Manchester's Commission on Aging is asking members of the community to visit patients at convalescent homes next week.

The visitation program, which begins Sunday, is being planned in an attempt to brighten what can be a long and dull summer, the Rev. Ronald Fournier, chairman of the commission, said.

Convalescent homes are most happy to have patients visited and will provide visitors with the names of residents who might like to be remembered in this way, he said.

There will be no sign-up of visitors nor will a count of the visitors be kept, he said. "We simply are encouraging community people to take their own initiative and visit. This is particularly lonely time for many of the residents, and we don't want them to be forgotten," he said.

The next commission meeting is scheduled for Aug. 22 at Crestfield Convalescent home.

Nifty Fifties draw a mixed crowd

Concert attracts over 400

By KARLENE LUKUVITZ SAM Editor

Last Saturday's SAM concert, featuring the Nifty Fifties Band, was a little like Monty Python's Flying Circus: "something completely different - something for young and old alike."

The usual gathering of town youths was "liberally sprinkled" with what this group would call 'oldies,' said Lt. Joseph Brooks, Manchester Police supervisor for the concert.

Lt. Brooks estimated the crowd was "about 400 and growing" at 9 p.m., the largest attendance since the first SAM concert of the season, he said.

Youths and 'oldies' alike seemed to enjoy the band's updated versions of classic 50's and 60's tunes, including ones made famous by Elvis Presley, The Beach Boys and Little Anthony and the Imperials. Spectators of all ages clapped and screamed replies to the joking laments of the band and demanded two encores after a performance of nearly two hours.

Sporting the sleeveless T-shirts, rolled-up pants, black sneakers and two-toned shoes that were the mandatory "cool" attire of the era, band members harmonized and displayed synchronized dance steps to such songs as "Talk Too Much," "The Wanderer" and "All Shook Up."

The antics of lead vocalist Eric Mann, who mimicked Presley's deep vocals and infamous pelvic jolts and smoothed his "D.A." hairstyle with a spit-soaked comb after each number, were especially effective.

The fact that some concert goers missed the 50's completely did not seem to dampen their enthusiasm for the band. Mary Desautels, age 13, said she knows "just about" all the songs that were performed, "mostly from the radio."

For others, however, it was a night of nostalgia. "We were part of the 'nifty fifties,'" laughed Mrs. Joan Bartlett, who attended the concert with her husband Gerald.

Bicycle pedaled cross country to sell them as energy-savers

By Lisa Shepard Scripps League Newspapers

WASHINGTON - "Congress Auto Be Cycling" read the sign around the 51-year old female cyclist, who has just pedaled 2,600 miles from Tucson, Ariz. to peddle bicycles to President Carter as the most energy-efficient form of transportation.

Caroline Killen has taken things into her own feet with her nationwide crusade to have the merits of the bicycle more widely recognized.

"The bicycle is energy-efficient, it doesn't pollute, and it's great for your health," the self-styled "bicycle lobbyist" told Scripps League Newspapers.

Sold garden seeds Ms. Killen, a deeply tanned woman in excellent physical condition, left Tucson in February and like a modern-day Johnny Appleseed, sold garden seeds to earn money as she peddled across the country.

Arriving in Washington on June 6, she attempted - to no avail - to see the President and his chief energy advisor, James Schlesinger. So she enlisted the support of some 30 area cyclists who joined Ms. Killen for a two-day cycle-thon around the White House.

Slowly but surely Ms. Killen and her self-claimed constituency of about 100 million cyclists in the U.S. are being heard by both state and federal governments. An estimated 50,000 miles of bikeways already exist throughout the country.

Ms. Robbins, a licensed clinical social worker of San Francisco, Calif., speaks for feminism, and is known on the West Coast for her involvement in the women's movement and women's issues. Her dialogue will include the style she has recently added a provision to its energy bill which recognizes bicycles as a model state for bike enthusiasts. "It is the number one bicycle state," said a spokesman for the Bicycle Manufacturers Association of America. "Undoubtedly it has more sales, more riders and more miles of bikeways than any other state."

Susan B. Anthony alleged that the bicycle did more for woman's liberation than any of the suffragette demonstrations during the 30 states. Uncle Sam lunched off of them at a cost of about $6 million.

Throughout the festival, there will be entertainment and refreshments will be available.

The program will conclude with the showing of the film "Gospel" in the lower church.

HEALTH

Diet may need bulk

DEAR DR. LAMB - Three years ago I had a small nervous breakdown, which resulted in tension and a constipation problem.

My doctor recommended mild tranquilizers and a psychiatrist I took the pill but not the therapy. A change in my life helped my tension and I pruned my diet.

Today I am a healthy, 25-year-old woman who has cured her nerves but still depends on 15 oz. of prune juice every other day. I'm truly afraid to stop yet I know I should. What can I do? How long will it take to return to normal? Please help!

DEAR READER - It sounds to me like you made a lot of progress. There are worse things than prune juice. Your bowel function would probably improve if you could decrease the amount you need.

Prune juice contains an active ingredient that stimulates contractions of the colon. In this sense it is a bit like a chemical laxative. It does not provide bulk. There are different reasons for constipation. In most people it is related to insufficient bulk in the diet. Psychological factors are often important, too.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable Or Spastic Colon and Constipation. It will provide a good program for you to use. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. By being patient and following the bowel training program outlined there you can improve.

I would suggest that you start increasing the bulk in your diet by using whole cereals that contain bran. Increase the bulky vegetables as in salads. If you happen to use coffee, tea or cola you might stop them. These increase anxiety and nervousness anyway and have the opposite effects of your tranquilizers.

Try to develop and maintain a sensible exercise program. Exercise is a good tranquilizer for most people.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have never heard you comment on someone who uses an excess amount of salt in his diet. What I mean is an overly meaty diet. These increase anxiety and nervousness anyway and have the opposite effects of your tranquilizers.

DEAR READER - Almost all life giving substances can be harmful in truly excessive amounts. Hence, too much oxygen leads to oxygen poisoning but you will die without it. Too much sunshine will damage the skin or even induce skin cancer. Yet, all the energy that runs planet earth comes from the sun.

We need salt. Our body fluids must have salt in them for a normal chemical balance.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of The Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York.

The campaign starts

The slates of candidates for the Democratic and Republican parties have been selected for the municipal election in November. It is an interesting selection in many ways. The majority Democrats have a slate accenting new faces to politics in the wake of the retirement of several veterans. The minority Republicans are relying quite heavily on incumbents to lead the ticket and some candidates who, while new to politics, are not new to the community. There is youth in the selection. There are long-time residents and some relative newcomers. With the exception of a few incumbents and a couple of former office holders, the two slates are dominated by new faces which could mean fresh ideas to many of the problems facing the town and its schools. To summarize: The Republicans have two incumbents, Carl Zinsser and Vivian Ferguson, and a former director, William Diana, running for the Board of Directors. Newcomers on the GOP ticket are David M. Call, E. Michael Walsh and Richard Weinstein. In a rather unusual move, GOP Town Director Paul Willhide is trying for a seat on the Board of Education and running with him are Peter DiRosa, Alex Urbanetti and Robert Heavieside. While the Democrats may be fielding more new faces for the directorships, it has two in-

Sunbelt's dark side

A recent analysis of government statistics supports the argument of the so-called Snowbelt or Frostbelt faction in Congress that their part of the country is subsidizing the economic prosperity of the so-called Sunbelt. According to a study by the magazine National Journal, in fiscal 1976 the states of the Northeast and Midwest registered a "balance of payments" deficit with Washington to the tune of $32.7 billion. That was how much more they paid in federal taxes than they received in federal benefits. In the same period, the South and West received $23 billion more from the federal government than they paid in taxes. The figures are challengeable on a number of counts, the authors of the study admit. But give or take a few billions, there does seem to be a rather heavy flow of the national wealth from colder climes to warm. All that money hasn't

Thought

Someone has said, "The non-churchgoer cannot be reached by the non-going church." Many people are shut-ins and cannot go to church. These same people are usually unable to go on vacations. Loneliness and need can well be the portion of those who are forgotten people. Helen Suley has penned the following lines I share with you. Let's remember a shut-in on this day. Remember one in some little way. Send him a card, pay a visit or two. It will cheer him when he's feeling blue.

Why high fish prices?

To the editor, After having watched a program on NBC national news about the increase in fish catches since the newly established 200-mile limit for foreign vessels, we are now catching more fish than we can handle, and even setting a ban on cod fishing, until a later date, and, workers at processing plants are working 50 hours weeks, to keep up, why the continuing high prices in the markets.

Dear sir: Under the Local Public Works Capital Development and Investment Act of 1978, two-thirds of the money goes to cities and towns and one-third goes to the states. No profit in preaching to the converted

WASHINGTON — Whenever a member of academia is permitted to visit Red China or Cuba, the talk in faculty clubs across the land sparkles with joyous remarks like "Isn't that great about Persnip?" But academia tends to apply a double standard to what are mostly harmless junkets. It applauds "openings" toward Communist regimes, but looks down at its ideologically patriotic nose at colleagues who are discovered living it up scholastically in non-Communist dictatorships. Audacious member This Rockefeller-financed Center for Inter-American Relations is, as they say, torn by dissonance over the audacity of one of its members. It seems that Ronald Christ, the Center's director of literature programs, had gone to military-based Chile to teach at the Catholic University in Santiago under the State Department's American Specialist Grants program. Figure that one out, friend. Christ is on leave of absence from the Center. He is not, therefore, representing the Center in Chile any more than a bookkeeper would represent the Morgan Bank if he took a holiday in Albania. Energy independence equals freedom

By Dr. Joseph P. Sternstein Americans have a tendency to give their full attention to a crisis for a day or two and then return to life "as usual." When President Carter introduced his message on energy to the American people in April, he could not have known how often there have Americans riveted their attention on what they can do, along with the government, to cope with a situation that is putting into jeopardy America's freedom to conduct its international and domestic affairs free of foreign pressures? Do Americans really understand the new force that has been created in world politics? It is not a country, or even a realignment of countries. Rather, it is a three letter commodity — oil! Alliance shaken This new force has shaken world alliances and upset the economies of large and small nations. As a result of dependency on imported oil, the foreign policies of Europe and Japan have been influenced to satisfy the political attitudes of the Arab oil-producing countries. And, because of America's constantly increasing consumption of foreign oil, we are being subjected to the same pressures. The oil weapon has been used through the Arab boycott measures, through the embargo on oil exports, through the internal democratic processes by which the United States conducts its trade and business operations. Manipulation of oil prices and implied threats of a reduction in the supply of oil from the Middle East have put the greatest democracy in the world in the grip of Arab nations which are determined to influence our future and our relations with Israel. America's only democratic ally in the Middle East. So, a sound U.S. energy program is a vital necessity which transcends partisan persuasions. The American economy requires huge supplies of energy. Without it, the tools and machinery of defense and of our industrial and agricultural production become idle; subsequent unemployment could be disastrous. Ominous connotation Economic upheaval has a special and ominous connotation for minority groups, to which the history of Jewish communities all over the world can attest. Potential demagogues have always capitalized on economic and social disorder, in the process of which scapegoats are created to distract the population from real and valid issues. It is an inevitable conclusion, then, that the U.S. simply cannot afford to be so dependent on such a distant and unstable region as the Middle East for energy supplies which are vital for its defense and home needs. One must ask, then, "What are the options?" Certainly, the President's call for massive efforts for energy conservation must meet with firm support. And, strong support for nuclear plants in the U.S. with a proven record of safety, reliability and economy. And, the arithmetic speaks for itself. Each nuclear power plant in operation saves the equivalent of 10 million barrels of oil equitable and effective step in the battle against excess consumption. No single change in American habits is the final answer, but a combination of efforts can give us important relief. Along with conservation, there must be an expansion in the production of alternate energy resources. Coal, offshore oil, shale, natural gas and nuclear power must be exploited as quickly as possible if we wish to wrest ourselves from the hold which OPEC has on us. Nuclear power Of these, probably nuclear power offers the only long-term viable answer. However, it is the least understood, and because of that, the most controversial of proposed energy programs. The fact is, few would suggest that we jeopardize America's ability to defend herself by elimination of these weapons. If we fail to meet the test of long-term, inexpensive, renewable energy sources which can serve as an alternative to oil, our continued economic strength, our role of leadership in technological development and our very independence as a democratic nation will be at stake. This is the eleventh hour.

Recreation program suggestions endorsed

To the editor, I am writing in support of Mr. Vaughn, whose letter you published Aug. 10, regarding town recreation programs. Town's action criticized

Dear sir, Having been a long-time customer at the Botticello vegetable stand on Hillstown Rd., I was disturbed to read that the Manchester Building Department is trying to close it down. Each year, myself and hundreds of other town residents who cannot raise gardens of their own look forward to the fresh produce and personal service that "Butch" and his family have provided us for years. It seems to me, that consumers should be able to purchase food wherever they want, and that the technicality at question, that the vegetables are not grown directly on the premises (their field is located a short distance up the road), is both weak and picaresque. As a taxpayer, I would much rather see Mr. Mitchell direct his energy toward the more serious building violations that exist in town instead of attacking one of the few remaining farmers left in Manchester. Coaching important

How important is a tennis coach? Take it from Greer Stevens, he can improve your game tremendously. Stevens, the 20-year-old bombshell from Pretoria, South Africa, claims she is "100 per cent better than a year ago because of Roy Emerson (Boston Lobster Coach). He's helped me in every way, especially to improve my backhand. He knew that I hit hard (an understatement) but I was very erratic. Now I am steadier and my whole game is 100 per cent improved." The Tom boyish blonde with the pigtails said after she had played a big part in the latest Lobster success, a 28-21 win over the Soviets. Dubbed the "Cat" because of her cat-like moves on the court, Stevens helped spark the Lobsters to their first Eastern Division championship in World Team Tennis with her doubles partner, Martina Navratilova. "I don't know Christ, but it seems fair to assume that he finds the Chilean regime politically unattractive. Most Americans do, instinctively. Anyway, there's no profit in preaching to the converted, which is why I'd like to lood countries like Red China and the Soviet Union with good, red-blooded Bill-of-Rights Americans. Christ's opponents in effect are saying that only certain dictatorships are worthy of our ideological brainwashing.

Notes off the cuff

Father and Son Tournament will headline the weekend play Sunday at the Manchester Country Club. The Herdies, Jim and John, are among the pre-tournament favorites. John Herdies lost out to Woody Clark in the recent Club Championship final. Another Charlie Robbins Five Mile Road Race will be staged Sunday, Aug. 20 in Middletown. This will be the 14th annual run honoring the Manchester native and former national long distance champion. Dan Drissen belted a three-run homer in the first inning and in the fourth, Johnny Bench hit a run-scoring double to give the Reds a 4-1 lead. Joe Morgan delivered an RBI single in the fifth to give the Reds a four-run lead. Davey Lopes solo homer in the first inning for the first Dodger score and Reggie Smith hit in the seventh, closing the gap to three. Then Seaver, carrying a three-run lead into the eighth, yielded a single to Lee Lacey, a double to Lopes and Bill Russell singled in Lopes, making the score 5-4. But Seaver settled down, got out of trouble and went on to raise his record to 12-5. "Two weeks ago I didn't think we had a chance in hell," said Manager Sparky Anderson. "We just can't give it up, not now anyway."

Pittsburgh on tear to pressure rivals

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An 18-inning, 2-1 victory is a tough act to follow, but Thursday night the Pittsburgh Pirates managed to better their marathon performance of the previous evening with a 9-1 victory over the fumbling New York Mets. "Boy, they really came out of the gate running tonight, didn't they," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner on the 15-hit Pirates' attack that kept the pressure on Philadelphia and Chicago in the National League's tight Eastern Division race. The Pirates trail the leading Phillies by 3 1/2 games and the second-place Cubs by a half. The Pirates' energy was surprising, apparently even to Tanner, considering the four-hour, 96-minute contest they had played Wednesday night against Chicago. "It shows what they're made of," Tanner said. "They're professional."

The biggest blows were struck by the Pirates' all-purpose substitute, Bill Robinson, who got the team off to a good start with a two-run homer in the first inning and capped the scoring with a two-run double in the sixth. Renee Stennett, playing on an injured left knee, went 4-for-4 and drove in two runs, while Phil Garner, also playing on a sore leg, smacked three doubles in four at bats. Mario Mendoza, substituting for suspended shortstop Frank Taveras, added a two-run double, and Dave Parker stretched his batting streak to 22 games as he hit two singles and drove

Hartzell stops big guns of Red Sox and win streak checked at 11 games

BOSTON (UPI) — Paul Hartzell took the starch out of the Boston Red Sox. The American League East leaders had won 11 in a row, but Hartzell, who said he loves to pitch in Fenway Park, Thursday limited Boston's big guns to seven hits. With red-hot Bob Bonds providing the offense with four RBIs, the California Angels stopped the Red Sox, 7-3. The defeat, coupled with Baltimore's victory over Seattle, narrowed Boston's American East lead to 1 1/2 games over the Orioles. "It's a big challenge to pitch here," said the 6-foot-5 righthander of his Fenway Park start. "With the fans here and the Sox being on a hot streak, well...it brings out the best in you."

"This is the best he's pitched all year as far as I'm concerned," said Angel Manager Dave Garcia, whose team has won seven of its last eight games. "It was his best outing of the year if for no other reason that he was facing an excellent hitting team in a small park."

"Yeah, that was just about my best game of the year tonight," agreed Hartzell, who noted that he used a 60-40 combination of fastballs to curveballs to stymie the Sox. While many hurlers think of Sox Fenway as baseball's equivalent of the Plague, Hartzell would like nothing better than to pitch in Boston as often as possible. "It makes a good ballplayer an even better one. I always get excited when I pitch here, because the place is almost always full and the fans are probably the most knowledgeable and attentive in the game."

"This place really pumps me up. I just simply like to be here." The 23-year-old Lehigh University graduate was especially tough when he really had to be. In the fifth inning the Red Sox had men on first and second with one out and two of their top run producers — Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski — coming up. Garcia decided to pay Hartzell a visit to the mound. "I just told him that this could be the last time in the game that he would be in trouble," said Garcia. "So he went and did what he had to do when he had to do it."

Hartzell induced both men to hit easy grounders and then coasted to his fifth win in 12 decisions after that. Bonds, meanwhile, was providing his pitcher with the runs he needed. With the score tied 3-3 in the third inning, Bonds drove in Jerry Remy with a sacrifice fly that proved to be the winning run. Two innings later, Remy walked with two out and Bonds followed with his eighth homer in nine games to make it 6-3 and tie the winning run. Two innings later, Remy walked with two out and Bonds followed with his eighth homer in nine games to make it 6-3 and tie the winning run. Two innings later, Remy walked with two out and Bonds followed with his eighth homer in nine games to make it 6-3 and tie the winning run.

"I'm just hitting the ball in the air," Bonds' explanation for his current torrid hitting. "I'm just not missing many pitches. This is as good as I've hit in the last two years." Boston starter Don Asse took the loss, his first against three victories, giving up the first six Angels runs in five innings. Rice, Yastrzemski, and Denny Doyle drove in the Boston runs. "We can't win them all but we try," said Boston manager Don Zimmer. Rick Wise, 8-4, was to go against Seattle's Paul Mitchell, 0-3, in the first of a three-game series tonight.

Yankees get lift from Mike Torrez

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees' most serious problem right now is inconsistent pitching. And with just seven weeks left in the season the Yankees announced Don Gullett had been placed on the 21-day disabled list Thursday. A few hours later, however, Mike Torrez provided a slice of hope. Torrez pitched his fourth straight complete game victory Thursday night, a two-hit shutout over his former teammates, to carry the Yankees to a 3-0 victory over the Oakland A's. "I've had a rocky start, just like every other season I've pitched," said Torrez, who raised his record to 12-10. "But now my fastball is really going in left-handed hitters and my sliders are going away."

Manny Sanguillen's two-out single in the fifth and Tim Lincecum's single in the ninth were the only hits for the A's. In other AL games, Baltimore edged Seattle, 4-3. California beat Boston, 7-3. Cleveland downed Chicago, 3-1. Texas defeated Kansas City, 8-3, and Minnesota topped Orioles, 4-1. Mariners, 3. Lee May delivered a two-out, two-run single in the bottom of the ninth.

Dodgers stopped by Reds' Seaver

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver, the newest Cincinnati resident, stopped the Dodgers Thursday night, spacing six hits in a 5-4 triumph that left the Reds 1 1/2 games behind Los Angeles in the National League West. Dan Drissen belted a three-run homer in the first inning and in the fourth, Johnny Bench hit a run-scoring double to give the Reds a 4-1 lead. Joe Morgan delivered an RBI single in the fifth to give the Reds a four-run lead. Davey Lopes solo homer in the first inning for the first Dodger score and Reggie Smith hit in the seventh, closing the gap to three. Then Seaver, carrying a three-run lead into the eighth, yielded a single to Lee Lacey, a double to Lopes and Bill Russell singled in Lopes, making the score 5-4. But Seaver settled down, got out of trouble and went on to raise his record to 12-5. "Two weeks ago I didn't think we had a chance in hell," said Manager Sparky Anderson. "We just can't give it up, not now anyway."

Gutteridge helped honor his old boss

NEW YORK (UPI) — When he played ball, Don Gutteridge was strictly a mallet milk drinker. He still is even though he's 65 now. Gutteridge is like a pair of old shoes. He wears well. Still living in Pittsburgh, Kan., the place he was born, the little owlish-looking former infielder for the Cardinals and Browns now scouts for the Dodgers. He surprised his old White Sox boss, Al Lopez, by showing up with Ray Berres for Lopez' induction into Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown last weekend.

Gutteridge and Berres both coached under Lopez for more than 10 years, and along with Tony Caccinello, they were baseball's Three Musketeers. Coach wanted to make it to Cooperstown also, but couldn't because he was having trouble with his back in Tampa. "We had a good relationship, Tony. Ray and myself," said Gutteridge, who took over as White Sox manager when Lopez gave up the job in May of 1969. "We knew what Al wanted done and went out to talk with Turk. "That's right," confirmed Berres, who showed up for the induction with his wife and son, John, a patent attorney in Washington for Comsat Inc. "No one wanted anyone else's job. He was a great coach and a great manager, but there never was any bad feelings afterward. If Coach or Don noticed something concerning our pitchers, they'd tell me about it, and I'd say something in their province. I'd tell them. We never kept anything from Al. The reason we came up for his induction is because we felt nothing could be more of a manifestation of our love and respect for the guy."

Controversy different in camp of Minnesota

NEW YORK (UPI) — Basically defined, dissension is a disagreement in opinion. With ball clubs like the Yankees and the Cardinals, a seemingly insignificant matter as whether a man wears a beard or not provokes full-blown disagreements, and now comes a report of dissent on such a burning issue of the day as sun tans whether the Reds should or should not be allowed to develop one playing tennis or golf or going swimming.

With the Twins, it's something else. A controversy has been stirred up over a newspaper photograph. One which was merely talked about but never actually taken it all began last Friday in Bloomington, Minn., when Bob Fowler, who covers the Twins for the Minneapolis Star, was asked to do a story on Ted Carew. Larry Hise of the Twins for The Sporting News.

Carew leads the majors in hitting and has a good grip on his sixth American League batting title. Hise, right around .300, is the league's top man in runs batted in and is up there in home runs also.

Fowler told Carew The Sporting News, "I don't think you're going to get any more of these." Miller said to Watson, "Tom still would have won the Masters and the British Open. I think too much is being made of the clubs although it would be a good idea to keep everyone out every week, especially those players who work on their own clubs. Tom never touched his. He played with them as he did."

Littler, meanwhile, played his usual steady golf over a course he says must always be played with respect. "There are too many potential disasters on Pebble," said Littler, who is back in action for the first time in six weeks after back problems. "You just have to play this course with respect."

Littler did, carding a 33-37 — and a one-shot lead on Watson, Jerry Garcia and Mark Hayes. They, in turn, stood a shot ahead of Nicklaus, George Cadle and Lanny Wadkins, while Miller, George Archer, Fuzzy Zito and Charles Coody, John Lister and Malthe were at 70. Lee Trevino was in a group at 71 while Arnold Palmer, who never has won the PGA, and Tompkins were in a group at even-par 72.

Gary Player, who spent most of Wednesday shaving down his illegal irons, was at 74 and defending champion Dave Stockton was at 75.

then explained the whole thing to Hise, who had been ready to pose for the picture but then took off his uniform following the delay so he could have the Twins' trainer, Dick Martin, work on his bruised foot.

After the game that day, an AP newsmen went to Hise and asked him about his feelings in the matter. "I was asked to take a picture with me," Hise told me from Toronto Tuesday. "I explained to him I really wasn't upset because a person has a right to do whatever he wants in a case like this one, and if Rod chose to do this, he had a perfect right. Then he said to me, 'But aren't you really upset?' I told him no and I was being honest with him."

Carew was upset, though, when his wife, Marilyn, showed him the wire service story in Sunday's Minneapolis Tribune. "You won't want to read it," she said. The Twins' first baseman always been a good friend and things haven't changed at all. There's no reason for Rod to be upset. And as for my photograph not being the cover, who knows, maybe one day in the future it will be."

Golf game of skill, best player wins

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus gets to the heart of a question in the same easy manner he makes winning putts.

"Ours," said the golfer of the century, when asked to comment on the golf club controversy that has rocked the 59th PGA Championship here, "basically is a game of skill. Always has been a good idea to keep everyone out every week, especially those players who work on their own clubs. Tom never touched his. He played with them as he did."

Littler, meanwhile, played his usual steady golf over a course he says must always be played with respect. "There are too many potential disasters on Pebble," said Littler, who is back in action for the first time in six weeks after back problems. "You just have to play this course with respect."

Gary Player, who spent most of Wednesday shaving down his illegal irons, was at 74 and defending champion Dave Stockton was at 75.

And he found strong allies for that view in Nicklaus and Johnny Miller. "I don't care what kind of clubs he used," Miller said to Watson, "Tom still would have won the Masters and the British Open. I think too much is being made of the clubs although it would be a good idea to keep everyone out every week, especially those players who work on their own clubs. Tom never touched his. Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: We have a Mother's Day and a Father's Day, why not officially declare a day to honor bachelors? The great historian and philosopher, Will Durant, compiled a list of the ten men he rated as having the sharpest minds of all time. Among them were Plato, Isaac Newton, Voltaire, Immanuel Kant, Leonardo da Vinci and St. Thomas Aquinas, all of whom were bachelors!

Two of the world's greatest musicians were bachelors—Bethoven and Brahms. Oddly enough, the musician who was said to have been the greatest ladies' man of them all was Richard Wagner—a married man! One finds outstanding bachelors in all trades and professions except politics.

ED IN RICHMOND
DEAR ED: Why not? But two bachelors DID make it big in politics: James Buchanan, our 15th president, and Jerry Brown, California's governor.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a non-smoking guy going with a beautiful redhead whose breath smells like smoldering tires. This really turns me on, but her breath turns me helplessly into a smoker.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from STUMPED whose fiancee suddenly developed the fear of driving, so now she complains because she must do all the driving, which will limit her social life. Hal! What a wonderful helpmate she is. My condolences to the man who's stuck with her. I wonder what she would have done in my place.

What a wonderful helpmate she is. My condolences to the man who's stuck with her. I wonder what she would have done in my place.

Pitkin collection stolen from library

EAST HARTFORD — Police today searched for the "priceless" silver collection of colonial Gov. William Pitkin, stolen from the town's Raymond Library.

Mayor Richard H. Blackstone said the collection, stolen early Thursday morning, dates back to the early 1700s. It included ladies, a serving spoon, a salt shaker, a christening bowl and several other items.

The collection was donated to the town many years ago by a member of the Pitkin family, which manufactured the items at their shop in the 18th and 19th centuries, Blackstone said.

Pitkin served from 1766 to 1769 as governor of Connecticut. He was a registered nurse and a graduate of the Newport, R.I., Hospital School of Nursing.

Interment request denied by official

HARTFORD (UPI) — There's been no progress in talks to end a 27-day-old gravediggers' strike, but Connecticut's top health official says he won't order burial of 275 bodies being stored above ground.

Negotiators from the union representing 85 gravediggers met with officials from the Catholic Cemeteries Association Thursday, but the contract rift continued.

State Health Commissioner Douglas Lloyd said Thursday he had no evidence the 275 unburied bodies pose a health hazard.

Lloyd said he could not order burial of the bodies because, "There's no evidence at this point there is any health hazard from the bodies."

"You would need such evidence to order the bodies be buried. You can't respond unless we determine there are violations of the public health code," he said.

The Connecticut Funeral Directors Association planned to ask Lloyd to order burial of the bodies, but as the Health Department closed for business Thursday officials said they had not received the request.

Local 14323 of the United Steelworkers of America, representing the gravediggers, has refused contract offers from the Catholic Cemeteries Association.

Undertakers said the 275 bodies are all embalmed and being kept in sealed caskets. Funeral services have been held for the unburied bodies.

Burials in non-Catholic cemeteries throughout the state have not been interrupted by the strike.

The gravediggers are asking for a 45-cent-an-hour increase, plus improved fringe benefits and new work rules.

The cemeteries association has offered the gravediggers an increase of 40 cents an hour, spread over 18 months, the association said.

Gravediggers now are paid $5.65 an hour and the association said their fringe benefits cost another $2.50 an hour.

The union has said the biggest obstacle to a contract agreement is refusal by the association to accept a work-guarantee clause.

Officials probing plane crash cause
WESTPORT (UPI) — Federal Aviation Administration officials today joined local police in examining the wreckage of a twin-engine charter plane to find the cause of a crash which killed two men and injured three others.

Authorities said the aircraft, an Embair, crashed into a swamp Thursday night, landing in four feet of mud and breaking apart on impact.

Jerry B. Greene, 36, of Greenburgh, N.Y., a passenger in the plane, was dead on arrival at Norwalk Hospital, police said.

Police rescuers more than two hours to extricate the body of the pilot, Thomas Rae, 30, of Hicksville, L.I., from the wreckage, according to authorities.

The injured, covered with mud, were taken to Norwalk Hospital in conditions ranging from good to satisfactory, a hospital spokesman said.

They were identified as New York residents Dr. Joseph Newell of Pound Ridge, E.K. Alston of Nyack, and Ronald Greenberg of Scarsdale.

Police said the plane was enroute from Boston's Logan Airport to Westchester County Airport in White Plains, N.Y., and apparently lost power, struck trees and crashed into the swamp.

A number of similar breaks, where purses or wallets have been taken from unlocked homes, have been reported recently.

Police said Auclair escaped when being taken from the police cruiser into the station. The disorderly charge was the result of a disturbance at a local bar.

After his escape Auclair was apprehended through the use of a police dog. He was to be presented in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville, today.

South Windsor
South Windsor Police are investigating the theft of 50 pieces of plywood from a construction site in Chapel Hill Estates and the theft of a tool box from a garage of a home at 144 Woodland St.

Utility accused of deception

HARTFORD (UPI) — A consumer group says Northeast Utilities tried to deceive consumers about the effect on their pocketbooks of its $90 million rate hike request — the largest in Connecticut history.

The firm claims logistics were responsible for the mailing to consumers that did not accurately reflect the potential price increase if the Public Utilities Control Authority approves the rate hike.

The Connecticut Citizen Action Group Thursday said Northeast told consumers if the rate hike is approved, monthly charges will jump $2.91 for typical Hartford Electric Light Co. customers and $2.68 for the average Connecticut Light & Power consumer. Both firms are Northeast subsidiaries.

The information was in an insert mailed with July's bills to Northeast's 850,000 customers.

But the firm concedes the actual increase for such HELCO customers using 500 kilowatt hours would be $3.57 and for CL&P customers $3.54, based on the current rate schedule.

The reason for the discrepancy, the company spokesman said, is Northeast on May 10 agreed to roll back rates under a settlement of lawsuits with CCAAG and other consumer groups. That settlement got final approval by the courts June 23.

The notice to consumers that the proposed increase would have the lesser impact was based on the price structure before the rate reduction went into effect and was mailed July 1, a Northeast spokesman said.

He said the rate hike was among many items in the bill insert and said it would have been wasteful to junk the insert, although it would have been physically possible.

He said there also was a 20-day waiting period for possible appeals.

The reason for the discrepancy, the company spokesman said, is Northeast on May 10 agreed to roll back rates under a settlement of lawsuits with CCAAG and other consumer groups. That settlement got final approval by the courts June 23.

The notice to consumers that the proposed increase would have the lesser impact was based on the price structure before the rate reduction went into effect and was mailed July 1, a Northeast spokesman said.

He said the rate hike was among many items in the bill insert and said it would have been wasteful to junk the insert, although it would have been physically possible.

He said there also was a 20-day waiting period for possible appeals.

Firm shows plan to convert mills

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

Plans for the renovation of the U. S. Envelope Co. building in Rockville, were outlined Thursday by Louis Garfield of Barkan Development Corp. His company wants to convert the building into housing for the elderly.

The plan was announced by Mayor Thomas Benoit at a press conference Thursday morning. Garfield said his firm will be working with Veron agencies in the next few months to obtain financing, necessary permits and approvals.

He also said there will be a meeting next Thursday with representatives of senior citizen groups in town. From our experience in multi-family housing development and construction, we have learned that each community has its own special needs. We plan to find out just what those needs are in Veron, and adapt our program to satisfy them, he said.

The firm, which has headquarters in Chestnut Hill, Mass., has done similar projects in other states and has also built shopping centers, schools, medical facilities and other housing projects. Peter Steffian, architect of Steffian-Bradley Associates Inc., Boston, Mass., showed preliminary plans for the Envelope building, which has been vacant for more than a year.

"The building already has a pleasing human scale about it. It is surrounded on three sides by green spaces and a good portion of the existing parking lot will be used for additional landscaping," Steffian said. Steffian said the exterior of the building will be maintained as faithfully as possible. The structure's original bell tower will be retained. A few small additions will be removed to restore the building to its original appearance.

He said preliminary plans call for about 27 apartments and common seating areas on each floor, looking out to the surrounding grounds and views of the city.

The building is located on a seven-acre site on W. Main St. in the Rockville section. There are two other buildings on the property. The barn, Steffian said, could be used for a potting shed as plans are to have plenty of garden space.

Most of the units will be of one-bedroom design with living-dining room space, kitchen, bath, and plenty of closets and storage space, Steffian said.

There will be some two-bedroom units and 10 per cent of the units will be designed for the handicapped, he said. The building has four floors but the ground floor will be mostly used for community space and maybe have 10 or 12 units.

Garfield said the plan is suitable to the owners of the Envelope building. He said depending on local approval and financing, construction could start next spring. Garfield declined to say how much his firm is offering to pay for the building. But he said it would cost from $25,000 to $30,000 to construct each unit because air conditioning is required if funds are to be received from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

He said the mortgage on the renovation will be about $3 million. Mayor Benoit said there is no connection with funding being sought by Barkan and the town's money for its Housing Authority.

Easy does it...

If a monkey can do it, I can, too. Robert DeLuco, 9, of Rockville, has a determined look on his face as he tries to figure out how to cross a "monkey bridge" at the Times Farm Camp in Andover. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Selectman candidate withdraws

Hebron

Marilyn Horton of Marjorie Circle has withdrawn as the Republican candidate for Hebron selectman. Mrs. Horton was nominated at the running mate of Raymond Burt, first selectman candidate, at last week's Republican caucus.

She said she withdrew because she is a state employee. She is a secretary at the University of Connecticut. Mrs. Horton said she had been under the impression that she was qualified and eligible to be nominated.

Notification has been given to the nominating committee of the GOP Town Committee in hopes that the group will find another candidate for the vacancy before the next committee meeting, Aug. 18.

Other candidates nominated at the caucus were: as presented by the nominating committee with no opposition. Janet Von Deck was nominated to run for tax collector and incumbent Marion Foote was nominated to seek re-election as town treasurer and agent of the Town Deposit Fund.

Marian Celio was nominated to run for town clerk. An unaffiliated voter, Mrs. Celio is running for her third term as town clerk and has been endorsed by both the Republican and Democratic parties. For the Board of Education, Alan Ramsey and Patricia Mulligan were nominated for six-year terms and Judith Gregory was named for a two-year term.

Incumbent Roger Terranova was again nominated for a six-year term on the Board of Finance, as was newcomer Charles Schaefer. Casey MacParland was nominated to the finance board for a two-year term.

Robert Dixon, a former Republican selectman and now unaffiliated, was nominated for another term on the Board of Tax Review. David Marnick and Henry Snider were nominated for the Planning and Zoning Commission, with Marnick being named for the term beginning this year and Snider for one in 1978.

Paul DuFour was nominated for the 1979 term on the Zoning Board of Appeals and Andrew Johnson was named for the 1978 term.

Educators may change rules on bus discipline

Vernon

The Vernon Board of Education is considering an amendment to its transportation policy concerning discipline of students.

The change was prompted by an incident in the past school year in which the arm of a bus driver was broken by a student.

The incident involved the bus driver demanding a ticket from a Middle School student who allegedly used force.

The amended rules state that drivers will be allowed to "harass" students by unreasonably demanding things to see their bus tickets.

Edward Myers, chairman of the board's Transportation Committee, said the revision seeks to avoid such tactics of peer pressure and mass punishment. The board will act on the revised policy at its next meeting.

The policy states that the responsibility for the transportation and safety of the children is a divided function. The local board is charged with providing the service, the state with providing corrective service and hearing appeals, and the Department of Motor Vehicles establishes rules and regulations on equipment and operation of the buses and town officials are responsible for town roads and the police

Some think land price is too high

Coventry

The Coventry Conservation Commission this week discussed town purchase of the Salvation Army land which surrounds the Sunny Shores town beach.

Joann Corrigan, commission member, argued that the price that the Salvation Army is asking is too high. The assorted parcels have been offered to the Town of Coventry for $550,000. Ms. Corrigan said the town should inquire about the purchase of beachfront land only.

Commission members feel that any money should be spent on Liske beach. Members suggested the possibility of putting in lights at Liske, placing a better grade of sand on the beach, and removing the rocks from the swimming area, which have proved a hazard to swimmers.

A letter has been received by the commission from Jesse Brainerd concerning the parcel of land on Hop River Rd. Brainerd feels a good deal of rubble has been left on the site of a former industrial plant, and he told the commission that much of the rubble is combustible material.

Brainerd said the town should bring in soil to cover the rubble, and there is a question about whether the town should keep the land or put it up for sale.

His letter indicated that the property is not desirable for town use, and that the town should consider purchasing and developing a parcel at the Eagleview Dam, which possesses a good deal of woodlands and fields.

"If the Conservation Commission is interested," Brainerd wrote, "then the Eagleview Dam parcel is more desirable than the Hop River Rd. location."

Commission Chairman Herbert Van Kruijningen said the Eagleview Dam suggestion had come up two years ago, but there was a question of voted to visit the property Aug. 15 before making a final decision.

Bulletin board
The Parks and Recreation Commission and Paddle, Pool and Sail Club will sponsor a swimming meet Saturday at 10 a.m. at Liske Beach. Coventry children aged 7 to 17 can compete in several swimming styles. There will also be adult relay races. Registration will be at the beach.

PTO treasurer arrested
A medical technology program at the University of Connecticut, was arrested Thursday.

She was treasurer of the Capt. Nathan Hale Middle School PTO until June, police said.

PTO officials said about $700 of the missing money was raised in early April at a talent show.

Ms. Gordon said the money was stolen while she was at work.

Who is David Berkowitz?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who is David Berkowitz?

At times, David Berkowitz has been a soldier, cab driver, private security guard, auxiliary policeman and postal worker.

Always, David Berkowitz was alone.

Now, police say, David Berkowitz, 24, of Yonkers, N.Y., born Richard Falco in New York City, is Son of Sam — the psychopathic killer who terrorized the nation's largest city for the past year as he stalked lovers' lanes with his .44-caliber Bulldog revolver. Five young women and one man died in the attacks. Seven others were wounded.

David Schilkraut, 58, of the Bronx, remembers Berkowitz as a "loner" who lived with his adoptive parents in a Co-Op City building. Berkowitz' grandmother still lives there, but his stepfather Nat now lives in Miami, Fla.

"He wasn't overly friendly to people here. But at the time of his life when I knew him, I would never say he was capable of something like this," said Schilkraut. "He may have appeared strange, but he was never violent."

Co-worker Fred Ponterotto, 27, said: "You wouldn't get much words out of him. He was always alone."

Berkowitz attended Columbus High School in the Bronx and Bronx Community College. He also worked as a cabbie in the city for awhile.

Police Commissioner Michael Codd said Thursday Berkowitz was an auxiliary policeman in the Bronx from 1970 to 1973. Prior to the arrest, police had speculated Son of Sam was very familiar with police procedure and terms.

He entered the Army in 1973 and served three years, one in South Korea.

Berkowitz also worked as an un-armed guard for IBI Security Service before joining the post office in March.

He was the adopted son of the first wife of Nat Berkowitz and acquaintances said he sought to hide the fact of his parentage.

Several friends said Berkowitz, while a loner as a youth, was a

"changed man" when he returned from serving in Korea.

An old friend who asked not to be identified said Berkowitz "was very much involved in a reality-fantasy conflict."

"It was very hard for him to differentiate between what was real and what was fantasy. He was very unpredictable. That was spooky."

Berkowitz, he said, went into the Army "very right wing," but came home espousing "every major left-wing radical" philosophy. The friend, who has not seen

Berkowitz in more than three years, said he and many of Berkowitz' old friends avoided him after he returned from the Army.

"He tried very, very hard to keep the friendship going," the friend said, "but I felt very uncomfortable around him ... I know a lot of old friends treated him the same way."

Employees at the Bronx post office where Berkowitz operated a large mail sorting machine on the 4 p.m.-12:30 a.m. shift, said they were "completely shocked" by news of his arrest.

Giuca said competent for trial

HARTFORD (UPI) — A grand jury hearing has been tentatively set for Aug. 22 for the state to present its case against Thomas G. Giuca, accused of slaying a 25-year-old woman athlete.

Police have said Giuca is also a suspect in at least five rapes in Simsbury and Bloomfield parks over the past two years.

A judge Thursday ruled Giuca is mentally competent to stand trial in the May slaying death of Lee Norris near the Simsbury reservoir.

Superior Court Judge James Henchry declared Giuca, 26, competent based on testimony given by John Fitzgerald, the administrator and chief psychiatric social worker at the court's diagnostic clinic.

Fitzgerald said he, along with a psychiatrist and psychologist, interviewed Giuca Aug. 1 at Whiting Forensic Institute, where Giuca had been held since shortly after his arrest May 25.

Whiting Forensic Institute in Middletown is the state's facility for the criminally insane. The competency examination was conducted at the request of Giuca's lawyers.

Guca was arrested four days after Miss Norris, a certified alpine ski instructor and rock climber, was fatally stabbed with a hunting knife in the woods near a secluded road leading to the Simsbury Reservoir.

Police said she had spent about an hour kayaking alone on the reservoir near the Westledge School and was returning to her car when she was attacked. Police said she struggled violently.

Police said Giuca became a suspect after a computer check of 7,400 Connecticut Volkswagens matching a description of one seen near the murder scene. Police also credited a composite sketch of the suspect distributed by the news media as aiding in the investigation.

Guca, a 1975 college graduate who majored in sociology, was arrested at his family's garden apartment in Windsor and charged with murder. He was unemployed.

Probe request denied

HARTFORD (UPI) — A request for an investigation of conflicting statements involving Gov. Ella T. Grasso and a real estate developer has been rejected by a legislative committee.

Appropriations Committee cochairs Sen. Robert Houley, D-Somers, and Rep. John G. Groppo, D-Winsted, Thursday told House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, the dispute over a parking lot lease did not concern the legislature.

Mrs. Grasso, a Democrat, has said she thinks the call for an investigation by Stevens, who is seeking the GOP nomination to unseat her next year, may be a campaign tactic.

Stevens claimed conflicting statements on the issue showed that someone was lying. Mrs. Grasso said she didn't see any need for a legislative inquiry.

EAST HARTFORD EDITION

FRIDAY, AUGUST 12, 1977

PRICE: FIFTEEN CENTS

Mrs. Ida Carr, center, of 38 Naubuc Ave. warns of a dangerous stretch of road in the Hockanum area during a meeting of her neighbors Thursday night at the Raymond Library. Sitting with her here are, left to right, Mr. and Mrs.

Thornton Fleeher of 77 Sunnyreach Dr. and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Molleur of the Rivermead Mobile Home Park. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Parks, crime concern many

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

Hockanum area residents voted Thursday night that they should work on one big problem from two directions.

The problem is the lack of things to do in the Hockanum area, especially for young people, and the resulting crime.

Their attack on the problem will involve the police and the recreation department.

The meeting of 20 residents was called by John Lazarowski of 25 Sunnyreach Dr., a member of the East Hartford Citizens Action Group (EHCAG). This group was formed with the aid of the Connecticut Citizens Action Group (CCAG).

Lazarowski asked the residents at this first Hockanum meeting to list their problems. Then the group voted on which were the main problems and set a meeting Sept. 20 to discuss them again.

Mrs. Rita Bonney of Rivermead Park spoke first. She said her electric bills are double those of friends using more electricity but not living in mobile homes. Her last bill was $40 for one month.

Arthur Molleur of Rivermead echoed her comments.

Other members of the group, several also living in mobile home parks in the Hockanum area, offered them solutions and ways to study the problem further.

Thornton Fleeher of 77 Sunnyreach Dr. and his wife, Lynn, both spoke of how poor and few are the recreation facilities in their neighborhood.

"I'm appalled," he said. "I grew up in the north end of town. We had the best of everything. We pay the same taxes as my parents still pay, but they get so much more. We want a fair shake."

He detailed the state of Hockanum Park by the Hockanum School. The best part of it is a wading pool but there is broken glass all around it. He said there are more children in the neighborhood than around the Norris School in the north end.

Mrs. Fleeher said she has tried to speak to someone at the Town Hall but no one has answered her letters.

Ron Wilson of Chickasaw Dr. said the stretch of Main St. from Broad St. to the Putnam Plaza is dangerous. Children and old people must walk in the road there. The traffic is heavy. The Porter Brook bridge is too narrow, he said.

Victor F. Webber of 15 Keeney Cove Dr. and his daughter Sue Ellen spoke of the need for more recreation for kids.

Bruce Robida of 140 Naubuc Ave. said he thought the neighborhood was supposed to be residential. But big oil trucks, tractor trailers and more pour through the side streets at all hours of the day and night, he said.

Francis Adams of 224 Naubuc Ave. said young people have nothing better to do than get into trouble in the neighborhood.

"We've got to do something about these kids. There's pot, there's dope, there's prostitution—right in my yard. I see guys opening their trunks in the dark. They pass stuff around. Thousands of dollars worth of this stuff is passing each week. Where are the police?"

Mrs. Wells Risley of 51 Porterbrook Ave. said, "I called the police once. They told me they wouldn't come. I'll never call them again."

Her husband said his main concern is the busing of the neighborhood children away from the Hockanum School. The busing will begin this fall as children will be taken to the Pitkin School.

Joseph LaRosa of 23 Heather Dr. said the busing situation seems hopeless. He led a group of parents in a fruitless effort this past year to convince the Board of Education to leave the kids at the Hockanum School.

LaRosa will chair the group's next meeting in September.

They will invite Police Chief Clarence Drumm and Recreation Director Frank DeGregorio to that meeting.

Committees will study police needs and recreation in the meantime.

Ambulance agreement near

Mayor Richard Blackstone said today he will soon meet with Roger Talbot of the Ambulance Service of Manchester to discuss emergency service to East Hartford.

"We will work out an agreement satisfactory to both of us," he said.

He would not predict what form the final agreement would take. But he thought the agreement would be final within 10 days.

The mayor has said he prefers a rotation system between three area ambulance services for the town. He said he feared being "sold short" by one service.

But the state Health Department at the end of July notified the town and Talbot that the Manchester firm was the designated primary ambulance service for East Hartford. The decision was made largely on the basis of the mayor's own choice last summer.

The other two services are Professional Ambulance and Trinity Ambulance, both of Hartford.

Dr. Leslie J. Fodeman, director of the state office Emergency Medical Services, said today, "Adjustments can be worked out."

He said he does not view the East Hartford ambulance service dispute as a "major catastrophe." He said there was room for change.

However, Dr. Fodeman said state statutes and his department's regulations appear to rule out a rotation system for any town. The law requires that a town have a primary service approach. This means it must have one ambulance service it calls for every emergency. Backup services are okay.

Some communities, Hartford for example, have adopted a zone approach. Each zone can have its own, different primary ambulance firm.

The mayor said, "My main intent is to make sure that when someone calls an ambulance, they get one. I want the best care, the best personnel, and in the shortest time."

Talbot has said he plans to set up an ambulance service center in East Hartford with an ambulance vehicle costing him up to $30,000. But he said he cannot afford to do this if he is not assured of all the town's emergency calls.

East Hartford police report

Daniel Loree, 24, of Southington was arrested today inside the Sunoco Service Station at 430 Roberts St. and charged with third-degree burglary.

Police went to the building in response to an alarm at 3:10 a.m. They found Loree hiding over a heating duct inside the building, police said. A window had been broken.

Loree was being held on $500 surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 today.

A home on Burnside Ave. near Main St. was broken into Thursday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. through a bathroom window. Missing is a $400 TV.

D.C. trip inspired girl

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

Laura Straceski, 16, of 31 Eleanor Rd., East Hartford, said her July trip to Washington, D.C. may sway her future plans away from science and towards politics.

"Government is appealing," she said.

She will be a senior at East Catholic High School this fall. She is now forming plans for college and beyond.

Congressman Ronald Sarasin and Sen. Lowell Weicker, both of Connecticut, sponsored her trip as part of their seventh annual Connecticut Summer Intern Program. About 2,000 young people have spent a week in the nation's capital in the program over the years.

"My only criticism of the program is its publicity," said Miss Straceski.

She knew about it only because a friend had gone several years ago and told her about it. She wrote to a man in Washington, an assistant to Weicker and Sarasin. He sent her an application.

Three other young women from East Hartford went the same week. They are Maureen Mulcahy, Julie Anne McCarthy and Susan Collings. Miss Straceski had known them in junior high school but they had lost touch.

They were in a group of more than 40 young people from the state. They left on a Monday and stayed at Mt. Vernon College in air conditioned rooms. Washington was at least as hot as Connecticut.

Most of the time, the group watched the House of Representatives and the Senate debate bills. Miss Straceski remembers most of the talk was on energy.

They also met with Connecticut's leaders, including Congressmen Chris Dodd and Toby Moffett.

"They all had such glowing remarks to make about (Weicker)," she said.

The group took tours of the White House, the Pentagon and other power centers. Speakers at each place answered their questions.

"That was the best part of it all,"

she said. "We learned more than we could have on a regular trip."

They also heard from reporters and asked them questions.

They went to the Kennedy Center and saw a performance of "Porgy and Bess" by the Houston Opera.

Miss Straceski said she has not been sure whether she should work towards a career in science or in politics. She can't decide where to go to college.

"The trip gave me an inside view of politics. It was a wonderful trip. But I'm not sure still," she said.

She came back home without a fixed image of Washington.

"Every congressman was different. There was no one type."

Her brother, Anthony, 18, has at least decided where he'll study. He enters Harvard University this fall, funded partly by a Pratt & Whitney Aircraft scholarship and aid from Harvard.

Her other brother, Steven, 15, is a sophomore at East Catholic. Her father, Joseph Straceski, is an engineer with Pratt & Whitney in East Hartford.

Who is David Berkowitz?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who is David Berkowitz?
 At times, David Berkowitz has been a soldier, cab driver, private security guard, auxiliary policeman and postal worker.
 Always, David Berkowitz was alone.
 Now, police say, David Berkowitz, 24, of Yonkers, N.Y., born Richard Falco in New York City, is Son of Sam — the psychopathic killer who terrorized the nation's largest city for the past year as he stalked lovers' lanes with his .44-caliber Bulldog revolver.

 Five young women and one man died in the attacks. Seven others were wounded.
 David Schilkraut, 56, of the Bronx, remembers Berkowitz as a "loner" who lived with his adoptive parents in a Co-Op City building. Berkowitz' grandmother still lives there, but his stepfather Nat now lives in Miami, Fla.
 "He wasn't overly friendly to people here. But at the time of his life when I knew him, I would never say he was capable of something like this," said Schilkraut. "He may have appeared strange, but he was never violent."

 Co-worker Fred Pontorotto, 27, said: "You wouldn't get much words out of him. He was always alone."
 Berkowitz attended Columbus High School in the Bronx and Bronx Community College. He also worked as a cabbie in the city for awhile.
 Police Commissioner Michael Codd said Thursday Berkowitz was an auxiliary policeman in the Bronx from 1970 to 1973. Prior to the arrest, police had speculated Son of Sam was very familiar with police procedure and terms.

 He entered the Army in 1973 and served three years, one in South Korea.
 Berkowitz also worked as an un-armed guard for IBI Security Service before joining the post office in March.
 He was the adopted son of the first wife of Nat Berkowitz and acquaintances said he sought to hide the fact of his parentage.
 Several friends said Berkowitz, while a loner as a youth, was a

"changed man" when he returned from serving in Korea.
 An old friend who asked not to be identified said Berkowitz "was very much involved in a reality-fantasy conflict."
 "It was very hard for him to differentiate between what was real and what was fantasy. He was very unpredictable. That was spooky," Berkowitz, he said, went into the Army "very right wing," but came home espousing "every major left-wing radical" philosophy.
 The friend, who has not seen

Berkowitz in more than three years, said he and many of Berkowitz' old friends avoided him after he returned from the Army.
 "He tried very, very hard to keep the friendship going," the friend said, "but I felt very uncomfortable around him... I know a lot of old friends treated him the same way."
 Employees at the Bronx post office where Berkowitz operated a large mail sorting machine on the 4 p.m.-12:30 a.m. shift, said they were "completely shocked" by news of his arrest.

Giuca said competent for trial

HARTFORD (UPI) — A grand jury hearing has been tentatively set for Aug. 22 for the state to present its case against Thomas G. Giuca, accused of slaying a 25-year-old woman athlete.
 Police have said Giuca is also a suspect in at least five rapes in Simsbury and Bloomfield parks over the past two years.
 A judge Thursday ruled Giuca is mentally competent to stand trial in the May slaying death of Lee Norris near the Simsbury reservoir.
 Superior Court Judge James Hensley declared Giuca 26, competent based on testimony given by John Fitzgerald, the administrator and chief psychiatric social worker at the court's diagnostic clinic.
 Fitzgerald said he, along with a psychiatrist and psychologist, interviewed Giuca Aug. 1 at Whiting Forensic Institute, where Giuca had been held since shortly after his arrest May 25.
 Whiting Forensic Institute in Middletown is the state's facility for the criminally insane. The competency examination was conducted at the request of Giuca's lawyers.
 Giuca was arrested four days after Miss Norris, a certified alpine ski instructor and rock climber, was fatally stabbed with a hunting knife in the woods near a secluded road leading to the Simsbury Reservoir.
 Police said she had spent about an hour kayaking alone on the reservoir near the Westledge School and was returning to her car when she was attacked. Police said she struggled violently.
 Police said Giuca became a suspect after a computer check of 7,400 Connecticut Volkswagens matching a description of one seen near the murder scene. Police also created a composite sketch of the suspect distributed by the news media as aiding in the investigation.
 Giuca, a 1975 college graduate who majored in sociology, was arrested at his family's garden apartment in Windsor and charged with murder. He was unemployed.

Probe request denied

HARTFORD (UPI) — A request for an investigation of conflicting statements involving Gov. Ella T. Grasso and a real estate developer has been rejected by a legislative committee.
 Appropriations Committee co-chairman Sen. Robert Housley, D-Somers, and Rep. John G. Groppo, D-Windset, Thursday told House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, the dispute over a parking lot lease did not concern the legislature.
 Mrs. Grasso, a Democrat, has said she thinks the call for an investigation by Stevens, who is seeking the GOP nomination to unseat her next year, may be a campaign tactic.
 Stevens claimed conflicting statements on the issue showed that someone was lying. Mrs. Grasso said she didn't see any need for a legislative inquiry.

Carter woos Republicans' support for canal treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter has courted Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan, Henry Kissinger, members of Congress and "a large number" of others to win support for the new Panama Canal agreement. Simultaneously, U.S. negotiator Sol Linowitz warns that Senate failure to ratify the twin treaties "would not bode well for relations between the United States and Panama, and the United States and Latin America."

 One accord said the United States will control the canal until the year 2000. After that, under a second treaty, Panama will take over control of the waterway but the United States will have the right to defend its neutrality with "expedient" passage of U.S. warships at all times. The United States would decide when its neutrality was jeopardized, said co-negotiator Ellsworth Barker. "There are no limits" to what takes under such conditions, Linowitz added.

 "We are assured by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Defense Department that the arrangements we have worked out will permit us adequately to provide for the defense of the canal," Linowitz said Friday.
 The treaties also provide for a big increase in Panama's revenue from the canal — from $2.3 million a year now to as much as $70 million a year later. The United States now gets about $200 million a year in revenue. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., one of the treaties' most outspoken critics, said this agreement would make Americans "pay through the nose for the privilege of giving up the canal."
 With his "educational campaign" already under way, Carter personal-

Water status unchanged in southwest section

The status of the water situation in southwest Manchester remains unchanged, Frank Jodanis, water and sewer administrator, said today.
 The Highland Park Spring will be closed until further notice while the town locates the source of contamination discovered in the water and until it can be chlorinated.
 If the source of the contamination can be found and if repeat tests are negative the spring should be reopened by late next week, according to a press release from the town health department.
 For over two years, the health department has been receiving negative coliform counts on monthly samples of the spring water tested by the State Department of Health Laboratory. If tests of water samples continue to run positive for coliform, State Department of Health consultants would be available for an engineering survey of the water shed, according to a spokesman from the State Department of Health.

'Enterprise' solo success may speed up test flights

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Project officials say the successful maiden solo flight of the space shuttle Enterprise may permit a speed-up in the landing test program and even the elimination of one or two flights.
 Five more free flights of the winged space ship now are planned, with astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly scheduled to make the next on Aug. 30.
 But Donald Slayton, manager of the flight tests here, said after the smooth landing of Enterprise Friday elsewhere in the town's southwest section, the edict to boil all water used for drinking and cooking purposes continues.
 The third free flight is scheduled for Sept. 16, and a fourth — and possibly last — test is due Oct. 13. Astronauts Fred Haise and Gordon Fullerton were ecstatic over the success of their 5½-minute free flight in the Enterprise.
 It sprang off the back of a 747 carrier plane 24,100 feet above the desert floor, made two left turns, and glided smoothly to a 210 mile per hour landing, kicking up a long plume of dust from the dry lake runway. "I'm very happy," Haise said. "Everything went super slick. It went better than I had hoped for."
 Fullerton said the flight was "just as much fun as it looked like it would be."
 Enterprise is scheduled to be ferried on the back of the 747 to the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., in March for further ground testing. Then it will go back to its Rockwell International assembly plant to be readied for space flight.
 The first orbital flight of the shuttle, now scheduled for March, 1979, will be made by the second of five shuttles planned. No. 2, which is not yet named, is under construction at nearby Palmdale.

Planning office given plans for two projects

The Town of Manchester Planning Office has received plans for two proposed developments.
 One is for "Parker Village," the development planned for a Residence M Zone off Parker St. The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) approved the change to M Zone that had been requested by William Thornton for the 50-acre parcel.
 Plans for the zone show that 95 single-family homes would be located on 34.67 acres in the north end of the plot. The other 15.32 acres would be used for apartments, according to the plan.
 The plan will be presented to the PZC at its September meeting.

Air pirate captured

BRINDISI, Italy (UPI) — A Shakespeare-pooling Egyptian air pirate who constantly dabbed himself with perfume was captured today outside the Air France jetliner he had threatened to blow up, with all its 242 passengers and crew aboard.
 A ground crew at the Brindisi airport slammed the door of the jetliner and locked out the hijacker, identified as Tarek El Saeid Khater, 19, of Cairo, as he stepped outside to talk to the ground crew during a refueling stop.
 Airport police then rushed and arrested him and there were no reported injuries among the plane's 230 passengers, most of them Egyptians, and its 12 crew members.
 Passengers said the air pirate claimed to have three accomplices and 1,000 pounds of dynamite, and screamed out, "To be or not to be" and spouted gibberish in English, French and Arabic during the five-hour hijacking.
