Renovation work gets under way

The interior of the 70,000-square-foot former Forbes and Wallace store in the Manchester Parkade is currently undergoing major renovations to make way for Marshall's department store and other new tenants. Marshall's will occupy 30,000 square feet of the one-story building and a mall for other stores is being constructed for the remainder of the building. The renovations, which are costing $80,000, are being done by E.K. Associates, owners of the building. Marshall's is expected to move into the new facility on or about Nov. 1. FBI Lance report allegedly quashed

ATLANTA (UPI) — Former U.S. Attorney John Stokes has accused the Carter administration of withholding FBI background information on Bert Lance from the Senate committee which confirmed his appointment as budget chief.

At a news conference Friday, Stokes said Carter aides, whom he refused to name, quashed an FBI report on Lance's banking activities made during the transition.

"I charge that some officials of the Carter administration withheld, and thereby concealed, the FBI background report and the information it contained from the Senate committee in January," he said.

Stokes terminated a Justice Department investigation into over-drafts last December, the day after Carter announced Lance's appointment as head of the Office of Management and Budget. The over-drafts from the First National Bank of Calhoun, once headed by Lance, were made to help finance his unsuccessful 1974 gubernatorial campaign. Stokes said "irregularities" in banking records were also under investigation at that time.

He said his office decided not to prosecute then because there was no intent to defraud, restitution was made and other officers and directors were sometimes allowed to "beat the bank" by cutting corners. Stokes, a Republican who held the U.S. attorney's post for eight years, would not say if he thought Lance would not have been confirmed had his practices as head of the Calhoun bank and National Bank of Georgia been known to the Senate last January.

Stokes said his successor, U.S. Attorney William Harper, Carter's legal aide when Carter was governor, and James Dunn, special agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, refused to give him the Lance FBI report so he could hand it over to the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, holding hearings this week on Lance's banking activities.

In Orlando, Fla., FBI Director Clarence Kelley said he is unaware of any FBI information withheld during Lance's confirmation hearings.

"I am aware of the publicity," he said. "I am not aware of any matter of withholding any information."

Beame blames SEC for election loss

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Edward Koch and New York Secretary of State Mario Cuomo have begun a head-to-head battle for New York City's Democratic mayoral nomination after ending the political career of Abraham Beame.

Beame, who at the age of 71 was seeking a second term, blamed his defeat Thursday in a seven-way preliminary primary on the timing of a Securities and Exchange Commission report critical of the way he handled the city's fiscal affairs.

Former Rep. Bella Abzug, narrowly beaten last year by Sen. Daniel Moynihan in the primary campaign for the U.S. Senate, was another casualty. She finished fourth in the primary, behind Koch, Cuomo and Beame.

Since neither Koch nor Cuomo — the latter backed by Governor Hugh Carey — received the 40 per cent of the votes needed to go on the November ballot, they will square off in a runoff primary Sept. 19.

State Sen. Roy Goodman won the Republican nomination, easily beating former radio personality Barry Farber, who will still be on the ballot as the Conservative Party's nominee.

Cuomo also will be on the November ballot as the Liberal Party's candidate.

Koch, who has served five terms in the House of Representatives from the "Silk Stocking District" on Manhattan's East Side, promised that in the runoff election "we will run exactly the same kind of campaign on the issues, based on competence."

Cuomo, who first gained recognition as the mediator who helped resolve a bitter dispute over the placement of low-income housing, asserted Koch "lives in a world where all one does is articulate about solutions. He has not managed anything but a congressional office."

Beame, uncommonly soft-spoken and his voice still shaky, commented at a City Hall news conference on the SEC report which was issued 13 days before the primary and charged he had "misled" municipal securities investors.

"I thought that was going to affect the political situation and it did," the mayor said.

"I'm disappointed," Beame said, when asked his feelings. "But I'm not bitter about anything. I gave this city everything I have."

DEP probes pollution

By GREG PEARSON
HERALD Reporter

A Main St. paint removal project has been temporarily stopped, and the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) will look into the Town of Manchester's use of copper sulfate to control algae growth in water bodies.

Both of these developments have sprouted from an investigation of a recent fish kill in Hop Brook.

The kill was reported early last month and was believed to have been caused by an oil spill from the Manchester Modes manufacturing plant.

A DEP study of a dead fish taken from the brook, however, showed that it was killed by copper and not by oil, Marie Langan of the Town Health Department said.

On Aug. 24, Ms. Langan received a report of another fish kill in the brook. She went to investigate and found no dead fish, but she did locate a substance floating in the water near a storm drain that leads from Main St. into the brook.

She drove down Main St. and noticed the paint removal work being done at the House & Hale building. Paint and paint removal materials were running down the street and into the storm drain.

Ms. Langan then notified DEP about what she had found. She said that the firm needed a permit from DEP to discharge material into the brook.

On Wednesday of this week, DEP put a stop to the House & Hale paint removal work.

But, Simon Mobarak of DEP said Friday that the House & Hale work is not the cause of the fish kill. He met Friday with representatives of the Rudco Co. of Hartford, which is doing the paint removal.

The company uses a high-powered liquid spray to remove the paint. Mobarak said that chemicals and paint from the project would not have killed the fish in the brook. He gave the firm permission to start its work again Monday, but the company now will use hay bales to absorb any runoff from the work.

The company only has about two more days of work at the Main St. site, Mobarak said.

DEP still is investigating what might have caused last month's fish kill, he said. The department will analyze the town's use of copper sulfate to control algae growth.

The town uses the substance in reservoirs located in the Hop Brook water shed area, he said. If a high enough concentration of the substance was used, it might have been the cause of the fish problems, Mobarak said.

In a related matter, William Tierney, the town's management analyst, will coordinate future problems similar to the Hop Brook fish kill. Town officials expressed some concern about a recent letter in The Herald from a town resident who complained about the handling of information concerning a recent fish kill in Salter's Pond.

Auto crash fatal to teen-age boy

A 13-year-old South Windsor boy died at Manchester Memorial Hospital this morning, after suffering injuries in a two-car crash in South Windsor Friday night.

The boy, Scott Hodges of 19 Oakwood Dr., was a passenger in a car driven by his sister, Kimberly Hodges, 16, of the same address, police said.

The Hodges' car, traveling on Nevers Rd., was making a left turn onto Sand Hill Rd. at about 10:55 p.m., police said.

A car driven by David E. Longo, 18, of 514 Foster St., South Windsor, westbound on Sand Hill Rd., collided with the Hodges' vehicle, police said.

The South Windsor Fire Department was called to extricate occupants of the vehicles and to wash away spilled gasoline.

Longo, Miss Hodges, Scott Hodges and two of his brothers were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital. Scott died at 1:20 a.m. today. Kimberly was in serious condition today, under close observation in the hospital's Intensive Care Unit. Kevin Hodges, 11, and Jeffrey Hodges, 14, were in satisfactory condition in the pediatrics department. Longo was also in satisfactory condition.

The accident is still under investigation.

MCC day care center has a dual function

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Community College Day Care Center Nursery School serves a dual purpose in providing a needed service to MCC students and staff and in serving as a laboratory school for students. The school has expanded from use of one room in the Center Congregational Church basement four years ago to its present three rooms with partial use of a fourth room and a playground in the church at the center of Manchester.

About 60 children, ages 2 years 9 months through 6, are presently enrolled for the fall semester with room for a few more because of the expanded facilities, according to Susan Epperson-Vater, center director. No more than 24 children attend during one half-day session.

Ms. Epperson-Vater organized the center in the spring of 1973 after many student-parents had requested such a service. The MCC Student Senate supported the idea with some financial assistance and school administrators were receptive to the proposal and added the center to the regular college program. It was the first day care facility at a state community college.

The main idea of the center was to provide a child care service for the students so they could attend classes, Ms. Epperson-Vater said.

Use of the center as a laboratory for students in the Early Childhood Education degree program was also incorporated, she said.

The center also serves children of MCC faculty and staff and the community-at-large. Children of MCC students still get priority. About 75 per cent of the children are from student or staff families.

The center is a licensed day care center, which means it provides extended hours to allow flexibility for student and work schedules, but the center also has a complete educational program. "We are not just a custodial or babysitting service," Ms. Epperson-Vater said.

Nursery school morning and afternoon sessions are run with the expanded hours available from 7:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Parents can choose to send their children two, three or five mornings or afternoons or all day. A few children do attend all day and bring their lunch.

The center still has its original core staff of Ms. Epperson-Vater, who first doubled as a teacher, Susan Adamek, head teacher and Elizabeth Zwick, assistant teacher. All three are former MCC students and have professional training and experience in early childhood education.

In addition to the regular teachers the center usually has from two to five student teachers working on credits for their Early Childhood Education degree. There are also regular student assistants who come from sociology, psychology, public service or music classes at MCC.

"We are able to use all the wonderful resources of the college," Ms. Vater said.

The large number of teachers and assistants allows for a lot of individual attention for the children, said Ms. Adamek.

Individual expression and growth in all activities by all the children is encouraged but not dictated, Ms. Adamek said. The children are given a choice in participating in certain activities.

The well-rounded program includes cognitive and perception skills, natural science, nutrition and cooking, art, music, creative movement and sensorimotor development, story-telling and dramatization.

Language arts per se is not taught, but incorporated into all the activities, such as letting the children tell stories or describe a picture. Communication and verbal expression is stressed. "A lot of language arts can be done in many creative and meaningful ways," said Ms. Adamek.

A nutrition program for both parents and children has been a great success, according to the director and head teacher. The children love the cooking and one of their favorite dishes is yogurt.

The parents are also glad the center does not allow "junk food," in the lunches or snacks. At first some could not understand it, but now they are all cooperative, Ms. Vater said.

The children are allowed to express their emotions as long as they are not destructive toward others. "We strive to provide a warm and comfortable atmosphere," said Ms. Adamek, "but one of our biggest objectives has always been to have fun."

The MCC center staff likes their location at the center of town near prime field trip locations such as the post office, the library, the Municipal Building, the fire station and Center Springs Park. They use Center Springs Park as many days as possible.

One field trip was taken to the college so the children could see where their parents go to school.

The children made cookies last week which were brought to Dr. Harry A. Meisel, the new dean of student affairs at MCC, who has been confined to the hospital for several weeks.

In order to include the parents in the activities of the center and to keep them up-to-date on what is happening, regular meetings are scheduled each semester.

Parents who are also students at MCC can receive financial assistance for day care tuition if needed.

The unique nursery school-day care center has proved itself viable and responsive to community needs. Two other community colleges in the state system, Hartford and Mattituck in Waterbury, have followed MCC's lead with similar facilities.

Visitors are welcome and may make appointments to visit the center by calling 649-9608.

Susan Adamek, head teacher at the Manchester Community College Day Care Center-Nursery School, encourages participation from a group of children during music time at the center. The three rooms in the center located in the basement of Center Congregational Church are divided into small play areas to allow a variety of activities. The center is beginning its fifth year. Conservation panel supports purchase of Hilliard Pond

Theresa Parla, chairperson of the Manchester Conservation Commission, Thursday night proposed that the commission begin a campaign for support of the town's purchase of Hilliard Pond.

Earlier this year, the commission had requested that the Board of Directors consider purchasing the pond. The idea was not acted on at the time.

"I wonder if we should get a public-spirited campaign," Mrs. Parla said. "I think we have to have some idea where we should continue with this."

Commission members said that they realized the town would not be able to purchase the area this year because of financial problems, but it is an idea that might be considered again in the future.

Marjorie Chapin, a commission member, reported that the first month of the town's newspaper collection has been successful.

The pickup is done at all Manchester homes during the second refuse collection each week. The commission decided to re-advertise the collection during the next two months to inform residents who might have been away for the summer.

The commission, at the request of member Dr. Frederick Spaulding, voted to send a letter saying it does not support the construction of I-291 in any form.

Spaulding was concerned because he had heard that a reduced version of the highway might be proposed between Windsor and Manchester.

Another member, Ditta Tani, expressed disappointment that the state had dropped its indirect source program.

The program had provided an analysis of the effects on air quality created by new construction work. It was dropped by the state this summer.

"We're right back where we started," she said.

The commission also agreed to send a letter and certificate of appreciation to Roy Thompson, a commission member who resigned this week.

Thompson had done patrol work at Case Mt. as part of his service on the commission. The members will send a letter to the town to ask that patrolling of the area be continued by the town.

Opinion

Protection with timeliness

Most of us would agree that the drug industry is one industry in which quick decisions are not a good idea. It's far better to run some extra tests than put a new drug on the market that may turn out to be ineffective or unsafe.

Unfortunately, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has taken this practice to extremes. New drugs that might have eased pain or cured illness have been held off the market for years while the FDA creaked through its laborious licensing procedure.

What's needed is a more flexible licensing system that combines protection with timeliness—and apparently the FDA has found a way to make such a system work.

Europe for about 10 years. The virtues of Depakene were demonstrated last month when a Columbus, Ohio, optometrist took his epileptic daughter to England, where she tried the drug and soon thereafter stopped having seizures and fits.

In another recent case, Morris B. Abram, a former president of Brandeis University, seems to have licked leukemia with the help of a drug, not available here, imported from Israel with special government approval.

This is not to say that FDA should become a rubber stamp for the drug industry or a purveyor of quack nostrums to the public. This country, after all, was spared the tragedy of thousands of deformed babies in the early 1960s because an FDA doctor named Frances Kelsey became suspicious of a tranquilizer called thalidomide and urged that it be kept off the market.

What we need to recognize, though, is that there are times when a drug is so promising—and its benefits so obvious—that more damage would be done by withholding it than by making it available for general use. At long last, the FDA now seems to know this.

Thurmond, Helms willing to wait

WASHINGTON — "Face the facts of life," Sen. Strom Thurmond is fond of telling reporters. "The Senate won't ratify Jimmy Carter's new Panama Canal treaties because the people don't want them."

The Republicans from South Carolina has a cogent point. Latest polls show that from 66 to 78 per cent of Americans are opposed to the treaties. And members of the Senate hold office at the pleasure of their constituents.

That fact of life explains an AP poll which showed that chances of ratification this year are slim to none. The AP reported that a whopping 63 Senators are undecided on the issue. Seventeen say they'll vote for the treaties and the same number say they'll vote against. Meanwhile, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd

D-W. Va., has told Carter he cannot commit himself to endorsing the treaties "until I've studied all the testimony."

Going to be tough "It's unfortunate," said a Carter aide. "The treaties make sense if we are to improve our image as a credible ally in Latin America. And yet the treaties are seen by many plain citizens as a surrender, a diminishing of American prestige." A State Department man who has been travelling around the country trying to sell the treaties says, "It's going to be tough." The people are uptight on this one.

Inevitably, the treaties represent a major concession by the U.S. — a major enough to seem a "surrender." Washington has agreed to hand over the canal and all its properties to Panama by the year 2000, in return for America's right to defend the waterway without a time limit. Meanwhile, the U.S. will increase Panama's annuity from the present $2.3 million a year to about $50 million a year from canal tolls.

Higher tolls needed Raising Panama's rate, of course, would necessitate upping the canal tolls. And if that drove away customers, the money would have to come from the American taxpayer.

And so Thurmond and Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., have served notice that they will filibuster the treaties to death on the Senate floor. They are counting on help not only from Senate conservatives but moderates and liberals in both parties who read the public opinion polls with considerable apprehension.

For example, there is Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. Baker is more moderate than conservative, but he has Presidential ambitions he had hoped to nurture when he was named the GOP leader in the so-called upper chamber. Those ambitions will be damaged if he incurs the enmity of party powers like Thurmond and Helms by pushing the treaties.

Torrijos unattractive Then there is an obstacle named Gen. Omar Torrijos, one of the more unattractive of Latin America's strong men. Torrijos runs Panama like a private club, blithely ignoring Jimmy Carter's diplomatic campaign for sanctifying human rights worldwide. Torrijos is also a crook, which may be irrelevant in these relaxed days. However, it may be a touch harder to whitewash a man who has been linked with illicit drug traffic by American narcotics enforcement officials in closed Congressional hearings.

Thurmond has now come up with his own treaty. He would have the U.S. modernize the canal and "make an upward adjustment" in Panama's share of the toll receipts. He says it would cost only $2.5 billion to bring the waterway up to date, compared with more than $5 billion to build a new sea-level canal.

"We need that like Billy Carter needs another can of beer," says a State Department official. "If the Senate starts debating alternatives, it'll be the year 2000 before it even comes to a vote." Strom Thurmond and Jesse Helms grin wickedly. They can wait.

Crime: No simple solutions

Americans are upset about crime. We are understandably angry and frustrated when we cannot safely walk down city streets, or take the kids on a camping trip for fear the house will be robbed in our absence. We are morally outraged when we discover that businessmen and government officials have been conspiring to use public funds for private gain.

Sometimes, frustration virtually tempts us to demand the ridiculous—to insist that there be a law against crime. In fact, of course, many laws already prohibit and threaten severe punishment for all sorts of conduct, including armed robbery, obstruction of justice, failure to report income, and the use of various drugs.

Yet, for many reasons, we cannot count on the criminal law alone to work perfectly, to prevent crime entirely.

First, not everyone reveres criminal law, or not in the same way. By passing a law we may even make the prohibited conduct more popular. President Hoover's Wickersham Commission, which studied the effects of Prohibition on the nation during the 1920s, concluded that a new institution — the speakeasy — made drinking fashionable for wide segments of the professional and middle classes who had previously not experienced the sinful delight of recreational boozing.

It is evident that the passage of law, especially criminal law, does not always work out the way those who advocated passage foresaw.

Legislative politics Second, criminal law reflects through political advocacy different and conflicting values — and so it changes.

Testators scrupulously obeyed the Prohibition laws; drinkers did not. Drinkers changed the law.

During the 1960s, laws prohibiting marijuana use amounted to a new prohibition. People over 40 — who drank whiskey — complied with the law and were offended by younger people who smoked marijuana. As younger people are becoming successful politicians, penalties for smoking marijuana continue to diminish and may eventually disappear.

We could introduce criminal penalties for manufacturing defective automobile brakes, which kill and maim thousands. But we don't, because in recent years the automobile manufacturers' lobby has had more clout than Ralph Nader, who proposed such laws in the Congress. Maybe that, too, will change.

Other crimes — serious street crimes such as murder, rape, assault, and robbery — are almost universally condemned. It is these crimes that are the focus of proposals to "solve" the crime problem by increasing the severity and certainty of punishment.

Why, then, not simply enforce these laws more rigorously and punish swiftly and surely those found guilty of violating them? Many people — including some prominent criminologists — have advocated this seemingly simple and therefore attractive solution to the problem of American crime. But such a solution is not so simple. A criminal justice system can increase risk for a criminal — but not by much, and at higher cost than many people believe.

High cost of punishment

The social and economic costs of punishment are often underestimated. Policemen, courts, and prisons are expensive. It is cheaper to send a youngster to Harvard than a robber to San Quentin. And the average San Francisco policeman now draws — with pension — more than $25,000 per year, to say nothing of his police car, support equipment and facilities.

The recent experience of a "law and order" administration that poured billions of dollars through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration into the war on crime is exemplary and sobering. While violent crime rose 174 per cent from 1963 to 1973, local spending for law enforcement multiplied more than seven times — and L.E.A.A. poured in $3.5 billion between 1969 and 1974.

Motives of criminals The war on crime looks more like the war in Vietnam. Those who pursue it are largely ignorant of what motivates the enemy.

Of course the threat of punishment deters. But nobody is clear about how much threat deters whom with what effect. For example, millions of presumably rational human beings are not deterred from smoking cigarettes even though the probabilities of punishment through cancer, emphysema, and heart disease are clear and painful. People often believe that present benefits or pleasure outweigh future costs or threats of pain.

Heavy punishment programs can also incur unexpected social costs. Several years ago Nelson B. Rockefeller, then governor of New York, proposed as an answer to street crime that harsh sentences, up to life imprisonment, be imposed for drug trafficking and other offenses. In some circles, a "jolt" in prison offers an affirmation of manhood — as well as advanced training in criminal skills and identity. Thus, the administration of justice can generate criminality as well as deter it.

Actualities of the most promising targets of deterrence are white-collar criminals — business executives and professionals — who have the most to lose by convictions for a crime and are more likely to weigh the potential costs of committing crime against its benefits.

Fundamental contradictions There are no easy prescriptions for crime in America. It has become an

This is an unexpected social cost of punishment. There are many others. Particularly for young people, being a criminal may even have advantages over working in a boring and unrewarding job. One can earn far more stealing cars than washing them. Even the risk may prove advantageous. In some circles, a "jolt" in prison offers an affirmation of manhood — as well as advanced training in criminal skills and identity. Thus, the administration of justice can generate criminality as well as deter it.

Actualities of the most promising targets of deterrence are white-collar criminals — business executives and professionals — who have the most to lose by convictions for a crime and are more likely to weigh the potential costs of committing crime against its benefits.

Fundamental contradictions There are no easy prescriptions for crime in America. It has become an intrinsic part of life in this country as a result of fundamental contradictions of American society. We maintain an egalitarian ideology amidst a history of slavery and contemporary unemployment. We say we are against organized crime, but millions of us enjoy and consume its goods and services — drugs, gambling, prostitution, pornography.

We demand heavier punishment — longer prison terms — yet fail to appreciate the social and economic costs of prisons. We support the Constitution and its protection of individual liberties — yet criticize judges who insist the police conduct themselves in accord with constitutional protection.

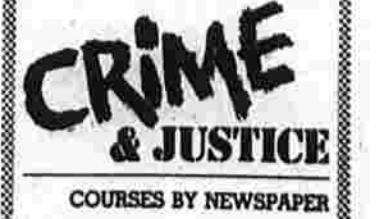

Our legacy of slavery, immigration, and culture conflict, combined with the ideologies of free enterprise and constitutional democracy is unique in the world. As David Bayley's recent work comparing high American with low Japanese crime rates shows, we are not strictly comparable to Japan or, for that matter, to any place else.

Although politicians — as well as some scholars and police spokesmen — will try to sell us on apparently simple solutions to the American crime problem, we should remain skeptical. In the past simple solutions have not worked.

Unless we understand why, the future will prove comparably unsuccessful. We have to know what doesn't work to find out what might. The reasons for past failure and possible remedies will be further explored in later articles in this 15-part series on institutional crime, street crime, the limits of the criminal law, the administration of criminal justice, and the organization of punishment.

Truck driver charged

A truck driver involved in Friday morning's fatal accident in 186 in Manchester has been charged with negligent homicide, state police said.

Police arrested Earl Crane, 33, of Auburn, Maine. He was released on $200 bond. A court date has not been scheduled.

Crane was the operator of a tractor-trailer truck that hit the rear end of an automobile being driven by Stephen Varga, according to police.

Varga had stopped in heavy traffic behind a tractor-trailer operated by William Watson, of Hackensack, N.J., police said. The force of the impact from Crane's truck sent the automobile into the rear end of the truck operated by Watson, police said.

The car was totally destroyed and Varga was dead on arrival at Manchester Memorial Hospital. A passenger in the vehicle, Paul Newton, 23, of 425 Abby Rd., was only slightly injured and walked away from the accident, police said.

Varga, 54, lived in Broad Brook. His address originally was given by police and the hospital as 30 Elm St., Rockville.

Coventry man faces charge of homicide

James H. Nightingale, 22, of 2582 Boston Tpk., Coventry, has been arrested in connection with a fatal accident in Coventry Thursday night.

Nightingale, driver of one of two cars in the crash at Rt. 31 and Snake Hill Rd., was charged with negligent homicide with a motor vehicle. He is scheduled to appear Sept. 20 in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville.

Eason Bristol Jr., 23, of 328 Mark Dr., Coventry, a passenger in Nightingale's car, suffered head injuries in the accident. Nightingale and four persons in the second car, driven by Richard L. LaFontaine, 29, of Williamsville, were injured.

Police said the Nightingale car, westbound on Rt. 31, apparently crossed the center line and collided with LaFontaine's eastbound car.

Irish teenagers to be featured on TV program

A filmed reporting highlighting the recent visit of a group of Northern Irish Catholic and Protestant teenagers to Manchester will be broadcast on Channel 30 at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The visitation was sponsored by St. James Catholic and St. Mary's Episcopal churches. It was designed to promote better understanding between those involved.

Included in the half-hour show will be interviews with the visitors, their host families and the clergy involved. It was produced by Ed Harrigan of the Newscaster 30 staff.

Harrigan said other aspects of the program will include the students' interaction in the community and their visits to some area sites.

Obituaries

Leonard Rackowski

Leonard F. Rackowski, 62, of 754 Center St., died this morning at Hartford Hospital. He was the husband of Sally M. Rackowski.

Mr. Rackowski was born in Cleveland, Ohio, April 10, 1915, and had lived in Manchester 28 years.

Before his retirement in October 1976, he was a foreman at Pratt and Whitney Aircraft in East Hartford.

Besides his wife, survivors include a son, Leonard R. Rackowski Jr., of Nantucket, Mass.; a daughter, Patricia Ann Rackowski of Boston; a brother, Henry Rackowski of Falls Church, Va.; and two sisters, Mrs. Doris Wajnar of Rockville and Mrs. Irene Buckowski of Enfield.

Funeral services will take place Monday from the John F. Tierney Funeral Home, 219 W. Center St., at 9:30 a.m. with a Mass of Christian burial at the Church of Assumption at 10. Burial will be at St. James Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Edwin A. Corneliuson Sr.

Edwin A. Corneliuson Sr., 68, of 22 Adelbert St., Williamsville, formerly of the Coventry-Bolton area, died Friday at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Corneliuson was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., March 9, 1909. He had lived in Williamsville about three years.

He was a World War II Navy veteran. He had been employed by Marge Green Realty Co. in Mansfield for the past nine years. Before that he had worked as a truck driver for area firms for about 27 years.

He was a member of Urial Lodge of Masons in Merrow, the Williamsville Board of Realtors, the VFW in Williamsville, and Teamsters Union Local 871.

He is survived by 3 sons, Edwin M. Corneliuson of Bolton; Bruce H.H. Corneliuson of Vernon; and Robert J. Corneliuson of Coventry; a daughter, Mrs. Joan Morris of West Hartford; a brother, Gusto Corneliuson of Hartford; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Shontel of Penacook, N.H., and Mrs. Linnea Hildensbrand of Rocky Hill, and 14 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Monday at 11 a.m. at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester. Burial will be in Bolton Center Cemetery.

Military honors will be accorded at the graveside.

Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Urial Lodge will conduct a Masonic funeral service Sunday at 7:30 a.m. at the funeral home.

The family suggests that those who wish to do so may make memorial donations to the charity of their choice.

Parkade expansion starts

By SUSAN VAUGHN
 Herald Reporter

The Manchester Parkade will be taking on a new look and some new life, while still including several new stores and expansion and renovation of several existing stores within the next few months.

Marshall's Department Store, which is now located on Center St., will be the largest new store to move into the Parkade and is expected to generate new shopper traffic, according to Martin Broder, president of the Parkade Merchant's Association.

Marshall's will occupy 30,000 square feet of the 70,000-square-foot former Forbes and Wallace store. Renovations are currently under way and workmen are working around the clock, Broder said.

The relocation of Marshall's is expected to occur sometime on or before Nov. 1.

The $60,000 worth of renovations in the Forbes building will also include a mall for other stores, Broder said. D&L store is scheduled to expand its operations into the present Miles Shoe Store, Broder said.

The entire section of stores from D&L to the Youth Centre will have a new front, Broder said.

Although Broder said most of the Parkade stores have maintained good business despite loss of the major department store two years ago, he said the new stores should stimulate a lot of business and shopper traffic.

Broder said most of the 'drastic changes' should be noticed by Thanksgiving time.

A few stores in the Parkade, such as the former Treasure City store, are still empty, but Broder expects that most of those will be "grabbed up" once traffic in the Parkade is "back to normal."

He added, "I wouldn't discount the Parkade."

The Parkade Association is composed of all the tenants of the parkade. The association promotes the shopping center and tries to bring in events to draw consumers.

Manchester police report

Manchester Police arrested a 16-year-old resident after a chase that started on Broad St.

Police said that a car was observed Friday night traveling on Broad St. at a high rate of speed. Police began following the auto and the operator did not stop.

After a chase that involved a couple of police vehicles, the auto was stopped, police said.

James P. Murphy, 16, of 190 Henry St. was charged with reckless driving and failure to obey a police officer's signals.

Police said that Murphy told them that he was not aware he was being followed by police. Court date is Sept. 20.

Other arrests made by police included:

- John P. DeGarmo Jr., 19, of Coventry who was charged with carrying a weapon in a motor vehicle and possessing less than four ounces of marijuana.
- Ronald J. Bertussi, 17, of Glastonbury who was charged with reckless driving. His court date is Sept. 27.
- Chris E. Beebe, 16, of 489 E. Middle Tpk., who was charged with evading responsibility after a one-car accident on Charter Oak St., police said.

The accident happened about 200 feet east of Sycamore Lane at 10 p.m. Friday. Police said that the vehicle struck a street sign and a fire hydrant.

Court date for Beebe is Sept. 20, police said.

Other arrests made by police included:

- Robert Ahern, arrested by Manchester Police earlier this week, listed his address as 159 Birch St. He does not live at the Birch St. address.

Transit system to carry over 25 million

HARTFORD (UPI)—State Transportation Commissioner James F. Shugrue predicts Connecticut Transit buses will carry more than 25 million passengers this year.

Shugrue said Friday the ridership for the state-owned bus line would be "the highest yearly total since the state first started subsidizing bus operations in the Hartford, New Haven and Stamford areas back in 1973."

Other Vermont Police arrests included:

- Thomas J. Miller, 17, of Enfield, charged on a warrant Friday afternoon with possession of a cannabis-type substance and possession of a cannabis-type substance with intent to sell. Police said the charges stem from a July 16 incident. Miller was released on a $1,000 nonreturnable bond for court appearance Oct. 12.
- Dennis Kammerer, 24, of Enfield, charged on a warrant early Friday with harassment, in connection with an October 1976 incident. He was released on a $500 nonreturnable bond for court appearance Oct. 12.

Area police report

Neal suffered minor injuries. He was released on a $1,000 nonreturnable bond for appearance Oct. 12 in Common Pleas Court 19, Rockville.

Other Vermont Police arrests included:

- Thomas J. Miller, 17, of Enfield, charged on a warrant Friday afternoon with possession of a cannabis-type substance and possession of a cannabis-type substance with intent to sell. Police said the charges stem from a July 16 incident. Miller was released on a $1,000 nonreturnable bond for court appearance Oct. 12.

About town

The executive board of Lutz Junior Museum will meet Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the museum.

Members of the Anderson-Shea Post and Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will join with other state VFW members to sponsor a party Sunday at the Northampton Veterans Hospital in Northampton, Mass.

Local members who are interested in participating should go to the Manchester post home at 808 E. 7th St. in June, both girls had uniforms that fit. By September, a half-inch either way for Shari and we would have been in trouble. How do you get a uniform from an out-of-town company in a couple of days? Thank goodness it didn't come that way.

Then the local school system published its bus routes. Our son, Woody, is a sophomore at Cheney Tech. And even though we live about six miles, or 10 minutes, from Cheney, Woody was scheduled to get on the bus one hour and 15 minutes before school. He'd be late. It was a 32-mile ride to school.

Well, after three trial runs of the bus route, revising it each time, the school was cooperative enough to change it to a more logical one. The first trial run was done with a neighbor and the second and third with the kids. I don't envy people who do that every year.

Even then the problem wasn't solved. Somehow, though the school knew the route had been changed, and the bus company knew the route had been changed, no one told the bus driver.

So, at 6:45 a.m. Wednesday, a yellow monster stopped in front of the house and began blowing its horn. The driver was nice enough to understand the situation and give Woody a couple of minutes to get ready.

And then the girls, I didn't get home from work until after midnight Tuesday, so it was a bit difficult getting up in the morning. But I made it. Shortly before it was time to leave for school, Debra discovered two buttons were missing from her belt (believe it or not, she had checked her belt the night before and it was okay).

So, sew buttons I did. The girls made it to school.

If all that wasn't enough, the girls got out of school at noon, but I forgot. At 12:40 p.m. I answered the phone to "Mom, where are you? I've been calling and calling and calling. School got out hours ago."

"Okay kids, I'll be right there." I picked the girls and Greg riding home with us.

And he had one for the books. When asked how his first day of school was, he said, "It was awful."

Group to tour Salvation Army land

By CLAIRE CONNELLY
 Herald Correspondent

The committee studying town purchase of Salvation Army property in Coventry will tour the lake area parcel Sunday with the Parks and Recreation Committee.

The study committee was appointed by the Town Council to investigate possible purchase of 70 acres of land offered for the town for $550,000.

Although neither group has taken a position on the issue, the study committee appears to be moving toward a recommendation that the town buy the 16-acre lakefront land for recreational purposes and also about 50 acres behind the Robertson School to protect a watershed district.

The recreation commissioners, however, fear that additional beachfront and park land will add to their administrative burden.

Study Committee Chairman Hugo Thomas said this week that the watershed district comprises about two-thirds land and only one-third water—Coventry Lake.

Further private development of the land could add runoff to the lake, Thomas warned. On the other hand, town purchase of the land to maintain open space would result in water and beautification control, he said.

Thomas proposed that the committee's report to the council be broken down into specific areas, with various members of the study group concentrating on their specialties.

Thomas volunteered to take the topics of control of water quality through the watershed, including the probable impacts of sewerage and improvement of the Nathan Lake Cemetery through addition of access roads.

Larry Nauvais, a member of the recreation commission, will study consolidation of beach facilities and the acquisition of open space for parks and recreation.

Anthony D'Ambrosio will check with school officials about creation of an administrative building on the land and will recommend uses for existing structures on the land.

Richard Breen will consider improvements on Lake and Cross Sts. that may result from land acquisition and potential private uses for the land.

Daniel Manley, a former town representative to the Windham Regional Planning Agency (WRPA), will monitor costs relating to purchase, improvements, maintenance, and how ownership will affect the grant and local taxes. He will also determine how acquisition might fit into the local and regional plans of development for Coventry.

Manley has asked WRPA Director Terry Wakeman to prepare a report on alternate funding, the regional impact, and the best use of the land. Thomas also plans to get more input from state personnel and Salvation Army officials.

The Salvation Army's offer includes about 270 acres near Carpenter Rd. for $75,000 in addition to the lake area property. The town has also been approached by Matthew Moriarty, who offered about 180 acres of lakefront land opposite the Town Hall. The latest offer came through Moriarty's real estate agent, Elmore Turkington of Coventry.

While the Town Council has not taken a position on either offer, Town Manager Frank Connelly and Town Planner Gregory Padick both support purchase of the Salvation Army land in the lake area.

Richard A. Berry, who was asked by the town to appraise the property, has recommended recreational use for the 15-acre lakefront parcel, the retention of three single-family homes, and demolition of 34 other buildings on the property.

GOP women's potluck
 The Republican Women's Club will hold a potluck supper Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Jan Kurran, Seagraves Rd., to start its fall activities.

Roberta Kozick, candidate for Town Council; Priscilla Doyle and Suzanne Brainard, candidates for Board of Education; and Roberta Manning Falana, candidate for Zoning Board of Appeals, will discuss issues with the group.

All interested persons should call Madeleine Green or Ruth Smith for directions and show bring their own chairs and eating utensils.

Start of school was good and bad

By DONNA HOLLAND

With the opening of school this week came more pleasure and problems than I remember in the 13 years my 3 children have been going to school.

For the first time, all three kids looked forward to returning to school and, at the close of the day, all three said about the same thing: "School was good. Ma. What do you think it would be?"

The problems started before the girls did. The first was when the girls tried on their uniforms.

Shari and Debra attend St. Joseph School in Rockville. Shari is in Grade 7 and Debra, Grade 4.

In June, both girls had uniforms that fit. By September, a half-inch either way for Shari and we would have been in trouble. How do you get a uniform from an out-of-town company in a couple of days? Thank goodness it didn't come that way.

Residents don't like police chief's words

East Hartford

Police Chief Clarence Drumm met with two East Hartford Citizen Action Group (EHACG) associations this week and got no thanks.

Friday, both groups released statements attacking him for his comments at the meetings.

On Tuesday, the chief met with the Prospect-Center Association. The 50 members present were most concerned about heavy trucks barreling up and down their streets at all hours.

"Although Chief Drumm claims that the police have no authority to enforce the signs," said Mrs. Ruth Powell of Prospect St., "according to the state Traffic Commission, the town has the authority to make rules relating to the regulation of traffic."

"Why in the last six months have there been no arrests for violation of the signs?"

Dorothy Shook, another Prospect St. resident, said, "It appears to us that the chief and mayor [Richard Blackstone] are more concerned with the wishes of the truck companies than those of the citizens."

The chief and mayor did say they were considering a one-way pattern of streets for the area.

He agreed also to meet with Nicholas Giannalis, executive director of the Housing Authority. However, he refused to let any village people attend his session with Giannalis.

The village association will meet with Giannalis at the community center next Wednesday night.

"Mr. Unusual"—Magician Walter Umberfield of South Windsor—demonstrates that the hand is indeed quicker than the eye as he performs feats of magic for children of Hartford's Stowe Village Fun Club. His guest performance was part of a series of weekly activities held at the Stowe Village Community Center this summer. An officer in Connecticut Mutual Life's data processing division, he lives with his wife and family at 54 Clifford Dr., South Windsor.

False statements alleged
 Police arrested two East Hartford women Friday on court warrants charging them with making false statements about being sexually attacked.

Elizabeth Lee Sini, 27, of Tolland St., reported to police she had been sexually molested on Tolland St. in a separate case, Rita Johnston, 52, of Silver Lane told police she had been raped by an unknown male at Main and Brewer Sts. about two weeks ago, police said.

"It never happened," said the investigating officer. Both women are scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 12 Sept. 26.

In Memoriam
 In loving memory of John J. Lane, who passed away September 10th, 1968. Always a devoted husband, father and a great man.
 God gave us strength to bear it, but courage to face the day, but what it meant to lose you, the will never know.
 Sadly missed by wife and children.

Highlights of trip

Getting a first-hand look at transsexual Renee Richards and pony-tailed Tracy Austin displaying their tennis talents was the highlight of a motor trip to Forest Hills this week to watch the day's action at the exclusive West Tennis Club.

The two gained as much publicity in the United States Open Tennis Tournament as Jimmy Connors, Billie Jean King or any of the proven name players.

Richards, the former Yale University captain of the men's team while signing in as Richard Raskind, was viewed in a three-set doubles match on one of the half dozen courts that featured play at the same time Thursday afternoon.

Richards was part of a winning doubles team and she displayed an accurate hard serve and a strong backhand and forehand but had difficulty moving up to the net on drop shots.

The heavily-muscled, deeply-tanned earring-wearing woman turned woman attracted a capacity crowd of several hundred to one of the secondary courts.

As could be expected, most of the interest was centered around stonaced Renee.

It was easy to see how she was beaten by player of Virginia Wade's caliber in a first round singles test.

Little Tracy Austin also helped lure a capacity crowd to her first mixed doubles test with her brother as a playing partner.

Here, too, the tiny 90-pound Soiling Hills, Calif., ninth grader was a loser, just as she was in the singles test against Betty Stove, the big, muscular girl from The Netherlands in a singles match on Wednesday.

At least 90 per cent of the crowd was for the Austins but it didn't help as they were easily defeated.

But the youngster is bound to be heard from in the future.

Tracy Austin, perhaps played out after her singles play, which included a win in straight sets over Rumania's Virginia Ruzici before the loss to Stove, appeared tired, almost dead tired.

Soup, Rice key RSox sweep

BOSTON (UPI) — Grandma's favorite recipe — hot soup with rice — has put the Boston Red Sox back in shape for their pennant challenge in the American League East.

Needing a pair of strong games to stay close to the streaking New York Yankees, the Red Sox feasted twice on the Detroit Tigers Friday night, 5-1 and 8-6, to pull within three games of the divisional frontrunners.

The two prime movers of the twilight sweep were Bill "Sonny" Campbell, who picked up his 25th and 26th saves of the season and Jim Rice, whose 36th and 37th homers won the first game and whose 10th RBI put Boston ahead to stay in the nightcap.

"I've said it all season long: without Bill Campbell this team would be 15 games behind the Yankees right now," said Boston Manager Don Zimmerman. "And Jim Rice has to be rated among the top five for Most Valuable Player in the league."

Detroit Manager Ralph Houk added, "Campbell's a good pitcher, and that's no secret, but the Red Sox are going to have to have good pitching to win the pennant. They can't give up 16 hits, like they did to us in the second game, and win too often."

The Tigers, however, were unable to bring across the key runs despite chances in both games, as they fell victim to their fifth doubleheader sweep this year. They have split eight twinbills and have not swept a doubleheader this year.

Rice's booming bat put Detroit in early first-game trouble. Carl Yastrzemski singled off loser Dave Rozema, 15-7, to open the second inning and Rice, the American League home run leader, clubbed a changeup into the leftfield screen. Carlton Fisk, who had three hits in the game, followed with a single and later scored on a Rick Burdison sacrifice fly to give Boston a 3-0 lead.

The Red Sox gained a fourth inning insurance while Campbell threw 3 1/3 Detroit errors and Rice finished the scoring in the sixth with an arching shot high over the 60-foot wall and screen in straightaway leftfield.

Luis Tiant came within two outs of his fourth complete game and fourth shutout of a personally disappointing season. But he gave up four hits and a run in the ninth, leaving in favor of Campbell as pesky Aurelio Rodriguez came up with the bases loaded and representing the losing team.

Campbell needed three pitches to get Rodriguez to bounce into a third-to-first doubleplay that ended the game.

In the second game, Boston took a 5-0 lead after two innings but starter Reggie Cleveland and reliever Jim Willoughby surrendered five runs to Detroit in the third and fourth frames.

After Fred Lynn doubled and advanced on a wild pitch in the fifth, Rice hit a sacrifice fly to right field to put Boston ahead 6-5. The run was scored off Vern Rühle, the second of three Tiger pitchers, who absorbed his fifth loss in eight decisions.

"It always feels nice to get a baserun or an RBI to win a ballgame but you can't worry about hitting the homers," Rice said. "You have to be very about driving the men home that are on base. You have to keep winning to catch the Yankees."

"It's just a good feeling to be in my first real pennant race. Each run is magnified. I know I got a little bit more excited," added Campbell, who jumped off the mound and tossed a victory punch at the air after the second frame.

Rice was more restrained after reaching the 100-RBI plateau for the second time in his three-year career. "It always feels nice to get a baserun or an RBI to win a ballgame but you can't worry about hitting the homers," Rice said. "You have to be very about driving the men home that are on base. You have to keep winning to catch the Yankees."

hilled by an interception by Hendricks on the Oakland 20. The only previous time the Rams were shut out in pre-season play occurred in 1946, when the College All-league game ended in a 0-0 tie at the Rams' first game after the franchise was moved from Cleveland.

It was the Rams' fourth straight loss and gave them a 1-5 record in exhibition play. The Raiders, who crushed the Minnesota Vikings and Fran Tarkenton eight months ago for the NFL championship, finished with a 4-2 pre-season record. Oakland is at Los Angeles in a regular season game Dec. 4.

The 34-year-old Namath, trying to win the starting QB quarterback job, was interrupted twice and sacked three times by a stalwart Oakland defense that kept him in check for three quarters. Pat Haden, the Rams' incumbent No. 1 quarterback, had little more success as he was intercepted once during his fourth-quarter stint. Rae entered the game on Oakland's last offensive series of the first half and hit Casper for a nine-yard scoring pass 29 seconds before halftime for a 14-0 Raider lead.

The left-handed Stabler directed Oakland to its first TD with five minutes to go in the first half after finishing Monte Johnson picked off a Namath pass to give the Raiders the ball on the Los Angeles 23. Mark van Eeghen scored on a one-yard run. The second Oakland TD was set up after linebacker Ted Hendricks blocked a Glen Walker punt to give the Raiders the ball on the Los Angeles 20.

Rae was at the helm for the Raiders after they took the second half kickoff and Oakland moved 84 yards in seven plays to make it 21-0. Rae and Kwiatk teamed for a 15-yard TD pass with just 4:15 gone in the third period. With Namath in charge, the Rams could manage just one first down in the first half as the former New York Jets' star completed only 1-of-7 passes for a paltry three yards. But Namath was 7-for-11 for 106 in the third quarter and took the Rams to the six-yard line before the drive was

Mystery man in net Open gets his day in sun today

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Corrado Barazzutti, the mystery man at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, gets his day in the sun today.

The 24-year-old Italian, who snuck up on the world's richest tennis tournament like a thief in the night, takes on second-seeded Jimmy Connors in the semifinals before an expected capacity crowd.

In the other men's semifinal today, fourth-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina plays 12th-seeded Harold Solomon, Silver Spring, Md. The finals will be held Sunday.

Barazzutti has already bumped off seventh-seeded Ili Nastase and third-seeded Brian Gottfried, but is nevertheless an unknown quantity.

He does not attract the picture-makers like Bjorn Borg, he does not strike the controversial pose of Connors, he does not have the magnetic following of Billie Jean King and he does not have pigtails like Tracy Austin.

Before Barazzutti and Connors lock horns in the finale of the afternoon card, No. 1 seed Chris Evert will go after her third straight Open championship when she plays giant-killer Wendy Turnbull of Australia.

On Friday, Evert advanced to the finals when she survived her sternest test in this year's Open to defeat fifth-seeded Betty Stove, 6-3, 6-2.

She has now won 112 straight matches on clay, her last loss coming four years ago.

The 24-year-old Australian stunned second-seeded Martina Navratilova, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4, in a semifinal encounter Friday, leaving the former Czech grimacing and putting as she was chasing all over the court.

It was another unexpected triumph for Turnbull, who defeated Wimbledon queen Virginia Wade in the previous round. She held her serve when she had to and withstood a late rally by Navratilova in the third set.

"How do I feel?" she said. "Fantastic."

John candidate for Young honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The arm stays strong through the miracle of modern-day surgery, and Tommy John is providing a small miracle himself as he strides to overtake Philadelphia's Steve Carlton for Cy Young honors in the National League.

Dr. Frank Jobe took a piece of ligament from John's right arm in September of 1974, then inserted it into his left arm, hoping, but not expecting it to come alive in its new environment. Jobe predicted, the chances of that happening were less than one in 10 at the time.

Weeks after the surgery, John had to be dressed and fed, both arms incapacitated. He needed help bathing as well, and constantly squeezed a little rubber ball with hopes of renewed strength in the shriveled hand that once threw baseballs so beautifully.

Now, after winning the Comeback of the Year award last season, John is setting his sights a bit higher. Does the name Cy Young ring a bell?

John scattered nine hits Friday night, winning his 18th game against only five batters as the Dodgers opened a 13 1/2 game lead over the Cincinnati Reds with a 4-1 triumph. Don Baker's three-run homer was more than enough, setting Los Angeles' "Magic Number" at eight.

"It's just unbelievable," said John's teammate, Don Sutton. "The Giants put runners on second and third with nobody out and John got out of it. He comes right back in and picks up where he left off. He tells us his family used a septic tank for 36 years and nothing ever went wrong with it. He forgot all about what he just went through," Sutton said.

"That's why he's become one of baseball's best pitchers. I don't know whether I deserve it," said John, hesitant to talk about the award. "I know I'm in consideration. And it wouldn't be a gift if it were to me."

Morgan B.C. golf leader

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI) — Leave it to an Oklahoma man to be able to play golf well in the winter.

"Yeah, we have a lot of tornadoes and wind back home," said Dr. Gil Morgan after his six-under-par 65 grabbed the second round lead in the B.C. Open Friday. "But we don't play much in the tornadoes. Seriously, we do get a lot of wind at home (Wewaka, Okla.) and I always played a lot in the winter before joining the tour," said Morgan, who holds a two-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer at the midway point of the $200,000 tournament. "I guess that probably helped a little today."

National League

Satter a win over the Mets. Satter is now 7-2, picking up his second victory in as many days. Braves' 8, Pedro 6.

Jeff Burroughs drove in four runs with his 37th homer and a sacrifice fly. George Hendrick and Mike Champion had homers in a losing cause as Preston Hanna raised his record to 2-4.

Explos 2, Pirates 1. Andre Dawson doubled home both runs and rookie Hal Dues won his first major league game to pace the Expos.

Joe Niekro tossed a four-hitter and picked up his eighth complete game in 10 starts with help from Joe Cruz' solo homer. Joe Ferguson had three singles and scored twice to help the Astros to their 13th victory in the last 15 games.

Phillies 11, Cardinals 4. Greg Lutzinski drove in five runs with two homers, his 34th and 35th, and Steve Carlton struck out 14 in his 21st game of the year.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last summer you wrote something that virtually saved my life - and made the lives of many others. I had just gotten my driver's license and that column really opened my eyes. I think about it every time I turn on the ignition in my car. And run it at every 1000 miles. I have had it for 17 years. I love it!

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have had a column made such an impact as the one to which you refer. I shall repeat it with pleasure:

PLEASE GOD, I'M ONLY 17!

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I was in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like that? Why did I look like Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

Free Bible offer exhausts supply

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Rev. Edmond S. Nadolny, amazed at the response to his offer of free Bibles, plans to distribute 100,000 more of them by Christmas. The Roman Catholic priest said he ordered the new Bibles after exhausting a supply of 10,000 sought by "persons across the state."

Nadolny said the requests by mail and telephone came pouring in after a local radio talk show last month in which he told listeners he would send a Bible to anyone who didn't have one.

"There's no strings attached," said Nadolny, who is the director of communications for the Catholic Archdiocese of Hartford. "Everyone should have a Bible, no matter who they are. It really helps in times of depression and despair," he said.

Nadolny, who purchased the New Testament edition from a New York publishing house, said he also plans to distribute the books on Sunday to persons who call him during a special six hour fund-raising event to be televised by station WATR in Waterbury.

He said anyone may write to him for a Bible at 785 Asylum St., Hartford, 06105.

Sunday Bible School	9:30 A.M.
Sunday Morning Worship	10:50 A.M.
Sunday Evening Service	6:00 P.M.
Wednesday Bible Study	7:30 P.M.

Beginning Sunday at 6 p.m. a 10 episode color film series will be presented. Considered a documentary spectacular, it was written by and features...

DR. FRANCIS SCHAEFFER who preaches that Biblical Christianity is not only true, but intellectually defensible and reasonable. He asks, "HOW SHOULD WE THEN LIVE?"

Also at 6 p.m. on Sundays, there will be a film for the children. "BIG SPLASH," the first in the series teaches young people what it really means to win as a Christian.
