

25th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Landry of 82 Pleasant St. were honored at a lawn party in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The couple was married May 30, 1952, at St. Bridget Church in Manchester and have resided in Manchester 17 years.

Hosting the party were the couple's six children, Michael, who is serving in the U.S. Marine Corps in South Carolina; Dennis P. Smith of New York; and Bruce, Douglas, Linda and Donna, all at home.

Also, Mrs. Lovetta LeLacheur of Manchester, Mr. Landry's sister; and Mr. and Mrs. James Poole III of Manchester.

More than 75 friends and relatives attended from Vermont, Florida, New York and Connecticut. The couple received many gifts of money, flowers and silver.

Mrs. Landry is employed as a cashier at Finast. Mr. Landry is employed as an inspector at Pratt & Whitney Division of United Technologies Corp. in East Hartford.

Survivor walks to freedom

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — North Korea tonight released a wounded American and the bodies of three fellow crew members who were aboard an Army helicopter shot down by North Korean gunners.

North Korea agreed to the release during a two-hour meeting of the Military Armistice Commission in the truce village of Panmunjom. Communist officials balked at returning the downed helicopter, however.

The bodies of the three victims were turned over to the United Nations Command first, then the survivor, Chief Warrant Officer II Glenn M. Schwank, 29, of Spring Green, Wis., walked to freedom.

Schwank appeared badly shaken but he was able to walk on his own power.

Six North Korean soldiers wearing white gowns and white masks lifted the three roughly made wooden caskets from a truck and a North Korean officer told U.N. officials: "These are the bodies of your side's personnel. Please identify them."

Buddies of the dead GIs, who were based at Pyongtaek, 15 miles south of Seoul, opened the caskets and confirmed the identity of the returning crew.

The dead were Chief Warrant Officer II Joseph A. Miles, 26, of Washington, Ind.; the pilot, Ronald E. Wells, 22, of El Paso, Tex.; the crew chief, and Sgt. Robert C. Haynes, 29, of Dodge City, Kan.

The bodies were carried to the front of Panmunjom, the headquarters office of North Korean forces in this armistice site, on a North Korean army truck, shortly before 8 p.m.

Eight U.S. honor guards representing Britain, Canada, the Philippines, Thailand and South Korea carried the caskets to the military Demarcation Line that separates the two sides in the truce village, where eight American soldiers look over.

The U.S. escorts draped the Stars and Stripes over the caskets, shouldered them and carried them to ambulances.

The chopper, an unarmed CH47 "Chinook," accidentally crossed into North Korean airspace Thursday morning and was shot down by North Korean ground fire near Kosong, about 105 miles northeast of Seoul on the eastern coast.

The North Koreans said the helicopter crashed into the Namgang River and the crewmen's personal effects were lost.

Earlier in the day, the U.N. Command asked for the return of the craft and as well as the crew. North Korea refused to return the helicopter because it could be used for "anti-North Korean propaganda."

To secure the release of the crew members, U.S. officers wrote two receipts — one for the three bodies and another for the survivor, U.S. Army Col. Terrance McClain signed them and handed them over to North Korean Army Senior Col. Choi Won Chol.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conceding the federal government is "primarily responsible" for the Indian land dispute in Maine, a special presidential representative says two Indian tribes should be paid $25 million and given 100,000 acres of land, with an option to buy another 400,000 acres.

William Carter, a former Georgia state Supreme Court judge, said Friday President Carter was "very favorable" to his recommendations.

The Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes say they have legal rights to about 12 million acres of land, worth some $25 billion, under a treaty signed in the 1790s.

Gunter said he had "concluded that the federal government is primarily responsible for the creation of this problem."

In a four-page report to Carter, Gunter recommended:

- Appropriating $25 million for the use and benefit of the two tribes, with half given them in each of the next two fiscal years.
- Requiring Maine to set aside a 100,000-acre tract of state land in the area under contention.
- Requiring the interior secretary to acquire long-term options on an additional 400,000 acres which the tribes would then be allowed to buy at fair market value.

A White House spokesman said no final decision had been made on what Carter will seek as a solution.

Similar suits have been filed in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Gunter had said repeatedly that his recommendations might include alternative proposals and they did.

He recommended that in the event either the Indians or the state of Maine refused to accept the recommendations with regard to land, Congress should appropriate the $25 million for the "use and benefit" of the tribes.

In the event of such a rejection by either party, he said, Congress should also extinguish all aboriginal title to land within the claim area except that held by the state.

In both cases, Gunter said, the case can be pursued through the courts

Carter favorable to plan to solve Indian claim

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State officials, in general, reacted favorably to the recommendations by President Carter's special representative in the Indian land claim case, but one said he's "greatly disturbed" about economic pressures on private landowners in this state by removing private lands from consideration in the dispute.

"One of our first efforts and first recommendations to Judge Gunter was that this cloud be removed from the state," the governor said.

Attorney General Joseph E. Brennan said Gunter's report "clearly vindicates our position that the tribal claims for 12 million acres and $25 billion were outrageous and absurd."

and the tribes will have received $25 million "for their consent to eliminate economic stagnation in the claims area and their consent to release the (departments of Interior and Justice) from pursuing causes of action against private property owners."

counsel for the Indians, said he might have something to say next week, but refused to comment before then.

Gov. James B. Longley said, however, he was pleased Gunter "apparently attempted to relieve the economic pressures on private landowners in this state by removing private lands from consideration in the dispute."

Zone change appeal dropped by industrial park foes

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The plaintiffs who had appealed a zone change for the Town of Manchester's proposed industrial park have decided not to take the case to the United States Supreme Court.

The group will continue to pursue another case involving a complaint against the state Department of Commerce, according to Atty. Anthony Pagano, who, along with Atty. Bruce Beck, represents the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs had appealed the Jan. 15 decision by the Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission to grant a zone change for about 245 of the 383 acres included in the proposed park. The remainder of the park land was included in a second zone change or did not have to be rezoned. The planned park include the proposed J.C. Penney Co. catalog distribution center.

The appeal was denied by both the State Court of Common Pleas and the State Supreme Court. The final step that could have been taken was an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

But, Pagano said Friday that the deadline for appealing to the country's highest court has passed and his clients have decided not to continue the appeal proceedings. He cited the expense that would have been involved, as well as the fact that the U.S. Supreme Court hears very few zoning cases.

"I still think we're right. But, it'll now direct our energies in a more appropriate fashion," he said. Pagano was referring to the suit against the Department of Commerce, which says that Commerce Commission Edward Stockton granted approval of the park without proper environmental assessment.

A hearing will be held Monday to seek an expedition of this matter.

Beck and Pagano have also informed the federal Environmental Protection Action that they may file action on a federal level.

WTT making progress

By LEN AUSTER

Herald Sportswriter

Defending World Team Tennis (WTT) champion New York Apollos took first place in the Eastern Division for the first time this year last week. But the stay was short-lived as the Boston Lobsters, leaders through most of the campaign, regained the top spot.

Attendance all over the league is up. The percentage increase this year over last is 15 per cent with over 64,000 fans attracted to a year ago in comparable playing dates.

One of the top features was on July 7 when the Phoenix Racquet met New York in Phoenix. A crowd of 9,517 was on hand to watch Chris Evert avenge her loss at Wimbledon to Virginia Wade with a 7-6 tiebreaker triumph. Evert topped the other Wimbledon finalist during the past week, Betty Stove of the Netherlands, by a 6-4 margin.

Evert was kept busy as in her first appearance ever in mixed doubles, she and Phoenix Coach Ross Case combined to end the eight match in streak of New York's Billie Jean King and Ray Ruffels.

The city of San Diego did itself proud last Saturday as it had a record-setting audience of 14,153 paid to view the WTT All-Star Classic. Wimbledon men's singles champs Bjorn Borg, playing for the Cleveland Nets in WTT, easily routed the Neatase and earned the male most valuable player award.

Through matches of last Sunday, Evert had the best record in women's singles with a 600 winning percentage, taking 18 and losing five matches. She has a total of 126 games won against only 84 lost, an important figure in WTT where every game counts. Martina Navratilova of Boston was second with a 15-4, 109-76 record followed by Wade and King of New York.

Borg topped the men's singles list with a games-won-against-loss record of 589. His record is 18-6 with 119 games won and 83 games lost. Tony Roche of Boston was next followed by Rod Laver of the San Diego Friars and Tom Gorman of Seaford (Seattle-Portland).

Navratilova and Greer Stevens, who tied the WTT consecutive victory string record of 21, had far and away the best women's doubles record. They had a games-won-against-loss record of 561, having won 22 matches and lost only one. The pair has won 139 games and lost but 65. New York's combine of Wade-King was next at 568 (135-118) trailed by Evert-Kristen Shaw of Phoenix and Sue Barker-Am Kiyomura of Indianapolis.

The Lobster duo of Roche-Roy Emerson had the best men's doubles record of 112 games won and 37 lost, a winning percentage of 563. New York's Ruffels-Sandy Mayer combination held down second place.

In mixed doubles, the New York team of King-Ruffels had the best mark, having won 13 sets, lost two with 89 games won and 59 lost. The Golden Gators duo of Francoise Durr-Frew McMillan held down the next best mark.

Over-all, Navratilova and Stevens of Boston had the best women's records and Roche and Emerson, both also of Boston, had the best men's records. No wonder the Lobsters have done so well.

Ray pleads innocent to escape charges

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI) — James Earl Ray, the convicted assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., pleaded innocent Friday to charges he escaped from the fortress-like Brushy Mountain State Prison June 10.
Ray claimed he was illegally confined in the remote East Tennessee facility.
General Sessions Court Judge John M. Davis of Wartburg permitted one representative each from a radio station, a television network and a newspaper to attend the arraignment in a small office inside the prison walls.
About 20 other news personnel were kept outside the main prison gate during the hearing.
Warden Stonney Lane had said earlier that he would seek to have the hearing closed because of "security precautions."

Civil rights dilemma

A group calling itself the National Socialist Party of America — all of 11 members strong — had planned to march on July 4th through Skokie, Ill., a heavily Jewish suburb of Chicago, many of whose residents are survivors of World War II concentration camps.

Fearing violence, the city passed an ordinance banning marches by anybody wearing military-style uniforms and obtained a circuit court injunction specifically against the Nazis.

An appeal by the American Civil Liberties Union went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, which has ordered the Illinois Appellate Court either to lift the injunction or to expedite hearings on the appeal.

The first amendment guarantee of free speech is fundamentally involved here. It is obviously no coincidence that the Nazis picked Skokie. This would certainly seem to be a case of crying "fire" in a crowded theater, which even the ACLU would agree is an impermissible extension of free expression.

Yet somehow this seems a little too convenient a way to dispose of the matter.

Either the neo-Nazis have the right to free political expression or they don't, and if they do, nobody — not even survivors of Nazi concentration camps — has the right to prohibit that right under threat of violence, as has been done in Skokie.

At the same time, the neo-Nazis represent something that is so horrible, so obscene in human history that to threaten them as "just another" political party demeans the memory of the hands of the original Nazis and is a mockery to everything civilized society holds dear.

We don't have the answer to this dilemma. We only know that the courtroom, not the street, is the place to try to find it.

Uncle Santa

To begin with, Winter Park, Fla., a fashionable community of 23,000 near Orlando, is not your typical economically depressed area.

Still, the folks there are Uncle Santa's — er, Sam's — cousins just like everybody else and have a right to share in the goodies their taxes and everybody else's taxes make it possible for Uncle to dispense.

Thus when the city fathers decided to build a new library, they applied to the federal government for an $883,500 grant. They just got their answer.

No, said the government, in the form of the Economic Development Administration, we won't give you $883,500. Would you take $2.65 million? It seems that the EDA arrived at the latter figure on the basis of unemployment statistics for that part of Florida. But there's a catch: Winter Park won't get the money unless it comes up with July 13th with a list of projects to spend it on.

Dazed and dizzy officials declared a "state of emergency" and are scrambling to get estimates on about 20 assorted projects before the deadline — although one of them hesitantly suggested that the city refuse the money as a patriotic gesture. He later said he was just "being philosophical."

That kind of attitude is not merely philosophical, it's downright un-American these days. And thereby hangs a sorry commentary.

Tribute to Philip Bayer

To the editor,
Philip Bayer was a superior gentleman.
I met Phil when I first came to Manchester 19 years ago. He was then the newly appointed town counsel. He served as acting manager at various times through his term of office.
We developed a friendship that grew richer and lasted through the years.
Phil, as I knew him, was a quiet and thoughtful man. I don't recall ever seeing him without a smile. It was a part of his character.

Of the many people we meet through our lifetimes, a few stand out in our minds. Phil was such a man. He was "a superior gentleman."
I have lost a respected friend. I will miss him. May he rest in peace. My sincere sympathy to his wife and family. May God watch over them.

Skate park suggested

To the editor:
Monday, July 11th, my friends and I were skateboarding on Cooper St., and a cop came by and told us we couldn't skateboard on public streets.
That means that I can't skateboard anymore except at Colchester Skatepark which is a half an hour away and costs money. I have no way of getting there unless someone takes me.

Now that skateboarding has become more and more popular in Manchester, I think the town should build a skatepark somewhere in Manchester. They could make a lot of money from it and also get a lot of the kids out of the streets.
Skateboarding is no more dangerous than bike riding.
Sincerely,
Chris Brown

Manchester

A reminder...

Readers are reminded that the deadline for letters on the Springboard for discussion is noon Monday, July 18.
The subject is: Should the South United Methodist Church use its property for the site of a church-sponsored, federally funded, retirement center?
The Herald will publish the letters Wednesday, July 20.

Last gasp for airborne smokers?

Lee Roderick

WASHINGTON — Attention, class. Answer these statements with a "true" or "false":

- (1) Anti-smokers are "self-appointed zealots who regard smokers as second-class citizens."
- (2) Smokers are "men and women whose nasty nervous habits force me to breathe carbon monoxide. Quite frankly — as well as literally — they make me sick."

If you answered "true" to the first statement (from the Tobacco Institute) and "false" to the second one (from the Action on Smoking and Health, better known as ASH), you are probably a smoker and may now light up. If your answers are just the opposite, proceed at once to the nearest exit.

Smoldering controversy over smoking in public places has turned into a blaze in the capital. Washingtonians, who include more than the average number of travelers are especially worked up over a recent proposal by Eastern Airlines to set aside two-thirds of the seats on its shuttle flight and 60 to 65 per cent of seats on its regular flights for non-smokers.

American Airlines already has a similar policy, and all public air passenger carriers are required by the Civil Aeronautics Board to set aside some seats for non-smokers.

Before the CAB

The Eastern proposal is now pending before the CAB. The CAB likewise is considering banning all pipe and cigar smoking on commercial passenger aircraft, and late last year sent shockwaves through the tobacco industry by also soliciting public comment on the possibility of prohibiting all smoking on planes.

The latter proposal has drawn tens of thousands of letters, most of them against smoking on planes.

The Tobacco Institute, which lobbies here on behalf of the American freedoms" of other citizens. Doesn't see it that way.

The head of ASH, John Banzhaf, doesn't quite see it that way.

"The evidence is very strong that smoking harms those around the smoker, especially in closed areas such as airplanes," Banzhaf told Scripps League Newspapers. He added that about a half-dozen other airlines are now "under the gun" on the smoking issue because of protests from nonsmoking passengers.

Banzhaf is a noted veteran of anti-smoking campaigns and the gunlinger who shot "TV's Winchester Man" off the air in the late 1960s (his brown-paper "cigars" were ruled cigarettes, which already had been banned from airwave advertising).

Effects may prove

He continued: "Thirty to 40 million people have some serious physical condition which is adversely affected by breathing the smoke of others." Such conditions, he said, include asthma, allergies, respiratory ailments, hay fever and tuberculosis.

"Of the non-allergic remainder of non-smokers," Banzhaf said, "75 per cent or more suffer from the smoking of others. They get tearing and reddening of eyes, headaches, raspy and sore throats. The point of all this is that the right to a safe and healthy environment takes precedence over the right to smoke."

Report backs conclusions
The ASH head's arguments regarding the effect of tobacco smoke on a nonsmoker appear borne out by a 1972 Surgeon General's report. It included this statement: "The level of carbon monoxide attained in experiments using rooms filled with tobacco smoke may be shown to equal, and at times exceed, the legal limits for maximum air pollution permitted."

One pro-smoker, in a local letter to a newspaper, suggests that those who can't stand smoke on planes probably don't like crying babies or singing teenagers on them either. An anti-smoker counters that the proper place for the airplane for smokers is on the wing.

There probably is no solution to the controversy that will satisfy both sides. In this issue, it appears, extremism is a virtue to smoker and nonsmoker alike.

Fading of the 'old bulls' in Congress

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When a professional politician begins to analyze which seats in the House of Representatives might be considered "marginal" in next year's elections, they noticed something strange: The list included the 19th congressional district of Texas.

"Marginal district" is a term of art among politicians, referring to a House district where the current occupant is considered vulnerable because he or she received less than 55 per cent of the vote in the last election.

The list invariably is dominated by freshmen and sophomore representatives whose names and accomplishments are vague in the voters' minds, plus a scattering of ideologues whose affinity for the distant right and left edges of the political spectrum often means the sacrifice of job security.

Rep. Emanuel Celler of New York and Wayne N. Aspinall of Colorado — suffered the disgrace of defeat. Others were unceremoniously dumped from their chairmanships by an irrevocable group of young legislators. Two once-powerful chairmen — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas and Wayne L. Hays of Ohio — left town in disgrace after highly publicized scandals.

Of the 20 men who were chairmen of House committees in 1972, just five years ago, only Mahon and four others remain today. That turnover rate is unprecedented in the modern history of the House.

George Mahon is among the last of a disappearing breed — the "old bulls" of the House who regularly won re-election by acclamation, served for decades and held semi-permanent title to the chairmanships of all the influential committees.

News for Senior Citizens

BY WALLY FORTIN

Pinochle

Hi everybody! It's that time again and I guess the first bit of news is to mention a little something about this energy crisis.

There certainly is no question in the minds of the experts that there is one coming and in fact it is already on the way. So what can we do about it? One thing would be to form car pools among the members who are coming to our center. Those of you who live quite near each other could work out a deal where one week one will drive and then it would be someone else's turn. Also, if you happen to be within walking distance of our big bus, why not take it once in a while instead of driving your car?

If we don't make some effort to keep some of the cars off the streets, it won't be long before they decide to give out ration cards, and you folks must remember what a mess that was.

So let's turn off lights when we really don't need them and also set your air conditioners at 78° as that would make a surprising difference and even save you some money.

Rockport trip

Speaking of trips, remember that this Monday morning we sign up for the Rockport trip. The price of $20.50 includes the bus ride, a boat ride around the Gloucester harbor and a real old-fashioned clam and lobster bake and all the tips. This trip goes on Aug. 4.

We now have our three buses filled for the German Alps Festival scheduled for July 28 and we have a waiting list. We also have a waiting list for Brown's Resort in the Catskills.

Monday: "Sloppy Joes" macaroni salad, Jello with whipped topping, beverage.
Tuesday: "Picnic in the Park" Reuben sandwich, dill pickles, potato salad, gingerbread with topping, beverage.
Wednesday: Sliced turkey sandwich, macaroni salad, cake and beverage.
Thursday: Grilled chicken and tomato sandwich, cole slaw, cookies and beverage.

Friendship Circle

During the day our Friendship Circle met in the morning and the ladies had a swell time chatting and working on various hobbies. Our good friend Irene Blisset was busy showing some of the group how to braid a rug and when they finish that it sure will make a terrific rug for our fall raffle.

On Thursday we had two buses take off for the Rockingham races; because this column is written on Thursday, you'll have to wait until Wednesday's column to hear if we had any winners.

Next Thursday our gang of two buses will be off for a day at Mystic Seaport. The buses will leave the center at 9 a.m., so please be here at 8:30.

Defector rewarded

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — The Chinese pilot who defected to Taiwan with his MIG19 jet fighter, renounced communism and received 5,000 ounces of gold and the commission of lieutenant colonel in the Nationalist Chinese air force at a gala ceremony.

With his clenched right fist raised high above his head, Fan Yuan-yen said, "Today, standing in front of the portrait of our founding father, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, I solemnly declare to all the compatriots of my country that I have forever renounced the Chinese Communist party and shall always fight the Communist party."

Government officials, military leaders and civic representatives filled the 1,200-seat Armed Forces Cultural Center and repeatedly burst into applause during the hour long ceremony.

Fan, a former squadron leader in the Communist air force, defected a week ago when he flew his MIG19 to Tainan air base in southern Taiwan.

The government, meeting a standing offer to Communist Chinese air force defectors, presented Fan with 19 gold bars weighing a total of 5,000 ounces.

Nixon appeals tape issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon is asking the Supreme Court to head off growing demands of lawyers who want to use his White House tapes in their civil suits.

The Supreme Court has ruled the tapes must be made available for criminal trials and the U.S. Court of Appeals were later ruled that lawyers in civil suits can compel production as evidence in their cases. The Supreme Court based its decision on a belief that there would be few demands for the tapes in criminal cases and therefore there would not be any substantial erosion of the confidentiality of presidential confidences.

In an appeal to the Supreme Court, Nixon's lawyers said that there have, in fact, been few demands for use in criminal trials but there are growing numbers of such demands in civil cases.

The demands have already been filed in five cases and are currently expected in 10 additional cases, the appeal said. There undoubtedly will be many more if the Supreme Court upholds the appeals court decision, Nixon's lawyers said.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I moved into a new neighborhood with our 5-year-old daughter and 10-year-old son. In this neighborhood, there are several children, ages 5 to 10, who use our home for a central playground. My children are delighted to have so many new playmates, but I am afraid they're a bad influence on ours. Several of the neighborhood children have been using swear words and dirty language. My husband and I never talk that way, as you dislike it intensely. Our children are repeating these words, and we're upset.

Tonight my husband noticed some extremely vulgar words written on our garage, and we're sure that neither our son nor daughter wrote them.

Should we try to cool our children's relationship with these children? To do so would mean when they are here? Or do you know of some other solution?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You can't raise your children in a glass cage. They are bound to be exposed to all kinds of language sooner or later. Don't make a big deal out of it. Tell them you disapprove of the language, and ask them to respect your wishes and cut it out. But do it with love, not anger.

DEAR ABBY: This is my second marriage and Otto's. I keep our house in perfect order and am an excellent cook. I get $180 unemployment every month. Otto wants me to give him one-third of my check to pay for my room and board.

I pay for all my necessities and buy my own clothes. All he pays for is the food I eat, and I think the work I do around the house more than repays him for my room and board.

His take-home pay is $680 a month. What do you think Otto's demands?

SECOND WIFE

DEAR SECOND: I think he's out of his mind. I've never heard of a man charging his wife for room and board. And sounds more like a business deal than a marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and I'm having a disagreement with my father. I am invited to a baby shower for a friend who is my age, pregnant and unmarried.

My father doesn't want me to go. He says if I were to go and bring a gift, it would mean that I think what his girl did was okay.

I don't think what she did was okay, but I see my friend even if it did make a mistake, and I don't see anything wrong in attending the shower. Do you?

KOKOMO GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Unmarried mothers-to-be need the moral support of their friends (and the baby gifts, too), even more than those who are married girls. I don't agree that attending the shower and taking a gift necessarily lends approval to the girl's behavior.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: You can't raise your children in a glass cage. They are bound to be exposed to all kinds of language sooner or later. Don't make a big deal out of it. Tell them you disapprove of the language, and ask them to respect your wishes and cut it out. But do it with love, not anger.

DEAR ABBY: This is my second marriage and Otto's. I keep our house in perfect order and am an excellent cook. I get $180 unemployment every month. Otto wants me to give him one-third of my check to pay for my room and board.

I pay for all my necessities and buy my own clothes. All he pays for is the food I eat, and I think the work I do around the house more than repays him for my room and board.

His take-home pay is $680 a month. What do you think Otto's demands?

SECOND WIFE

DEAR SECOND: I think he's out of his mind. I've never heard of a man charging his wife for room and board. And sounds more like a business deal than a marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and I'm having a disagreement with my father. I am invited to a baby shower for a friend who is my age, pregnant and unmarried.

My father doesn't want me to go. He says if I were to go and bring a gift, it would mean that I think what his girl did was okay.

I don't think what she did was okay, but I see my friend even if it did make a mistake, and I don't see anything wrong in attending the shower. Do you?

KOKOMO GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Unmarried mothers-to-be need the moral support of their friends (and the baby gifts, too), even more than those who are married girls. I don't agree that attending the shower and taking a gift necessarily lends approval to the girl's behavior.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I moved into a new neighborhood with our 5-year-old daughter and 10-year-old son. In this neighborhood, there are several children, ages 5 to 10, who use our home for a central playground. My children are delighted to have so many new playmates, but I am afraid they're a bad influence on ours. Several of the neighborhood children have been using swear words and dirty language. My husband and I never talk that way, as you dislike it intensely. Our children are repeating these words, and we're upset.

Tonight my husband noticed some extremely vulgar words written on our garage, and we're sure that neither our son nor daughter wrote them.

Should we try to cool our children's relationship with these children? To do so would mean when they are here? Or do you know of some other solution?

Sewer line needs fund allocation to get state aid

The Town of Manchester has learned that it must allocate funds for the proposed sewer project in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. area before it can receive state monies for the work. The Board of Directors will conduct a public hearing in August to consider appropriating the $315,000 in town costs for the work, Jay J. Giles, director of public works, said. The board will also have to consider a proposal that a question be placed on the November ballot asking residents to approve borrowing in anticipation of state and federal grants for the project, Giles said. The funds being proposed for use in the work are federal sewer funds that have been granted to the State of Connecticut. Normally, such funds are not permitted for street sewer projects such as the one in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. area. But, the state must allocate the funds by Sept. 30. Rather than lose some of the money, it has decided to make street sewer projects eligible for the money.

In March, the directors approved $110,000 in preliminary engineering costs for the work. Some of this may be reimbursed if the town receives the funding. When filling out the federal application, Giles said that the town just had to explain how it would obtain its share of the funding for the work. But, the state requires that the money actually be appropriated before it grants funding for the project. "The town has to authorize funding of the remaining part of the project," Merwin Hupfer, assistant director of the water compliance division of the state Department of Environmental Protection, said. He said that state funding won't be held up for Manchester if it does not provide the needed money. "They should act as soon as possible," he said. All allocations will be completed by Sept. 30. The $315,000 allocation, which will be considered at the board's August meeting, will cover the town's cost for the project, Giles said. But, the state will also require that the remainder of the project be pre-funded. Giles said that the town could take two approaches to the matter.

The first would be to allocate a certain amount of money and recycle it. For instance, the town would allocate $200,000 and use it to pay the contractor for one phase of the work. The state would then reimburse the $200,000, and the town would use that state grant to pay for the next phase of work. But, this is not the ideal setup, Giles said. "If the contractor's second bill comes in before the state and federal governments' first payment, we've got a cash-flow problem," he said. The second approach is the one that he recommends. It would be a question on the November ballot requesting that the town be allowed to borrow in anticipation of the state and federal grants for the project.

The question would not be a bond issue, but would permit short-term borrowing necessary to cover the project's costs before the projected funding arrives, Giles said. Such borrowing is not permitted without approval of a town's voters. The project includes street sewers in the Baldwin-Concord Rd. area and a trunk line from Union Pond to Tolland Tpke. Giles said that the state has also asked that the line along Tolland Tpke, he extended 1,500 feet to include the Arcadia Restaurant, which has had problems with its septic system. The addition to the project will cost about $195,000, he said. The total cost of the work is estimated at $1,640,000. Giles will be sending letters to all affected property owners informing them of the project and telling them about the Aug. 9 hearing before the Board of Directors.

Woman injured

Reba Grous, 33, of 13 Ridgewood Dr. Vernon, was in stable condition today in the intensive care unit of Rockville General Hospital where she was admitted after being injured in an auto accident. Three passengers in her car, Michelle Grous, 8, Kristina Grous and Sue Ann Grous, both 5, were treated at the hospital and released. The accident occurred at Grove and Hale Sts. when the Grous vehicle collided with one driven by Alfred P. Jump Jr., 30, of 11 September Rd., Mansfield. Jump was not injured. Mrs. Grous was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way at an intersection. She is scheduled for appearance in Common Pleas Court in Rockville July 29.

Dinner theaters

At Chateau de Ville Dinner Theatre in East Windsor, Myron Cohen brings laughter to the audience nightly through Monday. The next billing stars Enzo Sturti Friday through July 25.

The Pine-Brook Dinner Theatre in Higganum features "Kismet" nightly with melodies by Borodin through July 31.

At Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" opens Tuesday and continues through Sept. 4.

Cast change at Goodspeed

Virginia Capers, who won the 1974 Tony Award for Best Actress in a Musical for her role in "Raisin," has joined the cast of "Hit The Deck" in production at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam. She replaces Birdie M. Hale.

Art events

At the Wadsworth Atheneum in Hartford, a selection of paintings from the French, Italian and Northern European collections at the Atheneum, normally on view in the Avery building's third floor galleries, will be on display in the museum's first floor Austin Gallery beginning Sunday. They will remain in this temporary location through mid-September. For information on other events and exhibits at the Atheneum, call 247-9111.

The Tolland County Art Association featured artist for the month of July is Mrs. Robert E. Linton of Rockville. Her paintings are on display at the Main Office of Vernon National Bank at Vernon Circle.

Tools displayed

One of Lambert Hitchcock's entrepreneur contemporaries in Northwest Connecticut before the turn of the 19th Century was Samuel Collins of Collinsville. The Collins Co. produced "edge" tools for many years.

In memory of the association between these two Connecticut Yankees - Hitchcock and Collins - the Hitchcock Museum in Riverton (Hitchcockville) is showing an exhibit of Collins Co. edge tools and other related memorabilia from the Canton Historical Museum in Collinsville. The exhibit may be seen now through August.

The following log drive story tells of the Hitchcock-Collins dealings.

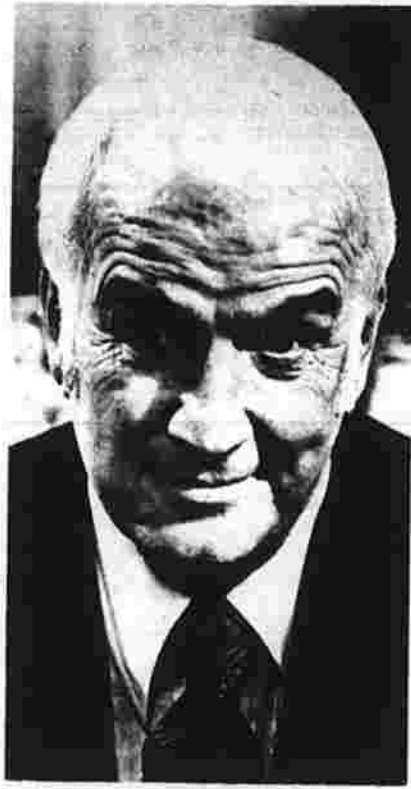

In the early 1840s, Lambert Hitchcock sold his chair factory in Riverton, and opened a woodworking shop in Unionville. He bought a stand of timber in Barkhamstead and floated the logs down the river.

At that time the Collins Company dam was made of wood.

When Sam Collins saw these big logs plunging down to his mill pond, he was much perturbed!

"Send them over one at a time," he called to Lambert. Fully aware of what a broken dam would mean to Sam's company, Lambert complied.

As far as is known, this was the only log drive on the Farmington River.

Broadway and TV star Don Porter opens Tuesday at the Coachlight Dinner Theatre in East Windsor in the popular rags-to-riches musical, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Area theater

The Central Connecticut State College (New Britain) Theatre Workshop will present Jean Giraudoux's comedy about Greek gods and a faithful wife, "Amphitryon 38," Thursday through July 23 at 8 p.m. in the college theater. Tickets are available at the door. In the cast are Roger Date of Andover and Katherine Webber of East Hartford. Coming next is "Little Mary Sunshine" July 28 to 30.

At Storowton Theatre in West Springfield, Mass., Angela Lansbury stars in "Gypsy" tonight at 8 and 9:30. Monday through July 23, Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse appear with the Folies Bergere. For reservations, call 522-5211.

At Nutmeg Summer Playhouse, Storrs, Joanne Seltzer of Vernon directs "South Pacific" in the Harriet S. Jorgensen Theatre at University of Hartford through July 23. Terri Sturtevant stars as Bloody Mary. For reservations, call 429-2912.

At Oakdale Musical Theatre in Wallingford, Neil Sedaka is billed tonight at 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. Monday through July 23. Engelbert Humperdinck is on stage. For reservations, call 265-1501.

Summerstage at Trinity College in Hartford will close its premiere season with "The Oldest Living Graduate" which plays in the Austin Arts Center from Tuesday to July 30, at 8:30 p.m. Tonight is the final performance of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." For reservations, call 525-1471.

At the Berkshire Playhouse in Stockbridge, Mass., "Broadway" plays tonight and Sunday. Running Wednesday to July 31 is Saul Bellow's "The Last Analysis." For reservations, call 413-298-5536.

'Manchester Profile'

NETWORK, an emergency shelter care program for local youth, will headline this week's edition of "Manchester Profile."

Ms. Jennie Talbot, NETWORK program director for Manchester Youth Services, discusses the role of 12 to 15 local families who volunteer free, short-term shelter care to youth out of their own homes for various reasons. "Profile" reporters also meet with one of these volunteer families.

Ms. Glynis Berry, newly-appointed director of the Lutz Junior Museum, discusses the plans and responsibilities involved in supervising the operation of the local children's museum. She also speaks about upcoming events in the Lutz calendar.

Highlights from a recent Summer Activities of Manchester (SAM) 2 1/2-mile run, swim triathlon competition will be featured, along with last weekend's SAM rock concert, and an interview with Lee Hay, director of Manchester's Summer Enrichment Program.

"Manchester Profile" is a weekly newsmagazine sponsored by the Town of Manchester. The news show can be seen each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on Greater Hartford Cable TV, Channel 13.

At Tanglewood

Music, walks and talks abound at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., this summer.

Tanglewood Talks and Walks is a series of five Thursday noon lecture-luncheons in the Tanglewood Tent. Guest speaker on July 28 is Tanglewood Operations Manager James F. Kiley.

Other guests include Pasquale Cardillo, clarinetist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Betsy Jolas, composer in residence at Berkshire Music Center, and Carol Procter, cellist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Each talk is followed by a special guided tour of Tanglewood. You may bring a lunch. For further information and reservations, call the Tanglewood Friends Office at 413-637-1600.

Also at Tanglewood: Thursday at 8:30 p.m., Boston University Young Artists Program, chamber music concert.

Friday at 7 p.m., Prelude with Tanglewood Festival Chorus 9 p.m., Seiji Ozawa conducts an all-Mozart program with vocal soloists.

Saturday at 2:30 p.m., vocal music recital; 8:30 p.m., Neville Marriner conducts an all-Mendelssohn program featuring the Second Piano Concerto.

Sunday at 10 a.m., chamber music concert; 2:30 p.m., Seiji Ozawa conducts an all-Haydn program.

On Aug. 12, Tanglewood on Parade features several conductors including Arthur Fiedler, and a performance of Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture" complete with cannons and fireworks.

Open rehearsals are held in the Shed each Saturday at 10:30 a.m. The orchestra rehearses the program to be offered the following Sunday evening. Seats are unreserved and are available the morning of the rehearsal.

For further information, call 413-637-1600.

State man designed skills set

By RUSS MacKENDRICK
This is the Civilian Skills set of seals that came out in Cincinnati on the Fourth. The idea behind them is that these skills played a major part in the War of Independence: Seamstress, blacksmith, wheelwright and leatherworker. They are attractive stamps with good, if muted, coloring. The inscriptions are in red.

And as usual, it seems, the artist is a Connecticut resident - Leonard Fisher of Westport, who also designed the Colonial Craftsmen block of four in 1972 (glassmaker, silversmith, wig-maker and hatter), and also the Legend of Sleepy Hollow in time for Halloween in 1974.

With the new system for first-day covers there is still time, and two ways, to get in on the act. You can buy the stamps at the local post office and make up your own arrangements. Address them to yourself with peelable labels and send them in a large envelope to First Day Cancellation, Postmaster, Cincinnati, Ohio 45234.

The other way is to send addressed envelopes without stamps, together with a remittance, to Skilled Hand Stamps, Postmaster, Cincinnati, Ohio 45234, and they will put on the stamps and return the FDCs through the mail. They will risk a personal check up to an amount of $26.

Either way your order must be postmarked not later than next Tuesday, July 19. (Note the difference in the addresses).

Continuing with new issues - no summer doldrums this year - the United States and Canada are collaborating on the 50th anniversary of the Peace Bridge between Buffalo and Fort Erie, with commemoratives to be released Aug. 4. There will be a joint ceremony at Kleinhans Music Hall, Buffalo.

It will not be quite like the St. Lawrence Seaway affair in 1959 when they both had the same design (Great Lakes, and maple leaf and eagle in their respective intertwined chain links). Remember the Canadian invert? The 1978 Scott Volume I, just out, has it up $750 from last year, making it $3,500 mint and $3,250 used.

The U.S.A. Peace Bridge issue will be a 13-cent stamp showing six spans from far away, with a white dove covering the upper half of the stamp. The Canadian version will show a faithful rendition of the bridge structure - two half-spans on a solid base. The upper left will say "Peace Bridge 1927/77" and at the upper left will be the inscription "Canada" and three tiny flags in color: Canadian,

U.N. and U.S. This is to be a 12-cent value as they are making do with this amount for first-class mail.

Two days later - where will it all end? - another Bicentennial battle. It will be General Herkimer lying wounded at Oriskany. This 13-cent stamp will be released Saturday, Aug. 6, at Herkimer, N.Y. (near Utica). It will be printed on a seven-color gravure press. A color reproduction in a recent Linn's Stamp News indicates that it will be fully as depressing as the other ocherous battle stamps. This one was designed by a familiar name: Bradbury Thompson of Riverside, Conn. It was taken from a painting by F. Yohn which hangs in the Library at Utica.

Still going strong

Speaking of continuing Bicentennials - The American Bicommemorative is still going strong with its project of one medal per month for 76 months during the "Bicentennial Era." The members vote on what's to come and the Battle of Saratoga was elected to be the design on Medal No. 32. (It won out over Articles of Confederation, Brandywine and Haym Salomon.) The July medal was Minuteman; the August will be Independence Hall; September, Lafayette, October, the First American Bible; and November, the Saratoga above.

They publish a little "Newsletter," plus a Forum for members' communications. A girl from Westport, N.Y. (pop. few), wants a commem for the Pride of Vermont, the horse, Justin Morgan, but up to now it hasn't been put to a vote.

For further information, write Jack Hamilton, ABC Society Headquarters, Box 1776, Springfield, Pa. 19064.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I would like to know if Tom Laughlin will be making any more Billy Jack movies. Both my husband and I think his movies are the best we've seen and we think he should make more. VICKI BARKER, Tipp City, Ohio

There will be one more, anyway. "Billy Jack Goes To Washington" is now being finished and is scheduled to be an Easter release. Laughlin tells me that he has no plans for further Billy Jack films. But, next, he will do a film called "No Language But a Cry," based on a book about a true case of a battered child, taken in by nuns, who transform her from a total cripple to a functioning human being. Laughlin will play a psychoanalyst, his wife, Delores Taylor, will be the head nun, and daughter, Teresa, will be the young girl.

DEAR DICK: My friend and I are really interested in Beau Bridges. Do you know if he has any movies lined up in the near future? MARY LOU MACKAY, Bloomfield, P.E.I., Can.

Beau is one of the most popular actors around today. He's always working, or so it seems. You can see him currently in the big thriller, "Two-Minute Warning."

DEAR DICK: I would like to know what Liberace is doing. Is he still playing tours all over the United States? We just love him. J.K., Winamac, Ind.

You hit the head right on the nail. Liberace and his candelabra are still making the rounds, playing for the ladies everywhere he remains one of the more popular in-person performers.

DEAR DICK: Do you think you could give me some information on an actor named Bekim Fehmiu? He was in the movie, "The Adventurers," based on the Harold Robbins novel. I have never seen him on any other show or movie. MRS. MARLENE URWILER, Riverside, N.J.

Paramount had high hopes for Fehmiu, a Yugoslavian actor, when they cast him in the lead of "The Adventurers." But the picture was so bad, and he was even worse, that his Hollywood career ended abruptly. He's still active in Europe, but, except for a '71 film called "The Deserter," which is airing on CBS Jan. 5, none of his subsequent films have been released in the U.S.

DEAR DICK: On Hee Haw, who is the lady fiddle player in Buck Owens' group? Is she related to him? MARLIN FAUSEY, Williamsport, Pa.

Her name is Jana Jay and, no, she's not an Owens kin.

DEAR DICK: Perhaps you could find out what has happened to my favorite movie actress, Virginia Grey. I haven't seen her in a new picture since "Airport." MS. MARY SINCLAIR, Eureka, Ca.

Virginia doesn't work very often these days, but you will be able to see her on TV in "The Moneychangers." That was produced by Ross Hunter, and Hunter (who also made "Airport") always finds a part for his old friend, Virginia Grey.

DEAR DICK: Who is the actor who played Thomas Jefferson in The Adams Chronicles? NANCY HILL, Duncan, B.C., Can.

That was Albert Stratton, a fine actor who works a lot on stage, as well as movies and TV.

DEAR DICK: Whatever became of Jill Clayburgh? I thought she was fabulous in "Gable and Lombard." I hope those bad reviews didn't ruin her career. J. E. CURTIS, Covina, Ca.

The reviews sure didn't help much. But Jill is a good actress. She's also the kind who won't take just anything - she only wants good parts - and it's a tough, competitive field these days. She's currently co-starring in "The Silver Streak."

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me where I can get a picture of Lee Marvin and the intoxicated horse from "Cat Ballou?" SCHERIE JONES, Ore City, Tex.

There are a few companies which deal with old movie stills. The best is Larry Edmonds' Hollywood Book Store, on Hollywood Boulevard. He may have such a shot in stock.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument between myself and a co-worker. Is Bill Bixby or Robert Reed the son of Mary Martin? BONNIE ARRINGTON, Stockton, Calif.

Neither. Mary Martin's son is Larry Hagman.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me why they are taking Space: 1999 off the air in August? Is it possible it will be back on soon? PHIL RONE, East Brewton, Ala.

That's a syndicated show, which means that the decision to drop it was made by your local station, and you'll have to take it up with them. I can tell you, however, that the second season of the show was a general disappointment and there's little chance they will make more. It's possible, of course, that the ones already made may be shown again at some point.
