Sen. Weicker eyeing try at the presidency

Lee Roderick

The Herald's
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Connecticut Sen. Lowell Weicker is an interviewer's politician. Open, candid, earthy, he is a refreshing change from most members of Congress who weigh every word for its political effect before spitting it out. It is easy to disagree with him but difficult to dislike him.

The 46-year-old former mayor of Greenwich, who won more votes in 1976 than any senator in the history of his state, was one of the few Republicans prominent in the Watergate tragedy to emerge with his reputation enhanced — at least in non-Republican circles. He was the toughest of the GOP inquisitors on the Senate Watergate Committee and grilled then-President Nixon's aides too ardently to suit the tastes of many rank-and-file Republicans.

All of which adds up to an image which Weicker seems to relish and cultivate — that of a political maverick with few partisan strings attached who is even disdainful of his own party. ("When the Republican policy luncheons are held on Tuesdays, I go play tennis instead. I figure the exercise is more useful.") Is it an image aimed at 1980 when the weakened GOP might be looking around for a fresh, charismatic candidate to face Jimmy Carter?

"There's nothing in the position of President that I envy," said Weicker on a recent meeting in his Capitol Hill office. "I think that to be a young, second-term senator is really a better position. But there is the real frustration of seeing my party run and run and lose and lose."

GOP needs a challenge
The leadership of the Republican Party — which I consider too conservative — needs a good solid challenge from its moderate elements. And I hope that in 1980 there will be a moderate choice for rank-and-file

Republicans, who I can't believe are as dense as their party leaders. If no other moderate-liberal Republican is going to step in, then I've got a very hard decision to make and I might well be involved."

Weicker, an athletic 6-foot-6, mainstay on the GOP congressional baseball team, and self-styled "leading tennis fanatic," in the Senate, was surprisingly quiet on the Bert Lance affair, in sharp contrast to his highly vocal stance during Watergate.

"My work on Watergate involved very precise investigation," explained the Senator. "At that time I called for the resignation of (H.R.) Haldeman and others — not that of Richard Nixon. But this time I didn't have the facts in hand and I'm not of a mind to shoot my mouth off without the facts."

Action starts challenging sale of land to Penney

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

A Hartford attorney has filed papers with a Hartford County sheriff, who will begin serving defendants in a second legal action involving the Town of Manchester's proposed industrial park.

The suit, being brought by "Concerned Taxpayers of Manchester" and three other plaintiffs, challenges the sale of property by the town to the J.C. Penney Co.

Penney plans to locate a two-million-square-foot catalog distribution center in Manchester and would be the major tenant in the proposed industrial park.

The plaintiffs in the action, however, say that the town is not selling property to Penney at a fair market price. Atty. Raymond Cantin of Hartford represents the plaintiffs.

Cantin said Friday afternoon that he has contacted the sheriff, who will serve the four listed defendants in the case — Penney, the Manchester Economic Development Commission, the Town of Manchester and Edward Stockton, the state commerce commissioner.

Plaintiffs listed by Cantin are the Concerned Taxpayers of Manchester, Judith Solomon, Mercia English and Deborah Fogarty, who are all Manchester residents.

"I suspect it will take several months before my case is heard," Cantin said. He said that he will file disclosure motions to seek information about property appraisals.

Another case involving the industrial park, this one an environmental case, began Thursday in Hartford Superior Court.

Cantin had asked that his case be combined with the environmental one, but this motion was denied since the other case has started.

Longshoremen told to go on strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Longshoremen's Association President Thomas Gleason ordered his membership Friday to begin a Maine-to-Texas strike against container ships at 12:01 a.m. Saturday.

"The strike is effective as of midnight," an ILA spokesman said. "Mr. Gleason has gone home."

representatives of shipping companies.

The talks fell apart over the union's demand for a job security clause in the face of dwindling employment caused by container ships.

One of the Gulf Coast management groups, the Mobile Steam Ship Association, and the union's Alabama local had announced earlier that workers would stay on the job as long as there was progress in negotiations.

Terrorists hold 142

DACCA, Bangladesh (UPI) — Japanese Red Army terrorists holding 142 hostages aboard a hijacked plane for two days warned Friday that failure to meet their demands would mean a repetition of the 1972 Lod Airport massacre — in which Red Army guerrillas sprayed gunfire into a crowd, killing 26 persons.

The Japanese government said it was racing to meet the demands — for $6 million in U.S. currency and the release of nine jailed Red Army guerrillas — but could not meet the terrorists' deadline.

Another hitch developed when three of the jailed radicals refused to go to Dacca.

Double filibuster ties up Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opposing forces froze the Senate into a double filibuster Friday while leaders tried to figure a way out of the long, frustrating stalemate over natural gas legislation.

Democratic leader Robert Byrd tried all day to coax key senators into supporting his compromise gas price formula, but Republican leader Howard Baker rated Byrd's chances for early success at "no more than 50-50."

"It is always darkest before the dawn," Byrd told reporters between meetings on his compromise plan.

As he spoke, the Senate was spinning its wheels just as it had been for several days, droning through one delaying amendment after another so that neither side — pro or antideregulation — could get its favored bill on the floor.

This time, though, there was a bizarre twist.

Sen. Russell Long, who wants deregulation, had stolen the filibuster initiative away from the anti-deregulation side by introducing the amendments his opponents had prepared themselves. Most were trivial. Few cared which way the votes went. The objective was to wear the other side down.

At issue for the nation in all this was the price of gas, the size of utility bills, and whether federal price ceilings will disappear in the near future, also at issue, for the Senators involved, were political reputations and an exhausting test of wills and influence.

The Senate has been preoccupied for nearly two weeks with efforts to block a vote on legislation that would remove federal price ceilings from natural gas sales. No other floor business of significance has been conducted since noon Monday, when the anti-deregulation filibuster swung into high gear.

Byrd appeared to have found the key to a compromise late Wednesday night with a proposal that would continue regulation while allowing prices to rise higher than President Carter wants.

That compromise broke down Thursday essentially because neither side trusted the other not to try any tricks.

Friday, when the filibustering resumed, these were the two principal proposals pending, and the catch involved in each:

Sen. Weicker eyeing

Lance? "He has been hurt because he set the highest moral and ethical standards and then brought about Lance, a man of his own choosing, who clearly didn't meet those standards. The public is bloody well fed up with anything less than absolute integrity in their public officials."

"At the same time, Carter recouped a lot of what he lost by the way he let Lance go. Carter was candid, moving, and straightforward in admitting his own mistakes and in cutting Lance off. In fact, if Nixon had done the same thing when he acted on his own aides were involved, he probably would have remained in office. Nixon wasn't trusted for the initial criminal activities, but for covering them up and lying to the American people."

Ineptness involved

Turning to what has been called "Koreagate," the Senator said the comparison intimated isn't accurate. "There is a terrible ineptness involved in getting to the bottom of the Korea scandal, but I don't see a cover up." Weicker is one of six members of the Senate Ethics Committee which is moving at the pace to unearth the facts of the scandal, whose key figure, South Korean businessman Tongsun Park, is now in Seoul. Park allegedly bought the favors of dozens of members of Congress.

"It's baloney to say we can't get to the bottom of this thing without Tongsun Park," said Weicker. "Even if you get the (expensive deleted) over here, I don't think he'll tell the truth."

Hit the bull's eye

Weicker added that "During Watergate, I wrote a full report prior to the revelations on the tapes. When the tapes were played, I didn't have to change one single word of it. We hit the bull's eye with the tapes, and we can do it again in the Korea investigation if we can just light a fire under somebody and get the show on the road over here in the Senate."

The Senator said there is an "enormous amount of heat" in the Carter administration to find some answers in the Korea probe: "That's why they've taken the heat off themselves by throwing the ball to Congress."

"There are 15 to 20 names of senators, past and present, who have come to my attention as possibly being involved in the Korea scandal," said Weicker. The figure — which the Senator stressed is preliminary and unsupported by evidence available to him — is much higher than generally believed for the Senate.

Crosses party lines

The House, on the other hand, already has 27 members who were named in the recent indictment against Park handed down by the Justice Department. While most of those named in the House have been Democrats, Weicker said the potential senators involved are split 50-50 among both Democrats and Republicans — which may help account for the lack of steam behind efforts to put the Korea puzzle together.

Weicker said most of his mail from the home folks these days is about the Panama Canal treaties — which Weicker strongly supports. "At first, my mail was running about 90-10 against treaties. Now it's about 65-35 against them."

"I predict that when they come to a vote in the Senate early next year, the treaties will be approved by a margin of two or three votes. Why?"

Because this is not 1900, it's 1970. All of the logic and the best arguments are on the side of those who feel we should pass the treaties."

Emotional issues

While Panama and abortion are the emotional issues currently of most concern to the people of Connecticut, Weicker said the energy shortage is by far their most important problem. "Connecticut was hit especially hard by the Arab oil embargo and it has never recovered from the unemployment," he explained.

He faults President Carter for a lot of talk and too little toughness in his energy proposals. "The President called the energy crisis the 'moral equivalent of war,'" noted Weicker. "But behind that message is a lot of blank space. If this is war, where is the mandatory conservation program? Where is the deregulation of natural gas? Carter really is putting a new wrapping on the same old package of Ford and Nixon."

All residents of Mayfair Gardens are invited to participate in a kitchen social Monday at 1:30 p.m. in Cronin Hall.

On Oct. 9, beginning at 4:30 p.m., a family program has been arranged with the Rev. Morris D. Pike of the Immanuel Congregational Church in Hartford speaking on the "Heifer Project." His topic: "Each One Helps." A potluck will follow. Those planning to attend the supper should sign up on the bulletin board outside Fellowship Hall.

Part II of the School of Missions will be the following Sunday during the 10 a.m. worship service. "Honduras" will be the topic presented by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Doughty.

Part III will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. James MacLaughlin, pastor of the church. He will consider the theological reasons for a strong program of outreach in a local church.

The public is invited to attend.

Philosophical

Weicker waxed philosophical in describing how it feels to be running against the tide on an emotional issue such as the Panama Canal. "It's like being in the artillery. (He was an artillery first lieutenant in the Army from 1953 to 1965. It's much nicer being an officer than an enlisted man. You can stand back and watch the others shoot. But when a round gets stuck in the gun, it's the officer who has to stick his arm into the breach and get it out.")

During his relatively short career in Washington, Connecticut's junior senator has stuck his arm into more than his share of breaches.

Tune in in 1980 to see if he attempts to stick it into the biggest breach — the white mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi! Now that our gang is back from a three-day stay at Brown's, things should start to settle down a bit. We'll have to wait for Wednesday's column to find out how everything went.

Golf banquet

The past Wednesday evening, we held our annual Senior Golf Banquet at the Army and Navy Club. The food was delicious and the men putting on the meal under the capable guidance of our good friend "Dutch" Fogarty did a super job. Thanks and praise must go to our senior secretary, Mrs. Edna Segorberg, second; Russ Nettleton, third; In Class B, Charles Romanowski, first; John Gibson, second; Parky Parmakian, third.

Special awards: Class A — low score 39, Hector Provost; Class B — Al Bourret, 45; Most improved: Elmore Anderson.

The evening ended with many dancing to records, and all attending enjoyed the night out.

This coming Monday morning, we will try to hold the Best-Ball Tournament, weather permitting. If it rains again, then we will have to call off the tournament for this season.

Bridge

In the afternoon we had four tables for our bridge games and the lucky prize winners were Mary Thrall, 4570; Marge McLain, 4460; George Last, 3,500; and Mary Greene, 3,410.

We mentioned in late Wednesday's paper that we had a few seats left for the second week to Penn Dutch country. However, we had to write our column on Tuesday morning and once in awhile by the time you read it on Wednesday people have already dropped by and filled the vacancies, which was the case here. We could take a couple of singles if any one was still interested as we have one in one spot and the other place open.

Florida trip

You folks thinking about the Florida trip by air in January, there is a possibility at a very reasonable fee you can get an efficiency apartment so you can cook many of your own meals. Still a few openings, and you must get your deposit in by Oct. 5. Pick up your flyer soon and join the group who will be heading for the sun while we poor mortals will be shivering in the cold winter weather.

This coming week all our programs will be back in full swing and Thursday we will play bingo starting at 1 p.m. upstairs in the main hall. Those playing should bring along their chips. This will be our Fun Day.

Pinocchle

On Wednesday, even though two buses left for Brown's, we had eight tables for our morning pinocchle games and the winners were: Rene Maire, 656; Alfreda Hallen, 609; Josephine O'Connor, 591; Al Chellman, 591; Helen Silver, 609; Mary Thrall, 570; John Phelps, 570; Josephine Schmetz, 568.

Meanwhile, we had our crewel embroidery class in action downstairs and our instructress Mrs. Lynn King tells us there still is room for more participants. Next Wednesday morning will be the final call for newcomers.

While that was going on, our Friendship Circle had a meeting in the craft room and we had a few new people show up. This is a group of members who meet on an informal basis every Wednesday; they sit around chatting, the breeze, talking over old times, show different hobbies, giving others ideas they can try at home in their spare time. It's a fun time meeting with no supervision and it's a golden opportunity for new members to meet and get acquainted and meet new friends.

While that was going on, our Friendship Circle had a meeting in the craft room and we had a few new people show up. This is a group of members who meet on an informal basis every Wednesday; they sit around chatting, the breeze, talking over old times, show different hobbies, giving others ideas they can try at home in their spare time. It's a fun time meeting with no supervision and it's a golden opportunity for new members to meet and get acquainted and meet new friends.

On Wednesday, even though two buses left for Brown's, we had eight tables for our morning pinocchle games and the winners were: Rene Maire, 656; Alfreda Hallen, 609; Josephine O'Connor, 591; Al Chellman, 591; Helen Silver, 609; Mary Thrall, 570; John Phelps, 570; Josephine Schmetz, 568.

Meanwhile, we had our crewel embroidery class in action downstairs and our instructress Mrs. Lynn King tells us there still is room for more participants. Next Wednesday morning will be the final call for newcomers.

Mayor looks at our problems

By Matthew Moriarty
 Mayor of Manchester

Several days ago, I received a somewhat unusual request from The Herald. Hal Turkington called and asked if I would write an article for a new Herald feature called "It's Your Opinion." The subject matter was to be "What do you think the problems of our town will be in the future?" I agreed to the request. The following reflects some of my thoughts on the future of Manchester.

I think that any look into the future should include a glance at the past and the present for proper perspective. In addition, I usually see a problem as a challenge and this piece will be written with the challenge of the future in mind.

Matthew Moriarty

Perhaps the most important problem facing Manchester's schools is the question of maintaining a quality school system in the face of declining enrollments.

The Board of Education must try to continue to upgrade an already superior end product. This product is the student or, put another way, the useful worker for the society of tomorrow.

Then there is the challenge of producing lives with enough self-discipline to live and work in our changing world while the restraints of our society are disappearing.

Our children see adults seeking to work shorter hours while we ask the children to work longer hours for a better education. We see our society become more permissive, but question permissiveness in our children.

We can't have it both ways. We must put our own house in order before we can expect our youth to follow suit.

There is no simple answer to these problems. Our community must decide which values it wants its schools to reflect.

IT'S YOUR OPINION

The Saturday opinion page is open to all readers of The Herald. We solicit your opinions on topics of interest to the community. Is it education? Administration? Business? Recreation? Politics?

The purpose is to present a cross-section of community opinion on a wide variety of subjects.

We ask that you limit your writing to no more than three 8 x 11 sheets, double spaced, and send them to:

as well as to make certain that our town receives its fair share of benefits.

If the voluntary organization that we now enjoy breaks down through non-participation or non-agreement, we may face a real danger.

Regional forums are here to stay and I believe that cautious and prudent participation is essential to the well being of Manchester.

PROTECTION
 Before closing, one other area of concern certainly merits a passing mention.

Public safety, including police and fire protection, will require our close attention in the future.

REGIONALISM
 Regionalism is an issue that has been addressed very carefully in the past and so should be in the future.

Finally, I think that we all recognize that Manchester is a great town to live in and I'm sure that we all want to keep it that way.

Personally, I wouldn't trade our town for anywhere else in the world. So, let's all pull together to ensure that Manchester is as great in the future as it is today.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Weak hearts inherited?

DEAR DR. LAMB - In the last seven months I have lost my dad, age 45, and his brother and sister to heart attacks. My dad's heart was his fourth in two years.

My father died with a heart attack when I was four. My grandmother is 77 and really strong, so I guess the weak heart is inherited from my grandfather. I'm 24 and would like to know what chance there is that I have inherited a weak heart. Also, what can I start doing now to strengthen my heart?

Arithmetic tells me your grandfather must have been in his middle 50s and assuming your uncle and aunt were near your father's age they all died in the 40s with heart attacks. That is suggestive of a familial tendency.

You do have one thing going for you. As a woman you are less likely to have a heart attack until after 60 than men are. But in the presence of a familial tendency that doesn't always work out, as evidenced by your aunt's death.

The problem is usually a metabolic one - not a weak heart. There is a tendency for increased production of the types of fatty-cholesterol particles that are associated with deposits in the arteries and cause artery disease. This, in turn, may cause heart attacks or strokes.

With such a strong family history I do think you should have a careful evaluation now. Particularly your cholesterol level should be checked.

There are three areas that you can work on to help maintain good health. You can follow a dietary program to prevent artery disease that leads to heart attacks and strokes. This means limiting your calorie intake in relation to your activity to the point that you remain at a slender size with no major fat deposits under your skin, eat a low-fat, low-saturated fat diet, low cholesterol diet. I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3 to give you more information on the principles of this diet. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Is there a solution to urban crime?

Editor's note: This is the fourth of 15 articles in a series exploring "Crime and Justice in America." This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California at San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Crime has become a symbol of the city. No other problem so embodies the fears and concerns of city people, or their apparent impotency to protect their persons and property, or to gain control over their lives.

City people - compared to others - are justifiably in their concerns over crime. "Street Crime," "ordinary crime," by whatever name we call it, is predominantly an urban problem, though in recent years serious crime rates have been increasing more rapidly in suburban and rural areas than in large city centers.

Reported crime has in fact increased substantially in city and country alike - by about one-third since 1970, for serious violent and property crimes, and by more than double since 1960, according to the Uniform Crime Reports of the FBI.

Public alarm over the seriousness of crime has grown in recent years along with rising official crime rates. Yet in fact, people may not be as powerless to affect the extent of crime as they think. An increased understanding of who commits most crime and why points to the very real possibility of achieving some measure of crime control through community action.

Criminal statistics
 The statistics of crime must be reviewed with caution. Sometimes the actual amount of crime is overstated, sometimes understated.

Lincoln Steffens tells in his autobiography how he and rival reporter Jacob Riis "created" a crime wave in turn-of-the-century New York City merely by publishing stories of crimes ordinarily ignored by that city's press. Similarly, a Colorado study indicates that public opinion about crime reflects usually young people - are asked to respond to questions about their own commission of crimes. These studies often are plagued by deep political and moral biases. Things that are illegal, but relatively few go on to become serious criminals.

Increased alarm over crime has also led to increased reporting of criminal victimization. The precise amount of unreported crime is impossible to determine, but a decade of surveys suggest that the actual amount is two to three times that recorded in police statistics.

The conclusion that there is much more crime than is reflected in official statistics is supported by extensive studies in which citizens -

Arrests of females for serious crimes have increased in recent years, but about 90 percent of those arrested for serious violent crimes and 80 percent for property crimes are male. Finally, arrest rates are highest for blacks and most other minority groups, and for the poor.

No one argues that being poor, young, male, black, or an urban resident makes one a criminal. But these associations provide important clues to causation and to control.

So powerful are these associations between crime and age, sex and urban poverty that they help to explain large proportion of recent changes in crime rates. The population aged 14-24 increased during the 1960s by more than 50 percent - the highest in our history, compared to only 10 percent during the 1950s and about the same projected for the 1970s. It placed great pressure on law enforcement at a time when national and world events combined to produce explosive changes. Violence associated with urban crime and the unfulfilled promises of the civil rights movement provided a legacy of crime into the 1970s.

Political vs. ordinary
 While the vast majority of youth retain conventional attitudes and attachments to conventional institutions, some do not. The fragility of highly urbanized, technologically dependent societies is dramatically revealed by political kidnappings, airplane hijackings, threats to city water and power supplies, and seemingly random

Families appear to be especially important in explaining the involvement of youngsters in minor delinquencies and so-called "status offenses" - behavior for which juveniles but not adults can be arrested. The community, however, is most important in explaining differences in serious criminal involvement.

Family relationships also play a larger role in delinquent behavior in stable and affluent communities, while serious involvement in crime is associated with peer relationships and other influences in economically poor, high-crime communities.

Community control
 The lessons of history and of recent experience with large-scale attacks on poverty and crime point to the crucial role of local community involvement in finding solutions to crime.

Such communities involvement has included efforts to increase reporting of criminal victimization, labeling of commonly stolen items to make positive identification easier and selling them more difficult, and citizen patrolling in cooperation with local police.

Other programs are designed to involve both young people and adults in adjudicating and disposing of less serious crimes by juveniles. Some communities are also experimenting with using volunteers in community correctional programs.

These measures have all helped to reduce some crime in some areas. All programs are subject to abuse, however.

The emphasis of discovering new crime control methods often is replaced by the rigidity of routine and of procedures that become unresponsive to over-changing conditions.

Questions
 1. Why should crime statistics be viewed with caution?
 2. What do criminal victimization surveys indicate?
 3. What is the relationship between youth and crime?
 4. What would be the long term effect of looking people up for long periods of time?

Answers
 1. Because they are so inaccurate. First, crime waves can be "created" by journalists. Second, many crimes go unreported.
 2. The actual amount of crime is two to three times that recorded in police statistics.
 3. Young people commit the most serious crimes. People from age 15 into their early twenties are heavily over-represented among people who commit serious crimes.
 4. Intolerable expenses and divisions in society.

Next week: Lois DeFleur Nelson, professor of sociology at Washington State University, discusses the involvement of women with crime, both as perpetrators and as victims.

Cheney springs upset beating Coventry High

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer
"This might be the turning point. I hope so," beamed Cheney Tech soccer coach Manny Goncalves after his charges pulled off an upset 2-0 win over Coventry High yesterday at the Beavers' field.
"I don't think we've ever beaten Coventry before," the elated Goncalves continued, "this is my fifth season and not as far as I can recall. For the most part, the games have been one-sided," he added.
His memory isn't all that off as the last three years the Patriots, now 2-3 overall and 1-2 in the Charter Oak Conference, have taken decisions by 3-0, 4-0 and 5-0 counts.

But it was a different picture yesterday as the Beavers, 3-1 overall and 1-1 in conference play, turned in good midfield play the first half and had the better of chances.
The Techmen got on the scoreboard in the first half at the 31-13 mark as junior halfback Lew LaBree, who couldn't find the trigger twice previously, picked up a rebound and fired a blast to the left side of the net past diving Patriot goalkeeper Chris D'Ambrosio.
As good as first-half play was, the second 35-minute segment turned somewhat chaotic as chipiness appeared with the officials warning three yellow warning cards and Coventry's Ken Goodale drew a red ejection card with 10 minutes remaining. The Patriots played the final 10 minutes one man short.
Cheney's second goal, at 8:40 of the second half, was picked up by fine-looking left-winger Jim Boudreau. The senior, on the off wing, picked up a loose ball and moved in on D'Ambrosio. The Coventry goalie came out, but Boudreau, after initially having trouble controlling the bouncing leather, was able to settle it and direct a soft shot home. It was Boudreau's fourth goal of the campaign, second high on the team.
Coventry had a shot of making it interesting with three minutes left as the Techmen were slapped with a handball violation. But Al Kristof's blast ricocheted off the crossbar and bounced out.
Coventry outshot Cheney, 15-12, with Beaver netminder Bob Kaminski registering nine saves, earning the shutout.
Key to the victory, though, was the play of senior Doug Victor. Beginning the season at halfback, Victor, because of injuries and other reasons, was moved to center fullback yesterday and it looks like he's found a home.
"What a job he did," Goncalves marveled, "Victor controlled the center of the field. Almost every time he came up with the ball when he had to."
Fullbacks Wilmet Smith, Tom Mainville and Jim Raymer also played well along with Chris Vann and Jack Gorr up front.
Cheney's next tilt is Tuesday night at 7:30 against Vinal Tech in Middletown at Palmer Field.

MHS girls split races

Being involved in two close decisions yesterday was Manchester High's girls' cross country team. The Silk Towners edged past Simsbury High, 26-29, but were nipped by Penney High, 27-28. Coach Phil Blanchette's crew is now 2-2 in dual meets.
Simsbury's Mary Jo Taube was the individual winner with a 18:07 clocking for 2.5 miles with Penney freshman Cindy Aurico second with a time of 18:10. Three seconds behind was sophomore Lyone Wright in third place with Indian teammates Lori Veal and Kate Hennessy fourth and fifth respectively. Lauren Woodhouse and Pat Adams also ran well for the locals.
Robyn Washington won and Wendy Taylor took fifth place in the javelin race.
Results: 1. Taube (S) 18:07 for 2.5 miles, 2. Aurico (P), 3. Wright (M), 4. Veal (M), 5. Hennessy (M), 6. Boyko (P), 7. Marchant (S), 8. Chalder (S), 9. Bates (P), 10. Abbott (P).

Lap record

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI) - Defending Formula One champion James Hunt of Britain set a lap record of 120.53 miles an hour on the 3.37-mile Watkins Glen road racing course Friday in the opening qualifying session for Sunday's United States Grand Prix, and then slammed into a catch fence trying to improve his time.
Hunt's McLaren was damaged and towed into the garage where his crew began immediate repairs. He said the car had suspension failure before he even hit the wall.

Red Sox alive

Still alive in the American League East pennant race are the Boston Red Sox.
Last night the Sox held off Baltimore, 11-10, at Fenway Park while in New York the Detroit Tigers prevented the Yankees from winning by scoring a 5-2 decision.
One New York victory or Boston defeat would give the Yankees the division title.

Unusual score

Talk about unusual plays in football. Here's one witnessed this week in the Manchester High meeting with Penney High in East Hartford.
Manchester High was threatening to score late in the second period after Penney had rolled up a 16-0 lead.
Tribe quarterback Johnny Syphers faded back to pass and the ball was intercepted in the end zone by Penney halfback Tony DeAngelis.
Instead of downing the ball, for a touchdown which would have brought the ball out to the 20 in Penney's possession, DeAngelis decided to run it out.
At the goal line, DeAngelis was tackled, and an alert Craig Kearney of Manchester stole the ball out of his hands in the end zone and the locals had six points when the referee's hands were raised signaling a score.
The gift touchdown wasn't enough as Penney went on to score a convincing 36-12 defeat.

Notes off the cuff

Mike Mistretta, former Manchester High and Trinity College varsity football and basketball player, is now selling insurance. Last year he was on the coaching staff at Northwest Catholic High. Just for the record: There were 20 arrests and one stabbing during the final game of the recent Red Sox-New York baseball series at Yankee Stadium...Pat Summerall, the former National Football League punter of note while starring with the New York Giants, is now in his eighth season as a play-by-play announcer in the NFL. He is also in the six figure salary bracket, reported to be $50,000. Summerall once held the State of Florida singles tennis championship among the schoolboys...Two reasons the Los Angeles Dodgers are nearing the three million mark in attendance (1) because they are a winner and (2) ticket prices are reasonable. There's been just one increase in ticket price in the past 20 years. Box seats still cost but $4.50, reserved grandstand $5 and general admission $2, which is scaled lower than all other parks. The Dodgers will average better than 20,000 paid for each home date. Visiting teams in the National League pick up 40 cents on each admission ticket and all teams enjoy going into Los Angeles to play before big crowds and to walk away with a tidy sum...Paul Maritz is another local tennis player, aka Cliff Simpson, who places all three tennis balls in one hand while starting his serve...Randy Smith reports members of the Center Billboards, Gromon's and Bogner's softball teams of the past dozen years will head a reunion Nov. 19 at Willie's. The men who comprised the squad under the three sponsorships monopolized the softball slow pitch during the dozen seasons...Have a nice weekend.

Whalers defeat Bruins as vet McKenzie stars

HARTFORD (UPI) - With a goal and two assists, veteran John McKenzie led the New England Whalers of the World Hockey League New York Rangers in exhibition play.
Four Whaler goals in the second period broke the game open as seven players scored for New England. The Whalers have a 2-0-1 exhibition record against NHL teams. The Rangers are 2-3-0.
New York jumped off to a 2-1 lead in the first period on Greg Holst's score on a steal inside the blue line at 18:58. Rick Ley tied it for New England with a 40-foot slap shot at 6:08. Phil Esposito put the Rangers ahead at 17:56 on a rebound of his own shot.
The Whalers pointed in four goals in the second period, three against starting goalie Hardy Armstrong, formerly of the Swedish National Team.

Intersectional meeting spices state grid slate

Yale's first intersectional football clash in three decades and the University of Connecticut's continuing struggle for a win highlight Saturday's gridiron activity in Connecticut.
Yale, with a 10-game win string including two victories this year, clashes with Miami of Ohio, and coach Carm Cozza sees it as probably the EU's toughest game of the year.
At Storrs, the winless Huskies try to stop unbeaten Yankee Conference champion New Hampshire in new coach Walt Nadzak's first performance before the home folks.
UCoN is 0-3 and has won only two of its last 12 games since 1976.
Other action in the state has Central Connecticut's 2-1 Blue Devils anxious to bounce back after a 8-30 drubbing by Maine last week when it takes on winless Cortland St. The Coast Guard shoots for its third win in four games against Norwich; Western Connecticut, 1-1, hosts New York Tech; and Southern Connecticut looks to snap its three game loss skid against Springfield.

Flagrant ring violation was displaying scorecard

NEW YORK (UPI) - Television, which helped bury the challenge of the scheme and gave the challenger misinformation that he was winning going into the final round.
"If someone in the corner knows, he can tell his fighter to change his style or do something that might cause all kinds of trouble," Patterson said. "I understand Angelo Dundee had someone running back to get him the information and the other corner didn't. That's not fair. It could influence a fight, affect gambling in the arena with cheaters. It was not a success and it will never happen again."
NBC-TV, which broadcast All's 15-round unanimous decision over Shavers and received record ratings with 70-million viewers, also tried the "experiment" last spring at the Ken Norton-Dane Bobick fight. But Bobick won, Dundee said he didn't tell All, but Shavers' corner didn't think of the scheme and gave the challenger misinformation that he was winning going into the final round.

"When I spoke to the TV people originally about the idea," Patterson said, "we agreed that it would just be an experiment. I didn't like the idea from the start but I said I'd keep an open mind. I've seen enough. Television is not going to ruin boxing like that."
Asked if the networks had agreed to abandon the "experiment," Patterson laughed and said "they didn't have to agree."
Patterson said he believed other states would take New York's lead in abandoning the televised scorecard.
The chairman of the House subcommittee on communications also is interested in investigating the telecasting of officials' cards. Hearings will begin Monday in Washington on the relations between

Cardinals, Redskins headline NFC slate

NEW YORK (UPI) - St. Louis and Washington, two perennial powers in the NFC Eastern Division, clash at Washington Sunday afternoon and neither can afford to fall further behind the division favorite Dallas Cowboys.
Dallas, the only 2-0 NFC team, is heavily favored at home against Tampa Bay.
In the last three seasons, the Redskins have won an Eastern Division championship and a wild-card playoff berth while the Cards have won two division championships (1974-75). Last season, both teams finished with gaudy 10-4 records, but the 'Skins became the wild-card team by virtue of their two wins over St. Louis.
Both teams won last week after dropping their first games. St. Louis held off the Chicago Bears 16-13 after the usually-explosive Cards' attack was bogging and down in an opening week 7-0 loss to Denver. Washington was unimpressive in beating Atlanta 10-8 after losing to the New York Giants 20-17 in the final minutes of their opener.

The Cardinals resurrected their dynamic passing game against the Bears as quarterback Jim Hart completed 16 of 24 passes - including a club record 12 in a row - for 215 yards and a touchdown. Speedy wide receiver Mel Gray, a traditional Rodkin nemesis, had five catches. St. Louis' much-maligned defense has played well and there seems to be a new sense of pride among the Cardinal defenders.
"We don't have 11 superstars, but we do have some top guys," said defensive end Ron Yankowski. "The thing about our defense, though, is the guys who don't have that ability, they're out there fighting and scratching, trying to prove that they can play in the NFL."
Redskin quarterback Billy Kilmer is off to a listless start, compiling only 47 per cent of his passes for 321 yards, and starting in an opening, highly unusual for a George Allen-coached team.
"We've never never had all these mistakes," said Allen. "We've always been a mistake-proof team. That's the kind of football I try to coach."
In other games Sunday, Pittsburgh is at Cleveland, Cincinnati at San Diego, Buffalo at Baltimore, Denver at Seattle, Houston at Miami, New England at the New York Jets, Green Bay at Minnesota, New Orleans at Chicago, the New York Giants at Atlanta, Philadelphia at Detroit, Tampa Bay at Dallas and San Francisco at Los Angeles. Monday night, Oakland visits Kansas City.

The surprising 2-0 Browns host the Steelers and a Cleveland victory would boost them into a legitimate contender role in the tough AFC Central Division. The Browns come off an emotional 30-7 overtime victory last Monday night against New England and have one less day to prepare for the 1-1 Steelers who are hungry after dropping a 16-7 victory to bitter rival Oakland last week.
The Bengals, co-favorites with Pittsburgh to win the Central Division, rediscovered their explosive aerial game last week against hapless Seattle in a 42-20 demolition. Ken Anderson completed 17 of 28 passes after being completely shackled by the Browns' defense the week before. The Chargers were thoroughly outplayed Kansas City last week in a 23-7 victory after being blanked 24-0 by the Raiders in the opening week.

By CLIFF SIMPSON

"The wings of the morning" Now that The Herald is published in the morning instead of the evening on Saturdays, it seems appropriate to change the title of this column from "Wings of Evening" to "Wings of Morning."

Some of you may recall that in my first column I referred to verses from the prophet Isaiah to explain the meaning of "Wings." It is from chapter 40, verse 31:

"They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint."

The phrase "Wings of morning" brings to mind another verse of Scripture which reassures us of the constant presence of the Lord. In the 139th Psalm we read:

"Whither shall I go from thy Spirit? Or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend to heaven, thou art there! If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there! If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there thy hand shall lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me."

(verses 7-10) One of my favorite poems which I have used here before, bears repeating especially as we are thinking of God's presence in the morning.

I met God in the morning When my day was at its best And His presence came like sunrise Like a glory in my breast. All day long the Presence lingered.

All day long He stayed with me. And we sailed in perfect calmness O'er a very troubled sea. Other ships were blown and battered, But the winds that seemed to drive them brought to us a peace and rest.

Then I thought of other mornings With a keen remorse of mind, When I, too, had loosed the elderly gentleman with the Presence left behind.

So I think I know the secret, Learned from many a troubled way: You must seek Him in the morning. If you want Him through the day!

Ralph Spaulding Cushman A counter offer: Jerome D. Engel, a noted Baptist preacher, was annoyed each Sunday because an elderly gentleman went to sleep shortly after the sermon began. After service one morning the minister spoke to the young lad who came regularly with the older man, his grandfather.

"If you will keep your grandfather awake during the sermon," said Dr. Engel, "I will give you a nickel." This arrangement worked well for two Sundays but on the third the elderly gentleman was back at his old routine, fast asleep.

When the lad was confronted with the situation and reminded of their agreement he replied, "Yes, I know you offered me a nickel to keep Grandfather awake, but now he gives me a dime to let him sleep."

The man inherits the nickel! Why should they? many will ask.

Uriah Hoop and Casper Milquetoast come to their minds. "Meek" rhymes with "Weak" and this is what it means to them. Nietzsche was one who did not understand the true meaning of this word and poured contempt on the quality of meekness.

Actually the word has no relation to weakness. This concept has grown with the passing of the years, but originally, when it was translated in the seventeenth century, it referred to a quality of strength. In the New English Bible, it is translated "those of gentle spirit."

Daniel Jenkins, a brilliant British minister, uses the figure of a "gentle giant" to illustrate this word. He speaks of a strong, burly athlete who wants to win the confidence of a timid little girl.

He lowers his voice and carefully controls his cumbersome movements, perhaps even getting down on his knees. When he can make her see that his strength is under control of his gentle will and that all he wants to do is to help her and enjoy her company, then the strength becomes a reassurance rather than a threat.

— quoted in "Christian Maturity and the Theology of Success." The Revised Standard Version translates the words of Jesus, "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."

The New English Bible reads: "How blest are those of a gentle spirit; they shall have the earth for their possession."

A proverb: "It is like sport to a fool to do wrong, but wise conduct is pleasure to a man of understanding." Proverbs 11:23

Dr. Mellon will address clergy

The Rev. Dr. David D. Mellon, executive director of the Capitol Region Conference of Churches, will be guest speaker at a dinner for all members of the Manchester clergy, their spouses and other religious leaders Sunday at 1 p.m. in Cooper Hall of South United Methodist Church.

The dinner is being co-sponsored by South Church and the Division of Christian Unity of Manchester Area Conference of Churches, and is the second such event co-sponsored by the groups this year. Division delegates will serve as hosts, and dessert will be provided by Church Women.

Any member of the clergy or religious groups who have not made reservations for the dinner are asked to contact Elaine Holcomb, 649-2774. Last minute reservations also will be welcome. Mrs. Holcomb said.

Look at the Current Ecumenical Scene.

The clergy dinner is scheduled in conjunction with the 60th observance of World Communion Sunday. The Division of Christian Unity is also asking member churches of the conference to observe the day by uniting in a "Prayer for Christian Unity" during Communion services Sunday.

The prayer is contained in a brochure, copies of which have been sent to each Christian church in the state as part of the "Christian Together" project sponsored by the Christian Conference of Churches and the Connecticut Bible Society.

Paris police capture hijacker

PARIS (UPI) — A hijacker exploded a hand grenade in the passenger cabin of his commandeered jet on an airport runway Friday night. Police charged the plane seconds later and captured him, but four persons were wounded.

At least two of the injuries were serious, police said. There had been 89 hostages.

They identified the hijacker as Jacques Robert, 43, who shot his father to death when he was a teenager and held up a Paris radio station at gunpoint three years ago.

Police said their sharpshooters charged the plane only after the gunman exploded his grenade in the plane's passenger cabin.

The middle-aged hijacker, who shot a stewardess in the arm to show he meant business, threatened to kill one of his 89 hostages if officials did not agree to give him 12 minutes air time to make a political speech and refuse the plane and warned police he could blow up the plane.

Police said the Caravelle airliner's pilot reported over his intercom that the hijacker, who had a pistol, had pulled the pin out of his grenade and was holding down the detonator with his thumb.

For the nursery school set Watching mommie cook can be very confusing

By BETTY RYDER
When you ask the four-and-five-year-olds at the Concordia Lutheran Church Nursery School, "What's cooking?" they know. Well, almost. The youngsters in Mrs. Beverly Strand's class were asked to write a recipe which was to be included in a Mother's Day card for their mom.

All of the recipes received were original, to say the least.

Steak
She cooks it on our new grill. Then my dad brings it in the oven and we put it in the freezer. We cook it for 70 hours and we have bread, beans and carrots. Serves 4. Andrew Gagnon.

They cooked it. My dad put seasoning on it. Then we put the steak on the oven—it was HOT—400 degrees—for 3 hours. It was just right. Then we put it on a plate and we ate it with celery in a salad. Serves 12. Eric Vogel.

Goes to Highland Park and talks to the man. May I have some steak, please. She cooks it inside in the stove at about 1,000 degrees and then we eat it with bread and vegetables. Serves 4. Chris Behke.

Eggs
She makes toast. Butter and milk land mixes the. She puts them in the stove and mom cooks them for 3 days. Serves 6. Karen Hooper.

Scrambled
Two eggs, sugar, milk. She mixed it and put it in the oven for 100 degrees for 10 minutes. Then we eat it with a fork and nothing else. Serves 4. Suzanne Lee.

Apple Pie
First she puts flour. Then cinnamon. Then she mixes it up and then kinda 'cuts it in half. Then she kneads with her knuckles. Then flattens it out. Then presses it down. Peel off apples, cut in little pieces and THEN she puts them in the PIE and then she puts it into the oven. She turns on the HOT one, the TOP one for probably 16 hours. It "tastess" like Apple Pie. Serves 1. Jennifer Sharp.

Chocolate Pie
Makes it out of GRUBMS. Chocolate crumbs and then puts frosting on it. Put it in the oven at 7 degrees for 50 seconds. She takes it out and puts candles on it. Serves 4. Jennifer Hall.

Chocolate Marshmallow Cookies
Make it with puddin'. Then you put it in the oven. Then it comes out. The oven is 40 degrees and it takes for 80 minutes. It comes out like an English muffin. Then you put marshmallows on it and a few meatballs. We put cinnamon or syrup on it. It's delicious. Serves 10. Don Willis.

Cookies
Her gives them to me. She takes chocolate and puts it in a bowl and they come out candy bars. She puts in the oven for 2 months for 1,000 degrees. Serves 6. Steven Sartor.

Bunny Cake
Her gets frosting and some jelly beans and some coconut and some cake mix and that's ALL. Puts in the oven for 2 months for 1,000 degrees. Serves 6. Steven Sartor.

Deer Cake
She puts frosting. Mom takes eggs, she uses a heater. She puts it in the oven for 30 minutes for 40 degrees. It's like deer meat that a hunter shoots. Serves 7. Lucas Cosgrove.

Hot Dogs & Corn Bread
She puts it in HOT water. She bakes it. Take them out of the water and put on a plate. My mom makes corn bread and she puts it in a pan and then cuts it. It bakes for 30 minutes for 30 degrees. Serves 4. David Smith.

Pizza
Put in the stove with cheese, tomatoes. (I think) 2 minutes at 5 degrees. The crust is on the bottom. Serves 5. Timothy Kennedy.

It seems no matter how mommies appear to be making these recipes, the youngsters all agree on one thing: They taste delicious.

Bill Lee has 100 years of memories

Rockville's Bill Lee relaxes while recalling events from his past. He'll be a century old this week. (Herald photo by Richmond)

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

How do you cram 100 years of living into one newspaper story? It's not easy when the person you are writing about is still alive.

William "Bill" Lee of Rockville will reach the century mark Wednesday. Although he now lives in a Rockville convalescent home, he still gets around under his own power and keeps up to date on everything going on around town and everywhere else.

He was born in Hartford, came to Rockville as a child and has lived in this area ever since. He's not only unique because of his age—he also set some record by not retiring until he reached age 81. He started to work in the Talcoville Woolen Mills when he was just 13, which makes a total of 65 working years.

He was in the Talcoville mills for 55 years and also worked for a few years in the Cheney Mills. He still wasn't ready to retire and then took a job as a custodian in the Sykes School in Rockville.

When he lived in Hartford there wasn't an inside bathroom or a bathtub in the entire city and the Bulkeley Bridge was the only one. He remembers standing on that bridge and watching horse races on the ice on the Connecticut River.

One of the highlights of his coming birthday was the receipt of a birthday card from President Carter and his wife, Rosalyn.

Lee has a keen sense of humor and quipped that he didn't know if he'll be around to celebrate his 200th birthday.

He then wrote reflective and said, "Poor old Rockville is all washed up. It used to be such a busy place when the woolen mills were operating. 'We didn't make much money then but we lived 100 per cent better.' When he started to work he brought home $13 a month and gave it to his parents.

woolen mill that used to be on Windermere Ave. in Rockville. You could always tell when it was payday — men and women would be drunk in the streets and the mill would have to close down for the day.

He also remembers when there were stores where Rockville General Hospital is now. That was before the Maxwell Estate, part of the hospital facility, was even built.

The stores all burned down. Across the street, where the Prichard Block is now on Union St., there was a roller skating rink, which also burned, along with the original Union Congregational Church.

Lee used to visit the old Henry Opera House where he saw "some real good shows." There's nothing like that around here now, he said.

The building which housed the opera house was condemned several years ago and had to be torn down. The Vernon Historical Society retrieved some of the items from the opera house.

Lee also remembers when the Rockville Hotel was an elegant place to dine. You could have all you could eat for 50 cents.

"I've seen the best of this country. The unions and the politicians have killed it," he said. His grandmother's father's farm was where the State Capitol building now stands in Hartford. Lee can remember sheep grazing on the hillside. Lee is an avid baseball fan and watches his clock to make sure he doesn't miss a game on television. His favorite team? The Red Sox, of course.

"I'm a New Englander and I back the Red Sox," Baseman is the only thing he likes to watch on television.

About the game in general, he commented, "I think they're killing it. The salaries for the players are too high and they charge too much to go to a game."

Lee told of his uncle, who was a policeman in Hartford. Lee used to walk the beat with him — on Front St. — through the toughest part of town.

He chuckled when he recalled how people used to go into the bar there. If they didn't have the money to pay for their drinks the owner would write their name on a slate. The only problem was that there would be fights and people would rub up against the slate, so the owner knew who owed him what.

Lee also voiced some words of wisdom about the young people of today.

"If the people today stayed home and watched their children the way my mother and father watched us, they wouldn't have so much trouble.

"We weren't hanging around drinking and smoking. If our parents said be in at 8 o'clock, this didn't mean one minute after."

Speaking of the Hockanum River, he expressed concern that it's polluted. Lee used to catch good trout there when he was young, but after the town put in sewer lines he couldn't fish in it.

He also remembers Sulpice Lake (now a reservoir) when it was a resort area. He rode the excursion boat and recalled the delicious shore dinners.

He also recalled when, if someone was ill, you would go to the one phone in Talcoville — the one in the general store — and call the doctor, who would come to the house in his horse and buggy, administer medication and only charge $1.

That doctor was related to the Lees and he is the one for whom Wilton Memorial Library in Manchester is named.

Friday and Saturday nights used to be big nights in Rockville. All of the stores were open. Lee said the town had an ordinance then which prohibited anyone from standing on the street and talking.

He could write a book about all of his experiences, for he's had a lot of them over the 100 years. Even though he feels Rockville isn't what it used to be, it's his home and he loves it.

He has a daughter, Mrs. John Booth of Dart Hill Rd., with whom he made his home until recently, five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. He also has a sister, Mrs. Hattie Pitkin, who will be 98 Thursday. She lives in a Manchester convalescent home.

Vernon planners eye capital needs

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

A capital improvements budget totaling a ball park estimate of $20 million was given to the Vernon Planning Commission for consideration this week.

John Loranger, town planner, prepared the proposal after asking all town department heads to submit their anticipated needs for the next five to six years.

He cautioned the commission that there is a long way to go before the needs for any individual project are justified, approved by the Town Council, and the voters, if necessary.

Loranger was asked to produce the information in connection with the revision of the town plan and its relation to future land use and provision of town services.

He said the cost estimates for all of the projects are ball park figures that department heads submitted after checking on the cost of similar projects in other areas.

About $15 million of the $20 million is for sewers and highways, Loranger said. He said the list doesn't include any requests for replacement or new equipment or rolling stock.

One of the items the commission indicated should have priority is purchase of land for a fire station to replace the one in the Dobson Rd. area of Rt. 30.

The Public Works Department had the longest list of needs, most of them being road improvement projects or correction of drainage problems.

Loranger checked the ones he feels should have high priority. On the public works list these were a public works complex town garage, dog pound renovations, expansion of the Senior Citizen Center and several road improvement projects.

The Police Department asked for a radio tower on Fox Hill, plus a repeater and satellite receiver system.

The tax assessor said there is a need for a revaluation study. The Parks Department said it needs a storage garage, and the Town Council, codification of ordinances.

The Vernon Water Co. said it needs a water storage tank, a main on Tunnel Rd.-Vernon Ave., and a new well on Tunnel Rd.

William Houle, Planning Commission member, said the commission should strongly recommend that the Town Council begin active searching for suitable land for the new firehouse and also to initiate a complete study of public works needs.

Applications for projects from the Recreation Commission were not submitted in complete form. The commission asked Loranger to ask that groups submit more information on plans for development of Camp Newhock and an indoor swimming pool.

Tuesday and Wednesday—Progress Dr. to Colonial Dr. at the corner of Cushman Dr. and then in an easterly direction to Vernon St. Thursday—Oakland N. Main St. and streets in the N. School St. and Mill St. area. Friday—Oakland St., Sheldon Rd., Tudor Lane and Rachel Rd. If water appears discolored, the homeowner should try to avoid using it until it clears up. This will prevent rust and sediment from being brought into the home's water supply. If sediment does get into a home's hot water tank, the homeowner should wait until the water clears and then open the faucet at the bottom of the tank to drain the collected material, which will settle at the bottom. Also, if a load of wash is done during the period of discolored water, the load should be done again after the water clears and four ounces of cream of tartar should be added to help clean any discoloration of the clothing.

VFW members attend conclave

Several representatives of the Anderson-Shea Post and Auxiliary of the VFW, recently attended the National Convention held in Minneapolis, Minn. Delegates attending from the post were Commander Tom Hovey and Eugene Freeman. Representing the Auxiliary were Mrs. Helen Hovey, president; Mrs. Theresa Varney, state senior vice president; Mrs. Mary LeDuc, past state president; Mrs. Florence Streeter, past national councilwoman; Mrs. Eugene Freeman, past district president; and Mrs. Muriel Grover and Mrs. Margaret Zukus, past auxiliary president. The Department of Connecticut was in attendance for rehabilitation work and membership. Putnam, the host post for Loyalty Day, was responsible for the State of Connecticut receiving the Loyalty Day Award. The Panama Canal treaty was the main concern of the convention. Members voted unanimously to go on record as being opposed to what they regarded as a "giveaway" treaty. All members were urged to contact their congressmen with their opinions. The men's organization voted against female membership in their group at the present time. The 1978 National Convention will be in Dallas, Texas.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm a respectable middle-aged woman who never thought I'd be writing a Dear Abby letter, but I am.

While driving home alone from a meeting at about 11 p.m. last evening, I developed car trouble. Fortunately, I was in a residential neighborhood, so I rang the doorbell of a home, hoping to get someone to help me.

A man yelled through the locked door, "Who is it?" I told him of my plight, and he said, "Sorry, I don't open my door to strangers. I was shocked, I rang another doorbell. This time an elderly lady pulled her curtain aside to look at me, then she disappeared without even asking me what I wanted.

Then I tried to flag down a motorist. About 30 cars passed me before a young hippie-looking kid in a beat-up old van stopped and gave me a ride to a gas station. One man was inside and he signaled he was closed and couldn't help me!

I finally found a pay phone and called AAA, which sent someone out to help me.

My question: Are we living in such a sick, selfish, paranoid society in which people care so little for each other that they won't open the door to a stranger? I could have been on my way to a hospital with a dying child for all those people cared. I welcome your comments.

BOILING

DEAR BOILING: In light of the widely publicized police directives cautioning us against opening one's door to strangers, I cannot fault those who refused to let you in. However, they could have made a phone call for you.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to marry a dude who can't keep his eyes off other girls. What he does when he's with me can't hurt me because I don't see it, but when we're together and he stares at other girls, I'm hurt. He says blondes are his weakness.

I offered to bleach my hair blonde, but he says he likes me the way I am. Do you think he will change after we're married? He says he will, but I don't know whether to believe him. Any suggestions? Sign me, JEANNIE WITH THE LIGHT BROWN HAIR

DEAR JEANNIE: Don't marry a man hoping he'll "change" for the better after marriage. He may change for the worse - or not at all.

DEAR ABBY: When I was a young boy, I lost the thumb and first two fingers of my right hand in a farming accident. I learned to write with my left hand, but I have another problem. People are always wanting to shake hands with me, and it's embarrassing when they realize that I have some fingers missing.

I have tried extending my left hand to shake hands, but it's very awkward, and only calls attention to the fact that something must be wrong with my right hand. If you can solve this one, you'll be my friend for life.

SOUTHPAW

DEAR SOUTHPAW: Ask your doctor to arrange an appointment with someone who specializes in "prosthetic" limbs. Bagers, Chambers, 1150 Main St., New Britain, Conn. 06102. They'll be glad to help you.

Houley says selling cars helps image

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Sen Robert Houley, D-Somers, says he thinks his new job as a car salesman will help his public image — to a degree.

Houley, co-chairman of the Legislature's budget-writing Appropriations Committee, has been unemployed in the private sector since quitting his job as a jewelry salesman earlier this year.

Houley said he thinks his credibility with the public should improve because of his new job.

He noted a recent poll on 15 professions rated car dealers 14th in terms of "credibility."

Farm candidates sought

Tolland County farmers are being asked to nominate candidates to be on the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) community committee ballot.

The four ASC communities in Tolland County are Community I, Somers, Stafford, Union; Community II, Ellington, Tolland, Vernon; Community III, Coventry, Mansfield, Willington; and Community IV, Andover, Bolton, Columbia and Hebron.

ASC committees are responsible for managing government farm programs at the local level. County farmers have the opportunity to nominate the persons they feel would best serve the farm community. Farmers will be mailed petition forms

Students commended

Two students at East Hartford High School have achieved "commended student status" in the annual National Merit Scholarship Program, said John F. Callahan, principal.

Martha E. Flynn, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William E. Flynn of 36 Ellsworth St., and Allan A. Sinicrope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sinicrope of 99 Holland Lake, took the merit tests in October 1976, when they were EHHS juniors.

Voter-making sessions

The Board of Admissions of Electors will hold voter-making sessions today and next Saturday, Oct. 8, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Wednesday, Oct. 12, from 7 to 9 p.m. Sessions are in the registrars office at the Town Hall.

and may begin submitting them to the ASC office, Rt. 30, Vernon starting Oct. 6 but no later than Oct. 31.

Mrs. Mary Koelsch, county executive director, said that in order to be valid petitions must be limited to one nominee each, must include written certification that the nominee is willing to serve if elected, and must be signed by at least three eligible farm voters in the community concerned.

A farmer may circulate or sign nominating petitions for as many candidates as he chooses. Anyone wishing more information should call Mrs. Koelsch at the ASC office.

Betty White cast
not much support

By DAVID HANDLER

Who would have thought 10 years ago that Betty White would bust out as a television nymphomaniac? She was Miss Pure and Decent. I mean, she was married to Password's Allen Ludden — the ultimate bore, the man you'd least like to be trapped in an elevator with.

And then she popped up on the Mary Tyler Moore show as Sue Ann Nevins, the cheery homemaker with an open fondness for men — any men. I was continually — yet pleasantly — flooded by the lewd asides and innuendos that came out of Sue Ann's mouth. I suspect that many of them would have been killed by the censors if they hadn't been delivered by Betty White. I'm also certain that the lines, and the character, wouldn't have been nearly as hilarious.

But why linger in the past? What's the point? Mary is gone, she'll probably never be back. So we search hungrily this fall for a replacement — something, anything to fill the void — and we arrive at the Betty White Show (CBS Monday at 9 p.m.).

I wanted Betty's show to be good, but I'm afraid the password is ... weak.

The core is strong enough. Making Betty the star of a tough policewoman show is a class A gimmick, reminiscent of MTM's godfather, the Dick Van Dyke show. TV is a fun profession to draw plots from, and it's peopled by zany characters.

And Betty is quite good. What a treat to have a star who bristles with bitterness, who is out-and-out nasty. I suppose this could be said of another, ill-fated MTM spinoff, Phyllis, but I always found her bitchiness neurotic and obnoxious, while Betty's is unabashed and endearing. Her co-star, John Hillerman, is a standout as the deadpan ex-husband who is sentenced to be director of the show. The tension between them, their jabs and put-downs, form a good character line.

The key to the success of a situation comedy is not the star but the supporting cast. The gang in the newsroom at WJM were like old chums; you could anticipate how they'd react in any situation. Their loves and hates for each other were essence of the show, with Mary holding it together but never having to carry it. Betty's shoulders are caving in.

Her supporting cast is uniformly weak. Georgia Engel is clearly tacked on to remind us of better days.

The remaining support is abysmal. The idiotic network liaison man, the insecure actor who plays a tough cop, the serpot actress are mere shadows of characters. They have nothing funny to do. They don't interact without Betty around, in fact they don't even exist.

The Betty White Show could make it. The supporting cast can be beefed up, and it could jell into a winner. But right now, all it does is remind me of how much I miss good ol' Mary.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me who was the leader of the band, years ago, who called themselves The Royal Hawaiians. I recall them singing "Sweet Lellani." ETHEL G., Lodi, Calif.

DEAR DICK: My son and I disagree. Would you settle the dispute? Who was the girl that played the part of Rita Harrington on Peyton Place? A.M. NORRIS, Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

That was Pat Morrow, who quit acting and became a lawyer.

DEAR DICK: In this day of realism in movies, I'd like to tell you of my pet peeve and ask what can be done about it. Everything looks so authentic, except when it comes to a baby in a scene. Then they have a stiff, lightweight doll and it is so obvious. Why don't they use a baby-shaped sandbag, which would mold to the arms of the carrier? MRS. RUTH NAUD, Yakima, Wash.

California state laws are very strict about the use of real babies on movie sets. They can only be used for a very short period of time, which means they must use some form of substitute in a long scene. Dolls have faces, sandbags don't. But your idea seems to have merit, and I'll pass it on to some studio propmen.

DEAR DICK: I have a question which has baffled me. What is Randolph Mantooth's (he's Johnny Gage on Emergency!) real occupation? How old is he? Is he married? Has he appeared on any other series? G. MURPHY, Alameda, Ca.

Mantooth is, of course, an actor. Did you think he might be a fireman? He's single, 31, and appeared on many other series - Marcus Welby, Adam-12, etc. - before Emergency!

DEAR DICK: Is Michael Constantine the father of Tim Constantine, the star of Spin and Marty? SUSAN DOWTY, Troy, Ohio.

No, and, as a matter of fact, Tim's name is Considine, not Constantine.

DEAR DICK: I went through my year book, 1941 Virgil Junior High School. In the dramatic section was a Dick Crenna. Is this Richard Crenna who plays in All's Fair? MARY JANE LEPLEY, Lathrop, Ca.

Yes. Dick calls Virgil Junior High his Alma Mater.

DEAR DICK: I have a bet with a friend who says that Jimmy Walker of Good Times is 34 years old. I say he is 22 years old or close to that. If I'm wrong, I'll be very surprised. MRS. DOROTHY O'HARA, Levittown, Pa.

Surprise! While Jimmy's age is a close-guarded secret, the best guess is that he's over 30.

13-center notes birth of the 'talkies'

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

Next Thursday, the 6th, will see the release of a 13-cent stamp to commemorate the 50th Anniversary Year of Talking Pictures. The first-day ceremonies will be, appropriately, in Hollywood.

Oct. 6, 1927 is the date that Vitaphone presented Al Jolson's voice in the "The Jazz Singer." Only part of the movie was in sound, but by 1930 the silents were a thing of the past - thus throwing many piano players out of a job.

The stamp is a companion to the Edison cylinder, Scott No. 1705. It will be color coordinated (?) with yellow, pink, olive and black - only one plate number.

As to movies - here is a survey of the Academy Award winners for a few decades. In 1927-28 the Best Picture Award went to "Wings"; Best Actor, Emil Jannings in "The Way of All Flesh"; Best Actress, Janet Gaynor in "Seventh Heaven."

Skipping to 1937: Best Picture, "Life of Emile Zola"; Best Actor, Spencer Tracy in "Captains Courageous"; Best Actress, Luis Rainer in "The Good Earth."

1947: "Gentlemen's Agreement"; Ronald Colman in "A Double Life";

Loretta Young in "The Farmer's Daughter." Actor, Alec Guinness in the same picture;

Best Actress, Joanne Woodward in "Three Faces of Eve." And for 1967: "In the Heat of the Night"; Rod Steiger got Best Actor for that picture; Best Actress, Katharine Hepburn in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

(How many ring a bell with you?) There will be another 13-cent issue the following day - The Surrender at Saratoga, the looks like something we've seen a dozen times over the past year. It is a jumbo commem to mark the date Oct. 7, 1777, when Burgoyne and his Redcoats lost to General Gates at Saratoga, N.Y. (now Schuylerville.)

This is from another painting by Trumbull. The colors will be yellow, magenta, cyan and black. Give up on the plate block - there will be five numbers. The first-day bash will be at Schuylerville.

"Harris" is ready

The new "Harris" is ready! This is an event akin to the appearance of the Red Book for U.S. coin collectors. They have been calling it the "Harris Reference Catalog" lately, saying it is impossible to stock every stamp in the book.

It is well illustrated - more than just a price list. (Some of the plates are getting a little tired. Compare this latest one with the 1974 edition. The same thing happened to Scott's.)

Carping critics may say that Harris does not give the details of condition we see in Stanley Gibbons or Brookman. But it is far ahead of them in other ways, and for United States or Canada collectors, beginning or advanced, it is the first book to get.

Something to do

The First Sunday Stamp Bourse will have a real bing for its second anniversary tomorrow at the Ramada Inn, 100 E. River Dr., East Hartford, 10 to 5. There will be 25 dealers, the USPS with a special cancel for the show. Also the UNPA will be there with a special imprint.

In addition there will be a two-color cachet featuring the first United Nations stamp - "Peoples of the World" watching the sunrise of the UN. These covers will be available at the show for 50 cents or by mail if you enclose a No. 10 self-addressed stamped envelope.

Bushnell wins again

Ed Bushnell, a former president of the Manchester Philatelic Society, took a bronze medal at Puerto Rico's PURIPEX for his exhibit of U.S. Deadletter Mail.

Good reaction to advice line

By INK DIPPER

Response to the idea of making Channel 1 an advisory channel has been enthusiastic and genuine when it was broached to the Michigan State Police and the Oklahoma Tourist Commission.

Channel 1 is presently a HOT line in Tennessee, Maryland and Georgia. In these three states it started as a tourism service.

Base units operating from Welcome Centers on the state boundaries monitor Channel 19, making frequent breaks to tell tourists they can obtain any information they might want in their travels by going down to Channel 1 where a Welcome Center staff person will answer their questions.

All three states have reported the response to the program has been excellent.

This column was impressed with the idea as well as its potential effectiveness, particularly after a first person tryout. The utilitarian value to be afforded by a nationwide Channel 1 advisory began to evolve.

At this point, the FCC will not designate any channels other than 9 (the emergency channel) and 19 (the trucker channel.)

However, both these channels are overloaded with yak while others are vacant.

"Channel 1 coast-to-coast as an advisory channel is a great idea!" Enthuses Lt. Rod LaMore of the Michigan State Police in Lansing.

"We monitor 9 and 19 all the time. But they've got so much conversation on them - conversation that is really of an advisory nature - that it's darned hard to get an emergency message on the air."

"A Channel 1 would not only serve any state's tourism program, it would also serve the law enforcement agencies, too," LaMore reflects.

"A very high percentage of accidents on interstates are caused by the erratic driving of car operators who are looking for a direction, trying to figure out which lane they should be in, or searching for a place that doesn't seem to be on their map."

"CB will ultimately be in every vehicle to eliminate the capsule effect a car presently has," he adds. "I'm convinced this isolation causes deaths that CB can avoid. CB will be as important as the wheel in five years."

Funds are a problem for each of the states contacted. Carl Clark, director of the tourism division in Oklahoma City, Ok., has been grappling with a means to obtain funding for his 11 centers.

"The idea of a Channel 1 serving the public on a nationwide basis is super," says Steve Huntress of the Tourism Division.

"A letter of proposal might help our director in his efforts to fund such a project. Oklahoma is a 'bridge' state with millions of tourists passing through it every day.

This could be a great service to them!"

NEAR, National Emergency Air Radio, has been contacted about funding. There is money available on a specified basis, it can be reported. Illinois was just approved for federal funding and part of their plan is to utilize equipment for advisory. A formal letter of proposal is being written and directed to NEAR with Channel 1 being utilized for an advisory service.

This column, reflecting the tenor of its mail as well as its own conviction, feels that the pressure on Channels 9 and 19 must be alleviated.

The harnessing of CB for the ultimate good of the CBers and the public will be benefitted by a Channel 1 program. Write your governor and enlist his aid and support.
