Share scholastic honor

Maureen E. Fitzgerald, of East Catholic High School and Stephen R. Latham of Manchester High School, both seniors, share the honor of having just been named semifinalists in the 1978 National Merit Scholarship competition. The announcement was made this morning. (Herald photo by Larson)

Merit semifinalists named

Two Manchester and several area high school seniors were named National Merit Scholarship semifinalists today in their schools.

In Manchester, the semifinalists are Maureen E. Fitzgerald, of East Catholic High School and Stephen R. Latham of Manchester High School.

Miss Fitzgerald is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fitzgerald of 11 Hickory Dr., East Hartford. Her school activities include membership in the National Honor Society, student council, yearbook staff, choral group, Spanish Club, cross country and track teams. She is also an Honors E student, a staff member of the Echo (school newspaper) and the yearbook. She is vice-president of the school band.

Miss Fitzgerald plans to study modern languages.

Latham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Latham, 103 S. Lakewood Circle. His school activities include membership in the National Honor Society, student assembly, Round Table Singers, Current Affairs Club, Math Tea and Sock 'n Buskin. He was also co-editor of the High School World for two years, an American Field Service (AFS) host brother. This past summer, he was awarded a Sen. Lowell P. Weicker scholarship for study in Europe under the American Institute for Foreign Study program.

Latham plans to study prelaw and computer science.

Other seniors named as semifinalists are as follows:

Hebron—George N. Giacompe and Mark D. Phillips, Rham Senior High School; Rockville—David J. Singer, Rockville High School; South Windsor—Sue E. Marsh and Linda F. Nelson, South Windsor High School.

These semifinalists were among about 15,000 students throughout the United States so designated in the 1978 Merit Scholarship competition.

There were more than one million students enrolled in 17,500 high schools who entered the competition. Semifinalists are the highest-scoring students in each state. They represent the top half of one per cent of the nation's most academically talented young people.

Semifinalists who attain finalist status will compete for at least 1,000 National Merit $1,000 scholarships. Finalists who meet certain qualifications will also be considered for four-year Merit Scholarships to be offered in 1978.

Names of Merit Scholarship winners will be announced next spring.

Bert Lance says charges are innuendos, hearsay

WASHINGTON (UPI)—LaBelle Lance's bank overdrafts in excess of $100,000 in 1974 may have illegally financed the gubernatorial campaign of her husband, Bert Lance, a federal bank regulator testified today.

The testimony from Robert Serino to a Senate committee came as embattled budget director Lance sharply attacked calls for his resignation based on what he called "allegations, innuendos and hearsay."

Serino, enforcement chief at the comptroller of the currency office, said he had discussed Mrs. Lance's overdrafts with the Justice Department.

Serino told the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee his inquiry was based on newspaper interviews with Mrs. Lance in which she allegedly said the overdrafts in her personal account went to Lance's unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for Georgia governor in 1974.

Lance himself will be questioned by the committee Thursday and Friday.

Serino testified that it appeared "certain of LaBelle's overdrafts had gone to the campaign." He said he had discussed the matter with the Justice Department in recent days and that it was his feeling "certain investigation is needed in that area."

Mrs. Lance's overdrafts might have violated a federal law which prohibits national banks from contributing to political campaigns. In order to convict a person for such a violation, it would have to be proved that the overdrafts constituted a willful advance from the bank through Mrs. Lance to the campaign.

Lance said today calls for his resignation are based on "allegations, innuendos, and hearsay," and warned such calls before he can defend himself might harm government's ability to attract executives.

"How do we get people to be willing to serve?" Lance asked reporters outside his home on the eve of his appearance before a Senate committee to answer allegations of improper personal banking practices.

"Scrutiny, investigation — all that's fine," said President Carter's longtime personal friend, who has rejected resignation demands over charges involving big loans and overdrawn checking accounts while he headed two Georgia banks.

"But when you've gone through it, you ought to be able to present your side of the case in a sense of fairness — and be heard out before any decision is made."

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, meanwhile, resumed hearings today with testimony scheduled from seven present and former Justice Department and FBI officials.

In his brief televised exchange with reporters as he left for his office, Lance denied that he was taking direct aim at Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd and several other senators, who have said Lance's effectiveness to run the federal budget has already been destroyed.

"I'm not saying anything about anybody. I'm talking about the whole situation as it relates to the future of our system," said Lance.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., today added his name to the list of those calling for Lance's resignation. "If the Senate knew half as much in January as it knows now, he never would have been confirmed," said Schweiker in a statement.

"I sense the beginning of the same sort of confusion and preoccupation downtown (at the White House) as we saw during Watergate," he said.

Lance, talking to reporters outside his house, said:

"One more time, let me tell you how I feel about that. Because I think this is what this is all about. "If you can take allegations and innuendos and hearsay and everything else...and print them in the paper and show them on television and then say 'that's a fact' — and without having a chance to refute that and have my own day in court — and then be defamed with the charge that because of that my effectiveness has been damaged or crippled, then we're in bad shape in this country."

President Carter and his beleaguered budget director met in private for 30 minutes Tuesday. Neither man would comment on what went on during the meeting.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said later he would be "very surprised" if Carter asked for Lance's resignation.

Fresh and potentially damaging evidence was introduced before the Senate committee on Tuesday.

The drama during the fourth day of Capitol Hill hearings on the Lance affair was supplied by the written testimony of federal bank examiner Charles Stuart.

Connecticut Public Television will pre-empt its regular programming Thursday to provide coverage of the Bert Lance Hearings, starting at 3:30 p.m.

Kansas City flood toll now at least 19 dead

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The deadliest flood waters in the city's history receded today, leaving behind millions of dollars in damages in mangled automobiles, mud-smearred homes and businesses.

The death toll stood at 19 but police feared more bodies might be found trapped in several flooded underground parking lots. Twenty-one persons have been reported missing.

"They just got through pumping a garage out where they found 14 cars, but there were no bodies in them," Sgt. Jim Harmon said today of police operations in the Country Plaza.

"They were really surprised," he said. "They were so afraid they'd find at least one body because the water just smashed into those garages like a tidal wave."

"It happened so fast and it was about the time people would have been getting out of the movies," Harmon said. "This was the big fear — that people panicked and jumped into their cars trying to save them."

Harmon said officials were pumping water out of a few more underground garages and hoped to reach the cars in them by Thursday. The death toll has surpassed the 18 recorded in the city's worst previous disaster, the billion-dollar 1951 flood.

"As of this morning, there were still 21 persons reported missing," Harmon said. "But that number can be misleading. Sometimes people call us when they can't reach a relative right away and then they never call us back when they find them. And they may have had trouble reaching someone right at first because some of the phone lines were down for a little while."

City officials said a flash flood of such magnitude probably would happen in the area only once in 500 years, but mathematical probabilities were of little consolation to the victims of the flooding that began Monday night and spilled its destruction into Tuesday's daylight hours.

At the height of the storm, crests of water 20 feet high surged through residential areas.

"Some of the rivers and streams are still above flood stage today, but there is no serious flooding expected," said Joe Prelec of the National Weather Service.

"There may be some today but it would be of a very minor nature. It's going to be a pleasant mild day with no rain in the picture."

Directors table action on subdivision streets

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors Tuesday night voted to table acceptance of streets in the Manchester West subdivision and criticized the Public Works Department's handling of the matter.

Residents of the area, concerned with repairs that they feel are needed, have spoken against acceptance of the streets.

Town officials last week toured the subdivision and said that the streets, although needing some repairs, did meet town standards and should be accepted.

Tuesday night, however, Asst. Town Manager Charles McCarthy and Town Counsel Victor Moses recommended that acceptance of the streets be tabled. (Town Manager Robert Weiss and Moses both were absent, but Moses sent a letter with his recommendation.)

Board members, many of whom had toured the area, unanimously agreed to table the acceptance until improvements are made.

Members offered criticisms surrounding the street inspections and dealings with the residents of the area.

"The things I saw out there were obvious. Why weren't they obvious to your men who looked at the streets?" Paul Willhide asked Public Works Director Jay Giles.

Director Stephen Penny suggested that the department improve its public relations work. He said that residents of the area tried to find out the minimum width of a driveway required by town regulations.

"It seems that this was an extremely hard piece of information to find out," he said.

Director Vivian Ferguson said that there should be a study of why the problems in the area developed, and Phyllis Jackson proposed that the department improve and possibly expand its inspection procedures.

Water Resurfaces

The board approved a change in Water Department personnel that will permit the department to replace a soon-to-be-vacant water and sewer technician position with a chief filtration operator. The department will continue with five assistant operators and should be able to expand its water testing program, according to what department workers have said.

Discussion on last month's water problem resurfaced at the board meeting.

Joseph Reynolds, the spokesman for residents who were affected by last month's water contamination, asked why he has not received any response on a petition signed by 770 residents. Giles said that he would prepare a response by Thursday.

Mrs. Ferguson also discussed her proposal that residents be informed regularly of results from water tested throughout Manchester.

"It's a matter of alleviating fears," she said.

Penny and Robert Price, however, questioned the proposal.

"Let's knock it off. All we're doing is making life miserable for the people of Manchester by bringing this thing up again," Penny said.

Price compared the situation to deciding whether foods are safe to eat. There is no simple answer.

In other public works-related matters, the board approved an ordinance governing sidewalk and curb repairs. The change eliminates the use of bituminous concrete for sidewalk repairs.

The board amended the ordinance to reduce the proposed cost of repairs to homeowners from 50 to 33 per cent of the total cost.

Also, the board granted Giles permission to spend money for essential work at the Charter Oak and Mt. Nebo refreshment stands.

Giles said that about $1,300 worth of work is needed at Charter Oak to complete bathroom facilities in the stand. A total of $3,400 is needed to complete the Mt. Nebo work, but much of this is nonessential, Giles said.

Giles will spend the needed money from his maintenance budget, and the directors will conduct a public hearing next month to re-allocate funds into that budget.

Normally, a public hearing is held before the money is spent, but Mayor Matthew Moriarty said that it would be senseless not to complete the stands before the upcoming football season. The rest of the board agreed with the proposal.

Suit delays massage law

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

Enforcement of a recently adopted massage parlor ordinance in Manchester will be delayed until after Monday, pending a hearing that day on an injunction, Town Health Director Dr. Alice Turek told the Advisory Board of Health Tuesday afternoon.

The hearing will be in the Hartford County Common Pleas Court.

Owners of seven Hartford massage parlors and one Manchester massage parlor owner contend that the ordinances in the two cities are unconstitutional.

Dr. Turek explained that inspection of the massage parlors and its employees would be difficult and time consuming.

"We would have to check nearly every day on new employees to see that they have permits," she said.

She told the board that there is a "need for the town to act to protect the health and safety in town."

Compared to the requirements for a hairdresser where operators must have 2,000 hours of instruction, there should be similar requirements for a massagist, Dr. Turek said.

"One problem is that there is no real school to go to for training," she said. "We're looking for places to go to for anatomy and physiology. The closest thing to it is a course in occupational therapy at Manchester Community College," she said.

Dr. Turek said that Town Counsel Victor I. Moses does not think the town's ordinance is unreasonable, and will confirm his stand at Monday's hearing along with supporting the suggested fees and schooling requirements.

Dr. Turek said she will contract for the services of Dr. Elizabeth S. Lamb of West Hartford to assist in testing massagist applicants. Similar testing in Florida takes 4½ hours and consists of an oral and written test besides a demonstration.

Dr. Lamb received her M.D. degree from Yale University. She serves as a consultant in several hospitals including the veterans hospitals in Newington and Rocky Hill. She practiced privately for several years.

There are certain physical conditions that could be aggravated by massage, Dr. Turek said. "Certain types of skin disease, phlebitis, and even arthritis would not be helped by massage," she said.

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi. It's that time again, and the first bit of news is that this past Monday we started signing up for our Penn Dutch trip and by 8:45 a.m. we were starting on our second bus. We decided that if we fill the second bus, it will make the trip one week later than the first bus. That means it will go on Monday, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 and 2. In this way it will give everyone a better chance to see and do more things without the worry of sweating out big lines. At this writing we only have 12 seats left on the second bus, and so if you want to join us on this always interesting and exciting trip, you better drop by this week or you may end up on the waiting list.

Speaking of trips, our good friend Paul Ryan has come up with a neat offer for you folks who would like to get away from cold weather that comes our way in January. He has made arrangements to fly with Delta to Fort Lauderdale for 14 fabulous days in the sun. You'll be staying in a super hotel right on the beach, and one good thing is that you stay right there and not traveling or hopping from place to place. For more information, drop by the office and pick up a flyer, and if it's as cold this week as last, it might be just the trip for you.

Setback News here starts with this past Friday when we had 44 players for our setback games and the winners were: Ernestine Donnelly, 137; Marjorie McLain, 132; Mina Reuther, 131; Martin Bakstan, 125; Violet Dion, 122; Bernice Martin, 121; Esther Anderson, 119; Albert Oullette, 118; Felix Jesania, 116; Joe Windsor, 115 and Mabel Loomis, 115. Golf Then on Monday morning we had 38 players out on the golf links and the better scores were turned by Vince Porter, 46; Al Bourret and Ed Scott, 48; Hector Frost, 49; and Herb LaQuette, Al Petke and Ernie Segerberg, 50. Play will continue next Monday morning starting around 8.

Pinochle In the afternoon we had 52 players for our pinochle games with the following winners: Jennie Fogarty, 655; Mina Reuther, 798; Fritz Wilkinson, 797; Lillian Lewis, 787; Rene Maire, 786; Marjorie McLain, 787; Martha LaBate, 746; Andy Noske, 746; Olive Houghaling, 744; Archie Houghaling, 740; Frank Gademski, 740; Robert Schubert, 733; Clara Hemingway, 727. Tuesday morning we started our season of square dancing class under the guidance and capable instruction of our favorite caller Happy "Hal" Petke. We had a nice turnout; however, we still have room for both the beginner as well as those who have been square dancing. All you need to do is drop by next Tuesday morning about 9:45 and join right in. There is a very nominal fee of $1 charged for each lesson. Hal tells me he has quite a number of special dances lined up, and also a chance to dance with seniors from other towns. It sure is a lot of fun, and you're sure to have a good time. So come on down this coming Tuesday.

Oil painting Speaking of the start of programs, come next Tuesday morning from 10 to noon we start our very popular oil painting class. This is open to beginners with no experience at all as well as some of our advanced members. If you think you'd like to join, just drop by this coming Tuesday and our good friend Kay Hendrickson will be happy to get you started. Also on Wednesday morning, we will be starting our crew embroidery class. Mrs. King will be with us again and has some new ideas. This class is also open to beginners as well as advanced. So drop by and see what it's all about. Then don't forget our ceramic classes start on Thursday morning, from 9 to 10:30 our beginners class, and from 10 to 11:30 for our advanced group.

Meals start Some good news for you folks as we will be starting our meals program next week. Monday, Wednesday and Friday we will be serving a tasty lunch, and on Thursday it will be our hot meal and meal on Wheels. Julie Patulak will be in charge of the program this season and will have help from Mrs. Helen Winters, and our popular students will be back with us. By the way, with our hot meals on wheels we are in dire need of some volunteers to deliver the meals to shut-ins. If we can get a decent number of volunteers, we will be able to set up a schedule so that we will not need to call on the same people every time. If you think you can spare no more than one half hour around noontime on a Thursday to prepare a meal, then please call our office 645-5310; we sure will appreciate it and the shut-ins will be very grateful. Because we are not serving meals this week, we haven't planned on any program for tomorrow except that we still can play shuffleboard from 9 to 4 p.m.

Brown's trip Things are shaping up for our Brown's trip the end of this month and we will be telling you the time we plan on leaving in one of our columns real soon. Meanwhile, don't forget that we have a few seats left (at this writing) on the second bus for the Penn Dutch trip and we also have flyers available explaining what the trip is all about. Our good friend and popular bus driver Jim Uccello is now recuperating at his home, 140 Davis Dr., East Hartford. He wishes to thank everyone for sending him so many cards while he was under a very serious operation, and feels that your prayers went a long way in making the operation a success. It will be a long time or taking it easy for Jim, but he is grateful to be home and hopes to be seeing everyone before too long.

'Project Stormfury' waits for the right hurricane

By MAT HEW T. KENNY
CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) - Weather scientists of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's "Project Stormfury" are waiting for the right kind of Atlantic Ocean hurricane to come along. Besides launching the most exhaustive "inside" studies of tropical storms ever attempted, they hope to "seed" one of them this season - using newly developed technology - to get an idea of how much of a storm's power can be sapped. Weakening a hurricane, even by only 10 to 15 per cent, could save millions of dollars in damage and countless lives, they believe. That is the reason for Project Stormfury's research. A small "air force" of five big planes is standing by at Miami International Airport waiting to take weather researchers into the heart of the storms. The planes are crammed with electronic equipment including digitized radar systems never before used in airborne storm research, according to Dr. Robert Sheets, chief of hurricane research at NOAA's national hurricane and experimental meteorology laboratory. "With these five planes we intend to monitor at least one hurricane continuously for as much as 60 hours at three levels," said Sheets, who has flown through 150 storms. "We will cover the area near the surface of the ocean, at the middle level and at the top of the storm simultaneously." "These systems, combined with scans every three minutes by the weather satellite, will provide scientists with literally millions and perhaps billions of pieces of data," he said. The first two hurricanes of the 1977 season formed over the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico and the third, Clara, developed in the Atlantic east of North Carolina last week. Sheets said the planes studied the first one, Anita, and got "a lot of good data." What researchers are looking for is a better understanding of the structure and dynamics of tropical cyclones and their potential for modification, according to Sheets. By seeding a storm with silver iodide particles, scientists can modify its maximum wind speeds, he said. But how much of a wind drop can be achieved is still unknown.

Sheets said if the "right" storm comes along this season it will be seeded for 8-10 hours continuously. Sheets said no experiments will be made with any storm which has more than a 10 per cent chance of being within 50 nautical miles of land 24 hours after being seeded.

Speeder goes metric

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (UPI) - Robert Adams doesn't mind switching to the metric system. It saved him from paying a fine for speeding. Adams, 22, of South Hadley avoided the fine recently when he told Hampshire District Court Judge Alvertus J. Morse he thought his motorcycle's speedometer was measuring kilometers per hour instead of miles per hour. Adams told Morse he thought he was going only 50 kilometers per hour (30 m.p.h.) in a 40 m.p.h. zone. Instead he was traveling 50 m.p.h., police said. The judge laughed through much of the testimony and then placed the charge on file without a fine.

Environmental good news

Mother Nature is apparently tougher and more resilient than we think, at least as far as oil spills are concerned.

A study by Massachusetts Institute of Technology has found that the fragile ecologies of coastal areas can survive and, given enough time, recover from the effects of this kind of pollution.

There have never been more massive oil spills than occurred during World War II. In the first six months of 1942 alone, tankers sunk by German U-boats dumped more than 3.4 million barrels of oil and gasoline off the Atlantic coast.

This is five times more oil than was involved in history's worst single spill, the Torrey Canyon disaster of England in 1967, and 20 times the cargo carried by the Argo Merchant, which broke up off Massachusetts last December.

The MIT study, which was funded by a grant from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, focused on two areas hit by the wartime spills: Ocracoke Island, N.C., where more than 160,000 barrels came ashore, and northern New Jersey coast waters, which were sheared with 264,000 barrels.

The researchers found that in both cases, "regional wildlife and economy (fishing) survived with minimal difficulty."

This is immensely encouraging, but no cause for complacency. What it really means is that the only reason we did not long ago damage vast stretches of the world's coastlines beyond repair is not because of human wisdom but thanks to sheer dumb luck.

There are limits to the environment's capacity to absorb and rebound from human abuse. If we have fortunately not exceeded them in the case of oil spills, we may be pressing dangerously close in other areas.

Cousin Juniper says he finds it hard to be too critical of Budget Director Bert Lance's financial manipulations.

Juniper also writes he is a bit amazed at the way the ultra conservatives seem to accept Ronald Reagan's predictions of national disaster if the Panama Canal treaties are ratified.

A thought to ponder: Saturday the State Department of Social Services issued a report to Gov. Ella Grasso criticizing the state nursing home industry for allegedly padding their bills to the state by including among other things, expenses for attending out-of-state conventions. The governor presumably read the report early this week after her return from the National Governors' Conference in Detroit — which is a taxpayer-paid convention of sorts.

We wonder if out-of-state conventions are profitable to state employees, why it isn't profitable to the nursing home industry. Who knows, they might learn of ways to cut costs and therefore state reimbursements.

It will take more than riding a bus to explain away this double standard.

If the U.S. Senate has its way, Detroit will have to start making cars that get better mileage beginning with a minimum of 16 mpg in 1980 and rising to 21 mpg by 1985.

Windham High School, over Willimantic way, is starting a program for parents which, among other things will show parents how to build a toy when a child gets bored with Christmas gifts.

Obviously, the people who dreamed up this $128,000 program don't know kids or have forgotten kids don't get bored with Christmas gifts — they break them — even the unbreakable kind.

We'd suggest that parents don't need to know how to make a toy as much as they need to know how to: 1. Keep a toy electric train from derailling and the tracks from coming apart short of nailing them to the floor. 2. To unjam the toy record player record slot of a peanut butter and jelly sandwich, a Jack and Jill Magazine and, of course, a phonograph record.

3. To be able to hear what Dolly answers when her young mistress talks to her. (Did you know the "mama" mechanism in a doll has 3,978 different meanings in the English language alone and that doesn't include baby talk.)

4. To explain to siblings it is not necessary to conduct an inventory of all the toys they have acquired over the years every hour or so in the living room.

At our house, we have a person who could have told those Willimantic people how to save that $128,000 for something more important.

In our little matriarchy, any toy left unattended for a period of time requiring more than two requests to be picked up and put away — was shelved where the siblings could not get at it. This is based on a theory of hers that all children are bored with everything in time and deprivation not substitution is the answer.

Besides, like most mothers, she was doing all the toy building now she wanted to — or probably had time for.

Besides, every child has the right to be bored just as much as any adult. The problem is not eliminating boredom but learning to live with it — within reason.

As for handling children who scribble on wallpaper, another thing the Complete Family Center intends to address itself to; we remember how our mother handled the situation.

Our artistic efforts were rewarded with a pat on the back — at a rather low point which made sitting rather painful.

Crime and punishment

The Herald's Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — In September 1975 a local man walked up to a 21-year old college student in a minivan's van from Pennsylvania and plunged a 12-inch knife into him, slaying the stranger.

His reason — he hated white people — apparently seemed understandable enough to the judge he appeared before the next day. So the judge, satisfied that the accused killer would not run away, immediately released him from jail to hunt the hounds of justice until arraignment.

That action brought an unusual howl of protest from Capitol Hill and a flurry of proposed legislation to alter the district's bail system. Although it wasn't changed, there is similar pressure again today in Washington. It stems in part from the seizure of 132 hostages, and killing of one person, by the Hanafi Muslims earlier this year. Their leader, Hamas Abdul Khalis, was also released immediately by authorities until his appearance in court.

Intent reasonable
The district's bail system is closely patterned after the federal Bail Reform Act of 1968. Passed with reasonable intent of putting poor defendants on an equal footing with more wealthy ones, that act minimizes the use of bonds and provides that judges must consider only one factor in deciding whether to release suspects after their arrest: Whether they're likely to show up for trial. Only in a case of murder can a judge detain a suspect without bond — and even then it's at his discretion.

Individual examples furnished Scripps League Newspapers by Lt. Hersey include that of one local man who has been arrested 25 times. The man's record includes separate offenses for which he was arrested on May 12, 1976; July 9, 1976; July 20, 1976; Jan. 12, 1977. Finally, on Jan. 28, he was sentenced to five months in jail.

This bitter comment from U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart Jr.: "...If a defendant promised me he was going to murder three persons, I would have to let him go on bail."

Therefore, we must presume he'll show up again and so he should be released until time for sentencing."

Barcelta can be excused if he sounds a bit cynical: He represented the government recently in seeking a $250,000 bond for Paul D. Shepherd, who allegedly planned to kidnap industrialist J. Willard Marriott or his wife. Shepherd's bond instead was reduced to $20,000 — the amount of equity in his home — and he's now on the streets of Washington pending arraignment.

Reform of the Bail Reform Act, like mother, apple pie and the flag, is becoming a favorite talking point of politicians here. One can only guess how many more serious crimes will have to be committed before their talk will turn to action.

Many prior arrests
A study by the Metropolitan Police Department shows that these 700 persons, as of March of this year, have also been arrested at least 888 times for prior criminal activity. In other words, it is known that they have been arrested for committing a total of 1,588 criminal offenses — yet they continue to glide through the capital's revolving door criminal justice system.

Reform of the Bail Reform Act, like mother, apple pie and the flag, is becoming a favorite talking point of politicians here. One can only guess how many more serious crimes will have to be committed before their talk will turn to action.

Thought

"You made my day!"
Have you ever said that to anyone? When somebody pays you a compliment or thanks you for something we feel like saying, "You made my day!"

But the truth is that the Lord has made our day: All the struggle and duties, possibility and beauty, are given us. ("This is the day which the Lord has made".) (Psalm 118:24).

Sometimes we feel like turning our back on all that a day presents, but because the Lord has made it, we can know that the way we live this day can have everlasting meaning.

Thought

"Why do they call it the 'Oval Office' when they seem to be going in circles?"

The quieter Americans

The worlds of a once-popular song, of a vintage older than we care to remember, admonished: "Milkman, keep them bottles quiet!"

The early-morning milkman, of course, is a vanished part of Americana, along with his noisy glass bottles (not to mention the thick cream that used to float on top). But all manner of old and new aural disturbances to urban tranquility continue to plague us.

Fortunately, we no longer need complain in song; there's somebody who can keep the "milkman" quiet. Who else but the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency?

In the latest of a series of measures designed to reduce the ear pollution that assails Americans, the EPA has just proposed regulations governning trash collection trucks. Specifically, the rules apply to the large compactors mounted on garbage trucks and call for noise reduction in their operation of 50 per cent by 1982.

Presumably, trash handlers would still be free to bring garbage cans against the sides of the trucks and against the street, curb, driveway or what have you.

The EPA has already issued or proposed noise control regulations for portable air compressors, bulldozers and small and medium trucks. Coming up soon, it says, are rules for buses, motorcycles, pavement breakers, rock drills and lawnmowers.

Some day it will be so quiet in America you'd be able to hear a milk bottle drop — if anybody was delivering one.

Maybe they will settle for Texas

WASHINGTON — Under Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and now Jimmy Carter, our biggest problem with Communist China has been, and continues to be, an apparently congenial determination to toe too blasted nice to the Peking crowd.

On their visits to that dictatorship of a selected proletariat, Nixon and Ford did everything but kiss the feet of assorted Chinese big shots. Now we have Deputy Prime Minister Teng Hsiao-ping telling the AP that Secretary of State Cyrus discussed setting up a U.S. liaison mission in Taiwan and a full diplomatic mission in Peking.

Proposal rejected

Teng said the Chinese rejected Vance's proposal — and why shouldn't they? If Washington is willing to break off full diplomatic relations with Nationalist China, the Red Chinese naturally figure that such eagerness signals an American willingness to do practically anything to climb into diplomatic bed with Peking.

So the Red Chinese can wait, an exercise they do very well. They know Carter is under pressure from the Establishment to buckle under to their demand for complete abandonment of Taiwan. Unlike the U.S., Peking is in no hurry to sign on the dotted line. In the diplomatic game, the player who tries too hard to please usually can be sold a gold brick.

Chinese constant
It is not surprising, then, to find

Andrew Tully

Teng telling the AP that the Chinese rejected Vance's proposal for establishing a liaison mission in Taiwan because it would mean continued diplomatic links between the United States and Nationalist China. Teng reflects the constant Chinese position that they will settle for nothing less than the whole ball of wax. That's what comes of being too sweet to a bunch of tough politicians who employ patience as a weapon against patriots.

Nowhere is this intractable toughness more evident than in Teng's assertion that the American side had created the impression after Vance's visit that the Red Chinese

If one savors the perverse, Teng's remarks are refreshing. After all those dulcet murmurs from the State Department that progress had been made during Vance's visit, Teng has set his government's position straight. He has told us friendly Americans that things are right back where they were before Nixon, Ford, and Vance made their pilgrimages to Peking, figuratively bearing gold, frankincense and myrra a Sunday.

Directors voice attitudes on salaries

One member of the Manchester Board of Directors has endorsed the idea of a study to evaluate mid-management salaries. Another member feels the town employees have to realize that employment in the public sector sometimes means salary sacrifices.

The two board members — Republican Paul Willihde and Democrat Phyllis Jackson — were asked for comment on a story that appeared in last Thursday's issue of The Herald.

In that story, some town hall employees were quoted as criticizing the board's approach to personnel matters.

One worker said, "They don't seem to appreciate what we do. They sometimes act like we're machines." Also, Jay Giles, director of public works, said that he felt a study should be done of salaries for mid-management personnel and department heads. He said that some supervisors are making less than the people they supervise.

Willihde, who is vice-president of personnel and industrial relations for the manufacturing division of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, agrees with Giles' suggestion.

The board is going about this issue of salaries for mid-management personnel in a hit-or-miss fashion, Willihde said.

He suggested that the town consider hiring a private consultant to review the salary situation and offer a long-term solution.

There was also some criticism of the board because it recently denied four reclassifications.

Willihde feels that there are too many reclassifications that are brought about by the directors. "They have a labor-grade structure and they don't like to live with it," he said. The town seeks reclassifications for employees who should be moved to another position rather than having the present job reclassified, he said.

"It looks like they're pushing people up via the reclassification system. That can lead to trouble," he said. Mrs. Jackson, who has frequently spoken out about personnel matters, said that the reclassifications were denied because of a recent letter to the board from Town Manager Robert Weiss. The letter said that the town could face a serious 1977-78 deficit, perhaps as large as $1 million.

She said that she and other directors do not feel the budget problems are that severe. She pointed to the 1976-77 fiscal year, when the town administration sounded deficit warnings and the budget still finished with a surplus.

But, the letter from Weiss has left

The Cutting Edge of Progress

Technology is the cutting edge of human progress. In almost every sphere of activity, the application of technology has produced measurable improvements in the lives of people everywhere.

More leisure, more prosperity, more jobs, more food, more transport, more freedom, better health care — these advances have all come from technological innovation. And technology can be put to work to raise our standards of living still higher and bring solutions to many of the problems facing us.

Take energy. Technology cannot create new petroleum reserves, but it can help us make the best use of those we have. And it can create alternative sources of energy.

One effort [by United Technologies' Power Systems Division in South Windsor] is directed at developing a new breed of generator that produces electricity through an electrochemical reaction, without combustion. This generator is called a fuel cell. It is quiet, clean, and more efficient than conventional generating systems, wringing up to 30 percent more electricity from a unit of fuel, and at less cost, than conventional fossil fuel-fired powerplants.

Converting the nation's vast stores of coal to liquid and gaseous fuels is getting serious attention. But even the hundreds of years of supplies now in the ground are not renewable.

That is why solar energy, inexhaustible in supply, is being pursued so ardently by scientists. The technology to put the sun to work already exists. The real task is advancing that technology to make solar energy economically affordable.

Further out in time is the promise of creating and harnessing on earth the same reaction taking place in the sun — thermonuclear fusion — and generating power with the immense energy released.

One scientific team [at United Technologies' Research Center in East Hartford] has already produced temperatures of ten million degrees by striking a particle containing hydrogen with a laser beam and has contained the energy produced in a magnetic field for one one-hundredth of a second.

Researchers now must persist in their efforts to attain temperatures of more than 100 million degrees in order to produce a fusion reaction. Then they must solve the problem of sustaining and confining that reaction to produce useful power. Without such technological progress, much of the world faces dwindling energy supplies — with consequent adverse effects on the lives of millions of people.

Technology, effectively applied and managed, can continue to enrich life, help protect the environment, and conserve natural resources.

Nuke power cheaper in Connecticut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Electricity generated by nuclear power plants in Connecticut, a pioneer in the atomic power field, is much cheaper than power produced from conventional sources, the state's top utility regulator told Congress today.

Albert J. Kieban, chairman of the Connecticut Public Utilities Control Authority, said in 1976 the average cost per kilowatt hour for nuclear-generated electricity was 14 cents. He said that covered the cost of nuclear plant construction, operation and maintenance, and fuel charges.

"The average cost of fuel alone for oil-fueled generation was 2.1 cents per kilowatt hour," he told the House Government Operations subcommittee on the environment and energy.

But he said the "relatively low" construction cost of Connecticut's nuclear plants was not possible now, and such facilities currently cost "many times" more to build.

Kieban said electric bills for consumers of Connecticut's two largest power suppliers — Connecticut Light and Power Co. and Hartford Electric Light Co. — increased 46 percent and decreased 14 percent respectively in 1976. A comparison with other regions of the country showed average increases of 3.7-17.5 per cent for the same period, he said.

A significant reason why the price of electricity did not increase during this period is attributed to a nuclear unit, Millstone II, coming on line," he said.

He said increased use of nuclear power by Northeast Utilities, which owns HECLO and CL&P, was the reason the PUCR ordered a cut of $2.1 million in the firm's rates.

ENCONO concept gains support in Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New York Gov. Hugh Carey says a proposal allowing creation of regional energy corporations in the Northeast and other parts of the country is winning support in the nation's capital.

Carey said Tuesday Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., of the Senate Energy Committee had agreed to introduce a bill to authorize the Energy Corporation of the Northeast (ENCONO) and similar regional corporations elsewhere.

In addition, Carey said, New York Sens. Jacob K. Javits and Daniel P. Moynihan would sponsor the legislation.

Carey, Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso and other officials of the two states met with Jackson to seek his backing of the corporations intended to promote and coordinate federal, state and private efforts to cope with energy problems.

The New York governor told UPI there also had been "a very good reaction" to the proposal at meetings with administration officials, including Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, Federal Energy Administrator John O'Leary and White House aide Jack Watson.

Carey expressed confidence that Congress would go along with the plan.

"It's needed," he said. "It's vitally needed."

Earlier in the day, former Vice President New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller called in Senate testimony for a $100 billion national Energy Development Corporation to seek new energy resources as an alternative to OPEC oil.

Carey dismissed Rockefeller's proposal as an old and costly idea that emerged during the Ford Administration.

The regional plan, he said, had grown out of meetings of the National Governors Conference as a way to get the federal government, the states and the private sector to work together.

The draft bill proposed by the governors would create the Northeast corporation but they said it would also pave the way for similar regional corporations elsewhere.

At least three states would have to join the corporation by the end of 1978 and put up a capital investment of $1 per capita.

The corporation would have five federal directors appointed by the President. Each member state would have a director appointed by its governor and private investors would be represented by two additional directors.

The corporation would make loans, guarantees or equity investments for up to one-half the cost of energy projects for which sufficient private capital was not available.

The corporation's obligations would be guaranteed by the U.S. Treasury.

Projects that might be financed by the regional corporation include coal conversion, energy conservation and storage projects, power production and transmission, and the manufacture of energy-related products or equipment.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 34-year-old woman earning a top salary as an executive, but when it comes to managing my personal life, I'm a dummy.

For the last two years, I've had this 28-year-old fellow living with me. I'm hooked on him because he's so young because he hates to get up in the morning, so I've been supporting him. My friends tell me to kick him out, but I can't bring myself to because he's a wonderful company and I really enjoy living with him.

He admires to seeing other girls while I'm at work and insists that there's nothing wrong with it as long as we're not married.

Abby, he wants to marry me, and says that once we're married he'll stop up, get a job and work steady, but I'm leery.

Half of me says, "Marry him" and the other half says, "Don't." What do you say?

TORN APART

DEAR ABBY: Listen to the half with the braze in it and don't marry him.

DEAR ABBY: My parents were divorced when I was 5, and from that time on, I lived with my mother. Mom married Jake when I was 8, and he has been great to me. I never saw my real father (Lloyd) much until I graduated from high school because he also married again and was busy with the children by his second wife.

Now I'm 21, and in the last couple of years I've gotten very close to Lloyd. Maybe it's my blood relative, but I have a special feeling for him.

I'm getting married soon and deep down in my heart I want Lloyd to give me away, but when I think of him, she hit the ceiling. She said Jake would be crushed, and besides I'd be paying for my wedding and he should give me away.

Someone suggested I have both Lloyd and Jake give away, but I'm afraid it might look like I couldn't make up my mind. Can you advise me?

NOVEMBER BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: It's not uncommon for a bride's natural fear and apprehension to share the honor. I think it would look beautiful. But how it would "look" is not as important as how it would "feel." And under the circumstances, I think everyone (especially you) will feel better if no feelings are hurt.

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column touched me deeply. It was from a woman who was strongly attracted to a man, but resisted the temptation to have an affair with him because although she was single, he was not.

I had a similar experience. I met the man I thought was perfect for me. It was mutual, but we were both married. I couldn't run because I worked close with him.

I often dreamed of a romantic encounter with him, but I knew it was impossible. Over the years I struggled with my feelings, but I managed to keep them under control.

We have developed a warm and friendly relationship that means so much more to me than a sneaky affair that could have destroyed my marriage and his.

In a society where sex is cheap, and people grab whatever they want to matter whom they hurt, I've found something special, and it will stay that way—because God has given me strength in times of weakness.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald Jacoby was playing rubber bridge in Indianapolis back in 1934. Before the game started there had been a discussion of four- Trump conventions. Jacoby said that he had tried the Culbertson one and found it most unsatisfactory.

Indianapolis hosts told him as a young Hoosier insurance man named Easley Blackwood had invented a convention for you today. If you're invited to participate in an endeavor, do give it a long, hard look.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's not good to show partiality, but today you have to, if so, favor persons with whom you have long and lasting attachments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be contemplating reupholstering your environment today. You wish to choose appointments of high quality.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You know the right things to say today, and people instinctively know your word is like blue chip stocks. If you say it, you'll do it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be alert today that something you may be interested in value far beyond what the seller realizes. It may be exciting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In serious situations today, don't let your humor desert you. It's OK to be firm, but make an attempt to maintain your perspective.

Berry's World

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You do very well with new projects at this time, but don't feel traditional methods won't apply just because the applications are new.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) To achieve your goals today, put a moderator on your drives. Moderation is the key to moving ahead. Make haste slowly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep in touch with those important to your mate, and even though they may be distant, Don't make it "out of sight, out of mind."

Fine levied for zoning violation

A Manchester resident recently was fined $35 for a charge that stemmed from an alleged zoning violation. Ernest Machell, zoning enforcement officer, said.

The fine was levied against Robert Fastigi of 905 Tolland Tpke. Residents in the area have protested that car repairs were being done illegally at the address.

Fastigi was asked to appear in court to answer the zoning violation charge. He was fined for a charge equivalent to illegal parking, Machell said. Town regulations permit only

Town considers museum for John Q. Public

WESTFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — If you want your name up in lights but would settle for having it preserved by a museum, this western Massachusetts city might have just what you've been looking for.

City officials are trying to sell the name of a proposed new historical museum and for a mere $200,000—and providing there are no conditions connected with your moniker—you can name the facility.

Mayor John J. Rhodes thinks his idea is a good way to raise money for the museum's operation and that a corporation or estate may wind up being the eventual buyer.

"Obviously there are some problems. We wouldn't want the name of Sam's building, for example," he said Tuesday. "But while local governments are not known for

New Haven in spotlight with Thursday primary

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Liberal Mayor Frank Logue, who won the job by beating the political machine in a Democratic primary, Thursday finds himself the target of conservative challenger Biagio DiLieto.

DiLieto was police chief until resigning this summer to challenge Logue, who won his job in 1975 by unseating three-term incumbent conservative Mayor Bartholomew Guida in a Democratic primary.

Democrats outnumber Republicans 7-1 in New Haven so the primary winner is the big favorite to capture City Hall, which the GOP has not won in a generation.

But Republicans, noting the bitterness of the Logue-DiLieto campaign, hope GOP nominee Frank Mongillo can capitalize on a split in Democratic ranks.

A major factor in the election has been allegations New Haven police conducted illegal wiretaps from 1966 to 1971. DiLieto said he authorized one of them, but thought it was legal. He claims Logue has conducted a "vendetta" against him on that issue.

During his two years in office Logue has alienated segments of his party, especially the Democrats' more conservative elements.

Logue is a Democrat traditionally has been in the influential Yale University community and in black wards. But New Haven Democratic Chairman Bill Jones — who is black — is supporting DiLieto and it is unclear

Six named to key state posts

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso has named six second-level officials to key state government reorganization which begins taking effect Oct. 1.

Mrs. Grasso Tuesday named five deputy commissioners for the newly created Department of Administrative Services and one undersecretary for the Office of Policy and Management.

Those two departments will pave the way for the massive reorganization which takes effect July next year.

The reorganization, when completed, will consolidate the more than 20 state boards, departments and commissions into 22 superagencies.

Heading the administrative services department, which will handle all state personnel matters, data processing, purchasing and buildings, is Daniel F. McKinnon of Suffield. The present Finance Commissioner, Anthony Milano, of Bridgeport, will head OPM. Both appointments were announced previously.

Two of the new deputy administrative services commissioners are presently serving as commissioners of departments that exist as separate agencies now, but will be merged into that department under reorganization.

Sandra Bilton of West Hartford, currently state personnel commissioner, will take over as deputy commissioner for personnel.

School study to begin

Bolton
The Advisory Planning Committee for the Future of Bolton Schools will begin its study of the town's school system on Thursday, Sept. 15, at 8 p.m. at the Bolton Center.

The agenda includes introduction of members, reasons for the committee and its charge by the Board of Education, the approach to be taken, the relation between the committee and the press and public, and an open forum. The group will also break into workshops for subcommittees.

James Marshall, a member of the Board of Education, is chairman of the committee.

Representing citizens at large are Ernest Shephard, Wallace Kelly, Robert Murdock, Andrew Maneggia, Jacqueline Abbott, Paul Edberg, John Roberts, H. Virginia Butterfield and Douglas Cheney.

Other members and groups they represent are Aloysius Ahearne, Board of Selectmen; Shirley Potter, Board of Finance; Barbara Stephens, Parent-Teacher Organization; Joseph Fleming and Stigmars Blamberg, school administration; also, Thomas Sheridan and Beverley Battistoni, teaching staff; Lori Franz and Joseph Stephens, high school students, and Kurt Cowles, high school graduate. A representative of the Bolton High School Parents Group will be selected next week.

School board action
The school board heard transportation, approved a leave of absence and made two appointments at its last meeting.

Sara Winter, art teacher, was granted a leave of absence for personal reasons from September through December.

Joann Levy was appointed a full-time guidance intern for Bolton Elementary Center School.

Jane Kirsh was appointed a part-time guidance counselor for Bolton High School.

The school board was told by Clark Transportation Co. that Thomas Clark of Colchester will be supervisor and dispatcher of Bolton school buses.

School Supt. Raymond Allen said he received about 20 calls from parents seeking changes in bus routes. Only two were denied. Allen said copies of bus regulations were given to all students. He said there were no problems with bus behavior the first couple of days.

Louis Cloutier, board member, also said there have been few problems with the buses.

Parents in the Mt. Sunmer area again expressed concern over their children having to walk to the foot of Mt. Sunmer and Dean Dr. to get to bus.

Cloutier said the reason is safety—the hill is too dangerous for the bus. When the area is developed more, the board will reconsider the situation, he said.

'911' proposal faces obstacles

South Windsor
The many telephone exchanges within the South Windsor boundaries appear to be a major obstacle in the installation of a 911 emergency telephone number.

Town Manager Paul Talbot met recently with John Sullivan, account manager for the Southern New England Telephone Co., to discuss the possibility of installing the number to area residents could simplify dial the three numbers to reach emergency help from the Police Department.

Talbot said the problems come about because the western half of South Windsor is in the East Hartford exchange (telephone numbers beginning with 269 and 528), which also includes parts of Manchester and East Windsor.

The eastern part of the town is in the Manchester-Wapping exchange (644) which also includes parts of Manchester, Vernon and East Windsor.

Persons in the 644 area, dialing 911, would be calling the South Windsor Police Department. Manchester residents in the 644 area would have to dial the full Manchester telephone number in order to reach residents to dial 911 and reach their own police department.

Talbot said if South Windsor, East Hartford and Manchester all proceed with the 911 emergency number, a method of relaying the calls would have to be developed.

If South Windsor installs the 911 number, only the eastern half of town would be in the system. South Windsor residents outside of the 644 exchange, and residents in neighboring communities in the 644 exchange, would have to continue to dial their existing police department numbers.

Bulletin board
The new South Windsor Republican Club will hold a meeting for approval of the new town charter. The meeting will be tonight at 8 at the Timothy Edwards School library. All Republicans are urged to attend.

There will be a newspaper collection at the Wapping Community Church Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 17 and 18. This includes all kinds of magazines, cardboard and paper. Proceeds go to missions.

The South Windsor Square Dance Club will have its annual "Fun Night" tonight from 7:30 to 10 at the Wapping Elementary School. Don Swift will be teaching. The event is open to the public.

Public hearing set on rental aid plan

Vernon
The Vernon Town Council will conduct a public hearing next Tuesday on a proposal to amend the town's housing assistance plan to make it easier for a private developer to convert the U.S. Envelope Co. factory into elderly housing.

The Planning Commission voted Tuesday night to recommend amendments to the assistance plan which would allow the Barkan Development Corp. to participate in federal rent subsidy programs.

Barkan is seeking federal rent subsidies for tenants of its planned 115-unit apartment complex in the vacant factory on W. Main St.

The assistance plan estimates that there would be no rehabilitated housing units available for rent subsidies this year. The amendment would change the number to 115.

Federal agencies use the town assistance plan as a gauge for subsidies. Under the federal subsidy program, qualified tenants would pay up to 25 per cent of their income for rent, and the government would pick up the rest of the tab.

Frannie Heintz will call for the Vernon Square Dance Club in dancing Friday from 8 to 11 p.m. at Vernon Elementary School, Rt. 30. Rounds will be cued by Dick and Kay Yellen. Square dance lessons start Thursday, from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Vernon Center Middle School.

Seven student teachers work at Andover school

Andover Elementary School now has seven student teachers from Eastern Connecticut State College. Education classes will be working in Grades 2; Debra Batchelder, Grade 1; Adeline Martone, Grade 2; Mark Maruscak, Grade 3; Albert Young, Grade 6, and Alberto Pokrob, Grade 1.

David Kravet, principal, asks parents to return emergency cards, insurance forms and SWISH permission slips as soon as possible.

Parents are also asked to prepare for lunch, ice cream and milk for the week each Monday, if possible.

Reading placement tests will be administered to students in Grades 2 to 6 during the next two weeks.

During the summer, two students earned reading certificates. They were Jeff Bronke and Kathy McCall.

GOP fundraiser
Republican Town Chairman Yio Anson said a fall fundraiser was discussed at a meeting last week. He said a few committee members showed up for the meeting.

"We didn't do too much, but our next meeting should prove to be more exciting," Anson said.

Silver Tea planned
A Silver Tea will be held at the Andover Congregational Church social room Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m.

The silver tea service given in memory of Mrs. Lillian Hamilton will be used. She was a faithful member of the church for many years.

The tea is being sponsored by the athletic director's post to remain on the coaching lines, noted this week that no less than 40 young men who captained their high school football teams are numbered among the 94 players still in uniform. Yale had 100 turn out, the largest ever.

Fifteen sons of one-time college football players are sprinkled on the roster of the 1977 Blues, including Tim Spears, whose father Bob captained the 1951 team coached by the late Herman Hickman.

White once a party for Yale. Brown has won three of the last four meetings and the last two.

First council primary Thursday

Coverly
County will have its first Town Council primary Thursday as Joyce Carrilli challenges the five candidates endorsed by the Democratic Town Committee an last month's Democratic caucus.

The polls will be open from noon to 8 p.m., with the First District voting at the Town Hall and the Second District voting at the Coventry Grammar School.

The endorsed candidates are Harold Kanehan, Richard Giggey, Harold Crane and Patricia White, a member of the Board of Town Review.

Mrs. Carrilli, wife of former Councilman Albert Carrilli, has been endorsed by the Coventry Young Democrats along with Mrs. White, President Sylvia Bolduc attributed the success of many club projects to "the tireless efforts of people like Joyce Carrilli."

Mrs. Bolduc added that the Young Democrats are excited about the primary. "We find it refreshing in these apathetic political times that a person feels strongly enough about an elected office to singly oppose the party organization to obtain the office," she said.

The challenger has been conducting a door-to-door campaign aimed at gathering the opinions of townspokes about local issues. The primary battle has split the Democratic Town Committee, as several of Mrs. Carrilli's promoters are members of the committee.

Because of primary voting at the Town Hall, the offices of the town clerk and the town manager will be closed from 11 a.m. on.

First District voters should park at the rear of the building and enter through the rear door.

Other town offices will remain open, but will only be accessible through the Town Hall's side entrance.

Seven student teachers work at Andover school
Andover Elementary School now has seven student teachers from Eastern Connecticut State College. Education classes will be working in Grades 2; Debra Batchelder, Grade 1; Adeline Martone, Grade 2; Mark Maruscak, Grade 3; Albert Young, Grade 6, and Alberto Pokrob, Grade 1.

David Kravet, principal, asks parents to return emergency cards, insurance forms and SWISH permission slips as soon as possible.

Parents are also asked to prepare for lunch, ice cream and milk for the week each Monday, if possible.

Reading placement tests will be administered to students in Grades 2 to 6 during the next two weeks.

During the summer, two students earned reading certificates. They were Jeff Bronke and Kathy McCall.

GOP fundraiser
Republican Town Chairman Yio Anson said a fall fundraiser was discussed at a meeting last week. He said a few committee members showed up for the meeting.

"We didn't do too much, but our next meeting should prove to be more exciting," Anson said.

Silver Tea planned
A Silver Tea will be held at the Andover Congregational Church social room Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m.

The silver tea service given in memory of Mrs. Lillian Hamilton will be used. She was a faithful member of the church for many years.

The tea is being sponsored by the athletic director's post to remain on the coaching lines, noted this week that no less than 40 young men who captained their high school football teams are numbered among the 94 players still in uniform. Yale had 100 turn out, the largest ever.

Fifteen sons of one-time college football players are sprinkled on the roster of the 1977 Blues, including Tim Spears, whose father Bob captained the 1951 team coached by the late Herman Hickman.

White once a party for Yale. Brown has won three of the last four meetings and the last two.

Over-all, Yale has 59 wins, Brown 18 with four ties in the series between the long-time Ivy foes.

"This should be an interesting season," Cozza explained. "I'm pleased with the progress of our football program."

The bald-headed mentor noted that Captain Bob Rizzo who gives the squad good leadership, also has little game experience.

He also pointed out that only Ohio, a hot-bed for producing football players directed to New Haven, can boast more home grown players than the State of Connecticut.

Currently, 12 Yaleies reside in Connecticut, including running back

Important opener
While it's only the first game of the 1977 Ivy League football season for both squads, the championship could be decided Saturday afternoon at Yale Bowl in New Haven when the Elis entertain Brown.

For many years, the Yale-Brown meeting was an early tuneup for the Elis. It was a day when Yale officials were well aware of the fact paid attendance would be at a minimum.

As a result Boy Scout troops were among the many youth organizations invited to be guests of the university at the game.

Brown's Bears have suddenly become ferocious and the battle with the Bulldogs Saturday might see as many as 50,000 spectators in the huge concrete saucer that seats 70,874.

Coch Carl Cozza, who rejected the athletic director's post to remain on the coaching lines, noted this week that no less than 40 young men who captained their high school football teams are numbered among the 94 players still in uniform. Yale had 100 turn out, the largest ever.

Skinny Guidry earns respect of all

NEW YORK (UPI) — He's a skinny kid, not really athletic looking at all, and he can walk down the street without so much as a second look from the passers-by.

But on the pitcher's mound with a baseball in his hand, Ron Guidry of the New York Yankees no longer has to worry about recognition. In the major leagues where they measure a pitcher by his ability to perform in the clutch, Guidry has earned respect.

Guidry earned some respect when he stopped the heavy-hitting Boston Red Sox on five hits while pitching the Yankees to a 4-2 victory that widened their lead in the American League East to 2½ games.

If anyone has saved the New York Yankees from failure in their year of turmoil, it is Guidry, a 27-year-old southpaw from Lafayette, La., who almost didn't make the club in spring training.

While the Yankees' pitching staff consists of big names such as Hunter, Gullett, Torrez and Figueroa, it is Guidry who has emerged as the "stopper."

Blessed with an overpowering fast ball which belies his 5-foot-11, 160-pound frame, Guidry has become practically uncatchable when he is getting the ball over the plate as he

While the Yankees' pitching staff consists of big names such as Hunter, Gullett, Torrez and Figueroa, it is Guidry who has emerged as the "stopper."

Blessed with an overpowering fast ball which belies his 5-foot-11, 160-pound frame, Guidry has become practically uncatchable when he is getting the ball over the plate as he did Tuesday night.

The Red Sox came to Yankee Stadium with more home runs — 19 — than any team in the major leagues, but Guidry crumpled their "heavy lumber" into so much sawdust. Cheered on by the largest crowd ever to watch a regular season game at the new Yankee Stadium — 55,299 — Guidry struck out nine and allowed just three hits over the last seven innings to gain his sixth straight victory and 14th in 20 decisions.

The Red Sox scored twice in the second inning when Guidry experienced some control problems, but after that they had only two other mildly serious threats. One came in the eighth when George Scott led off with a single, but that quickly died when Guidry retired the next three batters.

Guidry's real moment of truth, however, came in the ninth. After Jim Rice led off with a single and Carlton Fisk laid into a fastball and drilled it to straightaway center field. It looked as if it might go for extra bases, but center fielder Mickey Rivers raced back and made a one-handed catch for the out.

"I didn't think it was gone," said Fisk, "but I thought it would be over (Rivers) head. He ran it down good in Fenway Park that would have been an easy home run."

Rivers' catch seemed to stimulate Guidry. With his adrenaline flowing, he reared back and struck out Scott and Butch Hobson in succession to end the game.

"After Mickey made that catch I knew that if I got Scott there was no way Hobson was going to pull the ball off me," said Guidry. "After I struck out Hobson I jumped off the mound. It's the first time in my life I ever jumped off the mound after getting the last guy out. I don't usually show any emotion out there."

Not only did Rivers provide the game-saving defensive play, he was also hitting star for the Yankees. His fifth inning two-run homer, his 11th, triggered a three-run inning that handed rookie Mike Paxton his fifth loss against nine victories.

'New Whitey Ford' shackles Red Sox

NEW YORK (UPI) Nobody could blame the New York Yankees for proclaiming Ron Guidry as "the new Whitey Ford."

Almost 27 years to this date — Sept. 16, 1950 — Ford, then a cocky 21-year-old rookie, pitched the Yankees to a crucial 8-1 victory over the second-place Detroit Tigers for his seventh straight victory down the stretch after being called up in mid-season to bolster the club's front line pitching.

The Hall of Fame southpaw wound up 9-1 that year with a 2.81 earned-run average and seven complete games.

No wonder Guidry evoked memories of Ford Tuesday night when he pitched a masterful 4-2 five-hitter over the second-place Boston Red Sox which increased the Yankees' American League East lead to 2½ games. It was the fourth complete game victory in a row for the 27-year-old Guidry, who struck out nine.

"I said before the game that if Guidry had his stuff, he would take the bats right out of their hands," said Yankees manager Billy Martin. "He has a lot of guts, which is the mark of a good pitcher."

Ford, who watched the game from the broadcasting booth, laughed when asked if Guidry, a second-year man, reminded him of himself as a rookie back in 1950.

"This kid is a lot faster than I ever was," said Ford. "I worked with him in spring training, trying to get him to turn the ball over more. I also tried to help him with his other pitches besides the fastball."

"I told him there would be days he wouldn't have that good fastball although he sure uses it well — like tonight when he blew (Butch) Hobson out of there on three straight pitches for the final out in the ninth."

Yankees coach Yogi Berra, Ford's longtime batterymate, cited Guidry's "cool" under fire.

"He's a lot like Ford in that respect," said Berra. "They both have a lot of poise in the clutch."

Guidry got all the support he needed from Mickey Rivers, who triggered a three-run fifth inning with a two-run homer to put the Yankees ahead, then saved the game with a running, one-handed catch in the ninth to triple with one and none out.

Elsewhere in the AL, Chicago put away Minnesota 6-1, California

American League
drubbed Texas 12-7 and Milwaukee edged Seattle 4-3. Oakland and Kansas City and Detroit at Cleveland were both rained out.

White Sox's A. Twins 1 Jim Essian hit his 10th homer and Oscar Gamble his 29th for the White Sox, who extended the Twins' longest losing streak of the season to six. Francisco Barrios, 13.5, pitched his ninth complete game, spacing eight hits — three of them to Rod Carew.

The visit also increased the White Sox' second-place lead over Texas in the AL West to 2½ games.

Angels 12, Rangers 7

Dave Kingman belted his first two American League homers and drove in four runs for the Angels. California overcame a 7-4 deficit with eight runs in the eighth inning when Tony Solaita and Kingman hit two-run homers. Rangers' 38-year-old starter Gaylor Perry struck out nine batters in seven innings to move past "Young into fourth place on the all-time strikeout list with 2,824.

Brewers 1, Mariners 3

Don Money hit a solo homer in the top of the 10th inning to win the game for Milwaukee after Robin Yount crased a 5-2 Seattle lead in the ninth with a three-run homer. Money's homer was his 24th. Yount's his third.

Accepts offer
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The NBA Buffalo Braves announced Tuesday that 6-foot 11-inch center Jim McDaniels has accepted an invitation to attend the club's training camp later this month.

McDaniels, 29, a free agent, played for Seattle and Los Angeles in the NBA and Carolina and Kentucky in the now-defunct American Basketball Association.

Turner lauds crew

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Ted Turner credited his crew for the victory of Courageous over the Australia in the battle to keep the U.S.A.'s Cup on U.S. shores.

In the first of a best of seven series of races Tuesday in the Rhode Island Sound, Courageous beat the Australian challenger across the finish line by 1 minute and 48 seconds.

The defeat left the Australians somewhat deflated and Turner more optimistic about the outcome of the 23rd foreign challenge — and the fifth by Australia — to wrest the most coveted prize in yachting from its home at the New York Yacht Club.

Shortly after Courageous crossed the finish line at the end of the 24.3 mile Olympic course, Noel Robins, skipper of the Australia, ran up the signal flag calling for a layover day.

Alex Bond, head of the Australia syndicate, said the Australia would use the day off from racing to do some work on her jibs.

Pirates' pride intact

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates' hopes of winning the National League pennant are all but mathematically shattered but their pride is intact.

Playing out the string against virtually impossible odds, the Pirates scored a 5-0 victory over the first-place Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night and then game-heros Phil Garner and Manager Chuck Tanner made clear how they felt about the season.

The victory moved the Pirates within eight games of first place but the Phillies' magic number for clinching the NL's Eastern title remained at 4. Any combination of Philadelphia victories and Pittsburgh losses which total 10 will clinch the title for the Phillies.

"We're not out of it by any stretch of the imagination and we're not in by any stretch of the imagination," said Garner, who drove in both Pittsburgh runs with an infield out and a triple. "You can't say we lost it. The Phillies just kept putting the pressure on. It is a tribute to us that we stayed as close as we did. They've played super."

"This ball club has had the finest attitude and professional manner of any team I've been associated with," said Tanner. "They never stopped being aggressive but under the circumstances of the injuries to Willie Stargardt and Rennie Stennett just couldn't win it."

"We can all say we would have done better if we had Stargardt and Stennett," Tanner added. "But I don't blame our situation on anything. We win with 25 players and we lose with 25 players."

Garner drove in a run with an infield out in the first inning and tripled home a run in the sixth as Jim Rowan and Rich Gossage combined in a five-hitter for the Pirates. Jim Kaat suffered his ninth loss against six wins.

The Houston Astros routed the Cincinnati Reds 12-4, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-1, the Montreal Expos beat the New York Yankees 7-6.

National League
York Mets 8-5, the Los Angeles Dodgers routed the San Diego Padres 14-4 and the San Francisco Giants 14-1 in 11-inning win over the Atlanta Braves.

In other NL games:
Astros 13, Reds 4
Cesar Cedeno drove in three runs with a homer and three singles and Bob Watson hit a three-run homer to lead the Astros' 14th attack which brought Floyd Bannister his seventh win. The victory moved the Astros within 2½ games of the two-time world champion Reds in their battle for second place in the NL West.

Cardinals 3, Cubs 0
Garry Templeton singled home two runs in a three-run fifth inning helping Bob Forsch to his 17th win against six losses for the Cardinals. Pete Falcone took over for Forsch in the sixth inning and pitched hitting ball the rest of the way. Ray Bruns dropped his 16th decision compared to 12 wins for the Cubs.

Expos 8, Mets 5
Steve Rogers won his 16th game and rookie Stan Papi tripled home

Young GOP club set

Hebron
Marilyn Horton, Republican town vice-chairman, announced this week that a Young Republicans Club is being formed in Hebron for those aged 16 to 26.

Mrs. Horton, along with Jack Weisel of Wall St., will be the club advisers.

Ed Gallagher, president of the state Young Republicans, and his field workers will be coming to Hebron to get the club started.

Mrs. Horton said she was starting the club because she has observed the lack of patriotism in the town covering all ages.

"It is shocking," she said.

Mrs. Horton said Hebron is the first town in the state to sponsor a group for 16-year-olds and up and she said she hopes to have the cooperation of the teachers as well.

Interested persons may contact Mrs. Horton for further information.

NFL squads cut 'names'

Fred Nassiff

Kevin Williams

NEW YORK (UPI)— Tuesday's NFL cuts were the unkindest yet as several former All-Pro and two Heisman Trophy winners were among those waived when teams painfully pared their rosters to the league's 43-man, season-opening limit.

Defensive tackle Bob Brown, safety Bill Bradley, cornerback Ken Ellis and wide receiver Martin Briscoe were the All-Pro and Heisman winners. Steve Spurrier and Pat Sullivan were Heisman Trophy winners.

Brown became expendable when the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders acquired 270-pound former Notre Dame star Mike McCoy from the Green Bay Packers for defensive lineman Herb McMath and two undisclosed draft choices.

Bradley, who lettered at Texas as a quarterback, wide receiver and punter, was the Philadelphia Eagles' all-time interception leader with 34. Acquired in the off-season for a draft choice, the three-time Pro Bowler missed only two games in his eight-year career.

Briscoe, a 10-year veteran from Nebraska, played for six AFL and NFL teams before New England acquired him last fall. In his Pro Bowl year of 1976 he caught a league-high 57 passes for 1,036 yards while with Buffalo. New England also cut veteran wide receiver Randy Vataha.

Spurrier, a 10-year veteran who starred at the University of Florida, was waived by Miami. The Dolphins preferred to use Don Struck as their backup to veteran Bob Griese, who finished second to Spurrier in 1966 Heisman Trophy balloting while at Purdue.

Miami also waived Ellis, who played in two Pro Bowls and started 84 straight games from 1970 to 1975 for Green Bay, which traded him to Houston last year with veteran quarterback John Hadl and draft choice for quarterback Lynn Dickey.

Sullivan, a former Auburn standout, got the ax from the San Francisco 49ers. He started 102 of the 103 games he played for the injured reserve list.

Oakland also put out draft pick Mike Davis, a defensive back from Colorado, on injured waivers, cut kicker Roll Borischeck and running back Ed McCaffery and returned veteran kicker Errol Mann to the roster. Pittsburgh put running back French Fugua, wide receiver Steve Bell, guard Steve Courson and defensive lineman Tom Besley on the injured reserve list.

Encore campaign East booters' goal

By LENO AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Having had the sweet taste of wine, East Catholic doesn't want to go back to beer.

Until last year, Eagle soccer combines hadn't fared too well. In fact, in two previous seasons, only two ties were garnered combined with 24 losses.

But fortunes soared a year ago as East compiled a 7-1 over-all record and qualified for the State Tournament for the first time ever. An encore performance is hoped for in the 1977 campaign which opens Thursday at home at Cougar Field against Bolton High.

Coach Tom Main, in his fourth year, lost three standouts from that journey club. Jack Neiswanger and Bill Traynor with six and two goals respectively were the Nos. 1 and 4 leading scorers while Bob Legier, now at the Coast Guard Academy, had a superlative defensive year at sweeperback. They, along with the loss of Dan Mackey and Tom Fortin, the latter pair because of various reasons, leave major voids.

But all isn't lost as Nos. 2 and 3 scorers, senior wingers Fred Nassiff and Kevin Williams, return and dependable senior goalie Don Martin will be back in the nets. That's a solid base to start from.

Joining Williams and Nassiff up front is sophomore Mark Marciano, who operated as a halfback as a freshman. Main has opted to go with a four halfback system with junior Matt Tobin, sophomore Jim Neiswanger and freshmen Kyle Ayer and Terry McConville filling the roles.

The fullback line is where the Eagles find, and field, inexperience. Sophomore Tim Skoly, a veteran, junior Harry Carr and either Jim Bradley or Ralph MacCarone, both

Boxing champs prevail

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Anxious to impress their very first national television audience, Danny "Little Red" Lopez and Carlos Palomino retained their World Boxing Council championships Tuesday night but were less than ecstatic about the way they did it.

Co-featured on an Olympic Auditorium card, Lopez had to get off the canvas in the second round before stopping Jose Torres of Mexico in seven rounds in his first featherweight title defense.

Then Palomino, in the third defense of his welterweight crown, chased Everaldo Azevedo, a 33-year-old Italian in his 116th pro fight, for 15 rounds before escaping with an agonizing but unanimous decision.

"I was not a very good puncher," Azevedo said of Palomino. "They only gave me a month to prepare for this fight. I got very tired in the last five rounds. If I would have had longer, I would be the champion instead of him."

Sophomore John Frase, junior Bob Delgado, freshman Mike Clinton, sophomore Dean Setzler and Chris Turner give Main reserve strength, more so than previous years, with the Eagle mentor mentioning he'll have no qualms about going to his bench. That wasn't the case before.

Winning soccer games wasn't the case either. But that's changed, too.

Opener good for league

BOSTON (UPI)— Defending Ivy League co-champions Brown and Yale met in a nationally televised game Saturday and Harvard Coach Joe Restie predicts having the big games so early in the season will be good for the League.

Restie disagrees with those who say a head-to-head battle between league contenders this early in the year is detrimental.

"I think it's great for the League," he said Tuesday at a press luncheon in Boston. "I'm really glad it's on television. I just hope it's not this weekend."

"And Bob Blackman is back in the League," he said. "And I'm sure he'll be out to beat some people."

Community Baptist Church marks 25th anniversary

It was on Sept. 13, 1952, that a handful of men and women saw the fruits of their labor in full bloom at the first service of a Baptist Church in Manchester in more than 125 years.

Now, 25 years later, the Community Baptist Church at 88 E. Center St. is a fine tribute to these dedicated people through whose encouragement and hard work this religious edifice was established.

The first service was held in the old England house, which was purchased by the church with 108 attending and 51 children enrolled in Sunday School. A church was born.

The Rev. John R. Neubert was the first permanent pastor, coming to Community Baptist from Central Baptist Church in Buffalo, N.Y., in February 1953. He served until September 1961.

The church had 189 charter members, 55 of whom are still members.

Membership continued to grow and a building fundraising was launched in September 1954. Just four years later, on April 13, 1958, groundbreaking for the new $182,000 sanctuary and Fellowship Hall took place. Dedication ceremonies were held on March 15, 1959.

In October 1961, the Rev. Alex H. Eisesser, director of Christian education for the Ohio Convention, answered a call to the pastorate, assuming that position on Dec. 17 of that year.

The first mortgages were burned in September 1962, at the 10th anniversary celebration.

Another pastor who was instrumental in the church's progress is the Rev. Walter Loomis, now retired and living in Florida. The Rev. Mr. Loomis served following the Rev. Mr. Eisesser until the current pastor, the Rev. Ondon Stairs, assumed the pastorate.

Reflecting on those early years of struggle when, at one time, the church had the dubious distinction of being a church without members, officers, or minister, Miss Jane Blair of 221 Summit St., a charter member, said, "We all got together at the beginning and continued our efforts through the years."

"My parents were Presbyterians, but my sister and I liked the fellowship at the Baptist church, so we became members," she said.

"I am especially pleased to see so many young couples attending. We started it when we were young; now it's time to let the young people have a hand at it," she said.

Speaking of the current pastor, Miss Blair said, "He's a fine man. Once in a while he'll do a little pun, but mostly he sticks to the Bible in his sermons, and I like that. He's a great speaker. No one could fall asleep when he's preaching."

Another charter member—in fact, the man who made the original proposal that a Baptist Church be started in Manchester, Harold Livingston of South Windsor—is pleased with the growth of the church.

"I believe our membership is more than 600 people now. Of course, some of our elderly are unable to attend services unless they are transported."

Despite the church's continued growth, Livingston does not foresee the need for further building expansion.

"There has been a new influx of young couples to the church, about which we are very pleased," he said.

Livingston was superintendent of the church school for 15 years.

Mrs. Edward Gifford of 33 Walker St., also a charter member, was a communicant of Central Baptist Church in Hartford.

"Due to the gas shortage back then, I was unable to commute to services in Hartford and I kept prodding the Manchester group to start a church here," she said.

"We went through the home visitations, gaining interest from other Central Baptist members in the Manchester area and some who were not affiliated with that church. That was the beginning."

John and Mary Fletcher of 76 Irving St., charter members, have made service to their church a team effort. John serves as church moderator and both John and Mary are currently general co-chairpersons of the anniversary committee.

Earlier this summer, in June, a Strawberry Festival was held opening the 25th anniversary celebration activities.

A 25th anniversary dinner will be conducted on Saturday at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. The Rev. Mr. Neubert, the church's first pastor, will be guest speaker.

On Sunday at 10:30 a.m., there will be a worship service in celebration of the church's founding. Dr. Kenneth L. Maxwell, who at the first service brought greetings to the church from the American Baptist Home Mission Society of which he was president, will be the guest speaker. The Rev. Mr. Maxwell was also pastor of Central Baptist Church in Hartford.

Dr. William Sale Terrell, executive secretary of the Connecticut Baptist Church Convention, preached the first sermon, "In the Beginning."

Central Baptist of Hartford was the "mother" church and the American Baptist Home Mission Society was the church's sponsor.

The current pastor, the Rev. Mr. Stairs, joins his congregation in its pleasure at the church's growth.

"Young couples are coming in and not just sitting; they are eager to work. In fact, our anniversary dinner Saturday is being arranged entirely by members who have been with us only four or five years. One very active worker, who is chairperson of the dinner committee, is Mrs. Roger (Nanette) Davis. She's a real worker."

"I am pleased with the spirit of the church; it's progressive. The congregation is truly interested in the community. In fact, many of the town organizations meet here and we appreciate it. There's fine community spirit," he said.

Harold Livingston, standing, discusses plans for a Baptist church with other group members at its first meeting.

Your neighbor's kitchen

By BETTY RYDER

Shelves in supermarkets across the country are loaded with items that are "something to eat." Many of these products are convenient to grab when hunger pangs hit and, though they taste good or at least OK, they offer no consumer extras except, perhaps, the added pounds that frequently accumulate from such food choices. Chicken is a good example of one that is more than just something to eat. Chicken contains some calories, but the count is low when compared to popular meat items with higher fat content. It is satisfying and it tastes delicious. Along with the limited calories present in chicken, consumers also receive an abundant supply of high quality protein, a good amount of vitamins A and B and the mineral, phosphorus.

All of this, and the price tag remains low. And, of course, when it's sale time, that's the time to stock up your freezer and open your cookbook for new and different chicken recipes. Here's one for Crunchy Chicken Chinese which makes four servings.
Crunchy Chicken Chinese
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 cup flour
1 medium onion, sliced in 1/4-inch slices, separated into rings
1 can (15 1/2 ounces) chow mein noodles, finely crushed
1/4 cup finely chopped almonds
Mix together melted butter or margarine, soy sauce, pepper and ginger. Dredge chicken pieces and onion rings with flour; dip in butter mixture. Coat with crushed noodles which have been mixed with chopped almonds. Arrange chicken in foil-lined baking dish; top chicken with coated onion rings. Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 30 minutes; uncover and bake for 30 more minutes or until chicken is crisp, brown and fork tender.

This recipe for Chili Chicken is great for cool, fall days.
Chili Chicken
2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in parts
1 teaspoon salt
1 medium onion, sliced
1 package (1 1/2 ounces) chili seasoning mix
1 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons honey
Arrange chicken pieces in shallow foil-lined baking pan. Sprinkle with salt, top with onion slices. Mix together chili mix, tomato juice, oil and honey. Generously brush sauce on chicken until all sauce has been used. Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until chicken is fork tender.
Next week, Eugene J. Spaziani, assistant professor of Hotel and Food Service Management at Manchester Community College, will share his recipe for Tomato Wine with us. He has recently become a charter member of the "Society of Wine Educators" and has also promised a few unusual California zucchini recipes.

Something's missing

Yesterday our oldest daughter went off to college, and despite the fact that there have been moments during the past 18 years when I'd gladly have given her to the highest bidder... I MISS HER.

Some of the things I miss make me question my sanity. For example, I actually miss her noise. I miss hearing her yell at her brothers, giggle with her sister, and shout at the bathroom door. "They save some hot water for me!"

I miss the clutter about her. The jangly bracelets and earrings. The powder and jars and bottles of musky jasmine cologne. The pile of wet bath towels left in her wake and the bulletin board full of pictures in her room.

I miss our late night discussions on life, love, women's lib and the magnetism of Elvis Presley. And I miss her red-cheeked exuberance when she'd burst into the kitchen and say, "Wait till you hear what happened!"

I was about to squeeze out a few tears when I discovered that we were missing several things besides Sara.

"Where's my razor blades?" demanded my husband. "I had two unopened packages in the bathroom."
"Somebody stole one of my KISS albums," protested John, pointing to an empty slot in his record file.

"She took my red T-shirt," cried Kate. "It was right here on my bureau."
After a little investigation, we found that many of the things that Sara, Kate and I had considered "joint property" were also gone: our tweezers, blow dryer, clock radio, travel iron, yoga book and magnifying mirror.

A look in the pantry disclosed that we were missing 12 packages of sugarless gum, a jar of instant coffee, a box of tea bags, and our entire supply of paper cups. After taking inventory of his desk my husband said, "We are also missing a ream of typing paper, a calculator, a package of pencils, a dictionary, a pamphlet on the metric system and a roll of stamps. I guess there is a bright side to this after all."

"Why is that bright?" I asked starting to sniff again. "Well, the way I figured it," he said, rubbing his chin thoughtfully, "if Sara put all those things in her trunk, she must be planning to study."
"And the roll of stamps," I said, the tears finally coming. "Bless her heart, she's going to write home."

...BECAUSE YOU'VE NEVER SHOPPED LIKE THIS.

Heartland Food Warehouse has just arrived in Newington. It's a totally different kind of place to do your weekly food shopping... totally different because every one of the over 2,000 items we sell in our giant 1-acre store is a special, with savings that regular supermarket specials only hint at. Shoppers at our four other Heartland stores say they regularly save up to 1/3 on their weekly food bills.

- No checks cashed. Cash-and-carry saves you money.
- No free bags. Bring your own, use free cartons when available, or we'll sell you bags at 2¢ available.
- No bundle boys. You save a bundle bagging your own groceries.
- No unnecessary variety. We sell only those items that we can buy at special savings from top quality manufacturers and processors. Then we pass those savings directly on to you.

Top-name brands at unheard-of prices
We don't sacrifice quality for price. But we do get the best bargains from the top suppliers. At Heartland you'll find the same nationally-advertised brands, the same top quality meats and produce as featured at conventional supermarkets. You'll find USDA Choice beef, farm-fresh produce, Grade A chicken... an acre of the finest food you can buy, at prices you've never believed possible.

Hot out of the oven
At Heartland, we bake our bread right on the premises, in full view, so it's hot and fresh when we hand it to you. And talk about prices! Our fresh Baked while you watch. 1-lb loaves of Italian and light and dark rye sell for 3 for $1... and we throw in a fourth loaf free! You'll find similar savings at our deli department, too, with someone on hand to help you. We have a complete variety of top brands, and we sell in 1/2 lb units so you get the greatest savings possible.

Cut your weekly food bill as much as 1/3.
Week after week, month after month, you'll save consistently at Heartland.

Every week, you'll find new and different items at unheard-of savings. Remember, you may find individual traffic-building specials at conventional supermarkets, but at Heartland we won't have an item in the store unless it's a special.

Do we accept food stamps and manufacturers' coupons? You bet we do!

An acre of savings under one roof. Where? Here!

Grand Opening Tues., Sept. 13 at 9:30 AM

ECHS parents plan dinner

To initiate the 1977-1978 school year, the East Catholic Parents Club is sponsoring a Get Acquainted With East chicken dinner on Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Social Security

Q. I plan to retire in November and apply for Social Security benefits. The trouble is I don't have a birth certificate to prove my age. All the official records in the town where I was born were destroyed in a fire. What should I do to apply for benefits?

A. Just contact any Social Security office and explain your problem. Someone there will be happy to help you get other documents to prove your age. Documents such as life insurance policies, religious records or school records can be used. Act now, though, because it will take awhile to collect these documents and process your application.

A. No, your Social Security payments won't be affected by your son's earnings. Also, you should keep in mind that even if your son earns more than $3,000 from his part-time job this year, I know his monthly checks will be reduced...but the amount of my payments also be affected by his earnings?

A. No, since a medical examination is not required to get Medicare insurance, your slight heart condition would not prevent you from getting this protection. You should get in touch with any Social Security office two to three months before your 65th birthday.

Q. I'm 71 and my nephew told me he thinks I should be able to get Supplemental Security Income checks because I have such a small income. He told me to apply at the Social Security office, but he didn't know what papers I would need to bring with me.

A. You'll need something that will prove your age when you apply for SSI payments, as well as your Social Security card and information about your income. You'll also be asked about any resources you may have, such as bank accounts and insurance policies. If you don't have all this information, you should apply anyway if you think you may be eligible. The people at Social Security pay be able to help you get the information you need.

John Russo of Russo Brothers, a Hartford excavating firm, strains to be patient as he responds to Inland Wetland Commission members' questions about his plans to take topsoil from his land along the Podunk River. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Excavation plan argued

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

"You will not be able to walk through that land next spring," said John Russo, owner of Russo Brothers Inc. of Hartford, a land excavating firm.

"The weeds will grow so high," he said raising his arm above his head. Charles Sheehan, town engineer and staff advisor to the East Hartford Inland Wetlands Commission, said he was not so sure.

Russo had come before the commission to get its approval to remove about 11,000 cubic yards of rich topsoil from his 10 acres of land on the east side of the Podunk River, just south of the South Windsor border. Russo's engineer at the meeting, Theodore Brindamour of Manchester, an engineer with the City of Hartford, said the ground level would drop six feet at the most. Several mounds would be removed. The average ground level would be up to three feet lower, he said.

Russo said he would leave a gentle, 10-to-15-degree slope down to the river. He would plant rapid growing rye grass to speed regrowth of plant life.

During excavation work, he would install a sand dam by the river to silt any storm water running off the site. No silt would reach the river, he said.

Flood water absorption capacity of the river area would increase by two-and-a-half million gallons, said Russo's attorney, Samuel Teller of East Hartford.

Commissioner David Killian led off questions. He said Russo's plans remind him of strip mining in the Dakotas but on a smaller scale.

Russo denied the analogy. He said he plans to keep the land. He may use it as farm land since it is the richest soil "anywhere in the world," he said.

"This is something we've done for 55 years," he said. "We've never hurt a piece of land."

The Russo firm was begun in 1895 by his father, he said.

Sheehan used the town's newly created wetlands maps and priority listings for the first time at a public meeting Tuesday. He said the Podunk River land which is near its mouth into the Connecticut River was given the highest priority ratings in the new maps.

Sheehan said Russo's excavation plans in the area qualify them for "significant activity" treatment. Every caution should be taken, he said.

The commission unanimously agreed with member Michael Marin to hold a hearing in November on the plan. In the meantime, they asked Russo to get test borings of the soil. If the land is rich topsoil as deep as 30 feet as Russo claims, the plans might be approved.

Russo was furious.

"This is ridiculous," he said after the meeting.

Richard Blackstone and Joseph Paquette

Polls open at noon for primary voting

Polls in East Hartford open at noon Thursday for the primary between Richard Blackstone and Joseph Paquette. The winner becomes the Democratic party's nominee for mayor in the Nov. 8 town elections.

Blackstone is the Democratic Town Committee's choice to seek the job he won four times before. He has held the post since 1969. He won two primary challenges before, once in 1969 and again in 1975.

The Russo firm was begun in 1895 by his father, he said.

Paquette and supporters got 1,200 signatures in August to force the primary with Blackstone. He needed less than 900, five per cent of the registered Democrats in town.

Paquette is a plumbing contractor. He had been active in regular party activities but left its mainstream disaffected with the "good boys" and local politics, he said.

Blackstone has campaigned on his record since he left his accounting practice. He lists many good services and a low tax rate as the main parts of his record.

Paquette has charged there is wrongdoing amounting to at least conflict of interest problems in Blackstone's administration.

Only Democrats can vote in this primary. But Democrats in East Hartford number twice as many unaffiliated voters and four times as many Republicans.

Polls close at 8 p.m.

Former banker thinks Bert Lance in trouble

"I think (Bert) Lance is really in trouble," said Warren H. Sullivan, East Hartford's director of development and a former banker.

"I think he'll end up resigning," he said Tuesday.

Lance is President Jimmy Carter's White House budget director. He has come under fire in Washington, D.C. for the way he practiced banking in Georgia.

Sullivan said the practices of Lance as reported in the media are "not acceptable here."

"I don't believe it's a common practice anywhere," he said of Lance's personal account overdrafts.

"Lance should resign. He has certainly lost his credibility. And he's hurt Carter's credibility."

Sullivan worked for Hartford National Bank and Trust Co. for 23 years before becoming president of the Windsor Bank and Trust Co. He left the bank this April to run the town's Office of Development.

Sullivan said public comments that bankers often have large personal overdrafts and that this is considered "common practice" is just not true. Were he to have done it when working as a banker, he wouldn't have been working as a banker soon after, he said.
