GOP okays candidates

By GREG PEARSON

Referring to the party's candidates for Board of Directors, Mrs. Ferguson said, "We have something the Democrats don't have. We have three veterans — myself, Carl Zinsner and Bill Diana."

Zinsner, a present member of the board, and Diana, who served from 1969-72, gave brief speeches, as did the newcomers — David Call and Richard Weinstein, who are both attorneys, and E. Michael Walsh, who operates four McDonald's restaurants, including both in Manchester.

Zinsner said that it is true that the Democratic party, during its six-year reign, has increased taxes at a slower rate than the Republicans did during the previous six years. But, the Democrats were assisted by federal revenue sharing monies, which came from a "Republican-backed bill," Zinsner said.

"The Democrats had $4 million in revenue-sharing that the Republicans didn't have," he said. "The Democrats took charge, town spending has increased from $17 million to $25 million, he said. Weinstein said that his name may not be well-known around town. "I'll do everything humanly possible to change that," he said.

The GOP unanimously endorsed a slate of Education state of Paul Willhide, Robert Heavides, Peter DiRosa and Alex Urbanetti.

Willhide, presently a member of the Board of Directors and a long-time critic of school spending voiced a strong attack on the present educational administration.

"Status quo, complacency and mediocrity are not words in my vocabulary. But, I use those words to describe the achievements of the school board, the administration and their accomplishments," he said.

"I've got some questions. I'm not going to take some of the answers I got when I was on the Board of Directors," Willhide said.

Heavides, apparently referring to a recent remark by Democratic Town Chairman Theodore Cummings, said, "We're not running scared. We're running confident."

Heavides is an investment broker for a Hartford firm. Urbanetti and DiRosa are both former teachers who are now involved in local business ventures.

The Republicans also unanimously backed the Murphy as candidate for town clerk and Betty Sadloski as candidate for town treasurer.

The party also nominated Russell Prentice and Joseph Reynolds for Board of Selectmen and Marion Mercer, Sedrick Straughan, Joseph Swenson Sr. and Harry Reinhold for constables.

After the candidates were picked, Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson said, "You have nominated your slate, and I congratulate you. I think you have a good one."

The auditors declined specific comment on their investigation, but said they had been aware of the CSEA criticisms and were looking into them.

Donohue suggested the legislature's Finance Committee should "follow up" on the complaints. The committee's co-chairman, Rep. Gardner Wright, D-Bristol, rejected the suggestion.

Auditors probing 'efficiency' team

HARTFORD (UPI) — State auditors say they are investigating the performance of a controversial "efficiency" team in the state Tax Department.

The efficiency team, headed by West Hartford businessman E. Clayton Gengras, has been charged by the Connecticut State Employees Association with causing "absolute chaos" in the department.

Auditors Henry J. Becker Jr. and Leo V. Donohue said Thursday their staff was working on a so-called "performance audit," similar in scope to the one they did on the Education Department earlier this year. That report was highly critical of the department for not understanding its job, much less doing it.

"Nobody knows who's in charge at the Tax Department," Donohue said. "Do they take their orders from the tax commissioner who has legal authority or do they take orders from some outside citizens who are there because Gengras sent him there?"

The auditors said they began their investigation before the CSEA charges. The CSEA charges that the department had caused a breakdown in the department operations which was resulting in lost revenue for the state.

"Since the Gengras efficiency team showed up over a year ago there have been and continue to be major problems. Some are covered in the CSEA charges, but there are others," Becker said.

Gengras and State Tax Commissioner Gerald Heffernan have labeled the CSEA charges as "sensationalism filled with inaccuracies."

The CSEA charges center around complaints from 30 Tax Department workers who said sales tax audits have stopped, tax bills are not being mailed and civil service workers' duties are being assumed by political patronage employees. The union also said the records of tax debts have been lost.

The auditors declined specific comment on their investigation, but said they had been aware of the CSEA criticisms and were looking into them.

Donohue suggested the legislature's Finance Committee should "follow up" on the complaints. The committee's co-chairman, Rep. Gardner Wright, D-Bristol, rejected the suggestion.

GOP women plan fashion show

The Republican Women's Club will sponsor a fund-raising fashion show Oct. 12, Ellen Zinsner, president of the club, has announced.

The show will be held at the Manchester Country Club.

The request includes a call for creation of up to 1.4 million public service jobs and training positions; a work bonus for those whose incomes fail to support their families; and income support for those able to work only part time or unable to work because of a disability. The support also would apply to those caring for children 6 years old or younger.

"I am today asking Congress to totally scrap our existing welfare system," Carter said in describing his Program for Better Jobs and Income.

He predicted his proposal "will transform the manner in which the federal government deals with the income needs of the poor, and begin to break the welfare cycle."

Carter unveiled the program during a nationally televised news conference at an agriculture station not far from his home, where he began a five-day stay Friday.

He made the request to Congress in spite of a personal plea from Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., of the House Ways and Means Committee that the President put off making a formal welfare proposal until the matter is given more study.

The President said his program would: — Create up to 1.4 million public service jobs, of which 42 per cent could be filled by current aid for dependent children recipients. — Provide that every family with a full-time worker who has an income substantially above the poverty line would represent a $2.8 billion increase over existing spending levels. — Provide $3.3 billion in tax relief to working low and moderate-income taxpayers by expanding income tax credits. — Consolidate current assistance programs, which now have differing eligibility requirements, in order to simplify the complex system. — Provide $2 billion in financial relief to state and local governments in the first year.

Other "strong incentives" to keep families together by doing away with rules that forbid assistance when the father remained within the household. It also would increase efforts to make certain that fathers who desert their families meet their obligations.

Carter said the proposal would take steps to reduce fraud by welfare recipients and end maladministration of payment procedures. — "People in poverty want to work, and most of them do," Carter said. — "This program is intended to give men the opportunity for self support by providing jobs for those who need them, and by increasing the rewards from working for those who earn low wages."

A brief, but violent, storm Friday afternoon knocked down tree limbs and a knocked out power in Manchester and surrounding towns, but no serious injuries or damage were reported locally from the thunderstorm.

The sky darkened and the winds kicked up shortly after 3:30 p.m. A heavy rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, followed.

The storm subsided within a half-hour, but not before about 2,000 customers in Manchester and East Hartford had lost power, a Hartford Electric Light Co. spokesman said. A transformer on Broad St. was the apparent source of the Manchester power outage, which lasted for about an hour and 40 minutes.

Scattered power outages were also reported in surrounding towns. An unidentified woman was stuck in an elevator for a brief time when the power went out at Penney High School in East Hartford at 3:41 p.m. The Town and Eighth Utilities District Fire Departments received a variety of calls during and after the storm. The departments reported tree limbs had fallen on power lines on Lysons St., Chestnut St., W. Middle Tpk. and Tolland Tpk. Some trees were knocked down by the storm.

The rain created a flooding problem at D&L in the Parkade. The roof is being repaired, and some water leaked into the store, according to the Town Fire Department, which pumped water off the roof. Homes at 84 Ashworth St., Manchester, 106 Box Mountain Dr., Vernon, and three structures in East Hartford were reportedly struck by lightning. There was no serious damage reported at any of the sites. Coventry officials said that they received scattered reports of wires that were knocked down during the storm, but no major damage was reported. South Windsor had no reports of storm damage. Two tree limbs fell on cars in Manchester, according to police. One of the limbs landed on a car on Strickland St., the other limb hit a car on School St. Police had no report on damage to the vehicles. Although the power outage knocked out some traffic signals in Manchester, police reported no traffic problems.

The National Weather Service said that the storm passed through the state at speeds reaching 35 miles per hour, 10 to 15 miles per hour faster than normal. It was reported in Torrington and Meriden, the weather service said. The service also said that the temperature dropped degrees 21 in two hours, from 52 degrees at 1:30 p.m. to 71 degrees at 3:30 p.m. Northeast Utilities said that as many as 30,000 homes in the state lost power. Most of the outages were restored within three hours.

Calvin E. Bragdon, 20, of 11 Harriet Dr., Vernon died today at 1:39 a.m. at Manchester Memorial Hospital (MMH) of injuries he suffered in a motorcycle accident in South Windsor, said police. A motorist was driving through the intersection of Slater St. and Deming St. today at 12:15 a.m. when he saw a red light in the grass of the side of the road. He got out of his car, looked and saw the youth lying in the grass by a motorcycle, he told police. The motorist called police from a nearby home. The youth was taken to MMH where he died of a skull fracture and massive internal injuries, police said. Witnesses are still trying to determine how the accident took place. Police are being sought. It appears the youth was driving the motorcycle south on Slater St., crossed Deming St., and continued

Carter gives plan for welfare reform

WASHINGTON, Ga. (UPI) — President Carter today asked Congress to "totally scrap" the nation's "hopeless" welfare system and replace it with a $30.7 billion plan called the Program for Better Jobs and Income.

He predicted his proposal "will transform the manner in which the federal government deals with the income needs of the poor, and begin to break the welfare cycle."

Carter unveiled the program during a nationally televised news conference at an agriculture station not far from his home, where he began a five-day stay Friday.

Logue captured the votes of 35 delegates in balloting Thursday night. There are 66 delegates in the Town Committee, but only 62 cast votes Thursday.

Bartholomew Guida in a primary, has made enemies among the term of office, especially among more conservative party members who claim he does not listen to their concerns. Lending a backdrop to the mayoral race is an ongoing investigation that police illegally wiretapped private citizens in the Elm City between 1966 and 1971.

DiLieto, who resigned as police chief earlier this year after 23 years on the force, admits authorizing one wiretap, but said he thought it was legal.

Hijacker indicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Luis Robinson, a 26-year-old U.S. Navy enlistee from Panama, has been indicted for the July 4th hijacking of an interstate bus in which two persons were killed and three wounded.

Queen District Attorney John J. Santucci Thursday announced the indictment of the Somerset, N.J., man on 38 counts ranging from murder and kidnapping to hijacking.

The Vermont-bound bus left the Port Authority Terminal in midtown Manhattan on the afternoon of July 4th.

Santucci said Robinson, who was armed with a German-made 6.75-mm. pistol, ordered the driver to go to Kennedy Airport, where he demanded $6 million ransom and a plane that could fly 3,000 miles.

Martin F. Howell claims the bar and package store owners should not have sold alcoholic beverages to the driver of the truck.

Howell claims Harold F. Gagen, former owner of the Hideaway Cafe in Colchester, and Helen and Joseph Rutka, served Edward Clark alcoholic beverages which caused him to drive his pickup truck into a car containing Mrs. Charlene Howell and five of her children. The other three children were injured.

Clark and Gagen were also killed in the crash. Howell is asking $40,000 in damages for each of the members of his family who died.

Ford launches 'treasure hunt'

DETROIT (UPI) — If your last name is Yates, there is a possibility your great-grandfather was the first man in America to drive one of the first Model A's off Henry Ford's assembly line.

On July 20, 1903, a Dr. H.W. Yates of Detroit took delivery of Model A No. 4 — 33 days after the Ford Motor Co. was organized.

For that matter, no one knows what happened to No. 4, either. Yates paid $750 for that 1903 Model A. If it's still in existence, it's probably worth closer to $30,000 to a private collector.

News for senior citizens

Hi, folks! I'll bet you are going to be happy as I am when I tell you that this coming Monday will be the last one for some time (I hope) where I start off by talking about registering for a trip. Just about every Monday this summer has started off that way.

This last one will be for a train ride, sightseeing tour, and a lunch. The train ride is through the countryside of Essex and the meal will be at the Dock and Dine Restaurant where you will have a choice of either Boston salad or Yankee pot roast. The trip is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 25, and the complete package is $12.50.

Speaking of trips, this coming Thursday, Aug. 11, we will be spending the day at Banner Lodge. The bus will be leaving our center at 9:30 a.m. and so you folks must be here at at the first stop sign and there you are. Coming from the other side, you turn into Biglow St. off of Main and that is the street where Holmes Funeral Home is on the corner. Turn on to Hemlock St. and take your first left near the bottom of the hill. That is Lodge Dr. and leads you right into the large parking lot. In case of rain, the picnic will be held on Aug. 14, same place, same hours, same show.

Once again a reminder that our Public Health Nurse Phyllis Saich is on vacation and will return for physicals and check-ups by appointment on Aug. 17.

The happenings here at the center start with our Wednesday morning pinocle games. We had 40 players and the winners were: Bob Hill, 600; Sam Schors, 593; Bob Schubert, 590; Mary Hill, 564; A. Chellman, 555; needed 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., pinocle games. Bus pickup at 8:30 a.m. Return trips at noontime and 3:30 p.m.

Tuesday: 9:30 a.m. for shopping 1 p.m. Senior Bowling League and return trip from shopping.

Wednesday: 10 a.m. pinocle games and Friendship Circle meeting. 12:45 p.m. bridge games. 1 p.m. craft class. Bus pickup at 8:30 a.m. and return trips at noontime and 3 p.m.

Thursday: 9:30 a.m. bus leaves for Banner Lodge. 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., outdoor shuffleboard games. No bus today.

Friday: 10 a.m. to noon, kitchen social games. One canned goods needed each. 1 p.m., setback games. Bus pickup at 8:30 a.m., return trips at noon and 3:30 p.m.

Three distinguished sons

In the past week Manchester has lost three sons who made significant contributions to the public welfare in their lives. The account of the life of Fritz DellaPera in yesterday's Herald illustrates how easy it is to take for granted a person's accomplishments. DellaPera's most recent efforts in the professional field of health care delivery are well known. He succeeded in them so well he made it easy to forget he had already played a distinguished role as a leading layman in his church, and another as a political and civic leader, to say nothing of a separate military career and no mean accomplishment as an athlete. Wells Case Dennison devoted the last of his active years to helping to preserve the history of Manchester, of which he was an adopted son. Earlier he had served dozens of civic and social causes in addition to being one of the town's leading industrialists. Like so many capable men of his time, he served admirably in the military in World War II. Samuel J. Turkington Jr. probably reached his highest potential and derived his greatest satisfaction from his last career, that of a teacher. It was, perhaps, something for which he had been preparing, even without his being fully aware of it, for most of his life. Before that he was in public service as the town clerk after rather spectacular service in two wars.

Taxi service needed

We hope the Public Utilities Control Authority will act promptly and positively on the pending request by Dial-A-Ride to provide taxi service for Manchester and South Windsor. With the lack of true public mass transit in the area, a taxicab service is essential for the health and safety of our citizens. Those who are hurt most by lack of taxis are the senior citizens who, having given up the privilege of driving, rely on taxis for such essential things as food shopping and visits to the doctor. It is the nature of taxi service that it is too often taken for granted until it is needed; yet, we think it is economically feasible for a community the size of Manchester or South Windsor to support such a service. Transportation is vital to our economy and well-being, and a viable taxicab service is an integral part of an over-all transit system. We urge the PUCA to act quickly and favorably on Dial-A-Ride's application, for the longer the community goes without cab service, the more difficult it will become to reintroduce the service.

A reminder

Herald readers wishing to participate in the second Springboard for discussion series are reminded the deadline for letters is Monday, Aug. 8. The subject is: What do you think should be done to improve the organized recreation programs, including baseball, in Manchester? Writers should keep their comments to 250 words or less in order to permit as many people as possible to express their views. The editors reserve the right to edit any letters. Comments should be directed to the issue selected, and personalities should not be discussed. Letters must be signed and carry an address.

Many mini Olympics?

The people who put on the Olympic Games have come up with an intriguing idea: Why not split the games among several nearby cities instead of wishing the entire burden on a single city every four years? Lord Killanin of Ireland, who presides over the International Olympic Committee, says the regional approach might be tried as early as 1984. Several cities in Sweden may bid jointly for the 1984 winter games. And there is talk that perhaps Los Angeles could share some events with Long Beach and other neighboring towns if it were awarded the 1984 summer games. Security would be more difficult if the games were split. Transportation and press coverage could be more complicated. But the games have become almost too expensive for any one community. And the less familiar sports — like triathlon, archery and canoeing — tend to be overlooked when all the action is in one place. With proper planning, the regional approach could be a way of making the games less hectic and more fun for the athletes.

East Hartford HMO concept questioned

Dear editor:
Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) are great for health care under certain circumstances. I believe that the HMO proposed for East Hartford lacks the necessary elements for success. The proposed HMO will be a private profit making corporation using Federal money.
The Kaiser Plan, formed at a time of rapid population expansion in California, has been successful because it actually owns the hospitals and health care facilities. The East Hartford HMO will have to contract outside its own offices for special care. The doctors or hospitals that a patient will be required to visit may be many miles from their home. The HMO will need at least $3 million of taxpayers' money to establish its offices and sell its plan to state business firms.

According to the director of the HMO, the basic charge will be only $40 per month per year more than the current group Blue Cross insurance rate for a total cost of $1,000 per year per family.
The HMO, for the first five years, or until it shows a profit, will cover only those families in which a member is employed. No one over 65 may join. The area that will be served will stretch from Bolton to Plainville and New Britain. I can't envision any efficiency or cost saving for a doctor in East Hartford making a house call in New Britain.
The only people that can be served in the HMO are those that already have adequate coverage. I believe $3 million could be better spent to provide medical care for those people lacking that necessity.
Very truly yours,
Frances J. Burns

HMO offers options

To the editor:
I read with interest the July 28 article in The Herald pertaining to the Health Maintenance Organization. It seems to me about time people saw themselves as clients and consumers of health care, and had a choice of medical care delivery.
The HMO certainly offers such a choice. A prepaid medical plan covers a person for regular health maintenance and exams as well as ill visits. The emphasis is shifted from treating an illness condition to preventing it through health counseling and teaching.
I am surprised that the article mentions only physicians as health care providers at the HMO. In groups such as the HMO mentioned in New Haven, specially trained nurse-practitioner personnel i.e. nurse practitioners and physician assistants, see a large proportion of clients and manage their health care needs.
They take a health history do physical exams, order lab work and interpret results, and spend a good deal of time listening to the client and offering appropriate counselings.

These "primary health care providers" are specifically educated for this new role. When they encounter a problem beyond their area of competence, there is then a physician available for consultation and collaboration in a treatment care plan. One physician can work well with a number of NPs, PAs, providing a team approach to care. Since it costs less to educate the NP or PA, this approach should also benefit the client financially in the long run.
Health care and health care delivery are changing. It's high time the public had some options!

Who wants to look at pretty flowers?

Dear sir:
The planter boxes at the bus stop waiting stations should be removed. I say this after one month of tending the flowers that a neighbor and I planted at the S. Main St. stop opposite the Fairway store.
Having pride in the "City of Village Charm," we undertook to add a little beauty in the way of flowers. Thinking, also, that those who waited at the stop would enjoy them.
As I stop to check and water the plants, I find, to my disgust, wads of tissues, paper wrappers, bottle caps and soda cans placed in the planters.

Vernon Jordan is bright and pragmatic

WASHINGTON — Washington reporters stumble all over one another to call Vernon Jordan, executive director of the Urban League, "urbane." Cut, you know. Yet, this tall black lawyer from Atlanta with his slowly-emerging smile is indeed urbane — probably more so than most of President Carter's home-grown staff. Besides chivying Carter in the black cause, he firmly solicits money for that cause from Big Business.
Jordan is on the boards of Xerox, J.C. Penney, Bankers Trust Co., Celanese Corp., the Rockefeller, John Hay Whitney, and Tropic foundations. He is not on those boards merely because he's black, although Big Business appreciates his color. He is a man for his time, bright and pragmatic as well as personable. He's smarter

"Hell, he's smarter than anybody in that board room," says a white colleague from Bankers Trust. "And he knows how to raise money for the Urban League without seeming intrusive. He's not a blasted pest like some do-gooders."
In short, he is the kind of man who can take Jimmy Carter to task in public for not doing enough for blacks and remain on friendly terms with his old friend from Georgia. After Jordan did this at the League's annual convention, Carter ushered him into a private room and expressed what one White House staffer called "real pique."
No apologies
Carter said he had "no apologies" for his administration's record on dealing with blacks and urban problems. But he also told Jordan that he was "responding to a man who is still one of my closest friends." Jordan responded that "President Carter is my friend and I am his friend." The President knows that true friendship means telling the truth...

One of Jordan's assets is that he is not Andrew Young. Unlike our United Nations Ambassador, Jordan does not flail out in all directions. He has one cause: that of the black people, and he sticks to it. He concentrates, as he once said, on trying to make civil rights laws work. He wouldn't waste his valuable time calling the Swedes racists or excusing New York City's blackout

Special goals
Specifically, he wants a massive job-creation program, an expansion of the food stamp program, expanding unemployment and Social Security benefits, using a tax credit "to provide modified income assistance" to people now on welfare rolls.
Let pass whether Jordan is right. He has a problem, and that is what his job demands of him. It is too bad that he felt it necessary to put Carter on the carpet, for by appointing more blacks to significant government jobs than any President in history, Carter has drawn them into the field where the action is. But although I respect Jordan as a man, I can't fault him for speaking out vigorously for the people he represents. After all, that's what the lobbyists for Big Oil do every day.

Carter's first six months

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is room for argument over Jimmy Carter's substantive accomplishments in his first six months as president, but there can be little doubt he has achieved an extraordinary personal rapport with the public.
From his inaugural walk down Pennsylvania Avenue to his shirtsleeves chat with the people of Yazoo City, Miss., Carter has given the average citizen a present to identify with.
Capitalized on TV
By intention or design, and it is probably a combination of both, Carter has capitalized on television's incredible potential for creating a sense of intimacy between viewer and subject.

Utilitarian plans
Carter is not a man of words. His prose is utilitarian, not inspiring. But his gestures — the suitbag over his shoulder, the inaugural walk, the sweater, the rolled-up shirtsleeves — say louder than any words that this president is of the people, not apart from them; that our ways are his ways, that he therefore can be trusted with our destiny.
What remains to be seen is whether Carter, having established this non-verbal link with his fellow citizens, can now utilize television to educate the public on the tough issues he must decide as president.
He has not yet done so. Indeed, he has dodged several choice opportunities to illuminate difficult policy decisions.

Thought
"A still more excellent way"
"Three things," said the Apostle Paul, "keep on forever: Faith, Hope, and Love, but the greatest of these is Love."
Of all the gifts with which God endows his people, his gift of Love embodied in Jesus Christ is still most excellent.
Love releases the imprisoned splendor in people. It always looks forward, never back. Love lets us disagree but stops us from becoming disagreeable. It makes everyone a winner. It is permanent. It is perfect.
Faith might someday become knowledge. Hope might someday become reality. Love? Nothing can replace Love. It's God's gift to us. We can't earn it; we can't buy it; we can't even fully understand it. We can respond to what we know of it in Jesus Christ, the "still more excellent way."

Side glances
By GILL FOX
"Do I have to say grace for a 900-calorie liquid diet?"
"That," he told a friend, "is irrelevant to my job. Talking about racists and looters doesn't do a damn thing for the Urban League. In my field, it just gets people uptight. I don't second-guess Andy Young. Though he's trying to bring his new job as a diplomat closer to the plain people of the world, I leave it to others whether he should clean up his language."
Jordan saw no point in using gentler language in chiding Carter. He and other black leaders believe they assured Carter's election, and he thinks the Carter administration should live up to "the first commandment of politics — help those who help you." Mostly, however, he asks for what he believes is needed.

OSTRINSKY PAPER & IRON

Before You Throw It Away, Check With Ostrinsky First

For over seventy-five years, the Ostrinsky family has been involved in the business of recycling in the Town of Manchester. As a past president of the Eastern Paper Mill Suppliers Association, Mr. Abraham I. Ostrinsky has kept abreast of standards and procedures for packaging and presenting to various mills a product for recycling that has continually met the demand for other than natural resources. Ostrinsky has a constant market for his product, (salvageable material) and has paid his customers higher prices because he has insisted on handling only that type of material which is free of contamination. Environmental Control, pollution, resource recovery, and ecology are familiar topics discussed and acted upon by the various mill and secondary handlers associations. It is in the best interest of the public to be concerned with our future for we come into those years that our natural resources dry up it will become mandatory to save as much as possible those resources which can be recycled. You can start now by selling your paper-metal-and iron to Ostrinsky at 1731 Parker Street, Manchester, Connecticut, Telephone 643-5879.

About town

Manchester Chapter, Parents Without Partners, will have a dance tonight from 9 to 1 at Fiano's Restaurant, Bolton.

Town fire department seeking radio frequency band change

The Town of Manchester Fire Department is seeking a change in its radio communication frequency because it is on the same band as the Keene, N.H. Fire Department.

Bruce Marcus, of Marcus Communications, 134 E. Center St., has worked on improving the department's radio communications and has proposed the change.

The department has been looking into switching to a mobile-repeater system to improve local reception. With only minor changes in equipment, such a system would improve communication from the department's portable units, Marcus said.

"There are many places in town where I can't hear my portables," Chief John Rivoso said.

The department had received special temporary authority from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to conduct tests with the proposed system. But the authority expired before the tests started. Since then, a new transmitter antenna has been installed by the department.

This antenna, combined with some unusual weather patterns, resulted in the Town of Manchester's Fire Department's transmission overpowering the Keene transmission during one day a couple of months ago, Marcus said.

Since the Keene and Manchester transmissions are on the same frequency, Keene often receives "nuisance interference" from here, he said. The Keene department can hear the Manchester transmissions, but when its department has to transmit, it drowns out the Manchester interference, he said.

This was not the case during part of the day a couple of months ago, when the Manchester signal came in much stronger than normal in Keene. Marcus said that the switching of the Manchester frequency band will prevent a recurrence of the problem with Keene.

An FCC spokesman said that the commission has had discussions with the Town Fire Department about its planned changes in radio communication.

He also said that the matter involving Keene is being investigated, but he could not comment further on the investigation.

FDA law judge rules plastic bottles unsafe

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Food and Drug Administration law judge in Washington has ruled plastic soft-drink bottles like the ones that were manufactured in South Windsor and Bloomfield are unsafe for use.

Those Monsanto Co. plants were closed in March and 387 employees were laid off after the FDA withdrew its approval of beverage bottles containing a substance called acrylonitrile.

The 41-page decision by FDA law judge Daniel J. Davidson, made public Friday, is a preliminary step which FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy must approve by Sept. 19.

Davidson said acrylonitrile is a food additive which Monsanto hasn't proved is safe and, therefore, the bottles pose a possible health threat.

At the Atheneum

An exhibition of Chinese export porcelain has recently gone on view in Gallery A208 of the Wadsworth Atheneum.

The term "Chinese export porcelain" is applied to wares designed and made in China for export to foreign countries, particularly to Europe and America.

Chinese export porcelain objects differ noticeably in form and decoration from those made for the Chinese themselves. Western merchants provided landscapes, flags, coats of arms and other subjects to decorate forms modeled after Western silver and ceramic pieces.

The present installation includes objects made for both the Continental and American markets. Chinese export porcelain will remain on display at the Wadsworth Atheneum indefinitely.

The Atheneum is open Tuesday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Concert at college

Thomas F. Rady III, probate judge for the Town of Vernon, will be the narrator in Aaron Copland's "A Lincoln Portrait," to be presented by the Manchester Community College Summer Winds Sunday at the Bicentennial Band Shell on the MCC campus.

The masterpiece for a symphonic band, combining Lincoln's immortal words and Copland's music, will be directed by Philip Streifer.

Summer Winds is a 45-piece symphonic band which includes all instruments, except strings, played by local musicians of all ages. This will be the band's only performance this summer.

Judge Rady is also a musician who played piano in a combo for several years. His wife, Dolores, is a violinist and his three daughters are instrumentalists. Jane plays flute in the MCC Summer Winds and Summer Pops. Audrey is a clarinetist in the Summer Winds and Judy also plays the flute.

The concert will also include the marches "Crystal Star" and "The Flickertail," familiar music from "The Sting" and "West Side Story" and contemporary wind classics such as Hanson's "Chorale and Alleluia" and Persichetti's "Pageant."

Those attending the concert may use parking on the MCC campus and should bring a blanket or lawn chair. Light refreshments will be served in the student center after the concert. In case of rain, the main auditorium will be used.

Tanglewood presents

Guest conductor Kazuyoshi Ariyama leads the Boston Symphony Orchestra tonight at 8:30 at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass. in Rossini's overture to "Il Signore Brusolino," Schumann's Piano Concerto in A, and Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition." Mischa Dichter will be the pianist in the concerto.

On Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Andre Previn conducts the orchestra in Haydn's Symphony No. 87 in A and in excerpts from Prokofiev's "Romeo and Juliet."

On Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., Gene Shalit, movie critic, narrates Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" at Pops-at-Tanglewood. Arthur Fiedler conducts the Boston Pops Orchestra in this pension fund concert. Selections include works by Strauss, Stravinsky, Danoff, and "A Fifth of Beethoven."

Concert at library

The Manchester Public Library will present a concert by well-known folksinger William Lannon Tuesday, Aug. 16, at 10:30 a.m. at Whiton Memorial Library auditorium, 100 N. Main St. Lannon is assistant professor of English and director of dramatic arts at Eastern Connecticut State College, Willimantic.

The program is designed for children eight years and older and is open to adults. Because of the limited seating capacity, the public is asked to pick up free tickets in the Junior Room of either Whiton Memorial or Mary Cheney Library. Tickets will also be available on the Bookmobile.

Philip Streifer directs the Manchester Community College Summer Winds in rehearsal for Sunday performance at the Bicentennial Band Shell on the MCC campus.

Collectors' Corner

Kid stuff is collectible

Hopalong Cassidy addicts set forth searching for shoebags, a banner with Hoppy and Topper, coloring books, buttons, popcorn cans, Chinese checker game, jackknife and penknife, lunch pail with thermos, mug, night-light, holster and gun, jigsaw puzzle, radio, ring, spurs and a wristwatch.

This particular one belongs to Peter Galuska of Columbia. He is not necessarily an addict as the watch was given to him as a youngster some 30 years ago. He must have known how to take care of things at an early age because it seems to be as new and will still run if you wind it. (The band was removed for photography).

Kid stuff doesn't have to be all that old to be collectible. Some of the Disneyana especially, from books to yo-yos, brings an outrageous price. The Mickey Mouse alarm clock of 1939 is listed at $200, and there is a Dopey puppet at $285.

Other "finds," non-Disney, would be some of the games from just a few years back such as Captain Marvel, Fibber McGee, and the Skeezix card game.

These things turn up all the time on the local tag sale circuit and are worth watching for.

Coin convention

The 33rd Annual Conference and Convention of the NENA will be held November 18-20 at the Sheraton-Hartford Hotel. (New England Numismatic Association). (There is a "GENA" too, the Great Eastern Numismatic Association. They will meet at Philly in December.)

Sally Kirka, president of NENA, has announced that they will offer a gold-filled medal this year in addition to the usual bronze and sterling ones. This medal must be ordered by Aug. 15. It was designed by Mrs. Kirka and shows the Old State House and also pictures three coins with historic symbols.

The check should be made payable to "33rd NENA Conference and Convention" and mailed to Al Kirka, 116 Oak St., Manchester, CT 06040. ($22.50, plus a dollar for postage, unless you plan to pick it up at the Convention.)

Weather costs

In the "Stamp Collector" recently, Herman Herst tells of something else to be looking for in the way of covers.

Back before the time of radios many post offices would stamp tomorrow's weather prediction on the back of envelopes with a second run through the canceling machine. These were mostly for farmers in the Midwest, but they have originated from other areas as well. Such weather forecast covers were only a dollar or two a while ago but have now zoomed upwards.

Bucket of worms

The editorial-and-letter page of "Linn's Stamp News" last Monday was just covered with adverse reaction to that most egregious out-put of this year's Silly Season — the proposed two-tier postage rate.

How it might have happened: The Boss: "Say, why don't we hit business with 16 cents and leave the people at 13?"

All the yessers nodded their heads: "Great idea, Chief"... "Good PR, Chief." — without a thought for the buckets of worms that would be hatched.

CBers blasted for uniforms

By INK DIPPER

A uniform is a symbol of authority, but should CB club members be allowed to wear them? It seems like a harmless question since CB clubs often have distinctive vests, garnished with patches commemorating special events or signifying other CB clubs.

But several months ago members of the Cook County, Ill., Affiliated League of Emergency Radio Teams (ALERT) adopted uniforms that at a glance might be confused with police uniforms. This brought about controversy, criticism of the club and a lesson for other clubs considering becoming involved in personal contact with the public.

The club was well known for volunteering to help with traffic and crowds at school and athletic events. Members weren't well received when they wore their uniforms.

Resentment quickly formed. Who did these CBers think they were? The police, maybe? Some citizens felt the CBers were taking on too much self-importance, and law enforcement officers thought the CBers were treading too heavily in their territory.

Police officers said that they were afraid these CBing civilians might at some time get too carried away with their uniforms and interfere in an emergency. One police officer even compared the uniformed CBers to Hitler's use of uniforms in Nazi Germany.

The outfit in question wasn't anything fancy. It consisted of a dark pair of trousers, black tie, white shirts and black shoes. The jacket had an official ALERT arm patch on one arm and the American flag on the other. They also had helmets which were worn when they supervised crowds at basketball games. Members said students were known to throw pop bottles on the CBers when they were standing below the bleachers.

The group's uniform was defended by Jeffrey Adams, the club's president. He, as well as other club members, felt that the uniform gave the members a beneficial look of authority, necessary in handling crowds or traffic problems.

The club ultimately gave in to the complaints because many area CBers no longer wanted to join or be associated with the organization. Members felt if they couldn't wear their uniforms there was no need for their participation. The CBers decided not to help at any more local events and would simply monitor channel 9, the national emergency channel, and pass the information on to local authorities.

Forming an emergency club doesn't have to turn out this way. It's been proven in many states that CBers can be an asset to the smokies when they plan together and CBers remember to aid the police and not act as part time officers.

If you're helping form a CB club which wants to work with the police, start out on the right foot. Go to the sheriff or police chief and present your plan. He may think your group isn't really necessary but will still give it a try in just one neighborhood. Don't shuck the whole idea if you're told absolutely no on uniforms. Wearing or not wearing a uniform shouldn't be the major concern of CBers who want to help others.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: What happens with props, uniforms, etc., after they get done filming? Particularly, on the movie, "A Bridge Too Far." I read that book twice. VINCENT FLORA JR., Audubon, Pa.

Movies are a business and things like props and costumes are assets. If they've rented them, they simply return them. If they've bought them, they try to sell them. Big studios, of course, have prop and costume departments and everything goes back where it came from. "A Bridge Too Far," the big World War II epic, had some special problems. They had to buy airplanes, but they plan to sell them. They'll probably turn a profit on the deal, since the planes were all brought up to 1977 standards.

DEAR DICK: Please settle this question for us. I say Tisha Sterling is the daughter of Ann Sothorn and Robert Sterling, and my husband says she is the daughter of Jan Sterling and Jan's husband. Who are Tisha's parents? JOYCE MARTINSON, Bakersfield, Ca.

You're right on the button. Tisha is the daughter of Robert Sterling and Ann Sothorn.

DEAR DICK: I would like some information about a word. This might sound silly to you but it sure has me puzzled. On Happy Days, they use it. They say, "Don't be a nerd." I would like to know what "nerd" means, so I won't hurt anybody if I say that to them. JANET L. POGUE, Castown, Ohio.

Nerd is one of those nonsense words, that keep popping up to keep our American language vital. In my youth, the word was "goop." It's the same thing — goop, nerd, jerk, screwball. It means, basically, a person who is clumsy, silly, foolish, acts nerdishly.

DEAR DICK: My cousins and I were discussing the $64,000 Question, so popular a few years back. Who was the master of ceremonies? LENA PRATT, Crescent, Iowa.

That was the late Hal March.

DEAR DICK: Help! I read you all the time and you've helped so many and now I'm hoping you can help me. I was watching To Tell the Truth and one of the contestants had written a book on cats. All I got was her name — Carol Wilborn, I think. My book store lady said she can order it for me if I have the title. MRS. STEPHEN C. MUNSELL, Hermiton, Ore.

Sorry it took so long to get an answer to you. To Tell the Truth is shot in New York and I'm in Los Angeles. I wrote to them and didn't hear anything, but finally got a letter from the author herself. She says, "My book is called 'Cats Prefer It This Way.' The publisher is Coward, McCann and Geoghegan. It's in hardcover now — paperback next fall." Her name is Carol Wilbourn and her stationery is shaped like a cat.

DEAR DICK: Is George Savalas (Stavros on Kojak) related to Tony Savalas (Kojak)? If so, how are they related? CAROLYN KING, Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

The Savalas boys are brothers, but it isn't Tony Savalas, it's Telly — a diminutive of his real name, Aristotle.

DEAR DICK: I am having an argument with my brothers. They say that the leading lady in Green Acres was Zsa Zsa Gabor. I say it was Eva Gabor. Please hurry the answer cause I may win yet. DOROTHY L. SKYLES, St. James, Mo.

You win! It was Eva all the way.

DEAR DICK: What does Farrah Fawcett-Majors think about Lee Majors, her husband, sometimes doing a show with Lindsay Wagner? DUANE HACKBARTH, Mt. Morris, Ill.

If she's like most wives, she's probably glad he's working. But I know what you mean. It's a problem in Hollywood, and the situation of a husband working with an attractive woman — and vice versa — has broken up many marriages. Since both Lee and Lindsay appear to be happy in their romantic relationships, presumably Farrah isn't worried.
