Primary elections slated in 25 state communities

By United Press International
Voters in 25 Connecticut communities this week go to the polls for primary elections, with the spotlight on New Haven's bitter Democratic race between incumbent Frank Logue and former police chief Biagio DiLieto.

Elsewhere Thursday, Democratic mayors in Waterbury, Bridgeport, Meriden and New Britain face primary challenges.

The Logue-DiLieto campaign has badly divided the Democratic party, with the liberal incumbent pressed hard for a second term by DiLieto, a conservative who developed a following in his 29 years on the police force.

The primary campaign has been so marked by personal attacks that Republicans — outregistered 4-1 and without a mayor in a generation — are hopeful GOP nominee Frank Mongillo can capitalize on the Democratic division.

A key issue in the campaign is allegations police from 1966-1971 conducted illegal wiretaps. DiLieto said he authorized one wiretap, but thought it was legal. He claims Logue has conducted a "vendetta" against him in the pursuit of the wiretap issue.

Logue — admitting he has made mistakes in his two-year term — nevertheless stresses his record and ability to cut the mill rate. DiLieto urges tougher measures against crime and more emphasis on the city's neighborhoods.

In Meriden and New Britain, incumbents were denied renomination by the party convention and have taken their fights to the voters.

Abraham Grossman, censured earlier this year by the Meriden City Council, is challenging City Comptroller Dennis C. Mazzone in an effort to win a third term.

New Britain's race features six candidates, with incumbent Matthew J. Avitable looking for a second term. The endorsement belongs to William P. Candelori, but the size of the field makes the outlook uncertain.

In Bridgeport and Waterbury, incumbents John Mandanici and Edward Bergin are expected to win renomination easily for second terms.

Bergin — an insurgent who upset the party machinery to win the job in 1975 — has buried the hatchet with the organization.

Mandanici, who has conducted a much-publicized program to cut Bridgeport's welfare caseload, runs his city's Democratic organization. His only problem could come from a grand jury probing alleged misuse of federal funds by his administration.

Senate to act on energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate hoped to pass a comprehensive national energy conservation policy this week in its program of approving President Carter's sweeping energy package on a piece-by-piece basis to avoid a filibuster.

The bill would set minimum fuel economy standards for cars, beginning with 16 miles per gallon with the 1980 model years and going to 21 miles per gallon in 1985.

It also covers conservation programs for existing residential buildings; energy efficiency standards for consumer products; and initiatives for federal buildings, including the use of solar energy.

The individual bills are being sent to the House to be compromised with its overall single-bill approach.

Under strategy devised by Democratic Leader Robert Byrd, the Senate last week approved legislation under which power plants would have to switch from natural gas to coal. The measure was tacked on a minor House-passed bill so it could be sent to conference promptly.

The same procedure will be used on other parts of the energy package, starting this week with the conservation bill.

Although not yet ready for floor action, Byrd said it appeared the Senate's next energy sections would be natural gas pricing and utility rate reform, finally followed by the tax portions of the energy program.

Congress plans to finish energy legislation and send it to the White House before quitting for the year a few weeks from now.

Byrd has announced that whenever there is a break during this week, he will call up other measures including bills prohibiting unionization of the

Support for Lance begins to unravel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Decision week in the Bert Lance controversy began today with political support for the White House budget director unraveling as he prepared for his day in the witness chair.

Supporters of the former Atlanta banker asked only that Lance be given a chance to answer the charges in public.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee scheduled fresh testimony from a series of government officials, culminating Thursday with Lance's own appearance.

Carter plans a news conference Wednesday, the day before Lance testifies.

Questions of Comptroller of the Currency John Heimann were likely to center on a newly released Internal Revenue Service report detailing efforts by Lance to conceal financial troubles from the Senate.

"Something's going to happen on Thursday when he (Lance) appears," Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a member of the panel, said Sunday. "This week will be decision week, because this sort of thing can't go on any longer."

Jackson, like President Carter and a number of his lieutenants, asked only that Lance be given a chance to tell his side of the story.

"I'm not asking him to resign at this point," Jackson said on CBS-TV's Face the Nation. "I've not heard Mr. Lance and I think decency requires that he be heard."

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell told a news conference in Des Moines, Iowa, that Lance deserved a chance to comment. "... we have no decent alternative but to insist he is provided with that opportunity," he said.

Lance's attorney, Clark Clifford, denied Lance plans to resign after facing the committee and explaining his dealings.

Balloonists call for help

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — Two Albuquerque, N.M., men trying to become the first to fly the Atlantic in a balloon, ran low on fuel today after more than 60 hours aloft and called for help. The U.S. Navy answered the mayday with planes and a helicopter.

The helium balloon Double Eagle, which took off from Marshfield, Mass., Friday night, carried a gondola stocked with food, emergency survival equipment and air and surface radio equipment which can float.

A spokesman for the Reykjavik flight control center, Valdimir Olafson, said authorities received a message from the fliers, Ben Abruzzo, 47, and Maxie Anderson, 44, saying: "Have to land on the ocean sometime in the day. All right at the moment; but getting short of fuel. Request assistance from ship or helicopter."

No ships were in the area, Olafson said.

The Jolly Green Giant rescue helicopter was beyond its normal range, a spokesman said, and it was to be refueled in the air over the frigid North Atlantic in order to complete its mission.

A P3 Orion search plane from the Navy base at Keflavik spotted the balloonists bobbing in the air 290 miles southwest of Iceland, tossed by 28-knot winds in an area where waves ran 14 feet high. The Navy dispatched a rescue team aboard a C130 Hercules plane and the helicopter.

Ground controllers in Bedford, Mass., said the balloonists' basic problem was a serious loss of ballast used to regulate the craft's altitude. Weather difficulties that kept the balloon going in circles over Greenland earlier forced the fliers to use up most of their ballast.

"The looping movement of the balloon late yesterday and early today left the Double Eagle short of ballast and seriously threatened further flight," said Mike Leavitt, a spokesman for Weather Services Corp. at the Bedford weather station.

At 3:30 a.m. EDT, the silver-and-black craft had flown 1,800 miles of its scheduled 3,000-mile trip. The fliers had hoped they could reach Europe early Tuesday in their quest to be the first men to cross the Atlantic successfully by balloon.

The prayers on this holiday dwell on God's Kingship and His Judgment of individuals and the nations and God, is metaphorically, depicted as sitting on the throne of judgment, scrutinizing the deeds of all humans and meting out reward and punishment according to one's merits. The fervent hope and prayer of the worshippers are that God will deal mercifully with the world and with them and "Inscribe them in the Book of Life, Blessing and Peace."

The Shofar or Ram's Horn is blown at the morning services on both days of the holiday and it serves today, as it did in ancient times, to sound an alarm in the spiritual crisis in which man finds himself and to arouse the Jew to moral improvement and to action on behalf of humanity and its welfare.

This holiday has high spiritual significance to the Jewish people calling on them to seek to perfect their lives and to work for the perfection of humanity.

Services at Temple Beth Shalom during the holidays will be held this evening at 8:15, tomorrow at 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. and on Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 a.m. and at 7 p.m.

Candidate suggests solution to conflict-of-interest issue

Joseph Sweeney, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, has proposed a possible solution to conflict-of-interest charges that might arise against town officials who have filed applications with town agencies.

Sweeney suggested that such applications be referred to agencies in other towns.

The Board of Directors Tuesday night is expected to consider appointment of a charter revision commission to study the conflict-of-interest issue.

The idea was proposed earlier in the year by Mayor Matthew Moriarty, who mentioned it again at last week's directors meeting.

Moriarty and some other town officials have been concerned because of conflict-of-interest questions that developed earlier this year in a number of cases.

questions that developed earlier this year in a number of cases. Sweeney, who is an attorney, said that he modeled his proposal after a similar one developed by the State Assembly of Probate Judges.

"Whenever any potential conflict case comes before any town's probate judge, he or she routinely refers that case to a probate judge in another town," he said.

"Our Town Charter could be amended to provide that whenever one of our town officials applies for a building permit or zoning reclassification, that town official's application would be referred to a comparable municipal agency in any town within a radius of 20 miles," Sweeney said.

"This type of charter provision would certainly avoid any undue influence in the granting of zoning, building and other similar permits to town officials. More importantly, it would enable persons who serve in public office to enjoy the same rights as other citizens to apply for permits and zone changes," he said.

MACC news

Nancy Carr
Executive Director
Disasters not only destroy the resources and lives of those living in the affected areas, but they drain the spirit of those who are fortunate or fortunate enough to survive. We've had a lot of disasters lately: earthquakes, floods, hurricanes, wars. How many days pass before the front page carries to us the news of another tragedy (man or nature caused) which leaves hundreds or thousands homeless, without food, shelter or clothing.

Church World Service, along with Catholic and Jewish relief agencies, are among the first on the scene of a disaster. They bring with them the life preservers, food, water, medicines, warm clothing and shelter.

The warm clothing and blankets you take to Concordia Lutheran Church on Sept. 28 and 29 may be among those placed in the hands of desperate people whose lives, literally depend on our generosity. Other clothing may make it possible for a child to attend a school, a father to go job hunting, an old woman to stop shivering.

Urgently needed in the fall CWS clothing drive: men's clothing, children's heavy clothing, infant's clothing size (4-4) everything but snowsuits.

Remember, the coat or dress or pants will probably be the only one the recipient has. Don't give worn, dirty or torn clothing. Please do give sturdy washable clothing such as you or your own child might wear.

Pack in sturdy cartons, maximum weight 40 lbs., weight marked on cartons, the security with heavy twine. A scale is available at Concordia for your convenience. Ten cents a pound covers the cost of transportation. You are asked to cover this cost if you possibly can.

Sept. 26-27
All clothing, blankets, kits, layettes must be delivered to Concordia Lutheran, 40 Pitkin St. (rear of building) on Monday or Tuesday, Sept. 26 or 27

Disasters know no boundaries; they strike anywhere, anytime. This is one of the opportunities we have, working together, to be ready and be there when people most need our help.

Emergency Pantry
There has been a heavy demand on the Emergency Pantry even during the summer months. Specially needed: protein products (peanut butter, dry milk, tuna, meat products); cereals and pasta (spaghetti, noodles, macaroni), cereal products, juices and canned fruit would also be welcome, particularly for children and older people. NEDED: Volunteers to staff the Pantry on the first Wednesday and second Monday of the month, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at Center Congregational Church. We are most grateful to Mary Burke for the memorial gifts given to the Pantry in memory of the late Agnes Chartier by friends and family.

Atlantic energy

There may not be any conscious "drain Texas first" philosophy at work in this country, though southern oil-producing areas (not just Texas) strongly suspected so last winter when the hard-hit North and East cried out for their fuel — at controlled prices.

But certainly the adamant opposition of these same northerners and easterners to petroleum production in their own backyard indicates that many Americans still do not take the energy crisis seriously.

The "backyard" is the edge of the continental shelf off the coasts of New York, New Jersey and Delaware. The U.S. Interior Department estimates there may be as many as 1.4 billion barrels of oil and up to 9.4 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in an area called the Baltimore Canyon Trough.

Last August, the department sold leases on 93 undersea tracts in the area to some 40 oil companies for $1.13 billion. The sale was immediately challenged by several New York and New Jersey counties and an environmental group, and was subsequently banned by a federal judge on grounds that the department had prepared an inadequate environmental impact statement.

Now in a unanimous decision strongly critical of the lower court, the Second U.S. Court of Appeals has reversed the ruling. Pointing out that there hasn't been a drop of oil or whiff of gas actually found yet, the court expressed its confidence that any future environmental problems could be handled by the government if and when they arise.

"There comes a point," said the court, "when the chain of 'ifs' gets too long and too tenuous to be of any practical use. That point was reached here."

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus has said he will immediately begin issuing exploratory drilling permits. With luck the first oil — and, more promisingly, natural gas — could be flowing in three years.

It took an oil embargo to get this country off the dime in building the Alaska pipeline. It is encouraged that this time all it required was the common sense of the three Appeals Court judges.

The Baltimore Canyon doesn't compare with the Arabian Peninsula or Alaska's North Slope. But its fuel could keep many a toter from freezing one of these winters.

Cash instead of stamps

Tucked in the new farm bill is a little-noticed provision that could pave the way for President Carter's plan to eliminate food stamps and replace them with cash payments to poor people.

The bill — likely to be approved by Congress this month — would authorize the secretary of agriculture to send checks to some food stamp recipients instead of buying them stamps.

A logical site for the experiment would be Birmingham, Ala., where a civic group known as Operation New Birmingham has been campaigning for years to discard food stamps and try a direct payment system.

Mixing work and welfare

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When the government 10 years ago initiated an experimental program of making cash grants to provide "income maintenance" to the poor, federal officials tried to cloak the project in secrecy because the idea was so controversial.

A decade later, that concept — also known as a "negative income tax" or "income support" — has gained such broad acceptance that President Carter has made it the centerpiece of his proposal for far-reaching structural reform of the federal welfare system.

Agging question

But the nagging question remains: Will a government program that provides cash assistance to low-income families and individuals encourage a substantial number of poor people now holding jobs to "quit work and live off welfare"?

The working poor historically have received no benefits from the nation's welfare system. As a result, Carter is attempting something no other president has ever done — to mix work and welfare.

By Martha Angle and Robert Walters

Office of Income Security Policy Research in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, who conducted four separate experiments involving payment of more than $7.5 million worth of "income maintenance" grants.

Experiment

The first experiment involved poor whites, blacks and hispanics in Trenton, Paterson, Passaic and Jersey City, N.J., and Scranton, Pa. The second project concentrated on the rural poor, both black and white, in farming communities of Iowa and North Carolina.

The third involved poor blacks in Gary, Ind., while the last was aimed at whites, blacks and hispanics in Denver and Seattle. With the exception of the final Denver-Seattle

Yesterdays

An example: To be eligible for "unemployed parents" benefits from the biggest of the federal welfare programs, Aid to Families of Dependent Children or AFDC, the male head of the family must be totally unemployed and have exhausted all unemployment compensation benefits.

Carter announced his proposal only last month, but those who designed much of his program and will be required to administer it if Congress approves the reform have been quiet-formula for combining work and welfare.

REPORTER: I'm not dead. I got in on my press pass.

IKE: Well, what's on your mind? I've got to get this practice round in before dinner.

What do you think of?

REPORTER: What do you think of the Bert Lance case? Some people have compared it with your trouble with Sherman Adams.

IKE: I haven't thought much about it, but Lance doesn't seem to have done anything illegal.

REPORTER: What about all those overdrafts by Lance and his kin folk? And using the same collateral for two loans?

IKE (with a chuckle): Well, some of my best friends were bankers, but they were always a cunning bunch, but used to count my fingers after shaking hands with them.

Was it unethical?

IKE: We don't. We rarely see each other. He hangs around with a different crowd — liberals and machine politicians. But we're polite to each other. After all, we're all on probation here on the river.

REPORTER: You don't think the director of the Office of Budget and Management should be above suspicion — like Caesar's wife?

IKE: Caesar's wife, baloney. From what I've read she was no better than she should be. The question is whether Lance is competent. A President needs competent people around him or he'll go mad.

REPORTER: Do you accept the parallel with Sherman Adams?

IKE: I don't know anything about parallels. All I know is that I made a mistake giving Sherman the boot. All he did was take a vicuna coat, whatever the hell that is, and some rugs from that textile guy, Goldfine. After all, they were good friends. There's no law against accepting gifts from a friend.

The Manchester Improvement Association. It was a businessmen's association in the North End of town organized in 1948, prospered for several years, became dormant until 1963, was reactivated to take action on issues involving the Eighth District, and passed from the scene with the redevelopment of the North End.

Members were called the Improvers.

Like all associations of that nature, the merchants wanted to do something to help business in their end of town. The aims, as stated at the organizational meeting Nov. 10, 1948 were "the betterment of business by giving the greatest consideration to the consumer and to make it easier to shop at the North End." There was Thursday night shopping at the North End, and they hoped to either change it to Friday night, or be open both nights.

The late Max Glatzer was the first president of what was then the North End Business Association, later changed to the Improvement Association. Vincent "Count" Farrand the barber was the vice-president, roofer Eddie Coughlin was

Israeli cabinet okays pact draft

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — The Israeli cabinet has approved a proposed Middle East peace treaty that Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan will carry to President Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance next week.

The draft, approved Sunday by the cabinet, calls for an end to the state of war with the Arabs, establishment of diplomatic war, trade relations, open borders and settlement of claims by Arab and Jewish refugees.

Dayan also will bring a secret cover letter with him when he flies to the United States for talks with Vance and indirect contacts with Arab leaders when the U.N. General Assembly convenes Sept. 20.

The letter describes "topical negotiations for peace," Israeli officials said, but they declined to elaborate.

Begin and other Israeli leaders said the West Bank of the Jordan and the Gaza strip belong to the Jewish people by historical right and are vital for the security of the state.

The Arabs demand total withdrawal from all land captured from Jordan, Syria and Egypt and establishment of a Palestinian state, conditions rejected by Israel.

The government has yet to annex the territories formally, but in a weekend interview Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon said Israel will establish new settlements to create security belts that may yield "daring solutions" for peace.

"The existence of Israel is more important than a formal peace," he said.

Teachers union faces strike

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — The president of the Connecticut Federation of Teachers, who has coordinated numerous teacher strikes, today was feeling the wrath of his own employees who planned to walk off their jobs.

"It's strictly an illegal strike all the way," said Ronald O'Brien. Cecile Poirier, a secretary in the office, planned to walk off her job today, and was to be joined by four field representatives and another secretary, O'Brien said.

The field representatives are planning to strike in sympathy of the one secretary," O'Brien said.

He read a telegram from Holly Higgins, president of the Office Professional Employees International Union, O'Brien said.

Herb gardens start indoors

Herbs can be grown indoors for year-round enjoyment. Growing herbs indoors at this time is no more difficult than producing them in the garden.

Indoor plants will need essentially the same conditions as herbs grown outdoors—sunlight and a well drained soil mix that is not too rich.

Dr. Edwin D. Carpenter, Extension consumer horticulturist at the University of Connecticut, suggests you select a south or west window for growing herbs indoors. Different herbs have different light requirements but most need a sunny location, and in winter "grow lamps" or fluorescent lights are helpful in supplementing light.

When planting, mix two parts sterilized potting soil and one part coarse sand or perlite. To insure sweetness of the soil, add a cup of ground limestone per bushel of soil—one teaspoon of lime per five-inch pot. There should be an inch of gravel at the bottom of each pot to ensure good drainage.

Consider the water needs of each herb; a general rule is that growing plants need more water as do plants in clay pots or hanging baskets. Misting and grouping the plants on a tray of moistened pebbles will help keep them in humid conditions. Don't drench herbs—avoid getting herb roots soggy.

Annual herbs can spend their full life cycle in a pot indoors. Perennial herbs, however, will do better if you place them outdoors during the summer. Plunge the pot in soil up to its rim, or keep it in a protected location on the porch or patio.

Dr. Carpenter notes that herb plants need sun during the summer months; therefore, place them accordingly.

To prevent loss of foliage and damage, bring herbs indoors before frost. A light frost is helpful on mint, chives, and tarragon because it tends to induce a rest period and the resulting new growth is firm and fresh.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Garlic and blood pressure

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have high blood pressure. I am taking medicine for it. If you take garlic pills or eat fresh garlic will your blood pressure go down? I've had so many people tell me this. When I go to the hospital my blood pressure is normal. My blood pressure is 162 over 98 and I am 56. Is that too high?

DEAR READER — The only way garlic helps blood pressure is if people make you nervous and raise your pressure. The garlic will help you avoid people. Seriously, there is no truth in the often repeated claim that garlic helps lower blood pressure.

If by going to the hospital you mean staying in bed in the hospital, it is true that when a person with mildly elevated pressure is put at bed rest the pressure often falls.

Why? Because the bed rest results in flushing out salt (sodium) and water from the body tissues. These people often get similar results from taking one of the diuretics commonly used in the treatment of mildly elevated blood pressure.

Your pressure is not high enough to cause anyone to be disturbed about it or to give you strong medicines but it is abnormal if it persists at those levels. If it is that high only part of the time when you are tense it might not be so important.

For mild high blood pressure the first and most important thing to do is eliminate any extra fat stores you can from your body by a sensible diet and mild exercise program such as walking.

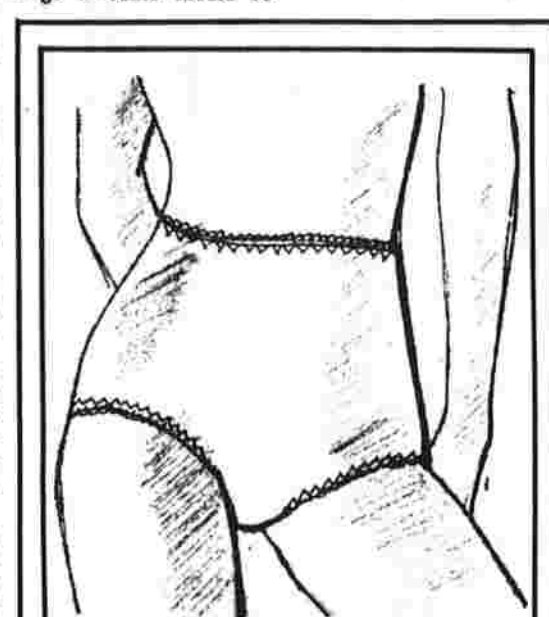

If weight control does not result in decreasing the pressure enough then the doctor may want to use one of the diuretics. That is usually sufficient in mild cases. If high pressure persists he may want to use other medicines.

Anyone who has elevated blood pressure should eliminate stimulants—especially coffee, tea, and colas, and try to avoid stressful situations.

To give you more information on blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

avoided. Why don't you switch to one of the carbonated soda drinks such as Tom Collins mix or vodka mixer that contains some fruit juices for flavoring and a little fizz which you might enjoy. The mix is not harmful. It is what most people put into the mix that causes the problems.

Fair draws thousands

By JUDY KUEHNEL

Thousands of South Windsor residents turned out for this year's annual Wapping Fair, which has, since the turn of the century, indicated the close of summer and the onset of the fall harvest season. Prize produce, baked and canned products and animal exhibitions were undoubtedly scarcer than they might have been at the time of the first Wapping Fairs, but they were still there. Fair-goers moved slowly through the produce and craft tents, up and down aisles of booths and accepted brochures from the numerous politicians who smiled and shook hands, hoping to be remembered on Election Day. Saturday's early morning rain may have discouraged a few potential fair-goers from Rye St. fairgrounds when the gates opened on Oct. 2, but as the sun came out, so did the people, and the fair was crowded by 3 p.m.

Candidates love the fair

South Windsor In some ways, the Wapping Fair of Grandmother's day and the 1977 variety have changed very little. Politicians still take advantage of the gathered masses to expound on all the reasons they—instead of their opponent—should hold town office. The soap box may be gone and fewer political hopefuls may appeal to parental pride by kissing babies, but the object is still the same. The straw hats of yesteryear have been replaced with a reasonable facsimile made of styrofoam. Instead of cigars and pipes, the modern day fair-goer is treated to a neatly printed brochure advertising the person under the styrofoam hat. This year's Wapping Fair appeared to be even more of a political arena than one might have expected

In Coventry schools

Transit problems few

Coventry school administrators have told the Board of Education that school openings went smoothly and there were few transportation problems.

Arnold Elman, superintendent of schools, reported the enrollment for the town's four schools was 2,021 and that a few latecomers would be registered this week. The average grade size for kindergarten through Grade 2 is 18.5, he said, and 23.5 for Grades 3 and 4.

Vernon housing violations Council wants details

Vernon Housing Code Inspector John Darcey will be asked to augment his monthly reports with a narrative on the disposition of violations. Councilman Thomas Dooley said he would like to know the age of the violations when they are listed in the report as being corrected. He said there is no way to tell how long some violations have been on the books before being taken care of. Mayor Thomas Benoit said he will ask Darcey to attend the next council meeting. Darcey also makes a monthly report on the housing rehabilitation program as well as the code inspection. In his code inspection report for July and August, Darcey said 42 structures and 67 dwelling units were inspected. The following violations were noted for these two months: 281 electrical, 3 heating, 3 plumbing, 31 structural, and 5 sanitary, for a total of 343. With those carried over from previous months it totals 547. Housing code violations corrected during that time were: 30 electrical, 3 heating, 1 plumbing, 27 structural and 2 sanitary, for a total of 69, leaving outstanding violations at 478. Darcey said he received and investigated 18 complaints. Under the rehab program for July and August, Darcey inspected 12 structures and 18 dwelling units. He found no violations but 85 were carried over from previous months. Violations corrected were: 16 electrical, 1 each of heating and plumbing and 6 structural, leaving outstanding violations at 61. Darcey said the "outstanding" violations represent violations found in houses inspected since the start of the rehabilitation program in late April. He said he expects the rehab work in these homes to be completed within the next two months.

Vernon mayor aids anti-crime efforts

Vernon Mayor Thomas Benoit is working with the Connecticut Association for Crime Prevention in hosting a carousel ride fundraiser. He and the association are inviting area town officials and businessmen and residents to have a $10 ride on the carousel in Hartford's Bushnell Park on Monday, Oct. 24, at 1 p.m. Funds raised will pay for association programs. They include running a mock juvenile court session, a tour of the new state jail in Hartford and printing pamphlets about crime prevention. Lloyd Plumstead, chairman of the association, said the ride ticket includes a buffet-style lunch at the YMCA in Hartford. Any person wishing to attend may contact the Vernon mayor's office or Plumstead at 875-1577. Tickets must be purchased in advance. Guest speakers at the luncheon will include the mayor and association leaders.

Vernon keeps its playground

The Vernon Town Council has authorized Mayor Thomas Benoit to sign an agreement renewing the lease for the W. Main St. playground. The playground is on land owned by the U.S. Envelope Co. In 1972, the company granted the lease for five years. A Massachusetts firm is negotiating to buy the envelope factory and convert it into elderly housing. That firm agreed to extend the lease on basically the same terms. Vernon pays just $1 a year to lease the playground. The Town Council has also authorized Benoit to sign an agreement with the state Department of Personnel to conduct a written examination for a police sergeant position. There has been a vacancy since the new position of captain was created several months ago and Sgt. John Bundy was promoted. Adult school registration In-person registration for classes in the Ver-

Conservation unit elects Bates

Bolton Stanley Bates has been elected chairman of the Bolton Conservation Commission and Wayne Shorey has been elected secretary. The commission will meet the last Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at Herrick Memorial Park. Commission members discussed a proposed conservation pond on a one-acre parcel on Bailey Rd. owned by Richard Hines. Drawings and comments of the pond were submitted by the Tolland County Soil Conservation District. The pond will require building of a small dam across a stream. It was referred to the State Department of Environmental Protection. Commission members recommended a gate be installed in the dam to permit cleaning and draining. Construction of the dam appears permissible under the inland wetlands legislation. The commission will change its bylaws to conform with the new Town Charter. The major change is when officers will be elected.

Jim Rice's first career grand slam enables RSox to gain on New York

BOSTON (UPI) — Faster than a speeding bullet. More powerful than a locomotive. Able to leap tall walls in a single bound.

Superman? Well, almost. It's the combination of Boston's Jim Rice and the Rawlings' baseball, 1977 model, and Sunday the two were responsible for Rice's first career grand slam in a 6-2 Red Sox victory over the Detroit Tigers. The win, Boston's fifth in a row and 10th in their last 11 games, lifted them to within 1 1/2 games of the A.L. East-leading New York Yankees, who split a doubleheader with Toronto. Boston and New York start a crucial three-game series Tuesday at Yankee Stadium.

With Boston and Bill Lee trying to protect a slim 2-1 lead in the seventh inning, Bernie Carbo walked with one out to chase losing starter Fernando Arroyo. 7-16 Reliever John Hiller walked Fred Lynn before Carl Yastrzemski reached on an infield hit.

Rice then socked his league-leading 38th homer as well as his 165th RBI with a majestic clout off Hiller that easily cleared the 60-foot high screen above the left field wall despite a stiff left-to-right crosswind that was estimated at 30 miles per hour.

"I was just thinking about hitting the ball deep enough to score a run," said the powerfully-built Rice, who leads the league in total bases and slugging percentage. It was also his 13th game-winning hit, tops on the club, and third in three days.

"We're already up 2-1 so I'm thinking long ball," explained Rice. "Above all, I'm trying to advance the runners, but I guess it's better than advancing one when you can advance all four."

"He hit it good, but I've seen him hit longer ones in our park," said Tiger manager Ralph Houk. "This one? I knew it was gone. I didn't even look."

"He's awesome," marveled Lee, the workmanlike Jimmy Olsen of the Boston mound corps who gained his eighth win against just three losses by combining with Bob Stanley for a 10-hit effort. Lee, who might as well be at the other end of the spectrum from Rice, does everything but try to over-power opposing hitters. "When he's pitching good we know he'll give up hits," said Manager Don Zimmer, who saw his reliever still in Minnesota in a left appearance three weeks ago and has given him four starts since then. Lee has made the most of the opportunity, compiling a 4-1 record and a 1.96 ERA over 36 1/3 innings while issuing just three walks.

"But he also gets the double plays," Zimmer continued. "I think he gets a bigger kick through it." "Above all, I'm trying to advance the runners, but I guess it's better than advancing one when you can advance all four."

"He teases you," Houk said. "He doesn't give you too many good balls to hit. He knows how to get a hitter out even when he doesn't have good stuff."

"I made a few pitches I got away with," said Lee, who often says he likes to rely on his "garbage." "They could have scored a lot more."

"It was just that the balls that were hit hard were hit at people on the ground and we were lucky to get the double plays."

The Red Sox defense turned over four twin-kills, three behind Lee and one in Stanley's final-inning appearance.

The Tigers took the lead in the first inning when Rusty Staub, Jason Thompson and Lance Parrish strung together consecutive singles.

"After I got out of the first inning, everything seemed to fall into place," said Lee.

Lee held Detroit in neutral but Arroyo also applied the breaks to the Detroit hitting machine, limiting them to four hits over the first five innings. And it took a little luck to get the Red Sox into gear in the sixth.

Yastrzemski and Rice opened the inning with consecutive doubles that did not produce a run. Yastrzemski's double eluded first baseman Jason Thompson's glove and Rice's left leg between three Tigers down the right field line. Carlton Fisk tied the score with a slow grounder to second base. Two outs later, Butch Hopkins drove in his 99th run with a looping single to center field.

That set the stage for the American League's version of Superman.

Remember '76

BOSTON (UPI) — Don Zimmer would like to see an instant replay of the last 18 games of last season.

Zimmer thinks his Boston Red Sox would have an excellent chance of winning the American League East if his club could duplicate their late September 1976 surge.

"I would settle to do what we did last year in the last 18 games," said Zimmer, whose team has 19 games left to play following their 6-2 win Sunday over the Detroit Tigers. "We went 15-5 then."

"I don't know what's going to happen because I'm not palm reader," Zimmer continued, "but I would think 15 wins might get the job done. I don't know. With the Yankees it might take 18 out of 19."

Five of the 19 games are against the American League East Division leaders, whom Boston now trails by 1 1/2 games. Three of those games come this week starting Tuesday night at Yankee Stadium.

Asked what he was hoping to accomplish in the three game set, Zimmer said, "I'm just thinking about Tuesday night's game. I'm just taking them one at a time."

Zimmer plans to throw his rookie sensation Mike Paxon (6-4) in the series opener and come back with veterans Reggie Cleveland (9-7) and Luis Tiant (10-8) on the succeeding nights.

Ouch...that hurts

Blue Jays .500 with Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I'd settle for .500 ball the rest of the way," Toronto Blue Jays' Manager Roy Hartsfield said, "but I might have to settle for a little less."

Not if his club plays more games against the New York Yankees. The Jays won the nightcap of a Sunday doubleheader 6-4, and split with the first-place Yankees after dropping their opener 4-3. That left the last-place Blue Jays with an even split of 12 games between the two teams this season.

Asked why his expansion team plays so well against New York when it fares poorly against other A.L. contenders, Hartsfield remarked, "There are some things that just can't be explained."

Regardless of a pair of doubles by Otto Velez, a former Yankee, and a superb six-inning starting job by Tom Murphy, 22, enabled the Jays to gain the split. Murphy made his first start in the opener, Reggie Jackson's two-run homer gave the Yanks the allowing only one run and six hits in six innings of work. "I don't think I'll start again," Murphy said, "since I'm basically a three-inning pitcher."

When he was told that he had thrown 106 pitches in six innings, an unusually high total, Murphy laughed.

"I don't think," he said, "I've thrown that much in one day in five years."

The well-traveled Murphy started his big-league career with California in 1968.

"The first day I ever pitched in a major-league uniform," he recalled, "was Bat Day at Yankee Stadium in front of 55,000 people. Every time I pitch here, it's very nostalgic."

The defeat cut the Yankees' edge in the A.L. East to 1 1/2 games over Boston with the two teams opening a three-game series in New York Tuesday night.

In the opener, Reggie Jackson's two-run homer gave the Yanks the lead after Ron Fairly had smacked a two-run shot off winner Dick Tidrow, 10-4, in the first inning. Jackson's third-inning blast gave the Yankees a 3-2 lead and Mickey Rivers followed two walks with a single in the fourth to make a loser of Doug Bryd, 2-10.

Velez had two doubles in the nightcap, both figuring in the scoring, and his seventh-inning blow drove in the winning run walker and loser Don Gullett, 11-4. But it was wildness by Gullett, who walked five in six innings, more than anything which unaided him. He forced in one run with a bases-loaded pass to Hector Torres in the two-run third.

"Velez hurt us again," said Yankee Manager Billy Martin. "That's two years in a row."

Martin had left Velez's fielding was a liability when he played in New York. But his hitting was an asset to Toronto on Sunday. The only problem for the Blue Jays is that just three of their remaining 21 games are against New York.

Another first
There's always a first and viewers who saw Jimmy Connors race from one end of the center court at Forest Hills last Saturday to erase the spot on - or near - the line where his ball landed in his match against Corrado Barazzutti in the left appearance three weeks ago and has given him four starts since then. Lee has made the most of the opportunity, compiling a 4-1 record and a 1.96 ERA over 36 1/3 innings while issuing just three walks.

But he also gets the double plays," Zimmer continued. "I think he gets a bigger kick through it." "Above all, I'm trying to advance the runners, but I guess it's better than advancing one when you can advance all four."

"He teases you," Houk said. "He doesn't give you too many good balls to hit. He knows how to get a hitter out even when he doesn't have good stuff."

That set the stage for the American League's version of Superman.

UConn's football team was ambushed by Lehigh in the opener Saturday and while one game doesn't make a season one wonders how long UConn alumni will be patient with the new regime. The 49-0 defeat was the worst for a Huskie team since 1931 when New Hampshire turned the trick. Things won't be much better this week when the UConn trek to Annapolis Saturday to play Navy... Meanwhile, Yale and Brown tangle in Yale Bowl in a major Ivy League contest that could attract as many as 50,000.

Conors, once he lost the third set-breaker, to trail 2-1, never recovered and the underdog from Argentina, with the majority of the crowd in his corner, just came on like a whirlwind down the stretch to gain the most coveted men's tennis title. When Connors ran off with his major coach, Pancho Segura, instead of accepting the runner-up award and meeting with the media after Vilas won the fourth and final set to climax a great comeback, 6-4, the American's popularity dipped a few more notches.

The battle of the southpaws was a classic and resulted in a number of cold dinners on a cool September evening.

Television coverage was superb even though Tony Trabert is no Bub Collins describing the action.

Last weekend's Rec Men's and Women's Doubles Tennis Tournaments were postponed due to the rain Saturday. The original schedule will be followed this weekend. The New York Yankees are glad to have Toronto leave town. The clubs split even in a dozen games. John Canera, former Eastern Connecticut State College pitcher, made a successful debut with the California Angels on the weekend with a 6-1 win over the Chicago White Sox. Pat O'Neill, the young UConn runner who won the Manchester Relays three-mile run in a breeze last June, showed his heels to the pack as UConn's cross team team nipped Holy Cross Saturday in cross country, 27-28... Three Manchester graders are tied with the Leominster School football team this fall, fullback Brian Daley, tackle Pacey Pet and linebacker John Madden. Vilas took step forward in bid for No. 1 ranking

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — It began on a cool, sunny afternoon and ended in the evening shadows with shouts of "Guillermo, numro uno."

Guillermo Vilas took a great lap forward in prestige Sunday with a smashing 2-6, 6-3, 7-6, 6-0 victory to capture the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

"My main concern is to be number one," Vilas said. "I want to dedicate this win to my country, Argentina."

But while Vilas was a long way from Buenos Aires, he was never far from the sentiments of the 12,844 capacity crowd at Forest Hills—the last one to watch an Open here.

They cheered him right down to the final point of the fourth set when Jimmy Connors left the swarming Stadium court in confusion and anger.

At match point in the final set, Connors drove a deep shot to the baseline. At first, it appeared to be good and play continued. But the linesman signaled it out.

"On the last point, I saw it was out," said the 25-year-old Vilas. "It was so noisy, I didn't know what was happening. The fans started shouting it was out. I turned to the linesman and he said it was out."

Then the floodgates opened. The powerfully built and shaggy-haired Vilas hardly had time to throw both arms in the air in triumph before he was engulfed by wildly jubilant fans.

Meanwhile, Connors was a street-fighter to the finish.

With center court mobbed by fans and photographers, the 25-year-old

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old woman living alone in an apartment and I need a roommate to share expenses. A 16-year-old boy wants to be my roommate. We work together. His parents kicked him out of the house because he did poorly in school, and he needs a place to live. What worries me is this: If the boy moves in with me, will I get in trouble because he is a minor and I am an adult? And even if I don't get in trouble with the law, do apartment owners have the right to know whether a couple is married or not?

I'm having my doubts because of his kid's age. Please help.

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: At the risk of sounding like a broken record, if you're concerned about your "rights" and "the law," consult a lawyer. (The laws differ from state to state.) You are wise to have second thoughts. A 16-year-old boy who was kicked out by his parents because he did "poorly" in school would probably make a lousy roommate.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law (I'll call her "Nancy") has just had her second miscarriage in two years. Of course we were all very sorry for her because she has no children and she wants a child very much. The problem, however, is Nancy's mother (my mother-in-law). She has asked everyone in the family not to talk about their children or even mention "babies" in front of Nancy because it might upset her. Two of us in the family are pregnant right now, and this request seems ridiculous to me. She has even said that out of consideration to Nancy, if there are going to be any baby showers, they should be done "quietly" so Nancy won't know about them. I would like your opinion on this.

BABY BLUES

DEAR BLUES: Nancy's mother may mean well, but she's protective of Nancy to the point of being unrealistic. Of course you shouldn't allow the subject of babies to dominate the conversation in Nancy's presence, but you also shouldn't go to ridiculous extremes to shield her. "What do you hear from Letter?"

What do they expect me to hear from him? Just before our daughter was married last June, people nearly drove me crazy, asking, "Is her father going to give her away?" And, "Did you invite 'him and his new wife to the wedding'?"

Abby, I'm not the kind of person who can tell people off, but I'd sure like to know how to respond to questions I hate to answer.

LIBRA

DEAR LIBRA: You are not obligated to answer a question just because it's asked. If you feel that the question is in bad taste, simply say, "I'd rather not talk about it" - then change the subject.

Astro-graph

By BERNICE BEDE OBOL

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

When you're formulating plans, don't keep those you need to put in the dark. They'll be glad to cooperate if they're left out.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

There's something you and your mate have talked over and agreed to change. It's up to you today to start the ball rolling.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20)

Someone you're closely associated with will be extremely insistent on having his or her own way today. Little harm will be done if you let them have their way. Find out to whom you're romantically attracted by sending for your copy of Astro-graph letter by making 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Your productivity has more quality and quantity if you're able to perform alone today. It's a departure from your preference to work with partners.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

There's a new hope and promise about you today. You may not sense its import because you're not fully aware of all the ramifications.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Set your sights on better targets now. Raising your standards a bit will stimulate you to greater efforts.

Ask the Jacobows

A California reader wants to know if there is a rule that forbids dummy to look at his partner's hand.

Oswald: "The scientific bidders would start with a three-diamond bid by North. South would rebid three spades. North four club and South six club. He would like his clubs and his singleton heart whereupon North would bid the bidding at six spades."

Jim: "There is also a fairly simple, but elegant way to get to six. North bids five spades right away. This bid asks partner to cue bid if he can take the first heart, to bid six spades if he can take the second one and to pass if he is looking for two quick heart losers."

Unemployment Rate: Obsolete?
 The broad-based U.S. unemployment rate has become an obsolete measure in which to build public policy, according to manpower experts surveyed by the Conference Board. The measure dates back to the 1930s, when the overriding economic problem was unemployment. Today with unemployment compensation, Social Security and food stamps — it is an unreliable barometer of hardship. The unemployment rate also does not deal with the millions who work full-time at poverty wages or with those who have stopped looking for work.

Paquette says surprise due after primary

Flag football is back again

By MAL BARLOW
 East Hartford Reporter

A bone-crushing form of Sunday morning exercise resumed Sunday for many East Hartford and area athletes.

It is called flag football. East Hartford's Flag Football League composed of two divisions with four teams each opened play Sunday at 10 a.m. at McAuliffe Park and Martin Park before small but enthusiastic crowds.

Maple Cafe roared ahead of Irish American Home and stayed ahead to win 40-0 at Martin Park. Pete Bezzini, quarterback, completed 24 of 31 passes including five for touchdowns. Joe Bietski received five passes including two for touchdowns and one for an extra point for Maple. Rick Walz took in another five including a touchdown for a total of 18 yards.

Maple's defense was led by Joe Wilcox, safety, and Dave Larson, linebacker, with three interceptions. Larson took one interception for a 15-yard touchdown.

Athletic Attie edged Woodland Auto 12-6 in a much closer game at McAuliffe Park.

Chris Dunne scored the winning touchdown for Attie on an interception. Bob Beschirer had five in-

The teams have some of the best high school and college players," said John Kershaw, assistant director of the department. "It's good Sunday morning exercise for them."

Kershaw said the men do not wear pads. A tackle is made by grabbing the runner's flag.

"They block pretty solid," he said. "Somebody's always getting shaken up."

But few broken bones have been reported in the tough league's dozen or more years. Most injuries are sprains, he said.

"It's good competition. They have quite a following," Kershaw said.

Paquette says surprise due after primary

By MAL BARLOW

Joseph Paquette said today he thinks Democratic Town Committee regulars may be surprised by his strength with Democratic voters come this Thursday's primary.

More than 100 Paquette supporters canvassed the town trying to contact every registered Democrat eligible to vote in the primary. The choice is either Mayor Richard Blackstone or Paquette to be the party's mayoral nominee in the Nov. 8 town election.

"We got very good reports from them," said Paquette.

His people gave out pamphlets and asked for Paquette votes. Paquette himself appeared at shopping centers to shake hands as the primary approaches.

"I was very well received," he said. "I was surprised at how well received I was."

Party regulars have called Paquette a party maverick. Paquette has done little since forcing the primary to prove false the name. He has made charge after charge of wrongdoing by party people and Blackstone appointees which claim at least conflict of interest problems if not worse.

His support has come from other party mavericks and Republicans who have given up hope a GOP mayoral candidate can loosen Blackstone's grip on the mayor's post his has held for eight years.

One former GOP member who switched parties for Paquette is Rick Bolash. He said, "If a change is to occur, and it must, then it can only come forcibly from within the Democratic Party."

About the local GOP, Bolash said, "The Republican Party is not only not trying to find the answers to the questions raised by Paquette, they don't seem able to find the courage to ask the questions."

Other support has come from town workers of both high and low status, said Paquette.

He said he has been receiving calls from town workers telling him of wrongdoing by their higher-ups. Paquette said he has been trying to get courtroom-strength proof of the claims.

Mayor Blackstone has asked Paquette several times to go to law enforcement agencies if he has reports of wrongdoing by anybody.

Young Dems back mayor

John Logan, president of the East Hartford Young Democrats, said over the weekend he reaffirms his support for Mayor Richard H. Blackstone.

Town Democrats vote Thursday in a party primary to decide the party's candidate for mayor in the Nov. 8 town elections. Blackstone is the Democratic Town Committee nominee. Joseph Paquette, local plumbing contractor and maverick Democrat, has challenged him.

Logan said Blackstone has a fine record of eight years in office. "He is the only reasonable choice in the primary," said Logan.

"Mr. Paquette has based his campaign on wild, irresponsible charges against the incumbent. He has demonstrated a thorough ignorance of the complexities of town government."

The Young Democrats will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Raymond Library. The polls close at 8. The club will discuss plans for the fall elections. All Democrats age 18 to 35 are welcome.

Midgets know how to score

By SHEILA TULLER

After playing four scoreless quarters in last week's Jamboeze, East Hartford's four midget football teams proved Sunday they know how to score.

The Cardinals, Elks, and Vikings won their games while the Mustangs, who scored three times, lost to the Enfield Stars.

In the first home game of the new season, the Cardinals beat the Enfield Lancers 28-14.

The Cardinals B team did all the scoring in the second quarter. Joe Conti ran 28 yards for the first Cardinal touchdown, setting the stage for the rest of the period.

Courtny Lundy added a second touchdown with a 17-yard run. Dave Cushman's pass to Doug Hallquist was good for the extra points.

Cushman later ran for two Cardinals touchdowns. The first was set up when Hallquist recovered a Lancer fumble on the 11 yard line.

Cardinal coach Ray Micoletti commended Rene Kieff, Bob Hetu, Walt Bassett, Mike Bond and the entire B team defensive squad for a fine day's work. The Cardinal defense kept their opponents from scoring until the fourth quarter.

The Elks, 1976 town champions, started their season with a 24-0 win over the Enfield Ramblers.

Gary Rodegher, B team running back, ran 35 yards for the Elks first when Rich Hausner caught Scott Anderson's 25-yard pass. Both attempts for extra points failed.

The A team running back John Rodegher followed in his younger brother's footsteps running 55 yards for his second touchdown of the day. Rodegher's breakthrough from the opponent's defense was one of the high points of the game.

Brian Barrett topped off a day of super play when he intercepted a Rambler pass. This key interception stopped the Enfield team drive.

Elks coach Bob Blake said defensive keys in the day's game were Scott Sirois, John Geres, T.J. Fogarty and Tom Parlante.

The Mustangs' trip to Enfield wasn't as successful. The Stars beat the East Hartford team 28-18. Coach Frank Driscoll called the game a seesaw battle. Mustangs B team running back Frank Gregoire scored twice. Tony Clarke of the A unit ran 44 yards for another touchdown.
