Today's summary

Compiled by United Press International

State

HARTFORD (UPI) — Only 1,573 persons have been placed in permanent jobs by a Hartford-area manpower training program that has spent more than $40 million in its four years of existence. The U.S. Department of Labor has called the Hartford-area program, in which the city is responsible for all federally funded job programs in the 27-town region, among the worst in the nation.

WATERBURY (UPI) — A Waterbury brass firm has offered to donate its mostly unused factory to the city, officials say. Municipal officials and representatives of the Chase Brass & Copper Co. say the firm, which last year let go 700 workers following a long strike, has offered the 900,000 square foot building to the city.

STORRS (UPI) — The ceiling in the University of Connecticut's swimming pool building is deteriorating, exposing asbestos fibers that could harm people, according to the Connecticut Public Interest Research Group. "Due in part to high heat and moisture in the pool building the ceiling over the pool, which contains asbestos fibers, has been deteriorating for some time," Joan Dalman, head of the university's CPORG chapter, said Saturday.

Regional

MILLINOCKET, Maine (UPI) — Firefighters in Baxter State Park had completed about 85 per cent of a control line today around a stubborn, eight-day-old forest fire, the state Forest Service said. The encircled area included between 5,000 and 6,000 acres of state land and property owned by the Great Northern Paper Co., more than half of which has already burned, a spokesman said.

National

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., today said he supports offshore oil drilling and expects petroleum companies to take sufficient environmental precautions so that the fishing industry can also flourish.

International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd vows to outlast a scheduled Republican filibuster this week against public financing of senatorial campaigns. If the first attempt to cut off debate fails Friday, Byrd said, he will try again next week.

Regional

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — More than 30 persons have been killed since last week's election in which Prime Minister J.R. Jayewardene's United National party ousted former Prime Minister Sirimayo Bandaranaike, police sources said.

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Somali-backed insurgents have captured the Ethiopian town of Gode in the Ogaden desert after fierce fighting with government troops, Somalia Radio said today. The radio said guerrillas of the Western Somalia Liberation Front "captured the town of Gode after fierce fighting with Ethiopian forces, a large number of whom surrendered to the front."

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin, returning home today after a nine-day American tour, is headed for a fight with the United States despite his warm reception in Washington, his predecessor says. Former Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Begin, who left New York's Kennedy Airport Sunday night for the 12-hour flight home, had only postponed an inevitable confrontation with President Carter on Middle East politics.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, answering criticism that he did not keep his campaign promises

Cummings asks charter study over conflicts

Because of a number of conflict-of-interest matters that have affected Town of Manchester office-holders, Democratic Town Chairman Theodore Cummings said Monday that he will ask the Board of Directors to establish a charter revision commission to deal with the conflict issue.

The most recent conflict-of-interest matter involves William Bayer, who has decided to step down as a candidate for the Board of Education. Bayer, a Democrat, had expressed interest in running this November for the school board.

But, he has sent a letter to Cummings withdrawing his application as a candidate.

Bayer is an engineer with the Manchester firm of Kahn & Bayer. The firm has done some work with the architect that is working on the Washington School-West Side Rec renovation project. Bayer decided that this might present a possible conflict of interest and has stepped out of the November race.

Three Democrats resigned from town boards when a question of conflict arose concerning a proposed housing development that all three were involved in.

Jack Goldberg, a former member of the Board of Directors, and Robert Stone, a former member of the Manchester Economic Development Commission, were the developers of the proposed subdivision. Their attorney, Thomas Bailey, also resigned as chairman of the Redevelopment Agency before a public hearing on the proposal.

Another Democratic director, Phyllis Jackson, was asked to resign by Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson before her recent public hearing on an appeal to the Zoning Board of Appeals. Mrs. Jackson is still a member of the board.

Cummings said that he will request that the Board of Directors establish a charter revision commission to act just on the conflict-of-interest issue. He also will suggest that a code of ethics be written for town officials.

"In this super-charged atmosphere of conflict of interest, you know who loses? The town loses," Cummings said.

He said that he "takes his hat" off to party members who have had to step down when conflict questions have developed.

"We're losing good people. We've got to meet the challenge," he said. Thus, he said that he will make his suggestions to the town directors.

Prignano — will not be seeking re-election.

In his announcement, Zinsser also wrote, "I become very upset when I see the Town of Manchester move mountains to clear the way for the J.C. Penney facility, which I have supported, and yet take years to start construction of the elderly housing on Spencer St., to improve the storm sewers system along White Brook, to improve traffic flow at the center."

Zinsser, along with Republican Director Vivian Ferguson, will seek re-election to the board. The party's third member, Paul Willhite, has announced that he will not be running in November.

On the Democratic side, three present directors — Mayor Matthew Moriarty, Robert Price, and Pascal

Vernon Jordan, the league's executive director, criticized Carter Sunday, saying "black people, having tasted the sweetness of victory in November, resent the sour taste of disappointment in July ... We resent unfulfilled promises of jobs, compromises to win conservative support and the continued acceptance of high unemployment."

In his speech, Carter listed the programs he had begun for the poor, including a new requirement that 10 per cent of all subcontracts in the public works bill go to minority groups. He predicted unemployment could be "perhaps as low as 6.5 per cent by the end of the year, with a trend downward."

Carter said the major goal of his administration is to assure that "all those who are able to work should be able to find work."

The President went on, explaining, "This emphasis on work for those who are able is not discriminatory, it is not moving backward. We want for people to be able to stand on their own feet."

In his welfare proposal, the President said, "there will be an additional one million job opportunities. Our goal is for every single family to have ... a guaranteed job by the government."

Carter drew a simile from Jordan and applause from the audience when he said, "I hope in the months ahead I'll be able to work closely with Vernon Jordan — at the White House."

"We haven't done everything we would like to do nor everything we are going to do," said the President, cautioning critics not to jump the gun.

"It takes time to change the course of history. The eagerness to put into effect these programs is there."

Carter ended on a solemn note, saying he hoped "together we can put smiles on the faces — instead of tears."

Jordan clasped the President's hand warmly following the speech and the two talked for about 15 minutes before Carter returned to the White House. Jordan would not comment on the discussion.

The Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will conduct a public hearing tonight on a regulation that would permit housing for the elderly and handicapped as a special exception in most zones.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 in the Nathan Hale School, 180 Spruce St. The public hearing on housing for the elderly and handicapped will be the first agenda item.

The PZC may also act tonight on the application submitted by Robert Stone and Jack Goldberg for a Residence AA Cluster Zone on the Lenti Farms tract off Gardner St.

A number of people are expected to attend the meeting to speak both for and against the change in regulations that would permit housing for the elderly or handicapped as a special exception in the following zones: Rural Residence, Residence A, B, C and M, Business I, II and III, the Central Business District, and the Comprehensive Urban Development Zone.

The opposition centers around an elderly housing project proposed for the Hartford Rd. campus of South United Methodist Church. A group of residents has formed to oppose the proposal, and many are expected to attend tonight's PZC hearing.

The group has said that the regulation change amounts to spot zoning and would permit more units per acre than existing elderly housing.

Carter assures Park on U.S. stance

SEoul, South Korea (UPI) — President Carter, in a letter delivered to President Park Chung-hee today assured the proposed pullout of American troops does not mean any changes in a strong U.S. security commitment to South Korea.

Carter's personal letter was handed to Park by Defense Secretary Harold Brown when the two met at the Blue House, the official residence of the South Korean president, a presidential spokesman said.

The Blue House released a translation of the letter which said the U.S.-South Korea mutual defense treaty is still in effect and the United States will swiftly support South Korea in case of a North Korean attack.

Carter said neither North Korea nor any other countries should doubt the firmness of U.S. commitments to South Korea. He said he wanted to reassure that the pullout of 33,000 U.S. troops from South Korea will be carried out gradually and cautiously over four to five years so as to preserve peace on the Korean peninsula.

Carter in the letter also said U.S. Air Force, logistics and intelligence units and personnel will stay on indefinitely after troops are withdrawn. U.S. naval units will stay in Korean waters, he said.

Brown said the gradual withdrawal of U.S. troops would take place "in a manner which will not upset the military balance or risk war."

City workers on strike, Providence mayor to sue

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Nearly 2,000 city workers went on strike today to protest a new budget which laid off 122 municipal employees. Mayor Vincent A. Cianci was ready to seek a court injunction to end the walkout.

The long-threatened strike involved about 1,700 members of local 1033 of the Laborers' Union. Picket lines went up shortly after dawn at public works and sanitation facilities. Nearly 300 workers were waiting outside City Hall for Cianci to show up.

Cianci said Sunday he was confident supervisory personnel can keep vital services running. The walkout does not involve police or fire personnel.

Cianci said he will keep accurate records of overtime costs of police and supervisors and file suit against the union for financial damages caused by the walkout.

Joseph Virgilio, president of the union local, refused comment on what the union plans to do if ordered back to work. "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Virgilio said he would meet with Cianci today only if the negotiations are aimed at resolving the job losses. "I don't want to meet with him and get a lot of baloney. I want to get the 1182 people back to work," Virgilio said.

About town Auditors criticize corrections books

MANCHESTER WATES will meet Tuesday at the Italian-American Club Tuesday. The meeting will be from 7 to 8 p.m.

The top losers for the month of June were Joyce Beebe and Charlotte Beebe.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Department of Correction needs to improve its bookkeeping procedures, state auditors said today.

Auditors Leo V. Donohue and Henry Becker Jr. said three of their previous recommendations had not been complied with and three additional problems had also been found in their examination of the department's books for the last three fiscal years.

They said the three recommendations repeated from the previous audit were:

- A need for improvement in the budgeting and accounting procedures governing federal funds, especially in coordination between those doing the budgeting and those implementing the program.
- Incomplete inventory records; a need for greater care in compiling the annual inventory submitted to the state comptroller.
- The new areas where improvement is needed according to the auditors: the department should be careful not to repeat a situation in which it decided to upgrade a certain program on the premise federal funding was available, but later turned out it was not.
- All transfers between the department's accounts should be fully documented and approved by a responsible official. The auditors said that had not been done all the time in the past.

MACC news

By Elaine Holcomb

I'm sure it's going to come as news to you if I announce... It's been hot at the 10th Annual Interfaith Day Camp. But not as hot as it's been on the streets of Hartford where many of our children would have been playing or in a small 2nd floor apartment on Main or Center St. here in Manchester.

To those of you who have been baking for the children in this extreme heat, our sincere admiration. If you are still looking for something to do for the children, might we suggest ice cream or even watermelon. We are presently feeding between 100 and 130 children, counselors and staff. Thanks to the ingenuity of our camp manager, Irene Goss, our hot lunch program has been transformed into a cold lunch program and the sports program has temporarily taken second place to reading in the shade under the tree with a counselor or playing some of the used games left over from the Seasonal Sharing Appeal.

Jingle Bells
 Speaking of Seasonal Sharing, I was absolutely flabbergasted yesterday as a woman, bearing a batch of brownies into the Day Camp kitchen, said over her shoulder, "I bought a turkey yesterday. 'For?' I questioned. 'That Seasonal Sharing thing," she said, disappearing into the kitchen. "Seasonal Sharing," I said in astonishment, "that's not till November." "But," said she, reappearing and rapidly exiting, "turkeys are only 46¢ a pound. I'll freeze it. It was 99¢ degrees and that was one beautiful day."

Program scheduled on safety

A health, safety and crime prevention program will be held for all senior citizens of Manchester at Cronin Hall in Mayfair Gardens, Main and N. Main Sts. Tuesday at 12:30 p.m.

Community Relations Officer James McCooe of the Manchester Police Department will show a new film, "Go Guard, Buncie," and will discuss the recent change in the crosswalk light at the housing project. He will also have an engraving tool to mark small household items, such as radios, portable televisions, CB radios and cameras as a deterrent against the person who wish to bring the items to the meeting.

Phyllis Sack of the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association will assist in the program.

Common sense will prevent disappointment

With all the emphasis on conserving fuel, we can expect more and more door-to-door salesmen approaching us trying to sell us new roofs, insulation, insulated windows and siding.

And it is true that in many instances over the long haul such investments can pay off in fuel savings as well as in appreciating the value of your home.

That is if the job is done by a reputable and qualified contractor who stands behind his work.

Every year we hear of instances where homeowners are bilked by itinerant firms out for the fast buck. Also, there have been reports of some shady operators using a sidewalk sealing service as a front to rob homes of money and other valuables.

Homeowners should be doubly wary of anyone who offers a service door-to-door. Take time to check out the firm, its reputation and its workmanship.

There are many reputable firms offering these services door-to-door, but unfortunately there are a few bad apples in every barrel.

Do not feel compelled to act immediately on super-duper offers. If they are legitimate, the firm will not object to your taking a day or two to make up your mind and to check the firm out.

You can check with established local businesses, the Chamber of Commerce or the Better Business Bureau.

And if you have any question concerning a contract you may have signed, a call to the state Department of Consumer Protection might be of help.

But the important thing about contracts is to read them thoroughly before signing them, and if you don't understand it, don't sign it.

Needed repairs to your property are a good investment, and there are many qualified contractors in the Manchester area capable of performing these services. All you have to do is use some common sense and check out any offer made before you accept it.

A taxing problem

New York state legislators recently passed a bill to give aid and comfort to organized crime.

It wasn't labeled that, of course, but that will be the effect of the state's raising its cigarette tax to a new high of 15 cents a pack.

Since New York City has its own eight-cent tax, this means smokers there will now have to cough up a total of 23 cents a pack in taxes — or 21 cents more than in North Carolina, the state with the lowest cigarette tax.

A potential profit margin like this — which exists to a slightly lesser degree in other states — is simply too much for the criminal world to resist. Already it's said that half the cigarettes sold in New York are bootlegged cigarettes.

Nationwide, the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, a panel established by Congress, estimates that high-tax states are losing $391 million a year in uncollected cigarette taxes because of bootlegging.

The commission calls for a coordinated state-federal attack on the problem, including — shades of Elliot Ness — making interstate cigarette smuggling a federal crime.

In our view, a better approach would be to make cigarette taxation a federal prerogative.

Remove the incentive to smuggling by abolishing state and local cigarette taxes entirely and replace them with a uniform federal tax throughout the country. The revenues could then be rebated to the states on a proportionate basis.

Cigarette smuggling is a problem that was legislated into existence. It should be legislated out of existence.

Reflections

Hal Turkington
Managing Editor

Bob Vater's bid for a community band to perform outdoor concerts hasn't lived up to his expectations. That was one of his hopes back in 1959 when he was on the music staff at Manchester High School. He later moved to the Manchester Community College faculty, where he is on its music staff.

Someday, Bob said in 1959, he hoped Manchester would have a citywide band at the elementary, junior high and senior high levels of school; and later he hoped there would be a community band on the adult level to which the high school musicians could "graduate."

Bob tried to get it going in 1968. He did succeed in forming a community band at least started, and it performed a concert in Center Park up near the flag pole. It performed to a "standing room only" crowd, except for those people who brought along lawn chairs.

The music, for the most part, was typical of high school music — not too difficult and easy to learn. It would be the only concert that band performed.

The musicians only had two or three rehearsals before playing that concert. It was a real community musician effort, too, because there were elementary school youngsters and adult musicians.

If you look closely at the accompanying photo, you will find Ray Beller of Beller's Music playing flute. Over at the first chair of the cornet-trumpet section is the late Bob Lyons, a fine cornetist from the Salvation Army Band.

The young man below the conduc-tor's stick is the late Danny Manchuck, one of Manchester's gifted musicians who was a 1958 graduate of Manchester High. His life was cut short at 19 while he was still a junior at Danbury State College. When the photo was taken, he was doing a comedy routine with band background.

Danny's loss was a tragedy; he had a great future ahead of him, both as a reed player and as a conductor. There are Manchester musicians who will remember just where they sat in that band, and some listeners will recall where they stood or sat.

It may be too late this year, but perhaps next year things can begin in the spring for a community band. We now have the handshell over at Manchester Community College, and why not give it some use?

This column had an error in it last week when I referred to the late Mrs. Esther Pickles as an early leader of Camp Merrie-Wood. The sentence should have said Mrs. Esther Pickles and the late Miss Evaline Pentland.

Maine forest fire nearly surrounded

Millinocket, Maine (UPI) — Firefighters in Baxter, Maine, today completed 95 per cent of the fire line around a six-acre glowing ember.

The fire, which started on Sunday, was predicted to spread between 5,000 and 6,000 acres of land and property owned by the State forest service.

Weather Service predicted between 5,000 and 6,000 acres of land and property owned by the State forest service.

Officials were prepared to sacrifice real good. As of 9 a.m. it was all within the control lines, he said.

Whebe said the fire is "But that doesn't necessarily mean that it won't spread to the area. The weather we have men and planes working to predicted gusty south save as much as we can. We just a chance of showers. want to contain the fire," Whebe said.

End to fighting ordered by Sadat

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has ordered his troops to end six days of border fighting with Libya while Arab negotiators work out a truce.

Libya's official Arab Revolution News Agency said today local militiamen had "repelled and annihilated" invading Egyptian paratroopers in the border oasis of Jajghoub, but did not specify whether the clashes came after Cairo announced its cease-fire late Sunday night.

Three Egyptian officers were captured in the fighting, the agency reported. Algerian President Houari Boumedienne left Alexandria today after urgent talks with Sadat.

Another mediator, Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat, stayed in Tripoli while Boumedienne went to see Sadat.

Cairo Radio announced late Sunday that Sadat had ordered a halt to "all military operations" after conferring with Boumedienne.

The border clashes, which began last Tuesday, erupted into full-scale warfare Thursday with an eight-hour clash involving tanks and jet fighters. It climaxed a bitter, four-year feud between Sadat and Khadafi.

On Sunday, Egypt said it smashed two key airfields and two radar stations in a day of massive bombing raids. But Libya's official news agency said it was "crushing the invasion."

The agency today quoted a military spokesman as saying, "Our popular forces managed to repel and annihilate the invading forces in the oasis of Jajghoub," located about 25 miles inside Libya.

Egypt said early today paratroopers had hit Jajghoub to "attack saboteur camps," but withdrew when Sadat issued his cease-fire order.

The Libyan news agency called on all border villagers to arm themselves against what it termed "declared war" by Cairo.

It reported the military spokesman said some of the Egyptians had managed to "flee into the desert." He identified the three captured Egyptians as Maj. Ibrahim Ahmed, First Lt. Adel Abdel Salam and Sergeant Ibrahim Dassouki Charaoui.

"There were no losses among our popular forces," the spokesman said.

Thought

Have you ever wondered where the light of Genesis 1:3-5 came from? God said, "Let there be light," and there was light.

The light could not have come from the sun because the Bible says this was only the first day and it was not until the fourth day that God made the moon and the sun. Yet there was light to lighten the earth three creation days before the sun and the moon were made.

We need wonder no more about the source of that light, for we are told of the New Jerusalem, the city has no need of the sun and neither of the moon to shine in it for the glory of God brightens it and the Lamb of God will be the light of it. In the redeemed and restored earth you will still have the effect and the influence of the sun and the moon for the measurement of time and the production of crops, for they were made for signs and for seasons and for days and for years, Genesis 1:14.

And the Word of God declared that while the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease, in Genesis 8:22.

Springfield police probe jewel theft

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Police today were investigating Sunday's theft of a quarter-million dollars worth of insured handcrafted turquoise, silver and coral American Indian jewelry from a West Springfield motel.

The 500 pounds of jewelry was taken after three men gagged and handcuffed a security guard at the Sheraton Inn and then forced open a door to the room where the 3,000 pieces of jewelry were being kept. The guard told police a "cold object" was placed at the back of his head as he walked through a parking lot and he was told the men would "blow his head off" if he made a sound or turned around to look at them, police said.

But detectives said today no guns were seen during the robbery. "And we still haven't come up with anything," police told United Press International.

Police estimated the jewels were worth $150,000 but their owner, Blanche Zuckerman of the Silver Eagles Traders Co. of Trumbull, Conn., said they were worth "more than one quarter of a million dollars."

The guard was stripped, gagged with his tie and handcuffed to a pipe, police said. After the men had fled by car, the guard was able to remove the gag and his cries for help were heard at a nearby restaurant.

The jewelry, which had been on display at the motel Saturday, included more than 2,000 rings, numerous bracelets, pendants and men's and ladies' watch bands. The jewelry was handcrafted by Indians from the Southwestern United States, Mrs. Zuckerman said. She said a "substantial reward" will be offered for its return.

Acquin arraigned in Prospect deaths

WATERBURY (UPI) — Lorne Acquin, 27, was arraigned today on nine counts of murder and held in $250,000 bond for the deaths of his foster brother's wife and eight children.

Acquin entered no plea and showed no emotion in the brief appearance before Superior Court Judge Francis J. O'Brien who refused the state's request to raise bond to $1 million. O'Brien set Aug. 2 for a further hearing after the state asked for more time to prepare its case.

Acquin was led handcuffed by four police officers into the court building as a heavy rain began to fall. Acquin was remanded to the New Haven Correctional Center.

Acquin was dressed in the same dirty brown jeans and blue tee-shirt he wore when arrested Saturday a day after the bodies of Cheryl Beaudoin, her seven children and their cousin were found in their fire-rigged home in Prospect.

Acquin's attorney, John Williams of New Haven, objected to the state's request to increase bond and told O'Brien, "They know perfectly well he cannot make the bond your honor posted earlier."

Williams accused the state of trying to raise the bond "merely for the benefit of the people outside of the judicial system."

O'Brien said he rejected the bond increase not because of Williams' claims, but because he felt the $250,000 bond was sufficient.

Williams complained he had asked to see the arrest warrant "two or three times," but was only shown the document just before the hearing.

Williams interrupted Assistant State Attorney Walter Sano when he asked the court to increase the bond "based on the heinousness of crime and his past record dating back to 1966."

Williams has been critical of state police actions that led to Acquin's arrest. State Police Commissioner Edward Leonard called the crime the worst mass murder in Connecticut history.

South Windsor Police Officer Steven Farnham suffered severe burns Sunday when he stopped to assist a motorist who was out of gas. Police said the accident happened on Ellington Rd. Gas was put into the gas tank but the car wouldn't start. Farnham was putting gas into the carburetor and had done so two times and on the third try the gas ignited and exploded, police said.

Farnham suffered severe burns on his right arm, shoulder and side. He was treated and released at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Bryan Hinchee, 31, of Glenwood Rd., Ellington, was charged Saturday with eight counts of obtaining drugs under false pretenses. He was released on a $1,000 bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, Aug. 8.

Vincent Melaragno, 20, of Torrington, was charged early Sunday morning with fourth-degree larceny. Police said several women complained that their pocketbooks had been taken. # Historic district benefits explained

The National Park Service has sent a letter to property owners living in the area surrounding the Cheney Bros. compound, notifying them of certain benefits for the residents if the area is designated a national historic district.

The National Survey of Historic Sites and Buildings is conducting a study of properties associated with the theme "commerce and industry," including the Cheney industrial and residential area.

To promote the preservation of the historical properties, certain benefits are available to the property owners in the area, including benefits provided by the National Register Program, the Grants-in-Aid Program, the Technical Preservation Services Program and sections of the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

The letter, from George F. Emery, chief of Historic Sites Survey Division of the National Park Service, states that if it is determined that the area is a national historic district, it may be eligible for the benefits.

A section of the Tax Reform Act which is included with the letter lists the tax incentives. The section provides for changes in federal tax

Manchester police report

Manchester Police said that an undetermined amount of cash was recovered from the weekend from the Galsand service station at 391 Main St.

The break was reported Sunday morning, police said. A safe at the station had not been locked and all the money in the safe was taken, according to police reports. The missing amount has not yet been calculated.

Two other breaks were also reported Sunday.

One was at a High St. home where the home was left unoccupied and unlocked for a short period, police said. During that time, a purse containing $80 and personal possessions, was stolen, police said.

The other theft was from a Lenox St. home. A total of $25 was reported missing, according to police.

Police made three separate arrests over the weekend on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Arrested on the charge were:
• Laurence M. Redmond, 37, of Somers. Court date is Aug. 16.
• Indulis Grassi, 47, of 16 Bishop Dr. Court date is Aug. 9.

CORRECTION
It was incorrectly reported in Saturday's Herald that Dean A. Clark, 18, of 24 Winter St., was charged with delivery of liquor to a minor. No such charge was lodged against Clark.

Council meets with CRC

South Windsor
During a work session tonight at 7:30 the South Windsor Town Council will meet with the Charter Revision Commission and will also hear an update on Deputy Mayor Robert Myette's proposal concerning motor vehicle taxes.

The work session will be in the caucus room of the Town Hall.

The council and the revision commission will discuss revisions proposed by the council dealing with section 903 of the charter pertaining to political activities of town employees.

Myette's proposal concerning motor vehicle taxes would allow residents to make these tax payments in two installments, instead of one as it is now.

A new state law allows towns to select either method. Town Manager Paul Talbot contends that if half the residents chose to pay in two installments the town would lose revenue because it could not invest the revenue.

Vernon Gets help in review

The Town of Vernon will receive $8,000 worth of technical assistance to review the town's personnel system.

Stanley Roeder, director of administration, said he received a letter from the U. S. Civil Service Commission in Boston telling him of the forthcoming assistance.

He said the Boston office has a staff of people with a background in technical expertise in the areas of personnel.

He said he was told some of these staff members will come to Vernon to review the existing system and revamp it as necessary.

Roeder has been calling for a review of this area for the past two years. He has told the Charter Revision Commission that the town really needs a full-time personnel director. He said the town has more than 185 employees and more than half of them are members of a union.

He said the present hiring system is fragmented in that it is divided between he and the mayor for clerical positions while the public works director and some other department heads are able to hire their own personnel.

Roeder said the Boston office said staff members are busy right now with five projects in some other towns and cities but that as soon as these projects are nearing an end Boston office will be in touch with him.

Roeder said this will probably be the early part of September. He said he hopes that the salary administration portion of the study will be finished by Dec. 31 in time for the next budget sessions on the 1978-79 budget.

Area briefs

Bolton
The Bolton Volunteer Fire Department received new rescue equipment from both a local organization and a business this month. The Bolton Woman's Club donated a scissor stretcher and the Alpha-Omega Inn donated a basket stretcher.

The scissor stretcher comes apart, enabling the rescuer to slide sections of the stretcher under a victim from both sides. The basket stretcher is for rough terrain or places where a stretcher must be raised or lowered with a rope. The victim is strapped into the stretcher and will not fall out.

Any organization or individual interested in donating equipment to the volunteer fire department should call Robert Morra, Volunteer David Drew said all donations are tax deductible, and will be greatly appreciated by the department.

In June, the BVFD responded to 9 calls: 4 motor vehicle accidents, 1 mutual aid to Andover, 1 mutual aid to North Coventry, 1 trash fire, 1 false alarm and 1 medical assist.

South Windsor
Jane Hutchins, co-chairman of the South Windsor FISH organization, said calls for assistance continue to be considerably above last year's average. An average of 28 calls per week were received last year.

During this past April, 28 calls were received; 42 in May, and 31 in June.

Mrs. Hutchins said that although the specific factors involved in the substantial increase have not been pinpointed, there are about six people who require regular trips to doctors' offices and clinics.

FISH will continue to provide its services of transportation, meals, child care, housework, translation, and resuscitation calls during the summer months in emergency situations where there is no other help available. Mrs. Hutchins said. To request help from FISH, South Windsor residents should call the 24-hour "hotline" number, 645-1055.

Lawmakers get chance to override 22 vetoes

HARTFORD (UPI) — Lawmakers today return to the Capitol for the annual trailer session at which they can override any of the 22 vetoes by Gov. Ella T. Grasso on bills passed during the legislative session.

To override any of the vetoes lawmakers need a two-thirds majority in both the House of Representatives and Senate. The trailer session is mandated by the state constitution.

The bill given the best chance of winning such support is a measure to allow alteration of a regional water authority in the New Haven area.

Mrs. Grasso has said she would not be terribly upset if the lawmakers override her veto of that measure.

In all, the legislature passed 712 bills during the session which began in January and ended June 8. Almost all measures vetoed were ones of relatively narrow interest. Last year, lawmakers did not override any of the governor's vetoes.

New Haven area lawmakers have lobbied their colleagues in hopes of getting the necessary two-thirds majority for the water bill. Sen. Lawrence DeNardis, R-Hamden, claims they have enough votes to

Newman third

LONG POND, Pa. (UPI) — Actor Paul Newman, whose hobby is racing cars, drove a D Production TR-8 Sunday to a third-place finish in Pocomo International Raceway in a benefit auto race for the Deborah Heart and Lung Center.

In the program's second event, Newman was catching the leaders when his car swallowed a valve, forcing him to the sidelines.

to know if it was okay to return to his usual interviewing spot. Martin replied affirmatively but added "Stay close to the phone."

Rumors concerning the manager's dismissal continue. Reports said that third base coach Dick Howser was offered the job Saturday and that he refused. He may not want to coach third base for the rest of his life but he knows a hot seat when he sees one.

"I don't enjoy this at all," Martin said. "We're having a tough enough time with the players having to think about who their manager is going to be."

There was some good news for

Martin. His daughter was released from prison, returning home Saturday after serving a term on drug-related charges.

Before the start of Sunday's game, Martin received loud ovations from the crowd while presenting his lineup card.

"The fans are so great," he said. "If I could get George (principle owner Stenbrom) to be a fan I'd be alright. I had a difficult night last night, very tough. I fell asleep on the couch watching TV, woke up about five in the morning and went to bed. I was pretty upset."

The Yankees players, like sheepish puppy dogs after breaking a valuable antique, felt they were partly to blame.

Lu Pinella, whose two-run single in the first inning staked Don Gullett to his ninth win, admitted to playing with renewed vigor. "We're gonna play like we really mean it," he said.

"We're gonna play hard baseball for Billy."

"We're trying to play hard for him now," said Chris Chambliss. "We've been trying to play hard for him all season."

Perhaps Paul Blair put it best. "If we win, he'll be here. That's all there is to it."

Flanagan propels Birds' resurgence

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Flanagan's reincarnation parallels the Baltimore Orioles' resurgence this season.

Coincidence? Not likely. Baltimore beat Milwaukee, 3-2, behind Flanagan's four-hitter in the first game of a doubleheader to halt a three-game losing streak and the Orioles also took the nightcap, 4-3.

My sinker was effective in the middle of the game," Flanagan, who won his third straight game, said.

In the opener, designated hitter Eddie Murray lashed his 16th double to right fielder Pat Kelly with the winning run in the eighth.

Homers spark Legion in exhibition victory

Batting around in the first inning, scoring six runs, Manchester's Legion baseball team had an easy time with Salem, Mass., in an exhibition game at Eagle Field Sunday.

The final score was 13-2 as the home team collected four homers.

Tonight the locals face Windsor at 6 o'clock at Eagle Field in Zone Eight play with Bruce Ballard slated to pitch.

Batting star yesterday was Ray Gihl with two homers, one in three runs and drove in four runs. Ballard also homered in the rout and added a single while tallying three times. Mike Freheit collected a solo homer and Frank Livingston kept up his hot hitting with three in four trips to the plate.

The winners, now 18-10-1 overall, added four runs in the second frame for a commanding 10-0 edge as pitchers Pete Kiro and Kevin Hanlon kept the visitors at bay. The latter worked the last four innings, allowing a two-run homer by George Banks in the seventh inning. Banks also had a double.

over the Montreal Expos, in the other National League games.

Cardinals 3, Reds 0. Eric Hosmer pitched a four-hitter, striking out and walking one. Kline then followed Jerry Hairston, filling the bases, and walked with the game-ending walk to Fresno. Reliever Kent Tekulve was the winner raising his record to 8-1.

Giants 3-5, Expos 0-4. Jim Barr pitched a four-hitter and the ninth inning enabled the Dodgers to score a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets, and Manager Tom Lasorda had watery eyes and the usually unemotional Reggie Smith admitted he was close to tears.

The dramatic victory, which came after Lopes got another chance when right fielder Bruce Bozicard dropped his foul fly for what should have been the final out of the game, snuffed a three-game losing streak and built the Dodgers' lead over the Cincinnati Reds to 10 1/2 games in the National League's Western Division.

"I hit a fastball away for the home run," said Lopes. "I don't know where I got the power... I don't think I've ever been so emotional in my life. My eyes were watering when the ball went over."

"I prayed Lopes would get a hit and when he did it brought tears to my eyes," said Lasorda.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Reds, 3-0, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the San Diego Padres, 7-4, the Houston Astros swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, 10-6 and 6-4, the Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Atlanta Braves, 7-6, in 13 innings, and the San Francisco Giants scored 3-0 and 5-4 victories

Foes of Seabrook plan new protest
CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The New Hampshire Clamshell Alliance approved plans Sunday for another occupation of the Seabrook nuclear power plant site next spring.

A mass occupation of the site in May led to the arrest of 1,414 antinuclear protesters and their subsequent incarceration for almost two weeks in six national guard armories.

Clamshell spokesman Paul Gunter of Marlow said the group is not planning another mass occupation of the site, but rather would send 100 persons onto the site "until the point of confrontation."

He said the group would then assume a "non-violent posture" and sit down. He said authorities "would then have to deal with us at that point."

Gunter said if the group was not arrested, it would be relieved the next day by another 100 people and the cycle would be continued as long as possible.

Gunter said the Clamshell did not want to "intimidate the authorities into the use of fire hoses, dogs and gas."

Attorney General David Souter has said he would not rule out the use of such devices if another mass occupation of the site should occur.

All six said the authority and all of its 67 apartment units including 549 for the elderly were improved over two years ago. They said finances were now much better. Major repair problems were being solved as state and federal grants came through.

"Things are far from perfect," said Clifford Atwell, a longtime resident of Meadow Hill.

Atwell said the large building is not kept clean. The incinerator rooms are messy.

"Bad help—that's the trouble, I think," Atwell said.

"Things were run better under Mr. (Stanley) Ozimek," Atwell said. "He came around more often. We never see anyone now. I wouldn't know the new man (Giamalis) if I saw him."

Atwell said a letter to the editor of a newspaper last week citing problems at Meadow Hill was largely correct. The letter said the building has roaches, rats, and garbage piling up in the basement when a holiday falls on a Monday. It said the residents of the complex were "up in arms" over The Herald's article which the writer said was "ridiculous."

The letter was not signed.

Robert Whitaker, a Meadow Hill resident since the building opened, said, "It's not perfect. There are apartments here which haven't been painted in six years. People are mostly hollering about this."

"There were some rats in the garage. We got rid of them pretty well. I haven't seen one lately."

"The roaches are pretty well licked. The exterminator comes in every Friday. If a tenant sees anything, the exterminator will spray that apartment. He does six to 10 a week."

"As for Mr. Ozimek, whatever he done, the people here miss him right now. He certainly did take care of the place. The people here really cared for him."

"One irate lady who refused to give her name for fear of being evicted said all the letter's charges are true. Conditions in Meadow Hill are poor, she said.

"For one thing, there are no fire extinguishers in the incinerator rooms. They were stolen a long time ago."

"Now Mr. Ozimek, he may have stole from the rich, but he was very good to the poor."

Manchester Evening Herald EAST HARTFORD EDITION

Some residents of Meadow Hill criticize story

Some residents of the Meadow Hill elderly housing high rise at 101 Connecticut Blvd. in East Hartford have taken issue with an article in The Herald July 6.

The article included comments and photos of the five directors of the East Hartford Housing Authority which owns and manages the 10-story building built in 1966. All of its 120 apartment units are kept filled. A growing list of elderly people are waiting for vacancies.

The article also included the comments and a photo by the authority's executive director, Nicholas Giamalis.

All six said the authority and all of its 67 apartment units including 549 for the elderly were improved over two years ago. They said finances were now much better. Major repair problems were being solved as state and federal grants came through.

"Things are far from perfect," said Clifford Atwell, a longtime resident of Meadow Hill.

Atwell said the large building is not kept clean. The incinerator rooms are messy.

"Bad help—that's the trouble, I think," Atwell said.

"Things were run better under Mr. (Stanley) Ozimek," Atwell said. "He came around more often. We never see anyone now. I wouldn't know the new man (Giamalis) if I saw him."

Police arrested two young men early Saturday on several drug related charges.
Julius C. Easingwell, 21, of 32 Smith Dr., East Hartford, was charged with possession of a narcotic substance, possession of marijuana, and carrying a dangerous weapon (air pistol) in a motor vehicle.

The arrest followed observations by plainclothes police, police said.
Edward Goss, 19, of 559 Burnside Ave., was arrested Sunday and charged with third-degree assault and third degree criminal mischief following a 3 a.m. disturbance at his apartment, police said.
Goss allegedly had an argument with his girl friend and he broke her jaw and nose, police said. She was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released.
He was being held this morning on $500 surety bond for appearance in court here today.
A Chapman St. home was broken into Friday between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. and ransacked. Missing is $350 worth of jewelry.
