Weicker says America bound to back Panama Canal treaty

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. Lowell Weicker says Americans are bound by their traditional values of freedom and self-determination to give control of the Panama Canal to the Panamanians.

in announcing his support for a proposed treaty, the Connecticut Republican Monday criticized conservatives who oppose it for acting like the communists and dictators they fear will take control of the canal when the United States leaves.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Bruce (Jane) Noble of Manchester; a son, Edward K. Hutchinson of Bolton; four grandchildren and a great-grandson.

Survivors are his wife, a son, his mother and three grandchildren. The funeral is Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. from the Robinson and Wright Funeral Home, Main St., Centerbrook, with a Mass at 10 at Our Lady of Sorrows Church, Essex. Burial will be at the convenience of the family.

Dog loosed on policeman

One Manchester Police officer was attacked and bitten by a Doberman pincher dog and two other officers were injured in a fight early today along with a Birch St. man.

John D. Burdick, 24, of 129 Birch St., was arrested in connection with the incident on charges of disorderly conduct and assault on a police officer. He also was issued an infractions complaint charging him with the nuisance statute of owning or harboring a dog such as to create a nuisance.

it bit Officer Thomas Passacantell on the leg. During the struggle with Burdick, Morneau received injuries to his knee and cuts on his face and arms. Taylor also received cuts and scratches on his arms and face. All three officers were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital, where released and relieved of the rest of their duty.

Town to get 100 CETA jobs

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

A branch of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program could provide the Town of Manchester with at least 100 temporary jobs.

been approved, McCarthy said. His letter to the directors included a list of other suggested projects that might be funded and staffed through CETA. The list included a printing and writing crew for the town's annual report, a legal aid office, a crew to handle record updating in the Water Department and a staff to paint street signs for the Police Department.

"The town has this larger role to play in terms of the government effort to fight unemployment," McCarthy said. "We've got to get ourselves into a position to perform this role."

Hurricane Anita aims for coast of Texas

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Hurricane Anita, the first major storm of the season, gained strength today and slowly aimed its gale force winds at the crowded resort beaches of the Texas coast.

Forecasters predicted the storm would continue to intensify and remain on a westerly track for the next 24 hours.

The Coast Guard placed all six of its Texas stations on standby alert and warned residents living in areas below sea level to prepare to leave on short notice.

Oil companies shut down offshore drilling operations and shuttled more than 7,000 workers to shore in helicopters and crew boats when Anita surged to hurricane force Tuesday night.

Another 2,200 residents of Grand Isle, La., were asked to leave their homes, even though they were east of the hurricane danger zone. Blackish winds from the storm forced tides

Spring to stay closed while town makes decision

Highland Park Spring will be closed indefinitely until the Town of Manchester decides to commit funds for repairs at the private property public works, proposed several other changes that he felt should be made to improve the spring setup.

Giles raised two major points of concern in his suggestions. One is that major repairs, rather than stop-gap measures, are needed to properly treat the spring. He estimated the repairs might cost $10,000. The other is that the spring is on private property and is in private hands. Thus, the present status of the spring is in limbo.

Ford sees V-8 engines on their way to extinction

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — Americans who grew up thinking the powerful and fuel-hungry V-8 engine under their car's hood was the only way to travel are in for a big surprise.

Like the dinosaur, V-8s are on their way to becoming extinct. In a prelude to the next decade's disappearing act, the Ford Motor Co. warns it may have to limit availability of its larger engines and close assembly plants if Americans do not start buying small cars with fuel-efficient engines.

"If we have to, we will shut some of our plants rather than break the law," Ford Executive Vice President William O. Bourke told a national news preview Tuesday. "What we have to do is create a demand for small cars."

Bourke said Ford figures it can meet the government's 18 miles per gallon fleet average "by a slight margin." But if Americans continue to opt for larger engines in larger cars, he indicated, neither Ford nor any of its American competitors will meet the mark.

General Motors, which already has set 1978-model prices, has raised the prices of its optional V-8 engines well above the general 5.7 per cent price increase to discourage their installation.

Town program belies welfare chiseler theory

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The theory of welfare chiselers is disproved, at least partially, by the Town of Manchester's Work Relief Program, which has expanded from serving four persons 20 years ago to the record 92 that it served during the 1976-77 fiscal year.

The program, coordinated by the Social Services Department, provides part-time employment with the town for persons who receive town welfare. They are paid minimum wage for the work, and the pay is subtracted from the welfare benefits that the persons receive from the town.

"It's not the easiest program in the world to run," Mary DellaFera, director of social services, said. But it's also a program that she is proud of.

Work relief was first started during the Depression to provide a chance to work for local residents who, like many people across the country, were out of a job.

With the end of the Depression era, the program was discontinued. Miss DellaFera started it again in 1956, two years after she became director of social services.

She restarted it because a local doctor recommended such a program to provide employment for several alcoholic clients who were out of work.

During the first year, a total of four persons worked through the program. Today, the program provides for more than just alcoholics.

Anyone who receives town welfare for a week is given a physical exam, Miss DellaFera said. The doctor will determine if the person is able-bodied and what type of work he or she is capable of doing.

If the person is capable of working, the Social Services Department will seek placement in a town department. If the person is able-bodied and refuses to work, the town can refuse assistance, she said.

Pay back
Anyone who receives town welfare is expected, to eventually pay the money back. The Work Relief Program provides an opportunity for the recipient to pay back the money through part-time work.

A total of 92 persons were provided part-time work through the program during 1976-77. They worked a total of 10,436 hours with 15 town departments.

Those employed through the program do not take the place of regular town employees, Miss DellaFera said. They work for departments on temporary projects or in cases where the town could not hire additional help.

Thus, the Work Relief Program provides part-time labor for the town. But more importantly, it provides an opportunity to work and learn skills for those on welfare.

The program is designed as a temporary one until the participants can find jobs. And the job placement rate of the program is a good one.

Principals to hold workshops to prepare for new groupings

Manchester public elementary school principals will be attending the first of several inservice workshops Thursday in preparation for an expected change to multi-age groupings in some schools.

Dr. Alfred Tychsen, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum, told the Board of Education Monday night that the new system will be instituted at the recommendation of a declining enrollment committee which met last year.

The expected continual declining enrollments will be felt first by the smaller schools, Tychsen said. Such class breakdowns as 30 to 35 students will be too many for one classroom and too few for two.

The principals will begin gathering information on various multi-age grouping plans. The most difficult part of instituting the plan, Tychsen said, will be working with teachers and parents and making adjustments in the curriculum.

Tychsen said the groupings would be similar in some ways to those already in use at the two IGE (individually guided education) programs at Nathan Hale and Green Schools. However, IGE has its own curriculum and other separate components.

Keesey St. School also has a combination second and third grade. Tychsen said there will still be some self-contained classrooms to accommodate those children who are not suited to the mixed groupings.

In answer to board members' questions regarding space and remodeling of classrooms, Tychsen said he did not yet know what effect it would have.

Tychsen said Tuesday that the change to the new program could come as early as next September in one or more of the schools with smaller enrollments, such as Bentley, Martin and Highland Park. He said the administration feels it needs to be ready if the changeover becomes necessary because of the enrollment declines.

School officials from other school systems which have used the multi-age grouping will meet with the principals in as many as eight workshops throughout the coming school year. They will help the principals define their role in changing the organization of their schools and in considering several options that can be used.

Tychsen said the program is not a new concept, but teachers, principals and parents will have to be educated on it.

Other board action Monday night included approval of a bid waiver in the amount of $23,368 to purchase a lease-renal plant and rental plan from IBM data processing equipment for Manchester High School.

Blaine Miller, assistant principal at the high school, said he hopes the first phase of the service will begin operating on the third day of school next week and will record attendance. The attendance counts will be available for all the teachers in the school within 24 hours after processing.

The board also approved a washout account in the amount of $54,574 for a 10 month extension of the new Destitutionalization of Status Offenders (DSO) program operating through the town Youth Services Department.

The statewide program which began last December helps juveniles who have been repeatedly apprehended for truancy, running away from home, deviant sexual behavior or incorrigibility.

Nine new teachers hired, 17 others get back jobs

The Manchester Board of Education approved the appointment Monday night of nine new teachers and the reappointment of the last of 17 non-tenured teachers who had been laid off last February.

The board rescinded the previous action which allows Mrs. Barbara Quinby to remain employed as a science and home economics teacher at Iling Junior High.

All but one of the teachers had been rehired for the same or comparable teaching positions.

Philip Blanchette, one of the 17 teachers, was rehired as a security guard and girls' cross country coach at Manchester High School. A teaching position was not available for him at this time.

As of Monday night, six positions are still vacant, but four are expected to be filled this week, Deakin reported. Those are part-time French and physical education teachers at the high school and two first semester business education teachers at the high school.

Two special education teachers are still needed at Robertson elementary and Iling Junior High Schools.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Business leaders used to complain that FDI's "New Deal" programs were being run by egghead professors and ivory-towered theoreticians "who never had to meet a payroll."

A complaint somewhat of that sort could be made about one of the newer agencies, the Office of Budget and Management.

Traditionally, federal budget directors, although presiding over some of the greatest deficits the world has ever known, have been individuals whose personal finances had always been in the black.

It seems almost paradoxical, but we've had some budget directors who never knew what it was like to be overdrafted at the bank.

It's difficult to see how a budget director with sufficient funds in his accounts could properly relate to all that red ink in the government's ledgers.

He would, I should think, tend to look upon federal deficits in a detached, objective manner than with a view colored by his own experiences.

Stevens asks Carter to overrule decision barring work relief

HARTFORD (UPI) — House Minority Leader Gerald F. Stevens is asking President Carter to overrule an informal federal decision forbidding U.S. funds for Connecticut's work relief program for welfare recipients.

Stevens asks Carter to overrule decision barring work relief

"President Carter is pushing a welfare program to help get people off welfare at the same time that his HEW people are here telling us in Connecticut that we cannot implement such a program here," the Milford Republican said.

Stevens asks Carter to overrule decision barring work relief

"I am amazed that after President Carter has called on Congress to enact his program to put welfare recipients to work — with much fanfare — that those who work under him in Washington prevent us from implementing Connecticut's plan to start welfare people on their way off the welfare rolls," Stevens said.

Stevens asks Carter to overrule decision barring work relief

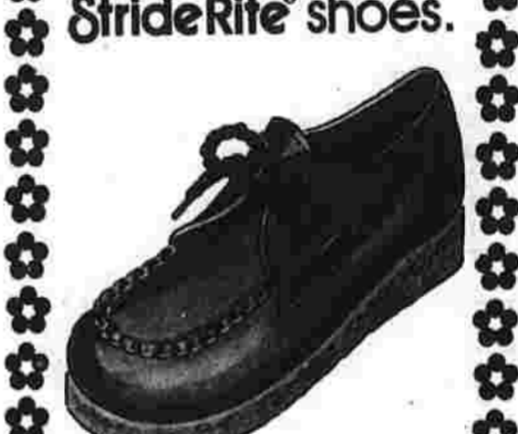

Stevens, seeking the Republican nomination to unseat Democratic Gov. Ella T. Grasso, wrote Carter Tuesday the HEW's informal ruling differed from the president's previously expressed policy.

Opinion

Jimmy's cousin Liz

Politicians seem to be one thing before an election and another after, and President Carter is no exception. During the campaign, Jimmy Carter came across as a populist, a man of the people, a folksy peanut farmer from Plains, Ga. Now it turns out he is descended from a family that produced America's first millionaire and is related both to George Washington and the Queen of England. The news comes from Debrett's Peerage, an old London firm that roots around in the noble family trees and publishes sort of a stud look of the British aristocracy. After eight months of study, Debrett's genealogist traced Carter back to a family of wheelwrights and haulers (carters) in 1361 in Kings Langley, Hertfordshire, about 20 miles north of London. Next Debrett's traced the President to John Carter, a well-known London wine merchant, whose sons Thomas and John sailed to America on the ship Safety in 1625.

John Carter fathered Robert "King" Carter, a millionaire landowner who was influential in colonial America. Thomas, who did less well, had plantations in eastern Virginia, and was the president's direct ancestor. Debrett's says Jimmy Carter's royal connections came from the fact that the Carter family was related to the Tookes and Newces families in Hertfordshire, which were related to George Washington. Queen Elizabeth II is known to be related to the Washingtons on both sides. Just what effect the discovery of his blue blood will have on Carter is not known. It could rush to his head and cause him to try to revive the unlamented imperial presidency. Or he could remain folksy, inviting the Queen of England to come visit 'y'all and introduce her around as Cousin Liz. That would bloody well shock Debrett's and pay it back for messing around with American family trees.

An owlsh editor's notebook

By FLOYD LARSON

Uncle Julius thinks too much is being made about Candidate Jimmy Carter riding around in an airplane owned by his pal Bert Lance's bank. After all, Julius says, most of us ride around in cars owned by a bank or a finance company.

The only thing that sticks in his craw a bit, though, is the attempt to brush the whole affair aside by calling it an oversight and promising to make restitution, either out of his own pocket or with campaign funds. Therein lies the big weakness in the so-called election reform laws. If you're a winner and it is found out you broke the law - you make restitution. If you're a loser - well, it depends on how close you came to winning whether you can make restitution or face charges. We suspect any also-ran, who is a potential candidate for another try, would be in real hot water.

The bookkeeping oversight alibi seems a bit flimsy too when you have been reading for months about the President's passion for detail, which would lead most of us to believe that he would have known better than to take the rides in the first place, and if he did not, he would have known the rules so that the flights would have been paid for promptly.

Of course, the hired hands may not be as careful as Carter, which probably explains why he still carries his own luggage.

With school about to start, it is time to give some advice to parents who will find themselves childless for at least part of each weekday. Don't panic just because the stereo is silent at 10 a.m. for it will sound off later in the evening under the guise, "It helps me to study better."

Don't panic when you serve lunch only to find that the school lunch was inadequate and had to be supplemented with a pizza or home made therefore, "I'll eat my salad later." Translated this means, "I'll eat my salad later if I am hungry after having two bowls of ice cream, potato chips and a soda." The only

Textbook budget at all-time low

Johnny can't read without books

By Dr. Austin McCaffrey What will the world of tomorrow be like? Will it be the closest society predicted by the more pessimistic of social critics - or will it be a step closer to utopia? Either way, it will be a world created by our children. Perhaps it is not by gazing into a statistical crystal ball, but by simply studying our children that we can best glimpse the 21st century. Note futurist Herman Kahn of the Hudson Institute has said that "We don't choose our future, we make it." Our children are the future, they are our investment in tomorrow. By preparing them to take a responsible and enlightened place in the world, we are doing all we can to make the world itself responsible and enlightened. By educating them with care, we are caring for tomorrow. Yet two out of three Americans believe that the quality of education is declining. Confidence in our public schools has reached what seems to be an all-time low. Spending up Despite an astronomical increase in education spending from $29.7 billion in 1965 to $75 billion last year, test scores for graduating seniors have been declining. A recent poll reported that more than 18 million Americans age 16 and older were functionally illiterate. That means they are unable to fill out even a standard job application form, or do a simple sum. There is something wrong with a system whose graduates too often hover on the thin edge of illiteracy. Is this the future we are building? Clearly new answers are required.

New answers Among these new answers has been a broader emphasis on early childhood education, on bilingual education, on special programs for exceptional children and the learning disabled, and on participation of parents and paraprofessionals in classroom activities. The most prominent and seemingly revolutionary of these new answers has been a return to basics - a rediscovered emphasis on the traditional methods of teaching them. Herman Kahn has predicted that from now until at least 1990, "old-fashioned" values will reassert themselves in our schools. There will be more consistent use of textbooks and an emphasis on basic skills drilling, especially in the primary grades. Back to basics Intrinsic to the "back to basics" movement is a re-emphasis on instructional materials as a solid, down-to-earth resource, invaluable to quality education. After all the various innovations have been given their day, nothing comes near replacing a good teacher and effective, up-to-date instructional materials. We've seen test scores fall over the last decade, we've also seen a decline in the percentage of the education dollar which goes for textbooks and instructional materials. Is there a correlation? One per cent on books Today, less than 1 per cent of our public school budget is spent on books - down from 2 per cent in 1965. Of the $1.40 spent on educating the average pupil last year, only about $14 was spent on maintaining and upgrading textbooks. That works out to no more than a nickel per day per student - about a fourth of the price of our daily newspaper. Instructional materials remain at the bottom of the budgetary totem-pole. Ninety-nine per cent of the school budget dollar is spent on the support system, one per cent on this most essential element!

Out of date texts Studies have shown that students spend 95 per cent of their study time with textbooks, yet most schools "make-do" with texts which are sometimes decades out of date. Imagine the frustration of a science teacher who wants to discuss the significance of the recent expedition to Mars, only to find that the textbook his or her class has been given doesn't even mention the moon landing. At current rates of textbook replacement, it may be anywhere from five to eight years before the Mars story and photos appear in the average classroom's science textbook. Textbooks must reflect changes as they occur, not only in the sciences and in social studies, but also in society itself. Outdated books tend to reflect out-dated stereotypes and attitudes, and may sometimes fail to conform to hard-won legal battles. Publishers have made a concerted effort to eliminate these sexual and racial stereotypes from new editions of existing texts. Guidelines have been established, formed to insure that our children enter into adult life with the widest possible vision of the opportunities existing for them. But all of these efforts are wasted for those children attending schools where outdated materials still reflect the prejudices and limited individual possibilities of a bygone era. Some questions If a young girl has a head for figures, will her books be up to date enough to suggest a career as a banker or an engineer? Will boys be reminded that men, too, can enjoy cooking, child care, and handicrafts? Teachers often emphasize the need for more and better books. The majority of teachers polled in the Scholastic Teacher Survey believed educational materials were as important as salaries. They particularly stressed that increased availability of educational materials would help them better tailor instruction to fit each student's own learning needs and interests - a critical part of motivating every pupil. Times are right Times are right, but we can't be "penny wise and pound foolish" where our children's future is concerned. With salaries mounting yearly, textbooks and other educational materials represent the best investment we can make. By making more instructional materials available to existing personnel we increase the efficiency of our schools, and help teachers perform more effectively. Books are the more cost-efficient of all teaching aids - and the most effective. A Michigan State Education Department survey discovered that high-performing schools tend to spend twice as much for textbooks and other instructional materials as low-performing schools. Actual classroom experience suggests that intensive use of specially prepared materials can achieve important positive results in many areas including reading proficiency rates. And reading skills must be given priority; little else counts in the curriculum until a child learns to read. Twin threats Our educational system is facing the twin threats of budget limitations and declining productivity. We cannot afford anything but the most effective tools for increasing the efficiency of our schools, and giving our children every possible opportunity to find a satisfying future in an increasingly complex, competitive world. If we are to economize in some segments of our society, common sense tells us that it is not in the educational system that these cuts must be made, for that is dangerously like weakening the foundation to save the house. DR. AUSTIN McCAFFEREY, a former superintendent of schools and Commissioner of Education in New Hampshire, is currently senior vice president of the Association of American Publishers.

Gaals take Homestead posts

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Gaal have accepted the positions of resident host and hostess of the Cheney Homestead, 106 Hartford Rd. They were recently selected by a screening committee of the Manchester Historical Society and the homestead.

The couple succeeds Mr. and Mrs. Ryal Isham, who served from 1969, when the Cheney Historical Foundation deeded title of the circa 1780 home to the society.

Gaal is a native of Pittsburgh, Pa. He received a B.S. in business engineering from Oberlin (Ohio) College and an A.B. and a B.S. in business administration from the University of Hartford.

For more than 25 years he has been interested in researching and refurbishing antiques. A major project was the restoration of his former 250-year-old residence in Bolton. Last year he was appointed by the Grand Master of Masons in the state to serve on a committee delegated to establish a library-museum at the Grand Lodge office in Wallingford.

Gaal is a past master of Friendship Lodge of Masons, belongs to the Scottish Rites Bodies of Masonry and is a member of the 32nd degree east, Sphinx Temple and Omar Shrine Club. He is a past patron of Temple Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

He was a charter member of the Gilbert and Sullivan Workshop, sang in a number of its productions for several years, has been a South United Methodist Church choir member for more than 30 years, and sang with the original Beethoven Glee Club. In WWII, he served four years with the 20th Air Force in the Pacific.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Gaal

Mrs. Gaal is the former Elsie Wetherell. She is a Manchester native, graduated from the local school system, and currently attends Manchester Community College, where she is studying airline ad- ministration. She has assisted her husband in researching and refurbishing antiques. She has held office in the OES and is currently an officer of Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth.

The Gaals will continue the schedule of homestead guided tours, Thursday and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

Cheney landmark passes second review

The proposal to designate part of Manchester's famed Cheney area as a National Historic Landmark has passed its second review.

The historical area committee of the secretary of the interior's Advisory Committee of National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments in Washington, D.C., Tuesday approved an application to make the Cheney industrial and part of its residential area a national historic site.

It is expected that the formal recommendation will come before the full advisory board about Oct. 1, at L.B. State Park, Stonewall, Tex. After that, the final okay from the secretary of the interior makes the designation official.

A bronze plaque and certificate is given to the designated landmark after the final decision is made. The Cheney application is one of 62 throughout the United States having passed the second committee review for national historical recognition. The influence of the Cheney family in Manchester's civic and economic development and the importance of the family's silk industry make the proposed historical designation a significant one.

Energy Misers

Like a lot of other people, we at United Technologies began looking at energy - its use, its availability, its cost - in a new context as a result of the 1973 oil embargo.

A program was promptly initiated throughout our company to make the most efficient possible use of energy in our plants and processes. Its purpose was to conserve energy supplies and save energy dollars in a way that wouldn't adversely affect our people, our operations, and our commitments to customers.

The results: By the end of 1976, the men and women of United Technologies had reduced the company's energy consumption by more than 20% from 1972's level. The saving is equivalent to more than 21 million gallons of crude oil.

We're practicing frugality with energy in all kinds of ways. At Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group, jet-engine testing has been rearranged to cut fuel use without affecting integrity of the tests. Heating and cooling requirements throughout our facilities have been reduced through improved maintenance, close monitoring of control settings, and turning off heat, lights and exhaust fans during non-working hours. Machines and other equipment drawing heavily on electricity are operated on a carefully phased schedule to lessen their use during periods of greatest electrical demands.

At its Windsor Locks plant, Hamilton Standard designed and installed a computerized system to monitor and control energy usage. As a result, consumption there is down 25%. Similar systems are going in at other Connecticut plants. Effective conservation has brought United Technologies the "Saver" citation of the U.S. Department of Commerce. Governor Grasso has presented conservation awards to our Norden division in Norwalk and our Research Center in East Hartford. While we've cut energy use substantially in the last four years, we're still not satisfied. We're tightening up consumption further.

Hamilton Standard is putting in a waste-heat recovery system that decomposes waste paper and produces a gas for use in heating and industrial processing. Sikorsky Aircraft is installing equipment that burns scrap and generates steam to be used in plant operations. A new air-conditioning system planned for Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's Southington plant is designed to do away with electrically operated compressors. The men and women of United Technologies are going about the job of saving energy with determined purpose. Our twin objectives are to help conserve the nation's dwindling supplies of fossil fuels and to soften the impact of rising fuel bills on our costs of doing business.

Energy conservation by all is a matter of compelling national urgency. In our view, it's also good business.

Two get CCSC promotions

Two Manchester area residents have received faculty promotions recently at Central Connecticut State College. Dr. Leland J. Stoppeworth of 1020 Boston Tpk., Bolton, and Dr. Adrienne W. Kozlowski of 7E Ambassador Dr. were among 80 faculty members to be advanced by the New Britain college.

Dr. Stoppeworth was named a professor in the department of human services and special education. A member of the CCSC faculty since 1972, he is a specialist in education of the emotionally disturbed child. He holds his B.A. degree from St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, an associate professor of chemistry, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Connecticut.

Dr. Stoppeworth is a member of the New England Children's Mental Health Task Force in Boston, the Council for Children with Behavior Disorders, and the Council for Exceptional Children. He is also on the board of trustees of Achievement Unlimited, a tutoring service in Bolton, Hartford, and a member of the Bolton Democratic Town Committee. Dr. Kozlowski, a specialist in inorganic chemistry, has been named also a member of the New England Association of Chemistry Teachers. A member of the CCSC faculty since 1970, she is a member of the American Chemical Society, the American Nuclear Society, and recently participated in a panel organization's annual summer conference.

Dr. Kozlowski holds her B.A. degree from MacMurry College, Hartford, and her M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in inorganic chemistry from the University of Connecticut.

Angry guard kills three

NEWPORT, Ind. (UPI) - A Newport Army Ammunition Depot guard, reprimanded for insubordination, disarmed a fellow security officer and began shooting at everyone he saw Tuesday, killing three persons and wounding two others.

The gunman was wounded in an exchange of gunfire with plant security personnel and captured.

State Police identified the suspect as Juan Gonzalez, 33, of Terre Haute. He was placed under guard in the intensive care unit of Union Hospital in Terre Haute, where he was listed in serious but stable condition.

Police said Gonzalez wrestled a revolver from a security guard, who apparently accompanied him to the second floor of the facility's administration building, where he had been summoned to be reprimanded for insubordination.

"They said he began shooting at anyone he saw," said a trooper at Terre Haute's Indiana State Police post.

Authorities said he fled down the stairs to the ground floor and exchanged shots with another guard and was wounded in the exchange.

Police said one of those killed was Tony Lacopo, of Rockville, the plant protection superintendent. Also dead were plant employees William Dillard, of Cayuga, and James Clark, of Terre Haute.

Troopers identified the wounded as Charlene Dunham, in her early 20s, of Cayuga, and Steven H. Posen, 23, of Euclid, Ohio.

Ms. Dunham, secretary to installation commander Capt. Ben Moberly, was in fair condition in St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Danville, Ill.

Carter calls on Americans not to back Irish strife

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Carter, affirming a U.S. policy of impartiality, is pleading for an end to the bloodshed in Northern Ireland and promising to join others in job-creating economic investments once peace is established.

In an extraordinary policy statement Tuesday, prompted by a group of lawmakers of Irish heritage, the President also urged all Americans to refrain from supporting groups involved in the violence in Ulster.

He warned that violators of American law in this regard will be prosecuted.

The Chief Executive was meeting today with Transportation Secretary Brock Adams to launch a special appeal for motorists to obey the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit to cut down traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend.

Carter also arranged to meet with Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee on his forthcoming tax reform proposals, and Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., head of the congressional black caucus.

The President's statement on Ireland expressed the hope "that all those engaged in violence will renounce this course and commit themselves to peaceful pursuit of legitimate goals."

Carter said American policy on the issue has long been one of impartiality, "and that is how it will remain."

"We support the establishment of a form of government in Northern Ireland, which will command widespread acceptance throughout both parts of the community," he said, but added that the United States has "no intention of telling the parties how this might be achieved."

If a settlement is achieved, Carter said "the U.S. government would be prepared to join with others to see how additional job-creating investment could be encouraged, to the benefit of all the people of Northern Ireland."

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell was asked why Carter wore a button during the St. Patrick's Day parade in the campaign year which read "Get the British Out of Ireland" if he believed in neutrality.

Powell said someone pinned the button on Carter, who was unaware of its message.

The President had another in his series of promotional briefings on the new Panama Canal treaties Tuesday and added two more powerful allies to his team favoring ratification: former Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Florida's Gov. Reubin Askew.

Carter plans a quiet stay at Camp David over the holiday weekend to prime himself for a heavy week ahead, with Congress returning and 18 chiefs of state arriving for an extravaganza treaty signing ceremony Sept. 7.

MVD announces spot check plan

The state Motor Vehicle Department will conduct random spot motor vehicle inspections in four area towns during the month of September.

The inspections will be held in the following towns: East Hartford, Sept. 6, South Windsor, Sept. 20, Rockville, Sept. 21 and Manchester, Sept. 23.

Sites within a given town are usually finalized on the morning scheduled in cooperation with local police departments.

ECHS gets $200 insurance grant

East Catholic High School in Manchester is among 41 Connecticut schools which have recently received gifts through the Connecticut General Insurance Corp. under its aid to education program.

A total of $98,675 was donated to Connecticut secondary schools and colleges and universities from employe gifts and the corporations' matching contribution. The corporation matched the gifts of 715 employes, including 55 retirees.

A record $314,537 in the unrestricted gifts was shared nationally by 285 accredited institutions of higher learning and 80 non-public secondary schools in 43 states.

East Catholic received $200 through the program. Trinity College in Hartford received the largest amount of gifts at $21,490.

The minimum amount which can be contributed by an employe is $25 and the maximum is $2,000, with equal amounts matched by GGIC's two major subsidiaries, Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. and Aetna Insurance Co. The program has been in existence since 1959.

Outsiders help in revaluation

The Town of Manchester is using three outside consultants to complete its revaluation project.

The town's tax assessor's office is doing most of the work involved in reviewing the assessments of commercial and residential property. Some towns hire outside consultants to do such projects, but most of the work in Manchester is being done by town employes.

Two of the three outside employes are involved in computerization work and commercial reviews. This year's revaluation is being done on a computerized system for the first time.

The third outside employe meets once a week with Tax Assessor Ed Belleville to review the project.

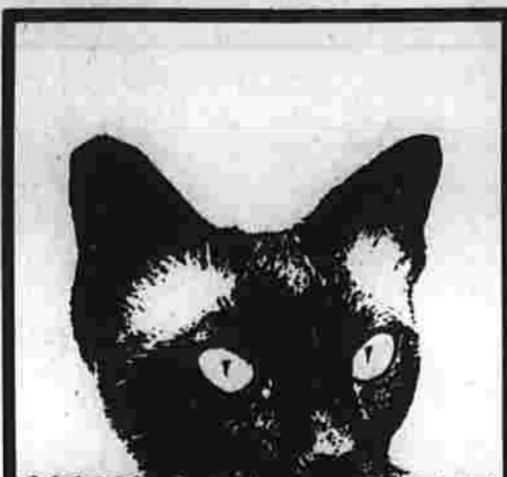

Belleville said that the revaluation has resulted in increases of 100 to 125 per cent for residential properties. Commercial properties have also increased, but at a lesser rate.

The increase in property values will be offset, at least partially, by a decrease in the mill rate.

The last revaluation was done in 1966.

Grange officer retires

James McBrierty of 30 Coolidge St. was honored Sunday at a testimonial at the Manchester Grange Hall in recognition of his many years as secretary of the Grange.

Succeeding McBrierty after serving 21 years in that position is Louis Tarnio of 198 Broad St.

More than 60 Grangers attended the event and contributed toward a purse which was presented to McBrierty. Entertainment was provided by Grange member David Hutchinson who sang songs. He was accompanied by Edith Schoell on the piano. She also played selections on the accordion.

McBrierty retired two years ago from Pratt & Whitney Group in East Hartford.

Rothman partner in firm

The real estate firm of Frechette & Martin, Inc., Realtors, recently announced the appointment of Gerald P. Rothman as vice president and a full partner.

The new partnership, Frechette, Martin & Rothman, Inc. was effective July 1, 1977. Offices are at 263 Main St.

The firm is a member of the Manchester Multiple Listing Service, Inc. and the Greater Vernon Multiple Listing Service.

Since joining the company in 1974, Rothman has concentrated on residential sales. His new responsibilities will be directing the sales and marketing activities of the firm.

He is a member of the National Association of Realtors Connecticut Association of Realtors, and a director of the Manchester Board of Realtors. He is the designee of the firm to the Manchester Multiple Listing Service, Inc.

He was graduated from the University of Hartford with a bachelor of science degree. He received a master of science degree from Central Connecticut State College in 1968. Before entering the real estate field, Rothman was employed by the Lincoln-Mercury Division of Ford Motor Company and later taught in Vernon.

He lives at 270 W. Center St. with his wife, Marilyn, and their children, Gerald Jr., Jeffrey, Jennifer, and John Paul.

Phone banking offered

Society for Savings now offers its customers free telephone transfer of funds between checking accounts, designated savings accounts, and reserve credit. Telephone transfer may also be used for payment of Society mortgages and loans.

The service, operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week. To utilize telephone transfer, the individual must have a Society checking account, open a designated statement savings account, and choose a personal identification number.

The savings account is identical to Society's regular passbook account, except that instead of having transactions recorded in a passbook, the depositor receives a monthly statement.

The personal identification number is any four-digit number chosen by the holder or holders of the checking and savings account. It is an extra element of security in the system, used as confidential identification by the customer when transferring funds between accounts or paying Society loans.

Once a Society checking and designated statement savings account are opened, or a designated savings account added to an existing checking account, Society banking services are available by telephone. The customer dials a special number at the bank, toll-free from anywhere in Connecticut, and gives his or her checking account number, personal identification number, instructions on the transfer of funds, his or her name, and telephone number. If the call is made during banking hours, the transaction will be completed that day. If after banking hours, it will be processed before incoming checks to the account are processed the following banking day.

Trucker wins $1,300

Rodney Tarr of 277 Highland St. won $1,300 last weekend by demonstrating his driving skill at the Americana Trucking Association (ATA) National Truck "Roado." The 39-year-old truck driver, an employe of Schuster's Express Inc. in South Windsor, finished third in the four-axle truck class at the 37th annual ATA Roado in Kansas City, Mo. He also finished third in the same event last year. He is the state's champion four-axle trucker for the past two years.

Tarr was one of more than 230 contestants who participated in specially designed maneuvers to test their driving skills. The prize money was donated by the U.S. Tobacco Co. of Greenwich.

Tarr has been a truck driver for 17 years. His father and grandfather were also truck drivers.

Seminar

Increasing company efficiency by building individual confidence is the goal of a three-day seminar planned in Hartford next month by the University of Connecticut.

The seminar, titled "Improving Managerial Effectiveness Through Assertiveness Training," is sponsored by the UConn School of Business Administration and the UConn Foundation. It will be held Sept. 14-16 at the Hotel Sonesta.

Registration information may be obtained by contacting Sally Dinniny at the Management Development Program School of Business Administration, University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn. 06268, telephone (203) 486-4135.

Area persons pass exams

The Connecticut State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors has announced the names of 121 candidates who passed the April 1977 examinations and were qualified to practice.

Among the professional engineers listed are Irven C. Ball and William N. Brazel of East Hartford; Robert R. Gamache of Hebron; John S. Phillips and Wesley L. Winterbottom of Manchester; Bruce R. Donnelly and Alan J. Olson of South Windsor; George A. Davis Jr. and William R. Marler Jr. of Vernon.

Among those who passed the first half of the exam and have been issued certificates as engineering-in-training are Paul A. Carmody, Kasambhai C. Patel, Derek W. Pratt of East Hartford; D. Aldrich, Stanley E. Alexander Jr., Euguen A. DeJoannis, John F. Geyer of Manchester; Robert E. Jahn of Rockville; William G. Moran and Edward M. Vozek of South Windsor; Edward N. McDermott and John C. Vecchio of Vernon.

Salon adds computer permanent

Artistic Hair Designs, Inc. has added a computer-like permanent waving system which is designed to produce a perfect permanent every time.

The system, Realistic Sensor Perm, is available to only a limited number of beauty salons, according to Mrs. Betty Gallagher of Artistic.

There will be only 11,000 of the systems in the country, about 50 of them in Connecticut.

Mrs. Gallagher described it as "the wave of the future." The electronic system is programmed by the hairdresser to monitor and control the permanent processing and to customize it to each individual's hair type and condition.

In new post

Ernst E. Engelbrecht of Manchester has been appointed chief, Mental Health Liaison and Communications in the State Department of Mental Health.

In this position he will handle public information functions, articulate the programs and policies of the department and serve as legislative liaison with the General Assembly.

Engelbrecht has been a state employe for 11 years, after spending 14 years in broadcasting. His broadcasting experience included positions as announcer, news and sportscaster, program director and station manager for stations in West Virginia, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Engelbrecht, his wife and three children live at 23 Bruce Rd.

Brunig C. Moske Sr., 70, of Rocky Point Way, Port Salerno, Fla., formerly of Manchester, died Tuesday at Martin Memorial Hospital in Stewart. He was the husband of Mrs. Sophie Moske.

Mr. Moske was born May 17, 1907, in Manchester, where he lived before moving to Florida about 20 years ago.

He owned and operated the Fish-N-Hot Mobile Home Park and Marina in Port Salerno for 12 years.

Before moving to Florida, he was a foreman in the electrical department at Pratt & Whitney Group in East Hartford.

He was a communicant of St. Joseph Catholic Church in Stewart.

Other survivors are a son, Brunig C. Moske Jr. of Bolton; a daughter, Mrs. Melvin (Pat) Varley of Vernon; a brother, Walter Moske of Manchester; two sisters, Miss Bernice Moske of Hartford and Mrs. Alfred Phaneuf of Manchester; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

There will be a Mass Thursday at 10 a.m. at St. Joseph Catholic Church. Burial will be in Fernhill Cemetery in Stewart.

Friends may call at the Aynoff Funeral Home, 505 S. Federal Highway, Stewart.

William Castagna, 77, of Glastonbury, died Tuesday at Hartford Hospital. He was the father of William Castagna Jr. and Robert W. Castagna, both of Manchester, and Mrs. Rita Kay of East Hartford.

Mr. Castagna was born in Canaan and lived in Glastonbury since 1930.

He was a retired foreman with the state highway department after 33 years of service, and he retired from the Glastonbury Fire Department after 25 years of service.

He was a member of the Glastonbury Lodge of Elks.

Other survivors are his wife, another son, three brothers and five sisters.

The funeral is Friday at 9:15 a.m. from the Glastonbury Funeral Home, 450 New London Pike, Glastonbury, with a Mass at 10 a.m. at St. Augustine's Church, South Glastonbury. Burial will be in St. Augustine's Cemetery, South Glastonbury.

Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

The family suggests that friends wishing to do so may make memorial gifts to the Glastonbury Auxiliary Police Ambulance Fund.

Girl hurt in Adams St. blast files suit asking for $750,000

A suit seeking $750,000 in damages has been filed on behalf of Tanya Merovovich, 17-year-old Manchester resident injured last October in the Adams St. house explosion.

The suit was filed in Hartford Superior Court Tuesday by Hartford Atty. Joseph Kenny and Walter Gauszka on behalf of Tanya Merovovich and her mother, Dorothy Merovovich, both of 105 Russell St. The suit seeks damages from the Della Construction Co. Inc. of Eastfield, its backhoe operator John Stogoff, also of Eastfield, and the Connecticut Natural Gas Corp. of Hartford.

Construction work was being done by Della at the time of the gas explosion, which leveled a two-family home at 356-358 Adams St.

Miss Merovovich was in the home at the time of the accident and suffered a broken leg and other injuries. She spent 74 days recovering from the injuries, and then was transferred for a month of treatment at the Newington Children's Hospital.

The suit seeks compensation for medical expenses and the loss of personal possessions resulting from the explosion.

Striking gravediggers, whose six-week-old walkout has virtually halted burials at 26 Catholic cemeteries in the state, return to the bargaining table today.

It will be their first bargaining session since Aug. 16.

Negotiations between the 85 striking gravediggers and cemetery officials broke off three days after workers walked off the job July 15.

Nearly 400 bodies have gone unburied in the state because of the effect of the strike, the Catholic Cemeteries association announced.

Last week, Mrs. Margaret Sumner, coordinator of family life education at Child and Family Services Inc., said the effect of the strike could cause severe mental depression in mourners of the unburied dead.

The eight-page report, signed by two court-appointed psychiatrists who examined Berkowitz for 11 hours of mental disease or defect, lacks the capacity to understand the proceeding against him or to assist in his own defense.

After reading the report, Heid remanded Berkowitz to his room at Kings County Hospital where the psychiatric tests were made.

Gravediggers back at negotiations

Some persons have been interviewed in connection with the fire, but they have failed to produce any new information, Rivosa said today.

The fire contaminated about 10 per cent of the food in the store and destroyed one display shelf where it originated in some paper goods. The exact cause of the fire has not been determined, but it was termed of suspicious origin.

David Berkowitz, center, stands with two court guards at his side and Defense Attorney Ira Juitak, right, while the psychiatrist's report is read by the court saying Berkowitz is mentally incompetent and incapable to stand trial for the "Son of Sam" murders.

Court schedules hearing Oct 4 on mental status of Berkowitz

District Attorney Eugene Gold immediately asked that Berkowitz undergo an examination by a prosecution psychiatrist and chief defense attorney Mark Jay Heller asked a doctor for the defense conduct an independent test.

Gold said he would call on Dr. David Abrahamson, a Columbia University professor who wrote "Nixon vs. Nixon," a best-selling psycho-history of former President Richard Nixon, to examine the young defendant.

"This report is not a surprise," Ira Juitak, one of Berkowitz' defense lawyers, told reporters after the hearing.

If the field rules him incompetent after the October hearing, Berkowitz will be committed to a mental institution, a spokesman for Gold said.

Heid overrules the psychiatrist's report and declares Berkowitz competent, he would be brought to trial for the July 31 murder of 28-year-old

Ex-wife says gunman was ill

EAST HARTFORD (UPI)—Frank DeCorleto's former wife says the dead gunman—who killed his second wife and son before committing suicide—was diagnosed as mentally ill when he was 14 and often was under heavy sedation.

Kathleen DeCorleto, 24, divorced from DeCorleto in 1975, said during the divorce proceedings the paroled murderer was dangerous.

DeCorleto killed their 4-year-old son, Frank, 3rd, and his second wife, Siobhan, 21, Monday and then killed himself Tuesday at the end of a 15-hour standoff with police.

She said when DeCorleto was 14, he was under the care of Dr. James Smith, now a psychiatrist at the Child Study Clinic in Springfield, Mass. She said he diagnosed DeCorleto as a "schizophrenic-paranoid."

"They put him on Thorazine (a powerful depressant). They always gave him drugs. He's been disturbed all his life," she said.

"Frank DeCorleto pulled the trigger but there's a lot of people responsible. I hope they sleep good tonight," said Kathleen's father, William Clough.

"Look, he was an ex-con. Some friend gave him those guns. He's been grabbed for carrying a gun, for a stabbing and he was still walking

Firm to draw housing plan

Community Development grant for a housing study, but the board wants to know the details of a study before spending the money.

Mason said the proposal will be drawn up around the goals and methodology to be used in making the study before presenting the proposal to the Board of Directors.

Crombie told the Imagineers representatives that the committee is interested in a broad survey that will show population projections, availability of homes and apartments, elderly housing needs, long- and short-term needs, single- and multiple-housing trends, and identification of problem neighborhoods.

Besides the CAC and a few interested citizens, there were representatives from the League of Women Voters, the Manchester Area Conference of Churches (MACCC), and the Manchester Property Owners Association (MPOA).

John J. MacNeely, 25, of 22 Montclair Dr., was arrested on a warrant Tuesday and charged with second-degree burglary and two counts of second-degree larceny in connection with a theft of money in two separate incidents at Gasland on Main St. earlier this month.

MacNeely was an ex-employee of the gas station, police said. He was released on $2,500 nonreturnable bond for court appearance Sept. 12.

Police report

MacNeely was an ex-employee of the gas station, police said. He was released on $2,500 nonreturnable bond for court appearance Sept. 12.

David S. Anderson, 17, of 81 Lyness St., was charged Tuesday night with procurement of liquor by false statement, and Herbert K. Sargent, 41, of 73 Milford Rd., was charged with two counts of attempted second-degree burglary in connection with burglaries at Homestead St. apartments around July 7 or 8. Stolen in one of the breaks were the keys to a car which was stolen and recovered about four days later. Label was released on $500 nonreturnable bond for court Sept. 12.

A man, who was reportedly pointing a gun at passersby near Robertson St. Tuesday night, was arrested about 5:50 p.m. by Robert J. Coleman, 23, of 49 Edward St., was charged with first-degree reckless endangerment and threatening.

Police said they received complaints of a man standing near the rear entrance of Robertson School,

Not many knew Frank DeCorleto

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Not many neighbors knew Frank DeCorleto, 34, who murdered his wife and son before turning the gun on himself Tuesday. Some who did called him nice but nervous.

"Nobody really knew him. He just kept to himself," said Ted Cirman, 53, who lived next to the three-story, white lived-in house—with a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary on the front lawn—in which DeCorleto lived.

"He was a pleasant guy," said Santos Sepela, DeCorleto's landlord who rented the upstairs apartment and lived below. "He had fights with his wife and had a bad one two weeks ago," he said.

Sepela said DeCorleto always paid his rent on time, although he did not know how he came up with the money because the former bakery worker was unemployed during the six months he lived at 140 Haddock St.

The police found part of the stolen Pitkin silverware collection at the murder-scene but said they in her description of the town's housing needs, Nancy Carr, executive director of the MACC, said that there is a continuing concern for children growing up within the town and not being able to find housing when they marry and continue to live here, persons who are affected by housing disaster and need immediate or emergency housing, persons living on welfare, persons whose housing situation changes with divorce, and the elderly.

She also raised the question of minority groups. "How is it we're only eight miles from Hartford and have only one per cent minority? Why are we a closed community?" she asked. Mrs. Carr thinks that a housing study would help tell us who we are.

John Tucci, representing MPOA, was skeptical of any involvement from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

"An sure HUD will come in here and tell us what we need," he said. "HUD is the biggest slumlord in the United States."

He warned the town to be cautious about its involvement in HUD-sponsored projects.

Lamson was quick to remark that HUD will tell what funds are available and whether or not to use them.

The Imagineers representatives said their job is to identify the needs and it is up to the town to decide how to handle the information. They said their fee is $18 an hour.

Mrs. Heintz and Markham both said the study would probably involve one-to-one property owner interviewing. CAC members suggested that local people might be trained to do the interviewing, thus saving some of the cost of the project.

Mason said their initial proposal planning fee would come out of the money set aside for the housing study.

Bid documents ready for school project

Bid documents for the Washington School-West Side Recreation Center construction and renovations project are now available for contractors, according to Richard Lawrence, architect for the project. The bids will be opened Sept. 20.

Lawrence said today the final reviews by the state look longer than anticipated, thus the project is not getting started as early as the Board of Education originally intended.

Lawrence said he hopes some of the initial work, such as the demolition of the West Side Rec building, can get under way before winter weather sets in. He said the actual starting date will have to be worked out with the contractor once the bid is awarded.

It is expected that the project will still be built for the original $1.4 million approved by local voters in a November 1975 referendum.

Some of the proposed improvements, such as bleachers in the new gymnasium and replacement windows in the school's older wing, will be carried out as the building is demolished if the bids come in too high.

The project was delayed by lack of state funding in 1976 and by a study of declining elementary school enrollments. However, the school board decided to proceed with the full Washington project and a scaled-down version of the Bentley School project, also approved in the same referendum.

Chief Drumm explains his talk with gunman

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

A tired-looking East Hartford Police Chief Clarence Drumm held a press conference Tuesday afternoon to explain to the public his talk with the night about his son. He did not mention to his mother or father, but he did speak to the chief often through the night about his son. He did not mention to his mother or father, but he did speak to the chief often through the night about his son.

"I've been sick all his life. I know what he did was spontaneous. He's been through the worst kind of hell he could ever go through," Kathleen said.

Smith, who had a private practice in Hartford, declined Tuesday to confirm or deny DeCorleto's diagnosis, citing the doctor-client relationship. "I have seen him over the years. He's really struggled. He's had a hell of a time," he said.

But he did speak of the murder conviction in Georgia.

DeCorleto could avoid speaking to his son in lieu despite the chief's attempts to keep the link open to his phone. The man found that if he hung up, he could quickly dial out again and reach other people.

Also, phone operators allowed people claiming life and death emergencies to break the connection he had with DeCorleto. The chief said, "I think some of these calls were from your people and Jack Schneider is a member of the state police tactical unit."

"We were trying to keep him alive. But we had nothing to offer him. He was keenly aware of this and repeated it."

"Letting him talk to his parents was a bargaining point," DeCorleto told the chief. "I've done 10 hard years in prison. I won't go back."

The chief said he could not speak at the man's parole hearing because an apparently never was such a dog even though neighbors had also heard him speak of it previously.

Perelandra sinks again

The Perelandra has sunk again. This morning about 9:40 a.m. someone heard a loud bang coming from the 131-foot yacht moored at the dock just south of the Founders Bridge on the East Hartford side of the Connecticut River. Soon after, the boat could be seen sinking.

Police and fire fighters came to the scene. Thomas Shakir, the yacht's owner, was on board. He was helped to pull the boat out of the water and shore about 30 feet downstream from the dock. Now the bow is on the shore and stern is at the river bottom.

Shakir said the yacht was from the bottom of Wethersfield Cove and tried to sell it. No one would bid for it.

Coventry Democrats split over primary

A primary challenge to the Democratic Town Council state by Joyce Carilli has split the Democratic Town Committee in Coventry.

In a recent caucus the Democrats endorsed five town committee-supported candidates for the council: incumbent Jack Myles and Richard Gagey, Patricia White, Karen Nash, and Harold Crane.

Albert Carilli, the contender's husband, is a former town councilman and is a member of the town committee. He will serve as his wife's principal campaign treasurer.

Election doesn't excite Hebron

By KAREN BISKUPIAK Herald Correspondent

Once again it's an election year in Hebron and some of the electorate isn't too happy or anxious about getting out to exercise its civic duty Nov. 8.

In an informal poll of about 100 percent of the registered voters, results indicated a general lack of enthusiasm for the party candidates.

Voters were selected at random and included both those registered with either the Democratic and Republican parties and also those who are unaffiliated.

Residents indicated that they felt they were not being given a choice this year. They stated that neither the Democratic nor Republican candidates for the Board of Selectmen gave them a "real choice."

The Democratic candidate for first selectman, incumbent Aaron Reid, is vying for his sixth term in office with his running mate, Cynthia Wilson, going for her second term as selectman.

They will be competing against Republican first selectman candidate Raymond Burt, who is running with Ms. Frost. This is Burt's second try against Reid, who defeated him four years ago.

It was also commented that the salaries for the selectmen were too low to attract "good, qualified persons."

It was suggested that a third party be established to provide the voters with a real choice. A voter commented, "The era of the uneducated citizen has passed. Third parties are coming into their own."

Surprisingly it wasn't just unaffiliated voters that cast their votes for a third party candidate, but Democrats too.

Hebron's election campaigns traditionally begin after the Harvest Fair, so there's time for changes in opinions.

general or with particular candidates. It was stated that nothing is ever accomplished except in an election year.

Distraught among the voters was prevalent. Some commented that politicians were "corrupt and crooked as the day is long."

Some voters said they would go to vote, but would not vote for any selectmen candidates. More confidence was shown in candidates who were running "lower" on the ticket than in those who were carrying the top of the ticket.

Disaffection wasn't the only reason given by some in the random poll. One man said, "There are too many women involved."

Mickey Rivers in line for MVP honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — When it came time to vote on the American League's most valuable player this winter, Mickey Rivers of the New York Yankees should once again be high on the list of voters.

Rivers put his talents on display again Tuesday night when he scored three runs and had three hits, including a game-winning homer in the 11th inning which gave the Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Rivers finished third in last year's MVP balloting when teammate Thurman Munson won the award, and the 28-year-old center fielder has to be seriously considered for the honor this year.

A moody player who earlier in the year drove Manager Billy Martin to distraction, Rivers has become himself since the All-Star break and has proved to be the catalyst in the Yankees' climb into first place in the American League East.

The victory — the second in a row the Yankees have earned with home runs — enabled New York to maintain its three-game lead over the Boston Red Sox in the AL East.

Over the last eight games Rivers has been on an 18 for 35 tear that has raised his average to .333. During that stretch he has driven in eight runs and has boosted his season's stole his 21st base and it was instrumental in the Yankees' victory.

"If I steal 20 more bases it would be a decent year for me," said Rivers. "After tonight I guess he (Martin) let me run. I get as much charge from stealing bases as hitting home runs."

Rivers was not the only hero for the Yankees. Graig Nettles, another candidate for MVP honors, drilled a three-run homer, his 32nd, and Sparky Lyle pitched 2 2/3 innings of shutout relief to gain his 11th victory against four losses.

Carlos Lopez drove in two runs for the Mariners with a pair of hits.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston defeated Oakland, 7-

2, Baltimore crushed California, 8-2, Texas downed Kansas City, 8-2, Chicago beat Cleveland, 3-1, and Detroit topped Milwaukee, 4-2.

Orlando 8, Angels 2
Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for his 14th victory, Al Bumbry drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Eddie Murray stroked a bases-loaded single to keep Baltimore four games behind New York in the AL East.

Rangers 8, Royals 2
Willie Horton drove in three runs with a homer, double and sacrifice fly to support the four-hit pitching of Gaylord Perry. Perry allowed only one hit after the fourth inning. Texas shortstop Bert Campaneris lashed a double and three singles, including his 2,000th major league hit.

White Sox 3, Indians 1
Lamar Johnson's two-run bases-loaded single capped a three-run third inning and Ken Kravec won his eighth game against six losses to pace the White Sox. Lerrin LaGroy, who relieved Kravec after 2 2/3 innings, yielded a run-scoring single to Rico Carty before Dave Hamilton retired the side.

Tigers 4, Brewers 2
Aurelio Rodriguez slammed a two-run homer to help rookie Wade Boggs to his victory over the Brewers. Rozema scattered nine hits, in boosting his record to 15-5, struck out four and walked none.

Feathers flying
The fur is not only flying in New York but also in Boston where the Rooster - Rick Barleson - feathers have been ruffled and he took a pot shot at some of the starting Red Sox pitchers.

Barleson's outburst following Monday night's 7-7 defeat to Oakland could very well be the kiss of death in regards to the Boston club's winning the American League's Eastern Division.

Boston's pitching has been gosh awful of late to say the least and Barleson may be right as rain in his criticism.

It's been principally the Red Sox' offense and defense that has kept the club up in the race.

Although veteran right-hander Rick Wake was one of the pitchers Barleson pointed the finger at by his poor selection of pitches, Wise himself made an interesting statement last week while in the radio booth.

Wise said that he was surprised that Bill Campbell had such a good record of saves and victories because he gives up so many bases on balls.

Control has been one of the major assets of specialists who work out of the bullpen.

Red Sox followers hope that Barleson's outburst may spark the team during the remaining month in the race with New York for a divisional title.

It could work the other way, too. Only time will tell.

Wittum to kick
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers apparently will have Tom Wittum to handle both punting and place-kicking chores this season.

Steve Mike-Mayer, blamed by fans for three of the team's six losses last season, was among six players cut by the team Tuesday. Wittum, the team's regular punter, has hit several long field goals in pre-season action.

"This ain't no recovery period," said the articulate Lynn in a colloquial effort to emphasize the stress on his still-soe ankles. "If you think these ankles have miraculously healed, you're wrong. They're gone man."

"But you ain't going to get me out of there."

Despite battling second most of the season and missing the first month of the season, Lynn has been quite productive. He has driven in 61 runs, four fewer than all of last season, while batting second most of the season. In Tuesday's win, Lynn batted seventh, another relatively non-productive spot in the lineup.

Lynn playing despite damaged ankles

BOSTON (UPI) — Fred Lynn intends to keep rolling on bad wheels until the Boston Red Sox either win the World Series or play themselves out of contention in the American League East.

Lynn, the 1975 American League Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player, has battled damaged ankles since tearing a ligament in his lower left leg March 24 during an exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He missed 27 games at the start of the season, lowest mark in his 15 years played on the swollen leg in 65 games, then missed a pair of contests last weekend because of a sprain in his right ankle that compounded the ache on the other leg.

Yet the 25-year-old Lynn limped back into the lineup at the start of this week and Tuesday put the Red Sox back on the pennant path with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly in Boston's 7-2 win over Oakland.

His one hit in three of-ficial at-bats lifted Lynn's batting average to .258, the lowest mark in his 15 years played on the swollen leg

Pitching better in Red Sox win

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox have unveiled a secret weapon that must remain part of their arsenal if they are to conquer New York in the American League East.

The weapon is called "pitching," a destructive tool that the Red Sox rediscovered Tuesday night in a 7-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

Neither Luis Tiant nor reliever Reggie Cleveland dazzled the A's in combining to stop Oakland's six-game winning streak on nine hits, but their performance was better than any other effort over the previous 15 games.

Not since Cleveland and Bill Campbell teamed up for a 2-1 win over Kansas City on Aug. 16 had the Red Sox held the opposition below three runs. Since that game, the Red Sox have won only five of 15 outings and have dropped from 3 1/2 games ahead of the Yankees to three games behind New York in the AL East.

Tiant gained his ninth win against eight defeats and Cleveland grabbed his first save of the season, while Fred Lynn hit a two-run homer. Rick Burleson drove in two runs and Denny Doyle collected four hits.

"It was a very important game for us to win, especially after we lost 18-7 to Oakland Monday night," said Doyle, who had two singles and two doubles.

"The rest of the season, we have to go with the arms (pitchers)."

"We let them get away from us," said Oakland Manager Bobby Winkles. "We had runners on base (in seven of the nine innings) but we couldn't bring them home."

"That's the way I should lose this job tonight but I think when it comes down to the end, the pitching is going to have a lot to do with whether the Red Sox pitching staff did the job during the first five innings, surrendering three hits and striking out four batters as Boston built a 3-0 advantage with only five of 15 outings. Doyle doubled and Burleson singled for a third inning run.

Lynn hit his 15th homer after George Scott singled off loser Rick Langford, 8-15, to open the fifth.

But when Tiant yielded three singles, to give Oakland a run with one out in the sixth, Manager Don Zimmer called on Cleveland, who has been relegated to the bullpen the last few weeks. Cleveland forced tough hitting Mitchell Page to hit into an inning-ending doubleplay.

"Tiant had good stuff and threw the ball hard but I had it in my mind that if we ran into any trouble, I was going to go to Reggie," said Zimmer, who has seen every member of his pitching staff fail over the past two weeks.

The Red Sox boosted their lead to 4-1 in the sixth when Burleson scored Carlton Fisk with a sacrifice fly. Page singled home an eighth inning runner to pull the A's within two runs, but Boston tacked on three more runs in the eighth on three doubles, a single and a sacrifice fly by Lynn.

"We let them get away from us," said Oakland Manager Bobby Winkles. "We had runners on base (in seven of the nine innings) but we couldn't bring them home."

"That's the way I should lose this job tonight but I think when it comes down to the end, the pitching is going to have a lot to do with whether the Red Sox pitching staff did the job during the first five innings, surrendering three hits and striking out four batters as Boston built a 3-0 advantage with only five of 15 outings. Pressure getting to George Foster

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Foster, who has hit 44 homers this season, finds more and more his name is being linked with Hack Wilson, who set the National League record of 56 homers back in 1930.

Foster hit No. 44 in the Cincinnati Reds' 4-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Tuesday night and could equal or surpass Wilson's home run mark.

However, he's finding the growing news media pressure distinctly uncomfortable.

He says, "I'm trying to concentrate on one at a time. But it's hard to do when people are always asking you to project current statistics for a whole season."

Foster, who hit a two-run homer after Joe Morgan walked in the first inning with Sutter retired, the Cubs snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth when sacrifice flies by Gene Cline and Steve Ontiveros drove in a pair of runs. Doug Rau was the loser.

Phillies 11, Braves 2
Jay Johnstone had three hits and scored three runs and Garry Maddox and Ted Sizemore homered to lead the Phillies' 15-hit attack. Jim Kaat allowed 10 hits but went the distance.

Rick Reuschel, with ninth-inning relief help from Bruce Sutter, raised his record to 19-5 for the Cubs while striking out four and walking two.

Reggie Smith led off the Dodgers' ninth with a single but Sutter retired the last three batters. The Cubs snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth when sacrifice flies by Gene Cline and Steve Ontiveros drove in a pair of runs. Doug Rau was the loser.

Wade confident against Richards

NEW YORK (UPI) — For maybe two or three seconds, or about as long as it takes her to control herself when she starts laughing, Virginia Wade was allowing this utterly ridiculous possibility to cross her mind.

By MILT RICHMAN

Wightman Cup captain what she would do if Richards beat her.

"I'd demand that she be tested," Wade was quoted as saying.

Wade's actual answer was "I'd demand she be checked out." She said it off-handedly, without any seeming malice.

Richards heard about it and reacted.

"I've had the privilege of mixing with a lot of fine women in tennis," she said. "Chris Evert and Billie Jean King have been marvelous to me. Why should Virginia say such a thing? Well, she seems to have wasted a lot of her career putting her foot in her mouth."

Wade made light of the whole thing.

"I thought it was a funny remark," she said. "It was a joke. The newspaper report I read said 'I snapped when I gave my answer. I didn't snap at all. I just said that in jest.'"

The fact is Virginia Wade considers Renee Richards pretty much the same way as do the majority of other women professionals, much younger and better than Richards, might get the same idea, change his sex, and then make off with all their prize money in the women's tournaments.

In this year's Open which starts with the men's competition today, Evert is favored to defend her women's title successfully although when refer to Richards privately as "an over-the-hill broad," who came over to her side of the net hoping perhaps to cash in on the publicity and make a few bucks. Chief concern among the women players is not Richards so much, but that some other male tennis player, much younger and better than Richards, might get the same idea, change his sex, and then make off with all their prize money in the women's tournaments.

Wade repeated the phrase several times.

The meeting between the two women Thursday will be their first on any tennis court. Off the court, they haven't met formally, either.

"I think she passed me last night and I said, 'Hello, Renee,' but she didn't answer," said Wade. "Maybe she didn't hear me."

Publicly, Richards hasn't made any personal statements about Wade. Privately, she has. What burned her up particularly was a newspaper quote attributed to Wade after someone asked the former British

Orantes in full charge trimming Eddie Dibbs

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — The match epitomized the whole tournament — an unusual combination of stops and starts and ups and downs.

But when the call to order was given, Manuel Orantes always came forward to take charge.

Orantes scored a straight set victory over Eddie Dibbs in the finals of the U.S. Professional Tennis Championships at Longwood Tennis Club Tuesday, 7-6, 7-5, 6-4.

The third seed from Spain never changed his game plan from day one, and after losing his first set, proceeded to win the next 14 in perhaps the easiest road to victory in the tournament's history.

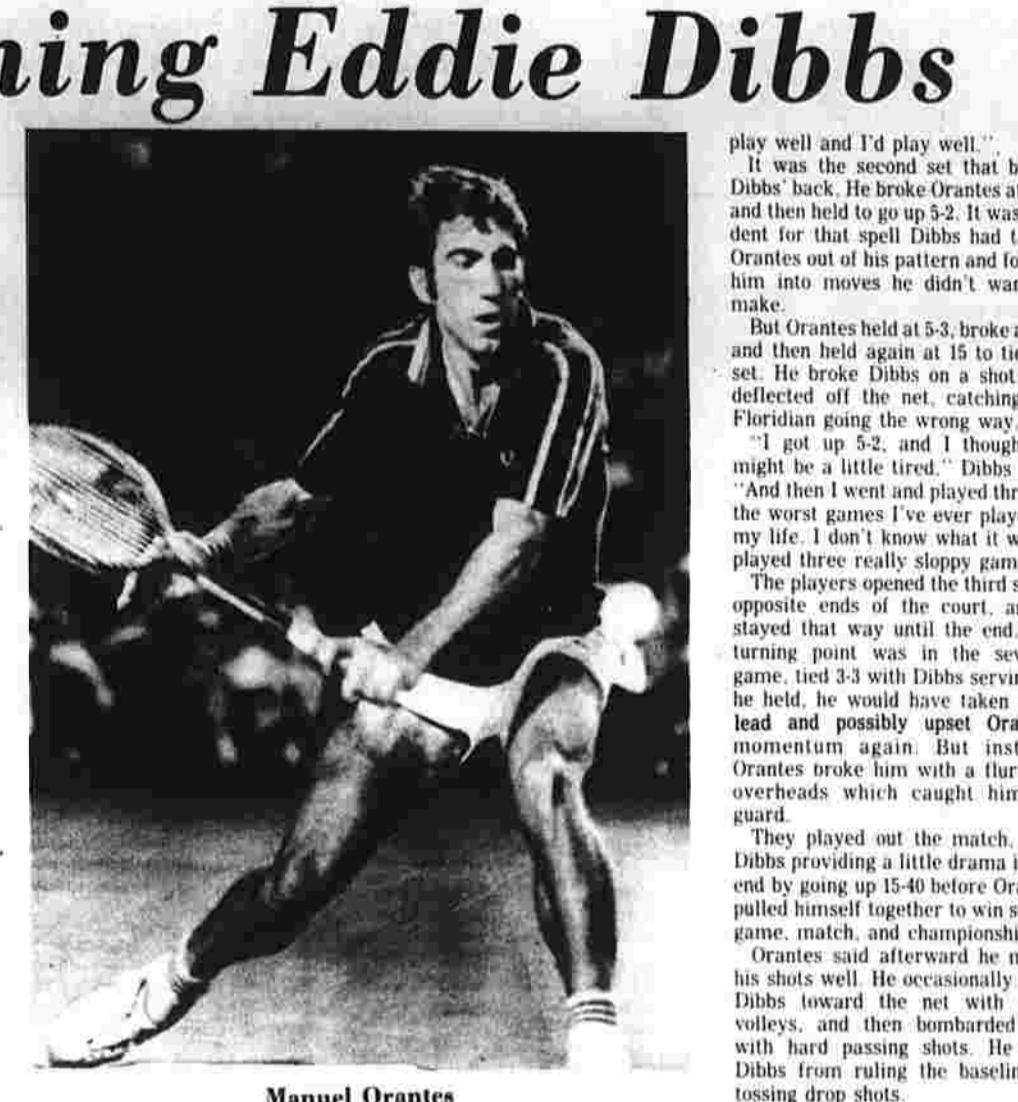

Through last week's rains, Jimmy Connors' back problems, and general inconsistent play by the seeded players, Orantes was the one constant. His court demeanor was one of patience. Nobody made him change his style. He just made all the others change theirs.

The fourth-seeded Dibbs was a prime example. Both players have similar styles, but it was Dibbs who went away from his patented baseline game, made mistakes, and lost all the important points.

"I didn't get one crucial point in the whole match," said Dibbs afterward. "He got them all."

Neither Dibbs nor Orantes had a good beat on the match in the first two sets. Orantes went up 5-1 in the opening set, but then became bothered by Dibbs' two-fisted backhand and lost the next four games.

Orantes broke Dibbs' momentum long enough to go up 6-5, but then again forcing a tiebreaker. Dibbs

Manuel Orantes won the first three points before Orantes reeled off seven straight to take the tiebreaker and the set. When he went up 3-0, I got three good points right in a row," said Orantes. "I was playing well from the start. I went up 5-1 and then Eddie started playing better. Then he'd play well and I'd play well."

"It was the second set that broke Dibbs' back. He broke Orantes at 4-2, and then held to go up 5-2. It was evident that that spell Dibbs had taken Orantes out of his pattern and forced him into moves he didn't want to make."

But Orantes held at 5-3, broke at 30, and then held again at 15 to tie the set. He broke Dibbs on a shot that deflected off the net, catching the Floridian going the wrong way.

"I got up 5-2, and I thought he might be a little tired," Dibbs said. "And then I went and played three of the worst games I've ever played in my life. I don't know what it was. I played three really sloppy games."

The players opened their third set at opposite ends of the court, and it stayed that way until the end. The turning point was in the seventh game, tied 3-3 with both serving. If he held, he would have taken a 4-3 lead and possibly upset Orantes' momentum again. But instead, Orantes broke him with a flurry of overheads which caught him off guard.

They played out the match, with Dibbs providing a little drama in the end by going up 15-40 before Orantes pulled himself together to win serve, game, match and championship.

Orantes said afterward he mixed his shots well. He occasionally drew Dibbs toward the net with short volleys, and then bombarded him with hard passing shots. He kept Dibbs from staying at the baseline by tossing drop shots.

"I wasn't surprised he wanted to stay back," said Orantes. "That's his strategy. He's a little better at it. I'd pass him. In the end, I don't think he knew what to do."

Connors, Borg miss first day

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Snap, crackle and pop, before it even starts the U.S. Open Tennis Championships has the unmistakable air of developing into a medical curiosity.

First defending champion Jimmy Connors came up with an aching back, and on the eve of the tournament top seed Bjorn Borg injured his right shoulder, forcing both to miss Wednesday's opening day.

This pushed their debut in this $460,000 tournament to Thursday, the same afternoon Dr. Renee Richards, a medical phenomenon, makes her debut against Virginia Wade.

With the absence of Borg, the honor of starting play on the stadium court this morning fell to two unseeded players, Peter Fleming of Chatham, N.J., and Colin Dibley of Australia.

Following them will be fourth-seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina against Spaniard Manuel Santana, Ili Nastase against Frew McMillan of South Africa and Roxcoe Tanner of Louisiana, Tenn., against Matt Mitchell of Palo Alto, Calif.

The two opening night matches feature former champion Ken Rosewall, the No. 14 seed from Australia, against Tim Gullikson of Dayton, Ohio, and John McEnroe of Douglaston, N.Y., a surprise semifinalist at Wimbledon, against

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently drove past a dog that was wandering aimlessly across a busy highway. It looked so lost and bewildered that I stopped to see if I could help. She was an old dog, thoroughly exhausted and utterly filthy from what must have been many days or weeks of travel. The poor thing was too weak and tired to object when I put her in my car. She was a large dog, part collie and gentle as a lamb. I made inquiries (no leads), stopped at an animal hospital (closed), drove to the police station (the animal warden's van was not available) and finally drove her to our SPCA, where she was given food, shelter and a chance for her owners to find her. Later I searched the lost and found columns, only to be shocked by the number of advertisements for lost pets, such as, 'Generous reward for our beloved pet,' or, 'Entire family grieving.' Abby, where are these people's brains? They are spending money when it's too late, when for $1 they could have bought an I.D. tag with the animal's name, and the owner's address and phone number! If you care for animals, please print this for pet owners to think about.

HEARTSICK IN PA. DEAR ABBY: I agree, there is no excuse for 'losing' a pet. Pet owners out there are you listening? Before I am out of the car, my husband is already in the house. When we go anywhere, he is already in the car 'waiting' for me before I am out of the house. When we go to a restaurant, I'm not even out of my car and my husband is out of the door. Recently, at the funeral of a relative, all the other husbands were standing beside their wives, and I didn't even know where mine was until it was all over. Please comment.

DEAR NELLIE: If it is 'sick' and in need of a doctor because of a complaint about the car, then you are indeed 'sick.'

DEAR ABBY: In our home we have a lovely guest room with a comfortable queen-size bed. A married couple came to stay for a week, and when we showed them their room, the man said, 'A DOUBLE BED! We haven't slept in a double bed for years. At home we have twin beds. We His wife gave him a dirty look, so he kept quiet. We have offered them our bedroom, but we have a double bed, too. After they went home, we heard from a mutual friend that they didn't enjoy their stay with us because they aren't used to sleeping together. Must we exchange the double bed for twin beds to accommodate such people?

DEAR HOSTESS: No. Offer your guests what you have, and if the accommodations don't suit them, they can go to a hotel or motel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Cupid is taking a special interest in your love life. Someone new may enter the picture, or existing bonds will be greatly strengthened. QUARUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your possibilities for advancement look very hopeful at this time. Continue to put forth your best efforts. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Do something fun and break with a departure from your usual routine. A relaxing break will freshen your outlook. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your financial prospects are quite auspicious today, especially in areas where you're hoping to gain so you can care for others. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's a good day to tackle something big you've had on the back burner but have been hesitant to attempt. You're lucky with large issues. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If something you're involved in is creating negative feelings, this is not the time to rock the boat. Let go of those chances as it will get even better. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Look at important matters from all angles today. A change of perspective will help you realize the advantages blocked by a limited view. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Modesty is a becoming attribute. Be today don't put a cheer price tag on your talents that they are actually worth.

Win at Bridge

Slam proves double ruff

Bridge puzzle grid with clues: NORTH A Q 10 9 7, WEST A 4 3, SOUTH IDI, etc.

South won the diamond lead in dummy, drew two rounds of trumps, passed briefly when West showed out, led a diamond to his king, ruffed his last diamond in dummy and came to a real halt when Andy interrupted. Our real life unlucky expert worried about just why Andy had underdressed. He tried to visualize Andy's hand and decided that he was holding three hearts to the queen and four clubs to the jack. He thought some more, confirmed his diagnosis, cashed dummy's last trump, led the three of clubs, thought some more, played his nine of clubs and let West score the setting trick with his unprotected jack.

Bolton K-8 schools expect 555 pupils

Bolton Elementary Center School will open its doors Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 9 a.m. for about 555 students.

The school will be dismissed at 3 p.m. each day. Morning kindergarten students will be in session from 9 to 1:30 a.m. Afternoon kindergarten students will be in session from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

Richard Packman, principal, said the enrollment is down about 25 students. He said 28 new students registered during the summer and about 10 requested transfers.

Lunches will be served from the first day. The cost of lunch is 65 cents and milk is 5 cents. The menu for Wednesday is hamburgers, hot dogs, buttered corn, potato chips, pudding and milk. The complete menu for September will be available for first day of school.

Several new faces will be seen on the teaching staff. Susan Kane will teach Grades 1 and 2. Barbara Robb will be the half-time learning disabilities teacher for students in Grades 6-12 and the half-time professional tutor for Title I students in Grades 5-8.

Lillian Harpin will be the professional tutor for Title I students in kindergarten through Grade 4. Math for students in Grades 7 and 8 will be taught by Thomas Sheridan. Ann Klein will be reading consultant for students in kindergarten through Grade 5.

For the first time there will be a resource room in both buildings to serve students with special needs. Each room will have a reading consultant, learning disabilities specialist and Title I professional tutor to work with the students.

For students in kindergarten through Grade 8 a new math program will be implemented. During the year a new science curriculum for kindergarten through Grade 8 students will be developed and a pilot teacher evaluation program will be implemented.

Packman said, "We're excited about another approaching year. One of our targets is to have the students assume more responsibility. 'We hope there will be a better than ever working relationship between the students and the teachers, he said."

Bolton High ready for its 15th year

At 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7, Bolton High School will resume classes for the beginning of its 15th year. Classes will be dismissed at 2:14 p.m. each day.

For probably one of the few times in its history, the school did not lose any of its teachers. All last year's regulars are returning.

The only loss to the school was that of Lynell Morris, half-time guidance counselor, and George Roback, half-time guidance counselor and half-time cooperative work experience coordinator. Both held their positions for one year.

Student enrollment last year was 422.

Joseph Fleming, principal, said the anticipated enrollment for September has not yet been determined. He said figures will be available shortly after school gets under way.

Fleming said 12 students who moved into Bolton during the summer have registered. He said there are no tuition students yet but he had a couple of calls from interested parents.

Lunch will be served from the first day. Grinders, hamburgs, hot dogs, ice cream and milk will be available.

Fleming said, "We're ready to go."

Herald, college offer newspaper courses again

For the second consecutive year, Manchester Community College and the Manchester Evening Herald will be offering courses by Newspaper on Saturday, Sept. 10. The Herald will be carrying the first of two series of articles on major aspects of American life. Each series is the basis for a course for which MCC is offering three college credits.

The fall course is entitled "Crime and Punishment in America." Preparation of the 15-week series of 1,250-word articles has been coordinated by Dr. Jerome Skolnick, director of the Center for the Study of Law and Society at the University of California, Berkeley.

The spring 1978 course is entitled "Popular Culture: Mirror of American Life." Dr. David Manning White, professor of mass communications at Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, is coordinating this series of 15 weekly articles.

Skolnick has written widely on the crime problem, on a variety of subjects ranging from lie-detection through victimless crime. His 1966 prize-winning book on detectives, "Justice Without Trail: Law Enforcement in Democratic Society," is perhaps his best known, along with "The Politics of Protest," his 1969 report to the National Violence Commission. He is now completing a book on gambling control in Nevada, which explores the issue of legalizing vice in gambling control.

The Herald will carry the articles every Saturday, beginning Sept. 10. For information about the college credit courses, call Manchester Community College, Division of Community Service, 646-2137.

Signup slated

Manchester Community College has announced the registration schedule for newspaper readers who wish to enroll in Courses by Newspaper for college credit.

The Herald will publish weekly articles in the course each Saturday, beginning Sept. 10, in the Weekend supplement.

Walk-in registrations for MCC's three-credit course will be accepted this Saturday, Sept. 3, and Saturday, Sept. 10. Another sign-up session is set Tuesday, Sept. 6, from 2 to 7 p.m.

All walk-in registrations will be handled at the MCC Administration Building on the main campus, Bidwell St.

A fee of $40 is charged to cover MCC instructional expenses. Students will be required to attend an orientation meeting Saturday, Sept. 10, at 9 a.m. in Room MB 13 on the main campus.

In addition, on-campus mid-semester and final examinations will be required. Two seminar sessions will be held before the exams.

Students will have the opportunity to confer with the instructor in person or by telephone. Special arrangements will be made for handicapped students unable to come to the campus.

Course instructor at MCC is Thomas P. Connors, assistant director of the Division of Social Science and Public Service at MCC.

The course books, a "Reader" and "Study Guide," can be purchased from the MCC bookstore on the main campus.

To learn more about the program, call MCC's Community Service Division, 646-2137.

Evening courses are added

Several new courses will be offered this fall by the Manchester Adult Evening School at Manchester High School when the first semester starts Sept. 19. Among the new classes to be offered are:

Mondays—pottery, tating, private pilot, computer programming, integrally yoga.

Tuesdays—portrait painting, music appreciation, quilting.

Wednesdays—rug hooking 2 and calligraphy.

Thursdays—unlike art, quick and easy breads, educational games for children, public relations.

Bus stop changed

A change in the Manchester school bus pick up for children on Lorraine Rd. and Joan Circle will be necessary for the first part of the school year because of construction work in the area.

Children on Bus 24 to St. James School and Bus 25 to Keene St. School will be picked up at the intersection of Debbie and Redwood Drs. at the times previously scheduled, according to Wilson E. Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools.

The change was necessary, Deakin said, because the buses are not able to get through the new streets which are still partially under construction.

VA news

Q—I am a veteran of the Vietnam era. When will my eligibility for college training expire?

A—Generally, the period of eligibility for GI Bill benefits is 10 years from date of last discharge or Dec. 31, 1969, whichever is earlier.

Q—As an honorably discharged wartime veteran, will I be eligible for a pension when I become 65 years of age?

A—Pension benefits may be paid to wartime veterans discharged under other than dishonorable conditions, who are totally and permanently disabled, who have at least 90 days continuous active duty and whose annual income and net worth are within certain limitations. Veterans 65 years of age or older are considered "permanently and totally disabled."

Q—I used my VA Certificate of Eligibility to purchase a home in 1970. I sold this home on an assumption. Am I entitled to purchase another home using the balance of my benefits?

A—You may use the remainder of your guarantee. You should apply for a new Certificate of Eligibility. The amount of guaranty has been increased to $17,500. This is $5,000 more than you were entitled to in 1970.

Social Security

Q I've been working part time and getting Social Security benefits, too, for almost seven years. Well, in September I'll be 72, so what I would like to know is this: Can I earn as much money as I want this year and still get my full Social Security payments?

A. Beginning with the month you turn 72, you get full benefits and will continue to get full benefits regardless of the amount of your earnings. To determine the correct amount of benefits due you for those months before you reach 72, in your case - January through August - only your earnings for those months are taken into consideration.

At Vernon schools

- Doors open Wednesday
Public schools in Vernon will open Wednesday, Sept. 7, with a full-day schedule.
All cafeterias will be open. The price of Type A lunches in the elementary schools will be 50 cents; at the Middle School and High School, 55 cents. At the high school a carte menu will be on the menu at various prices.
Schools open at different hours because of bus schedules. Opening and closing hours are as follows:
Rockville High, 7:45-1:20; Middle School, 7:45-1:20; Cheney Tech, 8:30-2:20; St. Joseph and St. Bernard, 8:30-2:00; Center Road and Sykes, 8:30-2:20; Talcoville, 8:10-1:50; Northeast, Skinner, Vernon Elementary and Lake Street, 8:25-2:40.
The kindergarten opening and closing times are:
Center Road, morning session, 8:05-10:35 and afternoon session, 11:50-2:20; Northeast, Vernon Elementary, Skinner Road, Lake Street, 8:25-10:55 and 12:10-2:40.
Redistricting plan
A new redistricting plan will go into effect when Vernon schools open this year. The plan was approved by the Board of Education to balance the teacher-pupil ratio and to cut three teaching positions by attrition.
The shift will involve about 39 students. New housing developments in the area of the Lake Street School were causing the school to become overpopulated.
Pupils from Frederick Rd., Warren Ave. and Maple St. will be shifted from the Lake Street School to Center Road.
Students from Phoenix St. who now attend Lake Street will be moved to Vernon Elementary. This will involve about 15 students in Grades 1 to 5.
Thirteen students attending Maple Street School, living on Grand Ave. and Raw St. East, will be moved to

- Maple Street, 8:35-11:05 and 12:20-2:50.
Northeast School to help equalize the ratio at Maple Street.
Children in the Nutmeg Village apartment complex who now attend Maple Street School will stay there.
All of the children involved rode on school buses last year and will continue to do so.
School calendar
The Vernon School system's calendar for the coming school year provides for 182 days of school and 24 vacation days, not counting summer vacation.
School starts Sept. 17 and closes June 22. The following holidays will be observed: Columbus Day, Oct. 10; Election day, Nov. 8; Veteran's Day, Nov. 11; Thanksgiving, Nov. 24 and 25; Christmas, Dec. 26 to Jan. 2; Martin Luther King Day, Jan. 16; Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 13; Good Friday, March 24; and Memorial Day, May 29.
The winter vacation will be Feb. 26 through 24 and the spring vacation, April 24-28.

RHS class schedules set

- All entering freshmen at Rockville High School will receive, through the mail, a copy of their daily class schedule, a letter of welcome and a floor plan of the school, Principal Martin Fagan said.
Other students are to pick up their schedule cards in their "Houses" before school starts, 7:10 to 7:40 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7, and then report to their first class.
Rockville High School has a housing plan consisting of Houses A, B and C. Each house enrolls students from Grades 9 through 12 and has about 150 students, a housemaster, two and one-half guidance counselors, a house secretary and 40 teachers.
Fagan said the house plan concept of organization fits the community's desire for a large high school facility while emphasizing the student's need to belong.
Students leave their house to share, with other students from other houses, those common facilities such as the library, gymnasium, music, home economics, art, shop, business education and cafeterias.
Students entering Grades 10-12 will pick up their schedule cards according to the first initial of their last names.
The rest of the schedule of classes is as follows: Period 2, 8:35 to 9:19 a.m.; Period 3, 9:25 to 10:09 a.m.; Period 4, 10:15 to 10:59 a.m.; Period 5, 11:05 to 11:49 a.m.; Period 6, 11:55 a.m. to 12:39 p.m.; and Period 7, 12:45 to 1:29 p.m.
The activity period starts at 1:29 p.m. Regular buses leave the school at 1:30 p.m. The school enrollment is about 2,000 students. About 15 to 20 new students to the system have enrolled over the summer. Fagan said he expects this will go as high as 50 to 100.
Exams in January
Rockville High School students will have exams in January this school year due to a pilot program adopted by the Board of Education.
High school students haven't had exams, as such, for 10 years. In the past the teachers have given them the option to give final exams.
The board said the pilot program will give students an opportunity to experience examination conditions and give them an opportunity to review study skills, note taking and the concept of examinations.
The areas to be included will be business education, English, foreign languages, math, science and social studies.

Ex-wife says gunman was ill

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Frank DeCorleto's former wife says the dead gunman who killed his friend and son before committing suicide — was diagnosed as mentally ill when he was 14 and often was under heavy sedation.
DeCorleto killed their 4-year-old son, Frank, 3rd, and his second wife, Sibbhan, 24, Monday and then killed himself Tuesday at the end of a 15-hour standoff with police.
DeCorleto was 29, he confessed to killing a sailor's wife in Georgia. The woman, Mrs. Aldene Smith, 20, had called him crazy when he hit her dog, which had nipped his first. DeCorleto was given a long prison term.
Mrs. DeCorleto said her marriage with DeCorleto had broken down again and reach other people.
DeCorleto was granted custody of the child to DeCorleto that were in the court record, but he declined to say what they were, citing the attorney-client relationship. "It was not an easy decision," he said.
DeCorleto said in a telephone con-

Men faced hard game

By MAL BARLOW East Hartford Reporter
The score was 2-2 after a few innings Monday night in the sloppish softball game between the women's Ryan's Sport Shop and the men's Rein's Delicatessen teams.
The surprised men came off the field holding back the determined women.
"Hey, these girls are good," said one of the men throwing down his glove.
They really know how to play this game," said another.
"I think they want to win," a third said as he watched the women on the field throw the ball around, warming up for the first batter.
The men had been "scratched together" to form a team, said Bob Lauro, manager. They had not played together before. But many were good athletes and all thought they would overwhelm the pretty women.

Perelandra sinks again

The Perelandra has sunk again. This morning about 9:40 a.m. someone heard a loud bang coming from the 131-foot yacht moored at the dock just south of the Founders Bridge on the East Hartford side of the Connecticut River. Soon after, the boat could be seen sinking.
Police and fire fighters came to the scene. Thomas Shakir, the yacht's owner, was on board. He was helped to pull the bow of the sinking yacht to shore about 30 feet downstream from the dock. Now the boat is on the shore and stern is at the river bottom.
Shakir had vacated the yacht from the bottom of Wetherfield Cove and tried to sell it. No one would bid for it.
The Perelandra was built in 1964. It was 131 feet long and 16 feet wide. It had a 30-horsepower outboard motor. It was built by the Perelandra Yacht Co. in New York City.

Chief Drumm explains his talk with gunman

By MAL BARLOW East Hartford Reporter
A tired-looking East Hartford Police Chief Clarence Drumm held a press conference Tuesday afternoon in which he gave details of his night talking to murderer-suicide Frank Daniel DeCorleto.
After police burst into the man's upstairs apartment on Holdstock Pl. at 7:45 p.m. to find the man dead, the chief gave instructions to study the site and deal with the three bodies of the night's victims. Then he went home, showered, took a short nap, and met reporters at the station.
He referred to the dead man as Frank.
"I felt sure the wife (Sibbhan, 22) and the boy (Frank D. Corleto III, 4) were dead as I spoke of DeCorleto," the chief said.
The chief said he had not straggled with phones and the phone company before he could get a call into DeCorleto. The man's number was not listed. But by 4:45 p.m. he spoke to him from a home on School St.
"His general attitude was that he couldn't care less about it all. Society gave him no reason for living."
He spoke to the chief often through the night about his son. He did not talk to his mother or father. Later he demanded to speak to them but the chief refused him.
"Only two people were talking to him," said the chief. "They were myself and Jack Schneider (a member of the state police tactical unit).
"We were trying to keep him alive. But we had nothing to offer him. He was keenly aware of this and repeated it."
"Letting him talk to his parents was a bargaining point."
DeCorleto told the chief, "I've done 10 hard years 'n prison. I won't go back."
The chief said he could not speak of the man's police record here. According to court records, DeCorleto was not supposed to have a record.

Not many knew Frank DeCorleto

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Not many neighbors knew Frank DeCorleto, 34, who murdered his wife and son before turning the gun on himself Tuesday afternoon, police said.
"Nobody really knew him. He just kept to himself," said Ted Czizman, 53, who lived next to the three-story, white shingled house — with a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary on the front lawn — in which DeCorleto lived.
"DeCorleto was a pleasant guy," said Santos Sepela, DeCorleto's landlord who rented the upstairs apartment and lived below. "He had fights with his wife and had a bad one two weeks ago," he said.
Sepela said DeCorleto always paid his rent on time, although he did not know how he came up with the money because the former bakery worker was unemployed during the six months he lived at 4 Holdstock Pl.
The police found part of the stolen Pitkin silverware collection at the murder-suicide scene but said they did not know if DeCorleto had acted alone in the theft of the priceless collection which had been held for ransom.
"His wife was nervous but in the last week he got more nervous," Sepela said.
Sepela's grandson who knew the slain family, said DeCorleto "loved the little boy, a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary on the front lawn — in which DeCorleto lived."

Coventry Democrats split over primary

A primary challenge to the Democratic Town Council slate by Joyce Carilli has split the Democratic Town Committee in Coventry.

In a recent caucus the Democrats endorsed five town committee-supported candidates for the council: incumbent Jack Myles and Richard Giggey, Patricia White, Karen Nash, and Harold Crane. Mrs. Carilli was nominated from the floor but failed to secure sufficient votes.

Now she has filed petitions with the registrar of voters to have her name placed on the ballot for a Sept. 15 Democratic primary. The five top vote-getters will appear on the November ballot.

Albert Carilli, the contender's husband, is a former town councilman and a member of the town committee. He will serve as his wife's principal campaign treasurer. He attempted to return to the council last year when a vacancy occurred due to the resignation of William McEwen, but the town committee endorsed both Carilli and Jerry LeGrand for the post and the council chose LeGrand.

Mrs. Carilli's campaign chairman will be Lionel Jean, a member of the town committee, and Dorothy Thissell, wife of town committee member Ralph Thissell. George Boldre, head of the Young Democrats of Coventry and also a town committee member, will be deputy campaign treasurer.

Also on the campaign committee are town committee members Michael Pease and Roslyn Kornfeld along with Joseph Bastarache, husband of town committeewoman Susan Bastarache. Other campaign workers include Daniel Ferguson and Diane Spruce.

This will be the first local primary challenge since Coventry adopted the council form of government in 1969. Democratic Town Chairman Richard Cromie was himself involved in a primary for the office of state representative several years ago. He won the primary but lost the election.

In the early 1970s a faction led by Cromie and State Rep. Robert Walsh and supported by the Carillis took over leadership of the town committee. Mrs. Carilli's challenge is the first public split among that group, although internal difficulties have emerged in recent years.

Mrs. Carilli says that the primary campaign slogan will be "Joyce Wants to Know." She said Mrs. Carilli's intent is to contact voters over the phone and at public meetings, recreation, street lights, association roads and other issues.

South Windsor

Plans are being made for the Hobby and Craft Show scheduled by South Windsor senior citizens Sept. 14. Senior citizens not wishing to exhibit hobbies or crafts are asked to donate baked goods for a sale. All seniors in town are invited to attend the meeting and view the displays.

The South Windsor Public Library will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Central Regional Health Systems through Thursday beginning Sept. 6. Saturday hours will resume Sept. 10. Library hours are Monday to Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Wapping Fair Committee will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Clubhouse, in the Professional Building basement at 641 Sullivan Ave. Final preparations will be made for the Wapping Fair to be held Sept. 9 to 11 at the Rye Street Park fairgrounds.

Woman exec charges bias

HARTFORD (UPI) — A former bank executive has filed suit alleging she was fired from her job last year because she is a woman.

Linda Griffin of Vernon is seeking $500,000 in damages. Ms. Griffin was formerly comptroller and assistant treasurer of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co. of Hartford.

Andover almost loses grants

Andover nearly lost a substantial amount of federal anti-recession money because of inefficiency in the town's previous administration, according to First Selectman J. Russell Thompson.

The anti-recession money can be used to maintain basic services of the town but it must be allocated within six months of its receipt.

In January Andover received $3,105. It should have been allocated by July. In April the town received $993, which must be allocated by October. In July the town received $1,831 ($1.67 in federal anti-recession funds and $214 from the state's share of anti-recession money), which must be allocated by January 1978.

The town's previous administration consisted of First Selectman David Veomans, Percy Cook and Thompson.

Thompson said he remembered learning that money would be coming in but doesn't remember any plans to spend it. He said he knew the money was received and put into an account.

But, he said, "the previous board, of which I was a part, took no action on how it should be used."

Thompson said he was not aware of the six-month limitation. He said, "I guess I could blame myself for finding the money."

Thompson said he started investigating the matter when the town's general audit was done and when the July check was received. Thompson said, "I have to blame the previous administration to the extent something should have been done when the checks came in."

"I think, however, it will work out all right," he said.

After learning the town didn't allocate the money within the six-month period, the anti-recession office in Washington, D.C., contacted Thompson.

They told him Andover may have to refund some of the money because the town was in violation.

Thompson said he explained he just took office in July and as soon as he learned of the money he began to investigate.

Officials told him that if the town acted quickly, it wouldn't lose the money, Thompson said.

To get the funds allocated, a special meeting of the Board of Finance was held Tuesday. It is not yet known if the board's action was in order.

The finance board authorized the selectmen to apply for and accept grants. Thompson said, "That is the way we are doing it now."

Area police report

East Hartford
Donald Woodbury, 39, of 48 Branch Dr., East Hartford, was arrested Tuesday at 7:34 p.m. and charged with first-degree reckless endangerment and discharge of a weapon within town limits.

Woodbury allegedly was firing a 22-caliber pistol at a target near the 184 mixmaster by Governor St., police said.

He posted $150 bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 Sept. 19.

Eleanor B. Ludwig, 63, of 130 Handel Rd., East Hartford, was arrested Tuesday at the J.M. Fields store on Silver Lane and charged with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting). Court date is Sept. 19.

David J. Phillips, 16, of 105 Dartmouth Dr., East Hartford, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with conspiracy to commit larceny and third-degree larceny in connection with a burglary Aug. 18 on Colby Dr., police said. He was released on a $250 non-surety bond for court Sept. 19.

Louis A. Hernandez, 19, of 84 Cannon Rd. was arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with third-degree burglary and escape from custody in connection with an April burglary into 17 Burnside Ave., police said. He was held overnight for court today.

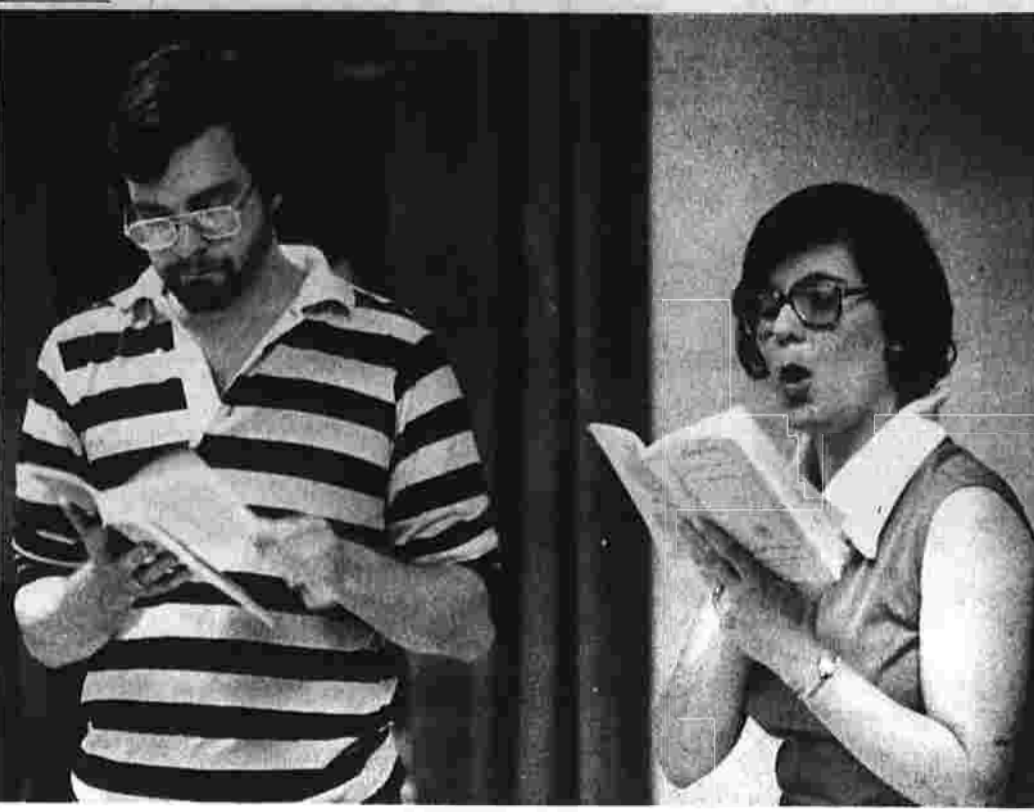

Vernon
John Damante, 24, of Windsor Locks, was in critical but stable condition at St. Francis Hospital, Hartford, this morning. Damante suffered head injuries in a motorcycle accident in Vernon about 1 a.m. today.

Vernon Police said Damante was apparently driving his cycle east on Regan Rd., lost control and went off the road.

He was taken to Rockville General Hospital and later transferred to St. Francis. The accident is still under investigation.

South Windsor
Donald McCabe, 36, of 37 Sunset Ter., South Windsor, was charged Tuesday night with disorderly conduct in connection with a disturbance at his home.

He was released on a $200 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, Sept. 12.

Auditioning in Vernon

Paul Gessay of Vernon, stage manager for the Tri-Town Players, listens as Clarice Mitchell of Vernon auditions for the part of "Muriel Tate" in the players' upcoming production of "Plaza Suite". Gessay will also be conducting auditions for parts tonight and Sept. 6 and 7. The play will be presented in the fall. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Hospital hearing Friday

Vernon
The state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care will conduct a public hearing Friday at 10 a.m. at Rockville General Hospital on the hospital's expansion program.

The board of directors of the North Central Regional Health Systems Agency (NSA) has approved the proposed $2.1 million expansion program and will recommend that the commission approve it. The recommendation will be made at the public hearing.

The commission will then go through a review process and its decision should be made known by mid-October. It has 90 days to take action or it is considered approved.

Because the NSA board approved the plan in a 15 to 1 vote, it is expected that the commission will approve the plan, which has been considered in different form and turned down twice before.

The hospital is asking to expand its emergency and out-patient areas and to move the pediatrics department from the old wooden section of the building.

Ronald Hine, director of public works, said the road crews have completed the paving of 15 roads in town. The overlaying of several streets has been completed with a few still scheduled for the first part of September.

About 55 miles of town roads will have the center lines repainted about the middle of September.

Pollution violation was late

Vernon
An apparent air pollution violation called against the Amertelle plant in Rockville about a week ago ended before plant officials received the notice from the Department of Environmental Protection.

Almer Brooks, company president, said apparently there was a violation when the test was made but 20 minutes later there was no violation.

However, Brooks said company officials will be talking with state people as they keep in touch anyway.

According to DEP officials the alleged pollution violation was in the form of a visible particulate emission. DEP inspectors determined the cause was a fabric coating process of some sort.

Election doesn't excite Hebron

By KAREN BISKUPIAK
Herald Correspondent

Once again it's an election year in Hebron and some of the electorate isn't too happy or anxious about getting out to exercise its civic duty Nov. 8.

In an informal poll of about 10 percent of the registered voters, results indicated a general lack of enthusiasm for the party candidates.

Voters were selected at random and included both those registered with either the Democratic and Republican parties and also those who are unaffiliated.

Residents indicated that they felt they were not being given a choice this year. They stated that neither the Democratic nor Republican candidates for the Board of Selectmen gave them a "real choice."

The Democratic candidate for first selectman, incumbent Aaron Reid, is vying for his sixth term in office with his running mate, Cynthia Wilson, going for her second term as selectman.

They will be competing against Republican first selectman candidate Raymond Burt, who is running with Ms. Frost Krist. This is Burt's second try against Reid, who defeated him four years ago. Me. Krist is attempting her first run for elective office.

Voters were first asked if they were aware of who the candidates were. Many indicated they did not.

When informed who the candidates were, some residents said, "You never see or hear from them until it's an election year, so who can keep up with it all."

Through Reid is heading for his sixth term in office, 65 percent of the voters contacted indicated that he had not performed his duties as they would have desired.

Not one voter interviewed stated that they were positively for any of the candidates. Most indicated dissatisfaction at what they were being offered. Many did not know Burt or the fact that he had run four years ago.

One individual said, "It's sad the ticket can't change enough to allow someone other than the same old clique to get into office."

It was also commented that the salaries for the selectmen were too low to attract "good, qualified persons."

It was suggested that a third party be established to provide the voters with a real choice. A voter commented, "The era of the uneducated citizen has passed. Third parties are coming into their own."

Surprisingly it wasn't just unaffiliated voters that cast their votes for a third party candidate, but Democrats also. Republicans also. Hebron has never run anything other than the standard two party ticket.

Dissatisfaction seemed to reign among those interviewed — either with politics

Bolton K-8 schools expect 555 pupils

Bolton Elementary Center School will open its doors Wednesday, Sept. 7, at 9 a.m. for about 555 students. The school will be dismissed at 3 p.m. each day. Morning Kindergarten students will be in session from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Afternoon kindergarten students will be in session from 12:30 to 3 p.m.

Richard Packman, principal, said the enrollment is down about 25 students. He said 26 new students registered during the summer and about 10 requested transfers. Lunches will be served from the first day. The cost of lunch is 65 cents and milk is 5 cents. The menu for Wednesday is hamburgers, hot dogs, buttered corn, potato chips, pudding and milk. The complete menu for September will be available for first day of school.

Several new faces will be seen on the teaching staff. Susan Kane will teach Grade 2. Barbara Robb will be the half-time learning disabilities teacher for students in Grades 6-12 and the half-time professional tutor for Title I students in Grades 5-8. Lillian Harpin will be the professional tutor for Title I students in kindergarten through Grade 4. Math for students in Grades 7 and 8 will be taught by Thomas Sheridan. Ann Klein will be reading consultant for students in kindergarten through Grade 5.

For the first time there will be a resource room in both buildings to serve students with special needs. Each room will have a reading consultant, learning disabilities specialist and Title I professional tutor to work with the students.

For students in kindergarten through Grade 8 a new math program, will be implemented. During the year a new science curriculum for kindergarten through Grade 8 students will be developed and a pilot teacher evaluation program will be implemented.

Packman said, "We're excited about another approaching year. One of our targets is to have the students assume more responsibility. "We hope there will be a better than ever working relationship between the students and the teachers, he said.

Bolton High ready for its 15th year

At 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7, Bolton High School will resume classes for the beginning of its 15th year. Classes will be dismissed at 2:14 p.m. each day.

For probably one of the few times in its history, the school did not lose any of its teachers. All last year's regulars are returning.

The only loss to the school was that of Lynell Morris, half-time guidance counselor, and George Rohack, half-time guidance counselor and half-time cooperative work experience coordinator. Both held their positions for one year.

242. Joseph Fleming, principal, said the anticipated enrollment for September has not yet been determined. He said figures will be available shortly after school gets under way.

Fleming said 12 students who moved into Bolton during the summer have registered. He said there are no tuition students yet but he has had a couple of calls from interested parents.

Lunch will be served from the first day. Grinders, hamburgs, hot dogs, ice cream and milk will be available. Fleming said, "We're ready to go."
