Vance off to China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The start of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's China trip today did not stir expectations of any dramatic results from the Carter administration's first high level contact with the new Peking regime.

Vance is to arrive in Peking Monday morning after a one-night rest in Tokyo. He will spend about four days in talks with Chinese officials, including Premier Hua Kuo-feng. The key issue will be establishment of full diplomatic relations between Peking and Washington.

In principle, both the Chinese and the American governments want the change to take place, but Vance was expected to make it clear to the Chinese that diplomatic relations cannot be achieved at the expense of the Republic of China on Taiwan.

Vance's chief task, according to the officials, will be simply to explore ways to reach full relations with Peking while maintaining the U.S. economic and military links with Taiwan.

U.S. officials insist there is no time pressure involved in Vance's talks, but some experts, such as A. Oak Barnett, of the influential Brookings Institution, believe this is a rare and opportune moment that may not occur again.

Barnett, whose view is shared by some State Department officials, believes the Chinese are becoming impatient over the slow progress in relations since 1972 and are contemplating a major shift in foreign policy that would move China closer to the Soviet Union.

Other advisers, including a former State Department official just back from a visit to China, have told Vance the Chinese remain preoccupied by their feud with the Soviets, and they have an abiding interest in maintaining the present relationship with the United States.

Comedian Groucho Marx dead

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Groucho Marx, whose elevator eyebrows, mustachioed leer and sardonic put-downs tickled America to laughter for more than three generations, died of pneumonia Friday at age 86.

Marx, next-to-last of the zany Marx Brothers, was one of the best of the generation of comics whose apprenticeships in vaudeville enriched the movies, radio and television, classing him with the greats of modern comedy such as Charlie Chaplin, W.C. Fields and Laurel and Hardy.

He died at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center at 7:15 p.m. PDT (10:15 p.m. EDT) of a usually mild form of pneumonia which troubled him since he was hospitalized in March for replacement of a hip joint.

His physical and mental health had been failing for years, which led to his being declared a ward of his grandson only last month. Marx lapsed in and out of consciousness in his final hours.

Erin Fleming, the red-haired 37-year-old former showgirl who was his manager and companion until a court battle stripped her of her status as temporary guardian on the grounds she beat and cursed him, visited him shortly before his death, a hospital spokeswoman said.

"He was not in pain," Miss Fleming said. "He didn't suffer. He held my hand and just fell asleep."

Also at his bedside when he died, the hospital said, were his son Arthur, 56, his wife Lois and their son Andrew, 27, a song writer appointed the comedian's guardian as a compromise in the bitter battle between Miss Fleming and Arthur Marx.

Groucho was the next-to-last survivor of the famous five Marx Brothers, the origin of his comic character: a cigar-chomping, loquacious lecher with a painted-on black mustache, bouncing eyebrows and sardonic wit.

His brother Leonard, known as the piano-playing "Chico," died in 1961 followed by Arthur, the horn-blowing

Water-boiling edict lifted

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

The 12-day ban on use of water for drinking and cooking by residents of 42 streets in the southwest section of Manchester was lifted Friday afternoon by Frank Jodanis, water and sewer administrator.

Residents were advised Aug. 9 to boil all water used for drinking and food preparation after testing revealed bacteriological contamination of the town's potable water supply in the area.

In a news release Friday afternoon, Jodanis said, "The Town of Manchester Water and Sewer Department has determined that water in the southwest section of town is bacteriologically safe and free from contamination. Samples taken concurrently with the state Health Department and an independent laboratory has revealed no further contamination. The present water quality is at acceptable levels," he said.

Jodanis attributed the cause of the problem to a closed valve on Diane Dr., combined with a fire flow test conducted by the town in the Cheney Mill complex. The valve limited circulation in the distribution system, which magnified the problem, he said.

"Flushing of the system and opening the valve caused reversal of normal flow patterns in the area. The reversal of flow patterns exerted a heavy demand upon the effect of the disinfection properties of chlorination," according to Jodanis.

The problem led to the extended period of the required boiling order until the town and the state Health Department were absolutely sure that the water was safe, he said.

An additional test for leaks in the sewer and water pipes taken Friday by the Metropolitan District Commission proved negative, as no leaks were found, according to Bob Young, manager of water treatment.

Young said the department will continue to monitor the water and keep the chlorine levels high to make sure there are no other problems.

Lifting of the boiling advisory came a few hours after a petition signed by 850 residents relating to the water problem was presented to Town Clerk Edward Tomkiewicz. The crisis served as an impetus for residents who have been upset with the condition of water in town for several years to join together in listing their complaints.

The group, led by Joseph Reynolds of 89 Niles Dr., called themselves the Boiling Citizens. They cited the town for failure to supply an adequate, clean and sanitary water, breach of contractual obligations and failure to adequately and individually notify each of the residents of potential health hazards, except through the newspapers.

The group also asked for immediate notification that the sanitary water is now being supplied to their homes, restitution of damages and provision of perpetual adequate and sanitary water supply.

The petition was filed in the town clerk's office Friday morning and copies were sent to the general manager, town counsel, Board of Directors and the water and sewer administrator.

Young said notification for lifting of the advisory would be made through the newspapers, radio and television.

HRC bars race bias charge

Manchester's Human Relations Commission has found no evidence of racial discrimination in its investigation of a complaint filed by a black resident of Galaxy Dr. against his white neighbors.

The commission began Friday notifying all affected parties of its findings in the charge of racial discrimination brought by John C. Flanagan of 66 Galaxy Dr., who had charged that his family was the victim of racial discrimination in a dispute with neighborhood teen-agers, who had been playing ball in front of his home.

The commission did not find reason to believe that the teen-agers acted from feelings of vindictiveness caused by racial prejudice against the Flanagans.

In announcing its decision, the commission also recommended that the Flanagans and their neighbors "allow this formal complaint and confrontation to lead to invitations for friendly communication in the future on matters of differences or problems."

The parents of the teen-agers, according to the commission's report, said that since the matter came to their attention, their sons no longer play in the street, but in a special place provided for them.

The commission said there was some indication that the neighborhood was located in a cluster zone, which would ordinarily have some lands deeded by the developer to the town for recreational or educational purposes. It is in this area the boys are now playing.

The young people assured the commission that "there were no negative feelings among them about the Flanagans being black, and that whatever happened was normal teenage activity to which all the families in the neighborhood had been subjected," the commission reported.

In its findings, the commission also said it has every reason to believe that there will be no further recurrence of any of the conduct or activity that gave rise to Flanagan's complaint.

The commission also recommended that the town identify areas set aside for recreational and educational purposes in cluster zones for these purposes.

Opinion

All that wining and dining

Jimmy Carter apparently was serious during the 1976 presidential campaign when he promised to do something about tax-deductible, two-martini lunches and other forms of lavish living now treated as "business entertainment" under the Internal Revenue Code.

Carter's treasury secretary, W. Michael Blumenthal, told the Louisville Chamber of Commerce the other day that rules governing expense-account spending are so complicated they're almost impossible to enforce.

He said the administration is taking a critical look at deduction for meals, travel, club dues, theater tickets and other expenses to see whether they really should be considered part of the cost of doing business.

It's a fair question. And it deserves a much fuller hearing in Congress that it's had in the past.

A good many taxpayers, we suspect, are not enraptured with all the tax-deductible wining and dining that goes on in this country. Why can't business be done in the office?

And why should companies and individuals be able to entertain each other — at hunting lodges, at football games, at Broadway plays — and then deduct the cost on their income tax returns? Naturally, the tax law they slough off to be picked up by less privileged citizens.

Carter, of course, is not the first president to challenge expense-account living. President Kennedy did it 15 years ago and ran into a barrage of protest from hotelmen, restaurateurs and travel agents. He ended up with some stricter record-keeping requirements — but not much else.

There is nothing easy about what Carter is trying to do. Tax law is extremely complex. And the President may find that eliminating all dubious deductions is simpler than trying to pick and choose among them.

But it's a problem that needs to be faced unless we're willing to accept the Orwellian idea that all taxpayers are equal but some are more equal than others.

Just a reminder

What would you like the candidates to discuss in the upcoming municipal elections campaign?

This is the current topic of The Herald's Springboard for discussion and to date we have had no responses.

Surely, there must be some issue that concerns many of our readers which should be aired in the campaign.

The deadline for suggested issues or questions is Wednesday, Aug. 24. They will be published Friday, Aug. 26. Here is your chance to let the candidates know what you want them to discuss instead of them picking the issues they are most comfortable with.

Foreign fishing declines

Scraps League Newspapers

WASHINGTON — Foreign vessels began overfishing U.S. waters a decade-and-a-half ago. But things have changed since the designation this spring of a new 200-mile coastal fishing zone.

Over-all, the number of foreign fishing vessels spotted by the Coast Guard in U.S. waters in April and May of this year declined more than 50 per cent from last year. The latest figures available show a 23 per cent decrease for June 1977 as compared to June 1976.

Along the Atlantic Coast, for example, the number of foreign ships spotted by the Coast Guard has dropped from 155 in April 1976 to 51 in April 1977 — 68 per cent. From May 1976 to May 1977 the decline was 59 per cent — from 104 ships in 1976 to 47 this year. However, saw an increase from 59 foreign vessels on the Atlantic Coast last year to 62 spotted this year.

Congress ended the exploitation of coastal waters by foreign fishing vessels in March with the enactment of the Fishery Conservation and Management Act — a strictly enforced marine conservation program.

Historically, foreign fishing vessels have been prohibited from entering a three-mile area off the coastline. As schools of fish grew smaller, the area around the United States was extended to 12 miles. "It quickly became evident, however, that violations were occurring and that the laws, treaties and international agreements were not sufficient to do the job," explains Richard Shea, an official with the Department of Transportation (DOT), which includes the Coast Guard. So Congress passed the new and stricter law.

On March 1 the U.S. assumed jurisdictional control of the 200-mile area off American coastlines. Under the new law the Coast Guard

Thought

What do the Scriptures say? By Scriptures we mean the old and new testaments, Spirit given-God breathed (2 Timothy 3:16) through various men chosen by God at different times.

They speak of God's holy law unchangeable no matter how often broken by rebellious man. "For the Lord thy God is a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate Me; and showing mercy unto thousands of them that love Me and keep My commandments." (Exodus 20:5, 6)

Only three hours away Washington is only three hours away by car. It might as well be across the Atlantic, booming so sonorously on the beaches here, for all the sun worshippers care.

Is Jimmy Carter still an original more than halfway through his first year as president? Let him be. Far more intriguing, in this time and place, is the mysterious behavior of a different Jimmy — the succulent Atlantic blue crab which is devoured by the hundreds of thousands of visitors to these shores.

Jimmy's, in crab lingo, are the big males who wind up steamed and spiced, just begging for a wooden mallet and some nimble picking fingers. Caught by the millions each year in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries, they are a culinary treat

They all might well become Smiths

WASHINGTON — Wouldn't you know they'd be "ethnics" now? In the day of a New England boyhood, they were Micks and Wops and Polacks and proud of it as long as the joker doing the calling was one of their own and not some snooty golf pro looking for a cut lip.

I don't know what's happening to the Irish, Italians and Poles. They're really angry they put on a suit only to go to mass on Sunday and die at supper in the kitchen at 5:30 and drink rye with beer chasers all night.

Needed a pass They couldn't get into the country club without a pass saying they'd been hired to weed the greens or wash the dishes, but now they worry about their putting and improve their lie when nobody's looking and go to the club dances every Saturday night and may be smooth with some other guy's wife.

It's the same all over the country, until you have to go deep in the decaying neighborhoods of the big cities and the mill towns to hear some honest broken English and see a factory worker in a tee shirt picking his teeth on the stoop and find an Irishman who's still handy with his dukes. If somebody tells an "ethnic" joke, they don't knock him down but call their lawyer or the American Civil Liberties Union and pretty soon everybody's standing before the Supreme Court.

You'd never know To look at them, you'd never know their fathers slept in their underclothes and bathed only on Saturday and they were tough and honest and loyal people who always coughed up a couple of bucks when a widow couldn't afford a wake. They look just like everybody else, with their morning showers and their Chesterfield topcoats and their neutral air that wouldn't rock a 4-year-old's toy sailboat.

Charlie Cozzens until his death hung around the Newman Hotel bar with his old Irish cronies, Billy Cahill and Irving Wilson and Billy Earls and Jack Delehanty. It was true that O'Shaughnessy sent his son to Brown instead of Holy Cross and joined the country club but he belonged because he gave permanent credit to anybody who needed it, which was just about everybody, and always helped run the St. Pat parties.

Likewise, the Koprowskis were always to be found at Pilsudski Hall with the Kosakowskis and the Slatas and their wives and girl friends who were plump and womanlike and not to be mistaken for sticks of wood. Fileno DiGregorio built a big house, he said was just like Shirley Temple's, so they called him Shirley Temple for years, but there wouldn't have been a Son of Italy or an Altalian-American Sporting Club without his dough and Fileno himself playing bocce on a Sunday afternoon.

Drinking homemade wine Likewise, guys with names like Tito DiFedeo and Ovarato Mielich could afford to spend their weekends in Boston or on the Cape, but they kept to their own, drinking homemade wine and ingesting a couple of pounds of spaghetti at a sitting. But today, across the land, the kids of these distinguished first and second-generation Americans, who brought the country character, go to Eater and Groton and Princeton. They eat at the best restaurants in town, sometimes in black tie, and excuse themselves for not taking on a load of pasta or a nice stuffed cabbage because it's fattening. They're in the corporate law firms and selling bonds and sitting in a big IBM office working on nervous breakdowns and the limit is now two kids instead of the seven or eight that used to make a household a family.

There is something missing in the national life, all right, add it is the way the Micks and Wops and the Polacks used to be when they weren't afraid of being Micks and Wops and Polacks. They gave the Republic distinction and diversity and flavor and now they may as well all change their names to Smith.

Airline deregulation support solicited

To the editor:

Forum contributor Gary Kosak speaks out against regulation of airlines claiming that large "trunk" airlines will abandon service to smaller communities. He further holds that "Brand X" airlines will fill this breach thus jeopardizing safety standards.

Mr. Kosak does great disservice to many fine airline enterprises throughout the country. Consider the so-called regional airlines or second tier airlines such as Allegheny, Piedmont, Southern, North Central, Frontier, Hughes Air West, and Ozark. These are profitable, reliable, and efficient airlines.

Beyond this grouping are the commuter feeder structures including Air New England, Allegheny Commuter, Air South, Air Wisconsin, Altair, and others classified as third tier which meet traveler needs and are processors of excellent safety records.

In mind also, the intra-state operations of Southwest Airlines in Texas and PSA in California. These non-CAB controlled air transport operators have outstanding safety histories while providing a competitiveness which substantially reduce point-to-point air fares of their own and their competition.

Two further points close to home. Connecticut's own Pilgrim Airlines filled the vacuum of service to Montreal via Bradley at Windsor Locks. On the North Atlantic route, it is British Laker Airlines — a true independent — which precipitated the sudden, revealing fare reduction of JFK London fare figures.

Contrary to Mr. Kosak, I suggest your efforts to inform our Connecticut Congressional delegation to study S288 and S292 with an eye to its support and passage. Senators Weicker and Ribicoff will insure that the competitive goal is achieved without a relaxation of safety requirements.

versus. Does Carter grow testy when crowded by political foes or competing power centers on Capitol Hill? Just watch a bunch of crabs jammed too tightly together sometime, and see how they snap and lunge.

Carter, like any good politician, is discovering the hard way that a frontal assault upon a given objective may not be the most effective approach; sidling up to a goal, crablike, often yields greater results.

Learned to wait And in the face of adversity, such as the frigid Capitol Hill response to his proposal for the creation of a consumer protection agency, Jimmy Carter — like Jimmy Crab — has learned to hunker down and wait for warmer weather.

It is all a bit far-fetched, of course, comparing a president with a crab. But this is August, dog days fit only for idle musings on a sun-baked beach. Time enough, when September comes, to return to serious business and heavy lifting. The president himself could use a break, a respite from the pressures of power. His visit to an offshore oil rig in Louisiana was no doubt instructive, but a trip to Jimmy Crab country along the Chesapeake Bay or points east would be a whole lot more fun. We guarantee it.

Idle reading His work makes ideal summer reading here in the heart of crab-eating country. And invariably, for those steeped in politics, the book sets you to thinking about certain similarities between Warner's "Jimmy-crabs" and our own pet preoccupation of the same name.

Does Jimmy Carter seem a changeable fellow, conservative one instant, liberal the next? Consider, then, Jimmy Crab, forever shedding one shell to don a new and roomier homemade wine and ingesting a couple of pounds of spaghetti at a sitting. But today, across the land, the kids of these distinguished first and second-generation Americans, who brought the country character, go to Eater and Groton and Princeton. They eat at the best restaurants in town, sometimes in black tie, and excuse themselves for not taking on a load of pasta or a nice stuffed cabbage because it's fattening. They're in the corporate law firms and selling bonds and sitting in a big IBM office working on nervous breakdowns and the limit is now two kids instead of the seven or eight that used to make a household a family.

There is something missing in the national life, all right, add it is the way the Micks and Wops and the Polacks used to be when they weren't afraid of being Micks and Wops and Polacks. They gave the Republic distinction and diversity and flavor and now they may as well all change their names to Smith.

After the brother act broke up, Marx went on to new fame with "You Bet Your Life," which began on radio and went on to television. It ran for 11 years and is seen in reruns to this day, creating a new generation of Marx fans.

Nominally a quiz show, it was really a setting for Marx to rib the male contestants and ogle the women, making wisecracks with sexual double meanings, punctuated by thrusts of his cigar and his wagging eyebrows.

After a youth in vaudeville, the brothers hit the big time when they came West in the early 1930s to make a series of movies including "Animal Crackers," "A Night at the Opera," "Horsefeathers," "Duck Soup," "A Day at the Races," "Cocanuts," "Room Service," "The Big Store," "A Day at the Circus" and "Monkey Business."

Town gets rebate for electricity The Town of Manchester received more than $63,000 in rebates this week from Hartford Electric Light Co. (HELCO) for street lighting costs in accordance with recent out-of-court settlements after a cost increase request was declared illegal.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said the town received a check for $42,011 as direct reimbursement and an additional amount of $21,126 was credited against the town's street lighting costs for the month of July.

Giles also said the Public Works Department has calculated the effect of the current HELCO rate increase request on the town budget. From the information received to date, he said, it appears the proposed rate increase will amount to about $36,000 on Manchester's yearly street lighting bill.

The current street lighting budget is approximately $24,000 a year.

The new HELCO rates, if approved by the Public Utilities Control Authority (PUC) would represent an approximate 14 per cent increase in the town's street lighting bill, Giles said. The HELCO request was made about a month ago.

WJWJ back on the air WJWJ-FM, off the air since Aug. 5 when it was knocked out by lightning, is back on the air.

The religious radio start had parts of its transmitter blown out during the violent storms of Aug. 5, although it did not suffer a direct hit. Replacement parts had to be ordered from California, said Ann Costa, general manager for the station.

The station is at 89.9 on the dial, and it is based at St. Thomas Seminary in Bloomfield. If offers prayers, meditations, informational programming, and some classical music, and it broadcasts from 1 to 9 p.m. daily.

Pitkin silver thieves demanding ransom EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Authorities say they will not meet thieves' demands of ransom and immunity from prosecution in exchange for returning the "princess" Pitkin family silver stolen from a town library last week.

One unidentified official quoted in the Hartford Courant today said the thieves, who made the demands through an unidentified "intermediary," have threatened to "melt down" the silver flatware unless their demands are met.

Police Chief Clarence Drumm said Friday "in no way" would the town "ransom or otherwise make payment to those involved in the matter." He said no ransom figure had been mentioned.

Hartford State's Attorney George Stoughton said his office will not grant immunity on the request.

Manchester police report

A store clerk was handcuffed to a counter and locked in the Manchester Book Shop, 707 Main St., about 8:50 p.m. Friday by an armed robber who escaped with over $100.

Police said the lone white male robber showed a small silver handgun when he entered the store. It was not determined whether he was masked, but he was described as having a light beard.

After the theft, the robber fled out a rear door. The clerk was able to reach the phone and call the police.

The detective bureau arrested Frank Duchesneau, 18, of no certain address, on a warrant Friday charging him with third-degree burglary and third-degree attempted larceny. The arrest was in connection with a break into a local church Wednesday which he allegedly attempted to steal some stereo equipment.

He was being held in lieu of $2,500 bond for court presentation Monday.

In an unrelated case, David Irwin, 16, of 23 St. John St., was arrested on a warrant on charges of third-degree burglary and criminal mischief and second-degree larceny.

Police said the arrest was in connection with a burglary at Gasland, 381 Main St., in late July. About $700 was stolen in the break. Irwin was released on a $2,000 non-surety bond for court Sept. 12.

Also being held today on $500 bond was Donald P. Monecy, 21, of 90 Wells St., charged with third-degree burglary and second-degree larceny. He was arrested on a warrant by the detective bureau Friday night, but no further details were available on the arrest.

Timothy J. Donahue, 24, of 24 Walnut St., was charged early today with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Police said he was involved in an accident in which his car struck a fire hydrant on Park St. about 1:30 a.m. He was brought to headquarters, processed and released for court appearance Aug. 30.

Two more vehicles were reported stolen Friday. A 1973 Cadillac was reported missing from an Edison Rd. driveway. The car is owned by Gina Marie Shaw of 37 Edison Rd.

A blue dune buggy was reported stolen from Suburban Motor Car, Inc., 50 Tolland Pike.

A Montclair Dr. resident reported 50 feet of pole-type fencing missing from his yard Thursday.

Tarkenton's return fails to slow Jones, Baltimore

NEW YORK (UPI) — The artistically successful return of the NFL's all-time leading quarterback Friday night was not enough to save the Minnesota Vikings from falling to the youthful arm of Bert Jones and his Baltimore Colts.

Frank Tarkenton, statistically the best passer of all time, went the first three quarters for Minnesota and completed 15-of-22 passes for 176 yards. But Jones was 8-of-16 for 90 yards and a touchdown, while Lydell

Viking Sammy White (85) pulls in a Fran Tarkenton pass despite the efforts of Baltimore Colt Jackie Williams in second period play of exhibition tilt. (UPI photo)

Linhart had kicked a 28-yard field goal to open the scoring but two of his four conversion attempts were blocked.

Jones found wide receiver Glenn Douglas for a 6-yard scoring pass in the closing seconds of the half to put Baltimore ahead 16-7.

Jones' substitute, Bill Tropea, tossed a 4-yard TD pass to Freddie Scott early in the fourth quarter. Lee Scott scored the Colts' final touchdown on a 22-yard run on the last play of the game.

Sammy Johnson, who left the game in the third quarter with an injured right knee, accounted for the only Viking TD on a 4-yard plunge on the first play of the second quarter.

Both teams are now 2-1 in exhibition play.

In the only game played Friday night, Cleveland opened ST. Louis 19-10.

Brian Sipe's two touchdown passes led the Browns to their first preseason victory at the expense of the Cardinals, who have yet to win a game. Sipe threw an 18-yard scoring pass to Reggie Rucker late in the first half and a 6-yarder to rookie Charlie Nash four minutes into the fourth quarter.

Tonight, it is Chicago at Houston, Miami at Dallas, the New York Giants at San Diego, Buffalo at New Orleans, Pittsburgh at the New York Jets, Denver at Atlanta and Green Bay at Tampa Bay.

Sunday, it will be Los Angeles at San Francisco and Cincinnati at Detroit. New England travels to Philadelphia for Monday's lone game.

Director urges open meeting to discuss water problem

Town Director Vivian Ferguson is calling for an open town meeting on the recent water contamination issue to allow residents from all areas of Manchester to ask questions regarding the water.

An advisory to residents of 42 streets in the southwest section of town was lifted Friday afternoon after 12 days of boiling water for drinking and food preparation.

In a memorandum to Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager in charge while Town Manager Robert Weiss is on vacation, Mrs. Ferguson said, "While the nightmare is over, it is obvious from the innumerable telephone calls I am receiving that residents are fearful in other areas of the town. A meeting of this type would not only provide information but could give peace of mind to our citizens."

She also asked McCarthy to secure a larger meeting place for the Sept. 6 meeting of the special water study committee which had been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Lincoln Center. She suggested a place such as the Manchester High School auditorium with an adequate capacity for public attendance.

Mrs. Ferguson said she had discussed the matter with Harry Reinhorn, chairman of the committee, and said he is in agreement with her suggestion.

The committee has been making a study of the town's water treatment system. The committee is composed of a group of Manchester residents appointed by the Board of Directors to review and make recommendations on a report on the water system done by Weston & Sampson, a Boston engineering firm.

Mrs. Ferguson also reiterated a request she made at last Tuesday's directors meeting in which she requested that Dr. Alice Turek, the town health director, be involved whenever any health problem occurs, such as the recent water contamination.

Mrs. Ferguson also requested Tuesday that Dr. Turek be informed when the problem was over and that she assure the residents of her concurrence with the decision. She said this was not done, to her knowledge and she asked McCarthy for a reason why this was not done.

Motor tour Historic Tobacco Valley

Looking for something new? While you are trying to decide which of the tour-templer's offers is the most irresistible, refresh your outlook in Connecticut's Historic Tobacco Valley where you can turn back the clock and have fun doing it.

A return to the 17th century affords a chance to visit the oldest house in the oldest town in Connecticut: The Flyer House and Wilson Museum in Windsor. At Massacoh Plantation in Simsbury you travel through three centuries in the life and times of a single community from the 1670 Meeting House to the 20th century Ellsworth Gallery of Art.

Old New-Gate, the Revolutionary War prison and colonial copper mine in East Granby, is a National Historic Landmark providing a fascinating trip into the past. A fascination of a different sort is the indoor-outdoor aviation museum adjacent to Bradley International Airport. Here the aircraft range from a 1909 Bleriot XI to modern jet fighters and bombers.

In Tobacco Valley you will find all the variety you can handle. The 18th century Hatheway House in Suffield boasts three different Connecticut architectural styles under one roof, plus fine paneling and original French wallpapers. In contrast, the 19th century "cottage" of Harriet Beecher Stowe on Forest Street in Hartford is as Victorian as you can desire.

The Hitchcock Museum in Riverton contains a unique collection of the stenciled and decorated chairs which skilled craftsman Lambert Hitchcock created when he invited America to "Be Seated," along with other pieces made by his contemporaries. Last on the list, but possibly your first choice, is the Connecticut Electric Railway Museum in Warehouse Point where you may enjoy again, or experience for the first time, the delight of a trolley ride.

These various outstanding attractions are all conveniently located in Tobacco Valley where short drives from place to place are their own reward in scenery and relaxation.

For a free brochure about all these attractions, write: Tobacco Valley Regional Tourist Bureau, P.O. Box 555, Simsbury, Conn. 06070.

Collector's Corner*Double cover notes JubileeBy RUSS MacKENDRICK

Below is a PNC, a philatelic-numismatic cover. It doubly commemorates Queen Elizabeth's Silver Jubilee.

There is the full set of four Jubilee stamps, each one just barely nipped with a cancellation on a corner.

The numismatic part is a Jubilee crown (a 5-shilling piece) with the Queen shown on horseback. The reverse of the coin depicts an ampulla (a vessel for consecrated oil) with an anointing spoon, encircled by a floral border. The coin is encased in transparent plastic and set into the envelope.

The price for this assemblage is $20 postpaid, two for $37.50, from Modern Coin Marketing Ltd, P.O. Box 747, Station B, Ottawa, Canada K1P 5P7.

"The portrait of a reigning monarch makes British stamps unique." Another uniqueness is that they never show the name of the country on the stamps — you are just supposed to know. This is a tradition they are entitled to because they were the first in the postage stamp field with the Penny Black in 1840. ($750 mint, $55 used, in Scott's Volume 1, up from $500 and $45 last year.)

CB Convac*World radio parley slated for 1979By INK DIPPER

Over 100 countries will meet in Geneva, Switzerland, in late 1979 to discuss their radio spectrum requirements. This is the first such conference to be held in 20 years, and there won't be another one until the year 2000.

Why is it important?

The FCC will present policies involving CB (land mobile) and ham (amateur radio) which have been established in the United States. In order to completely document their position, the FCC has been sending out notices of inquiry which request comments from the public and various spectrum users. The Fifth Notice has just been released and asks for users to file statements regarding their needs.

By the time this conference takes place, there will probably be a lot of changes

The largest private stamp collection in the world is at Buckingham Palace. It has been kept up by the Queen's order since it was left by George V, a devoted student of stamps, who was once President of the Royal Philatelic Society. There is an official Keeper of the Collection, a Mr. Marriott, who is now awash with the stuff from all the ex-colonies coming in. He says that if they were being mounted as they did in the old days there would be more than 1,000 albums.

During the reign of Q.E. II there has been an upsurge of commemoratives, perhaps fostered by her own interest in the things. The July 23 issue of "Stamps" shows a cover posted in a one-day-only box at the Royal News, Buckingham Palace, with a cachet actually applied at the Palace.

Mailing costs in Britain are gyrating with many complications such as lowering the allowable weight for first class. Here is a passage in Stamps magazine that must have come direct from Piccadilly: "...the new rates have been submitted to the Post Office Users' National Council and the Price Commission so that these organizations can have their ritual mazurkas, but the outcome is in no doubt whatever: The post office's customers will have to pay, like it or lump it."

It's the same all over!

Energy design

The design for the upcoming pair of se-tenant Energy stamps is shown in color by the "Stamp Collector" paper. There is a light bulb, a glowing sun, and a red gasoline can that is altogether too lifelike with its flexible spout. It will shake up quite a few out-gas motorists who have walked a mile or so carrying just such a can.

The stamps will be semi-jumbos. There will also be an embossed envelope with the same design. No date announced yet.

Birthday stamp

In the meantime there is a 13-cent stamp coming out for the 200th anniversary of the first civil settlement in Alta California. This one will appear at San Jose on the 9th of September. It will picture some buildings of that period in history. ("Alta California" comprised half a dozen or so of the western states.)

Just nine cents

Of all people, anyone would think stamp collectors would be up to date on the cost of sending post cards, but Dick Sine's jolly column in the American Philatelist has it that a survey of reply cards received at the Society from a recent mailing showed that fully 66 per cent had too much postage.

So post card users take note — the tariff now is nine cents.

Something to do

The Manchester Philatelic Society will have another summer get-together at Mott's Community Hall next Tuesday, 7 to 10 p.m. The attendance has been surprisingly good so far at these circuit-book-and-trading nights.

Ask KleinerBy Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: I am planning on being a movie director and I was wondering how many other women directors there are. Could you tell me how to get started? J.L. EWOLDT, Kalamazoo, Mich.

It's tough, but not as tough now as it once was. In the 13 years I've been writing about Hollywood, I've seen two female directors — Ida Lupino and Joan Darling, who just did her first, "First Love." But there are more and more women as assistant directors, cutters, story editors — and those are all rungs on the ladder to directorhood. There's no easy way to "get started," but it can't hurt to study directing at one of the good colleges — such as UCLA AND USC — that offer film curricula.

DEAR DICK: I think I read years ago that Scott Brady and Randolph Scott were related. True, or am I wrong again? R.P. OLSON, Council Bluffs, Iowa

The facts are wrong, but I can't say whether you read it and the writer was wrong or whether your memory is faulty. But, no, Brady and Scott are unrelated. What you may have read is that Scott Brady is a brother of Lawrence Tierney.

DEAR DICK: I was wondering if Vincent Van Patten had any relationship to Joyce Van Patten. And, if so, what it is. LINDA MAGALVO, Vancouver, B.C., Can.

Now we're talking relatives. Joyce's brother, Dickie Van Patten, is Vincent's father. So Vincent calls Joyce "aunt." Or, at any rate, he should.

DEAR DICK: Whatever happened to Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina? Can you tell me what plans they have for the future? SHERRIE, Hartford, Conn.

They have split up and each is pursuing his career separately. Both, however, still record for Columbia. Kenny's first solo album, "Celebrate Me Home," is out now. Jim's is due for release next fall. Both are on tour, doing well as single acts.

DEAR DICK: Will you settle a bet? My friend says that Noah Beery is the son of Wallace Beery. I say he is the son of Noah Beery, which would make him Wallace Beery's nephew. Right or wrong? FRED L. HENSLEY, Stockton, Calif.

Right as rain. In fact, when the current Beery began his career, he billed himself as Noah Beery Jr. and only dropped the Jr. a few years ago.

DEAR DICK: Some time ago, you had a question from a reader asking about the people in the old Chad Mitchell Trio. This is to let you know that I was one of the Trio. I am now director of the Spokane Opera House and Convention Center. Before that, I was the director of performing and visual arts for EXPO '74, Spokane's World's Fair. Joe Frazier, another of the Trio, went into the seminary about a year after leaving. Today, he is an Episcopalian priest in Langford, Pa. MIKE KOBLUK, Spokane, Wash.

Thanks for the fill-in, and it's nice to know that there is a place for old folksingers to go.
