City and pitched home two runs in the fourth. Ryan is now 10-7.

Some suggestions

The second annual MCC New England Relays were completed last Sunday and for the second straight year the attendance figures for the track and field competition were disappointing. Maybe there are reasons. Here are some suggestions.

Take the novelty races, those for grammar school youngsters Grades 5 thru 8, and either move them to the morning or eliminate completely. Parents love 'em but track enthusiasts don't want to see some kids running around.

Also, get rid of superfluous events such as the 4 X 1-mile relay and 4 X 1-mile coed relay. They kill a good hour or close to it and, again, track purists frown on such things. You won't find these events listed in other track meets. If you want quality fine. But if quality is the goal, reduction is the only answer.

And finally, fans love records. Everybody knows it. But records seldom if ever will be set at the Peter Wigren Track. Granted MCC did a fine job of manuevering and getting it on shape, but, nevertheless, it is a "slow" track. Manchester High Coach Dick Williams scheduled all but one meet away this year with good reason.

What's needed is an all-weather track similar to what Hartford Public High possesses. It's costly, but maybe MCC in conjunction with town administrators can work out a deal and share the cost. That would attract a better field.

But if fun is the goal, then leave everything alone.

Finals finally made by Wade

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Tennis star John McEnroe, the youngest player in the 100 years of Wimbledon history to reach the semifinal of the men's singles, faces today's center court confrontation with favorite Jimmy Connors in the final of the Wimbledon tournament.

McEnroe, a 24-year-old left-hander from Doubouville, N.Y., who had to qualify for the $373,400 centenary championship, shows no fear at facing the 37-year-old Connors, who has won the title five times.

"I could use a few new clothes," Connors, a 24-year-old left-hander from Belleville, Ill., finds himself in the unique position of being the "old man" in the semifinal lineup.

In the other semi, David Flanagan, a 22-year-old defending champion from Bournemouth, England, will meet the 21-year-old non-American, the last four, tackles 22-year-old Jimmy Connors, who has never played on the center court before," he said Wednesday. "There will be a lot of people in the stands, all be on Connors. Everybody is expecting him to kill me but if I get me some more money, I'll be in it."

Gerulaitis, who this year collected his first major title by winning the Hamburg championship, lost both his previous meetings with Borg, but their last encounter was 18 months ago. Gerulaitis favors Connors to win his match. "I don't give McEnroe much of a chance, although he works very hard."

He said McEnroe's father once asked him to talk John out of tennis and into going to college. "I think his dad's going to have a tough argument now," he said.

Connors cannot afford to take any chances against McEnroe. Chris Evert was odds-on favorite to retain her women's title, but she crashed out to a 6-2, 6-1 defeat against third-seeded Briton Virginia Wade in Wednesday's semifinals. It will be Wade's first trip to the finals.

Evert said later she just couldn't get herself psyched up for the match.

"I was on the defensive the whole time and I just couldn't reach deep inside and pull out what I needed to win. I just didn't have it," she said.

Home hopes of the first all-British final for 16 years did not materialize with seventh-seeded Betty Stove edged fourth-seeded Sue Barker, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, to become the first Dutch player ever to reach the final.

David, the North American Soccer League's top scorer 10 goals, scored at 13:55 of the first half and hit with the winner at 62:38 of the second half.

Bad year

It just seems this year has been a bad one for umpires. The recently completed school year had the men in blue in more arguments than previously. Or it seemed so. Just the other day an arbiter was calling "em down the middle but forgot about the corners. Or it seemed so. Umps on the major league level aren't faring too well either. Gene Mauch, skipper of the Minnesota Twins, has been in both the National and American Leagues rates in the corner jury circuit just plain awful. He reserves comments more than in past because he knows it won't get him anywhere.

Every time you glance at the older loop, ump Ed Monaghan has yet thrown out another. It looks like he's ejected more managers/players than all his comrades combined. He has 11 rabbit ears or 2) an itch finger he likes to exercise regularly. They ought to give him a nickname like "one-day-Ed" or something to that effect.

And finally, twice in recent weeks, Soxer Carl Yaztremski dropped the bat and started jawing in vociferous terms after a called strike. I thought there was an automatic ejection rule for arguing on balls and strikes? How about giving him an early shower and stop this concept of two sets of rules — one for superstars and one for everybody else.

No worries for Sutton

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers sounded like a man who didn't have a care in the world — not even the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers had just beaten the Atlanta Braves 13-7 Wednesday night to maintain their 9 1/2-game lead over the Reds in the National League West. Sutton had gone seven innings, allowing two runs and five hits, knocked in three runs with a two-run double and a single and raised his season record to 9-3.

Sutton was in a talkative mood. He's a sophisticated type, a frequent guest on TV game shows and one of the $100,000 stars of baseball.

"Beating a guy like Andy Messersmith is like beating Seaver or Steve Carlton," he said. "Usually I go eight and skate."

Dodger Steve Garvey, who was hitless in his two previous games, hit his 100th career home run in the second inning. Sutton was in a talkative mood.

"Philosophically, Harvard and I were very compatible in terms of our outlooks regarding collegiate athletics," he added.

Sutton, a 6-foot-6 forward with Boston, scored a total of 8,766 points during his 15-year career with the Celtics for a 9.6 points per game average. His best year was the 1965-66 campaign, when he scored an average of 12.6 points per game.

In 916 games with Boston, he was recognized as one of the greatest defensive forwards to play the game.

Coming for trio

Defending Vermont American Legion baseball champ Rutland will be in the Natick State this weekend for three games. Saturday, Rutland visits Ellington in a single affair and Sunday at East's Eagle Field it'll play a doubleheader with Manchester providing the opposition in the 1 o'clock opener and Rockville in the night cap.

Bi's loss

NEW HAVEN — Steve David, scoring mainly in each half, carried the Los Angeles Aztecs to a 3-2 victory Wednesday night over the Connecticut Bicentennials.

David, the North American Soccer League's top scorer 10 goals, scored at 13:55 of the first half and hit with the winner at 62:38 of the second half.

Sanders tabbed as Celt assistant

BOSTON (UPI) — It didn't take long for the Boston Celtics to replace assistant coach and chief scout John Killilea who departed last week to accept a similar post with the Milwaukee Bucks.

Celtics' President and General Manager Red Auerbach announced Wednesday Tom Sanders will be the new assistant coach.

Sanders, 38, whose Celtic jersey number 18 was retired when he left the pro ranks to become the head basketball coach at Harvard in 1973 will rejoin the Celtics as an assistant coach.

Auerbach refused to divulge details of the contract, but Sanders later acknowledged the pact was for more than two years.

During the past four years at Harvard, Sanders' squads compiled a 40-60 record.

"There's no question the decision to join the Celtics will be in my mind," Sanders said immediately after signing his contract.

"The basketball program at Harvard was just beginning to reach the standards I had set as my goals when I first accepted the position," he said.

"Philosophically, Harvard and I were very compatible in terms of our outlooks regarding collegiate athletics," he added.

Sanders, a 6-foot-6 forward with Boston, scored a total of 8,766 points during his 15-year career with the Celtics for a 9.6 points per game average. His best year was the 1965-66 campaign, when he scored an average of 12.6 points per game.

Jackie Brown pitched

Jackie Brown pitched a seven-hitter for his second shutout as the Mets drove in two runs for the Expos who snapped the Cubs' eight-game winning streak and dealt Ray Burris his seventh loss against nine wins. The victory raised Brown's record to 5-5.

Pirates 9, Cards 1
Willie Stargell's 400th career homer was a two-run shot in the fifth inning which led the Pirates to their victory over the Cardinals. Stargell is the 17th player in baseball history to hit four home runs in a single game.

Looking for challenges

Weight champion out for new goals

By EARL YOST

Several years ago, George Frenn offered $10,000 to any one who could beat him throwing the 56-pound weight.

"The offer is still good," the heavily-muscled Los Angeles school teacher said Sunday afternoon at Memorial Field's Wigren Track as he took his warm-ups before entering the event he has dominated for the past decade.

"If anyone wants to put the money in my pocket, challenge me, I'll accept the 5-11, 240-pounder said.

"All I need is a little training, I worked out four times for today's meet.

"I didn't come all the way from California to lose."

Frenn didn't lose. He threw the 56-pound ball 46 feet, 5 inches, two feet better than Al Hall's winning toss a year ago but short of his world record of 49 feet, 8 1/2 inches set in 1971.

"My goals are to get a 50-foot toss and to place in the 1980 Olympic Games," the social science teacher at Ferris High in Los Angeles said.

"I have never lost in the 56-pound class for more than a year and he added without any hesitation, Frenn, who got started in the event by Bob Backus, the New York A.C. veteran who dominated the sport for 12 years, won in 1967-68, 69-70, 71-73.

Sunday's triumph was not a surprise.

"I would like to win. I like that gold medal," he said as he officially started his summer vacation.

Last year the 35-year-old Frenn had to pass up the local competition before submitting to a back operation for the removal of two discs in July.

The 16-pound throw was the biggest in National interest of the 64 events on the two-day schedule of the New England Relays sponsored by Manchester Community College.

Supreme Court okays rate settlement

HARTFORD (UPI) — Consumer groups, fighting to keep down energy costs, have won a three-year battle to force New England's largest power company to reduce electricity rates.

Connecticut's Supreme Court Wednesday approved a $7.3 million rate settlement with Northeast Utilities that calls for $6 million in customer refunds and a $1.5 million per month reduction in rates.

The agreement is apparently the largest of its kind in U.S. history, according to attorney Alexander A. Goldfarb, who represented consumer groups challenging the rates.

Under the settlement, the average household will get a refund of about $2.25 while the average monthly bill will drop about 90 cents, Goldfarb said.

He said the settlement requires Northeast to reduce its present rates by $21.6 million.

His lawyer's fee had delayed final approval of the settlement, worked out among consumer groups, municipalities, the Public Utilities Control Authority and Northeast. On Tuesday, Hartford officials approved payment of $150,000 to Goldfarb for his services, the lawyer said.

The rate fight began in 1974 when the PUC's predecessor, the State Public Utilities Commission, approved a $47.4 million rate hike requested by Northeast, but a court injunction stalled the increase.

A Common Pleas Court trial for almost three months in 1975 resulted in Judge William C. Bieulich declaring the rate hike illegal.

Northeast appealed to the State Supreme Court and, at almost the same time, filed a request with the PUC for another rate increase of $26.5 million. PUC rejected the second request in December 1976 and ordered the utility to roll back its rates to pre-May 1974 levels.

Northeast asked the Supreme Court to take over jurisdiction.

Consumer groups sat down with lawyers from Northeast and worked out the settlement. Northeast agreed and withdrew its appeal of the PUC's decisions.

Always Snowing
Snow forms within most storm clouds all year round and in all climates, even the most torrid. Summer thunderstorms often produce snow but on the journey eastward the warming air takes its toll, and the flakes melt into raindrops.

4 injured in crash of 7 cars

Then the truck struck the car driven by Calvin D. McCarthy, 58, of 241 Hollister St., Manchester, and that car hit the car driven by Stewart L. Johnson, 58, of Salem, N.H., which hit the car driven by Helen V. Reid, 44, of 99 Whitehall Dr., East Hartford.

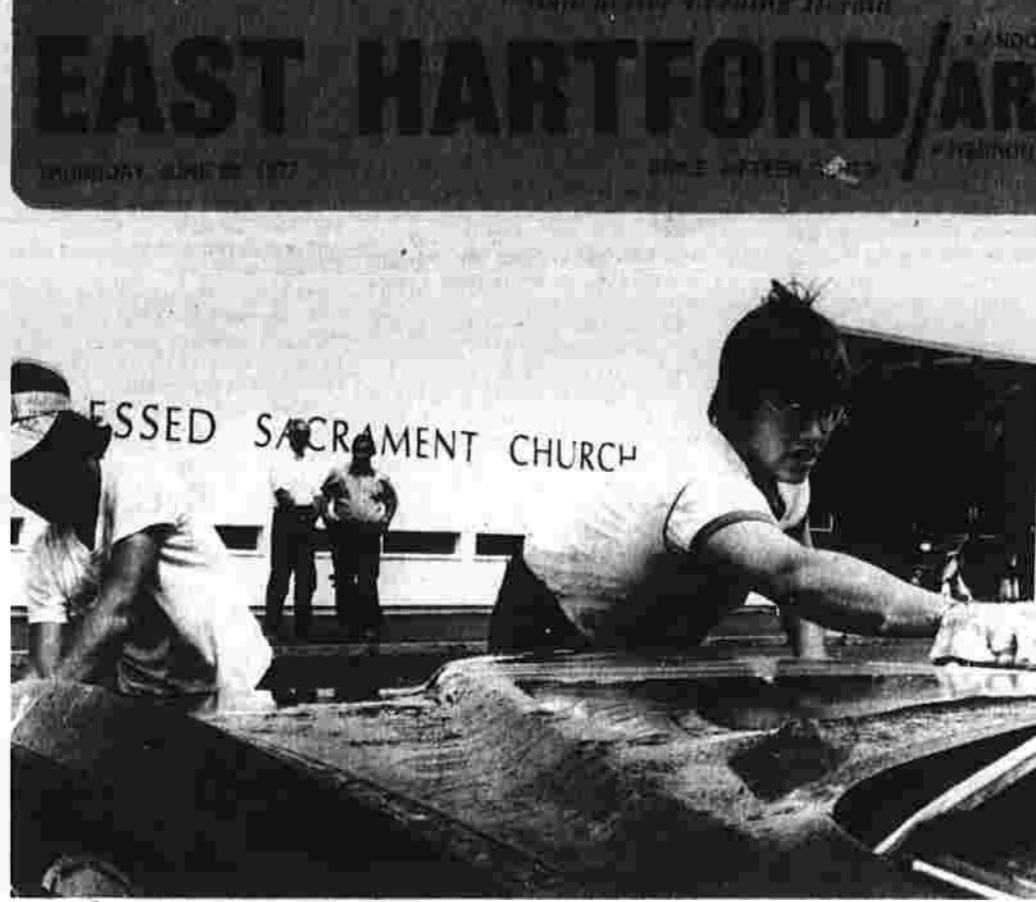

The Nugent and Johnson vehicles came to rest underneath the trailer. All the vehicles were piled against the left guard rail when police came.

Johnson was taken to St. Francis Hospital with head injuries. He is in stable condition this morning.

Passengers in the McCarthy vehicle, Marian McCarthy, 56, and Miriam McCarthy, 79, all of the same address, were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital. The younger woman was treated for contusions and released. Miriam was admitted with a head injury and was in serious condition late this morning.

Wetlands maps set

By SHEILA TULLER
Herald Correspondent

After an hour-long public hearing Wednesday, the Inland Wetlands Commission formally accepted East Hartford's new wetlands maps.

The maps were prepared this winter and spring by COMSIS Environmental Services of Glastonbury. They replace maps now 20 years old.

Ken MacGregor of COMSIS said, "The maps give the commission a device to evaluate each proposed development."

Each of the town's 127 wetland areas has its own value as given by COMSIS. The firm gave its values after study of soils, topography, and aerial photos of the town taken in 1976.

A field botanist and a soil scientist gave their help.

MacGregor said many areas once called wetlands are no longer listed this way. But several new areas are included in the new maps.

One of the new areas is property on Brewer St. owned by Joseph Schultz of 247 Main St.

Schultz objected because he feels the wetlands name will hurt his farmland.

"There's never been a puddle on this property, not in the floods of '36

Many worried about Vernon Circle road plans

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Shopping center owners, merchants and Vernon officials haven't given up trying to get the state Department of Transportation (DOT) to change plans for expansion of I-95 in the Vernon Circle area.

On suggestion of Max Javit, owner of Tri-City Plaza at the circle, Mayor Thomas Benoit called a meeting Wednesday. The meeting was attended by other center owners in the area, other town officials, merchants, and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters and the Planning Commission.

Javit's prime concern, along with the others, is the change the state made to I-95 which will remove the on-ramp to I-95 east from the circle area.

Javit said that once this ramp is removed, "we might find that five years down the road that Rt. 30 will be ridiculous."

The original plans for the highway expansion were proposed 12 or 13 years ago and have been modified many times. The plans now call for an interchange at the circle with the eastbound exit ramp off Dobson Rd. This will mean that all of the traffic will feed into Rt. 30.

If a person coming from the shopping area wanted to go east, he would have to go through several traffic lights and express on Dobson Rd. Javit fears that people will just continue on to Manchester shopping areas rather than go through this inconvenience.

"I'm not sure there is contention between the shopping areas. The issue is what is going to happen to the Town of Vernon," Javit said.

"I feel we should take legal action to stop this. The state has agreed not to bypass the circle. They admitted the second plan is not as good but they don't want to bother to redesign again," Javit said.

He said the success of the shopping center affects the tax base of the town.

Arnold W. Aronson, Javit's attorney, noted that there is enough at stake that the studies should be brought up to date. Javit said the state is basing its plans on environmental studies done about 1974.

Benedict G. Barkan, president of Barkan & Mess Associates, traffic engineers and transportation planners, has studied the state's proposal. He said there doesn't appear to be any engineering reason for the alternative plan, with the on-ramp from Hartford Dyke, couldn't be implemented.

Javit said no professional has been hired to see what's best for the Town of Vernon. "I think the town will have to make up its mind to let this pass over or get some professional to do a study," Javit said.

George Risley, also owner of a shopping center at the circle and part owner of the Golf and Country Club in Talcottville, said when the highway was first put in there was only one overpass for the entire town. Others were put in later.

He said the Town of Manchester got its overpasses in the first place because they demanded it.

Mrs. Linda Rossin, a member of the Planning Commission, said accessibility is the key issue. She said there will also be a problem getting out of the K-Mart Plaza off Rt. 30 at busy times.

Risley said that the problem in the Rockville section is traffic. He said it's impossible to get in there. "We don't want the circle to go the way it is," he said.

Roy Conyers said his concern was the Golf and Country Club, a large complex including a motel, restaurant and two theaters. He said the proposed changes will have an adverse effect on that area.

He said traffic has doubled within the last two years. "That has to be made four lanes within two years. At least they should do what they did on Rt. 83," he said.

He said there would be more expansion in the Golf and Country Club area. "You're really eventually talking about the economic impact, that's the concern for this meeting and it's very justifiable," he said.

Javit said he would be happy to participate with other businessmen in whatever has to be done.

Mayor Benoit said he thinks there is enough concern to have the town planner and the Planning Commission re-evaluate the plans.

Risley said the state has been short-sighted in its thinking and Atty. Aronson said the state is not looking out for the town.

Thoughts aplenty

Some suggestions

The second annual MCC New England Relays were completed last Sunday and for the second straight year the attendance figures for the track and field competition was disappointing. Maybe there are reasons. Here are some suggestions.

Take the novelty races, those for grammar school youngsters Grades 5 thru 8, and either move them to the morning or eliminate completely. Parents love 'em but track enthusiasts don't want to see some kids running around.

Also, get rid of superfluous events such as the 4 X 1-mile relay and 4 X 1/2-mile coed relay. They kill a good hour or close to it and, again, track purists frown on such things. You won't find these events listed in other track meets. If you want quantity fine. But if quality is the goal, reduction is the only answer.

And finally, fans love records. Everybody knows it. But make seldom if ever will be set at Pete Wigen Track. Granted MCC did a fine job of manuring and getting it in shape, but, nevertheless, it is a "slow" track. Manchester High track Coach Dick Williams scheduled all but one meet away this year with good reason.

What's needed is an all-weather track similar to what Hartford Public High possesses. It's costly, but maybe MCC in conjunction with town administrators can work out a deal and share the cost. That would attract a better field.

If fun is the goal, then leave everything alone.

Locals did well

There were local thrillers who did well Sunday. Manchester High sophomore Tracy Culbertson won the javelin with a toss of 112-feet, 8-inches. East Catholic's Yvonne Nolan took second in the 100-yard dash with an :11.1 clocking and Teri Arendt, a recent MHS grad, took second in the long jump at 16-feet, 3-inches and high jump at 5-feet. Both broke previous best standards she set in high school.

In the boys' high school division, Glenn Flodorf of Manchester High took third in the mile run. Dave Kolakowski of East Catholic took third in the high jump while Manchester resident Pacey Pat, who attends Loomis in Windsor, won the shot put with a heave of 54-feet 3/4-inches.

The 4 x 1-mile relay was taken by the quartet of Tom Jolie (Xavier), Terry Perrault (St. Paul), Dave Braks (Xavier) and Luke O'Connor (East Catholic) with a time of 18:50.56.

Bad year

It just seems this year has been a bad one for umpires. The recently completed schoolboy season had the men in blue in more arguments than previously. Or it seemed so. Just the other day an arbiter was calling 'em down the middle but forgot about the corners. Or it seemed so.

Umps on the major league level aren't faring too well either. Gene Mauch, skipper of the Minnesota Twins, has been in both the National and American Leagues rates those in the junior circuit just plain awful since I fared too well either. Gene Mauch, skipper of the Minnesota Twins, has been in both the National and American Leagues rates those in the junior circuit just plain awful since I fared too well either.

Every time you glance at the older loop, ump Ed Montague has yet thrown out another. It looks like he's ejected more managers/players than all his comrades combined. He has 11 rabbit ears or 21 an itchy finger he likes to exercise regularly. They ought to give him a nickname like "one-a-day-Ed" or something to that effect.

And finally, twice in recent weeks, BoSoxer Carl Yazstromski dropped the ball and started juggling in scocious terms after a called strike. I thought there was an automatic ejection rule for arguing on balls and strikes? How about giving him an early shoving and stop this concept of two sets of rules — one for superstars and one for everybody else.

Coming for trio

Defending Vermont American Legion baseball champ Rutland will be in the Nutmeg State this weekend for three games. Saturday, Rutland visits Ellington in a single affair and Sunday at East's Eagle Field it'll play a doubleheader with Manchester providing the opposition in the 1 o'clock opener and Rockville in the night-cap.

Sanders tabbed as Celt assistant

BOSTON (UPI) — It didn't take long for the Boston Celtics to replace assistant coach and chief scout John Killilea who departed last week to accept a similar post with the Milwaukee Bucks.

Celtics' President and General Manager Red Auerbach announced Wednesday Tom "Satch" Sanders, 38, whose Celtic jersey number 16 was retired when he left the pro ranks to become the head basketball coach at Harvard in 1973 will join the Celtics as an assistant coach.

Auerbach refused to divulge details of the contract, but Sanders later acknowledged the pact was for more than two years.

During the past four years at Harvard, Sanders' quintets compiled a 40-60 record.

"There's no question the decision to join the Celtics will bother me in regard to the basketball situation at Harvard," Sanders said immediately after signing his contract.

"The basketball program at Harvard was just beginning to reach the standards I had set as my goals when I first accepted the position," he said.

"Philosophically, Harvard and I were very compatible in terms of our outlook regarding collegiate athletics," he added.

Sanders, a 6-foot-6 forward with Boston, scored a total of 8,766 points during his 12-year career with the Celtics for a 9.6 points per game average. His best year was the 1955-56 campaign, when he scored an average of 12.6 points per game.

In 916 games with Boston, he was recognized as one of the greatest defensive forwards to play the game.

The Dodgers had just beaten the Atlanta Braves 13-7 Wednesday night to maintain their 3-1/2 game lead over the Reds in the National League West. Sutton had gone seven innings allowing two runs and five hits, knocked in three runs with a two-run double and a single and raised his season record to 9-3.

Sutton was in a talkative mood. He's a sophisticated, a frequent guest on TV game shows and one of the $100,000 stars of baseball.

"Beating a guy like Andy Messersmith is like beating Seaver or Steve Carlton," he said. "Usually, I go to eight and a half innings."

Dodger Steve Garvey, who was hitless in his two previous games, hit his 19th and 20th homers of the season to move into a four-way tie for the NL lead. He is one homer short of his eight-season high. Bill Russell also knocked in three runs for the Dodgers.

Reds 5, Giants 4
Tom Seaver, in his third appearance for the Reds, allowed four runs and eight hits in eight innings with one run scored. He pitched into the ninth and finished with a 5-4-11-inning triumph over the San Francisco Giants. Seaver has won one game, lost one and gone to a no-decision in his three appearances for the two-time world champions who were expected to be almost invincible when he was pitching for his former Expos 5, Cubs 0.

Jackie Brown pitched a seven-hitter in his second shutout and Dave Cash drove in two runs for the Expos who snapped the Cubs' eight-game winning streak and dealt Ray Barris his seventh loss against nine wins. The victory raised Brown's record to 5-6.

Pirates 9, Cards 1
Willie Stargell's 400th career homer was a two-run shot in the fifth inning which led the Pirates to their victory over the Cardinals. Stargell is the 17th player in baseball history to hit 400 homers. Bill Robinson and Phil Garner also connected for the Pirates as Bruce Kison won his sixth game with the relief help of Eric Gossage and Eric Rasmussen suffered his ninth setback.

Reds 5, Phillies 3
Bobby Valentine hit a solo homer and rookie Steve Henderson doubled in two runs as the Mets snapped a six-game losing streak. Jerry Kosman and Skip Lockwood combined in a five-hitter while Jim Lonborg suffered his second loss against one victory for the Phillies.

Padres 7, Astros 4
Mike Ivie had three singles and drove in two runs as the Padres ended their eight-game losing streak. Dave Freisenber scored his first win against five losses. George Hen-

Fidrych mows down Red Sox while Carew's average rises

NEW YORK (UPI) — For different reasons, Rod Carew and Mark Fidrych had mixed feelings today about their latest brushes with brilliance.

Carew, with his determined attempt to become the first batter since 1941 to hit .400 over an entire season, raised his average to .411 Wednesday night with two hits and two walks. His performance was tempered, however, by his team's 1-0 loss to the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I don't like it when they walk me," Carew said. "I like to hit the ball and it gets me when they put me on a walk."

"As for the 400 thing," he added, "I've said before that I'd like to hit .400 every year and I don't want to dwell on it. If I'm hitting .399 the last day of the season, I'll think about it. We were winning 4-2, so why worry?"

Jason Thompson drove in three runs for the Indians which gave Tom House, who has won four in a row, with a double in the second and a two-run homer during a three-run eighth.

Fidrych, on the other hand, continued his remarkable comeback from knee surgery by pitching his sixth straight shutout.

Elsewhere in the American League, California blanked Kansas City 7-0, Seattle took Chicago 3-1, Baltimore earned a doubleheader split with a 5-3 win in the nightcap after losing the opener to the Indians 11-3 and Oakland split with Texas, losing 4-0 before winning 4-1.

Angels 7, Royals 0
Nolan Ryan fired a five-hitter and struck out 12 to run his season's total to 200. That's the only pitcher who has cracked a triple and single to drive in three runs in his major league debut. The 29-year-old Bostoner playing for the injured Joe Rudi, arrived just before game time from Salt Lake City and tripled home two runs in the fourth. Ryan is now 10-7.

Victory, a 7-2 decision over the Boston Red Sox. But the win was hardly a masterpiece. The excellent right-hander scattered nine hits and in the seventh inning he hit the ball and it got me when they put me on a walk.

"As for the 400 thing," he added, "I've said before that I'd like to hit .400 every year and I don't want to dwell on it. If I'm hitting .399 the last day of the season, I'll think about it. We were winning 4-2, so why worry?"

New surface

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Schaefer Stadium, home of the New England Patriots, soon will be fitted with a new artificial playing surface that will be ready by the start of the National Football League exhibition season.

The original Polyurf surface, installed when the stadium was built in 1971, has been stripped and sold to a Greater Boston salvage firm, which resold it at 76,000 square feet of the worn carpet at $1 per running foot in a four-day span.

Finals finally made by Wade

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Teenager John McEnroe, the youngest player in the 100 years of Wimbledon history to reach the semifinal of the men's singles, faces Bjorn Borg's court confrontation with favorite Jimmy Connors with the irreverence of a kid going on a day's outing.

The 18-year-old left-hander from Douglaston, N.Y., who had to qualify for the $373,400 centenary championship, shows no fear at facing the 1974 champion.

"It should be fun. I have never played on the center court," he said Wednesday. "There will be no pressure on me. It will all be on Connors. Everybody is expecting him to kill me but if I think I didn't have a chance I wouldn't go on court. But if I beat him I will probably drop down to number 100."

McEnroe's father is flying in to see the talented teenager, who doesn't talk and doesn't care what happens to the prize money he has to forego as an amateur.

"I'm not sure who gets the money," he said. "Probably all the referees go out to dinner on it. I can't really care, although I could use a few new clothes."

Connors, a 24-year-old left-hander from Belleville, Ill., finds himself in the unique position of being the "old man" in the semifinal lineup.

In the other semi, 21-year-old defending champion Bjorn Borg of Sweden, who only non-American in the last four weeks, tackles 22-year-old New Yorker Vitas Gerulaitis.

Gerulaitis, who this year collected his first major title by winning the Italian championship, lost both his previous matches to Borg, but their last encounter was 18 months ago. Gerulaitis favors Connors to win his match. "I don't give McEnroe much of a chance, although he won't be pretty hard."

He said McEnroe's father once asked him to take John out of tennis and into going to college. "I think his dad's going to have a tough argument now," he said.

Connors cannot afford to take any chances against McEnroe. Chris Evert was odds-on favorite to retain her women's title, but she crashed to a 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 defeat against third-seeded Briton Virginia Wade in Wednesday's semifinals. It will be Wade's first trip to the finals.

Evert said later she just couldn't get herself psyched up for the match.

"I was on the defensive the whole time and I just couldn't reach deep inside and pull out what I needed to win. I just didn't have it," she said.

Home hopes of the first all-British final for 16 years did not materialize Wednesday as Betty Stove edged fourth-seeded Sue Barker, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, to become the first Dutch player ever to reach the final.

David, the North American Soccer League's top scorer 18 goals, scored at 13:35 of the first half and hit with the winner at 82:38 of the second half.

No worries for Sutton

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers sounded like a man who didn't have a care in the world — not even the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers had just beaten the Atlanta Braves 13-7 Wednesday night to maintain their 3-1/2 game lead over the Reds in the National League West. Sutton had gone seven innings allowing two runs and five hits, knocked in three runs with a two-run double and a single and raised his season record to 9-3.

Sutton was in a talkative mood. He's a sophisticated, a frequent guest on TV game shows and one of the $100,000 stars of baseball.

"Beating a guy like Andy Messersmith is like beating Seaver or Steve Carlton," he said. "Usually, I go to eight and a half innings."

Dodger Steve Garvey, who was hitless in his two previous games, hit his 19th and 20th homers of the season to move into a four-way tie for the NL lead. He is one homer short of his eight-season high. Bill Russell also knocked in three runs for the Dodgers.

Reds 5, Giants 4
Tom Seaver, in his third appearance for the Reds, allowed four runs and eight hits in eight innings with one run scored. He pitched into the ninth and finished with a 5-4-11-inning triumph over the San Francisco Giants. Seaver has won one game, lost one and gone to a no-decision in his three appearances for the two-time world champions who were expected to be almost invincible when he was pitching for his former Expos 5, Cubs 0.

Jackie Brown pitched a seven-hitter in his second shutout and Dave Cash drove in two runs for the Expos who snapped the Cubs' eight-game winning streak and dealt Ray Barris his seventh loss against nine wins. The victory raised Brown's record to 5-6.

Pirates 9, Cards 1
Willie Stargell's 400th career homer was a two-run shot in the fifth inning which led the Pirates to their victory over the Cardinals. Stargell is the 17th player in baseball history to hit 400 homers. Bill Robinson and Phil Garner also connected for the Pirates as Bruce Kison won his sixth game with the relief help of Eric Gossage and Eric Rasmussen suffered his ninth setback.

Reds 5, Phillies 3
Bobby Valentine hit a solo homer and rookie Steve Henderson doubled in two runs as the Mets snapped a six-game losing streak. Jerry Kosman and Skip Lockwood combined in a five-hitter while Jim Lonborg suffered his second loss against one victory for the Phillies.

Padres 7, Astros 4
Mike Ivie had three singles and drove in two runs as the Padres ended their eight-game losing streak. Dave Freisenber scored his first win against five losses. George Hen-

Weight champion out for new goals

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

Several years ago, George Frenn offered $10,000 to any one who could beat him throwing the 56-pound weight.

Gold medalist George Frenn

"The offer is still good," the heavily-muscled Los Angeles school teacher said Sunday afternoon at Memorial Field's Wigren Track as he took his warm-ups before entering the event he has dominated for the past decade.

"If anyone wants to put up the money and challenge me, I'll accept," the 5-11, 240-pounder said. "All I need is a little training. I worked out four times for today's meet."

"I didn't come all the way from California to lose." Frenn didn't lose. He threw the 56-pound ball 46 feet, 5 inches, two feet better than Al Hall's winning toss a year ago but short of his world record of 49 feet, 8 1/2 inches set in 1971.

who dominated the sport for 12 years, won in 1967-68 and 70-71-73-75. Sunday's triumph was No. 8. "I would like to win it, the record is 10 by Hank Dreyer, but I don't know if I can match or break his record," he said. During the competition, no one was pulling harder for Backus to get off a good toss than Frenn, and Backus was urging the Californian to do the same. Backus won seven National titles in the 56-pound class from the period of 1953 thru 1965. "I'm capable of doing 50 feet. If everything goes right, I'll do it. It's never

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The last of seven 12-meter yachts from the United States, Australia, France and Sweden has arrived to complete the field that will compete for yachting's biggest prize — the America's Cup. The Swedish entry, the aluminum-hulled, 38-foot, 12-meter, Pelle Peterson, was carefully lifted Wednesday night from a freighter in Providence and towed to a mooring in nearby Jamestown on the other side of Narragansett Bay. A crowd of 200 yachting enthusiasts was on hand to greet Sweden's first entry ever in America's Cup competition.

Supreme Court okays rate settlement

HARTFORD (UPI) — Consumer groups, fighting to keep down energy costs, have won a three-year battle to force New England's largest power company to reduce electricity rates.

Connecticut's Supreme Court Wednesday approved a $27.5 million rate settlement with Northeast Utilities that calls for $6 million in customer refunds and a $1.5 million per month reduction in rates.

The agreement is apparently the largest of its kind in U.S. history, according to attorney Alexander A. Goldfarb, who represented consumer groups challenging the rates.

Under the settlement, the average household will get a refund of about $2.25 while the average monthly bill will drop about 90 cents, Goldfarb said.

Northeast Utilities serves 850,000 customers in Connecticut, or approximately three fourths of the state's population.

The decision forces Northeast to reduce electric rates retroactive to May 1. Goldfarb said the refund checks may begin going out sometime in August.

He said the settlement requires Northeast to reduce its present rates by $21.6 million.

His lawyer's fee had delayed final approval of the settlement, worked out among consumer groups, municipalities, the Public Utilities Control Authority and Northeast. On Tuesday, Hartford officials approved payment of $150,000 to Goldfarb for his services, the lawyer said.

The rate fight began in 1974 when the PUC's predecessor, the state Public Utilities Commission, approved a $47.4 million rate hike request by Northeast, but a court injunction stalled the increase.

A Common Pleas Court trial for almost three months in 1975 resulted in Judge William C. Bieulich declaring the rate hike illegal.

Northeast appealed to the State Supreme Court and, at almost the same time, filed a request with the PUC for another rate increase of $56.5 million. PUC rejected the second request in December 1976 and ordered the utility to roll back its rates to pre-May 1974 levels.

Northeast asked the Supreme Court to take over jurisdiction.

Consumer groups sat down with lawyers from Northeast and worked out the settlement. Northeast agreed and withdrew its appeal of the PUC decisions.

Bally purchase application for jai alais is accepted

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The state gaming commission's acceptance of the application by a Chicago firm to buy Hartford jai alai is expected to trigger the largest police investigation ever of a prospective licensee.

The gaming commission Wednesday accepted the application from Bally Manufacturing Corp., and ordered it to submit financial records for all persons holding 1 per cent or more of the firm's stock.

Bally, the world's largest maker of slot machines, is seeking to take over the assets of World Jai Alai Inc. of Miami, which owns jai alai arenas in Spain and Florida in addition to the Hartford fronton. Both states must approve the $60 million stock transfer.
