Jackson appeal tabled pending new opinion

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter
The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Monday night tabled a decision on an appeal of a stop-work order for construction being done by Nicholas and Phyllis Jackson at 72 Maple St.

Atty. Leon Podrove, representing the Jacksons, called a previous ruling about the matter by Atty. Martin Burke "dead wrong." The ZBA will now seek further legal opinion before its next scheduled meeting September 19, at which it will have to make a final decision on the case.

Burke had said that the Maple St. construction — an addition of five dwellings and one office to a four-family house — is in violation of zoning regulations and would require a variance from the ZBA.

Podrove said that he feels the addition is legal and that no variance is required. Thus, the Jacksons filed for an appeal of the stop-work order that had been issued on June 13 by the Building Department.

Podrove started his two-hour presentation to the board by requesting that Clarence "Bud" Brown, a member of the ZBA, withdraw from the hearing concerning the Jackson appeal.

Reading from newspaper stories, Podrove said that Brown had made public statements that the Jacksons' construction is in violation of zoning regulations.

Drought losses now in billions

By KENNETH R. CLARK
United Press International
In Dawson, Ga., farmer Bobby Loomer is out to 2,000 acres of sun-withered corn.

In North Carolina, thousands of fish died in the Neuse River — victims of oxygen depletion after 15 consecutive days of temperatures in the 90s and no rain since May 26.

Across Kansas, corn, milo and soybeans shriveled in heat unbroken since June when a then-unwanted deluge cost the state 15 to 16 million bushels of wheat, and in Iowa, farmers and cattlemen faced foreclosure at the bank.

In California, where the overall loss to the state's economy now is pegged at $1.5 billion, farmers are "drilling wells like they're going out of style."

From coast to coast, the farmers' food of disaster was as unbroken Monday as the blistering heat wave that marked the drought of 1977.

Agriculture experts had little to offer in the way of hope for rain.

Begin presents peace plan to Carter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prime Minister Menemh Begin today was presenting President Carter a comprehensive Middle East peace plan that reportedly would return some occupied territory to Egypt and Syria, but leave the West Bank under Israeli control.

Begin also was arguing the recovery of the Geneva Middle East peace conference Oct. 10 without negotiating preconditions, according to diplomatic sources.

The leader of the conservative Likud party arrived from New York Monday afternoon aboard a U.S. Air Force jet and told reporters at Andrews Air Force Base he hoped his visit would result in "progress towards real peace" and deeper U.S.-Israeli friendship.

The details of his peace plan remained secret until after his White House meeting with President Carter.

Begin scheduled a news conference for Wednesday to discuss his proposals, the first comprehensive Israeli approach in several years.

Heat wave enters its fourth day
By United Press International
Thunderstorms Thursday and Friday. Air conditioners and fans were popular items in appliance stores Monday.

John Gillespie of Old Saybrook said customers were lined up at the door when the Roche Appliance Co. opened for business at 9 a.m. By 3 p.m., 36 air conditioners had been sold.

"I think people probably reached the breaking point after three hot nights with no sleep," he said. "There's no time for paperwork — just name, address and how he's going to pay."

Northeast Utilities said the demand for power to help alleviate Monday's heat fell shy of the record for consumption set Aug. 31, 1972. A spokesman said there was no difficulty meeting the demand and Northeast even exported some power Monday to the New York area.

Today's summary
Compiled from United Press International

State

HARTFORD — The American Stock Exchange won't be moving to Connecticut, Mark Feinberg of the state Commerce Department said Monday. Amex has decided to consider only New York or New Jersey as a site for its new home.

NEW HAVEN — Yale University's 1,100 service employees were on the job today without a contract and with no new bargaining deal in sight. A round of talks ended Monday but a threatened strike did not materialize.

HARTFORD — Reps. Robert N. Giaimo and Christopher J. Dodd, both D-Conn., said Monday in Washington they each attended a dinner in 1975 hosted by Suzi Park Thompson, a former Capitol Hill aide linked to allegations the Korean CIA tried to influence members of Congress. Both said the dinners were strictly social affairs and no attempt to discuss Korean matters or to influence them was made.

Regional

QUINCY, Mass. — The National Labor Relations Board orders an end to mass picketing at the General Dynamics plant here following a scuffle with police and the arrest of 26 strikers.

AUGUSTA, Maine — Three top state officials dispel any notion that Maine will hand over 100,000 acres of public land as part of an out-of-court settlement of the Maine Indian land claim case.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Pumping of oil through the trans-Alaska pipeline resumes after being given the go-ahead by the federal government which investigated a July 8 explosion which destroyed Pump Station No. 8. Human error, not construction flaws, was ruled as the cause of the blast.

LOS ANGELES — A federal judge sentenced Andrew Dalton 60 to life imprisonment for selling top secret documents to the Soviet Union, as a warning to other espionage agents that "this is game you do not play."

DALLAS — Delegates to the 22nd annual convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod resume debate on a resolution protesting its alliance with the less conservative American Lutheran Church.

International

UNITED NATIONS — The United States and 41 other Security Council members meet to approve Vietnam's admission to the United Nations. A late afternoon vote is expected.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — Prime Minister Ian Smith calls new elections for Aug. 31, two years early, in an attempt to undercut both the U.S.-British peace plan and his domestic opponents.

LONDON — Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, today said Rhodesia's decision to hold new parliamentary elections was a "desperate move" on the part of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Hydrogen truck taken to Acton

The liquid hydrogen truck involved in Thursday's explosion at the Knick Co., 1366 Tolland Tpke., was driven Friday to the Acton, Mass. office of Air-Co Industrial Gas, which owns the truck.

The contents of the 13,000-gallon truck will be discharged by the firm, and the truck will then be driven to the Boston-based company that manufactures the vehicle, John Rivosa, Town Fire Chief, said. The company will inspect the vehicle to see if it can determine the cause of the accident, he said.

William C. Hall, 46, of Franklinville, N.J., suffered second and third-degree burns. He is in satisfactory condition, according to a Manchester Memorial Hospital spokesman.

Rivosa, who is fire marshal for the Buckland area where the explosion occurred, and state officials were at the site Friday to investigate. The state fire marshal said that the truck was structurally sound and could be driven to Massachusetts so that further studies could be made.

Rivosa requested that state police escort the vehicle to the state line, which was done. He said that Massachusetts State Police provided an escort for the remainder of the trip.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

When what a warm weekend, but it was fun, especially at the Andover Sportsman's Club's annual family picnic at the Elks Pavilion in Glastonbury.

Played one game of Bocce, but it was much too warm to continue onto a second.

Club president John Stanizzi of East Hartford, managed the cooling beverage booth, and other club members served up steamed corn on the cob, sausage and peppers, and of course, the ever popular hamburgers and hot dogs.

Everything was delicious. Some of the youngsters found a cool stream to dunk in and didn't seem to mind the heat.

Some of the members did some trap shooting in a game called "Wipe Your Eye." Members line up in pairs and if the first man misses his shot, his partner is supposed to hit it. I guess the name came from the fact that if the second man takes a second to wipe his eyes he can miss his shot — it all moves so fast.

Later in the afternoon, there was music for dancing and a few of us brave souls spun around the dance floor a few times despite the heat.

All in all, it was a grand day. Lots of good food, good fun and especially good friends.

Home at last

Well, the young traveler arrived home, about 24 hours late, but he was happy.

The arrival was delayed when my daughter and her family of friends stopped at Niagara Falls en route home. They left with it — and spent the day.

It was 3 a.m. Saturday when I heard the front door open and there she was, suitcase in hand.

We chatted about an hour as she munched on a piece of cake (saving the chocolate frosting till last) and sipped a glass of milk.

Some of her observations, in brief: California is okay, but I wouldn't want to live there. It's crowded, the grass is brown, and the air is too dry.

Never, but never find yourself in Elkhardt, Ind. in the middle of the night when you're running low on gas. Even the police don't know which are the all night gas stations.

Beverly Hills is fabulous. There the grass is green, the flowers beautiful, and the houses enormous.

Camping in the Sierra Mountains is great. Especially washing up in the cool streams every morning. Canoeing in Minnesota was fun. We visited some people in a little town there that had a population of 492. Course it increased to 498 when we arrived.

Dining in the Skyline Restaurant at Niagara Falls was terrific; you could see all around.

When you change planes in Dallas wear comfortable shoes, cause walking from Gate 1 to Gate 16 in new shoes can be painful.

I learned things I didn't even know I wanted to know. Did you know that if you happen to drive by the homes of the stars in Beverly Hills, you might just spot Burt Reynolds' beautiful red car. His license plate is "E60 1."

And if you come to the cul de sac near Elton John's house, you may have to turn into his driveway to turn around. Once there, you may even get a chance to talk with his chauffeur as he polishes up the big, green Cadillac with the stereo, television, bar, telephone, etc.

And, for all of you who have wondered, the Beverly Hills really do have a mansion in Beverly Hills. Well, they don't live there, but the mansion the popular television show was filmed in, is located there.

The telephone has started ringing, the friends arriving, the refrigerator is empty, and the walls are reverberating with the sound of rock music.

The young lady of the family is officially home.

Letter from Florida

Had a nice letter from Mrs. Walter J. Vernier of Fort Pierce, Fla. She enjoys my column and likes the recipes in "Your Neighbor's Kitchen."

She sent along a recipe for "Sherry Beef Short Ribs" which sounds delicious and I'll pass it along in a future cooking column.

Mrs. Vernier, a widow since 1969, has her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wells Folsom, living with her. They formerly lived in Manchester.

Mrs. Vernier wrote that she is 81. "I started to take the Herald in 1954 and have taken it ever since as I find it a very enjoyable paper."

Thank you, Mrs. V. That's what we like to hear.

Baker-Moon

Susan Elizabeth Moon, and Gregory Mark Baker, both of Manchester, were married July 16 at Community Baptist Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edna Moon of Manchester and the late M. Harold Moon. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert F. Baker of Manchester.

The bridegroom's father officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli and carnations. Charlotte Baker of Manchester, the bridegroom's cousin, was organist and Cheryl Morehouse of Granby was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Edward H. Moon, wore a white gown designed with Empire waist, sheer sleeves with Venice lace and skirt with ruffled hemline. She wore a chapel veil and carried a bouquet of stephanotis, pink roses and baby's breath.

Miss Deborah A. Dibble of Waterbury was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Moon of Moodus and Miss Kathy Moon of Manchester, the bride's sisters. Miss Candy Yates of Manchester was flower girl.

Kurtis Davis of Levitt, N.Y. was best man. Ushers were Clark Baker and Timothy Baker, both of Manchester, and brothers of the bridegroom. Lee Esakdol of Schenectady, N.Y. was ring bearer.

A reception was held in the church hall, after which the couple left for North Conway, N.H. For traveling, Mrs. Baker wore a mint summer dress. The couple will reside in Manchester.

Police role defended

Police have human rights too! Recently a youth in East Hartford caused a disturbance in a fast food restaurant, then insulted and assaulted the police officers who were called to the scene. For this and the loss of four teeth, he received much public support. Aside from the obscenities he used, he said that if he had been drinking as charged he would have fought harder. The fact that the youth was fully aware of what he was doing makes his behavior even more repulsive.

Yet this youth has received more public sympathy than the victims of criminals who show no respect for human life much less human rights. It is a shame that the youth's parents didn't teach him to respect the rights of others. Police officers are just our neighbors who have to wear a uniform when on duty. They have the same human rights as the rest of us. Had one of those officers or a bystander been injured, critics would have said they did not use enough force quickly enough. The police have enough problems without individuals trying to make heroes out of violently anti-social people.

Skateboard area favored

To the editor, After a few incidents in our neighborhood, I feel compelled to write in the defense of skateboarders! Perhaps if Manchester's finest concentrated more on the kids that are doing all the vandalism in our local parks and schools, our tax monies could be put to better use—like a skateboard park! These kids need to expend their energies, wouldn't it be better to do it on skateboards than in breaking windows from boredom?

Respectfully,

Scholarship loans to area graduates

The Manchester Student Nurse Loan Association has presented five scholarships to recent graduates of Manchester High School and Tolland High School.

Receiving the scholarship loans are the following persons: Heidi Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Foster of Dunn Rd., Coventry, graduate of Tolland High School. She will attend the Concord N.H. Hospital School of Nursing.

Karen Heidcavage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Heidcavage of 46 Coolidge St. A graduate of Manchester High School, she will receive her nursing education at the Ona Wilcox School of Nursing at Middlesex Memorial Hospital.

Margy Little, daughter of Mrs. Frances Little, 60 Hamlin St., will work for her degree in nursing at Western Connecticut State College. She is a graduate of MHS.

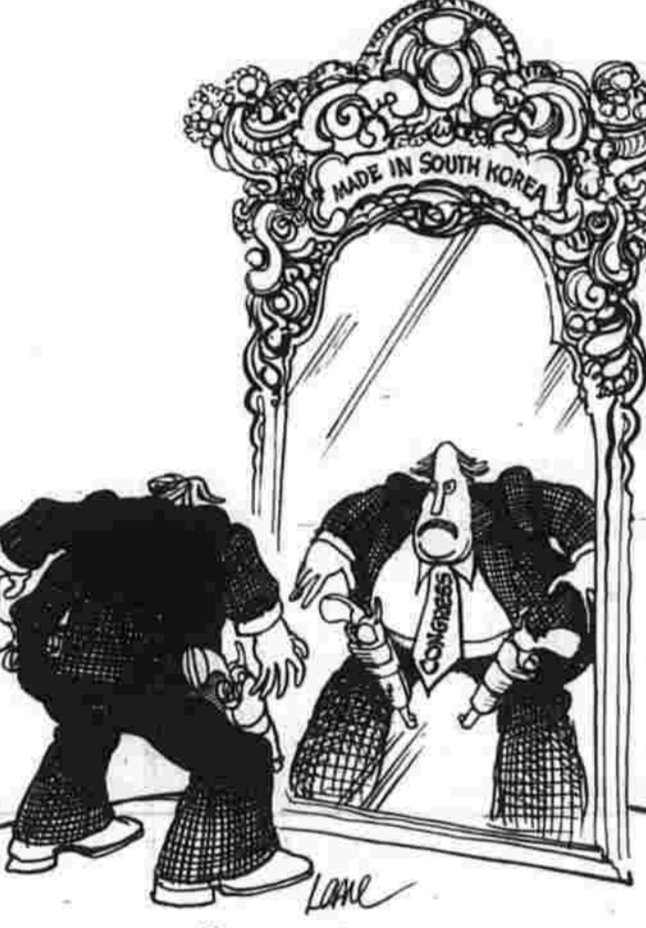

Mary Derby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Derby of 104 Park St., will study nursing at Keuka College, Keuka Park, N.Y. She is a graduate of MHS.

Debra Cowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Cowles Jr. of 81 Avondale Rd., also a graduate of MHS, will attend Roberts-Wesleyan College in Rochester, N.Y.

The Manchester Student Nurse Loan Association, a non-profit organization, was founded 27 years ago to ensure the Manchester area with an adequate supply of skilled registered nurses.

The association's policy regarding these loans is to forgive them if upon successful completion of their studies, the recipients will practice their profession at Manchester Memorial Hospital for at least one year.

Loans by the association are made possible by grants from the hospital Board of Trustees, the Manchester Medical Association and the Manchester Nurses Association.

Shootout at Capitol Hill

Disability pension

WASHINGTON — Let us lift a brimming cup to a couple of AP reporters, Brooks Jackson and Evans Witt, who have discovered that some retired federal civil servants drawing pensions on disability grounds have been stealing from our Uncle Sam.

From an internal Civil Service Commission report, Jackson and Witt dug up the "top 20" — individuals who earned the most in new jobs, although they had been granted pensions because they couldn't give their all in government posts.

"It's a scandal," a CSC aide told me. "But it's almost impossible to police the situation. We'd need an army of investigators that would cost more than the amount that's being stolen."

She's probably right. But although the crooks are in a small minority, their thievery is at the very least a bad influence within civil servant ranks. More than 279,000 disability pensioners now draw more than $1.5 billion a year, most of which comes from the taxpayers' pockets.

Big earnings And some of the crooks think big. One "disabled" pensioner earned $117,500 in a new private job in 1974 and 1975. Another such pensioner was paid $100,000 by a private employer in the same two years. Two other sharpies earned $76,793 and $66,444 in one year. The four were drawing pensions ranging from $404 to $1793 per month.

What bugs me most however, is that it seems beyond the wit of the CSC to devise a means of at least reducing the volume of robbery. The agency is trusting the pensioners to take care of themselves.

What monitoring that's done is based on a most generous law. That law requires cancellation of pensions for federal employees retired for disability who earn more than 80 per cent of what their old jobs paid for two years in a row. Moreover, commission procedures permit pension to continue for one year beyond the two financially fat years.

Postcard report At any rate, the commission expects pensioners to report earned income by means of a postcard questionnaire. No pensioner with larceny in his heart is about to tell the truth in a questionnaire. And commission people admit there is no regular attempt to verify those postcard reports.

Then there is the disability definition. It's about as vague and broad as possible, covering all sorts of ailments, many of which are easy to fake. One pensioner was granted disability retirement because he claimed he had a sore back. Three weeks after retirement, a neighbor walked by a construction project and lingered to watch the guy lifting and carrying heavy bags of cement for almost to the commission and the crook's pension was cancelled.

"That had back story is almost foolproof," said my friend at the CSC. "Doctors really know very little about backs. They can prove a patient has a back ailment, but they can't prove beyond a reasonable doubt that he hasn't. Doctors don't like to admit it, but it's true. And doctors will admit they might not be able to see some serious botheration in an X-ray."

And so it is not surprising that nearly 80 per cent of federal workers who apply for disability retirement get it. To me, that figure has always seemed astounding, and the good work done by the AP's Jackson and Witt confirms my suspicion. There must be a lot of chronic hangerover victims — and maybe hangnail sufferers — on that free list.

Senators scuttle some 'freebies'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American taxpayers may be spared the expense of the B1 bomber and free shaving razors for senators thanks to action by Congress.

Legislation approved by the Senate Monday would scuttle "freebies" such as graduate meals, hairdresses and shipping trunks traditionally enjoyed by senators. The measure also included money to boost the 29 per cent pay hike that covered annual salaries to $57,500.

The Senate also agreed with President Carter's request to delete $1.4 billion intended for construction of five B1 bombers.

In other action, House leaders pledged an accelerated, no-holds-barred inquiry into South Korean influence buying on Capitol Hill.

Congress was asked to revise federal labor law to strengthen the bond of unions and in separate action, military officials testified unions in the military would split trouble in peace and disaster in war.

The 80-26 Senate vote to delete production funds for the super sonic B1 bomber represented an expected victory for the White House. Carter earlier announced plans to rely on the pilotless cruise missile instead of the multibillion dollar supersonic bomber.

In the House, meanwhile, Speaker Thomas O'Neill Jr. had the chairman of the House Ethics Committee and emerged to say he wanted court of staff.

Room list compiled

The student affairs office at Manchester Community College is compiling a list of individuals who expect to have rooms or apartments available for rent to last semester students.

Students will be coming from more than half of the 169 towns in Connecticut, from the other New England states, and from Northeastern states. They will be looking for single- and multiple-occupancy rental units.

Persons wishing to list rental units with the college are requested to call John V. Gannon Jr., associate dean of student affairs.

Romeo attends seminar

Michael Romeo, Manchester Memorial Hospital's bio-medical engineering technician, was chosen to participate in a one-day seminar on electro-surgical devices conducted by the Tufts-New England Medical Center in Boston Monday.

Manchester Memorial Hospital was the only Connecticut hospital to be represented in the event which included several Massachusetts hospital representatives.

Romeo lives with his wife and two sons on Mt. Vernon Dr., Vernon.

Committee reviews costs of Bentley School work

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Architect Richard Mankey presented a revised renovations figure of $635,000 for Bentley Elementary School to members of the Board of Education Monday night, however, some of the board members questioned the figure as being too high.

The original cost of the additions and renovations work on the school, which were approved in referendum in November 1975, was $747,000. The original project included the addition of a cafeteria which was dropped from the plan in March, based on the declining school enrollment projections.

The entire cost of the cafeteria is not deductible, Mankey said, because improvements will now have to be made to the existing cafeteria.

The estimated cost of the renovations to the new wing of the school, which was built in 1926, was listed at $85,000, or 26 per cent of the total renovations cost of $450,000.

The remainder of the renovations work will be done in the old wing of the building, Mankey said. It was built in the late 1800's and is larger than the new wing.

Board member Earl Odom questioned the new figure which he said seems high in view of the board's decision to do only a minimum amount of work on the school. It is expected to be gradually phased out as a school over the next eight years.

Paul Greenberg, chairman of the building and sites committee of the board, said also, "We wouldn't want to put too much into what might not be for school use."

Richard Lawrence, architect, questioned the new figure which he said seems high in view of the board's decision to do only a minimum amount of work on the school. It is expected to be gradually phased out as a school over the next eight years.

Lawrence's first priority, with which board members concurred, was to make installation of new insulated windows in the old section of classrooms on the lower level of the new wing, based on the predictions that some of the rooms would only be used for two years.

Greenberg said he would "hate to see the board spend $40,000 to $50,000, he said and might be eligible for partial state reimbursement.

Board members and administration will approve final plan and specifications this week and the entire Board will vote on approval of the final bid document for the Washington project next Monday at the board's regular meeting.

The project is pretty close to the time scheduled, although has been delayed some because of extra state requirements, Kennedy said. He is still hopeful that the project can go out to bid by the end of August.

The cost would be $31,000 to $35,000, he said and might be eligible for partial state reimbursement.

Police issue warning on bogus operation

Manchester and area police have received several reported incidents recently of salesmen offering to seal residents' driveways for excessive rates.

An elderly Bolton resident was robbed of a substantial amount of money as well as paying a large fee for the driveway sealing last Thursday, according to state police.

In that incident two males operating from a pickup truck approached the homeowner, offering to seal the driveway. While doing that work, one of the men distracted the homeowner, while the other entered the home and took money from a safe, according to the report.

Police said this is the standard operating procedure for the alleged driveway sealers. They use high pressure techniques and often prey on elderly persons.

Manchester Police Chief Robert D. Lanning advises residents to be aware of a substantial amount of money as well as paying a large fee for the driveway sealing last Thursday, according to state police.

Coventry residents divided on purchasing lake property

Coventry residents were divided at a public hearing Monday night on a proposal to purchase all or part of some 350 acres of land owned by the Salvation Army.

The Army is asking $550,000 for about 70 acres in the lake area and another $75,000 for about 270 acres in the northern section of town near Carpenter Rd. C. Donald Dumont of the Dow and Condon Real Estate Agency reported that the assessed value of the land is $247,185. But he noted the assessment was not a recent one and represented only 65 percent of the fair market value.

Funding figures changed

The Town of Vernon was informed in June that it had been designated to receive $1,283,000 from the Federal Economic Development Administration (EDA) to build a new police station. Last Friday, the town was told the figures had been revised to $1,126,000.

Staff rejoices as library gets top funding priority

South Windsor Judy Kuehnel, Herald Correspondent. Few members of the small but dedicated staff of the South Windsor Public Library would deny the road toward a new library facility has been anything but a long and rocky one—and uphill most of the way.

On July 11, the Town Council approved the use of some $257,550 in town funds to purchase the site of a new library to be located in the town of Hill.

Allison catalogues Greek manuscripts

Reese belongs in baseball's Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pee Wee Reese should be in Baseball's Hall of Fame, but isn't.

That's simply an oversight. He isn't fretting about it, and shouldn't, because although the baseball writers haven't seen fit yet to install him into the Hall of Fame, his peers voted him into a much bigger and more meaningful Hall a long time ago, the Hall of Extraordinary Human Beings.

Herald angle Earl Yost, Sports Editor. The Dodgers' Don Newcombe taking the loss. Twenty five base hits rattled around the park, which was torn down to make an apartment complex when the team picked up stakes and headed for Los Angeles.

One tie game The only tie game in All-Star history was another classic, pitching dominating in 1961 at Fenway Park when a heavy shower curtailed action after nine innings with the score 1-1.

Full speed ahead Sean Haggerty of the Oilers rounds third base and heads home to win for his team. It was another close as Army & Navy trounced Oilers, 3-1, in recent Little League Town Tournament game at Leber Field. (Herald photo by Dunn) on hand to see Williams deposit one of Rip Sewell's 'blooper' pitches high up into the centerfield bleachers at Fenway Park much to the delight of a partisan crowd.

That was the 18th in the All-Star series, first ever at Fenway. Bob Feller, Hal Newhouser and Jack Kramer split up the pitching chores for the winners, with Feller gaining the decision.

Before the game Newhouser, ace of the Detroit staff, said, he never felt safe working in Fenway unless he had a six-run lead. Most pitchers today would still agree.

Next stop on the All-Star trail was at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, a bandbox but one of the greatest stadiums ever to be in the major leagues.

But nobody moved those in the huge room more than Reese, the former captain and shortstop for the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Southern Boy from Louisville, who made everything so much easier for Jackie Robinson.

"Rachel, thank you for getting me into this," Pee Wee laughed, looking at her sitting up on the dais along with all the others.

"People are always asking me 'What was it like playing with Jackie Robinson?'" Reese went on. "To tell you the truth, it was a little strange. Pushing 59, Pee Wee Reese remains the All-American Boy. His hair is still blond enough and smile still boyish enough to evoke memories of the kid who once won the marble shooting championship of Louisville, and it was easy to picture him in the time frame he now began talking about when he was a chief petty officer in the Navy during the fall of 1945—two years before Robinson was to play his first game for the Dodgers.

Proud pros to start in All-Star contest NEW YORK (UPI) — homers this season. Despite all the lumps and moans and aches and groans the National and American Leagues will square off in the 48th annual All-Star Game tonight with a pair of proud pros facing each other on the mound.

It will be Don Sutton, a 10-game winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Mike Hefron assisting.

Little League District play to start Thursday District Eight Tournament play for Manchester Little League baseball entries starts Thursday night when the American Stars play in Windsor against the Windsor Americans.

Clark, Herdic in field for Club golf honors Co-medalists in qualifying play and former champions, Woody Clark and John Herdic have advanced to the quarterfinals of the 1977 Club Championship Golf Tournament at the Manchester Country Club.

First round - Clark def. Larry Gatz, 6 and 5; Dave Fraser def. Stan Hillinski, 3 and 2; Len Annulli def. Dick Smith, 1-up; Mitch Muttly def. Ervin Kennedy, 1-up; Sher Ferguson def. Roger Poudrier, 4 and 2; Joe Christiano def. Bill Zwick, 4 and 3; Ed Wilkos def. Rick Gobelle, 4 and 3.

me a helluva lot mber than I helped him. When it came Don Newcombe's turn, he spoke of how he'd never forget the influence both Robinson and Campanella had upon him "as long as I draw breath on this earth," and Joe Black remembered how Robinson wasn't ashamed to cry in front of him when he once received the news his wife was ailing.

Wiggin named D.A. at Glastonbury High

Passed over in his move for the director of athletics position at Manchester High, Dave Wiggin has resigned and has accepted a similar position at Glastonbury High.

Thomas wins Classic

Individual winner in the recent Manchester Insurance Agents Youth Golf Classic was Dave Thomas with a 77 round at the Manchester Country Club.

Baseball

ALUMNI JUNIOR Eric Stepper had two hits and scored two runs in leading unbeaten Krasne Florist to a 6-2 duke over Credit Union last night at Cheney Ed Ezeretz, shortstop Rick Burleson and Palmer.

Each of the starters, chosen by fans in nationwide balloting, must play the first three innings. The managers are free to substitute at will after that and are expected to follow the recent pattern of attempting to "give a game" to as many players as possible.

Little League District play to start Thursday

District Eight Tournament play for Manchester Little League baseball entries starts Thursday night when the American Stars play in Windsor against the Windsor Americans.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "Stay Out of My Kitchen" was a cute verse, but you might have helped the lady more had you encouraged her to let her visitor come in. Consider the alternative, with the visitor sitting there, staring at you four walls, feeling that she had put you to a lot of trouble and wishing she had not come. Because of my husband's job, we moved nine times to strange towns where I didn't know Soul On, but we made friends easily by allowing people to know us as we were. If you can summon up the courage to let the visitor see the dirty dishes in your sink, it's a good bet that she'll think, "Gee, that's just the way MY sink looks," and a friendship will begin.

Instead of asking a guest to get out of the way, tell her that you want from the cabinet and ask her to hand it to you. People always feel more comfortable when they're useful.

FRIENDLY SOUL

DEAR FRIENDLY: A surprising number of readers agree with you. Meet another "FRIENDLY SOUL":

DEAR ABBY: May I suggest that the woman who doesn't want her guests to follow her into the kitchen drop her foolish pride and wake up to the fact that her friends do not come to see what kind of a housekeeper she is, but to visit with her.

I have a little verse framed and hanging in my kitchen which reads:

COME IN, SIT DOWN, RELAX, CONVERSE.
SOMETIMES IT'S EVEN ALWAYS LOOK LIKE THIS.
KITCHEN DOESN'T WORSE!

Sign me... A FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: I notice from your column that you, too, must have been hounded into believing that everyone should have a will.

In this something I would very much like to know about, but I can't seem to get a straight answer from anybody. Isn't it entirely possible for a couple with a modest estate and no minor children to put all their property in both their names and eliminate probate court with its huge fees, delays and red tape?

My husband and I have twin wills and we're beginning to wonder if this doesn't invite the courts to handle something for a huge fee that would take care of itself. In other words, wouldn't the property go to the remaining spouse with no help from the probate court?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: The laws differ from state to state. So, since your question is a legal one, ask a lawyer. I am certain that you can find a number of people who are reluctant to pay a modest fee when it would solve their problems and give them peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: My pet peevishness is accepted, though amusing, custom of sending wedding guests so that the bride's family and friends are on one side of the church and the groom's are on the other.

When the usher asks me, "Whose side are you on?" I always have the urge to say, "Most I choose sides? They haven't even started fighting yet!"

just jumped to two notrump and he isn't too happy about being in game. Neither is South when he looks at dummy and the opening lead, but that three notrump isn't a good contract. Give West the queen of clubs and South is almost sure of at least nine tricks.

South wins trick one with the king of hearts over East's queen and leads a club toward dummy's jack. East wins the queen and returns a heart to West who collects three heart tricks.

Everything has gone wrong for South so far, but damn fortune smiles on him from here on. He has hung on to his remaining four clubs and when he gets in with the ace of diamonds he gets a 3-3 break in clubs and has his nine tricks.

Good things may happen to you early and often this coming year and you are certainly more likely to be the best enough, however, to make the most of them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your word to those you love must be your bond today if you promise them and don't deliver your default could leave a small scar. Heavy trouble selecting in all walks of life. This quality may desert you today and you could offend the boss.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) To impress others today, you could try to be a bit too much. Use a thinner brush and a lighter touch. You may not get something done, but you'll be sure to specify your "birth sign."

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're conservative and you may be on the safe side. Today you could choose wrong help or pity too much - or both.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a difference in being passive and over-optimistic. Don't let the difference be too large. You may not get something done, but you'll be sure to specify your "birth sign."

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can rely on only yourself today and can count on only your resources. Looking for a job that is certainly more likely to be the best enough, however, to make the most of them.

Edward H. Granville with a scale model of the Gee Bee racing plane which Jimmy Doolittle flew to a Thompson Trophy victory and a world speed record of 296.28 miles an hour in 1932.

E.H. Granville dies, was aviation pioneer

Edward H. Granville, 64, a pioneer racing plane designer and builder and former chief of experimental construction at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group, died Monday of an apparent heart attack at his home in Silver Lake, N.H.

Mr. Granville and his four brothers designed and built the famous Gee Bee (Thompson Brothers) racing planes which won the Thompson Trophy Races in 1931 and 1932 and, with Jimmy Doolittle at the controls, established a world speed record of 296.28 miles an hour in 1932.

A native of Madison, N.H., Mr. Granville was only 15 when he entered the world of aviation, joining his brother, Zantford, in operating an aircraft maintenance service at Boston Airport.

The new Gee Bee won the coveted Thompson Trophy Race in Detroit in 1931. Another Gee Bee piloted by Doolittle won the Thompson Trophy at Cleveland in 1932 and two days later set the world speed record. The same year, Gee Bees won trophies in nine major air races.

Granville Brothers built a total of 24 aircraft before financial pressures and the death of Zantford led to the end of the family business.

Edward Granville joined Pratt & Whitney Aircraft as a flight test mechanic in 1933, and retired as chief of experimental construction of United Technologies Corporation in 1976.

Mr. Granville was a member of Quiet Birdmen and the OX's Club, both pilots' organizations, the Society of Automotive Engineers, the Connecticut Aeronautical Historical Association, the H.H. Franklin Antique Automobile Club, and the Connecticut Valley Region of Veteran Motor Cars of America.

He lived in Vernon for 28 years and was a former trustee of the Vernon Congregational Church. Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Charlotte Granville; a brother, Robert Granville, of Skowhegan, Maine; two sisters, Mrs. Edward Spooner of Park Forest, Ill., and Mrs. Hiram K. Jones of Madison, N.H.; two daughters, Mrs. Donald H. Lang of Centerville, Ohio, and Mrs. Gregory Burham of East Hartford, and three grandchildren.

The funeral is Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Madison Baptist Church in Madison, N.H. Burial will be Friday at Hillcrest Cemetery in Springfield, Mass., after a graveside service at 1 p.m.

Friends may call at the Richard White Funeral Home, Conway, N.H., Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. The family suggests that those wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the Heart Association or Memorial Hospital, North Conway, N.H.

Mrs. Paul T. Bengtson EAST HARTFORD — Mrs. Lucille E. Bengtson, 68, of 110 Victoria Rd., Middletown, formerly of East Hartford, died Monday in a Middletown convalescent hospital. She was the wife of Paul T. Bengtson.

Mrs. Bengtson was born in Marquette, Mich., and lived in East Hartford several years before moving to Middletown 23 years ago. She was a member of the Board of Lady Managers of St. Luke's Home in Middletown.

Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Harvey Troutman of Plymouth, Mich.; two brothers, Garnet Cook and Dean Cook, both of Marquette; four grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

The funeral is Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Middletown, with the Rev. William R. Beury officiating. Burial will be in Pine Grove Cemetery, Middletown.

Friends may call at the Doolittle Funeral Home, 14 Church St., Middletown, today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. The family suggests that those wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the Church of the Holy Trinity Memorial Fund, or the American Cancer Society, Rt. 66, Middletown.

Mrs. Hulda C. Kloo Mrs. Hulda C. Kloo, of 28 Grandview Terrace, Wethersfield, died Monday at a Hartford convalescent home. She was the mother of W.H.E. Kloo of Manchester.

Mrs. Kloo was born in Sweden and lived in West Hartford most of her life before moving to Wethersfield five years ago. Other survivors are another son, two daughters, four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. The funeral and burial are private. There are no calling hours. The Taylor and Moleen Funeral Home, 136 S. Main St., West Hartford, is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Fred M. Nelson Mrs. Karen Sorensen Nelson of 530 Almon Ave., Woodbridge, N.J., died Monday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was the mother of Mrs. Abraham (Karen) Kibanoff of Manchester.

Mrs. Nelson was born in Denmark and lived in New Jersey most of her life. She is also survived by her husband, Fred M. Nelson; her mother, a son, two brothers, a sister and seven grandchildren.

The funeral is at the Gerrity Funeral Home, Amboy Ave., Woodbridge, at a time to be announced. Burial will be in Alpine Cemetery, Perth Amboy, N.J.

The Ahern Funeral Home, 180 Farmington Ave., Hartford, is in charge of local arrangements. The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the Manchester unit of the American Cancer Society, 237 E. Center St., Manchester, 06040, or the Connecticut Opera Guild, 15 Lewis St., Hartford, 06103.

Mrs. Lillian C. Stokes SOUTH WINDSOR — Mrs. Lillian Churchill Stokes, 89, formerly of 123 Main St., Deep River, died Sunday at a Manchester convalescent home.

Mrs. Stokes was born in Clinton and lived in Deep River more than 50 years before moving to South Windsor 1 1/2 years ago. She was a 50-year member of the Deep River Baptist Church.

Survivors are three sons, Henry C. Stokes of Gastonbury, John M. Stokes of Old Saybrook and George C. Stokes of Kansas City, Mo.; a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Graves of Deep River; six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The funeral is Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Robinson and Wright Funeral Home, Main St., Centerbrook section of Essex. Burial will be in Centerbrook Cemetery, Essex. Friends may call at the funeral home today from 7 to 9 p.m.

Demand causes outages

Heavy demands for electric power caused two minor outages Monday night in the northern half of East Hartford, a spokesman for the Hartford Electric Light Co. (HELCO) said today.

Neither outage was due to lack of power, said George Nelson of HELCO. "There has been no slowdowns or reductions of any kind," he said.

A transformer was on fire at Tolland and Elmer Sts. at 11:06 p.m. The resulting outage affected five customers for an hour and 24 minutes, he said.

The second failure took place on Long Hill St. at 11:19 p.m. and affected two customers for 18 minutes.

Nelson said HELCO has power to spare despite the heavy demand by air conditioners. The company sold some power Monday to New York City's utility, he said.

Air conditioner sales are in great numbers, he said. "People don't have to tell us when they buy a new appliance," he said, referring to the new demands on the power lines.

Rod Wright, manager of K-Mart's appliance section, said today his store sold 60 air conditioners over the weekend alone. He was nearly cleaned out this morning and was hoping a fresh order would arrive this afternoon.

Most of K-Mart's sales have been for home use, he said.

Warmer June days brought vandalism

The longer, warmer days of June also brought more vandalism to town property, Police Chief Clarence Drumm's report to the mayor for June listed a dozen acts of vandalism, some costing the town as much as $500.

June 4 at 8:30 p.m., five windows were broken at the Hockanum School. Neighbors told police two youths ran from the school as police responded to alarms. The cost of repair was estimated at $175.

June 7, a park employee at Gorman Park reported a telephone inside the music shell had been ripped from the wall. Entry to the enclosed part of the shell was gained through a wooden panel above the door on the west side. Cost is $80.

June 10, someone drove a vehicle on the grass of the Goodwin School playground damaging 500 feet of turf. June 11, police found 1,000 feet of turf had been damaged by a vehicle on Gorman Park Little League field. Cost of repair was $300.

Also June 11 at 8:04 p.m., someone threw a stone through a third floor window.

June 13 at 11:47 p.m., a citizen called police that a fire was going at the Mayberry School. Police and fire fighters suspect arson. An arson team is now investigating.

June 21, early in the morning someone broke four large panes of glass in the automotive section of East Hartford High School. Damage is estimated at $500.

June 22, two kiddie swings were damaged at the Sycamore School. Cost is $40.

June 22, someone broke two windows at the Second North School. June 24, a citizen reported to police youths were destroying a picnic table at the Sycamore School playground at 8:02 p.m. Two youths had set a fire on top of the table causing minor damage.

June 25, someone kicked in a metal panel on the storage shed in Martin Park. Entry was not gained. A park employee was able to repair the shed.

Both firms Monday reported record second quarter profits. In his ruling last week in Akron, federal judge Leroy Contie Jr., ruled the acquisition would not violate antitrust laws because the two firms do not compete in the same market. "At the present time, and most probably in the foreseeable future, gas turbine systems do not compete with fossil or nuclear-steam systems," he said.

Reward upped NEWINGTON (UPI) — Dunham Bush Inc. has increased its reward from $4,000 to $10,000 for information about the person or persons responsible for the death last year of one of its employees, a company spokesman said Monday. George A. Blagrove of Manchester was walking a picket line at the company's Newington plant last Nov. 5 when he was run over by a company truck and killed. Police said the truck's brake lines had been severed. No arrests have been made in the case.

Bicentennial unit may be dissolved in East Hartford

By SHEILA TULLER Herald Correspondent A special act of the Town Council tonight, East Hartford's American Revolution Bicentennial Commission may be dissolved.

If they pass their resolution to officially lay the commission to rest, the council will praise the commissioners and thank them for their efforts.

The commission, created Feb. 5, 1974, met for the first time Sept. 19, 1974. At that first meeting, the commission laid plans for an outstanding celebration of the Bicentennial.

In keeping with their theme, Heritage '76, Festival '76, and Horizons '76, to honor the past, celebrate the present, and look to the future, the commission sponsored many events.

The past was brought to life with a colonial dinner, an old-fashioned spelling bee, and Rochambeau's Army marching through town. The march ended with a mock battle at Shea Park near the site of Rochambeau's Silver Lane encampment in 1781 and 1782.

Festival '76 provided brilliant fireworks, inspiring all-faith services, an arts festival, an arts and crafts fair, a house and garden tour, the Red, White, and Blue Ball, an open house at Town Hall with Youth and Government Day.

Special ceremonies were included with the open house honoring hosts of citizens and groups for their contributions to the success of the celebration. Looking ahead beyond the Bicentennial years and their demise, the commission strived to perpetuate Horizons '76.

Two of their lasting gifts to the town in observance of the Bicentennial are the town flag and the one-room schoolhouse at Martin Park. The flag, designed by Terrye Blackstone, incorporates the town seal on a field of green. The flag now flies daily at all municipal buildings.

The schoolhouse, donated by George Goodwin, was moved from the Goodwin property to Martin Park. It has been restored, complete with potbelly stove, and landscaped. The schoolhouse and the Historical Society's Huguenot House are open to the public on occasions.

The commission has also marked many community buildings and homes with historical plaques. New park signs will soon be posted as gifts from the commission, said all its projects were financial as well as social successes.

She said, "We are one of the few commissions to close our books in the black." Because of this, the commission was able to donate funds to pay for the greenhouse to be built at EHHS when the science wing is renovated.

Mrs. Blackstone said, "I was impressed with the large number of citizens who assisted. This really dispels the belief that Americans are apathetic about their heritage. I don't believe this is so. We as a group witnessed a new spirit of community pride, probably a lifelong one."

The original commissioners appointed by Mayor Richard Blackstone were Mrs. Blackstone, Margaret Bjorklund, John Brennan, Richard Brimley, Marcia Budil, Deborah Carlson, Charlene Cole, Robin Darby, Barry Donahue, Anthony Fornabi, Lillian Goodberg, Raymond Johnson, James Kerwin, Kim Kirko, Roger Knickerbocker, John Larson, George Lucas, Irene Moore, the Rev. Roger Nicholson, Joan O'Brien, Wilma Oider, Mary Oppelt, Loveta Ranney, Doris Suesman, Lovetta Whalen and Alice Weston.

When, what a warm weekend, but it was fun, especially at the Andover Sportsman's Club's annual family picnic at the Elks Pavilion in Glastonbury.

Played one game of Bocce, but it was much too warm to continue onto a second.

Club president, John Stanizzi of East Hartford managed the cooling beverage booth, and other club members served up steamed corn on the cob, sausage and peppers, and of course, the ever popular hamburgers and hot dogs.

Everything was delicious. Some of the youngsters found a cool stream to dunk in and didn't seem to mind the heat.

Some of the members did some trout spotting in a game called "Wipe Your Eye." Members line up in pairs and if the first man misses his shot, his partner is supposed to hit it. I guess the name came from the fact that if the second man takes a second to wipe his eyes he can miss his shot — it all moves so fast.

Later in the afternoon, there was music for dancing and a few of us brave souls spun around the dance floor a few times despite the heat.

All in all, it was a grand day. Lots of good food, good fun and especially good friends.

Home at last

Well, the young traveler arrived home, about 24 hours late, but tan and happy.

The arrival was delayed when my daughter and her family friends stopped at Niagara Falls en route home. They fell in love with it — and spent the night.

It was 3 a.m. Saturday when I heard the front door open and there she was suitcase in hand.

We chatted about an hour as she munched on a piece of cake (saving the chocolate frosting till last) and sipped a glass of milk.

Some of her observations, in brief:

California is okay, but I wouldn't want to live there. It's crowded, the grass is brown, and the air is too dry.

Reno, Nev. has all these little wedding chapels up and down the streets.

Never, but never find yourself in Elkhart, Ind. in the middle of the night when you're running low on gas. Even the police don't know which are the all night gas stations.

Beverly Hills is fabulous. There the grass is green, the flowers beautiful, and the houses enormous.

Camping in the Sierra Mountains is great. Especially washing up in the cool streams every morning.

Camping in Minnesota was fun. We visited some people in a little town there that had a population of 492. Course it increased to 498 when we arrived.

Dining in the Skyline Restaurant at Niagara Falls was terrific; you could see all around.

When you change planes in Dallas wear comfortable shoes, 'cause walking from Gate 1 to Gate 16 in new shoes can be painful.

I learned things I didn't even know I wanted to know. Did you know that if you happen to drive by the homes of the stars in Beverly Hills, you might just spot Burt Reynolds' beautiful red car. His license plate is "EGGO 1."

Well that figures.

And if you come to the cul de sac near Elton John's house, you may have to turn into his driveway to turn around. Once there, you may even get a chance to talk with his chauffeur as he polishes up the big, green Cadillac with the stereo, television, bar, telephone, etc.

Dimah Shore's house is pretty but small. Jim Nabors lives in a mansion, the Gabor sisters live close but not together, and Tatum O'Neal has a chauffeur drive her around.

And, for all of you who have wondered, the Beverly Hills really do have a mansion in Beverly Hills. Well, they don't live there, but the mansion the popular television show was filmed in, does exist.

The telephones have started ringing, the friends arriving, the refrigerator is empty, and the walls are reverberating with the sound of rock music.

Letter from Florida

Had a nice letter from Mrs. Walter J. Vernier of Fort Pierce, Fla. She enjoys my column and likes the recipes in "Your Neighbor's Kitchen."

She sent along a recipe for "Sherry Beef Short Ribs" which sounds delicious and I'll pass it along in a future cooking column.

Mrs. Vernier, a widow since 1969, has her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wells Folsom, living with her. They all formerly lived in Manchester.

Mrs. Vernier wrote that she is 81, started to take The Herald in 1934 and have taken it ever since as I find it a very enjoyable paper.

Thank you, Mrs. V. That's what we like to hear.

Mrs. Gregory M. Baker

Baker-Moon

Susan Elizabeth Moon, and Gregory Mark Baker, both of Manchester, were married July 16 at Community Baptist Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edna Moon of Manchester and the late M. Harold Moon. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert F. Baker of Manchester.

The bridegroom's father officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli and carnations. Charlotte Baker of Manchester, the bridegroom's cousin, was organist and Cheryl Morehouse of Granby was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Edward H. Moon, wore a silhouette gown designed with Empire waist, sheer sleeves with venise lace and skirt with ruffled hemline. She wore a chapel veil and carried a bouquet of stephanotis, pink roses and baby's breath.

Miss Deborah A. Dibble of Waterbury was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Moon of Moodus and Miss Kathy Moon of Manchester, the bride's sisters. Miss Candy Yates of Manchester was flower girl.

Kurtis Davis of Levitt, N.Y. was best man. Ushers were Clark Baker and Timothy Baker, both of Manchester, and brothers of the bridegroom. Lee Eskadoli of Schenectady, N.Y. was ring bearer.

A reception was held in the church hall, after which the couple left for North Conway, N.H. for traveling. Mrs. Baker wore a mint summer dress. The couple will reside in Manchester.

Mrs. Baker is employed at Manchester Memorial Hospital. Mr. Baker is employed at Jarvis Construction Co. (Burkamp photo)

Opinion

Energy news not all bad

If the nation is to formulate a sensible energy policy, we not only need to know where our future energy supplies can reasonably be expected to come from, but who is using energy now and how much of it.

In the latter regard, some useful data has been furnished by a research and development organization. Its analysis indicates that 60 per cent of the nation's total energy use is divided almost equally between residential-commercial heating and transportation. Industrial production consumes the other 40 per cent.

Of that 40 per cent, the manufacturers of chemicals and allied products, the primary metals industry and, surprisingly, the producers of petroleum and coal consume more than half. These are the industries likely to be affected most by the continuing energy crunch, and the ones which are apt to be most interested in investigating alternative energy sources.

A "second tier" of industries next most likely to be hurt by the energy shortage are the producers of paper, stone, clay and glass and food and kindred products. Together, they use up another 30 per cent of the country's industrial energy, leaving 20 per cent for all other industry.

The study also found that natural gas is currently the dominant fuel in all industry groups, which takes us back to the first question — where we are going to get our fuel in the future. And here there is encouraging word from two other quarters.

According to the American Gas Association, an estimated 32 to 46 more years of domestic natural gas supply can be derived from traditional sources. Conservation would stretch that out, and as the study suggests, the area promising the greatest scope for more efficient use of this fuel is in residential and commercial heating.

In addition, says the AGA, such sources as increased imports of liquefied natural gas, coal gasification, methane from organic materials and even recovery of methane dissolved in reservoirs of hot salt water in the Gulf of Mexico could add decades to the supplies of gaseous fuel.

Yet this youth has received more public sympathy than the victims of criminals who show no respect for human life much less human rights. It is a shame that the youth's parents didn't teach him to respect the rights of others. Police officers are just our neighbors who have to wear a uniform when on duty. They have the same human rights as the rest of us. Had one of those officers or a bystander been injured, critics would have said they did not use enough force quickly enough. The police have enough problems without individuals trying to make heroes out of violently anti-social people.

None of this is cause for blithe optimism, however. Most of the possible new sources suggested by the American Gas Association are just that — possible. It is one thing to manufacture methane from vegetable matter in the laboratory or to compute the amount of gas that could be made from coal; it is something else to do it on a massive scale. Importing liquefied gas is also fine, as long as we are willing to pay the tariff asked by those who have it to export, and as long as they are willing to sell it.

As for expanding offshore drilling, the physical difficulties and cost are immense, particularly in the Arctic, not to mention the environmental dangers, as the recent platform blowout in the North Sea demonstrated.

What it does mean is that there is cause for concerned alarm, but not for panic. The energy crunch will turn into an energy catastrophe only if we fail to heed the warning signals and fail to take the steps that must be taken now to ensure that the nation has the energy it needs to carry it safely into the next century.

Thought

Think for a moment of the influences that lead us to make a decision of all the relationships and experiences that contribute to our opinions and attitudes.

Parents and home, education, teachers, personal experiences, friends, spouse, the media — all play their part in determining what we think. So many influences that one has to ask whether an opinion is really an opinion, or something determined by our past. Then it is really a prejudice or a prejudice.

Jesus said to His disciples: "The Spirit will lead you to the complete truth."

The truth may not be what we expect — our plans may not be God's plans — our attitudes may not be God's attitudes — our interpretations may not be His. If we are to try to learn the truth and speak it, we need to hold our prejudgments in abeyance, to replace prejudice with facts and allow the Holy Spirit to open hearts and minds. Anything less than this is unworthy of our responsibility to speak out in the name of the witnessing Church.

Police role defended

To the editor,
Police have human rights too! Recently a youth in East Hartford caused a disturbance in a fast food restaurant, then insulted and assaulted the police officers who were called to the scene. For this and the loss of four teeth, he received much public support.

Aside from the obscenities he used, he said that if he had been drinking as charged he would have fought harder. The fact that the youth was fully aware of what he was doing makes his behavior even more repulsive.

A bare bones police budget, a judicial system that niles every other case, hungry lawyers who sue their mothers, and flakey people who are more interested in making criminals lead a comfortable life than in preserving human rights, don't help matters.

If you can't find a policeman when you need one it is because the mayor and the Town Council didn't think the extra man was necessary. We only get what we pay for.

Skateboard area favored

To the editor,
After a few incidents in our neighborhood, I feel compelled to write the defense of skateboards!

The children on our street who own skateboards are extremely responsible and very sensible about the way they use them. They are polite, respectable kids who are not doing anyone any harm. They are having good clean fun and do not damage property or make any more noise than someone on a bicycle.

It seems to me a little bit extreme to restrict the use of skateboards on the part of the Manchester Police Department to take not only names, addresses and ages, but height, weight, color of eyes and hair when they stop these kids from skateboarding. They're only kids, not criminals!

Perhaps if Manchester's finest concentrated more on the kids that are doing all the vandalism in our local parks and schools, our tax monies could be put to better use — like a skateboard park!

These kids need to expend their energies; wouldn't it be better to do it on skateboards than in breaking windows from boredom?

Respectfully,
Mrs. Marie Lindsay

Scholarship loans to area graduates

The Manchester Student Nurse Loan Association has presented five scholarships to recent graduates of Manchester High School and Central High School.

Receiving the scholarship loans are the following persons:

Heidi Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Foster of Dana Rd., Coventry, graduate of Dana High School. She will attend the Concord (N.H.) Hospital School of Nursing.

Karen Heidewage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Heidewage of 46 Coolidge St. A graduate of Manchester High School, she will receive her nursing education at the Ona Wilcox School of Nursing at Middlesex Memorial Hospital.

Margaret Litrico, daughter of Mrs. Frances Litrico, 40 Hamilton St., will work for her degree in nursing at Western Connecticut State College. She is a graduate of MHS.

Mary Derby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Derby of 104 Park St., will study nursing at Keuka College, Keuka Park, N.Y. She is a graduate of MHS.

Debra Cowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Cowles, Jr. of 81 Avondale Rd., also a graduate of MHS, will attend Roberts-Wesleyan College in Rochester, N.Y.

The Manchester Student Nurse Loan Association, a non-profit organization, was founded 27 years ago to ensure the Manchester area with an adequate supply of skilled registered nurses.

The association's policy regarding these loans is to forgive them if upon successful completion of their studies, the recipients will practice their profession at Manchester Memorial Hospital for at least one year.

Loans by the association are made possible by grants from the hospital Board of Trustees, the Manchester Medical Association and the Manchester Nurses Association.

Shootout at Capitol Hill

Disability pension

WASHINGTON — Let us lift a brimming cup to a couple of AP reporters, Brooks Jackson and Evans who have discovered that some retired federal civil servants are drawing pensions on disability grounds have been stealing from our Uncle Sam.

From an internal Civil Service Commission report, Jackson and Witt dug up the "top 20" — individuals who earned the most in new jobs, although they had been granted pensions from the public because they claimed they couldn't give their all in government posts.

"It's a scandal!" a CSC aide told me. "But it's almost impossible to police the situation. We'd need an army of investigators that would cost more than the amount that's being stolen."

She's probably right. But although the crooks are in a small minority, their thievery is at the very least a bad influence within civil servant ranks. More than 279,000 disability pensioners now draw more than $1.5 billion a year, most of which comes from the taxpayers' pockets.

Big earnings
And some of the crooks think big. One "disabled" pensioner earned $117,500 in a new private job in 1974 and 1975. Another such pensioner was paid $100,000 by a private employer in the same two years. Two other sharpies earned $78,793 and $68,444 in one year. The four were drawing pensions ranging from $400 to $1793 per month.

What bugs me most however, is that it seems beyond the wit of the CSC to devise a means of at least reducing the volume of robbery. The agency is trusting the pensioners to lull on themselves.

What monitoring that's done is based on a most generous law. That law requires cancellation of pensions for federal employees retired for disability who earn more than 80 per cent of what their old jobs paid for — on that free list.

Almost foolproof
"That back story is almost foolproof," said my friend at the CSC. "Doctors really know very little about backs. They can prove a patient has a back ailment, but they can't prove beyond a reasonable doubt that he hasn't. Doctors don't like to admit it, but it's true. And doctors will admit they might not be able to see some serious botheration in an X ray."

And so it is not surprising that nearly 98 per cent of federal workers who apply for disability retirement are granted it.

What to do, that figure has always seemed astonishing, and the good work done by the AP's Jackson and Witt confirm my suspicion. There must be a lot of chronic hangover victims — and maybe hangnail sufferers — on that free list.

Senators scuttle some 'freebies'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American taxpayers may be spared the expense of the BI bomber and free shaving mugs for senators thanks to action by Congress.

Legislation approved by the Senate Monday would scuttle "freebies" such as shaving mugs, hairbrushes and traveling trunks traditionally enjoyed by senators. The measure also included money to cover the 29 per cent pay hike that boosted annual salaries to $87,500.

The Senate also agreed with President Carter's request to delete $1.4 billion intended for construction of five B1 bombers.

In other action, House leaders pledged an accelerated, no-holds-barred inquiry into South Korean influence in the Capitol Hill. Congress was asked to revise federal labor law to strengthen the union. And in separate action, military officials testified that the military would spell trouble in peace and disaster in war.

The 29-to-26 Senate vote to delete production funds for the superatomic B1 bomber represented an expected victory for the White House. Carter has announced plans to rely on the pitiless cruise missile instead of the multimillion dollar superatomic bomber.

In the House, meanwhile, Speaker Thomas O'Neill Jr. huddled with the chairman of the House Ethics Committee and emerged to say he wanted of staff.

Room list compiled

The student affairs office at Manchester Community College is compiling a list of individuals who expect to have rooms or apartments available for rent to fall semester students.

Students will be coming from more than half of the 169 towns in Connecticut, from the other New England states, and from Northeastern states. They will be looking for single- and multiple-occupancy rental units.

Persons wishing to list rental units with the college are requested to call John Y. Gannon Jr., associate dean of student affairs.

Romeo attends seminar

Michael Romeo, Manchester Memorial Hospital's bio-medical engineering technician, was chosen to participate in a one-day seminar on electro-surgical devices conducted by the Tufts-New England Medical Center in Boston Monday.

Violinists to perform

The Suzuki Violin Group will perform at Manchester's Mayfair Gardens Friday at 2 p.m. The concert will be held in the community room of the housing project on N. Street.

Drought losses now in billions

By KENNETH R. CLARK
United Press International
In Dawson, Ga., farmer Bobby Locke put the torch to 2,000 acres of sun-withered corn.

In North Carolina, thousands of bushels of the wheat and in Iowa, farmers and cattlemen faced foreclosure at the bank.

In California, where the overall loss to the state's economy now is pegged at $1.5 billion, farmers are "drilling wells like they're going out of style."

From coast to coast, the farmers' wall of disaster was as unbroken Monday as the blistering heat wave that marked the drought of 1977. Agriculture experts had little to offer in the way of hope for rain.

Begin presents peace plan to Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prime Minister Menahem Begin today was presenting President Carter a comprehensive Middle East peace plan that reportedly would return some occupied territory to Egypt and Israel.

Begin also was urging the reconvening of the Geneva Middle East peace conference Oct. 10 without negotiating preconditions, according to diplomatic sources.

The leader of the conservative Likud party arrived from New York Monday afternoon aboard a U.S. Air Force jet and told reporters at Andrews Air Force Base he hoped his visit would result in "progress towards real peace" and deeper U.S.-Israeli friendship.

The details of his peace plan remained secret until after his White House meeting with President Carter.

Begin scheduled a news conference for Wednesday to discuss his proposals, the first comprehensive Israeli approach in several years.

High temperatures in the upper 80s and 90s were predicted for today. The record high for July 19 was 97 degrees in 1964 and the record low was 51 in 1966.

The extended forecast for Connecticut said the heatwave would continue through Saturday with a chance of afternoon or evening thunderstorms Thursday and Friday.

Air conditioners and fans were popular items in appliance stores Monday. John Gillespie, an appliance salesman, said customers were lined up at the door when the Roche Appliance Co. opened for business at 9 a.m. By 3 p.m., 30 air conditioners had been sold.

"I think people probably reached the breaking point after three hot nights with no sleep," he said. "There's no time for paperwork — just name, address and how he's going to pay."

Northeast Utilities said the demand for power to help alleviate Monday's heat fell shy of the record 1,200 megawatts set Aug. 31, 1973. A spokesman said there was no difficulty meeting the demand and Northeast even exported some power Monday to the New York area.

Jackston appeal tabled pending new opinion

By GREG PEARSON

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) Monday night tabled a decision on an appeal of a stop-work order for construction being done by Nicholas and Phyllis Jackson at 72 Maple St.

Atty. Leon Podrovo, representing the Jacksons, called a previous ruling about the matter by Atty. Martin Burke "dead wrong." The ZBA will now seek further legal opinion before its next scheduled meeting September 19, at which it will make a final decision on the case.

Burke had said that the Maple St. construction — an addition of five dwellings and one office to a four-family house — is in violation of zoning regulations and would require a variance from the ZBA.

Podrovo said that he feels the addition is legal and that no variance is required. Thus, the Jacksons filed for an appeal of the stop-work order that had been issued on June 13 by the Building Department.

Podrovo started his two-hour presentation to the board by requesting that Clarence "Bud" Brown, a member of the ZBA, withdraw from the hearing concerning the Jackson appeal.

Reading from newspaper stories, Podrovo said that Brown had made public statements that the Jacksons' construction is in violation of zoning regulations.

"It should be very obvious to any fair-minded person that Mr. Brown is incapable of making an independent and unbiased decision on this matter," Podrovo said.

Brown, however, decided that he would sit on the hearing. He said that the individuals involved, but as a criticism of the Building Department, which had issued a building permit to the Jacksons.

"I have great sympathy for any person who is put in this situation by four-ups of the Building Department," Brown said.

Podrovo's presentation included a history of zoning in Manchester and the Jackson project.

Moses has served as the Jacksons' private attorney. Because of this, he did not issue the ruling on the case, but turned the matter over to Burke, who is the town attorney.

Moses had issued a ruling in January 1976 about whether the Building Code Board of Appeals should issue a variance after a first application for the Jacksons was denied. But, Moses ruled on a general question about the purpose of the Building Code Board of Appeals. He was not aware that the Jacksons had appealed to him.

But, he said that the zoning regulations pertaining to dwelling units in the Business II Zone as long as the units are not in the basement.

James Cunningham, a ZBA member, asked Francis Conti, chief building inspector, and Ernest Machol, zoning enforcement officer, if they would again issue a building permit to the Maple St. building. Both men said that they would.

At the end of the hearing, Town Planner Alan Lamson asked that the ZBA submit any legal questions it has to him. These questions will then be turned over to Town Counsel Victor I. Moses, who will decide in what manner to handle the questions.

Coventry residents divided on purchasing lake property

Coventry residents were divided at a public hearing Monday night on a proposal to purchase all or part of almost 300 acres of land owned by the Salvation Army.

The Army is asking $550,000 for about 70 acres in the lake area and another $275,000 for about 270 acres in the northern section of town near Carpenter Rd. C. Donald Dumont of the Dow and Condon Real Estate Agency reported that the assessed value of the land is $347,185. But he noted the assessment was not a recent one and represented only 65 percent of the fair market value.

Dumont told the townspeople that the Salvation Army was unable to expand in the present facilities and was planning to purchase a larger parcel that was self-contained with its own lake.

However, Maj. George Peyton said privately that the dwellings needed substantial rebuilding and that the Salvation Army had decided to purchase a 60-acre tract in Ashford instead of renovating the Coventry camp.

Dumont estimated that three homes on Lake St. could be divided into one-acre parcels each and sold for a total of $115,000. He added that the Manchester, Fox and Con Club had expressed interest in part of the northern acreage that borders on its present landholdings.

The Salvation Army has owned the land in the lake area since 1929; the northern portion was bought in recent years. The property is tax free.

Councilman Robert Olmstead said it should not be assumed that the land will be taxable if the town does not purchase it because some other exempt organization may buy it.

Democratic Town Committee Chairman Richard Cromie felt $200,000 would be a more likely price for the lake area property. But Daniel Mayne countered that this was a rare opportunity to purchase land in the lake area and advised the Town Council to negotiate the price.

Republican Town Committee Chairman David Larry Knight thought the town should purchase the lake area property and turn it over to a study committee to determine possible uses. Some residents opposed the purchase on the grounds that the yearly upkeep would be prohibitive.

Barbara Barrett pointed out that the town was having difficulty maintaining its present recreational facilities. But Jane Covell thought that the town had insufficient holdings along the lake for residents' needs.

Allison catalogues Greek manuscripts

Bolton

A Bolton man has become the first American to participate in the Mount Athos Greek Manuscripts Catalogue Project at the Patriarchal Institute for Patristic Studies in Thessaloniki, Greece.

Robert W. Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Allison of 127 Brandy St., has received a two-year grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The project involves the cataloguing and description of a portion of the Greek manuscripts in the Votopedi Monastery, Mount Athos.

Allison, who has departed for Greece with his wife, Susan, and their two sons, William and Richard, will join a team of paleographically skilled scholars assembled at the Institute in Thessaloniki on a long-range project to produce a comprehensive descriptive catalogue of all Greek Athos manuscripts.

During his two-year tenure as a member of the team, Allison will prepare descriptions of some 100-200 manuscripts, editing one volume of the multi-volume catalogues being published at the Institute.

Allison attended school in Bolton and was graduated from Manchester High School in 1961. His undergraduate degree in religious studies from Brown University was awarded in 1966; his Ph.D. in New Testament and Early Christian Literature from the University of Chicago in 1975.

For the past three years, he has been assistant curator for manuscripts and archives at the University of Chicago library and during the past year he has also offered a course in Greek paleography as a lecturer in the Department of Classics, Languages and Literature, there.

Both his educational background and his professional experience have qualified him for participating in this project.

Mrs. Allison, a native of New Jersey, recently earned a master's degree in library science from the University of Chicago.

Reese belongs in baseball's Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pee Wee Reese should be in Baseball's Hall of Fame, but isn't.

That's simply an oversight, he shouldn't be, because although the baseball writers haven't seen fit yet to install him into the Hall of Cooperstown, his peers voted him in a much bigger and more meaningful Hall a long time ago, the Hall of Extraordinary Human Beings.

Beyond the shadow of any question, Harold "Pee Wee" Reese belongs in such a special place and never was that more apparent than it was Monday in the Grand Ballroom of the New York Sheraton where some of the most celebrated names in baseball were on hand to pay homage to the late Jackie Robinson on the 30th anniversary of his entrance into major league baseball.

Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner, made the introductions. Robinson's widow, Rachel, was there with members of her family and she spoke about the Jackie Robinson Foundation, which has been established to perpetuate his name and his goals. Joe DiMaggio and Willie Mays, the honorary captains for tonight's All-Star Game, also were present. So were Roy Campanella, Don Newcombe and Joe Black, all teammates of Robinson at one time.

Campanella, especially, caught the emotions of all the people in the room with what he had to say, after having recently finished a hospital confinement of one year and two weeks, during most of which time he was forced to lie on his stomach.

But nobody moved those in the huge room more than Reese, the former captain and shortstop for the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Southern boy from Louisville, who made everything so much easier for Jackie Robinson.

"Rachel, thank you for getting me into this," Pee Wee laughed, looking at her sitting up on the dais along with all the others.

"People are always asking me 'What was it like playing with Jackie Robinson?' Reese went on. "To tell you the truth, it was a little strange... Pushing 59, Pee Wee Reese remains the All-American Boy. His hair is still blond enough and smile still boyish enough to evoke memories of the kid who once won the marble shooting championship of Louisville, and it was easy to picture him in the time frame he now began talking about when he was a chief petty officer in the Navy during the fall of 1945—two years before Robinson was to play his first game for the Dodgers.

"I was coming from Guam and one of the fellows on the ship came running up to me and said, 'Pee Wee, they've just signed a black player, the Dodgers did.' A half hour later, he came back and said, 'Not only is he black, he's a shortstop.'"

"Well, you can imagine how I felt. The only thing I knew about Jackie Robinson was that he was a great football player at UCLA. But Jackie was good in everything he did. We found out he was a good card player... he took our money a lotta times... and he was a good tennis player, too. There was hardly anything he wasn't good at."

"Jackie, God bless him, gave me a lot of credit for helping him out. It's nice to be remembered that way, better than not to be remembered for not helping him out. But I don't think I did that much. If someone called him a 'nigger' or a 'watermelon eater,' I didn't run up in the stands, point my finger and say 'You're not supposed to say that.' Jackie could take care of himself."

Reese paused a moment.

"I just put myself in his shoes," he said. "Pee Wee Reese being the only white player in a black league. No way I could've done it. No way at all. Jackie was a super person. He helped me a helluva lot more than I helped him."

When it came Don Newcombe's turn, he spoke of how he'd never forget the influence both Robinson and Campanella had upon him "as long as I draw breath on this earth," and Joe Black remembered how Robinson wasn't ashamed to cry in front of him when he once received the news his wife was ailing.

From his wheel chair, Roy Campanella talked about Reese as much as he did about Robinson.

"Pee Wee did so much within himself to help Jack and the rest of us," he said. "He helped us win. I've often thought about what it would've been like if we kept losing."

"Then turning to Reese, he said: 'You may not realize how much you did do.'"

All-Stars at Stadium

Yankee Stadium will be the scene of the 48th All-Star baseball game tonight between the American and National League and this writer can look back on five that he covered starting with the first in 1946 at Boston when Ted Williams led the Americans to a lop-sided 12-0 victory.

The first All-Star game was a thrill in several respects, the first that I attended and being the Dodgers' Don Newcombe taking the loss.

Twenty five base hits rattled around the park, which was torn down to make an apartment complex when the team picked up stakes and headed for Los Angeles.

The 28th game was staged in Yankee Stadium where a disappointing crowd of 38,362 showed up to see the Nationals whitewash their younger league foes, 6-0.

Tonight, a capacity crowd of 64,000 will be on hand for the game which will be nationally telecast starting at 8:15.

One tie game

The only tie game in All-Star history was another classic, pitching dominating in 1961 at Fenway Park when a heavy shroud curtailed action after nine innings with the score 1-1.

Five minutes after the shower ended, the sun was out but play was never resumed and the crowd of 31,851 was satisfied in the pitching duel by Bob Purkey, Art Mahaffey, Sandy Koufax and knuckleball expert Stu Miller of the National League and Jim Bunning, Don Schwall and Camillo Pascual of the Americans. The N.L. collected eight hits, twice as many as the A.L. managed.

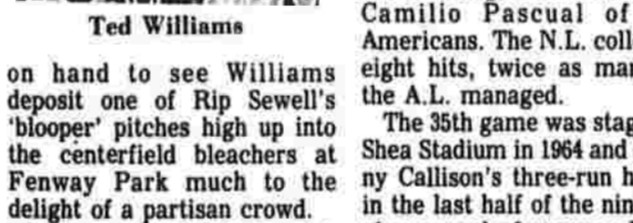

The 35th game was staged at Shea Stadium in 1964 and Johnny Callison's three-run homer in the last half of the ninth inning capped a four-run rally off Dick Radatz (Boston's ace fireman) and gave the Nationals a 6-5 verdict.

Don Drysdale, now a play-by-play announcer, Chris Short, Jim Bunning, Turk Farrell and Juan Marichal handled the National mound duties, the latter getting the edge, before 50,844 spectators.

All-Star games have a knack of attracting attention.

Joe Fan will shell out top dollar to see the top players for the most part - from each league perform on the same field. Several thousand applications for tickets to tonight's game had to be returned.

There's something about an All-Star game in any sport, which gets the fan support, whether on a big league or Little League level.

Ted Williams

on hand to see Williams deposit one of Rip Sewell's 'bloopers' pitches high up into the centerfield bleachers at Fenway Park much to the delight of a partisan crowd.

That was the 13th in the All-Star series, first ever at Fenway.

Bob Feller, Hal Newhouser and Jack Kramer split up the pitching chores for the winners with Feller gaining the decision.

Before the game Newhouser, ace of the Detroit staff said, he never felt safe working in Fenway unless he had a six-run lead. Most pitchers today would still agree.

Next stop on the All-Star trail was at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, a bandbox but one of the greatest stadiums ever to be in the major leagues.

The Americans won again in 1949 when 32,577 fans squeezed their way into Ebbets Field to see the midseason baseball showpiece.

Proud pros to start in All-Star contest

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite all the lumps and moans and aches and groans the National and American League will square off in the 48th annual All-Star Game tonight with a pair of proud pros facing each other on the mound.

It will be Don Sutton, a 10-game winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, starting for the National League against Jim Palmer, an 11-game winner for the Baltimore Orioles, for the American League, before a full Yankee Stadium house of 56,000 and a TV audience estimated at 45 million.

The selections of Sutton and Palmer, each making his fourth appearance in All-Star competition, were announced by Managers Sparky Anderson and Billy Martin after last-minute checks of the leagues' sick boys and local hospitals following a weekend when the All-Stars began to resemble squads of All-Stars.

As it turned out, the managers made a classic confrontation because both pitchers carry 0-0 earned runs averages in All-Star competition into tonight's game. Sutton hasn't yielded a run in five innings of previous All-Star competition while Palmer hasn't allowed one in eight innings.

The Nationals will be seeking to extend their winning streak in the series to six games and their overall edge to 29-14 while the Americans will be trying to reverse a pattern that has become embarrassing to say the least. The Americans have lost 12 of the last 14 games.

The Nationals' lineup at 8:30 P.M. EDT, game-time will have edge to 29-14 while the Americans will be trying to reverse a pattern that has become embarrassing to say the least. The Americans have lost 12 of the last 14 games.

Wiggin named D.A. at Glastonbury High

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

Passed over in his move for the director of athletics position at Manchester High, Dave Wiggin has resigned and has accepted a similar position at Glastonbury High.

Wiggin succeeds Don Elliott who retired.

The local man, currently vacationing in Maine, was unsuccessful in his bid to be retained as director of athletics at Manchester High.

Wiggin served as head of the physical education department at Manchester High and also at Hilling Junior High and Benet Junior High since 1974.

The Manchester Board of Education recently decided to have one man hold each position at each school.

Dick Cobb was the successful applicant at Manchester High. He is a veteran member of the physical education department at Manchester High.

Wiggin came to Manchester in 1965 as varsity football coach and director of athletics. A graduate of the University of Maine, Wiggin coached football here eight years, compiling a record of 47 wins, 23 defeats and one tie. He won three CCL titles before relinquishing the position to Larry Olsen in 1973.

Individual winner in the recent Manchester Insurance Agents Youth Golf Classic was Dave Thomas with a 77 round at the Manchester Country Club.

Thomas, Jeff Shrider and Paul Shrider's 81 score paced the 13-15 age group while Peracchio, who scored an 83, defeated Carl Baker in an 18-hole playoff for the third spot.

Tom Crockett, who ran the event, said 27 boys completed.

The delay in naming the three qualifiers for the state play was due to the playoff.

Funding figures changed

The Town of Vernon was informed in June that it had been designated to receive $1,283,000 from the Federal Economic Development Administration (EDA) to build a new police station. Last Friday, the town was told the figures have been revised to $1,125,000.

The revised amount is still somewhat higher than the $1.21 million for which the town had originally applied.

With the original grant amount being promised at more than requested, the town went ahead last week and filed its application, including in it the request for the police station and a $75,000 sidewalk reconstruction project.

The funding had to be recomputed by EDA because some towns, through computer error, were not getting to receive any funding. This included Stafford, Pomfret and Killingly. Besides Vernon, Tolland and Ellington will also get less than they expected.

The unemployment rate and the number of persons unemployed were the means by which it was determined the amounts the towns will receive.

The Town of Vernon had applied for the $1.21 million last year for expansion of the police facility. The day before Christmas the town officials were informed that the application had been turned down.

While some minor changes may have to be made in the plans for the new station, it isn't expected that the revised grant will deter construction.

The proposed new station will be built on land adjacent to the existing station at Rt. 50 and West St. It will consist of 18,000 square feet.

Staff rejoices as library gets top funding priority

South Windsor

JUDY KUEHNEL Herald Correspondent

Few members of the small but dedicated staff of the South Windsor Public Library would deny the road toward a new library facility has been anything but a long and rocky one — and uphill most of it.

Following the Town Council's decision some weeks ago to make a new library structure its first priority for $435,000 in federal funds, the library staff rejoiced in the foyer outside the council chambers.

"I can't believe it!" they exclaimed, as they embraced each other. Library Director W. Clayton Massey was a little less confident that the library team's days of working in 5,000 square feet of store front space was over.

"I'll believe it when I see a hole dug in the ground and some steel structures coming from it," quipped Massey.

For more than 12 years the library staff has operated what has been termed "a superb library program" in overly cramped quarters in the Sullivan Ave. Plaza. The arrangement was to have been temporary until other facilities could be found.

Unfortunately, temporary turned
