Tough energy plan under study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials say President Carter's energy plan is expected to propose tough new emergency fuel conservation plans including gasoline rationing that could be imposed immediately in the event of another oil embargo. Officials say the plan — the result of a comprehensive review of standby energy authority throughout the government — will be submitted to Congress within a few months. It would replace less stringent measures proposed just before President Gerald Ford left office.

The rationing part of Carter's plan would at first issue a three-month supply of ration coupons printed during the 1973-74 oil embargo and now in storage, officials said Wednesday. They said the new plan is expected to keep three additional, less drastic conservation steps that were in Ford's program, plus two other steps considered and then discarded by Ford administration officials. Those five emergency steps are: • Heating, cooling, lighting and hot water restrictions. • Commuter parking restrictions and carpooling incentives. • Weekend gasoline and diesel fuel distribution restrictions, which the final Ford plan did not include. • Boiler combustion efficiency requirements, also discarded in the final Ford plan. • Restrictions on illuminated advertising and outdoor gas lighting. A spokesman said the plan is designed so it could be imposed gradually, using only those steps needed to cope with a particular crisis.

Major decisions face Supreme Court in fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, now adjourned for the summer, already has important cases involving individual liberties awaiting its return Oct. 3. The term that ended Wednesday with actions on rape and abortion showed an increase in appeals dealing with rights of women and children and family matters generally, along with the usual criminal matters and disputes over religion, race and obscenity. Capital punishment was prominent in the term, although the principle was sanctioned a year ago. Questions continue to arise as to whether state laws comply with the standards the justices have established or whether an individual has been accorded all the required rights. They struck down Louisiana's mandatory death sentence for the murder of law enforcement officers, and in a Georgia case Wednesday vetoed the death penalty for rape, regardless of the circumstances, when a life is not taken. After allowing states to decide without regard either to federal law or the Constitution whether to fund non-therapeutic abortions, the court returned to a Brooklyn federal judge the question of whether a ban on abortion for abortions should be continued. A women's rights decision that limited a deluge of criticism held that employers may exclude pregnant women workers from their disability insurance plans without violating federal civil rights law. During the term, Richard Nixon's four appointees — Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices Harry Blackmun, Lewis Powell and William Rehnquist — were in voting control as they have been for some time, usually in combination with Kennedy appointee Byron White and/or Ford appointee John Paul Stevens. Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, the remaining members of the more liberal majority under Chief Justice Earl Warren, continued their many dissents from judgments which they said undermined earlier rulings in support of individual rights and full access to federal courts. During this term, the court also delivered its second legal blow to Nixon by ruling that Congress properly gave the government control over 42 million documents and 800 tapes from his administration. A 1974 ruling in the Watergate cover-up case was a major factor in his resignation.

House okays extension of land claim deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Thursday approved a one-month extension until Aug. 18 for the government to file land claims on behalf of Indians. The measure, approved by voice vote and sent to the Senate, was a stop-gap move to extend a provision in the 1966 law that the statute of limitations barring any further filing of claims by the government would go into effect on July 18, 1977. Indians continue to file claims on their own but would not be able to get government help in doing so. A bill pending before the House that would extend the statute of limitations to Dec. 31, 1981, but the measure was expected to be considered by the House and Senate before the July 18 deadline. The simple one-month extension will give Congress time to act on the 4½-year extension bill. The issue has immediate impact on the state of Maine where the government is prepared to go to court to defend Indian claims to about 60 percent of the state's land. The Justice Department said, however, it doubted it would have the Maine case ready to present before the July 18 deadline.

HARTFORD — State Comptroller J. Edward Caldwell says Connecticut probably will wind up the fiscal year that ended Thursday with a surplus of $54.2 million — $12 million more than the Grasso Administration had predicted.

BALTIMORE — Wilfred A. Banister, accused of kidnapping Charlotte Grosse, 15, Wednesday in Florida, once lived in Connecticut and left behind a string of unpaid debts, Henry Koles of Norwich, his former landlord, said Friday.

NEW HAVEN — Donald Burch, the bank manager accused of embezzlement for approving $1.4 million in unsecured loans to a Woodbridge developer in 1974, was later hired by the bank's insurance company which had bonded him. Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. is suing insurance Company of North America to recover the $1.4 million Burch loaned to Andrew L. D'Amato and his associates.

CONCORD, N.H. — Lack of a budget won't stop the operation of government in New Hampshire but no one can be forced to work, says Comptroller Arthur Fowler and Attorney General David Souter. In a memo Friday, they said they would not enforce the law making department heads liable for money expended without budget authorization. The legislature received Friday morning without approving a budget.

Marching to join up with Washington

Monday, Charter Oak St. will be quiet and some will recall the Bicentennial observance of last year which climaxed with a gala national Fourth of July celebration. This Herald photo taken June 23, 1976, by Reginald Pinto shows a group re-tracing the route taken by French Gen. Rochambeau and his troops who came from Newport, R.I. and crossed Connecticut to join up with Gen. George Washington. The combined allied force eventually defeated Gen. Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Travelers jam highways airports, bus terminals

By United Press International

Fourth of July holiday weekend travelers jammed highways, airports, bus and train stations today as police in several states beefed up patrols to keep drivers within the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

The National Safety Council estimated between 500 and 600 Americans could die in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday. Another 23,000 to 28,000 persons may suffer disabling injuries during the 78-hour period.

The NSC also warned that fireworks accidents could cause such injuries to 9,000 persons and such accidents being taking their toll Friday night.

Four persons were injured — two of them hospitalized — when some fireworks exploded during an annual Fourth of July celebration at a hospital for mentally retarded persons at Woodward, Iowa.

A spokesman at the Woodward State Hospital-School said one of the fireworks apparently malfunctioned, touching off the explosion among the other fireworks. Medical personnel on the scene administered first aid to the injured and a fire truck stationed at the site put out a small fire started by the fireworks.

The Nebraska State Patrol Friday used air patrols to help curb speeding. A spokesman said the surveillance patrols would be used during all three days of the holiday.

In the East, the holiday began with a six-mile back up in the Harbor Tunnel in Baltimore. State police said it took an hour to clear up the congestion. Police also said new electronic signs were set up to give alternative routes to Ocean City and the Atlantic resort areas in hopes of avoiding the usual holiday traffic jams.

Spirit of '76 rings in most of region

By RON RIECHMANN
United Press International

The spirit of '76 will still ring throughout the cities and towns of New England this Fourth of July weekend, but there will be far fewer mammoth fireworks displays than in previous years.

Inflation, skyrocketing prices for fireworks, fiscal dilemmas and a lack of enthusiasm after overexpending for last year's Bicentennial festivities were some of the reasons cited by officials.

Major exceptions to the reduction in fireworks spectacles will be the celebration in Boston — where America's birthday will be marked by a fireworks show 25 per cent larger than last year; and Vermont, which is marking its own Bicentennial.

About 10:40 p.m. Monday the largest fireworks shell ever fired on the East Coast — a 120-pound aerial bomb — will be exploded 2,000 feet over the Charles River in a dazzle of red, green and silver, capping a traditional performance of Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture by the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The cost of Boston's fireworks display is $18,000, with money from private donations.

Nancy Kox, executive director of the Vermont Bicentennial Commission, said she thinks there are as many, if not more, fireworks displays planned this year in Vermont as in the past.

But America's 201st birthday will be marked in many communities by a return to quieter and more traditional observances.

Lynn, Mass., Mayor Antonio J. Marino and the City Council decided to do away with a fireworks display this year, citing high costs and disappointing results as reasons for the decision.

Even last year, when the city spent $5,000 on a display, many people said it was too short and not exciting enough, Marino said. "You just don't get the same kind of display, you could in the old days."

The town council in Wethersfield, Conn., was told recently by one of its citizens that using town funds for fireworks is like putting a match to a "bonfire of thousand dollar bills."

Only 28 of Connecticut's 169 cities and towns will have fireworks displays this Fourth of July weekend.

"We're asking people to increase tax payments, so maybe it isn't too smart to let all the money go up in smoke," said Providence, R.I., city clerk Vincent Vespa. He said the city would not have a big fireworks display on America's birthday for the first time in 50 years.

Overdue taxes pour in to town

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Town of Manchester collected $77,223.39 in overdue taxes on Thursday, June 30, according to James Turek, collector of revenue.

Thursday was the last day of the fiscal year, a date that is normally a heavy one for tax collection.

"It was a good June 30," Turek said. Before Thursday, the town had collected about $98,000 during the month of June.

Despite the heavy last-day payment, which came after The Herald had published a list of delinquent taxpayers, Turek still predicts that the tax shortfall for 1976-77 will be $300,000-$320,000.

The Board of Directors had projected that the town would collect $15,665,477 in 1976-77 taxes. Turek has said for some time that he expects the actual collection to be at least $300,000 short of that figure.

The shortfall is a concern because it could result in a budget deficit for the fiscal year. Town officials have said that it is close as to whether the town will end the year with a surplus or a deficit.

The final figures on the 1976-77 budget should be completed in the next couple of weeks.

Much of the taxes collected on Thursday were from Green Manor Construction Co. and several subsidiary firms, most of which operate out of office in 685 Parker St.

The firms paid more than $55,000 in overdue taxes. Some of the largest payments were made by Journal Publishing Co. Inc., $11,767.73; Neil H. Ellis, president of Green Manor Construction Co. and First Hartford Realty Corp., and Constantine Kaplan, $15,314.22; and EP Associates, $14,065.82. (The listed amounts do not include interest payments that were made.)

Another large payment was received Thursday from Charles Schrier, a Bloomfield resident who paid $5,071.57.

Friday was the first day of the new fiscal year, and the collector's office is now receiving tax payments for the 1977-78 year.

Turek said that the first half of tax payments for the year are due this month and will become overdue if not paid by Aug. 1. Taxes may be mailed to the collector's office in the Municipal Building, 41 Center St., or may be paid in person.

The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. There are two extra employees assisting the regular staff to collect taxes during the month, Turek said.

Carter at Camp David

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — With the toughest decision of his presidency behind him, President Carter came to this mountaintop retreat in a reflective mood, mindful of the task ahead, but aware of the progress made thus far.

Carter relaxed today with family and friends and planned to stay until Monday evening, returning to Washington in time to watch the fireworks display on the Washington Monument grounds from the Truman balcony at the White House.

The stress of the decision not to build the B1 bomber was left behind for a time, and Carter took the opportunity Friday to tell reporters of his thoughts about this year's Independence Day.

"I think our country has substantially overcome the embarrassments of Watergate, Vietnam, the CIA revelations," the President said. "I think we have a good optimistic attitude toward the future."

He also said he was "very proud of the accomplishments of Congress" and said it made "superb progress on the major issues," including his energy package.

Later the White House issued Carter's formal statement on the significance of the Fourth of July.

"The Fourth of July is America's traditional day of celebration, a chance to remind ourselves of the heritage we share with each other and with the men of great spirit and wise vision who brought our nation into being 201 years ago today."

But July 4 should also be a day of reflection. Freedom the ideal which creates our nation and continues to give it meaning throughout the world, has flourished in human history far more seldom than we would like to believe.

As he left Washington, the President expressed some satisfaction that he is making headway in winning international support for his proposal to restrain recycling of nuclear fuels.

New LJM director named

The Board of Trustees of the Lutz J. Museum has announced the appointment of Glynis M. Berry as director of the museum. Ms. Berry's appointment was effective Friday.

Ms. Berry succeeds Mrs. Pamela Salomon who recently resigned her position after serving at the museum for eight years.

Before coming to Manchester, Ms. Berry worked in the art department of Crozer Publications in New York City. Before that she served as exhibit designer at the Penobscot Marine Museum in Searsport, Maine, where she researched and designed an exhibit on the lives of sea captains under a grant from the Maine State Arts and Humanities Commission.

In 1974, Ms. Berry was assistant to the curator of exhibits at the Alaska State Museum in Juneau. While there she researched, planned and constructed displays on such topics as edible plants, Russian trading beads and polar bears.

Ms. Berry, a native of Hopedale, Mass., received her B.A. degree in 1974 from Smith College where she majored in studio art and English. She also attended the Boston University School of Fine Arts as a special student studying visual arts in 1975-76. Since graduation she has done free lance art work and exhibited her photography in a two-person show in Juneau, Alaska.

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi, gang! The big news is that we're having our big splash party picnic this coming Wednesday morning.

Like last year our good friend Norman Fendell has made the arrangements for us to meet at his apartment known as the Coronado Club apartments just on the right off of Prospect St. as you turn off of Hartford Rd. Our bus will make its regular run starting at 9:30 a.m. The swimming pool will be available for your enjoyment as well as an outdoor shuffleboard court and card tables both indoors and outside. There is plenty of parking for you folks who can drive.

By the way, this means that we are canceling our programs at the center for this day; however, the building will be open for visiting and business as usual. Tickets may be purchased for this affair here at the office for a nominal fee and should be purchased on Tuesday.

Mystic trip

Now to keep up on our trips. On Tuesday morning we will be signing up for a day in Mystic Seaport. This trip includes the bus ride, day in Mystic, a meal at the Seaman's Inn, with a choice of London broil, broiled Boston scrod or chicken pot pie. The complete package is $13. Like always, we register on a first-come basis and one person can sign up for two people only. This trip is scheduled for Thursday, July 21.

Pinochle

Action here at the center starts with our Wednesday morning pinochle games. We had 40 players and the winners were: Esther Anderson, 614; Archie Houghtaling, 624; John Phelps, 601; Al Chellman, 599; Mary Hill, 589; Marge Kayser, 589; George Last, 584; Lee Steinmeyer, 561; Bess Mooman, 546; Marjorie McLain, 538.

Also in the morning we had a nice turnout for our Friendship Circle meeting and the group was busy learning about many different and interesting hobbies and one big project is learning and making a braided rug. This group meets every Wednesday morning from 10 to noon and is open to all our local citizens. This meeting is also canceled next Wednesday because of our gala splash party and picnic.

Honor UNICO

At noon time we honored members of UNICO with an Appreciation Lunch and had a real nice turnout.

Once again we express our thanks to UNICO for donating monies so that our meal program is able to be extended an extra five weeks.

Wednesday afternoon we had 16 players for our bridge games and the prize winners were: Esther Anderson, 3-920; Marge Reed, 3-750; Nan Flanagan, 3-530; Vivien Lesperance, 3-370.

Also, our craft class was busy getting it all together for the making of a huge quilt.

On Thursday, two buses headed out for a Boston Harbor Cruise and they first stopped for lunch on the floor of the Prudential Center Building which is the tallest building in Boston. The lunch and scenery was enjoyed by all and the trip ended with an afternoon boat cruise seeking Boston from a real different and exciting angle.

Here's a reminder that this is the big weekend and we won't be open until Tuesday. So we hope you enjoy the holiday and just be careful especially if you go driving any long distances.

Remember now, that for the next four weeks we will be serving meals at noon time here at the center on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Our special meal will be on Wednesdays and will be outside in the park, weather permitting, of course. Except for this coming Wednesday, when we have our splash party at Norm Fendell's place.

We hear that Mr. Verners Fimmers fell and broke his hip and is now recovering at his home, 1097 Main St. Let's cheer him up with some nice cards.

Drug documentary film to be shown on Sunday

"The Jesus Factor," a documentary film on the successful Teen Challenge drug treatment program will be shown Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at Calvary Church, 647 E. Middle Tpk.

Dr. Catherine Hess, in the film, relates the results of a government-sponsored research project she directed in 1975 on the effectiveness of the Teen Challenge program for drug addicts and alcoholics. Statistics given by the study contrast the 2 to 5 per cent success rate of government-sponsored projects with the 70 per cent success rate of Teen Challenge.

"The Jesus Factor" was filmed at the Teen Challenge Training Center in Rehobersburg, Pa., where several hundred men are involved in a rehabilitation program.

The Rev. Raul Gonzalez, director of Youth Challenge of Greater Hartford, will present the film and speak. The public is invited.

Religion in America:

Greek Orthodox and Jews begin religious dialogue

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

The "Greek Orthodox Theological Review" has just published what its editors call "a landmark event in the history of Jewish-Christian relations"—the first fruits of the Greek-Orthodox-Jewish dialogue.

The scholarly volume, with contributions by five Jewish and five Orthodox theologians, marks the first time in American religious history that such a comprehensive examination of the interrelationship between the two faiths has been published.

In addition, the volume contains recommendations for further joint efforts "to restore important chapters of Byzantine history and of Greek-speaking Byzantine Jewry" to western history, which the theologians said had "either ignored, minimized or caricatured."

Language is dry

While the language of the theologians is dry and arcane, the importance of the dialogue, especially for religious groups in the United States, should not be minimized.

In the United States, both Jews and Greeks live in "diasporas"—dispersed from their spiritual homelands of Israel and Greece—yet with similar commitments to those homelands frequently misunderstood by Christians without that commitment.

Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America, chastised both faiths for having "managed for centuries to monopolize God and Truth as our property and sole possession."

Contemporary testimony

He said the dialogue should help the two religious groups not only understand differences in history, doctrine or custom, "but also to learn to bear, by the mercies of the Almighty, a dynamic, contemporary testimony to the teachings of the One God."

Rabbi Marc Tannenbaum, national director of interreligious affairs for the American Jewish Committee, hailed the dialogue as "the resumption of perhaps one of the oldest dialogues of civilization between bearers of two of the most ancient and productive religious and cultural civilizations."

Despite the frequent lip service acknowledgment of Hellenism and Judaism as the cultural pillars of which western civilization stands, both Judaism and Greek Christianity are more often ignored than studied. "Yet those two communities are 'custodians' of two very important spiritual heritages. When they are looked at they are all too frequently seen as opposite poles—a distinction Tannenbaum finds 'not altogether accurate.' 'Scholars attest to the fact that Greek Christianity is unthinkable without its profound indebtedness and rootedness in Judaism,'" he said. "At the same time, Pharisaism—Rabbinic Judaism—is in many ways unthinkable without its absorption of certain basic Hellenistic institutions

At Bolton Lake, the noise is a concern. Many Bolton Lake residents, concerned about noise on Sunday afternoons, are waiting to see whether the Alpha-Omega Inn will turn down the volume of its music this weekend. About 50 lake residents met at the Rosedale Beach this week to discuss the noise problem, listen to the inn manager, and consider legal action. The meeting was called by Daniel Harris of Vernon Rd., an attorney who says he may take the matter to court. Harris said he has arranged to have sound measurements taken during this weekend's outdoor concert at the inn. He said he would use the measurements as evidence if he decides to go to court. Harris and several other residents repeated complaints about the excessive volume of music coming from the inn, which is apparently amplified by its travel across the water. John Gorgoglione, general manager at the inn, told the group he would try to do something about the volume. In response to many remarks while he was talking, Gorgoglione said he would run a business that Bolton Lake can be proud of. He said he would listen to residents' concerns but he would fight back if the residents decided to sue him. Some other concerns—lake pollution, traffic and parking—were discussed at the Thursday night lake meeting, but the biggest problem addressed by the group was noise. One resident, Grant Davis of Lakeside Circle, suggested beefing up parking ordinance enforcement and health inspections to "hurt the guy in his pocket" and stop the noise. Most of the group didn't agree. Others at the meeting urged lake residents to push for adoption of a local noise ordinance, to regulate how loud the Alpha-Omega Inn music could be. Selectmen Aloysius Ahearn, John Carey and Ernest Shepherd, who attended the meeting, indicated they would consider the ordinance. They also indicated that adopting an ordinance may take a long time, and the summer might be over before it takes effect. Although some persons asked the group to decide a course of action this week, most agreed to wait and see whether Gorgoglione would try to reduce the noise at an outdoor concert planned Sunday. The group decided to meet again Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Rosedale Beach to review the matter. Davis joined Harris to help organize lake residents.

At Bolton Lake Inn noise a concern

Friday's Herald. The Herald's story was based on information supplied by Deputy Mayor Robert Myster. The South Windsor Town Council will meet Tuesday night to recon- sider plans for a new library, the top priority for the town's general works funds administered by the Economic Development Administration.

No extension given

South Windsor has been assured it won't jeopardize its chances for $450,000 in federal grants if it seeks an extension of the application deadline. The town has not been granted a two-week extension, as reported in

Vernon makes bid for CETA $$$

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit, by a resolution passed by the Town Council Thursday, has the authority to file applications for the new Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program. One of the applications will be for drainage improvements in the Bolton Lake area. The area was subdivided in 1924. Vernon's application said it would make a formal grant award for town's existing staff. The town expects to receive $85,000 for this project, which will employ about 11,000 man-hours. The other application is for funds to clean the Hockanum and Tankershoos rivers. This would employ about 24 persons and the town expects to receive $281,000. The application said the two rivers have been instrumental in the town's development, but are now in serious danger of becoming environmentally dead. The rivers have become dumping grounds for undesirable and dangerous objects such as abandoned cars, tires and refrigerators. This results in erosion, flooding, pollution and a breeding area for mosquitoes and rodents. Persons to be hired for the project will work under the supervision of the town's health division. The first priority will be to remove all of the foreign debris and to apply rodent control. This will be done by a licensed technician. Upon completion of the initial river cleanup the second priority will be the Camp Newocha and Valley Falls Park areas, where building repair and water cleanup are planned. It is expected the entire project will take about a year. School officers Officers of the St. Joseph School Parents' Association for 1977-78 are Guerin Foulis, president; Nancy Both, secretary; Janice O'Neill, corresponding secretary; Jocelyn Soares, treasurer, and Elaine Poulis, ways and means.

Police station, sidewalks get nod

The cost of the additional project would be kept to $75,000. Loranger said EDA will hold the town to the cost estimates submitted for each individual project. If the police station is submitted for a certain amount, and his come in above that, funds could be switched from the other project. Loranger suggested three options to the council: to submit the police station for the entire $128 million; to submit the police station and a replacement for Fire Station 2, or to submit the police station and a sidewalk reconstruction project. Loranger said an increase in cost of the police station could be justified because regulations now allow built-

By CLIFF SIMPSON

Failure need not be final. All of us experience failure in our lives, not once but many times. It may be that we fail in school, or in the job. We fail to achieve our goals and we fail in our relationships. A failure fails to understand a growing child; a couple fails in trying to live up to their marriage vows; a Christian fails to follow the command of God that we love one another. Did you ever consider what great failures were gathered with our Lord Jesus? The Last Supper? These were men who had selected to be his disciples. Yet, one of them betrayed him; another denied that he ever knew him; two others begged to sit at his right hand and his left when he came into his glory. They disputed about who would be the greatest, thus showing how little they understood their Lord. None stood by him during the agony of his trial. A sorry lot! Indeed! But it was through his disciples, with the exception of Judas, that he was empowered by the Holy Spirit to spread the Good News. Despite their failures they were the foundation of the Christian Church. Tragedies may occur if failures are considered to be final when they are actually but a step in the growing process. For example, let's imagine a couple in their middle thirties who have a serious quarrel and are ready to give up their marriage. They have failed in their relationship which began with such promises, but this failure need not necessarily be final. After the heat of the quarrel, one of them may admit to have been partly at fault. The other may respond in like manner, and a dialogue begins. From this may arise a new understanding and appreciation of each other, contentment and deeper tenderness. What seemed like failure is seen as a step in their mutual growth. Their marriage is strengthened as they accept each other and recognize that such "failures" will come again but can be overcome. The tragedy of a broken home avoided.

Mark Twain once remarked that there was only one verse in the Bible that was specifically for him. He referred to Jesus' words, "If a man compel thee to go with him one mile, go with him two." It is told of him that once he attended a church where the minister pleaded for a generous offering for some good cause. Twain took out of his wallet a twenty-dollar bill. The minister went on and on with his pleading, Twain put back the twenty and took out a ten. Still the clergyman droned on with his plea. As this process continued, Twain substituted a five-dollar bill for the ten, then a one, and when the offering was finally taken, he put in a quarter. "Another time he objected seriously to the minister who would not accept an offering from a saloon keeper on the grounds that it was "tainted money." Twain remarked caustically, "You are right. As a matter of fact it is twice tainted. It 'taints yours' and it 'taint mine.'"

Students in Japan
When we were on our world trip some years ago, we had the privilege of visiting in the home of a Christian professor in Kyoto. He taught in the theological seminary at Doshisha University. In 1968 the students were in a turmoil there as they were in the United States. Since then we have kept in touch with him through letters and a visit from his family. His last letter, dated April 20, includes this paragraph which is of interest as we compare the change in student life here with the change in Japan: "Students today are turning out to be rather quiet, diligent and often almost conservative. In some ways, I think, these restless, loud-voiced, agitating students of 1969-70. They were often irritating, but also challenging. But today's students present to us a different kind of challenge. They are receptive to the serious task of searching together for new ways of communicating the true and rich humanity described and indicated through the Bible, and especially in the life of Jesus. They are interested in experimenting together in new styles of community life. They are struggling with themselves against the overwhelming material-oriented society and nihilistic and cynical attitudes which tend to dominate young people. I find these young people a challenge and often find them to be wonderful colleagues."

Benoit asks update of policy for fires
Mayor Thomas Benoit has suggested that the Vernon Fire Department revise and update its policies and procedures and distribute copies to the various companies.

In a letter to Vernon Fire Chief William Johnson, the mayor said the operating procedures given to him last week were fine but should be distributed to each company and signed by the company chief. Each member of the company should also have a copy. He said he was asked for "we are in a position of being able to submit an additional project to meet our planning target."

Uninvited luncheon guest

Town of Manchester employees in Lincoln Center were joined by an unusual prelude guest Thursday.

"It looked like a mouse crawling on the wall," a secretary in the town office said.

But, when the creature spread its wings and started flying in the building's hall, workers realized it was actually a bat.

Fran Ferrigno, an employee in the Engineering Department, was the first to spot the creature.

The town Fire Department was called around noon, but the bat exited the building before two firefighters arrived with bat-removal equipment in hand.

None of the employees were sure how the bat got in or how it left. Ferrigno theorized that the bat flew into the building's library room and out an open window.

Girl's death may result in lawsuit against town

An attorney representing the estate of a two-year-old Hebron girl has notified the Town of Manchester that legal action may be taken against the town in connection with the May 26 accident that led to the girl's death.

The town received the letter Friday from Atty. John J. Quinn of Hartford, who represents the estate of Julie S. Nelson.

The two-year-old Nelson girl died of head injuries following an accident at the Matt's Shop-Rite parking lot exit at 587 E. Middle Tpk.

A car, operated by Lorraine D. Nelson, mother of the deceased, was coming out of the parking lot and turning east when the girl fell out and was struck by a vehicle directly behind it, according to police reports.

The second vehicle was driven by William F. Shaw, 72, of 630 Lydall St.

In his letter, Quinn wrote, "A possible contributing cause of the accident was an asphalt bump. As this bump is located on land owned by the Town of Manchester, notice is given to the town of a possible claim against the Town of Manchester."

Ask Kleiner
By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: What's with James Garner's leg? I have noticed that he has been limping on The Rockford Files. Also, will The Rockford Files return next year? JAMES THOMAS, Bakersfield, Calif.

You're seeing some old episodes. What happened was that a year ago, Garner stumbled and fell while shooting. This aggravated an old football knee injury and, for a few months, he had to favor the knee and the limp resulted. He's since had the knee repaired surgically and it's OK now. Yes, the show is set for another season.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell us about the old Walton Christmas special, the first Waltons' show? Who played the parents and grandparents? Also, what has become of Glenn Strange, the bartender in Gunsmoke? LIZ H., Pittsville, Wis. Patricia Neal and Andrew Duggan were the Walton parents, and Edgar Bergen and Ellen Corby were the grandparents. Miss Corby was the only one to stick around for the series. Glenn Strange died.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me the last name and age of the girl, Lisa, on the new Mickey Mouse Club? My little sister was watching it one day and I sat down and got to watching it, too. I know it sounds childish for a 14-year-old. RAY BORDERS, Tucson, Ariz.

Come on, Ray, if you feel like watching it, watch it. You are old enough to decide for yourself what you want to watch, after all. And Lisa Wheelchel turned 14 on May 29, so she's just your age.

DEAR DICK: What ever happened to John Boies, who played the lead in "The Desert Song," in the early days of the talkies? MARTHA ECCLESTONE, Stockton, Calif. Boies died in 1969.

DEAR DICK: I would like to know who narrated the show, "How the West Was Won." My husband says it was Lorne Greene. MRS. OLIVER WARD, Longview, Tex. Oliver is wrong again. It was William Conrad, TV's Cannon.

DEAR DICK: My friend says that Bobby and Sissy on the Lawrence Welk show are man and wife. I say they are not. Please verify this for us. MRS. GEORGE B. GREGORY, Comer, Ga. You're the big winner. Bobby and Sissy are just partners, not married folk.

DEAR DICK: Can you please tell me why you never see or hear Lawrence Welk Jr.'s name mentioned on Lawrence Welk's show? ILAH SHACKANGAST, Galesburg, Mich. The Welk people tell me that's because young Welk is not connected with the show, so why should his name be mentioned? Welk, Jr., is in the recording business, with Renwood Records.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me what year The Beatles first appeared on Ed Sullivan's CBS show? T. JEFFERY, Cloverdale, B.C., Can. That was in 1964, and things haven't been the same since.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if the Swiss Family Robinson was a true story? If so, was the whole family rescued? PHILIP DEFAYETTE, Miramar, Fla. No, it wasn't true. It's an old, old story, first written by a Swiss author, Johann Wyss, and originally published in 1813. It is believed that Wyss' inspiration came from another novel, "Robinson Crusoe."

DEAR DICK: Please answer a question regarding who was the leading male actor in the movie "The Blob." I say it was Steve McQueen and my son says it was Nick Adams. Who is right? MACIE LOU GERTZ, Anaheim, Calif. You're right. It was McQueen.

Year-round classes will be available and a yearly crafts fair is planned starting next summer. There will also be seminars and workshops for professional and amateur craftspeople, craft vacation programs and wholesaling of crafts to retail outlets.

For further information, call Paul Simon, 873-9905 or 873-8437.

Sri Lanka stamps show handicrafts

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

Here are four recent Sri Lanka stamps showing handicrafts. We knew the country as Ceylon until it became a republic in 1972. The new name is not so new as it was called Lanka (for "resplendent") by the Sinhalese, the Lion People of Northern India, when they overran it and displaced the Vaddahs in the 5th Century B.C. Sri (shree) Lanka translates into, approximately, "Majestic Resplendent" — about as admirable as you can get.

A still older name for the place was Serendip — and thereby hangs a tale. The tale was "The Three Princes of Serendip" by Horace Walpole. Those princes had the happy faculty of making discoveries without even trying. Hence the word we see used now and then for some easy accomplishment: "By serendipity." This is at an opposite pole from the familiar Murphy's Law which states that if anything can possibly go wrong — it will.

The country is a pear-shaped island off the tip of India. It is 270 miles long with a population of 14 million. The people are mainly Sinhalese and Tamil (southern India). Sinhalese has been the official language since the British moved out, but their laws have to be written also in Tamil.

Citizens Band bags runaway fathers

By INK DIPPER

Well, it was bound to happen. Just a matter of time, I guess.

Ole buddy, if you're a runaway father and a CBer, look out. It's 10-10, and out. The Federal Office of Child Support and Enforcement is going to use the Citizens Band license files at the Federal Bureau of Communications to find fathers who haven't been paying up.

According to the agency they have had about 175,000 requests to locate fathers since the agency was founded in 1970, and they have been successful in 70 per cent of the cases. They think the rate will go

The capital is the seaport of Colombo (600,000), but the cultural and ritualistic center is the city of Kandy in the interior. Here is the Temple of the Tooth. This edifice houses an ivory object made to replace a tooth of Buddha that was allegedly destroyed by the Portuguese. "During the Esala moon, Buddhists flock to the city to pay homage to the sacred relic."

Sri Lanka has a candle tree — the fruits are 60 per cent fat and can be used to make oil for lamps or burned directly. Also they have the tailpot palm on whose dried leaves the Buddhist scriptures were written.

The area is said to have an ideal climate of eternal June.

The main exports are tea, rubber and coconut products. They are second only to India in the world's output of tea. The country's gem and pearl fisheries have been famous for centuries. It is a source of sapphires, rubies, alexandrites, moonstones, topaz, tourmalines and a dozen other kinds of gemstones. They produced a 485-carat sapphire worth $250,000. More important, if plebeian, is their output of plain old graphite, or plumbago.

Elephants are native here and Sri Lanka ivory is prized for its density, texture and tint. The 50-cent stamp shows a miniature elephant carved out of this ivory, covered with silver and gold, and set with jewels.

The brass lamps on the 20-cent stamp are symbolic of learning and spiritual enlightenment in both the Buddhist and Hindu cultures. The jewelry box is a familiar item in Sinhala handicrafts. They make them out of ivory, silver, brass, copper and wood, decorated with elaborate carvings and inlay work.

Enamelled masks were made to represent the cobra god and other deities. A typical fright-piece is shown on the 5-rupee stamp.

There is also a souvenir sheet having all four stamps set-tenant in a border showing craftsmen at work, with inscriptions in Sinhalese, Tamil and English.

Kickoff in Texas

The kick-off for the Historic Preservation series of postal cards will take place at Galveston, Texas, on the 20th of this month. The card will show the Galveston Court House, the first federal building erected in that state for civil purpose (1861).

For FDC's address: Galveston Postal Card, Galveston, TX 77550. Cost: 9 cents per card. Collectors are asked to send SASEs or return address labels with their orders. (Postmarked no later than the 20th). Personal checks are OK up to $18.

Something to do

The First Sunday Stamp Bourse — stamps and supplies for collectors, will happen again tomorrow at the Ramada Inn, East Hartford, 10 to 5. Free admission, parking and door prizes. Get off the highway at the Darlin St. Exit.

higher if they do turn to the CB files.

George Walden, an Eastern Airlines captain, has a CB in his car, but he needed it in his 727 while en route to Daytona Beach the other night.

The circumstances were indeed right for a CBer. He was flying his jet into Daytona when he got a call from the control tower that a small plane had been forced to ditch in a swamp. There were rescue teams out looking for the two occupants but they couldn't get an exact fix on the plane's location. The control tower asked Walden if he could turn on his landing lights and perhaps spot the plane.

Walden advised his passengers about the problem and began circling the area where the small plane was downed. Upon spotting it, he called the control tower to give them the location of the wreckage.

"Our problem was that I had to radio the tower controller, who in turn had to telephone the police station," he said. "Then they relayed my messages to the rescue men in the field. Boy, how I wished for my CB. It would have been so much easier and quicker!"

Walden got the job done, though, and the two occupants got out of the wrecked plane and swamp without getting their feet wet.

Now is certainly a good time to buy a CB unit. Production in Japan was off nearly 50 per cent in March as manufacturers strove for sales and retailers cut prices. A 23-channel unit can be bought for as low as $34.95, and even low end 40-channel units are selling for $59.95 in some places.

This depression has forced manufacturers to seek out better design and engineering for units they are introducing to the market. There is a definite shift to better gear at much better prices, all good for us who love CBing.

Micro-processor units, which most of the big suppliers are now manufacturing, are an example of this. There is also a trend toward detachable mikes with the CB module mounted behind the dashboard or in the trunk. This remote control CB unit can gain a lot of steam in the future because of its theft-proof characteristic.

It's an ill-wind for the manufacturers, but this depressed market means that CBers can get better buys than ever before. There is a unit priced now for everyone, no matter his taste or pocket-book.

By the way, the new edition of the FCC's CB rules (stock number 004-000-00342) is available for $1 from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. The new version is shorter and cheaper than the previous editions. This one omits the rules of the other two personal radio services.

You should get one because the FCC requires CB licensees to have a copy of the current rules with them when using their units.
