NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — What started as a routine trip home for Ann and Lon Nesbitt turned into the "most harrowing" experience of their lives. They were passengers on the bus hijacked Monday in New York.

Mrs. Cecilia Moore

RTA elects Mrs. Moore

Mrs. Cecilia Moore of Goshen Dr. has been elected president of the Retired Teachers Association of Manchester. She succeeds Mrs. Constance Adams, who served three years in the post.

Other elected officers are Mary Davison, vice-president; Marion McLagan, secretary; Edna Hartwell, corresponding secretary; and Ella Fletcher, treasurer.

The institute, located on the grounds of Connecticut Valley Hospital in Middletown, is a maximum security facility for mental patients.

State auditors allege sloppy bookkeeping

HARTFORD (UPI) — State auditors in a report released Monday allege sloppy bookkeeping at the psychiatric institute in the United States.

The auditors said the day the audit began, $3,448 was found in un-deposited receipts for the patients' fund.

Highway toll is 574 deaths

By United Press International. Vincent L. Tofany, president of the National Safety Council, said Tuesday the heavy Fourth of July weekend traffic death toll showed a need for Americans to drive more slowly and use their seat belts.

SEC probe of Sanitas reveals alleged illegal contributions

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Globe said Tuesday transcripts of previously secret testimony before the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission show $1.2 million in illegal political contributions, kickbacks and payoffs was paid by Sanitas Service Corp. in various parts of the country over a four-year period.

Prosecutor to question Avcolle about murder

WATERBURY (UPI) — Prosecutor Francis McDonald today will begin cross-examination of former legislative leader Bernard L. Avcolle, accused of killing his wife.

Avcolle said he began a "romantic relationship" in the summer of 1975 with Mrs. Mary Jane Rado, a 34-year-old high school English teacher he had known since her childhood.

Justice Department files suit to block UTC-B&W merger

HARTFORD (UPI) — The U.S. Justice Department has filed suit to stop United Technologies Corp. from buying stock of Babcock & Wilcox Co. of New York City, claiming the purchase would violate antitrust laws.

The market for utility power generating equipment is highly concentrated, the suit said. "In 1976 orders received by the eight largest manufacturers represented 99.6 per cent of the megawatt capacity of all utility power generating equipment sold," it said.

CG center proves best things aren't free

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Hartford insurance company is proving the maxim that imitation is the highest form of flattery, especially when it comes to kids and workers. It also says the best things in life aren't free.

Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., which for the past year has maintained a successful daycare center for the children of its workers, soon will have an imitator — Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co.

CG's daycare center is housed in a converted dairy plant about five miles from its home office in Bloomfield, a nearby suburb of Hartford — the nation's insurance city.

New Yorker accused of kidnapping

NORWALK (UPI) — Police Tuesday arrested a Brooklyn, N.Y. man and charged him with kidnapping his 14-year-old stepdaughter from her uncle's home in Norwalk.

Norwalk police said Jimmy Burton, 31, was arrested at the Greenwich toll station on the Connecticut Turnpike and charged with first degree kidnapping and unlawful restraint.

Police have refused to release the girl's name because she is a minor. They said she was not injured during the incident.

Norwalk Wright, the girl's uncle, was held at bay by Burton's attack dog, while the Brooklyn man searched for the girl. When he found her, he dragged her from the condominium to his car, police said.

care for by his grandmother. "Now, there is no more 'Mommy, don't leave me,'" said Mrs. Cobens. No subsidy CG Chairman Henry R. Roberts, who was president when the program began, did not want the company to subsidize the daycare program because he felt it would be unfair to other employees.

Knowing that many women wanted to work but could not because of their children, Roberts told company organizers to "Go to the people who can't work. See how much it's worth to them."

Employees pay $40 weekly for children six to 17 months old, compared to $50 weekly for parents who are not CG employees, $37 for children between 17 months and three years, compared to $42 for non-employees; and $34 for children three to six years, compared to $30.50 for the children of nonemployees.

JoAnn Corrigan, assistant director of the center, calls it "a structured and unstructured environment. The children are cared for by 10 teachers, a director, a cook and a janitor."

Four-year-olds are taught their numbers and the alphabet while kindergarten-age youngsters learn addition, subtraction and basic reading. Two-year-olds

Even fathers are enrolling their children. "This lets the mothers work. It also gives the kid an experience and frees the parents to do their own thing," Montague said. Parents have only one real complaint with the CG daycare center — overcrowding.

The company has not decided whether to expand the facilities, Montague said. "We think about it, obviously the parents think about it, but that's as far as we've gone," he said.

Mrs. Gay Markkanen, a typist in CG's public relations department, said her son Christopher, 2, was cared for by a babysitter for less than the center charges, but she enrolled him there anyway.

He has learned such things as colors, sizes, shapes and designs that he would not have learned until later, she said.

A happy decision

There was some good news for music lovers in Connecticut last week. Coast Guard Academy Commandant Adm. Owen W. Siler announced the 45-member Coast Guard Band will remain based at the Coast Guard Academy.

The move would be a cultural loss to the state and its immediate neighbors. The band performs many public concerts at the academy and does an excellent job of selling good music in the schools with its many appearances throughout the state during the school term.

Score one for consumers

It isn't often that a boycott by angry consumers defeats a foreign cartel, so it's a pleasure to note that just that kind of victory is taking place in the coffee trade.

Since the United States is the world's largest coffee market and Americans were thought to be hooked on the stuff, the governments of Brazil, Colombia and a few other producers thought consumers here would pay any price.

After a severe frost in Brazil in 1975 tightened supplies, governments and speculators began manipulating the market and boosting export taxes to drive prices relentlessly higher. At first the market-rigging worked, enriching exporters as consumers paid more and more.

Some supermarket chains have responded by reducing the retail price of ground coffee below $4 a pound, the first drop in two years. More declines can be expected as lower wholesale prices are reflected on grocery shelves.

An owlsh editor's notebook

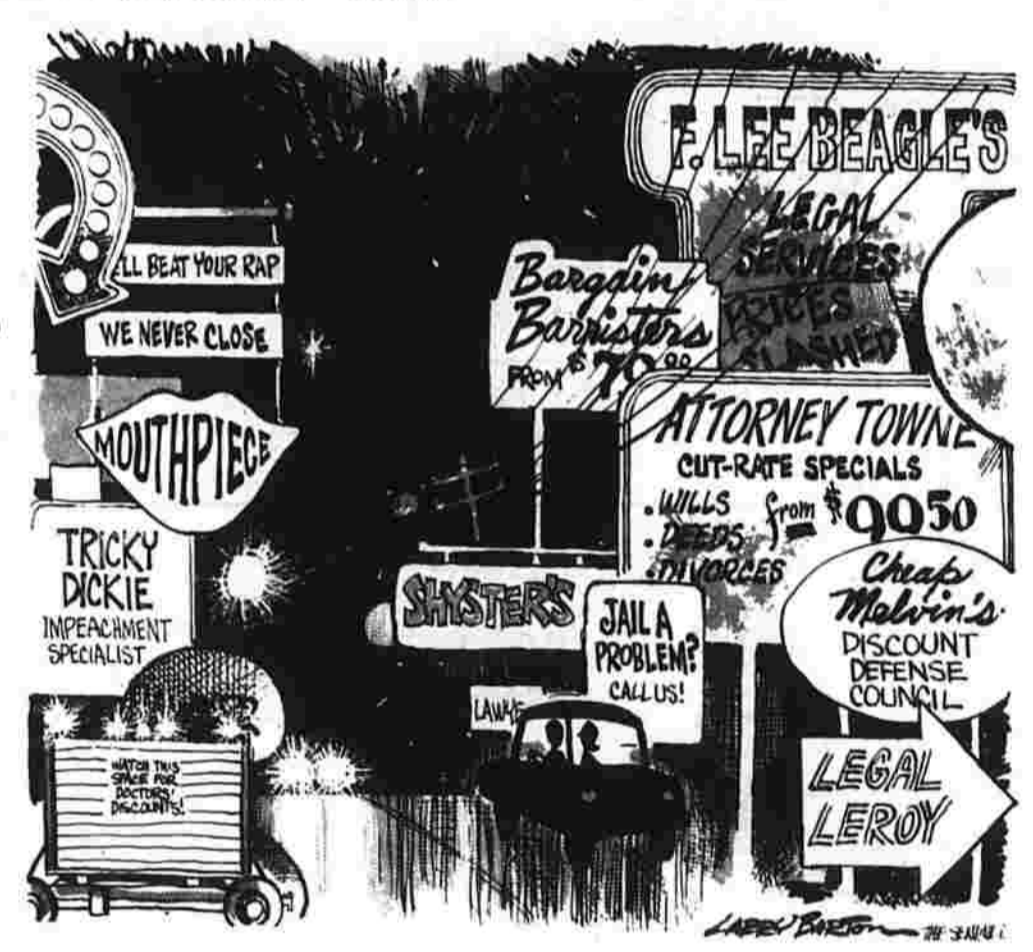

By FLOYD LARSON

It appears the next car we buy — assuming we can get the present jolty paid for — will be required to have an air bag or an automatic seat belt because Transportation Secretary Brock Adams says the government has a duty to make cars "socially responsible."

After all one preventable auto death can be argued as too many. We doubt this can be achieved while a car moves at all or unless the passenger is placed in a foam-rubber cocoon.

We need only cite the many who have died after being shot with guns with their "safeties" on. We can add the people who have died after being trapped in fireproof buildings and "unstickable" boats.

— but socially responsible drivers could. But it is easier to mandate engineering changes than human changes — after all cars are inanimate objects while drivers vote and scream if their "rights" are impinged upon.

But bank trusts forecast new growth

Brokers still snub glamor stocks

Winnow out those that have stumbled recently in terms of profits growth, and the rest cannot now be rated dear. Too soon. Even so, it may well be too soon to buy them. The summer rally now under way on Wall Street probably has some way to go, but will the glamor outperform the market? It seems doubtful.

International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Deere and Company, and Ingersoll-Rand. Purchases of most of the glamor stocks can be put off until the retail brokerage houses start to recommend them to their customers.

One-fourth. They now account for around 25 per cent of the total value of the Standard and Poor's composite index, against nearly 30 per cent at the end of 1972. IBM, once on a lofty price-earnings ratio of 60, now sells at only 16 times earnings. McDonald's, the hamburger franchise group, has ratcheted down from a peak earnings multiple of 81 to 18.

But a weaker dollar (which the big American trade deficit makes possible) will help their overseas earnings and since the election President Carter's ideas on medicine are far less radical than they were before. American Home Products, which in 1976 achieved its 24th successive record in earnings, sales and dividends, looks a good risk for adventurous investors.

Summer Enrichment Program needs support

Our town is most fortunate to have such a fine and dedicated educator as Lee Hey. He has spent much time and energy in formulating and organizing the first Summer Enrichment Program for Manchester and its outlying areas.

Why do so many adults and children complain, "There is nothing to do in Manchester in the summer"? Then, these same adults and children do not enroll in at least one of the many diversified courses that are being offered by our school system.

People kill — not cars

To the editor, If anyone watched their favorite news program on June 20th 1977 then they saw the federal government continue to let our highways be slaughter houses.

What I'm talking about is this new regulation pertaining to air bags in cars of the 1980s. A car does not kill it is only a licensed weapon in the hands of children. Children like the drunk driver, the 16-year-old who thinks every street is a drag strip, the car owner who drives with bald tire, bad brakes and unsafe frontends.

Thought

One of my favorite New Testament stories and the message it brings revolves around Matthew. In Biblical days, being a tax-collector, as Matthew was, meant being mistrusted and hated by the people. Yet, Christ without imposing any conditions prior to acceptance, asked Matthew, the despised of the people, to follow Him.

Energy Watchdog

It takes a lot of energy to keep people comfortable in a large office building, factory, or university. Energy is needed to circulate air for ventilation, to warm the air in cold weather, and to cool it in hot.

Lassow urges attendance at water users meeting

Gordon B. Lassow, president-elect of the Eighth Utilities District, is urging district residents who will be affected by a change in the water service to their homes to attend a meeting Thursday on the matter.

The residents at the district meeting complained that the notice of the change was not sufficient. The letter from the Water Department was sent June 14. The residents would also have to bear the cost of the new valve.

The lighter side: The muscle buddy system

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's body-building cult, until recently only a puny sub-culture in the great bulging mass of life styles, is beginning to make a ripple of its own.

All over the country men are taking up exercises not for health's sake but for cosmetic purposes. They hope to develop pretty muscles like Arnold Whatizzname, star of the movie "Pumping Iron" and everybody's all-time "Mr. Universe."

Some sociologists dismiss the body beautiful movement as a transitory fad. I remind you they were saying the same thing about jogging a few short years ago.

Or was it a few long years ago? When I become engrossed in something like body-building, I lose all track of time.

Anyway, everybody and his dog are jogging nowadays. And if a jogger doesn't have a dog, he'll probably find himself being followed by someone else's mutt.

Although body-building has not reached that stage yet, it is catching on fast. As you'll see the first time you go to the beach this summer.

I spent last weekend at the beach. I was basking supinely next to a young woman who either was wearing a brown bikini or had a rather unusual suntan. Then a bulky with pretty muscles came along and accidentally kicked sand in my face.

The girl looked at me scornfully. "Are you going to let him get away with that, Cyril?" she cried.

Two things should be noted: My name isn't Cyril and I had never seen this girl before in my life. So the situation is clear.

If you want to have any peace on the beach this summer, you had better take up body-building exercises. Otherwise, you're going to be pestered to death by strange girls trying to promote one-sided fights.

The problem is that most body-building programs involve weight-lifting. And that doesn't necessarily give you pretty muscles.

Weight-lifters are likely to wind up looking more like Vasili Alexeev than Arnold Whatizzname.

Alexeev, Russia's Olympic weight-lifting champ, is strong, sure. But that body of his is an eyesore. What we're after is beauty, not strength.

I recommend a book called "Pumping Jelly." It guarantees body-building without strength through an exercise regimen known as "dynamic inertia."

An inert muscle is more or less dead weight, as you suspect. So rather than lift weights, you lift muscles. In other words, you train half of your muscles to lift up the other half.

Then you let those muscles rest and activate the inert half.

That way you'll get a Greek God physique with only half the effort. And the girls on the beach will mind their own business.

Mrs. Mary Forman accepts a gift for her husband, Harry, next to her, who is retiring after 33 years with Lydall, Inc. Making the presentation is Leonard R. Jaskol, president of Colonial Fiber Division of Lydall, Inc. Millard H. Pryor Jr., president of Lydall, Inc., looks on. The presentation was made at a retirement luncheon held in Forman's honor Friday at the Steak Out in Talcottville. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Forman retires from Lydall

Harry Forman of 88 Benton St. is retiring as director of engineering of the Colonial Fiber Division of Lydall, Inc. He has been with the company 33 years.

Forman started in 1944 as general superintendent of both Lydall mills in Manchester (Lydall & Foulds and Colonial Fiber). He has belonged to the American Pulp & Paper Mill Superintendents' Association for the past 26 years and is a member of the National Council for Stream Improvement.

Forman was also a member of the Board of Directors of Colonial Fiber at the time of its merger with Superior Ball Company.

Forman has lived in Manchester since 1944 when he joined Lydall from a paper mill in South America. He and his wife, Mary, plan on traveling and gardening.

They have two children living in the Manchester area, a son, David J. Forman, and a daughter, Nola Forman.

Moriarty's down Ansaldo's in Little League play, 6-4

Champ on center stage
Tennis followers in the area will have an opportunity to watch Wimbledon singles men's champion tonight at the Hartford Civic Center when Bjorn Borg leads the Cleveland Nets against the Boston Lobsters in World Team Tennis play.

Drawing first blood, Moriarty Bros. topped Ansaldo's 6-4 on Paul Tucker's two-run homer in the last of the seventh inning in the opening tilt of the 1977 Town Little League Tournament last night at Leber Field.

League champ Army & Navy 14-2 squares off with International League outfit, the Oilers, 13-2, at Leber Field, site of all town's tournaments.

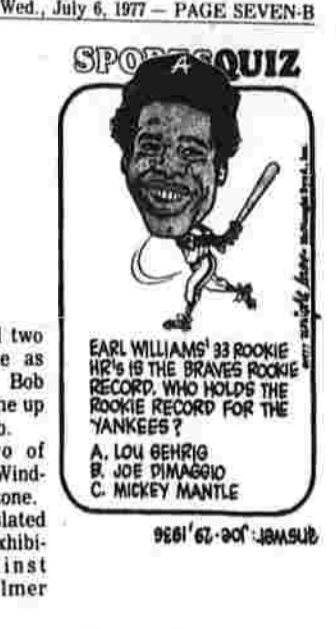

Moreau's grounder was mishandled by the infield. In the last of the seventh, Jeff Popik tied matters, lifting an offering over the left centerfield fence. Tim Fesler walked and Rick Soucier lined a single to center, chased home Tucker and sending the tilt into extra frames.

Ballard paces Legion win with pitching and hitting

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Editor
Power, pitching and hitting, supplied by Bruce Ballard led Manchester to a 6-0 whitewashing of the Oilers.

outfit is its eighth in 11 zone outings and third straight. The over-all stand alone now stands at 6-4-1 with the over-all win a modest four.

Manchester placed three runs in the bottom of the first, all the scoring it did. Ken Brasa drew a leadoff walk. He tried to steal second, was a dead

Earl Williams, 33, rookie pitcher who holds the rookie record for the Yankees.

Stroke of luck
Talk about a stroke of luck, high on the list has to be the Boston Red Sox management's decision on the weekend to renew Manager Don Zimmer's contract for the 1978 season.

Champion in the Club Putting Tournament at the Manchester Country Club is Sam Watson. A sudden death success against Sergio Sartori, Dave Farrington of East Hartford topped first place in the 18-mile seniors' race (ages 18 to 40) in the Travelers Criterium bicycle

Nuclear waste care prepayments asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At the end of an estimated 40-year operating life of an atomic power plant, it will take up to 500,000 years for the radioactivity of some of its abandoned parts to decay to acceptable levels.

Now a coalition of consumer and environmental groups want to force the utility companies to pay in advance for decommissioning the radioactive reactors instead of placing the burden on future generations.

If the request is granted by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, a coalition spokesman said, consumers would pay more for electricity generated by nuclear power. Decommissioning costs have been estimated at up to $30 million per reactor.

An official with the Atomic Industrial Forum, the nuclear industry trade association, said the coalition proposal "would not be a terrible blow to the industry." He said some states already have similar requirements.

The request was sponsored by two Ralph Nader organizations, Critical Mass and the Public Interest Research Group, two independent environmental groups, the Environmental Action Foundation and Environmental Action Inc., and two state citizen organizations, the Community Action Research Group of Ames, Iowa, and the New York

State Guardsmen Undergo training at Fort Drum

By BETTY RYDER Family/Travel Editor

Sometimes referred to as "weekend warriors" and "part-time soldiers," more than 1,375 members of the Connecticut Army National Guard are displaying their mettle as they participate in two weeks of annual active duty training at Fort Drum, N.Y.

The guardsmen, who left home armories on June 25, drove in convoy to the upstate New York training site.

Representing Manchester during the training period is Headquarters Company of the 1st Battalion, 169th Infantry, commanded by SPT Edward H. Hutinski of Middletown.

The company provides administrative and logistical support for the entire battalion, making sure everything from payrolls to hand grenades is ready when needed by the five companies comprising the 1/169th.

Also participating in the training is the 2nd Bn., 102nd Infantry, supported by HQ and HQ Co., 43d Brigade; Co. C, 26th Maintenance Bn.; Co. A, 26th Aviation Bn.; Det. 1, 26th AG Co.; Det. 1 from A and B Companies, 26th Supply and Transportation Bn.; Troop C, 26th

Armored Cavalry; and 130th Public Information Detachment.

Supplementing the Connecticut infantry units is the 1st Bn., 104th Infantry of the Massachusetts National Guard, bringing the 43d Brigade strength to 1,900 men.

From the Rockville armory, the men of Combat Support Company, 1/169th Infantry, under CPT David J. Occhianini of Rockville, support the battalion's three line companies with maintenance, communications, reconnaissance, and heavy weapons capabilities.

Under the command of Col. Richard Lughl of the 43d Brigade, 26th (Yankee) Infantry Division, the state's guardsmen began an intensive period to perfect platoon-level combat skills.

Action included a full battalion exercise supported by F1M Fighters from the ANG with opposing forces provided by the "Screaming Eagles" of the 2d Bn., 502nd Infantry, 101st Airborne Division from Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Setting up tents in rough terrain, eating food prepared in field kitchens, participating in live firing exercises, and even working KP, all gear the guardsmen for life under actual combat conditions.

The units took to the field for four days during the first week for day and nighttime attack training.

Following the completion of tactical operations on July 1, the troops enjoyed a two-day holiday before returning to work on July 4.

During their two weeks, they are being evaluated by U. S. Army observers on hand to determine the guardsmen's skills.

The New England units worked closely with elements of the regular Army's famed 101st Air Assault Division with the division acting in the dual role of friend and foe; the latter taking the part of the aggressor forces during maneuvers and then spending time with local troops passing on battle-earned lessons of the professional soldiers to the Guard.

During her tour of the Fort Drum facilities last week, Gov. Ella Grasso reviewed the ANG, and said, "This is my third visit and while I have always been proud of our guardsmen, this time I seem to sense that they, too, feel a special pride in their accomplishments."

"I am impressed by the excellence of their training and realize just how vital it is to our defense."

The guardsmen are scheduled to travel the 350 miles back home on Saturday.

Solar data available

Joann Neath of Bolton, through her membership on the Citizens Advisory Council of the Home Energy Savers Program, has been successful in having the Department of Planning and Energy Policy (DPEP) offer free information packages on solar energy.

This package contains information on the use of solar energy in both commercial and residential applications of space heating and domestic hot water systems.

The Home Energy Savers Program is a joint effort between DPEP and the Federal Energy Administration. Its purpose is to show people what steps they can take themselves to reduce both their energy consumption and their fuel bills.

Information on both the solar energy package and the insulation and winterization techniques available to Connecticut homeowners can be obtained by writing to DPEP at 20 Grand Street, Hartford, CT 06115.

To boost their income, a number of colleges and universities have adopted rules requiring students to live in dormitories. But disgruntled students have countered by taking the matter into the courtroom. "I prefer to live alone," and "I have a constitutional right to do so. Forcing me to live in a dormitory is an interference with my right of privacy."

Chamber adds new members

Carroll J. Brundrett

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce has recently welcomed five new members to its ranks. The new members include Carroll J. A house without kids

It's probably blasphemous to admit this, but sometimes, when our kids are being particularly difficult to live with, I allow myself the luxury of imagining what it will be like then they're all grown up and have left home.

Rham teacher wins environmental award

Tolland County
David Mordavsky, an industrial arts teacher at Rham High School in Hebron recently received the Teacher-of-the-Year award at the annual meeting of the Tolland County Soil and Conservation District at the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Vernon.

The award is given to a Tolland County teacher for work in the field of environmental conservation education. At the meeting, Mordavsky gave a slide presentation showing the projects his class has completed. He and his class have had a close working relationship with the state Department of Environmental Protection.

Charter unit confused

Coventry
The Coventry Charter Revision Commission displayed confusion at its recent meeting over how to implement suggestions by townpeople to strengthen the town manager's position. The suggestions were made at a June public hearing.

Gerald D'Avignon, commission member, summarized his group's recent conference with the Town Council. "The council said it's good to have a strong manager, but the council should not be made weak by doing this," he said. His feeling was that the council should set policy but the town manager should execute that policy.

Andover PTA is busy
