Treaty signers shake on it

Opponents call it treason

Canal treaties signed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter signed treaties relinquishing the Panama Canal in the year 2000, but opponents called it "treason" and rallied today to the battle cry "We built it, we bought it, we own it."

In a glittering ceremony Wednesday night preceding a state dinner for the presidents, prime ministers and diplomats of 27 hemispheric nations, Carter and Gen. Omar Torrijos affixed their names to the two treaties turning Teddy Roosevelt's canal over to Panama.

Carter's bold diplomatic gamble produced the treaties. But signing them does not put them into effect. It takes Senate ratification and House implementing legislation to do that, and the task won't be easy.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., on the steps of the Capitol Wednesday, called treaty negotiator Sol Linowitz the "Bert Lance of international negotiation" as 200 protesters waved the banners, "We built it, we bought it, we own it."

Even Democrats conceded the path to ratification will be thorny.

Ronald Reagan urged rejection of the treaties, saying their "fatal flaw" is the future assumption of reliable, trouble-free canal operation.

In testimony prepared today for a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, he said the 1903 treaty with Panama gave the United States "a firm, unshakable legal basis for building, operating and defending the canal."

"To this day, it is those rights of sovereignty which undergird our ability to operate and defend the canal. We cannot be kicked out summarily on the whim of some Panamanian government."

Television beamed the ceremony live, by satellite, throughout Latin America as Carter and Torrijos signed the blue-and-red-bound treaties that constitute the historic agreement. The two men smiled and embraced warmly after they signed.

Torrijos, in a concession to the rocky road Carter faces, said the future of the treaties depends on "the statesmanship" of the U.S. Senate.

"We are here to participate in the signing of treaties, which will assure a peaceful and prosperous and secure future for an international waterway of great importance to us all," Carter said.

"But the treaties do more than that. They mark the commitment of the United States to the belief that fairness, not force, should lie at the heart of our dealings with the nations of the world."

Mobilized in support were Lady Bird Johnson, whose husband Lyndon placed his administration on record for turning the canal over to Panama; and former President Gerald Ford, whose support of such a move nearly cost him the GOP nomination to Reagan last year.

They received warm applause when Carter introduced them at the signing ceremony. Also present were Henry Kissinger, secretary of state under Ford and Richard Nixon; and William Rogers, who held the post in Nixon's first term.

The treaties cannot become effective until two-thirds of the senators present and voting approve.

Congress wrangles over new budget

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress returned from its summer recess Wednesday and promptly got into partisan wrangles over the federal budget and the investigation of Korean influence buying.

The lawmakers also prepared to renew their investigation of Budget Director Bert Lance, and began dealing with the troublesome issues of natural gas prices, utility rate-making, storage of nuclear wastes, and changes in current labor law.

As the Congressmen gathered for their first day of business, the House Republicans launched an attack on the proposed 1978 federal budget, a spending plan they said will cause the average American taxpayer to pay $1,000 more a year in taxes for the next five years.

Democrats say the $458.7 billion budget will create more jobs and reduce unemployment.

The budget issue got slightly tangled in the Korean influence-buying scandal. Rep. Bruce Caputo, R-N.Y., said $114 million in foreign aid for South Korea should be cut from the budget if that country refuses to return businessman Tongsun Park to the United States for questioning by congressional committees.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, preparing to further investigate Lance's financial dealings, released a report which said Lance used interest-free deposits from his own bank to obtain more than a dozen loans during the past several years. The committee members planned to question Comptroller John Heimann about the report today.

The lawmakers quickly resumed work on several energy related matters. The Senate, during debate on the coal bill, rejected an effort to move up President Carter's timetable for requiring power plants to convert from natural gas to coal by 1990.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, estimated that his committee is about evenly divided on the President's plan to extend federal controls on natural gas prices. He said the issue could go "either way" on the floor.

Witnesses before a Senate energy conservation subcommittee said the federal government should not get involved in deciding what rates can be charged by utilities. Legislation under study by the panel would eliminate bargain rates for customers using large amounts of energy.

On the House side, Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., called for Carter to decide on a policy for the use or disposal of atomic wastes. Moss said several nuclear power plants will have to close down in the next 10 years if new arrangements are not made for their waste materials.

A House subcommittee began hearings on proposals to change a 42-year-old law designed to protect workers' rights to organize. The plan was endorsed by former Labor Secretaries W. Willard Wirtz and John Dunlop, but spokesmen for two employer groups opposed the legislation.

Trans-Canada route picked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Carter and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau today announced approval of a $7.7 billion trans-Canada pipeline to transport Alaskan and surplus Canadian natural gas to the United States.

Congress has 60 working days to accept or reject what the two leaders called "the largest single private energy project in history." Work could begin on the 2,700-mile trans-Canada line next year.

The Alcan Pipeline Co. proposal has the support of environmentalists.

Tight budget upsets some, but is accepted by others

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter

The 1977-78 Town of Manchester budget is a tight one, and it appears that there will be little money to spend on personnel matters during the year.

There is some disgruntlement about the situation among town hall employees. Others, however, feel that the board is doing the best it can under the present financial situation.

Two areas of personnel matters that are affected by the budget are reclassifications and pay raises to non-union employees.

The reclassification matter came to light last month when the board rejected four reclassifications that would have been financed through the General Fund budget.

The board originally had been asked to act on the reclassifications during the last fiscal year. It decided to postpone any action until the budget-making sessions. Then, during the budget sessions, the board appropriated $3,000 to pay for reclassifications and decided to postpone any such actions until this fiscal year.

Denied

At its Aug. 16 meeting, the board

clerked the town's tight financial situation and denied the reclassifications. Town Manager Robert Weiss previously had presented the directors and department heads with a letter that said the town could face a deficit for 1977-78, perhaps as large as $1 million.

The board did approve three separate reclassifications requested by the Water Department, which has its own self-sustaining budget.

But, the denial of the four General Fund reclassifications did raise some concern among town employees.

William Moon, an employee in the assessor's office, was one of those denied a reclassification. He said that he felt the board "acted in bad faith" by not approving the changes.

Another person, involved in personnel matters, said that he found the board's handling of reclassifications "very frustrating."

But, another town employee said that the board's handling of reclassifications is a natural reaction because of the present financial situation.

"They've been very strict on reclassification, but that's their function," he said.

And Charles McCarthy, assistant town manager who handles many personnel matters, said, "From my knowledge of board decisions and how they're made, they (the board members) made the best decisions they can."

Not appreciated

Another town employee said of the board, "They don't seem to appreciate what we do. They sometimes act like we're machines."

The worker said that animosity is growing among at least some of the town employees.

The matter of non-union salaries has been a problem in the past and has built up over several years.

Union employees are given pay raises according to contracts agreed to by the town. Pay raises for non-union workers—primarily department heads and mid-management employees—are decided by the board and have generally been less than union pay hikes.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said that he feels the issue should be studied.

In some situations, supervisors make less than those that they are supervising.

"I've heard comments like, 'Why am I a supervisor?'" Giles said.

He said that a study concerning the salaries of department heads was done about five years ago.

"The system appears to be breaking down again," he said. He recommended that the matter be studied again and that the study this time include both department heads and mid-management workers.

Sidewalk funds approved

A $779,000 federal grant for sidewalk repairs in Manchester has been approved.

The town has not received formal notification of the grant, but the office of U.S. Rep. William Cotter has announced approval of the funding.

The money is provided through the federal Public Works Employment Act program, which is aimed at providing funds for needed improvement projects that can provide near-immediate employment.

Manchester is expected to receive more than $1.7 million through the program. Town officials have approved a plan to split the funding three ways — $779,000 for the sidewalk work, $750,000 for renovation work at the police station and $245,000 for storm drainage on Thompson Rd.

There has been no formal notification yet on final approval of the funds for the police station and Thompson Rd. work.

Jay Giles, director of public works, said that the town has 90 days from notification of the grant to begin work on the sidewalk repairs.

Ninety days from now would be early December, when it becomes difficult to do sidewalk work because of weather problems.

"We'd like to start as soon as we can," Giles said.

He said that work is being done preparing a bid document for the first portion of the work, which will include Diane, Frances and Niles Drs.

Giles said that the work will be bid in portions rather than all at once.

The town originally submitted an application that included about $2 million in sidewalk replacements.

Giles said that essential repairs will be made on all the streets in-

Zucchini is not normally used as a foundation planting, but these two plants had minds of their own. Paul Ottone, of 23 1/2 W. Middle Tpke, got the seed for this little jungle from California, expecting to have normal zucchini plants and a normal yield. The two plants took off in opposite directions, however, and kept on going, producing stems, leaves, and plenty of big squash. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Nursery school begins at Temple Beth Sholom

Ms. Barbara Sherwood of South Windsor has been appointed assistant teacher at the Temple Beth Sholom Nursery School which opens Monday, Oct. 3. The school is under the direction of Mrs. Judy Press, head teacher at the school for the past five years. Applications are being accepted for enrollment of children three and four years old. There will be a meeting for new parents Thursday at 8 p.m. at the home of Roy and Paula Schwartz, Vernon.

Ms. Sherwood received her B.A. degree from Clark University, Worcester, Mass., and her M.S. degree from Central Connecticut State College. She has taught elementary school in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Connecticut. Mrs. Press received her B.A. degree from Siena College for Women, Yeshiva University. She has done graduate work at Tufts University and Clark University. She and her husband, Marabel, live in Rockville with their two children.

Panel discusses water options

Fred Thrall, member of the town's advisory Water Study Committee makes some comments at Tuesday night's meeting in Lincoln Center. Committee Chairman Harry Reinborn is on the left and Patrick Donlon on the right. Members in the foreground are Eileen Stern, Rebecca Janenda and Town Fire Chief John Rivosca. The committee Tuesday limited its options for improving the town's water treatment system to two, both of which include building a new water treatment facility in the south end of Manchester. Gardening

By Frank Atwood

Fifth-grader Eddie Andrews sent away for cherry tomato seeds, planted them in half-pint milk cartons in the house, transplanted the strongest seedlings to larger milk cartons and then outdoors. His father, Robert Andrews, told me about the tomatoes in August when he said the vines were seven feet tall. Now they are nine feet tall and reach the eaves.

The Andrews home is on Brent Dr. in Vernon, reached by way of Tunnel Rd., and the tomatoes were set close to the outside wall where they were sheltered from the wind and had full sun.

Eddie's sister, Brenda, in the second grade, has some of the tomato plants in her own row, and the children have kept their mother supplied with bright red fruits for garden salad. They look nice and they taste good, said Mrs. Andrews. The tomatoes have borne handsomely with generous clusters of fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are both employees of the U.S. Postal Service. Mr. Andrews works night at the Hartford Post Office, sorting mail by zip code number on a letter sorting machine, called an LSM. His wife, Delores, is a substitute mail carrier in Vernon and Ellington, driving her own car with a normal left-hand drive and sliding over to the right to reach the mail boxes. She has become accustomed to this method of driving and does not find it inconvenient.

Mr. Andrews takes care of the family garden, with a good assortment of vegetables, and he has two dwarf apple trees, heavy now with fruit, a McIntosh and a Delicious. He has sprayed them every 10 days. Two families of robins built nests in one of the apple trees. Eddie is a Cub Scout. He is an advanced beginner in swimming and on a visit to his grandfather in a cottage at Lake Williams in Lebanon recently swam a mile across the lake, accompanied by his grandfather in a rowboat. He likes bowling and is an outfielder on a Vernon Little League baseball team.

The school ballet ensemble has performed both locally and in surrounding towns for the P.T.A. fine Arts Programs, and students have been guest performers with the Windsor Ballet.

Students have attended intensive Ballet courses under the direction of Melissa Hayden, former N.Y.C. Ballet, and Elisabeth Carroll, former principal dancer with Harkness Ballet Co. Two students have gone on as dance majors at Boston Conservatory and North Carolina School of the Arts.

Edward Andrews, 9, of Vernon has an excellent harvest of cherry tomatoes he grew from seed. His father set stakes and later spliced them for extra height as vines reached for the roof. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Opinion

Should Congress think?

We suspected as much before and now it's been confirmed: The nation's lawmakers are so busy, busy that they have no time for quiet reflection on the laws they are making.

A study by the House Commission on Administrative Review, headed by Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., found that the average congressman puts in an 11-hour day but only has 11 minutes just to sit and think.

With similar precision, three minutes are spent with the House leadership, 25 minutes with constituents, 45 minutes answering mail and 53 minutes conferring with staff.

Four hours and 25 minutes of a House member's working day are taken up on the House floor or in committee and subcommittee meetings, the number of which has more than doubled in the past 20 years. In the same period, the length of sessions has almost doubled (from 937 hours to 1,789 hours).

"Rarely do members have sufficient blocks of time when they are free from the frenetic pace of the Washington 'treadmill,'" says the report.

The same problem, presumably, exists in the Senate.

It seems worth pointing out that the report was released just about the time Congress was evacuating Washington for its 11th recess this year. These recesses, which have ranged from three days to a month, as in the present case, certainly constitute blocks of time off the treadmill.

Political fences are in constant need of repair back home, of course, and this is what occupies most congressmen during a recess. But we hope some of them will be able to hang out the "Gone Fishin'" sign, at least for a few days.

If only congressmen didn't have to pass laws, satisfy constituents and run for re-election, why, they could probably develop into some of the finest thinkers anywhere.

Springboard for discussion

On Wednesday, President Carter and Panama's president, Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos, signed a new Panama Canal Treaty which in essence will gradually turn over the Atlantic-Pacific Ocean link to the Panamanians by the year 2000. This action by the two leaders must be ratified by the U.S. Senate.

The Herald's Springboard

for discussion there will be: Should the U.S. Senate ratify the proposed Panama Canal Treaty?

As in all Springboard and Open Forum letters, writers are asked to limit their letters to about 250 words. Letters must be signed and addressed. The Herald will print the letters on Friday, Sept. 16. The deadline for letters is Wednesday, Sept. 14.

Greenland leaves us cold

Henry Kissinger was not the first secretary of state to think in terms of grand, global strategy and forget about people.

In 1946, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes made an offer to the Danish foreign minister to buy Greenland, telling him the island was nothing but a lump of ice and was to be turned to Denmark but was of great strategic importance to the United States.

So claims historian Tage Kaarstedt in a new book based on previously secret Danish government files. It happens that this "lump of ice" is home to some 50,000 people who in recent years have become increasingly restive under Danish rule.

As if the United States hasn't had enough troubles in the past 30 years, can you picture us trying to defend itself against charges of "colonialism" in Greenland?

In 1900, more than 6,000 persons were killed when a hurricane and tidal wave struck Galveston, Tex. In 1934, the U.S. liner "Morro Castle" burned off Ashby Park, N.J., taking 137 lives. In 1974, President Gerald Ford granted former President Richard Nixon full pardon for all offenses he may have committed during his years in office.

No meaningful discipline is permitted

Andrew Tully

WASHINGTON — In Osterville, on Cape Cod, the son of a boyhood friend has quit teaching because "they just don't permit meaningful discipline in public schools anymore." This personal item is relevant to release of a report by the College Entrance Examination Board of a startling, 14-year drop in average scores in Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT). Since 1963, says the report, the average score on the verbal section of the exam has declined 49 points, from 473 to 429; and mathematics scores have dropped 32 points, from 502 to 470. A perfect score on each test is 800.

After a two-year study, the college board blamed the poor scores on lower school standards, television, and increased number of females and blacks now taking the tests, and social upsets during a "decade of distraction."

Too permissive Any parent who gives a damn about his kids could have written the report. Public — and some private — schools across the country have fallen into disrepute, mostly because the people running those schools have been too permissive and have surrendered to social unrest that has all but mortally wounded civilized values.

Let the report of the board, headed by the able former Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz speak for itself: "Absenteeism, formerly considered intolerable, is condoned. An 'A' or 'B' means a good deal less than it used to. Promotion from one grade to another has become almost automatic. Homework is apparently been cut about in half. Open-admissions college are available; if entering students don't know how to read and write, and do arithmetic, remediation is available."

Home work important Homework should be part of a child's education in self-discipline as well as in the Three R's. The child is alone with his homework; it is an exercise in thinking and self-reliance. Yet we have educators deploring it as damaging to the pupil's psyche, intruding on his play time.

But the biggest villain is the aptly named open-admissions college. Any idiot can get in if he can write his own name. Any idiot can graduate if he attends enough classes (although this requirement, is often honored more in the breach). They are not "colleges"; they are playgrounds for social and athletic activities. These curious institutions say to the high school student, in effect, "Goof off, pal, you're always welcome here."

NEA blames tests Predictably, the teachers' National Education Association blamed the SAT tests themselves for declining college entrance exam scores. But in doing so, NEA President John Ryor indicated his own flock.

Fyor charged that the SAT has not significantly changed in 16 years, a time of "great change in society and its values." The SAT, he said, is "therefore busily measuring what used to be, but no longer exists in education." That statement will do nicely as a plea of guilty.

ERA: Equality or blackmail?

Lee Roderick

The Herald's Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON — "Blackmail...to coerce (into doing something) as by threats..." The lobby pushing ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment may call it something else, but Webster's definition seems appropriate to the current campaign by, among others, the National Organization for Women to force resistant state legislatures into voting for the constitutional amendment. The campaign has centered on diverting convention business from the 15 states that have not ratified ERA, and is expanding into an effort to divert tours from unratified states as well.

"The response has been overwhelming," says NOW President Eleanor Smeal. "Major education, religious, professional and union organizations have resolved to meet only in ratified states."

The 15 recalcitrant states are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Utah and Virginia. "The women of America have said that if you take your convention to (cities in these states), you are crossing our picket line!" says Ms. Smeal. What she doesn't say is who elected her to speak for all of the 100 million "women of America."

Nitpicking aside, it must be granted that NOW's convention strategy has won some impressive converts. Among them: the Democratic National Committee, National Education Association, American Library Association, American Political Science Association, and the League of Women Voters.

It is impossible to calculate how many dollars will be lost to the 15 states because of NOW-diverted conventions. The total amount probably will be rather piddling. However, the impact obviously will be greater in states with such popular convention cities as Miami, Chicago and Las Vegas.

A cross-check by Scripps League Newspapers of some of the 29 cooperating organizations listed by NOW confirms that the groups do indeed intend to keep their conventions out of the 15 states. At least one, the League of Women Voters, has switched its 1978 convention site from Chicago to Ohio because of Illinois' non-ratification of the ERA and despite the fact that Illinois — like Utah — already has a state equal

Politics Pearson

By GREG PEARSON

Several candidates in this year's town election were among the speakers at last week's meeting that dealt with Manchester water problems. The candidates voiced support for improving the present water system. The town is studying improvements to both the water treatment and distribution systems.

These improvements will cost several million dollars, which would require a bond issue approved by the voters. Stephen Cassano, a Democrat running for the Board of Directors, said, "We've been striking our finger in the dike too long. Soon, it's going to break."

He said that even though last week's meeting was called because of the contamination problem in the southwest section of town, the water situation is one that affects the entire town. "We have to emphasize that," he said.

Stephen Penney, a present Democratic director who is seeking re-election, acted as moderator for the meeting. At the conclusion of the three-hour session, Penney said, "I think it's clear that water has to be our top priority. The initial steps have been taken." David Call, a Republican director candidate, spoke of the recent contamination problem and told the audience, "We've got to have a better detection system."

Gunther cites need for openness

State Sen. George Gunther, a Republican seeking the nomination for governor, Tuesday night told members of the Young Republicans of Greater Manchester that there is a need for increased openness in government.
Gunther, who is from Stratford, said that he supports party primaries and an end to closed-door meetings as possible steps to achieve his goal. He also said that there is no need for a state income tax. There should be more attention paid to state spending on all levels, he said.
Gunther, who has served in the state senate since 1967, also said that the state should reach a standardization defining education before it works on deciding how much should be spent per pupil.
Everett Murphy, Manchester's Republican candidate for town clerk, introduced Gunther to the audience at the Savings Bank of Manchester.

Meeting sought on I-86 land

The Hockanum River Linear Park Committee plans to meet with the State Highway Department to discuss land abutting Interstate 86 that lies close to the Hockanum River. Committee members Tuesday night advised Stephen LaFond, acting committee chairman, to write a letter to the state highway commissioner proposing a meeting sometime later this month to discuss the land the state will need for its highway.
The committee also set up a schedule of walks along the Hockanum River. The walks will be held as follows: Oct. 9 (rain date, Oct. 16), meet in the parking lot on N. School St. and walk around Union Pond.
Nov. 13 (rain date, Nov. 20), meet at the Ward Mfg. Co. parking lot and walk along the river from Adams St. to N. Main St. and back.
Jan. 8 (rain date, Jan. 15), meet at New State Rd. and Hilliard St.
March 12 (rain date, March 19), meet at Pilgrim Mills on Oakland St. and walk north to Talcottville on one side of the Hockanum River, returning on the other side.
May 7 (rain date, May 14), walk around Union Pond to observe the flora and fauna.
A townwide cleanup project is scheduled for some Saturday in April.
Committee member Dr. Douglas Smith credited all walks are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Any individual or civic group who is interested in helping to maintain the Hockanum River Linear Park, or who is interested in supporting the committee is invited to join the Hockanum River Linear Park Committee. There are currently about 15 interested citizens and civic groups who participate in the linear park activities.
Spencer Cain has resigned as committee chairman because he moved to Enfield.

Honor Court anniversary rites planned Monday

The Honor Court of Common Pleas will celebrate its fourth anniversary Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the court on Tolland St. in East Hartford (attached to the East Hartford Police Station).
Honor Court is composed of people with drinking problems who have run afoul of the law somehow. Common Pleas Court judges can make attendance at the weekly Honor Court sessions part of a sentence.
Members of Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) help run the sessions. AA members speak at the sessions which last at least an hour.
"The speakers share their strength," said Dave, one of the AA members who has helped run the court all four years.
"They show how the program can work. They tell their own stories."
Judges in the past year referred 125 men and women to Honor Court. The minimum sentence was six meetings of the court.
Many of the people ordered to Honor Court continue attending after their minimum is met. And others not ordered to the court drop in, said Dave.
The average attendance through the past year has been 42.
"Many of the people are doing quite well," said Dave. "Some start attending AA meetings on the outside. Few of them are repeaters in the courts."
Prosecutor John Bailey is expected at the Monday night celebration. He has attended regular sessions of Honor Court and has spoken at some of the meetings.
State judges and other dignitaries have been invited.
Anyone interested in Honor Court is also welcome, said Dave.

State allocates funds for road improvements

Gov. Ella Grasso announced recently the allotment of $19.2 million in town aid grants for road improvements and public transportation services to 177 towns and cities in the state including several Manchester area communities.
The town allocation is as follows: Andover, $49,106; Bolton, $55,970; Coventry, $80,341; East Hartford, $25,479; Ellington, $92,437; Hebron, $71,747; Manchester, $211,386; South Windsor, $99,137; Tolland, $92,118; Vernon, $143,312.
Gov. Grasso said that the total for the fiscal year 1977-78 is $2.8 million more than the amount appropriated for last year.
The appropriation includes $18.2 million for construction and maintenance of improved roadways and essential public transportation and related services. The other $1 million is being allocated to the improvement of dirt and unimproved roads and bridges on those roads.
The $18.2 million is distributed at the rate of $1,400 per mile for the first 30 miles of improved roadways in each community. The remainder is distributed on the basis of the ratio of the population of each community to the total population of the state.
In addition to support of public transportation, these funds can be used to build, reconstruct, improve and maintain highways and bridges, plow snow, sand icy pavements, trim and remove trees, install and replace traffic signs, and for safety programs, traffic and parking planning and other highway programs.

Old school offered for sale

The Town of Manchester is seeking bids on several items, including the sale of the Old Keeney St. School at 321 Keeney St.
The Town Board of Directors voted earlier this year to use the old school as a carpentry shop for the maintenance division of the Public Works Department. The board, however, reconsidered the action when an offer was made to the town to purchase the building.
Thus, the town has put the sale of the school out to bid. The highest bidder apparently will purchase the building from the town.
Other items that the town is seeking bids on are:
• One Gravelly tractor to be used by the Cemetery Department.
• A contract for the mowing and trimming of the West and Buckland Cemeteries.
• One 10,000-pound dump truck for the Water and Sewer Department.
• Repairs to the sprinkler system at the YMCA.
• Mowing and trimming equipment to be used by the Cemetery Department.
All of the bids will be opened Friday, Sept. 23 at 11 a.m.

25th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Alfio Santini of 12 Frederic Rd., Vernon, were honored at a surprise party to mark their 25th wedding anniversary Sept. 4 at the KoC Home in Manchester.

The party was hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Santini of 53 Bradford St. and James and Richard Santini, at home.

The couple was married Sept. 27, 1952 at St. James Church in Manchester.

More than 115 persons attended and presented the couple with money and other gifts. Members of the wedding party also attended.

A wedding cake was made by Mrs. Normand E. Leclerc Sr. of Manchester, Mrs. Santini's sister.

The Santinis are co-owners of Vic's Pizzeria and Restaurant at 151 W. Middle Tpke. in Manchester.

They have two grandsons, Joseph and Jeffrey.

Awarded Eagle badge

Forestry management theme of summer camp

Learning about forestry was the major theme of Boy Scout Troop 25 at its summer camp at Camp Kirkham, East Lempster, N.H. recently.

As part of the forestry program each scout learned to identify trees, did selective cuttings, visited a local sawmill, and heard a talk by a New Hampshire forest ranger.

A special feature was the visit to camp of two scouts from Bermuda, Kevin Bean and Dean Griffin. These boys were guests of the troop for two weeks before camp started and had the opportunity to travel extensively in New England and also to visit with several troop families. While in camp they took part in the canoe trip and also gave illustrated talks about their homeland.

The 16-year-olds took part in a canoe trip down the Connecticut River.

Other camp activities for the younger boys included discussion programs, informal athletics, capture the flag and Moby Dick games, the annual ghost hike and survival drills, wrestling, and campfires.

During the first week of camp the younger boys went to Lempster to watch a clown show sponsored by the drama department of the University of New Hampshire. In addition, the senior scouts had a dance with local girl scouts at the Lempster Town Hall. They also took a trip to the Northfield Mountain reservoir, had a cruise down the Connecticut River, and visited a fish hatchery.

Elected to the Nikiwig, the troop honor society, on the final night of camp were the following: Bernard Alemany, Kevin Bean, Michael Charlette, Chris Felletter, Denn Griffin, Joseph Grzyb, Scott Grzyb, Brent Hazard, David House, Glen Marx, Kevin Moran, Alan Panciera, and Scott Wertheimer.

Presentation of the Eagle badge to David House, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph House of 204 Greenwood Dr., was the highlight of the Court of Honor which concluded the summer camp.

The maintenance staff was under the direction of Associate Scoutmaster Emeritus Norman Chatelet, assisted by Harry Aronch, William Chase, Chester Kimball, Kirk Nelson, Duane Mitchell, Kirk Nelson, and David Shearer. Donald Ellis and Ernest Arndt served as food service and business managers, while Lenny Jennings was store manager.

Cooks for the first week were John Bergeron and Theodore Methany, and for the second week Herbert Joyner and Jeffrey Kiojez. Water front directors were Paul Kudra, Scott Alemay, Robert Weiss, and David Beckwith.

The 17-year-old junior assistant scoutmasters were John Beckwith, Christopher Felletter, John Flurkey, Guy Gunderson, Charles Glade, David House, David Maidment, Ralf Michaels, Paul Miskunas, Michael Shearer, Jeffrey Slater, and William Tedford.

During the first week of camp the 15-year-old senior scouts made a 50-mile trip on the Appalachian Trail in New Hampshire, traveling south to Hanover, N.H., under the leadership of Stephen Armstrong and Lloyd Gustafson. At the same time, under the leadership of Jeffrey Bissell, Andrew Wintler, and Scott Alemay,

Assessment aide has dilemma in reclassification process

For William Moon, an assessment aide in the tax assessor's office, last month's rejection of a reclassification marked the second consecutive year that he has not received a reclassification.

Moon's reclassification would have changed his position from assessment aide to assistant assessor, a change that would have meant about an $800 increase in his pay.

The reclassification was endorsed by Tax Assessor Ed Belleville, who wrote in a report about Moon, "The past three years Mr. Moon is and has been functioning in a capacity higher than the assistant aide position."

Belleville also wrote that Moon has handled supervision phases of the reclassification. The assessment aide position has nothing to do with supervision, Moon said.

Moon said that he has discussed the matter with a person from the state Department of Labor. He was told that he could act by not doing any more work than what is expected from job description for assessment aide.

He has rejected this idea, however. "I could go to Ed (Belleville) and say, 'I'm only going to do this much. But, I can't be like that, I don't want to meet up the office,'" he said.

Moon also is unable to file a grievance through regular union channels. He is a member of the Municipal Employees Group Inc. (MEGI), but his new position would be a non-union job. Thus the union cannot represent him in a grievance.

He could, however, file a grievance through other channels.

Acquin is indicted

WATERBURY (UPI) — Lorne Acquin, a 27-year-old roofer, has been indicted for the slayings of a mother and eight children who were beaten and burned to death in Connecticut's worst mass murder July 2.

Acquin, who is being held on $250,000 bond, sad emotionless as court clerk Francis Brutl announced the indictment in Waterbury Superior Court.

John Williams, Acquin's lawyer, indicated his client will plead innocent at a hearing scheduled in Waterbury Superior Court next Thursday.

"I expect there probably will be a plea. I can assure you that it will be not guilty," the New Haven lawyer said. Connecticut law prohibits insanity pleas.

Acquin is charged with killing Mrs. Cheryl Beaudoin, 29, her seven children ranging in age from 4 to 12, and a playmate of the children, Jennifer Santoro, 6. The bodies were found in the early morning of July 2 after firemen smashed their way into the Beaudoin's modest six-room house in rural Prospect near Waterbury.

State police say the killer bludgeoned the victims before setting fire to his home.

The father, Fred Beaudoin, was working the night shift at an aerospace plant in North Haven when the killings happened. He is a foster brother to Acquin.

The two wells belong to Ronald Cooper of 80 Rosemary Lane and Leon Bloom of 72 Rosemary Lane. The pollution was discovered in July.

Talbot said the problem at the Cooper home has cleared up, but the Bloom well still has a high bacteria count.

The town offered to provide bottled water to the Bloom family, but they refused. Talbot said there is a possibility that the problem has been caused by a broken lateral in the sewer line.

If the break was discovered on town property, the town would pay for the work. If the break was on Bloom's land, Bloom would have to pay.

Talbot said it would take about a week to see if the lateral is the cause of the pollution.

He would like to see the two more wells to see if the pollution clears up, he said.

Gymnastics sign-up

Registration for the first eight-week gymnastics program will be held at the Timothy Edwards School Sept. 13 from 7 to 8 p.m.

The program is open to children in Grades 4 to 8 and a fee of $3 per child is payable at registration.

The program will begin Sept. 27. Classes will meet at the South Windsor High School Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p.m.

For further information, call the recreation department, 644-2511.

Lalache League

The South Windsor Lalache League will have its first meeting in a series of 4 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 14 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Judith Foster, 90 Foster St.

The topic of the meeting will be "Adventures of breast feeding to Mother and Child." All women interested in breast feeding are invited to attend. Babies are also welcome.

For more information, call Mrs. Ellen Falzarano, 644-9568.

Blood pressure

The South Windsor Public Health Nursing Association and the American Heart Association of Greater Hartford will sponsor a free blood pressure screening Sept. 27, Oct. 25 and Nov. 22 from 10 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. in the nurses' office of the Town Hall.

For more information, contact either of the sponsoring organizations.

Bulletin board

The Lithuanian Social Club will hold a fall meeting Sept. 13 at the Society for Savings Bank, Ellington Rd., 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Barry lauds Jacob's on station format

State Senator David M. Barry of Manchester, today applauded the efforts of radio station WLN General Manager Jeff Jacobs to keep the present programming at the station.

Stories have been circulated recently that former listeners to WLN are changing to rock and roll music as a result of the appointment of a new station president, Victor Levinson of New York.

"I believe that the media should give listeners a choice," Barry said. "WLN has a diverse format that appeals to a great many people in this area. It would be unfortunate if the listening public were denied the public affairs program, sporting events and the type of music the station now broadcasts."

Barry urged fellow listeners to join in supporting Jeff Jacobs so that the new station president will know the sentiments of the public.

Since announcement was made of the proposed change, more than 3,000 letters and cards, plus 500 signatures supporting Jacobs' efforts have been received at WLN.

"We have even had offers of free legal service from attorneys who would go as far as representing us with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC)," Jacobs said.

"The response has been heartwarming," he added.

Boy arrested for turning in false alarm

A 14-year-old boy was charged with falsely reporting an incident in connection with pulling a false alarm at Bennett Junior High School Wednesday at 1:55 p.m.

Police said the juvenile turned himself in after the incident and was in the custody of the school principal when police arrived. After a juvenile referral was made, he was returned to the custody of his parents.

The incident, occurring on the first day of this school year, recalls several similar false alarms, mostly at Manchester High School last spring. Police made some arrests in connection with the high school alarms.

The Town of Manchester Fire Department responded to the alarm Wednesday.

South Windsor

Deputy Mayor Robert Myette, who has forced a Sept. 15 primary in an attempt to regain his slot on South Windsor's Democratic ticket, has announced his campaign organization.

Co-campaign managers are Cornelius Nicholson of 105 Birch Hill Dr. and Edward Reardon of 185 Pine Tree Lane. Treasurer is Joseph Krawski Jr. of 178 Foster St.

District coordinators are Charles Francis of 81 Pleasant Valley Rd., District 1; Ann Bordas of 1417 Main St., District 2; Mary Lou Kupchunas of 255 Graham Rd., District 3; and Lee Giannanti of 82 Pine Knob Dr., District 4.

Nicholson, a lifetime resident of South Windsor, has been active in Democratic politics for many years. He is a former Town Court prosecutor, Town Court judge, chairman of the Public Building Commission and member of the Board of Education. He served on the Democratic Town Committee for 27 years.

Reardon, a South Windsor resident for 18 years, has served as a member of the Park and Recreation Commission and has held offices in the middle football league, Little League and South Windsor Booster Association.

He helped establish the high school athletic program and was active in the move to build the school's football field. Reardon served as Myette's campaign manager in his last two campaigns.

MCC offering variety of special courses

The Community Services Division at Manchester Community College will offer special interest courses in real estate, aviation and gerontology.

Three courses in real estate, real estate appraisal I, and problems in real estate brokerage. The basic three-day course will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings. The appraisal course will meet Tuesday evenings, and the brokerage course will meet Thursday evenings.

The three gerontology courses are primarily for persons already working with the elderly in convalescent homes and other institutions, for those working in various outreach programs and for others in community organizations. However, anyone interested in the problems of the elderly may enroll.

Two aviation courses will also be offered in cooperation with Ellington Airport.

Swimmers are more than 25 other special interest courses offered in areas such as emergency medical training, secretarial skills, lettering and sign painting, speed reading, upholstery, dental hygiene, respiratory therapy, veterinary technical assisting, basic and advanced photography.

Walk-in registration at the main campus of MCC, 60 Bidwell St., will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. For further information, call 646-2127.

Roy Thompson resigns from town commission

Roy Thompson has resigned from the Manchester Conservation Commission, an action that is an apparent spin-off of his recent involvement with a discrimination charge against the Police Department.

Thompson filed the charge against the department earlier this year after he was not selected for a dispatcher's position he had applied for. The town's relation to the commission found no discrimination in the Thompson case. He said that he had no further comment on Thompson's remarks.

Thompson, however, has stopped the patrol work and has resigned from the commission.

He said Wednesday that he felt some of the facts involved in his case to believe he was discriminated against because of his Case Mountain work.

He said that he felt the department may have viewed his work at the mountain as an infringement upon its duty.

Police Chief Robert Lannan pointed out that the Human Relations Commission, Thompson's major responsibility had been to patrol the Case Mountain area on his horse and report to the commission about the area.

Dismissed teacher files an appeal

An appeal challenging the Manchester Board of Education's dismissal of a tenured elementary school teacher last month has been filed in Hartford County Court of Common Pleas in behalf of the teacher, Joan Horvman.

The action is the first time in the history of the local board that a teacher dismissal has been challenged in court.

Wilson E. Deakin, assistant school superintendent in charge of personnel, said today.

Mrs. Horvman was dismissed by the board last month after teaching third grade at Buckley School for eight years. The action followed the recommendation of a three-member arbitration panel which voted 2 to 1 for the dismissal.

Atty. Thomas Sullivan of Hartford will represent the board in the case, as he has done in similar actions involving the board.

He will have until Sept. 27 to file an appearance and then another 15 days after that to file an answer to the complaint.

Atty. Hirtle said the case is termed a "privileged" case of other means it will go ahead of a lot of other cases that are taken within 30 days and the complaint notified of the decision within 10 days.

Scouting registration

Brownie and Girl Scout registration for Hebron will be Monday, Sept. 12, at Hebron Elementary School and Tuesday, Sept. 13, at Gilead Hill School, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Parents are welcome to register at either school.

Bloodmobile visit

A Bloodmobile will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 15, from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in Andover.

The Columbia Chapter of the Red Cross, of which Hebron is a member, has been unable to meet its quota of 80 plants per visit and new donors are needed.

Sunday School sign-up

The First Congregational Church of Hebron will conduct Sunday School registration this Sunday.

Due to the success of last year's extended session program, plus the apparent demand for a choice of times for the church school, two separate sessions will be offered — at 9:15 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Registration forms have been sent to church members and may be deposited in the offering plate this Sunday. Community children not enrolled in a church school program are also invited to attend. Church school will begin on Sunday, Sept. 18.

Local man arrested

Hirtle said the appeal states that the board acted illegally and arbitrarily and cites violations of the teacher arbitration law and the right to due process.

The appeal also contends the findings that Mrs. Horvman was incompetent and inefficient is also incompetent and inefficient. It also

Pollution of wells still being probed

South Windsor

The South Windsor Town Council will continue investigating the source of two polluted wells in the Rosemary Lane area before setting a public hearing on bringing city water to the problem homes.

Twenty-one residents of the area petitioned the council in August in hopes of convincing the town to install city water. City water lines to the neighborhood would cost the town about $60,000 to $70,000.

Town Manager Paul Talbot told the council this week that he has been working with David C. Wiggins, director of the Environmental Health Services Division of the state Department of Health, to find the source of the pollution.

Acquin, who is being held on $250,000 bond, sad emotionless as court clerk Francis Brutl announced the indictment in Waterbury Superior Court.

John Williams, Acquin's lawyer, indicated his client will plead innocent at a hearing scheduled in Waterbury Superior Court next Thursday.

"I expect there probably will be a plea. I can assure you that it will be not guilty," the New Haven lawyer said. Connecticut law prohibits insanity pleas.

Acquin is charged with killing Mrs. Cheryl Beaudoin, 29, her seven children ranging in age from 4 to 12, and a playmate of the children, Jennifer Santoro, 6. The bodies were found in the early morning of July 2 after firemen smashed their way into the Beaudoin's modest six-room house in rural Prospect near Waterbury.

State police say the killer bludgeoned the victims before setting fire to his home.

The father, Fred Beaudoin, was working the night shift at an aerospace plant in North Haven when the killings happened. He is a foster brother to Acquin.

Vernon eyes radio plan

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The Vernon Town Council decided Tuesday night that information about a proposed Regional Access Frequency System was too technical.

The council voted to have Mayor Thomas Benoit appoint a committee to bring a recommendation to the next council meeting.

Vernon Police Chief Herman Fritz and Robert Heustus, a representative of the Capitol Region Council of Governments (CRCOG), explained the proposed plan to the council.

The plan is an emergency medical services communication system for the Capitol Region. Five police departments in the region now have full or partial capability to use the system. Plans are to include eight other towns, including Vernon and East Hartford.

The project would be managed by CRCOG, the City of Hartford and the Regional Access Frequency System's policy board.

CRCOG will administer the grant, staff the policy board, and perform all purchasing and contracting functions. The City of Hartford will sponsor the two sets of UHF frequencies and will administer and maintain the regional repeater system on which regionwide UHF radio coverage depends.

The policy board will be made up of chiefs of police from each participating department and will be the planning department and will be the approving authority for the system.

It will also supervise use of the system.

CRCOG officials said the system is needed for responses to emergency situations that require the attention of more than one police department and for long-term investigative efforts involving more than one department.

Under the plan, Vernon would receive $22,000 worth of radio equipment from federal funds. In turn, Vernon would have to give a five per cent matching fund, or about $1,450.

Council members expressed concern about what the system would cost the town "down the road."

CRCOG officials said that an average of 18 to 20 police departments were involved, it would probably cost about $1,200 a year for Vernon.

Heustus said CRCOG has to know what the towns are going to do by Sept. 30. Mayor Benoit said he would appoint the committee and ask it to bring a recommendation to the Sept. 20 meeting of the council.

Bolton constable system in doubt

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

The Bolton Board of Selectmen has decided to send five persons to a constable training school, but there may be a problem only three of them have been appointed constables.

In the first move to create a "well-trained" constabulary, the selectmen voted unanimously Wednesday night to send five men to the 17-week Municipal Training Center School at Storrs, which opens Tuesday.

The school requires that its students be appointed constables, but confusion over appointment procedures under the new Town Charter resulted in only three constable appointments. The selectmen believed the two men who previously served as appointed constables did not have to be reappointed.

But Jeremy Walsh, town counsel, said today that if the appointed constables' terms had expired, under the provisions of the Charter they were no longer constables and would have to be reappointed. The two appointed terms expired June 30, one day before the Charter went into effect.

Selectman Aloysius Ahearn and Ernest Shephard have been working on the formation of a "well-trained" constabulary for the town.

It was the consensus of Ahearn, Shephard and Resident State Trooper Robert Peterson that Thomas Carpenter, Ronald Morra, Carl Nystrum, Dale Smith and Bruce Davies should attend the school. Smith and Davies are not constables now.

The problem arose with the opportunity to send five men to school. The selectmen agreed the town had to take advantage of the school but the "police committee" of the board was not quite ready for such a move.

Shephard said, "We have been working with the importance of doing it carefully in mind."

"This is not doing it carefully. We are moving ahead of our own baseline," he said.

If not for the importance of the school, action would have been taken differently, Shephard said.

Ahearn said the constabulary will be "thrown open to anyone in town who would like to be a constable whether or not they have experience."

All constables will have to meet certain guidelines and qualifications being set up and will have to complete a training course.

In other business, the selectmen:

- Approved the text of a town noise ordinance for submission to the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). While awaiting DEP approval, Shephard will get detailed information to prepare for a public hearing.

- Decided to ask the chairman of the town boards to submit their annual reports by Oct. 1 Under the Charter, the report must be available by Dec. 1.
- Signed an agreement for $15,562 in Town Aid Road Funds. The town previously received $40,000.
- Authorized the board's road committee and the town road foreman to observe the sites where driveways are planned and make recommendations to the full board for approval. The board received 14 requests for permits.
- Heard a report by John Carey on the road stripping program which will get underway in October. Materials and labor will be paid by the state.
- Approved a $39.92 bill from the fire marshal and will forward it to the Board of Finance for approval.
- Received a petition from Brookfield Rd. residents to have their road repaired and properly drained. The board's road committee will look into the situation.
- Designated a portion of the money the town has received in anti-recession funds: $1,069 for Community Hall maintenance, $500 for Community Hall wages and $500 for gutter repairs.
- Asked the park and recreation directors to outline the duties and responsibilities of each respective committee. Appointments to the committees will be made at a future meeting.
- Asked each board chairman to live up to the Town Charter and if they are in violation, to correct the violation. Each board will also be asked to let the selectmen know what it did.

A new regulation would allow a board or commission to fill a vacancy by appointing a member if the council fails to make an appointment within 60 days.

The commission would exclude all non-elected town officials from the Charter to give the council more flexibility in adding or deleting these positions.

The council would be permitted to appoint a representative to contact the town attorney. Now only the manager may deal with the town attorney.

Charter plan is due soon

A controversial proposal is that the council submit its annual budget to a public hearing preceding the Annual Town Meeting which acts on the budget. Now only the town manager's budget is subject to a hearing, and the council's budget is considered at the Town Meeting.

Opponents of this suggestion say that the council should not propose a budget before it has held a hearing to determine the citizens' desires. Councilman Robert Olmstead said that once the council has finalized its budget, it is more or less obliged to defend it before a public hearing.

The commission also would like to see more columns in the budget presented to the annual Town Meeting. Now the departmental requests do not appear in the budget — only the manager's recommended budget.

Superintendent i charge of discrimination cases

The Hebron Board of Education has designated Supt. David Cattanoch to coordinate federal laws prohibiting sex discrimination.

Cattanoch will coordinate any complaint alleging non-compliance. The board has adopted grievance procedures for student and employee complaints.

Any student or employee will attempt resolution of the alleged violation through the principal of the school in which the practice allegedly occurred.

If a solution is not reached at that level, a written statement will be prepared by the principal and forwarded to the superintendent within five days. The superintendent will, within 15 days, try to settle the issue. If no resolution can be reached, a written statement will go to the Board of Education.

If a matter is referred to the board, formal action will be taken within 30 days and the complaint notified of the decision within 10 days.

Area police report

James V. Fitzgerald, 20, of Ellington was issued summonses for several traffic charges Wednesday night after a high-speed chase in Rockville and Tolland.

Police said Fitzgerald's car was driven through two stop signs and was pursued by Vermont cruisers into Tolland. A Tolland constable assisted in stopping Fitzgerald.

The charges are failure to obey a stop sign (two counts), reckless driving, driving an unregistered motor vehicle, driving while his license was suspended, and failure to obey an officer's signal. Court date is Sept. 23.

Indian miscue gives Yanks victory

NEW YORK (UPI) — While Dave Lemanczyk was taming the second-place Boston Red Sox with a six-hit, 3-2 victory for the Toronto Blue Jays Wednesday night, Bruce Bochte was uncracking a wild throw, allowing Thurman Munson to score the winning run in the 10th inning of a dramatic come-from-behind 4-3 victory by the Yankees, over the Cleveland Indians.

One out away from defeat in the ninth inning, the Yankees tied the score, 3-3, on a two-run single by Mickey Rivers. Indians' starter Wayne Garland had pitched shutout ball for eight innings before Chris Chambliss led off the ninth inning for New York with a bunt single and went to second when Garland threw the ball into right field.

Chambliss moved to third on Roy White's infield single and scored on a single by Willie Randolph. Another infield out moved the runners up before Rivers' single. Then in the 10th, Munson chased Garland with a leadoff single and scored when Bochte chased down another single by Reggie Jackson in leftfield and proceeded to hit Munson in the back with his throw. Munson scored the winning run as the ball rolled into the Yankee dugout.

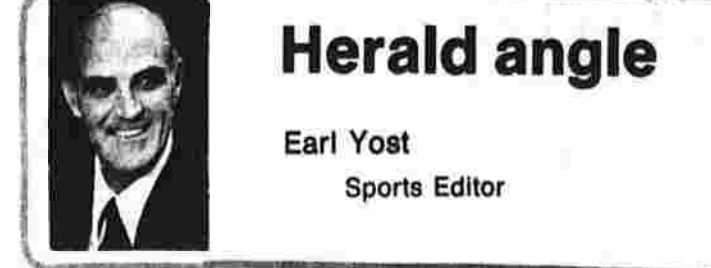

"Take ten innings out of this season and it's a different story," said the disgruntled Garland. "It's getting to be a joke now. If I took my time on Chambliss' bunt I might have got him. As for Rivers, he hit the same pitch I struck him out twice on earlier in the game."

Orioles 6-5, Tigers 2-11
Tigers rookie catcher Lance Parrish, playing in only his second major league game, drove in four runs with a bases-loaded double and his first big league homer in the nightcap to drop the third-place Orioles to 6-5 games behind the Yankees in the AL East. The Orioles won the opener when catcher Dave Skaggs drove in five runs with a game-tying two-run single in the seventh and a three-run double in the 11th.

Royals 10, Mariners 7
George Brett went 4-for-4 with three RBI while Darrell Porter was 4-for-5 with a pair of solo homers as the Royals maintained their 5 1/2 game lead in the AL West. Joe Lahoud and Frank White each had three hits in the Royals' 10-hit attack.

White Sox 5, Athletics 1
Steve Ranko and Dave Hamilton combined to four-hit Oakland and Don Kessinger and Ralph Garr each drove in two runs to stake the White Sox to their third straight win.

Angels 4, Brewers 1
Don Baylor stroked a homer and a double behind Paul Hartzell's five-hit pitching in the California win. The Angels' Bobby Bonds was struck between the eyes by a throw from Milwaukee catcher Charlie Moore as he stole third base in the sixth inning and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital for X-rays.

Dodgers near crown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ron Cey is taking the reins down the homestretch as the Dodgers breeze to an easy victory in the National League West.

Wednesday he helped the Dodgers increase their lead over second-place Cincinnati to a seemingly insurmountable 12 1/2 games Wednesday night with a pair of homers that sparked a 5-2 triumph over the Atlanta Braves. The victory, coupled with Cincinnati's 6-3 loss to San Francisco, reduced the Dodgers' "magic number" for clinching the division title to 11 games.

Austin bubble bursts, Connors faces Orantes

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Will Manuel Orantes still be smiling after tonight? In a quarterfinal encounter before an expected capacity crowd at stadium court, Jimmy Connors and Orantes will provide a stark contrast in styles in perhaps the most compelling match thus far in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Connors will display power, Orantes patience. "He's a great player," Connors said. "No doubt about it." In key quarterfinal matches today, third-seeded Brian Gottfried, Lauderhill, Fla., plays Italy's Corrado Barazzutti, second-seeded Martina Navratilova, Dallas, takes on 10th-seeded Mila Jausovec of Yugoslavia and Briton Virginia Wade, the Wimbledon champion battles Australian Wendy Turnbull.

Rolling Hills, Calif., was no match for the fifth-seeded Steve's hard groundstrokes and strong serve. "The Dutch woman, a foot taller and 18 years older than Austin, stormed into a 6-2, 6-2 victory to the chagrin of the stadium court crowd."

Dear Abby
 By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A reader writes in asking what you thought of people who still had their Christmas tree up in May. He suggested that perhaps the man in the white coat carrying butyrate should be called. I'm glad you don't let us in and ridicule the people who have their tree up because ours has been up longer than theirs.
 My husband disappeared on December 22nd, 1975, and no one has heard a word from him since. He helped me put up our Christmas tree on the 20th of December, and our kids (now 6, 9 and 10) keep begging me not to take the tree down. "Until Daddy comes home."
 It's still up. My hopes are fading, but you know how kids are—they never give up. God bless them.

DEAR ABBY: I pray for your wife, but you know how kids are—they never give up. God bless them.

Dear Abby
 DEAR ABBY: Seeing that you answer everything from A to Z, I was wondering if you'd stop at "D" for dogs. I have a problem with mine. He's an 8-month-old stephens—a terrific dog, but I can't seem to housebreak him.
 He is not dumb, but I can't seem to get the idea across to him that he has to wait until someone has him out. Abby, I have read dog books and followed every suggestion in the book, from rubbing his nose in the mess to spanking him with an inch of his life, but nothing has worked for me.
 I hope you'll print this because there must be a way to housebreak a dog that works, even though it's not in a book.

DEAR ABBY: My canine companion suggests that you establish a "routine" by walking your dog at set times of the day. If he does what he's supposed to do where he's supposed to do it, reward him with a treat. And if he messes in the house, scold him in a harsh tone and "show" him why you are displeased. He'll catch on.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for trying to educate the public concerning the handicapped.
 My wife and I are both deaf and mute (please, not "deaf and dumb") and we use sign language to communicate with each other.
 The reaction of some uninformed people we encounter in places of business would astonish you. I'd like to repeat a very old, but true story to make my point. One afternoon two fine Boston gentlemen were hanging out on the steps of a trolley. Below them were seated two deaf-mutes conversing in sign language. One of the strangers whispered to his friend, "I'm curious about something," whereupon he took a note pad and pencil from his pocket and wrote, "CAN YOU WRITE?" Then he handed it to one of the deaf-mutes, who, after studying it carefully, slowly drew from his pocket an elegant, expensive fountain pen, emerald in color and trimmed in gold. Then, with a grand flourish, he penned a few words on the note pad and handed it back to the deafening gentleman.
 Imagine their chagrin when they read in exultant pennmanship: "CAN YOU READ?"

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 Look toward the future optimistically, but also be realistic. Before you embark on any new projects, be sure you assess all the probabilities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 Show only your best side to the public today. Any out-of-character actions could damage the image you want to project today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 Save yourself some embarrassment today. Don't pretend to know something that you really don't. A challenge could make you look very foolish.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Be careful who you assign to handle your business affairs to avoid a "how" is just as important as "what."

Showing what they can do at home base

Antonio Russo, left, and Robert Kennedy, park department foreman, stand in front of the newly landscaped front yard of their home base off Ecology Dr. The stack at Kennedy's back is part of the town incinerator. Russo, the department's landscape architect, and the staff filled it in and worked at making it as attractive as the other areas in town they work on daily such as the grounds of the Town Hall. "We wanted to show the way we can do things," said Kennedy. The sign was made by Edward Haffty, park carpenter. (Herald photo by Barlow)
