GLORIA STEVENS HAS BECOME A WAY OF LIFE FOR ME....

I never took off those extra pounds and inches since the birth of my last child, which was seven years ago. Then I started putting on more weight during the last year. I decided to do something about it and that is when I joined Gloria Stevens. I'm certainly much happier with myself now that I've lost 10 lbs. and 16 1/2". I never could have done it without the help of the technicians. Also the freedom at Gloria Stevens allowing us to come in at our convenience works out just great too. Frequently, I stop in to do my exercises on my way to or from something else. To top it off, I feel great too — lots more energy than I've had in years.

Police probing NYC bombings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police and FBI experts today studied bomb fragments and lists of suspects in an investigation aimed at heading off a promised new wave of terrorism by the FALN.

The Puerto Rican nationalist group claimed responsibility for two bombs placed that exploded Wednesday in two Manhattan office buildings, killing one person and injuring seven others.

Threats of more explosions forced tens of thousands of workers to flee Manhattan's tallest skyscrapers, including the World Trade Center, the Empire State Building and the Pan Am Building.

Those evacuations triggered massive traffic jams in New York streets and jammed police, fire and ambulance switchboards for hours.

Killed in the Mobil explosion was Charles Steinberg, 26, of New York. There were no injuries in the defense office blast.

The bombs went off at the ground-floor Mobil travel office in the oil company's building on 42nd St., and outside a 21st-floor office of the Department of Defense a few blocks away.

"This time it is just a warning," the FALN said in a letter to police.

Mrs. Paulina Adkins, 35, was sitting in the travel office waiting for a job interview when she heard a noise "like a giant firecracker or something."

She said plastic ceiling material fell, hitting her on the head. "There was glass all over and a lot of blood on the floor. I saw a man lying on the floor. A receptionist and two men ducked under desks."

As scores of emergency vehicles streaked through Manhattan streets, their sirens wailing, a man claiming to represent the FALN called WABC-TV and claimed responsibility for the bombings.

Later, the letter from the FALN was found near Central Park. It was similar to others written by the group in the past and said Wednesday's bombings were "part of our campaign to dramatize and to intensify our just struggle for the independence of Puerto Rico and the unconditional freedom of the five Puerto Rican Nationalists" held in federal prisons.

The letter said the bombs were directed at multinational corporations because they are "using underhanded and barbaric tactics to exploit Puerto Rico's natural resources, including off-shore oil."

Mayor Abraham Beame told a news conference FBI agents "indicated they have an excellent idea of who the terrorists are. The problem is they haven't been able to catch them with the goods when the bombs are placed."

The most serious FALN attack to date was a Jan. 24, 1975 bombing at Frances Tavern in Manhattan's financial district that killed four persons and injured 53 others.

Town dealing with second tenant for proposed industrial park

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

The Manchester Economic Development Commission (EDC) this morning learned that the town is negotiating with a second prospect for the proposed Buckland Industrial park and that settlements have been reached with all but one homeowner at the proposed site of the J.C. Penney Co. complex.

In other park-related matters, the EDC:

- Approved a majority of Penney's site development plans, including the firm's request that the EDC waive some park regulations for the firm.
- Agreed that the town will pay a commission to a real estate broker if that broker's client decides to lease a tenant in the park.
- Granted the town permission to go out to bid for drainage work in the eastern portion of the park, where Penney would be located. Walter Fuss, of the Griswold & Fuss engineering firm, said that the bidding process can be started in a week. No funds will be committed for the work until the park's status is assured, the EDC ruled.
- Learned that a contest to select a name for the park will be held Wednesday, as "a Hercules of Cyprus" freedom and rights" and pledged to "fight Makarios' struggle" for independent Cyprus. Makarios' body lay in state in the ancient Freeport Cathedral of St. John's and thousands passed by to pay homage.

HARTFORD — Rep. Gardner Wright, D-Bristol, chairman of the legislature's Finance Committee, says if new levies are required to balance next year's state budget, they should be placed on meals under $1 and interest earned by savings accounts. There are now 30 persons living on the tiny reservation in the northeast part of the state. Those adopted by the tribe would have to have at least one-eighth Indian blood.

PUCA approves livery service for elderly and handicapped

By SUSAN VAUGHN

Herald Reporter

A charter bus service for elderly and handicapped persons is the first of its kind in the state approved by the Public Utilities Control Authority Wednesday.

The approval was for an unlimited number of buses, but Talbot said the service will start with one or two to test out the demand for such transportation. However, Talbot said, he has received many calls over the past year since the similar Call-A-Ride service started in East Hartford.

Talbot also said his company checked with convalescent homes, senior citizen centers, Manchester Memorial Hospital and other places with groups of elderly and handicapped persons. Every place indicated a need for such a service.

Talbot said that some of the persons who used the Call-A-Ride service, for which his company also provides the vehicle, indicated they had not gone on any kind of trip for four or five years.

Atty. Josiah Lessner, who represented Dial-A-Ride at the June 23 PUCA hearing, said other possible uses for the new buses would be for persons in wheel chairs who need transportation to the airport. He said the company can arrange this service with travel agencies.

Lessner said the special service could work in conjunction with other bus services which do not have the specially equipped buses.

Lessner will also represent Dial-A-Ride at another hearing at the PUCA Monday in an application for licensing a taxi service for Manchester and South Windsor.

Lessner said PUCA granted the hearing within a week of filing the application, which he said, "is unheard of."

Manchester has been without a taxi service for about three weeks since the East Hartford-Manchester Cab Co. suspended operations.

Talbot said Dial-A-Ride has received over 100 phone calls since last Saturday when the application for the taxi service was announced.

Talbot said he realizes there is more risk in the taxi cab venture, as all previous cab companies in Manchester have gone out of business. He said he will not expect a large profit, but wants to try it. The company is applying for licensing for three taxis initially.

Because of the short time for preparing the application for the hearing, Lessner said he would like to hear from anyone who would like to voice their opinion or express an interest in the taxi service. The information would help him indicate a need to the PUCA on Monday's hearing.

Judge Cohen to allow appeal

WATERBURY (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Simon S. Cohen has decided to allow the state to appeal his dismissal of murder charges against former legislative leader Bernard L. Avolio.

Cohen issued a memorandum of decision Wednesday, saying his earlier refusal to allow the appeal was "inappropriate." However, he maintained he was duty-bound to overturn a jury verdict and acquit Avolio.

In a nine-week Waterbury Superior Court trial, the prosecution maintained Avolio, a 45-year-old Naugatuck attorney, strangled his wife, Wanda, on Oct. 30, 1975 so he could move in with a lover.

On July 20, after nine hours of deliberations, a jury found the ex-state representative guilty. But Cohen rejected the verdict, saying the evidence did not justify conviction, and refused to allow an appeal.

Wednesday Cohen said, "Upon reflection, this court now is of the view that its discretionary denial of the state's motion to take an appeal was inappropriate."

But he labeled the state's evidence "so weak" that "it was my duty to order the entry of a verdict of acquittal."

"In a criminal trial, where the jury acts as the finder of facts, the judge will not be charged bystander acting only to moderate the proceedings," he wrote.

Cohen, under heavy criticism for his decision to free Avolio, said he took the right course despite the public uproar.

The proper use of a trial court's power to overturn the jury verdict of guilty must not be discouraged by fear of public rebuke or reprisal," Cohen said.

He apologized about confusion that arose when he seemed to deny the state permission to appeal and then called two hearings to consider the prosecution's request.

"Any unfortunate confusion or uncertainty which this court's prior denial of the state's motion may have created can now be removed," he wrote.

Cohen said it is the right of the prosecution to challenge his acquittal.

"But those who would irrationally attack a judge's acquittal power will serve our system of justice and foster misunderstanding about the valuable function it can perform therein."

He also disputed the state's claim that he should have entered the order of acquittal before the jury began its deliberations.

He cited a 1948 Delaware mail fraud case where the judge said it is better to let a jury return a verdict before entering an acquittal.

Snyder threatens suit

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — A member of the state gaming commission is threatening to sue the panel if it agrees to keep secret financial information about owners of a controversial firm seeking a gaming license. Commissioner Lester Snyder said Wednesday if the panel kept secret the information about Bally Manufacturer Corp.'s stockholders, he would ask the Freedom of Information Commission to order the material be made public. Bally wants to buy World Jai Alai, Inc. which owns the Hartford fronton, and the gaming commission is investigating the firm to see if it should be given a license. Bradon J. Hickey, a Bally attorney, said his firm did not want the information revealed and thought the law required it be kept confidential.

Museum to offer adult workshops

Lutz Junior Museum will sponsor two adult workshops at the Oak Grove Nature Center during the month of August. The first, Plants at the Nature Center, will be held Tuesday, Aug. 16, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The course will include a hike through different habitats with plant identification being stressed. General terms used in plant identification will be discussed, as well as guide books, and how to utilize them in the field. The workshop will also describe how plants were used by Indians and how they can best be employed today. On Thursday, Aug. 18, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., a Pond Study workshop will be offered. Subjects will include the life history of food chain of a pond, basic aquatic adaptations, and the effects of pollution. Samples of plants and animals acquired from the pond will be studied. The instructor, Susan Craig, holds a B.S. in biology and a M.S. in ecology, both from UConn. She also spent three years as director of the Barnes Nature Center in Bristol. Although Ms. Craig's interests span a broad area in nature study and include a strong background in botany, her specialty is herpetology, especially reptiles and amphibians of Connecticut. Both workshops will be held at the Oak Grove Nature Center, 269 Oak Grove St. There is a fee for members and non-members. For further information, contact the Lutz Junior Museum at 643-0948.

Judge rejects key motions in Prospect murder case

WATERBURY (UPI) — A judge has rejected key defense and prosecution motions and has left the fate of mass murder suspect Lorne J. Acquin to a grand jury which convenes next month. Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wall Wednesday rejected defense attorney John Williams' motion to dismiss a murder charge against Acquin. At the same time, Wall rejected state motions to take blood and hair samples from Acquin. Acquin, who appeared relaxed compared to his first two court appearances, is charged with the July 22 slayings of his foster brother's wife, her seven children and a young friend who was spending the night at the family's home in rural Prospect. Authorities call it the largest mass murder in state history. Williams said in his dismissal motion the 27-year-old driver was being held illegally because the state cannot be incarcerated unless he has been indicted by a grand jury.

For several years, he has been a first aid merit badge instructor and has run district First Aid O'Rees. He has provided coverage of all district campfires and Klondike Derbys for the past 10 years and chaired the coverage of the Bicentennial Campfire. Turner and Miller are also first aid instructors for the American Red Cross.

Friendly asked to revise drain plan for new store

The Friendly Ice Cream Corp. of Wilbraham, Mass., has been asked to revise its storm drainage plans for a restaurant it has proposed in Manchester. The proposed site — on Center St. between McKee and Dougherty Sts. — has serious drainage problems, according to Town Engineer Walter Senkow and a group of residents who oppose the proposed Friendly's. Also, it has been learned that discussion about the proposed Center St. Friendly's led to a tightening up of a town policy concerning the issuance of building permits for business and industrial development. The Friendly's firm last year announced its plans to locate on Center St. lot, which is now vacant. The proposal was opposed by residents, who said that traffic and drainage problems already exist in the area. Recently, members of the group, which is headed by Patrick Dougherty, of 17 Dougherty St., met with town officials. The group said that a building permit was being considered for the proposed Friendly's, even though the Police and Engineering Departments had not been consulted. Francis Conti, chief building inspector, said he would take "a very critical look" at the plans. The area department had only received the application for a building permit. He said that one of the first steps would be review of drainage by the town engineer. "We were very disturbed by the lack of communication and coordination among the different departments," the group wrote in a letter to Director of Public Works Jay J. Giles. Last week, Town Manager Robert B. Weiss issued a memorandum to involved department heads that said certain procedures shall be followed for building permits for industrial and commercial development. Zoning Enforcement Officer Ernest Macchelli will act as liaison to ensure that all required departments are contacted before a permit is issued, according to Weiss' memo. Conti and Macchelli said Tuesday that a building permit will not be issued until drainage plans for the site are approved. Friendly's has been asked to resubmit its plans, and a spokesman for the firm said that the work is in process. He expects the new storm drainage plans to be submitted to the town in three to four weeks. Senkow said he would take "a very critical look" at the plans. The area

Checks and balances

One of the miracles of self-government as exercised in America is the principle of checks and balances. Like most miracles, however, it can be hard to understand and accept at times. For example, there is the current hue and cry over Superior Court Judge Simon Cohen's invalidation of a jury's guilty verdict in the Bernard Avcollie murder case. This is further compounded because Connecticut has a law which allows a judge to deny an appeal of such a decision if he so wishes. But under our principle of checks and balances, there is recognition that juries are not infallible and the same is true of judicial decisions. The stickler seems to be the judge's veto power over a possible appeal. Yet here, too, the principal of checks and balances comes to bear, for without such a veto, it is not hard to conceive many judicial opinions being appealed for trivial reasons. In this case we would hope Judge Cohen, if he has not already done so, will allow his acquittal ruling to be appealed so the circumstances surrounding his decision can be fully aired. The case is a highly

South Korean boo startles Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON - President Park Chung Hee of South Korea said "boo" and the United States was satisfactorily startled. Early on in the discussions about President Carter's plan to withdraw 33,000 American ground troops from Park's principality, Park let it be known that he might be forced to develop nuclear weapons if his country were left "defenseless." Park's ploy worked. Although richer nations have found the development of nuclear power too expensive and difficult, Park's ploy worked. Carter and Defense Secretary Harold Brown sat down to talk about it, and now have assured Park that the bulk of U.S. ground troops stationed in Korea would remain there until the final year of the planned troop withdrawal, scheduled over a period of four to five years. Specifically, two brigades and the headquarters of the elite Second Infantry Division - about 9,000 men - will stay in Korea until the "last

Privileged parkers

No matter what else you do to him, don't try to make a congressman pay to park his car on Capitol Hill. That seems to be the lesson learned the other day by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo. Hart, forgetting that rank has its privileges, proposed that henceforth all House members, senators, staff assistants and newsmen who share 8,563 free parking spaces near the Capitol should pay a fee ranging from $10 to $50 a month. As expected, the Senate promptly tabled the motion by a vote of 66 to 28, which means it may be reconsidered in the 21st century or when hell freezes over, whichever comes first. Hart's idea made sense, of course. Why should congressmen park free? Why should congressional aides and newsmen park free? Why don't they take a taxi? Or pay a parking fee like other folks? Why, in fact, should anyone who works in a polluted, congested city like Washington be given an inducement to bring his car to work?

Carter transition team settles up

(First of two related columns)
WASHINGTON - (NEA) - Leading officials of the Carter administration have belatedly refunded to the federal treasury thousands of dollars worth of improper payments they received during the two-and-a-half month transition period immediately before Carter was sworn into office. Virtually all of those refunds followed disclosures in this column several months ago, of questionable payments and highly unconventional bookkeeping procedures in the administration of the $2 million government fund established to finance Carter's transition. In mid-May, the Democratic National Committee paid $1,000 to cover costs of a Christmas party for the Carter staff late last year. Included in that total were $631 for food, $400 worth of liquor, $175 for a band and $120 for waitresses and bartenders - all originally paid with public funds. Young refunds $614 In late May almost five months after the original charges were incurred, Andrew Young, ambassador to the United Nations, refunded $614. That amount, originally paid with federal funds, covered the cost of three guest houses at a posh resort on Sea Island, Ga., occupied by members of his family during a conference of Carter policy makers in late December. Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus repaid $342 in July to cover the cost of round-trip air travel between

Support is urged for housing court

Dear sir: Those of us who feel that the Town of East Hartford needs a Fair Rent Commission may be able to salvage something after all. It's obvious that the Town Council will not do anything about passing an ordinance setting up a badly needed Fair Rent Commission. However, all is not lost. The 1977 General Assembly simply passed a bill setting up a Housing Court in the Hartford area. Such a court would handle rent disputes, evictions, code violations and other housing issues in an area covering Hartford and 15 area towns. The bill cleared the Judiciary Committee early enough in the last legislative session but was among several bills that were trapped in the Appropriations Committee as the Offshore, American battlewagons and aircraft carriers will continue their ceaseless patrol. Well, it could be worse. I think Carter should have told Park to go 'way back and sit down, but at least the troop withdrawal is still on the agenda. At long last, American policy is headed toward the day when our armed forces will be relieved of the duty of wet-nursing South Korea full-time. $2 billion aid Early on in the discussions about the matter of military "aid" to South Korea, meaning money. To placate Park, Congress will be asked to approve military sales credits to South Korea totalling about $2 billion. And the U.S. has agreed "in principle" to sell a number of F-16 jet fighters to Seoul over a period of several years. Without getting into the question of whether this is good policy from a budget-keeping viewpoint, there remains the fact that Congress is not today in a mood to go along with the $2 billion package of goodies. A number of present and former members of Congress are under investigation for allegedly accepting bribes from assorted South Korean hucksters. Voting for more aid for South Korea is as ticklish as a ticklish horse. Deal could fall through Yet Secretary Brown has signed a communicate which suggests the deal could be called off if American dough is not put on the line. A sentence in the communicate says that measures to build up South Korean defense forces will be implemented "in advance of or in parallel with the (troop) withdrawals." "No dough, no pullout! Nobody can say that," that's what Brown, and Carter, seem to be telling Congress.

The recommendations of this committee have made, through its staff report, have the potential - without justification - of destroying the commercial egg industry as we know it today, said Jack Dubose, an egg producer from Gonzales, Texas and principal spokesman for the industry. Dubose, who asked the committee to withdraw its report from circulation "until such time that science is agreed on the subject matter," also asked: "At what point do government recommendations supplant the job of the medical practitioner? From national diet recommendations, which until this time have been assumed to be best practiced on an individual basis, do we go to nationalized prescriptions for common illnesses...Where does it end? Breast milk high, too Dubose drew a parallel between eggs and another time-honored food containing a "significant amount" of cholesterol: human breast milk. "Breast milk was fed to infants for eons before the alarming increase of coronary heart disease," said the egg producer. "Some scientists believe that the substitution of commercially lucrative 'formulas' for human breast milk has created the inability of children to feed to metabolize cholesterol later in life. Will this committee later advise mothers not to breast feed their infants?"

Thought

"A still more excellent way" The nature of Love, God's Love, is beyond our full understanding. God loves because it's his nature to love. It is his supreme gift. To take it out of the realm of speculation, and to make it more readily comprehensible, God embodied his Love in the form of Jesus Christ. So the Apostle Paul attempts to describe his perception of what God's Love is like: "Love is patient and kind, not jealous, not boastful, not arrogant, not rude; Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at

Senators protesting late night work

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) - There's drumming in the ranks about the late night hours that Democratic Leader Robert Byrd likes to keep. Not that Byrd is a swinger. In fact, the West Virginia preppy much shuns the social circuit and spends his happiest hours at home or in the Senate. But Byrd is also a hard-driving leader, determined to push ahead with bills that are ready for action. And to get the job done, Byrd is willing to call the Senate into session in the morning and keep it in session at night. Adjustments at 9 and 10 in the evening are not unusual. Include roll calls And those late-evening sessions are not - as they used to be - reserved for long speeches or lengthy debates when everyone not involved could take off and go home. They include roll call votes for which everyone has to - or at least should - hang around. Byrd's predecessor, Mike Mansfield, did not like late night sessions. He feared the strain of the long hours on the more aged senators. But the letter of complaint, signed by 57 others, was not initiated by senior statesmen but by two of the Senate's younger members, 40-year-old John Danforth of Missouri and 47-year-old Lawton Chiles of Florida. Lives disrupted In their letter, they said "the frequency of votes held at late hours has made it most difficult to plan reasonable personal and family lives." Danforth and Chiles suggested that Byrd designate three days a week on which there will be no roll call votes after 6 p.m. "It would appear to us that the Senate could conduct at least as much business if the relatively few hours a week spent in actual voting could be limited to predictable times," the letter said. Asked about the letter, Byrd was noticeably reticent to talk about the matter, saying he had talked with the two senators and had also presented the complaint to a meeting of all Democrats. First responsibility "The Senate will transact its business," Byrd said in response to a question. "That's our first responsibility. What Byrd did not mention is that late night sessions are a powerful weapon in trying to finish action on a bill. During daylight hours when the lure of a home-cooked dinner is not yet at work, senators have a tendency to dawdle. They have a penchant to be windy in presenting amendments, are not eager to agree to time limitations, and are inclined to bring up every proposal they have in mind. After sunset, the situation can change dramatically. Those same dawdling day-timers become superb time-cutters at night. Amendment planned They will offer an amendment with the briefest and sketchiest explanation; they will accept very limited time agreements; they will withdraw proposals that have no chance of approval; they will forego roll call votes.

HEALTH

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would appreciate it if you would send me a write-up on pulse rate. A friend of mine and a relative said their doctor told them they both had a slow pulse rate - 40 beats.

Can anything be done with a slow rate or is nothing really necessary? Are there any symptoms with slow rates?

DEAR READER - It depends entirely on what causes it. A slow heart rate is often a sign of a healthy heart. A vigorous well-trained athlete may have a resting heart rate below 40 per minute. In fact most well-conditioned men have rates below 60 beats per minute at rest. Since there are so few individuals who are really in a state of optimal fitness and who do not smoke or drink coffee we have become accustomed to thinking of higher heart rates - which are the norm for our not-so-fit society.

Roger Bannister had a resting heart rate in the 70s when he began training for the four minute mile. When he was properly conditioned and ready to break the world's record his resting heart rate was in the 30s. That gave him the reserve he needed to make that enormous physical effort.

Some medicines slow heart rates too - as a side effect. And then there are people who have heart block who have very slow heart rates. Those with this medical problem who have rates that fall too low will have inadequate blood flow to the brain. This can lead to mental confusion or loss of consciousness or even convulsions. This can be dangerous. These individuals require a pacemaker to prevent the heart from beating too slowly.

There you have it, on one hand our healthiest people may have a slow heart rate as a sign of health and at the other extreme it can be a sign of heart disease. A rate of 60 by itself, though, is not likely to be of clinical significance. To give you more information on heart rates I am sending you The Health Letter number 94, Your Heart Rate, What It Means. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78222.

Toothpick holder collectors convene in Michigan Aug. 11

By MELANIE DEEDS DETROIT (UPI) - Before taking her vacation a year ago, Rita Stewart told her coworkers she would spend part of her holiday at a toothpick holder collectors convention.

1973, boasts about 160 members nationwide, most with large collections.

1870 and 1900, when they were "quite popular."

Now, he said, revised table manners have helped make the polite use of toothpicks - and thus holders - obsolete.

In the late 19th century, men often times had gold toothpicks and it was more socially acceptable to pick your teeth then," Wilson said.

Scotland occupies the northern 37 percent of the island of Great Britain plus the outlying Hebrides, Orkney and Shetland island chains.

Three quarters of the population of more than five million is in one-tenth of the land area, the industrial lowlands just north of the English border. Scotland was a separate kingdom from 1088 until 1707 when it united with England as the United Kingdom.

Ground beef care

During the summer season of the year, ground beef, served as hamburger, with or without the customary bun or roll, is one of the most popular items on the lunch or picnic menu.

Here is some sound advice on shopping for the meat, storing, thawing and cooking ground beef.

Plan to make ground beef your last purchase before leaving the store. Be sure the package you select hasn't been torn and that the meat feels cold. Avoid prolonged travel with a package in a hot automobile and at home refrigerator or freeze it immediately. Each of these measures will help preserve freshness and reduce the growth of bacteria.

When planning to cook meat that has been frozen, thaw it in the refrigerator if at all possible. If you must thaw it rapidly, put the meat in a watertight wrapper and submerge in cold water or use a closed double bag at room temperature. Keeping it cold while thawing is essential to stall the growth of bacteria.

Because ground beef is often made from trimmings, it has been handled more than other cuts of meat. Also, grinding exposes more of the meat surface to bacteria in the air, on the meat cutter's hands and on the equip-

New points of interest in state

If you pride yourself on knowing your state, you may have a little catching up to do this summer. Several new points of interest have opened up in Connecticut since last year.

Motor Tour No. 3

There's a bright carousel now whirling in Hartford's Bushnell Park, a World War II submarine open for visitors in Groton, a new outdoor home for seals and sea lions at Mystic's MarineLife Aquarium, a recently opened Center for Contemporary Arts in Brooklyn, and a new Jai Alai fronton in Milford.

How's that for variety?

The Carousel, a real old-timer built in New York's Coney Island section in 1914, has been painstakingly restored, its high-stepping horses and ornate chariots done in bold, cheerful colors. The Wurlitzer organ, a period piece itself, floods the area with tunes from a by-gone era.

The carousel is housed in a new specially designed 16-sided pavilion with intricate stained glass panels depicting the seasons of the year, birds, flowers, and animals. Open every day except Monday from 11 to 5, the merry-go-round is a delight to young and old. And at 10 cents a ride, it is a vintage bargain.

Groton has for years called itself the "Submarine Capital of the World" because of the presence of the U.S. Navy Submarine base and the Electric Boat Co. shipyards where nuclear subs are manufactured.

What could be more natural than a submarine open to the public as a museum? As of this summer, Groton has the U.S.S. Croaker riding at anchor in the Thames River at 340 Thames St.

Built in 1944, the Croaker saw action in World War II, was later converted into a "sub killer," equipped with sonar, for service in the Mediterranean. Visitors can come on board daily from 9 to 4; Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from 9 to 6 p.m. There is an admission charge.

In the old seaport town of Mystic, just east of Groton, the Mystic MarineLife Aquarium has opened a large new addition where seals and sea lions swim and frolic in what appears to be their natural habitat. Exhibits duplicate with nearly complete accuracy places in the Pribilof Islands, the New England coast, and the Channel Islands of Southern California. Film loops and slide shows in a section of the new construction present the evolution, biology, and present status of seals and sea lions, including wildlife maintenance programs.

The largest exhibit in Mystic MarineLife Aquarium's new outdoor complex, Seal Island, duplicates the Channel Islands off the coast of California. Squirry, a young California sea lion, shares his diving ledge with one of the aquarium's trainers. The 120,492 gallon pool contains both adult and juvenile California sea lions and northern elephant seals.

Sampson, a Steller's sea lion, can be viewed in Seal Island, Mystic MarineLife Aquarium's new outdoor complex for seals and sea lions. Sampson shared the Pribilof Islands exhibit with Delilah. The pair are only six years old and still growing (Sampson weighs 1,400 pounds and eats 75 pounds of fish a day!)

UConn will offer solar heat course

In an effort to aid heating and air conditioning systems professionals cope with the changing times, the University of Connecticut Office of Conferences and Institutes will offer a practical "how-to" course in solar heating Aug. 7-12.

In growing numbers, Americans are equipping their homes and offices with solar heating systems as the nation comes to grip with the grim reality of rising energy costs.

This course is designed to provide design and installation capabilities to contractors, architects, developers, designers, engineers and others involved with heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems.

The emphasis will lie in the practical as opposed to the theoretical aspects of solar heating operation and installation, according to the sponsors. Also the domestic and commercial hot water and space heating systems will be reviewed.

Participants of "A Practical Approach to Solar Heating" will be provided an extensive resource manual, informal rap sessions with course instructors, a bus tour of working commercial and residential solar systems, and a visit to the UoC Solar Energy Evaluation Center.

The visit to the UoC Center will reveal a dynamic working system, which recently won certification as a National Testing Station from the National Bureau of Standards. Program director Gordon Frindiville is a consultant with the National Solar Corp., Spiral Tubing Corp., and the Innotech Corp. He also is associated with the University of New Haven's mechanical engineering department, and has taught solar energy related courses for the UoC extended division.

Energy agency created

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter today signed a bill creating the new Department of Energy and immediately named his energy adviser, James Schlesinger, to head it.

In a major move to battle the nation's growing energy problems, the department brings together some 50 government agencies to form the first new cabinet department since the Department of Transportation 11 years ago.

Carter predicted in the Rose Garden signing ceremony that by the time Congress adjourns in October, it will enact "an energy policy to make our nation proud."

The President also signed a bill strengthening the Small Business Administration's ability in dealing with victims of catastrophes, such as floods and tornadoes. SBA will be empowered to give low-interest loans for persons whose homes and businesses have been destroyed and to provide more direct assistance.

The impending crisis of energy shortages has brought an unprecedented quick action by Congress in establishing a new Department of Energy," Carter said in the 12-minute ceremony attended by a score of members of Congress.

He said the new department would "look to the future at least seek to alleviate the consequences of inevitable shortages in oil and gas and other energy supplies."

Schlesinger, Carter said is "the natural leader for this undertaking... because of his preeminent knowledge, stature, sound judgment and political awareness of the costs of energy to the American people."

Schlesinger, 48, was a Ph.D. in economics, was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, director of central intelligence and defense secretary in the Nixon administration.

State budget surplus pleasing, but it doesn't end tax need

Gov. Grasso says

HARTFORD (UPI)— Gov. Ella T. Grasso says she's thrilled by a larger than expected budget surplus coming from an improved economy, but the public better not think that eliminates the need for a tax increase.

Mrs. Grasso said Wednesday the federal funds to help residents pay fuel costs from last winter. The money must be allocated by Aug. 31 or it will be transferred to another program, so the state has accelerated the fuel-cost aid program.

The Town of Manchester has established three days when town residents can apply for the aid, Diane Wicks, Outreach worker for the elderly, said. The application periods have been scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 8; Friday, Aug. 12; and Monday, Aug. 15. All three sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the directors office in the Municipal Building.

Anyone who meets the financial limits of the program is eligible to apply. The program requires that one person make $10 or less per month or that two persons make $40 or less per month. A person must also be responsible for payment of his or her fuel bills to qualify.

The state will provide assistance in two forms. It will pay up to $25 for overdue bills, or it will grant a rebate of up to $50 for families that have paid all their fuel bills, but had to sacrifice the purchase of essential items—food, clothes—to make the fuel payments.

Applications for the funding must be filed by Aug. 19, Ms. Wicks said. Anyone interested in the program should attend one of the three application sessions.

Questions about the program may be asked of Ms. Wicks or Mary DellaFera, social services director. Both can be reached at 649-5281.

Other numbers that can be called for more information are the Community Renewal Team of Greater Hartford, Inc., 278-9550, ext. 272, or the toll-free program number 1-800-842-9551.

Town to assist residents eligible for fuel subsidy

Groups seek ban on nukes
Organizations in cities across the country, including several residents of Manchester plan peaceful demonstrations Aug. 6 through Aug. 9, the anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The purpose of the demonstrations is to urge a ban on nuclear weapons, support alternatives in nuclear energy and encourage less government spending on the arms race so those funds may be used for more humane projects.

The events are being organized by the Mobilization for Survival, a campaign formed in April by representatives of about 50 religious, peace, labor, women's and other public interest organizations.

Band to compete in Scottish contest

HARTFORD (UPI)— The Manchester Pipe Band will leave next Wednesday for a 19-day trip to Scotland where it will compete in the World Championship Pipe Band Competition in Aberdeen.

This will be the first trip to Scotland for the band which has competed successfully in competitions in the United States and Canada, according to Charles Murdoch, pipe major.

Of the 20-member band, 18 pipers and drummers will be making the trip, accompanied by their families. They will visit the Edinburgh Festival Tattoo, a competition for military pipe bands which play a different type of music from the pipe band.

The band will also enter two other pipe band competitions while in Scotland. One will be at Perth on Aug. 20 and one at the Corval Games on Aug. 22. Some of the group will also visit the Edinburgh Festival Tattoo, a competition for military pipe bands which play a different type of music from the pipe band.

Murdoch said the band members and their families will have time between the weekend competitions to take sightseeing trips. Yeomans said he hopes to "have over to France" for a day.

The pipe band competitions are on several different days. The Manchester band is on the Grade 2 level, which is second from the highest. The band was Eastern U.S. Champions in Grade 2 last year. The band placed fourth last weekend in the North American Championships in Canada and has also won other prizes in area competitions.

Blackstone tries for a fifth term

By MAL BARLOW

East Hartford Reporter
Everything about the East Hartford Democratic Town Committee's meeting Wednesday night stood in stark contrast to the Tuesday night Republican process.

The GOP process began with the constables and moved on to the nominee for mayor, Anthony Donatelli.

The Democrats began right away naming Richard Blackstone its standard bearer for a fifth term to seek his fifth term.

The GOP process was quiet, almost somber.

The Democrats led by Town Chairman James Fitzgerald were noisy, joking and confident. Although there were no contests for any nomination, Fitzgerald called for a full meeting vote on every candidate. There were loud "ayes" and of course dead silence for "nays."

The GOP read its nominees off a list. The Democrats had a nominating speech for every candidate except the constables and selectmen.

The process took a long time, an hour and a half. Yet 70 or more Democrats present all seemed to relish the process.

The only somber moments came as they recalled loyal Democrats who have passed away. These included Mrs. Odessa Terry and William Dwyer. They also had a quiet moment for Mrs. Melina Fogarty who ran the Town Hall switchboard for many years.

Fitzgerald was in his best form of the night as he called all the candidates forward and around the podium. He cracked jokes constantly as he introduced people for a few remarks. This time the process was reversed with the mayor speaking last.

First thing Blackstone said was a denial of the GOP comments that the Democrats are tired.

"My enthusiasm grows," he said. "About his battles with federal bureaucrats over grants to the town, he said, 'We will not give up our rights and enter slavery for a couple of bucks.'"

This got loud cheers as did his reminder the town is slated to get $3.5 million in federal aid, according to reports from Washington this week.

"We are winners," he told the candidates and party faithful. "You deliver the vote. You deliver good government. Your greatness is tested regularly on proven truth."

Blackstone said he has heard some people in the party say the Democrats could coast into victory in neutral gear. He urged them not to let a high gear stay there until Nov. 8. He warned them of a primary challenge threatened by Democrat Joseph Paquette as well as the GOP.

"Let's walk and talk and promote and persuade and primary and win in November," he said.

About the primary, Fitzgerald said "I warn you, be ready for all kinds of innuendo and distortion from this man (Paquette)."

All six Democrats on the nine-member Town Council are running again. They are George Dagon, Henry Genga, Richard Torpy, Harry Eggenarian, William Dwyer Jr. and David Killian.

Dagon said that despite running for the seventh time, "The thrill is no less."

Fitzgerald said he party would want its Fiesta East outside this year. The rain fell on it once too often. This year it will be held Sept. 30 at the Manchester Armory.

The fall dinner will be Oct. 27 at the East Hartford High School. The Democrats ended the meeting again in stark contrast to the GOP. They cheered their candidates. Then they moved outside laughing and talking as they went down the street to a hall to hold a party.

When the GOP finished, they adjourned the meeting and went home.

The GOP in town has not won a local election since before Blackstone's first triumph in 1969. Yet he has won re-election 4-to-1 in favor of the Democrats.

Vance visits Syria in peace quest

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI)— Secretary of State Cyrus Vance met with Syrian President Hafez Assad today in talks that could make or break a proposal to hold a preliminary peace conference of Arab-Israeli foreign ministers in the United States next month.

Vance described the more than two hours of talks with Assad as "very good." The secretary of state, however, declined to disclose contents of the talks with the Syrian president, who holds the key to acceptance of the joint U.S. Egyptian proposal for a preliminary "working group" of Israeli and Arab foreign ministers to precede a resumed full-scale Geneva conference.

The proposal, which calls for Middle East foreign ministers to meet in the United States next month, has already been welcomed by Israel.

Vance told reporters the proposal for the working group was among the subjects discussed and added, "I will have something more to say on that before I leave."

He is slated to leave Damascus for the Jordanian capital of Amman early Friday.

Vance arrived in Damascus late Wednesday, the third stop of his 13-day Middle East tour aimed at mediating differences between Israel and the Arabs that has held up resumption of the Geneva peace conference.

Manchester man files suit against retailer

Jerome Baskin, a Manchester accountant, has filed a federal class action suit against C. Fox & Co. of Hartford accusing the retailer of charging its charge card customers too much interest.

Baskin says Fox and its parent organization, May Department Stores Co. of St. Louis, Mo., are violating federal and state truth-in-lending laws and state usury laws.

Fox's monthly bills state that the store charges an interest of 1 percent on a month-or-12 percent a year-on past purchases.

However, Baskin's suit claims that Fox illegally charges 1.5 percent on interest owed from previous months, a practice known as compounding interest. According to Baskin's attorney, Richard K. Labin of Hartford, this practice violates the truth-in-lending laws.

Compounding interest makes the actual interest rate of Fox customers "closer to 18 percent than the stated 12 percent annually, Fox is also violating those laws, Labin said.

Baskin said that other stores also violate the truth-in-lending laws, but he sued Fox "because they were the first one to get caught at it."

Fox would be "more productive" than suing other stores, he said. Baskin is seeking damages of twice the interest collected for every charge card customer—but not less than $100 a customer nor more than $1,000 a customer.

The small group of employees has been members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, Local 981. They had stopped working for the town before the final settlement of a contract with the union Public Works Department employees.

Back wages settlement reached

The Town of Manchester has agreed to pay about $1,300 in back wages to employees who stopped working for the town before the final settlement of a contract with the union Public Works Department employees.

The contract was retroactive to July 1976. The town had withheld the pay increase included in the contract to those employees who left the town after July 1976, and the union filed an unfair labor practice charge.

The town has agreed now to pay the increases to the former employees and the union had dropped its charge.

Penney Co. has a pending application for a permit. Penney has planned to locate a two-million square foot catalog distribution center in the proposed industrial park in Buckland.

Town and company officials had indicated that Penney would pursue the permit, even if the program was dropped. But, now, officials have said the company will not have its permit processed if the program has ended.

The state had required indirect source permits for major construction projects. The permits were issued only after studies of the expected traffic levels that would be generated by the development and the effect the traffic would have on air quality.

The permit requirement, however, was recently dropped, except for highway and airport construction.

The attorney general's office has been asked to rule on the effect that the elimination of the program would have on present application and previously issued permits.

"It should answer any and all questions concerning the permit program," Grady said of the attorney general's office. He said that he could not indicate what his recommendation will be to Ajello.

Stevens blames governor for parking lot booboo
HARTFORD (UPI)— A top Republican lawmaker who wants Gov. Ella T. Grasso's job says the governor "is to blame for the state's apparent lost opportunity to get for free land it is now considering renting."

Mrs. Grasso Wednesday was tight-lipped on the subject.

State officials are considering leasing land including an old mansion and a 300-car parking lot adjacent to the Greater Hartford Community College in Hartford.

Hartford developers Allan Schaefer and Harry Gampel offered the land to the state free of charge in December for a large federal tax shelter.

But the state failed to act and Schaefer now says he would not benefit from the tax shelter and will only let the state have the land on a lease basis for $5,000 a year.

"It is the responsibility of the governor to keep on top of matters such as this," said House Majority Leader Gerald P. Stevens, R-Milford, who is seeking the GOP gubernatorial nomination next year.

"She must be held accountable. It is on her shoulders the blame for the loss of the valuable land must lie."

"Others like this do not come along every day and the governor has certainly let an unusual opportunity to save money for the taxpayers slip right through her hands," he said.

"The state bureaucracy has cost us ownership of the land which eventually cost $35,000 a year to Connecticut taxpayers."

Manchester police report
Glen A. Griswold, 19, of 912 Tolland Tpk. was arrested Wednesday on charges of breach of peace, resisting arrest, and improper use of number plate after being stopped by police on a speeding charge on New State Rd. The additional charges stemmed from Griswold's uncooperative and threatening behavior toward the arresting officer, police said.

He was released on $500 non-surety bond for court Aug. 15.

David J. Embrose, 21, of East Hartford, was charged with breach of peace in connection with his uncooperative behavior after being stopped for a motor vehicle check on Main St. Wednesday afternoon. He was released on a $200 non-surety bond for court Aug. 22.

Colleen J. Woodcock, 17, of 76 Garden St. was charged with using a motor vehicle without the owner's permission and operating a motor vehicle without a license. She was released on a $100 bond for court Aug. 15.

STAFFORD (UPI)— An arbitrator has ruled five high school teachers should not receive a day's pay for a day they missed to attend a colleague's funeral.

In a six-page decision released Wednesday, state arbitrator John McConnell agreed with the Stafford Board of Education's interpretation of the teachers' contract. The board said the contract allows paid absences only for funerals of family members.

The Little Old Pleasant Valley Schoolhouse will be the site of meetings of the South Windsor Historical Society, now that the Planning and Zoning Commission has given the green light to the project. (Herald photo by Kuehn)

Society gets schoolhouse

South Windsor — The South Windsor Historical Society has been given approval for use of the Little Old Pleasant Valley Schoolhouse on Ellington Rd.

The society asked permission to use the historical building when it was vacated by its former tenants, the South Windsor Cooperative Nursery School.

Terry Kye, president of the historical society, told the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) that the society plans to use the schoolhouse for its regular meetings, for crafts and for workshops.

The group has been meeting at Wood Memorial Library on Main St. PZC members are concerned about parking problems, and gave the society the green light to use the building only if no parking is allowed on Ellington Rd.

Mrs. Kye told the PZC that owners of a pasture behind the schoolhouse have offered the field as a parking lot. The society plans to ask St. Francis of Assisi Church, located nearby, to use the church parking lot occasionally.

PZC member John Norman suggested the need for lighting in the pasture area if it will be used as a parking lot.

It was suggested that a decision be postponed because of the parking situation, but PZC member Robert Gilligan said parking would be a problem "no matter what group uses the building."

Park plans adjusted

Grant to Bolton cut

The federal public works grant expected by Bolton for development of Indian Notch Park has been cut from $151,000 to $133,000, selectmen learned this week.

The Economic Development Administration received the town's application but asked for more information, selectmen were told Tuesday night.

First Selectman Henry Ryba said the $18,000 cut would be taken from the labor, nonlabor and contingency categories.

Ryba said the town needs certification from the architect concerning the development of the park and a warranty deed showing the property belongs to the town.

The board authorized Ryba to make such adjustments in the grant applications in light of the reduction.

Ryba said the final information needed for the grant application was mailed late Wednesday.

Site for dump?

Ryba said he found what he thought was a good location for a solid waste disposal area. He contacted the Department of Environmental Protection, which sent a representative to walk the site with Ryba.

"Everything was going good until we got to the department's Water Compliance Unit, and then everything came to a screeching halt, Ryba said.

Ryba said the Water Compliance Unit is concerned because the site is near a brook and leaching from a dump could go into the brook.

Ryba said he will continue to research the matter.

Meet with police

The board will meet Aug. 17 at 4 p.m. at the Community Hall with Sgt. Nielowski of the State Police, Colchester barracks.

Sgt. Nielowski will present a program on preventive burglaries. He plans to present the program to a township soon.

There is a possibility the town can receive a grant for a new radar unit for Resident State Trooper Robert Peterson. Ryba is checking into the matter.

Signs look bad

The selectmen received a letter from Dr. Robert Butterfield complaining about service club signs hung on the "Welcome to Bolton" signs.

Club names show as you leave Bolton to enter Manchester but when you enter Bolton all you see is the backside of a metallic object," Dr. Butterfield said.

"I feel if we are purchasing a rustic sign, the townspop does not want it messed up with a lot of metallic objects," he said.

The selectmen will ask Manchester leaders that the signs be taken down, or at least put on a different pole.

In a second complaint Dr. Butterfield said it appears the town has no zoning rules relating to signs. He said signs advertising tag sales and other things are all over the place.

Dr. Butterfield asked that a zoning regulation for signs be written because it appears the town does not have one.

Other business

The selectmen heard a report from Morris Silverstein, who recommended that the Insurance Advisory Board be kept intact.

Selectmen Joseph Carey and Ernest Shepherd were instructed to review the situation and report to the full board on the character and contribution of the insurance board.

Selectmen learned the chemical treatment of Bolton Lake will cost $400 and not $888 as originally thought.

Selectman Aloysius Ahearne requested a bi-monthly report from Ryba as to what action he took on his own as pertains to the road crew.

The selectmen will request each respective town board to prepare its portion of the annual report. The report will be handled by the Board of Finance.

Carey will report to the board about the possibility of the town participating in the state retirement fund.

Bolton GOP at work

Involvement is goal

Bolton's Republican Town Committee, trying to become more involved with townpeople, has decided to start neighborhood district program, to place a representative at each Board of Selectmen's meeting and to publish a welcome folder.

The committee adopted a neighborhood district program in which each district will have a neighborhood leader. The town was divided into nine districts.

Each leader will be assigned specific jobs but the main purpose of the program is communications.

Robert Morra, Republican town chairman, said the program will allow the committee and members of the Republican party to be in closer touch with each other.

Anyone interested in being a neighborhood leader should call Morra, 646-4450, or Sonja Kirk, 649-7070. All interested persons will be interviewed at the next town committee meeting. It will be Aug. 18 at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.

The Republicans voted to send committee members on a rotating basis to selectmen's meetings. Morra said the purpose is to make known the party's interest and cooperation.

The committee voted to create a welcome folder, a directory of the town, its officials and employees. The folder will be distributed throughout town.

In other GOP business, Mrs. Kirk was elected vice-chairman of the town committee. She succeeds Joseph Gately, who resigned recently.

Mrs. Kirk, a member of the town committee for one and a half years, lives on Rolling Hills Trail.

Vernon Democratic slate kept secret until caucus

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The complete slate for the November election, to be presented at the meeting of the Vernon Democratic Town Committee tonight, is being kept a secret until meeting time at 7:30 at the Elks Carriage House, N. Park St.

Lester Baum, Democratic town chairman, said it was agreed earlier, by the nominating committee, that the slate wouldn't be revealed. In that way it is hoped more people will attend the meeting.

Incumbent Democrat Mayor Thomas Benoit is expected to be endorsed for a second term. He announced his candidacy several weeks ago.

November, elect a Democratic team which will serve Vernon in a responsive and responsible manner."

Former Mayor Frank McCoy, who served three terms, before losing to Benoit in a close vote two years ago, was endorsed at the Republican caucus Tuesday night to head his party's ticket.

Several incumbents on the Town Council and the Board of Education have announced they will seek nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Council members are George Fur-

bish, Marie Herbst, James Filkoff, Stephen Marcham and Joseph Merizano and the school board member is Robert Dubois who is serving out a vacancy on the board. Other school board members who are Democrats have not said whether they will seek re-election. Among them is Devra Baum, wife of the town chairman.

Thomas Dooley, who has been mayor pro tem under Benoit, and Councilmen Gerald Allen and Stanley Gill have declined re-nomination.

Area police report

East Hartford

Gordon Anderson III, 16, of 78 Tolland St., East Hartford, was arrested Wednesday at 10:27 p.m. at his home after a domestic disturbance. He is charged with disorderly conduct, second-degree reckless endangerment, possession of a dangerous weapon (baseball bat), threatening, and risk of injury.

Anderson was held overnight on a $200 surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 today.

Vernon

Lucien R. Gullbault, 37, of 45 Mt. Vernon Dr., Vernon, was arrested twice Wednesday on complaint of his wife, who lives on Russell Dr. in Vernon.

Police said both times Gullbault was charged with first-degree criminal trespassing. On the first charge he was released on a $500 bond and on the second, a $1,000 bond. He is to appear in Common Pleas Court 19, Vernon, Aug. 24.

Kenilworth Hills, Vernon, was charged Wednesday with unsafe backing. He was involved in a two-car accident on Tunnel Rd. The driver of the other car was Richard George of Ellington. Court date is Aug. 19.

Vernon prepares for road paving

In preparation for permanent paving to be done in September, the Vernon Public Works Department has been doing preliminary work on several streets in both the Rockville and Vernon areas.

This work is being done with town equipment to correct improper cross-sections and trench settlements, Ronald Hine, public works director, said.

Some of the roads to be repaved are Davis Ave. Ext., River St., Thomas St., Olson Dr. (and cul-de-sac), Jane Lane, Ridgewood Dr., Cathy Dr., Tower Rd. and Peterson Rd., McLean St., Stone St. and Loveland Hill have been completed.

Hine said town crews will start oiling several roads Aug. 15. The first area to be oiled will be Bolton Lakes area roads, starting with Cubes Dr. The oiling program will be completed in about one week, Hine said.

Concerning the sidewalk improvement program, Hine said an extensive program has been under way to patch hazardous sections in all concrete sidewalks.

He said there are several areas where holes have appeared in the concrete surface as a result of deterioration or use of chemicals.

Hine said the patching of the concrete walks with bituminous concrete is not a permanent solution. He said patching is necessary to prevent serious injuries until the walks can be completely replaced.

The complete replacement will only be in areas where concrete walks already exist. Hine said the town is progressing with concrete replacement of concrete walks using funds now available. To do all the concrete walks at one time is impossible.

Hine asks residents not to dispose of animal feces with their trash because it is a health hazard to themselves and refuse collection crews, especially during summer months. He said this material should be buried.

Rally for bazaar

Workers for the 19th annual St. Joseph Church Bazaar will rally tonight at 7:30 in the church auditorium. Standing committees will finish reports and final instructions will be given.

Carey will report to the board about the possibility of the town participating in the state retirement fund.

The bazaar is the church's biggest social event of the year. It is scheduled the week of Aug. 15 to 20.

Mazzilli Mets' hero with outside help

NEW YORK (UPI) — The scoreboard will show that Lee Mazzilli knocked in the winning run in the 14th inning Thursday night to give the New York Mets a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

What the scoreboard will not show are the contributions of groundskeeper Pete Flynn and umpire Andy Olsen.

It was Mazzilli's pinch-hit single that delivered Joel Youngblood from third base with the winning run as the Mets captured their second extra-inning tussle from the Dodgers in three days Monday. New York came from behind three times to win 8-7 in 12 innings.

Flynn, the head groundskeeper at Shea Stadium, helped make it possible for the game to get as far as it did. Rain delayed the start 45 minutes. Then with the Dodgers ahead 3-1 in the seventh by virtue of Dave Lopes' two-run homer, rain halted action again for an hour and five minutes. The intervening six minutes had been played in a steady downpour.

"I never thought they would resume after that stop," said Mets Manager Joe Torre.

But Flynn's crew dumped 2,100 pounds of Speed-Dry, a chemical compound, on the field after the second delay.

"We used 42 bags of the stuff and they weigh 50 pounds apiece, so you figure it out," Flynn said.

Olsen, the second base umpire, called a crucial ball on loser Mike Garman, 4-3, after Joel Youngblood led off the 14th with his third successive single. Garman's balk moved him to second and Doug Flynn, no relation to Pete, sacrificed him to third.

In winning, the Mets captured their fifth extra-inning game in six tries this season at Shea Stadium and raised their record under Torre to 30-29.

Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda was pleased with the weather, the umpires or the final score.

"The umpires cost us the game," he said. "The rain delay forced me to take out (Doug) Rau when he was pitching a three-hitter and then things started to happen."

Mazzilli then rapped a one-strike grounder past the outstretched glove of Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey. Mazzilli had been sidelined after a collision at the plate in the 11th inning of Monday's thriller. He batted with his pinky and ring finger taped together on his left hand as a result of the injury.

The Mets had tied in the game in the ninth inning with two runs which resulted largely from the generosity of the Dodger pitching. Charlie Hough walked the first two men he faced and after singles by Youngblood and Vail left the bases loaded and one run in, Lance Rautzahn walked Flynn to force home the run which deadlocked the game.

In winning, the Mets captured their fifth extra-inning game in six tries this season at Shea Stadium and raised their record under Torre to 30-29.

Carlton better pitcher than when he won 27

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Carlton isn't likely to match his first season 27-10 won-loss record when he struck out 310 batters and had a 1.98 earned run average to win the 1972 National League's Cy Young Award, but he feels he's a better pitcher this year.

"The difference is the number of pitches I can throw with control," says Carlton, who raised his current mark to 15-6 Wednesday night in the Phillies' 8-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

Carlton, who allowed six hits and walked three, but struck out 12 in scoring his 12th straight win at home after an opening-day loss, also had three hits but shrugged them off as "just gravy."

The victory moved the Phillies to within one game of the first-place

Chicago Cubs in the National League's Eastern Division.

The Cincinnati Reds defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, in 10 innings, the Houston Astros beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-0, the New York Mets scored a 4-3, 14-inning triumph over the year for the Reds.

Jose Cruz doubled in two runs and Joe Niekro pitched a nine-inning shutout for the Astros. Bruce Kison suffered his sixth loss against six victories.

Cards' 5, Braves 1

Eric Rasmussen pitched a four-hitter and Jerry Mumphrey had four hits and scored three runs for the Cardinals. It was the ninth win of the year for Rasmussen while Dick Ratten was the loser. Gary Matthews homered for the Braves.

Jackie Brown and Dan Stanhouse combined in a seven-hitter and Ellis Valentine hit his 18th homer for the Expos, who deal San Francisco's Jim Barr his eighth defeat. Valentine's home run came in third inning and gave the Expos a 4-1 lead which Brown protected until the Giants scored their second run in the ninth.

Connors responds after ragged start

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (UPI) — It took Jimmy Connors a while to get his act together.

But when he did, Connors played every bit like the 27-year-old defending champion he is, storming past West German teen-ager Werner Ziegenbalg, 7-6, 6-0 Wednesday in the second round of the $125,000 Volvo International Tennis Tournament.

Seventh-seeded Stan Smith, who doesn't like to play on clay, was upset by unseeded Terry Moor of Monroe, La., 7-6, 6-3.

Ageless, eighth-seeded Ken Rosewall, 42, of Australia, meanwhile, breezed by 35-year-old Tom Gullickson, 6-0, 6-1.

Manuel Orantes of Spain and Eddie Dibbs of Miami, who arrived late for the tournament, were forced to play two matches apiece to catch up with the field.

Orantes, who played in last week's Davis Cup matches against Italy, ousted John Bartlett of Australia, 6-1, 6-1, and Jean-Claude Vanille of France, 7-6, 6-4.

Dibbs, who lost Monday night's final of the Louisville Classic to Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, also scored straight set victories over Victor Amaya of the U.S. and Emilio Montana of Mexico.

Merchants score win

Scoring in every inning, starting with five runs in their first at-bats, the Manchester Merchants turned back the challenge of Crispino's in a Colt Inter-Town playoff baseball game last night at Moriarty Field, 12-2.

Jeff Berman pitched the first four innings for the regular season champions and held the Supremes at bay. Steve Pyka, in relief, was reached for two runs in the sixth inning before darkness halted play.

Berman scattered two hits and Pyka was reached for three. Swinging big bats for the East Hartford men softball Hall of Famers

Membership in the Connecticut Softball Hall of Fame has risen to 56 with the addition of seven new members who will be inducted officially at the Connecticut Amateur Softball Association's annual dinner on Sunday, Nov. 27, at the Holiday Inn, Bridgeport.

The 1977 selections include two outstanding promoters, one umpire and four former players.

Those elected this year, according to Silvester (Sal) Choko of Stratford, chairman of the Connecticut ASA's Hall of Fame committee, are:

Players: Ernie Argazzi, Plainville; Stan Brazauskas, East Hartford; Joe Flaska, Fairfield; Carol LaRose, Bridgeport.

John DiLaurio, New Haven, sponsor of the Columbus Auto Body Bears; Ray McKenna, East Hartford, manager for 30 years of the Dovesettes; and umpire Frank Berlinger of Ansonia.

During his 30-year term as manager of the Dovesettes, McKenna's team won 1,403 games and lost 334. Started in 1947, the team disbanded in 1976 with a 207 record due to a lack of suitable fast pitch competition. East Hartford played 100 games in 1954, winning 75 and losing 25.

A pitcher, Brazauskas compiled a lifetime won-lost showing of 513-111. He played 11 years with the Yankees and Barry, the scoring star in the latter team's first four years with the Lackland Air Force Base team. He finished his career with a lifetime batting average of .273.

This year's dinner in Bridgeport will be the seventh in the series started in 1971 to honor the all-time greatest of the game in the state on their election to the Connecticut Softball Hall of Fame. State Commissioner Joseph Barber will preside over the ceremonies as toastmaster.

One hand feeds the other and when the Bob Hope Classic is played, Davis is on hand and the same for the Jackie Gleason Tournament. The Country Club yesterday for the official start of the 26th annual Greater Hartford Open.

Although he weighs just over 100 pounds and gets lost in the crowd when beset by autograph seekers, Davis is the guy responsible mainly for making the GHO a complete success and getting national television exposure.

Although it has to take a back seat to the Pleasant Valley Open in Stratford, Mass., in luring big names, the GHO is still big league. Best testimony to that is the estimated 20,000 spectators that showed up yesterday to watch the Pro-Am which boasted fewer "name" figures from the entertainment field than ever before.

"Thank you for coming," was the greeting Davis made to spectators that rimmed the greens to get a glimpse of the accomplished astrophysicist.

When he missed a 15-foot birdie putt on the first he said he had an excuse - one eye, which brought a chuckle from the hundreds of many who had set up chairs and claimed vantage points long before the noon foursome tees off.

"The little guy made a number of friends by taking the time to pen his signature to an assortment of papers, books, scorecards and hats that were passed in front of him. He batted 1,000 in public relations.

Someone asked how much does it cost to get Hope and other names, such as in the past, Jackie Gleason, to come to the GHO.

Providence, R.I. (UPI) — A woman hit by a puck while watching a professional hockey game in the Rhode Island Supreme Court has ruled.

In an anomalous Tuesday ruling, the high court upheld a Superior Court dismissal of the claim of Sylvia Kennedy of Warwick and her husband for medical damages against the Providence Hockey Club.

The decision said Mrs. Kennedy voluntarily took a risk when she bought tickets for seats not shielded from the ice at the American Hockey League game.

The woman testified that at previous games she saw pucks hit the Plexiglas shield and fly into the crowd.

"The only reasonable inference suggesting itself to us is that she knew there was a risk that the puck would take flight and come to rest somewhere in the crowd," Justice Thomas Kelleher wrote.

Start of weekly 'Fun for Run' race at MCC campus

Despite wet weather and a water-logged course, 57 runners of all sizes and ages showed up last night to take part in the second of three SAM-MCC road races with Steve Gates again showing his heels to the pack.

The former schoolboy and college standout covered the 3.8 mile course in 20:30. He completed in the College Division.

Trailing Gates were Chris Walton, Eric Lecko, Phil Goss and Brian Longo in that order.

Don Rowe, former Fordham University runner, won the Open Division in 21:04 with Tony Hollister second, Bruce Lanbe, John Sullivan and Courtney Purdie rounded out the top five.

High School Division winner was John Clifford of East Catholic in 21:52. John Ladda, Mulcahy McCann, Dave Timbrell and Carl Kjelsson followed across the finish line.

Boys' Youth Division saw Mike Roy romp home first in 5:33 for the shorter run. Gary Gates as second in 5:38 with Kent Stringfellow, Ian Cassidy and John Fitzgerald trailing.

Over the one-mile distance in the Girls' Youth Division, Mara Walrath was timed in 6:49 with Leslie Gates 11 seconds slower. Sheryl Veal and Jennifer Ogden were third and fourth.

Women's Division, a 1.7 race, was captured by Janine Dobson in 9:48. Heather Conley, Pam Dzen and Susan Shekely followed.

The Jogger Division went to Tim Roy in 11:22 for 1.7 miles. Harry Veal and B.J. Gavett followed.

That may be an awesome threat to the rest of the American League, because Rice won 25 home runs and 72 runs batted in. He's scored 71 runs, led the league in total bases and slugging percentage and has a .325 batting average.

Rice, who hit his homers in the first and fifth innings with no one on base, simply says he's "more mature" as a hitter.

Rice has been named American League player of the month for July. The 24-year-old outfielder, who's played most of the year as the designated hitter, has hit safely in 19 of his last 20 games.

He says twelve more weeks of this would be right with him. He's hit his 21st homer with two men on in the second inning Wednesday night, and Scott Bell hit his 27th with one man on in the third.

The Sox were leading 7-4 when Mike Kekich, third of five Seattle pitchers, walked four men to force in a run and set the stage for Carbo's bases-emptying home run.

Mike Paxton won his fifth game against two losses for Boston. Gary Wheelock, 5-7, was the loser.

Carl Yastrzemski was expected to rejoin the team tonight in the first of a four-game series against the A's in Oakland. He had been limping on a swollen foot since last month.

Vida Blue (10-12) was to face Ferguson Jenkins (7-1) in tonight's game.

Strong man Jim Rice delivers for Red Sox

SEATTLE (UPI) — Darrell Johnson, the Seattle Mariners manager, forecast three years ago that Jim Rice would become the strong man of the American League.

Wednesday night in Seattle, Rice made Johnson good by hitting two home runs, his 23rd and 24th, and 72 runs batted in.

The Baltimore Orioles also won, but the New York Yankees lost and dropped 2 1/2 games behind the two clubs.

Boston had five home runs in all, including a grand slam by Bernie Carbo and run-offers by George Scott and Dutch Hobbs.

Seattle's 7-4 win was captured by Jim Wheelock, 5-7, who hit his homers in the first and fifth innings with no one on base, simply says he's "more mature" as a hitter.

Nell Clevenger of Old Stage Rd., Glastonbury, has been picking blueberries in season for 10 years at the Scaglia blueberry farm in her home town. Pickers are provided with cans so they have both hands free for picking. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

There are two blueberry farms, side by side, at the summit of Matson Hill in Glastonbury, operated by Joseph Scaglia and Henry Rose. On a clear day you can see Mt. Tom and Mt. Holyoke, north of Springfield. You look down on Hartford and across the city, to the Avon hills.

Both berry farms are operated on a "pick your own" system. Pickers come from many Connecticut towns and some from out of the state. They park their cars in designated areas, take their containers to a table where there is a scale to have them weighed and marked with the weight.

Each picker is shown to a row of blueberry bushes, asked to stick to his assigned location and asked to pick the bushes clean. Then he or she goes to work, putting berries in a one-pound or two-pound coffee can filled with a piece of heavy card so it can be hung around the neck. As the can is filled it is emptied into the container brought from home, perhaps a plastic pail or a metal kettle.

When the picker is ready to leave he returns his empty picking can and filled container, or more than one, to be weighed again. He pays 60 cents a pound for the berries.

When I visited the Scaglia farm on a week day with bright sun and a clear sky, there were 35 cars parked on the lot and to Mr. Scaglia, that meant probably 100 people were picking berries.

Some would leave and others would come to take their places. If the weather turned hot, there would be fewer pickers. If it rained, the lot would be closed and would-be pickers turned away.

Too many pickers

The lot may be closed, also, if it has been heavily picked and time is needed for more berries to ripen. This happened last week. I called the Scaglia farm last Saturday and a recorded voice said the lot was closed. I could have a message if I would wait for a "tone" I waited and Mrs. Scaglia, who heard me identify myself, came on the line.

She said they had shut down the pick-your-own operation and were announcing it would stay closed for a week. Talking to me, she said they would "play it by ear" and it would be a good idea to call the farm before going to Matson Hill. They would open when they could.

Her husband, asked by his wife to come in from the garden and talk with me, said the jam of pickers, coming without any advertising, had simply become more than they could handle. He asked me to say, in this piece, that there would be blueberries until October as late varieties ripened, and to ask people to be patient. Mr. Scaglia also urged that anyone who wanted to pick berries call ahead. This would be the best way to learn whether the lot was open.

The blueberry season is a long one. Early varieties, Weymouth and Early Blue, were ready July 5 and through bearing about July 20. In the last week of July, two mid-season varieties were ready for harvest, Berkeley and Pemberton. About now the late varieties, Coville and Atlantic, begin to ripen.

These are all high-bush cultivated berries. Mature bushes are higher than your head. Berries are borne in clusters on branches, high and low. You stand to pick most of them and kneel or hunker down to pick from the bottom branches.

New Jersey is source

The first cultivated berries came from New Jersey and many of the best varieties have originated there. The work began with selection of plants growing wild that had heavy crops or large berries. Then crosses were made. The work has been going on for many years now and new varieties are still being introduced.

One problem for the Scaglias and Roses this year has been inadequate rainfall. Berries do not grow as large or ripen as rapidly when the rainfall is deficient or when the weather is too cool.

The Scaglia farm has 10,000 bushes on 13 acres and in a good year would yield 10,000 pounds to the acre. This is not a good year and the yield will be less. The Rose farm has 20,000 bushes, somewhat younger than the bushes next door. Mr. Scaglia thinks the two farms are about equal in potential yield.

All the bushes are under netting, held up by poles and wire, to protect them from birds which otherwise would strip the bushes before the berries could be picked. What kind of birds?

"You name it," says Mr. Scaglia, "all kinds."

Blackstone tries for a fifth term

Bugs and bats are bother

East Hartford Reporter

The troubles of Mrs. Valerie Heinz seem to know no end.

She and the father of her three children divorced recently. She had only his weekly support payments to keep her going until she could get another waitress job.

She applied to the East Hartford Housing Authority for one of its 330 apartment units for poor or moderate income families. With no where else to stay, she said she would take anything and as soon as possible.

Five weeks ago, Nick Giamalis, executive director, told her there was a vacancy in a duplex on King Court in the South End. It needed much cleaning up and a fresh paint. She argued them to let her have it. You can't keep food in a house like that.

Giamalis said authority workmen cleaned out the two-story unit including the basement. They also had to call in an exterminator. Then they painted.

The paint was hardly dry when Mrs. Heinz moved in all her furniture, including beds, a sofa, rugs and more.

She said she was horrified to find there were still roaches. There were also fleas.

The family in the next apartment moved out in the night soon after she moved in. Giamalis said they owned "a bundle" and had left the unit in a filthy state. He thought the bugs bothering Mrs. Heinz were fresh ones coming from that apartment.

"I couldn't cook in the house," she said. "We had to eat out all the time. You can't keep food in a house like that."

"I was finding roaches everywhere. We didn't unpack. I found roach eggs in my rug."

Authority workmen entered the neighbor's apartment and cleaned up as best they could. When they cooked on the kitchen stove, a cooked chicken fell out. It was covered with maggots, Mrs. Heinz said.

The other apartment is now clean. Giamalis said the exterminator has been in twice. The workmen have also sprayed it three times.

Yet Mrs. Heinz still finds bugs.

"She told me Tuesday everything was now beginning to straighten out. She thanked us for all our efforts," said Giamalis.

Then came the bats. "Tuesday night took the cake," she said. "My daughter and I were attacked by a bat."

A nest of bats apparently live in the attic of the house and have been there for some time. How they got inside is a mystery.

Her ex-husband came to the house and caught a bat in the unit. Then he threatened to take custody of their three children if she could not find decent housing for them.

Wednesday Mrs. Heinz was frantic. She was nearly out of money, her children were staying with King Court neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Guedess and their four children, and she was broke.

Giamalis said today he has offered the only other vacancy in the 57 King Court near the roach-infested unit. Wednesday an authority painter left her work and began to get the unit ready. Giamalis said it would be set by Friday night.

"I think I've been through enough," said Mrs. Heinz. "I want to live like a human being."

Giamalis said the authority will work on the duplex again. No one will be allowed in until they are certain it is immaculate.

Despite the troubles of Mrs. Heinz, tenant turnover is lower than ever, Giamalis said. And the waiting list for the apartments grows.

New ways of screening tenants are being used. The authority checks not only their ability to pay the rent of $112 per month, but also whether they keep a clean apartment and are good neighbors.

Mayor Richard Blackstone said he had been made aware of Mrs. Heinz's troubles Wednesday morning. A tenant had visited him at his office. He said he told the tenant he cannot do anything in the authorities. He does not even appoint the authority directors. The Town Council appoints them.

But he did write a letter detailing the tenant's complaints and sent it to Ray Lavey, authority chairman.

"There are too darn many complaints as far as I'm concerned," he said. "It means the needs are not being serviced."

Democrats could coast into victory in neutral gear. He urged them all to get into high gear and stay there until Nov. 8. He warned them of a primary challenge threatened by Democrat Joseph Paquette as well as the GOP.

"Let's walk and talk and promote and persuade and primary and win in November," he said.

About the primary, Fitzgerald said, "I warn you, be ready for any kind of innuendo and distortion from this man (Paquette)."

All six Democrats on the nine-member Town Council are running again. They are George Dagon, Henry Genga, Richard Torrey, Harry Eganarian, William Daley Jr. and David Killian.

Dagon said that despite running for the seventh time, "The thrill is no less."

The Democrats began right away naming Richard Blackstone its standard bearer for a fifth time to seek his fifth term.

The GOP process was quiet, almost somber.

The Democrats led by Town Chairman James Fitzgerald were noisy, joking and confident. Although there were no contests for any nomination, Fitzgerald called for a full meeting vote on every candidate. There were the loud "eyes" and of course dead silence for the reasons given by William Dwyer before he died.

"We do it," he said quoting Dwyer, "because we enjoy it. And we do it for the sense of accomplishment it gives us."

The process took a long time, an hour and a half. Yet the 70 or more Democrats present all seemed to relish the process.

The only snafu moments came as they recalled loyal Democrats who have passed away. These included Mrs. Odessa Terry and William Flannery seeking the unexpired term of two years on the board.

Constable candidates are Fred J. Cyr, Steven Hudak, Joseph Curran and Thomas Kelley.

Selectmen candidates are Roland Bernier and Edward W. Fitzgerald (no relations to James).

Fitzgerald said the party would not hold its Fiesta East outside this year. The rain fell on it once too often. This year it will be held Sept. 30 at the Manchester Armory.

The fall dinner will be Oct. 27 at the East Hartford High School.

The Democrats ended the meeting again in stark contrast to the GOP. They cheered their candidates. Then they moved outside laughing and talking as they went down the street to a hall to hold a party.

When the GOP finished, they adjourned the meeting and went home.

The GOP in town has not won a local election since before Blackstone's first triumph in 1969. Party registration runs 4-to-1 in favor of the Democrats.

Mrs. Valerie Heinz tells her children, Frances, left, and Lisa, they must play outside a few days longer. The roaches are still in their apartment. (Herald photo by Barlow)

The Little Old Pleasant Valley Schoolhouse will be the site of meetings of the South Windsor Historical Society, now that the Planning and Zoning Commission has given the green light to the project. (Herald photo by Kuehnel)

Society gets schoolhouse

South Windsor
The South Windsor Historical Society has been given approval for use of the Little Old Pleasant Valley Schoolhouse on Ellington Rd.
The society asked permission to use the historical building when it was vacated by its former tenants, the South Windsor Cooperative Nursery School.
Terry Kye, president of the historical society, told the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) that the society plans to use the schoolhouse for its regular meetings, for crafts and for workshops.
The group has been meeting at Wood Memorial Library on Main St. PZC members are concerned about parking problems, and gave the society the green light to use the building only if no parking is allowed on Ellington Rd.
Mrs. Kye told the PZC that owners of a pasture behind the schoolhouse have offered the field as a parking lot. The society plans to ask St. Francis of Assisi Church, located nearby, to use the church parking lot occasionally.
PZC member John Norman suggested the need for lighting in a parking area if it will be used as a pasture lot.
It was suggested that a decision be postponed because of the parking situation, but PZC member Robert Gilligan said parking would be a problem "no matter what group uses the building."

The 800-square foot schoolhouse was the original Pleasant Valley School.
The deadline for registration in the South Windsor Recreation Department soccer program is Friday at the Town Hall.
The program is open to boys and girls aged 9 to 14. There will be instruction in all phases of the game as well as in house league play.
The registration fee is $5 per child. All 9-year-olds must present birth certificates when registering.
Ken Collins, physical education instructor in the South Windsor schools, will head the program. Volunteer help is needed. Participation will be for two nights a week.

Park plans adjusted

Grant to Bolton cut

The federal public works grant expected by Bolton for development of Indian Notch Park has been cut from $151,000 to $133,000, selectmen learned this week.
The Economic Development Administration received the town's application but asked for more information, selectmen were told Tuesday night.
First Selectman Henry Ryba said the $18,000 cut would be taken from the labor, nonlabor and contingency categories.
Ryba said the town needs certification from the architect concerning the development of the park and a warranty deed showing the property belongs to the town.
The board authorized Ryba to make such adjustments in the grant applications in light of the reduction.
Ryba said the final information needed for the grant application was mailed late Wednesday.
Site for dump?
Ryba said he found what he thought was a good location for a solid waste disposal area. He contacted the Department of Environmental Protection, which sent a representative to walk the site with Ryba.
"Everything was going good until we got to the department's Water Compliance Unit, and then they brought me to a screeching halt, Ryba said.

Bolton GOP at work

Involvement is goal

Bolton's Republican Town Committee, trying to become more involved with townpeople, has decided to start a neighborhood district program, to place a representative at each Board of Selectmen's meeting and to publish a welcome folder.
The committee adopted a neighborhood district program in which each district will have a neighborhood leader. The town was divided into nine districts.
Each leader will be assigned specific jobs but the main purpose of the program is communications.
Robert Morra, Republican town chairman, said the program will allow the committee and members of the Republican party to be in closer touch with each other.
Anyone interested in being a neighborhood leader should call Morra, 646-4450, or Sonja Kirk, 648-7670. All interested persons will be interviewed at a neighborhood committee meeting, it will be held Aug. 18 at 8 p.m. at the Community Hall.
The Republicans voted to send committee members on a rotating basis to selectmen's meetings. Morra said the purpose is to make known the party's interest and cooperation.
The committee voted to complete a welcome folder, a directory of the town, its officials and employees. The folder will be distributed throughout town.
In other GOP business, Mrs. Kirk was elected vice-chairman of the town committee. She succeeds Joseph Gately, who resigned recently.
Mrs. Kirk, a member of the town committee for one and a half years, lives on Rolling Hills Trail.

Vernon Democratic slate kept secret until caucus

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter
The complete slate for the November election, to be presented at the meeting of the Vernon Democratic Town Committee tonight, is being kept a secret until meeting time at 7:30 at the Elks Carriage House, N. Park St.
Lester Baum, Democratic town chairman, said it was agreed earlier, by the nominating committee, that the slate would not be revealed. In that way it is hoped more people will attend the meeting.
Incumbent Democrat Mayor Thomas Benoit is expected to be endorsed for a second term. He announced his candidacy several weeks ago.
In a letter to party members, Benoit asked for support and said, "Over the past two years, under a Democratic administration, our community has moved ahead in the areas of public safety, housing, education and recreation."
He added, "Long range planning for land use, waste disposal and conservation has been advanced. We have been able to accomplish a great deal in an atmosphere of open government and participation by our citizens and have done so with full recognition of the need for economic and responsible fiscal management."
Benoit expressed optimism about what can be accomplished over the next two years and said with the support and assistance of his party members he "believe that we can, in November, elect a Democratic team which will serve Vernon in a responsive and responsible manner."

Former Mayor Frank McCoy, who served three terms, before losing to Benoit in a close vote two years ago, was endorsed at the Republican caucus Tuesday night to head his party's ticket.
Several incumbents on the Town Council and the Board of Education have announced they will seek re-nomination on the Democratic ticket.
Council members are George Fur-

Anthony Norbut, 50, of 52 Charter Rd., Vernon, was charged Wednesday with failure to grant the right of way at an intersection. He was involved in a two-car accident on Tunnel Rd. The driver of the other car was Richard Green of Ellington. Court date is Aug. 19.

Vernon prepares for road paving

In preparation for permanent paving to be done in September, the Vernon Public Works Department has been doing preliminary work on several streets in both the Rockville and Vernon areas.
This work is being done with town equipment to correct improper cross-sections and trench settlements, Ronald Hine, public works director, said.
Some of the roads to be repaired are Davis Ave., Ext., River St., Thomas St., Olson Dr., (and cul-de-sac), Janet Lane, Ridgewood Dr., Cathy Dr., Tower Rd., and Peterborough Rd., McLean St., Stone St., and Loveland Hill have been completed.
Hine said town crews will start oiling several roads Aug. 15. The first area to be oiled will be Bolton Lake area roads, starting with Cables Dr. The oiling program will be completed in about one week, Hine said.
Concerning the sidewalk improvement program, Hine said an extensive program has been under way to patch hazardous sections in all concrete sidewalks.

Hine said there are several areas where holes have appeared in the concrete surface as a result of deterioration or use of chemicals.
Hine said the patching of the concrete walks with bituminous concrete is not a permanent solution. He said patching is necessary to prevent serious injuries until the walks can be completely replaced.
The complete replacement will only be in areas where concrete walks already exist. Hine said the town is progressing with concrete replacement of concrete walks using funds now available. To do all the concrete walks at one time is impossible.

Hine asks residents not to dispose of animal feces with their trash because it is a health hazard to themselves and refuse collection crews, especially during summer months. He said this material should be buried.
Rally for bazaar
Workers for the 19th annual St. Joseph Church Bazaar will rally tonight at 7:30 in the church auditorium. Standing committees will finish reports and final instructions will be given.
The bazaar is the church's biggest social event of the year. It is scheduled the week of Aug. 15 to 20.

Dr. Butterfield asked that a zoning regulation for signs be written because it appears the town does not have one.
Other business
The selectmen heard a report from Morris Silverstein, who recommended that the Insurance Advisory Board to keep intact.
Selectmen Joseph Carey and Ernest Shephard were instructed to review the situation and report to the full board on the character and contribution of the insurance board.
Selectmen learned the chemical treatment of Bolton Lake will cost $400 and not $888 as originally thought.
Selectman Aloysius Ahern requested a bi-monthly report from Ryba as to what action he took on his own as pertains to the road crew.
The selectmen will request each respective town board to prepare its portion of the annual report. The report will be handled by the Board of Finance.
Carey will report to the board about the possibility of the town participating in the state retirement fund.

Mazzilli Mets' hero with outside help

NEW YORK (UPI) — The scorecard will show that Lee Mazzilli knocked in the winning run in the 14th inning Thursday night to give the New York Mets a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.
What the scorecard will not show are the contributions of groundskeeper Pete Flynn and umpire Andy Olsen.
"I used 42 bags of the stuff and they weigh 50 pounds apiece, so you figure it out," Flynn said.
Olsen, the second base umpire, called a crucial ball on loser Mike Yount, who had been playing in a steady lineup.
"I never thought they would resume after that stop," said Mets Manager Joe Torre.
But Flynn's crew dumped 2,100 pounds of Speed-Dry, a chemical compound, on the field after the second delay.

Carlton better pitcher than when he won 27

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Carlton isn't likely to match his first season 27-10 win-loss record when he struck out 310 batters and had a 1.98 earned run average to win the 1972 National League's Cy Young Award, but he feels he's a better pitcher this year.
The difference is the number of pitches it can throw with control, says Carlton, who raised his current mark to 15-6 Wednesday night in the Phillies' 8-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres.
Carlton, who allowed six hits and walked three, but struck out 12 in scoring his 12th straight win at home after an opening-day loss, also had three hits but struggled them off as "just gravy."
The victory moved the Phillies to within one game of the first-place

Connors responds after ragged start

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (UPI) — It took Jimmy Connors a while to get his act together.
But when he did, Connors played every bit like the defending champion he is, storming past West German teen-ager Werner Zirnigbi, 7-6, 6-0, Wednesday in the second round of the $125,000 Volvo International Tennis Tournament.
Seventh-seeded Stan Smith, who doesn't like to play on clay, was upset by unseeded Terry Moor of Monroe, La., 7-6, 6-3.
Agielst, eighth-seeded Ken Rosewall, 42, of Australia, meanwhile, breezed by 25-year-old Tom Guliksson, 6-0, 6-1.
Manuel Orantes of Spain and Eddie Dibbs of Miami, who arrived late for the tournament, were forced to catch up with the field.
Orantes, who played in last week's Davis Cup matches against Italy, ousted John Bartlett of Australia, 6-1, 6-1, and Jean Caujolle of France, 7-6, 6-4.
Dibbs, who lost Monday night's final of the Louisville Classic to Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, also scored straight set victories over Victor Amaya of the U.S. and Emilio Montano of Mexico.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My best friend's mother died recently, and I attended her wake. There were many people there. Most of them were telling jokes, drinking and laughing as if it were at a wedding or some kind of celebration.

DEAR JOHN: It's more than mere coincidence that the two words most frequently interchanged by accident (?) are "wedding" and "funeral."

DEAR ABBY: I would like to voice a complaint against teenagers in general: A teenager had a transistor radio on a public bus yesterday, and he just about blasted the whole busload of passengers off the bus with rock and roll music.

DEAR CLEVELAND: For people who are miserably cheap, it comes naturally. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.
