Mormon Church bean crop to help welfare program

Members of the Manchester Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) have nurtured two crops of beans this past summer which they have sold to large supermarket chains.

The farm-to-market agricultural venture, in itself, is not new. But the Manchester Ward's purpose is one which, although not new to the Mormon Church, is a unique one by most church standards.

Funds from the sale of the beans go to benefit the church's own welfare program. Both church members receiving church welfare and others who were able, worked on the welfare project voluntarily.

The Latter-day Saint church has for most of its nearly 150-year history provided a welfare program which takes care of its own needy.

The Hartford Stake (diocese) which includes much of Connecticut and Massachusetts, is looking for 100 acres of land for crop growing and a separate site for construction of a cannery and commodity storehouse in the Massachusetts area.

In the west and in other areas of the LDS church where the membership is large, the storehouse, stocked by volunteer labor in the fields and canneries, provides commodities for the church's needy.

On about two acres of land which was donated to the Manchester church for its use, the first two crops were harvested this summer. Wendell K. Walton, bishop of the Manchester Ward, said he expects the project will be continued next year.

Three share Nobel award

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Two Americans and a Briton today won the 1977 Nobel Prize for physics for solid state research work that could make solar heating systems cheaper in the future.

The Americans honored by the Swedish Royal Academy of Sciences are Dr. Philip W. Anderson, 54, of the Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, N.J., and Prof. John H. Van Vleck, 78, of Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Sharing the three-way award — and the $145,000 prize money — with the Americans was Sir Nevill F. Mott,

Carter discusses Panama treaties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter discussed the Panama Canal treaties with Senate leaders today and a dubious Barry Goldwater said later it's like the American flag — Americans "are not going to buy giving that canal away."

"Before I will accept the treaty ... it will have to have some rather large changes," the Arizona Republican told reporters after he and other senators were summoned by Carter to talk over the issue.

The meeting came as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House International Relations Committee held hearings on whether to give the canal to Panama in the year 2000. Strong controversy has been raised over whether Panama would allow U.S. intervention in a subsequent canal emergency.

Goldwater told reporters it was an apparent attempt by Carter to clarify the treaties but the explanation did not change his opinion.

"It is an economic problem," he said he told Carter. "We should do anything we can, in an economic way, to help them (Panama) — but not to wind up giving them the canal."

"The American people are not going to buy giving that canal away," Goldwater said. "Don't ask me why. It's like the American flag. They're wrapped up in it."

"I don't think anybody changed his position," added Senate GOP Leader Howard Baker, who has not taken a position on the issue. But he called it the most frank and candid discussion he has attended at the Carter White House.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said he felt the treaty has gained in public support. But, "I don't know," he said, when asked if it has picked up support in the Senate.

On Monday, Adm. Thomas Moorer appeared before the Foreign Relations Committee and raised the specter of strong Russian influence over the canal if the treaties are approved.

But retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt said Soviet presence would be more likely to flourish if the pending treaties are rejected.

Moorer, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Monday his prediction of Russian advances was based on observations over a 40-year naval career.

During that time, he said, Russia moved into Libya and took control of Wheeler Air Force Base, gained control of bases in Angola and Mozambique and established "an axis" with Cuba.

"Cuba is the Soviet anchor in the Caribbean in defiance of the Monroe Doctrine," Moorer said, and warned: "Do not be surprised — if this treaty is ratified in its present form — to see a Soviet and or Cuban presence quickly established in the country of Panama."

Town denies breach of water contract

An attorney for the insurance company that represents the Town of Manchester has filed a general denial of unpure water in the case involving claims against the town for damages because of an August water problem.

The leader of residents in the southwest section of Manchester, where the problem was, has questioned the denial and plans to subpoena town and state officials to appear Monday, the next day of the trial.

Joseph Reynolds and other residents are seeking damages against the town of Manchester because of a 12-day period in August when they were required to boil water in their homes.

Atty. Edward Daly Jr., who represents Traveler's Insurance, last week submitted an amended answer to the Court of Common Pleas.

"The defendant denies that it breached any contract with the plaintiff and further denies that the water supply was ever unpure," Daly wrote in his answer.

Daly could not be reached this morning for comment on the statement.

The case will continue on Monday at 2 p.m. in Small Claims Court at New Britain.

Reynolds of 86 Niles Dr. said that he does not understand how the town can claim that the water is not unpure when there is report from Jodaitis that outlines a contamination problem," Reynolds said. Frank Jodaitis, Manchester's water and sewer administrator, recently completed a report about the August water situation.

Reynolds said that he plans to subpoena town and state officials, including members of the Town Board of Directors, for the Monday court date.

Last Thursday, the first day of the trial, included testimony from Jodaitis, Bob Young of the Water Department and Ronald Kraatz of the Health Department.

High court upholds parking limitations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in an action that could affect many of the nation's bigger urban areas, ruled today that nothing in the Constitution bars a locality from restricting on-street parking by commuters.

In an unsigned opinion, the court upheld an ordinance in Arlington, Va., a suburb of the nation's capital, under which commuters are barred from parking on certain neighborhood streets but residents are given free parking permits.

"To reduce air pollution and other environmental effects of automobile commuting," the opinion said, "a community reasonably may restrict on-street parking available to commuters, thus encouraging reliance on car pools and mass transit."

"The same goal is served by assuring convenient parking to residents who leave their cars at home during the day."

The court said a community also may regulate the flow of outside traffic into residential areas to improve the quality of life there by reducing noise, traffic hazards and litter.

"The Constitution does not outlaw these social and environmental objectives, nor does it presume distinctions between residents and non-residents of a local neighborhood to be invidious," the justices said.

"The Equal Protection Clause requires only that the distinction drawn by an ordinance like Arlington's rationally promote the regulation's objectives."

Laws similar to Arlington's have been adopted by Atlanta, Baltimore, San Francisco, Boston and Cambridge, Mass., the District of Columbia, Montgomery and Prince Georges counties, Md., Richmond and Charlottesville, Va., Wilmington, Del., and other localities.

Veterans preference ruling set aside

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today ordered a panel of federal judges to reconsider their ruling striking down the Massachusetts law which puts qualified veterans ahead of all others on the public employment roster.

The court set aside the ruling by a three-judge U.S. District Court in Boston that the statute was unconstitutional because it denies female applicants an equal chance at public jobs.

Three justices — William Brennan, Thurgood Marshall and Lewis Powell wanted to accept the case and hear arguments on it later this term. But by tradition the votes of four justices are needed for review.

The justices want the panel to review its decision in light of a Supreme Court ruling issued after it acted on the case.

In that ruling, known as Washington vs. Davis, the high court said a law does not violate the Constitution just because it has a "racially disproportionate impact."

It said such a law may be upheld when there is no finding of "discriminatory intent."

State

NEW HAVEN — Lorne J. Acquin, under indictment for the murder of nine persons last summer, has been transferred to the state's maximum facility for the criminally insane with the approval of his attorney.

HARTFORD — An effort is under way to prevent a flood of bills from bogging down next year's session of the Legislature which begins the first week of February and must end by the first week in May. When annual sessions began in 1970, the "short" session was supposed to be limited to fiscal matters.

FAIRFIELD — Activist Ned Coll today headed for New York City on his walk to Washington, D. C. to publicize his warning that the government is unprepared to face another severe winter.

STAMFORD — The Connecticut Bar Association's House of Delegates was to vote today on a compromise proposal of advertising guidelines for lawyers. The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled it is legal for lawyers to advertise their services.

Regional

BOSTON — Extended outlook for Southern New England, Thursday through Saturday: Chance of a few showers Thursday. Fair weather Friday. Increasing cloudiness Saturday. Cool through the period with highs mostly in the 50s and overnight lows from mid 30s to low 40s.

BAR HARBOR, Maine — Dewey Reinhard and co-pilot Steve Stephenson drifted slowly across the chilly north Atlantic today in their giant silver and black balloon "Eagle," hoping to be the first ever to make the 3,000-mile trip to Europe by balloon. They lifted off at 5:35 p.m. Monday.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H. — The nation's 12 Republican governors and 28 candidates who would like to join their ranks are being told the GOP's troubles stem from too much partisanship and cannibalism. The unity theme was to be echoed again today by former Texas Gov. John Connally and GOP National Chairman William Brock.

QUINCY, Mass. — About 5,000 striking workers at General Dynamics shipyard were expected to vote Wednesday on a three-year contract agreement reached last week by union and company officials. Both sides expect ratification.

National

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — FBI director-designate Frank Johnson Jr., conceding he ignored medical advice, is ordered to bed as complications from an artery operation force postponement of his confirmation hearings.

NEW ORLEANS — The Teamsters refused to honor a strike by local longshoremen who refuse to load any ships in defiance of national International Longshoremen's Association of-ficers.

CINCINNATI — Accusing Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., of acting "maliciously" in dealing with a permanently disabled person, the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld a $285,000 award to a Tennessee woman who was seriously injured in an auto accident.

DORADO, Puerto Rico — Gov. Carlos Romero Barcelo says it is time for Puerto Rico to cast off what he calls its semi-colonial political status and become a full-fledged state of the union. He addressed the 18th annual meeting of United Press International Editors and Publishers Monday.

WASHINGTON — Dr. Jonas B. Robitscher, a forensic psychiatrist, says the late Martha Mitchell might have averted Watergate but was silenced and labeled a mental case, treated against her will by doctors who forcibly tranquilized her.

MOSCOW — Soviet Cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenko and Valery Ryumin safely landed their troubled Soyuz 25 capsule in Soviet Asia today, ending a major space mission aborted only 130 yards from their goal — a link-up with an orbiting space station.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — The United States says it is ready to enter the growing East-West debate at the Belgrade conference with a blast at Soviet violations of human rights and international law.

72, of Cambridge University, England.

"The three prize winners are theoreticians within the field of solid state physics — the branch of physics which lies behind essential parts of the current technical development, particularly in electronics," the academy said.

Academy member Prof. Stig Lundqvist said Mott and Anderson's knowledge of the behavior of crystalline materials meant, for practical application, that "solar heating cells may become cheaper in the future. It now takes about seven or eight years to gain enough energy to pay for the energy you have invested to build a solar heating system."

The Swedish academy said van Vleck has been called "the father of modern magnetism," and his ideas have played a key role in development of the laser.

Anderson was van Vleck's student at Harvard, and Mott "brought to the attention of researchers and popularized" Anderson's major written work, "Absence of Diffusion in Certain Random Lattices," published in 1958, Lundqvist said.

In Cambridge, van Vleck said today his winning a share of the physics prize was unexpected. "This thing is a complete surprise to me," he said.

Van Vleck retired from teaching in 1969 but still maintains an office at Harvard University.

Hijackers seek asylum

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — A woman and a man dressed in a Czech uniform hijacked a Czechoslovak airliner at gunpoint today and forced it to fly to Frankfurt where they surrendered peacefully and asked West German authorities for political asylum.

The couple armed with a revolver and a pistol seized a Soviet built short-range Yak-40 carrying 26 persons, including the crew, on a domestic flight and made it cross the border to Frankfurt where they gave themselves up after two hours and 15 minutes of negotiations with West German authorities.

"They have asked for political asylum," Frankfurt Police Chief Knut Mueller told reporters after they were turned over to police for interrogation.

Legal authorities said that even if they are allowed to stay in West Germany they will face trial here for hijacking.

In the past refugees who hijacked aircraft to escape from Czechoslovakia were not sent back but were tried in German courts in line with German determination to stamp out terrorism and hijacking.

The West German government repeatedly has advocated an international anti-terrorist agreement under which hijackers either would be returned to their own country or tried in the country they land in.

The hijackers seized the aircraft on a flight from Karlovy Vary, the former Carlsbad, to Prague, police said. By the time Czechoslovak air controllers realized it was off course it already was in West German air space, Prague aviation sources said. The plane flew toward Munich then veered toward Frankfurt where it landed without permission.

In a radio contact with the Frankfurt tower the hijackers demanded the plane be refueled so it could fly on to Munich, where they wanted to surrender. But they were told this was impossible because of technical problems and they were persuaded to leave the plane in Frankfurt, Mueller said.

At Prague airport a Crisis Staff met and contacted Frankfurt airport authorities. The Czechoslovaks were expected to demand and receive permission for the plane and the remaining 24 persons aboard to return to Prague.

Tragic story

Some stories in the news are so heartbreaking that one understandably might prefer to skip over them.

Such was the account of the arrival recently of the first of an eventual 15,000 new Vietnamese refugees to this country — 7,000 of them "boat people" who escaped from former South Vietnam by sea in small, frail and uncertain craft, and 8,000 others who made their way overland to Thailand.

What is painful are not the individual or collective stories of these refugees. Though they involve an immense amount of suffering and sacrifice; they are after all 15,000 stories with happy endings.

No, the wrenching thought is that for every refugee who has made it safely to the United States, many others continue to languish in camps in Thailand or are buffeted from country to country seeking one that will give them sanctuary.

An unknown number of boat people have perished in storms or, we are told, been sunk by patrol boats.

No doubt this latest refugee movement in a century, that has seen so many of them would have happened even if the United States had never become involved in Southeast Asia in an attempt to fill the vacuum left by the French and prevent the forcible absorption of South Vietnam by Communist North.

But since we did become involved, transforming a small, bitter war into a large, terrible war, we bear a special responsibility toward the victims of that conflict and its aftermath. The 15,000 new refugees will make a total of 165,000 Indo-Chinese who have entered the United States since the fall of Saigon in April, 1975.

How many tens of thousands more will come knocking on our national conscience, no one can predict.

A bridge of books

There is a tremendous appetite in the Soviet Union for everything Western, and if we ran the Kremlin we would think twice before doing anything to increase it.

One thing we definitely would not do would be to stage a giant book fair and invite publishers from all over the world to participate. Or if we did, we certainly wouldn't make it wide open to the public.

Yet that is exactly what the Soviets did in Moscow in September when they held their first international book fair, in which 1,500 publishers from 63 countries displayed some 80,000 books to an estimated 130,000 to 150,000 fascinated Russians.

Commercially, the fair was a success from everybody's viewpoint. American publishers alone sold translation rights to 75 books to the Soviets and sought the rights to 39 Soviet titles.

Ideologically, who can say? But although Soviet authorities confiscated 40 to 50 books, including George Orwell's devastating antitotalitarian "Animal Farm" and "1984", they also permitted the display of Russian-language editions of books by banned or unfavored Russian writers and other potentially controversial works.

Most impressive of all, however, was the behavior of the visiting public. "It was amazing with what respect people treated the books," said one American of the Russians, many of whom tried to read whole books on the spot, took notes and copied bibliographies.

Another fair is scheduled in Moscow in 1979. Those American publishers who refused to attend this one because of expected Soviet censorship might reconsider their position between now and then.

Belated hurrah for S.J. Perleman

WASHINGTON — To an aging tad who was raised on the erudite lunacy of S.J. Perleman, it was sheer delight to find that Swiftian sarcasm lurking about at the American Booksellers convention.

Yes, lurking. Perleman was forced to make a speech, but even on the dais the wittiest American writer managed to leave the impression he had climbed into the hall through an unguarded window. The best and the brightest in the trade furtively seek to avoid celebrity.

Although to Perleman I must have been facetious, his visit to Washington was for me a personal reunion. I once interviewed him as a relatively fresh-faced reporter for the New York World-Telegram, and his quiet courtesy impressed me more than anything he said. Only a man brushed by humility could have been such polite company.

Back where he belongs
Anyway, Perleman is back where he belongs, where the shenanigans are. In 1970, he moved to London, never to return to his native beach. We had lost, I thought, the most brilliant satirist of our time. But he stayed in England for only two years before returning to New York.

His fans could have said they told him so. Living in England, he could not be expected to hold us up to cogent ridicule. His scalpel was bound to lose its cutting edge in Albion's civilized dampness.

At the time of his leaving, Perleman denied he was going to because "it's volcano time in this country," but his denial came under the heading of common courtesy to his countrymen. He went on to make plain that he had become afflicted with a low threshold of tolerance for the "insanity and violence" that permeated the American scene. He spoke of symptoms of jingoism and rampant political fatuousness, and complained that Americans cultivated manners that were "scant on civility."

Departure deplored
Sadly, these were the words of a man who was not leaving his country, but fleeing it. I deplored his departure, but old times' sake persuaded my heart, if not my mind, to cry out that I didn't blame him.

Besides, Perleman unerringly sized up the English in explaining why he would settle in London. "The obvious good manners and consideration of people there toward each other may be only selfish," he said, "but it's good enough for me." What he overlooked, however, was

Open forum

Lingard defends district

To the editor,
In response to a letter published in the "Open Forum," Oct. 7, by Barbara J. Moore, I wish to offer the following:

There were so many untruths and misinformation contained in that letter that I feel compelled to respond even though I did not wish to dignify such trash.

First, the taxes of the Eighth District don't only pay for fire protection, but include 2 mills for fire and 2 mills for sanitary sewer service. The savings are not a few dollars, but are almost 5 mills for fire protection and a substantial amount determined at 125 per cent of your water bill for sewer service. The savings could be over $200 per year.

Second, the people of the district are fortunate to be served by 100 dedicated and well-trained volunteer fire fighters. These men train diligently 3 to 6 hours each week in technical and standard procedures of the service. Forty-five men and 2 women have completed 81 hours training to become Emergency Medical Technicians. They all have received training to use the sophisticated rescue equipment carried on the rescue truck.

Third, the average response time of the district department to the scene of any emergency is 3 1/2 minutes from the time it is notified, never over 6 minutes and usually under 5.

Fourth, the district rescue truck which responds first to all calls is a quick attack heavy piece of apparatus. This means that it has fire fighting capabilities and 500 gallons of water as well as rescue equipment. Five volunteers sleep at the fire station each night to man the rescue truck and the first line pumper that ALWAYS follows within 3 minutes. To a serious fire, 3 pumpers and the rescue pumper respond.

The district organization has and will continue to offer the best in technology, volunteer manpower and modern equipment to its residents, any of whom are welcome to inspect or join in its efforts.

Finally, I am disturbed by the fact that the "Herald" would choose to publish a letter containing these kinds of distortions and inaccuracies. As the only newspaper published in Manchester it would seem to me that the "Herald" would have the responsibility to look into these kinds of obvious errors of fact before publishing them.

MCC music department changes upset students

To the editor,
I have just read the article published in your paper this evening concerning Robert C. Vater, professor at Manchester Community College.

There have been many changes made and proposed within the music department at the college. A group of students, myself as one, have formed to ask answers about these changes and the methods used to make them. We have been meeting every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon to discuss these issues.

The first change was the removal of Robert Vater as coordinator with a capital "C" of the department, but mostly we are concerned with the results of that change and the proposed changes.

In the article, it was stated that MCC does not have "department heads" but in the 76-78 catalog, a number of the professional staff are listed as coordinator of certain departments.

We actively believe we have the right to student input but the administration does not seem to recognize this. We approached Dr. Denison, Dean Penn and Dean Gannon with these questions but they did not give us a direct answer saying only that we are "transients."

We are also afraid that our school will shortly be of poor quality. I feel this issue is of great importance to the students and to the citizens of this state as taxpayers. Since they fund our school and salaries.

The citizens deserve answers as much as the students deserve answers. I invite you to contact our group, through myself, if you have any questions on this issue.

Thank you,

Thought GOP pitches the 'Dream'

Believing in God involves holding certain truths and performing certain religious practices. But it is much more than that — it is really a way of life. Faith means that God is at the heart of our lives. He loves us, cares for us, listens to our needs. He is with us and not against us.

And so we open our lives to His transforming influence. Even when He is silent in the face of our requests and seems to be absent, or when the future seems dark and forboding, still we do not give up the struggle to live a better way.

Our faith helps us to believe that life is really good, even through our tears, and we hold fast these words: "God has called you and He will not fail you." (1 Thes. 5:24)

NEW ORLEANS (NEA) — Bill Brock, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has initiated a daring high-risk venture which could have a profound effect on the future of American politics.

Brock has launched a major campaign to reshape the Republican party at the most fundamental level — in terms of the constituency it seeks, the issues it addresses and the image it projects to the nation's voters.

There has been no dearth of talk in recent years about "opening the door" and "broadening the base" of the party to rid the GOP of its reputation as an elitist organization dedicated principally to serving lawyers, businessmen and their well-heeled friends.

Talk is cheap
But talk is cheap and virtually nothing has been done until now, despite the fact that every national survey of recent years has shown the support of less than 20 per cent of the electorate.

Tully Flesher, a highly regarded political consultant, acknowledged at a recent meeting of GOP state chairmen held here that "it is socially unacceptable in the minds of many people in the United States to be identified with the word 'Republican.'"

Brock now is determined to change that situation, with a long-term "American Dream" program specifically designed to reach out to the vast pool of middle- and even low-income voters who never before seriously considered affiliating with the GOP.

Issues the key
"We must begin to talk about issues that affect the people where they live — in their communities, in their neighborhoods, in their homes," he told the state chairmen, specifically emphasizing the need to recruit blacks, Hispanics, women and young people.

Two days later, in a major speech delivered here before the Republican National Committee, Brock laid out a plan to place the GOP in the middle of the ongoing struggle for the basics sought by most middle-income Americans — a house they can afford, college education for their children at a reasonable price and jobs for the unemployed.

Labor leaders peaks
The notion of a labor leader addressing a major Republican gathering would have been unthinkable not long ago, but the party leadership imported Donald F. Rodgers, government relations director for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, to warn the state chairmen against being "snooty" and to implore them to begin building ties to the nation's unions and their working-class members.

The following day, the Republican National Committee was addressed by Gil Carmichael, the GOP candidate who almost won the 1975 Mississippi gubernatorial election after campaigning in that traditionally conservative state in favor of gun control and federal assistance for New York City.

Brock's entire undertaking is, at best, a fancy one because it conflicts with the firmly held views of many leading, well-entrenched members of the Republican "establishment."

During the state chairmen's meeting, for example, one participant bluntly questioned whether the party should expend its limited resources to actively recruit blacks, Hispanics and members of other minority groups on the grounds that "some of the poorer ethnic groups may not be part of our market."

There are still 'fat cats'
Brock himself was scheduled to take time off from launching his "American Dream" campaign to attend a private party for Louisiana Republican "fat cats" at the New Orleans Petroleum Club — hardly the type of event which fits with the new image.

Brock has a long struggle ahead, but the Republican party has no place to go except up — and its best chance of survival clearly lies in gaining the support of the millions of middle-class Americans who increasingly feel oppressed by big government, high taxes and institutions which no longer respond to their needs.

Stockbroker wins 1977 chili cookoff

ARRIBA TERLINGUA, Tex. (UPI) — All that remained today of the 1977 world champion chili cookoff were the hangovers and heartburn.

For the record, a Houston stockbroker named Tom Griffin won the weekend event with his concoction he modestly titled "Buzzard Breath Chili."

But the record book generally seems to take second place to the frivolity of the three-day event in the West Texas desert near the Mexican border and this year wasn't any different.

Griffin was a first-time entrant in the contest and said he began cooking chili competitively on a bet seven months ago, winning second place on his first try at the Houston cookoff.

"I like a challenge," said Griffin, who claimed key ingredients in his winning chili were imported dried red ants from Mexico and sparing flicks of cigar ashes.

Also accorded honors were Kathi T. Brooks, 20, of Alpine, Tex., who defeated a dozen other contestants in a closely matched wet T-shirt contest, and Alpine's J.J. Holt, selected as Mr. Terlingua.

Texas pride themselves on their chili, a spicy meat dish born during the late 1800s around San Antonio and carried far and wide on cattle drives. The Texas Legislature this year made chili the official state dish.

Camp Finlay, whose band performed at the cookoff, wrote a song for the occasion calling chili "God's gift to Texas."

Polka lessons offered

The Johnny Prytko Dance Team of Manchester will be conducting free polka lessons Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9 at the Glastonbury KofC Home, Hebron Ave., Glastonbury.

The lessons, which are open to the public, will include the basic polka and various figure dances such as the Domino, the Silver Slipper and the Bumpie Daisy. A few modern dances such as the Hully Gully, Greek Dance and the Jah Jah will be shown.

Ted and Elaine Niehay are club coordinators for this 8-week session of lessons.

MPHNA will hear Waterbury guest

Ms. Jean A. Cousinow, Home Care Demonstration Project (Title 20), committee member of the Waterbury Visiting Nurses Association Inc. (WVNA) will be the speaker at the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association's annual meeting Wednesday, Oct. 12, at noon at the Manchester Country Club.

Ms. Cousinow has been assistant coordinator of the homemaker-home health aide service with WVNA for four years, and is in her current position since April.

She represents the association in such capacities as recording secretary of the Connecticut Association of Homemaker-home Health and Aide Services, advisory council member of the

Twelve are given FGP certificates

Graduation ceremonies were held Thursday night at the Meadows Convalescent Home for members of the first Foster Grandchild Program.

Sponsored by the recreation department at the Meadows, 18 young girls were presented with Meadows T-shirts and certificates of achievement after completing six weeks of recreational in-service training.

Certificates for distinguished service were presented to Linda Walsh and Bruce Canale, both of Manchester, for their effort in providing four months of consistent and excellent programming for the patients at the Meadows.

Another in-service training session will begin Thursday, Jan. 5. The program is open to persons ages 12 to 18. For further information and registration, contact Marybeth Ballard or Evelyn Torrice, program coordinators, at 647-9194, extension 35, in the South Building.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

Had a marvelous time Thursday at a luncheon sponsored by the Home Lines Cruises at the Sheraton in Hartford.

Met many Manchesterites including Jeanette Lesperance and her husband (she's with Airway Travel); and Barbara Cox and Verna Hubbard, both of LaBonne Travel.

The Home Lines have those two gorgeous ships, the Oceanic and the Doric, both of which I've been lucky enough to set sail on.

It was with its congenial hosts David Sutherland, marketing manager in the New York office, and Bill Wilson of the Boston office, put on a great party.

Some lucky agent even won a trip for two on the Oceanic. What a nice prize.

Hartford homes

Saturday I had a sneak preview of the Al Home in Hartford. It was great to see some of the older homes which have been renovated.

One home, owned by Michael and Susan Peck, both Hartford attorneys, is a brownstone townhouse on Capital Ave. It has black walnut woodwork and floors, marble fireplaces and windows 7-feet high.

The Pecks have renovated the four story building into two living units and an office. The Peck's favorite room is the master bed/bath room that was designed to take advantage of the high ceilings and large windows. The room is on three levels: a carpeted dressing platform, a bath area with custom made kidney-shaped tub and original pink marble fireplace, and the sleeping loft in what was once the attic.

Being attorneys, the Pecks find the house location convenient to clients and the courts. Michael works from his office on the second floor of his home, and Susan walks to her office on nearby Russ St.

Another interesting home is owned by Aldo Lorenzetti on Sigourney St. His 23-room house gives him a nine-room apartment the size of most houses, and provides enough income from the rental of two first floor and one third floor apartment to pay the mortgage, utilities and taxes.

As he said to me during the bus tour, "It brings in over $700 per month, enough for me to afford a trip to Mexico once in a while."

Very enthusiastic about the area, he plans to buy a lot next door to his home, turn it into a tennis court and open it up to neighbors to use.

His own apartment includes a living room with fireplace, dining room, master bedroom with a central platform bed, office, kitchen, breakfast room, pool room, spare bedroom, and bath.

Judith Elliot of Walnut St. along with her two children, Arabella and Jacob, have found a home in an elite cream factory lot.

The lot had been vacant for two years, when Judith and the children moved in. Judith, who operates a restaurant called "Picnic" on Union Place, found commuting from her Rocky Hill home a chore, so sought out a location closer to her work.

She has divided the giant space into sleeping quarters and one huge living area. Paintings by local artists hang free from the white brick walls, and 14 factory-size windows flood the room with light.

Sipping white wine along the route, we heard our guide tell of historic spots along the way. We also visited the elegant Lewis Fox home, now owned by Jacob and Anne Van der Werff on Prospect Ave.

It has 15 rooms which the couple share with their four children. It boasts mahogany woodwork in the living room, cherry wainscoting in the dining room, and oak woodwork and floors throughout the rest of the house.

Four fireplaces, brocade and damask walls, Tiffany light fixtures, and elevator and dumbwaiter all epitomize a bygone era of gracious, formal living.

The public tour is on Friday and Saturday and is co-sponsored by the Hartford Architecture Conservancy (HAC) and the Connecticut Housing Investment Fund (CHIF) to showcase the diversity and convenience of living in Hartford.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from At Home in Hartford's Pratt St. office or on both days of the tour in the Hartford Civic Center lobby. Guided buses will leave from the Trumbull St. entrance to the center every 15 minutes from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Each tour is approximately 3 hours long. For more information call 527-5106.

It really is well worthwhile. Even though you may not be planning to relocate in Hartford, you can get some fine decorating ideas.

Italian Night

This Friday, it's Italian Night at the Army & Navy Club and I promised I wouldn't miss it.

Marti Conderino told me as long ago as last year that I must attend and that the food was delicious, so I'll diet for a few days prior to Friday so I can do it justice.

Going places

Had wonderful news earlier this week. I was among those selected to visit a foreign country as part of President Carter's Friendship Force.

My friend, Connie Costello and I, went to a screening early in August, and just received word of our selection. The Connecticut trip is not scheduled until Jan. 23, 1978 and we won't know until an orientation meeting on Oct. 29 just what our destination is.

During the screening, they asked "Is there anywhere in the world you wouldn't go?" Of course, I said, "No."

So time will tell and I'll let you know just where in the world the 16-day trip will take us.

Also heard that Irene Pisch and Mary LeDuc, both from Manchester, were selected so we should have fun comparing notes.

Imagine, we may end up in a thatched shack in darkest Africa, or loafing on the beaches at the Riviera. It's possible.

KofC seeking donations for retarded

Judy Sullivan, a client at the Manchester Sheltered Workshop, shows rag cutting machine to members of the Knights of Columbus in Manchester, Frank Wilson, at left, and Tom D'Marra, past grand knight. The machine was purchased with proceeds from last year's Tootsie Roll campaign. During the current campaign, Oct. 14-16, KofC members will be giving candy in exchange for donations on behalf of retarded citizens. Eighty per cent of monies raised will benefit Manchester citizens. Petrusz-Adams

Sarah Ann Adams of Manchester and Gustav W. Petrusz of Hurst, Tex., were married Oct. 8 at St. James Church in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Betty M. Adams of 46 Spring St. and the late Thomas T. Adams. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Jesaja Petrusz of Ketamenau-Timor, Indonesia.

The Rev. Francis Kurkowski of St. James Church officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with tangerine spider chrysanthemums, yellow carnations and pompons. Larry Allen of Farmington was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and her brother, Michael Adams of New York City, wore a satin gown designed with high neckline, Bishop sleeves, fitted Empire waistline, and A-line skirt terminating into a chapel-length train. She wore a walking-length mantilla with scalloped edges trimmed with lace and caught to a headpiece of lace. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations and German statice.

Miss Valerie Suchowich of Hartford was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ms. Elizabeth Shorkey of Durham.

Steven D. Griffin of Hatfield, Pa., served as best man. The usher was John Lundelius of Woolwich, Maine.

A reception was held at The Colony in Talcoville, after which the couple left for Williamsburg, Va. For traveling, Mrs. Petrusz wore a hunter green two-piece knitted outfit and a corsage of brown orchids. They will reside in Hurst.

Mrs. Petrusz was employed as a technical writer at Travelers Insurance Co. in Hartford. Mr. Petrusz is employed as an associate professor of philosophy at Tarrant County Junior College in Hurst. (Naylor photo)

Alcohol is poor tranquilizer

DEAR DR. LAMB - I just read your column about the lady who likes to smoke and I have some additional comments that I feel from deep inside my conscience.

After smoking since I was 12 years old I've grown increasingly dependent on my vice. I also resent the comments made by people that it's nasty habit and offends people socially. But may I ask why everyone makes such a big deal of smoking and completely ignores those who drink themselves into a stupor every night because they want to relax?

I feel resentful toward people when they drink and become different from the persons they really are. They become obnoxious, moody and care less about anyone's feelings and there are those who suddenly become quiet and are about as much company as a brick wall.

They drive and cause many accidents that in many cases involve innocent people and inconvenience people by "passing out" and having to be carried out. Thanks, but if there's a choice, I'll take smoking. It's much less hazardous.

DEAR READER - Funny, but I had an idea that you may have had someone close to you in mind when you were complaining about the effects of drinking on the personality.

There is no reason why you need to choose between two bad habits. I don't recommend drinking instead of smoking and I don't recommend smoking instead of drinking. My advice is don't do either.

Alcoholism is a severe problem. Did you know cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and that 60 per cent of these liver deaths are caused by alcoholism? It's true. It is just another example of how people affect their own health, as opposed to depending upon the doctor to provide life and health everlasting regardless of what they do.

No, I am not going to endorse your bad habit but I will say that drinking irresponsibly is also hazardous to your health. I would concur that a warning label should be on every beverage containing alcohol. It is a poison. It does destroy health, personality and families.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-4, Alcohol, Whiskey, Gin, Vodka, Rum, Wine, Beer. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope or if to me in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you a lot more information on how alcohol is hazardous to your health. You might be wise to share its content with some friends. It is not true that alcohol relaxes a person.

There are a lot of people who both drink to excess and smoke. The combination is like playing Russian roulette with two chambers of revolver instead of just one.

Incidentally it is not true that alcohol relaxes a person. It may be a social lubricant for some people but it is a depressant or an anesthetic. The person may not feel his anxiety or tension but he has not relieved it with alcohol. He has only numbed his senses. It is not a good tranquilizer. A much better and more healthy tranquilizer is exercise. A good walk, a swim, or participation in some sport you enjoy is much more relaxing and much better for a person's health. A wife can help in this area by planning family activities at the end of the day that provides healthy exercise.

Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of The Manchester Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

There are no calling hours. Bentley plans to be given board tonight
The Manchester Board of Education will meet tonight at 8 at 45 N. School St. The meeting was scheduled for today instead of the regular Monday night meeting time because of Monday's legal holiday.

The agenda will include a report from Supt. James P. Kennedy on a recent meeting with state Board of Education officials on plans for the Bentley School project.

The board has been involved in extensive discussions in the past few months the extent of renovations on the school. The options for the school repairs have also become a topic for several town political candidates.

Hjalmer acquitted
Robert C. Hjalmer, 35, of 271 Hillstown Rd., charged with third-degree larceny in early August was found not guilty in Friday's session of the Court of Common Pleas.

The charge was in connection with the alleged theft of items from a Griswold St. home where Hjalmer had lived.

Directors face three big issues

Three items that have become major campaign issues - the budget, the landfill use fees and the proposed charter revision committee - will be discussed when the Manchester Board of Directors meets today at 8 p.m.

The board established a scale of landfill use fees at its July meeting. Enforcement of the fees led to some problems, and board members agreed to reconsider the idea.

Republican board members and candidates have criticized the fees as double taxation. Democrats had supported the idea of fees to prevent usage of the dump by out-of-town residents, but Mayor Matthew Moriarty recently proposed that the board establish a system of fining out-of-town users rather than charging town residents.

Moriarty also proposed that the board establish a committee of the charter revision committee to review conflict-of-interest. Democrats generally seem to support the idea. Republicans, however, have voiced two different viewpoints. Some are against the formation of such a committee; others favor the idea but feel it should not be started until after next month's election.

The town budget, while not on tonight's agenda, is expected to be discussed. A report from Controller Thomas Moore said that the town budget for 1977-78 may face a $668,000 deficit.

Republicans have criticized the Democrats for the budget problems. Democrats have called the report "irresponsible."

Other items on tonight's agenda include:
* Consideration of three reclassifications, which were denied at the board's August meeting.
* Discussion on the approval of new Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) positions.

Manchester police report
The Manchester Police detective bureau arrested Hugh Donnelly, 21, of no certain address, today on a warrant in connection with a burglary at A-1 Industrial Caterers, 340 Adams St. on Sept. 2.

Stolen in the break were about $450 in radios, soda, gum and other items. Donnelly was charged with third-degree burglary and third-degree larceny. He was released on $500 non-surety bond for court Oct. 31.

Paul M. Creteau, 16, of 50 Lockwood St., was charged with third-degree criminal mischief Monday in connection with vandalism to a phone booth at Main and School Sts. He was released on a non-surety bond for court Oct. 31.

Stephen B. Tier, 18, of Attleboro, Mass., was charged with speeding on New Britain Rd. Monday. Court date is Oct. 25. Police made 12 other motor vehicle arrests also on Monday.

Thefts reported Monday were as follows:
* A 1977 Chevrolet van from Dynamic Metal Products, 422 N. Main St., after a break into into the company office. The vehicle was stolen Sunday and recovered on W. Middle Tpk. Monday. Two boxes of aircraft parts were missing from the van.
* Auto body repair tools from a home on E. Middle Tpk.
* About $770 worth of household items and furniture from an Adams St. home over the weekend.
* A jacket from the Sears store in the Parkade Monday night. A man was seen running from the store with the jacket, police said.
* A 1967 Volkswagen van, charged with third-degree larceny in early August was found not guilty in Friday's session of the Court of Common Pleas.

The charge was in connection with the alleged theft of items from a Griswold St. home where Hjalmer had lived.

Budget deficit report tagged 'irresponsible'

A statement released by Democratic members of the Manchester Board of Directors has called a recently released report on the 1977-78 budget "irresponsible."

The report, issued Friday by Town Manager Robert Weiss and Controller Thomas Moore, forecasts a possible budget deficit of about $668,000. The report said that shortfalls in the predicted collection of taxes and other estimated sources of revenue would be the primary reason for such a deficit.

"The report is based entirely on speculation at a time when any professional accountant or responsible public official will say that it is impossible to forecast with precision the revenues for the remainder of the fiscal year," the Democratic statement, written by Director Stephen Penny and Mayor Matthew Moriarty, said.

The Democrats mentioned a letter from Weiss two months ago that said the possible deficit for the year might be as much as $1 million. "At this rate of deflation in his estimates, we can expect to start hearing about a surplus by the third quarter of the fiscal year," the Democrats said.

The Democrats also said that during the last fiscal year a budget deficit was projected, but the town ended with a surplus of $146,000. The budget report "addresses itself only to certain 'problem areas' in the budget and does not take into account possible surpluses in other accounts," the Democrats said.

They said that the 90.5 per cent rate of tax collection for the 1977-78 budget is similar to collection rates and achieved during the past ten years.

The Democrats said that the Republicans have "gleefully received" the manager's report, but they criticized the GOP for its past work on the budget.

In 1971, the Republican majority needlessly borrowed $600,000 to cover a deficit that never developed, the Democrats said.

They also pointed to this year when the GOP members abstained from the final vote on the budget but proposed no plan of their own.

"As usual, they have no constructive plans, only criticism," the Democratic statement said.

Office site for nuptials

For most people, the office building provides the site and necessities for carrying out daily work requirements.

But last Friday morning for Charles McCarthy Jr., Manchester's assistant town manager, his office building became a bit more. It was the site of his wedding.

McCarthy and Johanna Hayes of Bloomfield were married in the Judge of Probate's office in the Municipal Building. Judge of Probate William FitzGerald performed the ceremony.

Witnesses at the ceremony included Town Manager Robert Weiss, William Tierney, management analyst, and Steven Werber, personnel assistant.

The couple spent the long weekend on Cape Cod.

Connors defends mayor

Thomas Connors, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, has compared how two towns of similar size - Manchester and Milford - have handled waste disposal.

In Milford, the landfill has been condemned and other plans, including an incinerator, have been abandoned.

"Today, Milford ships its garbage 50 miles over state highways in trailer dump trucks to a community only a stone's throw from Manchester," Connors said.

"Manchester's residents, on the other hand, took a prudent way and purchased a landfill site that will provide ample disposal until the turn of the next century," he said.

"Anxious to protect this valued resource, the town government has sought ways to assure that the facility would be used only by legitimate Manchester residents," Connors said.

The implementation of an adopted fee schedule has raised some questions, Connors said, but he voiced his support for a proposal made by Mayor Matthew Moriarty.

Moriarty suggested that a 1964 ordinance be updated to include higher fines for out-of-town users of the dump. He suggested that landfill use stickers be mailed to town residents at no charge.

"This kind of action will serve warning on those both in and out of Manchester, who would be less than prudent in protecting the town's assets," Connors said. "The mayor's action is commendable and we should look for its early implementation and enforcement."

Sewer work by the Metropolitan District Commission will enter another phase on Silver Lane Wednesday, and East Hartford Police anticipate more traffic delays.

Commander Llewellyn McPherson said workers will dig a second 20-foot-deep hole in the road, starting tomorrow. Traffic will be restricted to one lane in each direction near the intersection.

Motors are advised to use alternate routes, if possible, especially during peak commuter hours, McPherson said.

Coffee meetings set

Two neighborhood coffee meetings will be held this week by Betty Intagliata, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors.

The first meeting will be Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Patty Sullivan, 23 Cambridge Rd. The second meeting will be Friday morning at the home of Mrs. Gerry Harvey, 19 Grove St.

Mrs. Intagliata will address both groups on the topic of "Manchester's Water: Why It Is a Non-partisan Issue" and will answer questions. Interested parties should contact Eileen Stern of 34 S. Farms Dr., who is Mrs. Intagliata's co-campaign manager.

Health board to hear CETA jobs request

The need for hiring several employees under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) will be the priority item on Manchester's Advisory Board of Health agenda this afternoon.

Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, said today that the board will request CETA employees to fill 11 spots in the health department.

The jobs to be filled are as follows:
* One nurse to assist with various town health clinics (flu, immunization) epidemic investigations and illnesses.
* Three to work with computerization of health data and do paper work in community health education.

* Three as public health aides to work at housing and other public health related inspections.
* Three employees to assist in a dental health program - one dental hygienist and two dental assistants.

* One secretary-clerk to handle the necessary paper work and appointments for a dental clinic. Dr. Turek said that if the health department must take a budget cut, the department will be forced to out some of its services, that is, if the Board of Directors refuses to accept Dr. Turek's alternative suggestions. In September, Dr. Turek presented three alternatives including laying off one staff person, allowing the health director to take one week's leave without pay each quarter, or close the health department for one week and give the entire staff one week's leave without pay.

Vernon woman seriously injured

Wendy Carley, 18, of 6 Joel Dr., Vernon, is reported in serious condition at St. Francis Hospital, Hartford. She suffered multiple injuries in this one-car accident on Lake St. in Bolton Monday night. The driver of the car was James E. Surette, 25, of Grahaber Rd., Ellington. The car was extensively damaged and had to be towed from the scene. State Police said the car was traveling southbound on Lake St. at a speed too great and the driver failed to negotiate a curve. The car went off the east side of the road, struck a utility pole and rolled over. The accident caused a power outage in the area. It happened about 9 p.m. Police said the accident is still under investigation. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Ambulance suit filed

Professional Ambulance Service of Hartford, with an office on Burnside Ave., East Hartford, is suing the Town of East Hartford, the State Office of Emergency Medical Services, and the Manchester Ambulance Service, for $500,000.

The suit filed in Hartford Superior Court claims East Hartford's Monday action-making the Manchester service its primary ambulance service will hurt Professional.

Mayor Richard Blackstone said today. "All I'm doing is reluctantly announcing a directive of the state."

New state laws on ambulances mean a town must choose one ambulance service as its primary service. Police and fire fighters must call that service whenever an ambulance is needed.

The mayor said he was forced to make a choice among the three services which had been on a rotation basis in town. They were Professional, Manchester, and Trinity Ambulance of Hartford, which maintains an office on Main St. just north of Prospect St.

The mayor studied the matter and took advice from police and other town departments dealing with ambulances. He chose Manchester.

Harvey Kagan, president of Professional, fought the move.

Roger Talbot, president of the Manchester firm, chose Trinity as his backup service.

Talbot said he is moving into the Main St. office of Trinity. Trinity, run by Peter Topa, is moving to 1739 Main St. to larger quarters.

About Topa, Talbot said. "We've never had any trouble, arguments maybe. We don't sue each other. He runs a nice service."

Blackstone even when he didn't want to. "I don't think anything is out of line with the law here."

Mrs. Dorothy Kelly,

Monday was a big day for Vernon politicians

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

It was a big day Monday for Vernon Democrats and Republicans as they concurrently opened their election headquarters—the Democrats on Rt. 18 and the Republicans on Rt. 20.

At Democratic headquarters, Lt. Gov. Robert Killian was the guest of honor. At Republican headquarters, there were three honored guests, all interested in running for governor, U. S. Rep. Ronald Sarasin, State Senator Lewis Rome, and State Rep. Gerald Stevens.

At both events there were unusually large crowds because of the observance of Columbus day.

Killian, who has said he would run for governor on the Democratic ticket if Ella Grasso decides not to seek re-election, urged his fellow Democrats to work hard to elect a Democrat to the governor's office.

He said that certain towns have been run as if they are private clubs. He said this is usually by the Republican Party. He urged them to work to overcome the difference.

He said it has already been indicated that the Vernon voters are alert to the issues and they are Benoit detailed the accomplishments of the past two years of his Democratic administration. He cautioned those present that they will have to roll up their sleeves and work the same as they did two years ago.

"It's going to be a tough battle," he said.

Benoit narrowly defeated Republican Frank McCoy in 1975. McCoy had just completed three terms as mayor.

At Republican headquarters, a large crowd gathered outside the trailer which has been set up for headquarters for that party. After McCoy performed the ribbon-cutting ceremony with a giant pair of scissors, hundreds of balloons, with "Vote for McCoy" written on them, were released into the air and carried away by the wind.

McCoy cautioned fellow Republicans at the opening that they are outnumbered almost 2 to 1 by the Democrats in town. He urged them to work to overcome the difference.

He said it has already been indicated that the Vernon voters are alert to the issues and they are asking questions. He said they want to know why the tax rate increased by seven mills in the past two years and where are the increased or improved services.

"The voters know the Republican team has the answers," he said.

Sarasin, Stevens and Rome also spoke briefly. Stevens, who is from Millford as is McCoy, said he has to be alright. Rome commented, "He's the real McCoy."

Sarasin said the large crowds, the enthusiasm, and the balloons symbolize "a return to the good life under Frank McCoy."

Area police report

Vernon
Vernon police apprehended two brothers, age 7 and 10, at the Maple Street School Monday. Police said the brothers had been reported as missing from their home.

Police said the pair allegedly caused damage at the school, where entry was gained by breaking a window. Police said the extent of damage has not yet been determined.

South Windsor

A free audio-visual testing clinic for children age 3 and 4 will be held on Oct. 24 to 26 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Wapping Community Church.

The clinic, in its seventh year, is sponsored by the South Windsor Young Wives Club in conjunction with the Public Health Nursing Association. Volunteers from South Windsor and members of the Young Wives Club were trained by a representative of the state Health Department, with the assistance of the Connecticut Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Claire Kennedy and Mary Jewerick are co-chairmen of the clinic.

In an effort to spot hearing and vision problems in as many preschoolers as possible, nursery schools are scheduled for hearing and vision testing. Schools scheduled include Sunshine, Mercer, Birch Road, Learning Place, Mother Goose, Creative, and the South Windsor Day Care Center.

A limited number of appointments are also available for children not attending these nursery schools, and may be obtained by calling the South Windsor Community Service Council weekdays between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at 644-2509. Additional appointments will be scheduled in January and March. Children should be at least 3 1/2 years old.

PZC has hearing tonight

Coventry

The Coventry Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) will hold a public hearing tonight at 8 on a proposed addition to the inland wetlands zoning regulations. The PZC is also the town's Inland Wetlands Agency.

The rule states that "all waste disposal systems shall be installed a minimum of 150 feet from the high water mark of a watercourse and 50 feet from soils which are typed as poorly drained, very poorly drained, alluvial, or flood plain as defined by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service."

The requirement may be modified by the PZC or Zoning Agent Ernest Wheeler "if detailed soil and hydraulic information can be presented to show that the watercourse and soil types will not be detrimentally affected by the waste disposal system."

The PZC will also hold a hearing on a subdivision application of Robert Therian on N. River Rd. Town Sanitarian Donald Holmes is expected to attend the meeting to review engineering procedures.

Good job in schools
Priscilla Doyle, Education candidate for the Board of Education, said this week that she feels Coventry does a good job in education for a small town with limited financial resources.

"Finances must be of prime consideration when discussing what we want for our children," she said. "We all wish we could give them more, but, as in every aspect of life, abundance of material things is not as important as what we do with what we can afford."

Mrs. Doyle said that before competency testing of seniors is introduced, the town should consider the time, effort and money involved in such a program. "We would do well to consider some alternatives," she said.

Programs which measure our students when it's too late for correction seem to me to be of questionable worth."

Women meet tonight

Hebron

The Hebron Junior Women's Club is starting off its membership drive with a coffee hour tonight at 8 at the home of Linda Stevenson, 10 Laura Dr.

All women between age 18 to 40 are invited to attend. Those interested women who plan to attend are asked to call Mrs. Stevenson to verify their plans. Working women as well as housewives are encouraged to attend.

At the October meeting of the Hebron Junior Women's Club, the installation of members will include Bonnie Field, Lenore Vyschell, Sandy White, Candy Kozlak and Dina Johnson.

Other meetings
Tonight — Women's Fellowship, 7:30, First Congregational Church; Planning and Zoning Commission, 8 p.m., Town Office Building.

Wednesday: Public health nurses, 1:30 p.m., Town Office Building; Voters registration, 7 to 8 p.m., Town Office Building; Boy Scout Troop 23, 7 p.m., Gilead Hill School; Conservation Commission, 8 p.m., Town Office Building.

Thursday: Board of Selectmen, 3 p.m., Town Office Building; Board of Education, 8 p.m., Gilead Hill School.

Ryba said Bolton can be the leader in the burglary prevention movement. He said residents will be taught to exchange information with the police and community leaders. He said the police will educate and recruit citizens to take individual and collective action to protect their businesses and homes.

The program will be under the direction of State Police Sgt. Walter Niewiwocki. He said those attending the hearing will see two films about burglary prevention, will be instructed in methods of preventing burglaries at homes and businesses, will be given the opportunity to have individual home security checks. Residents will be able to use engravers on valuables or property.

Anti-crime meeting due

Bolton

The first public meeting on a pilot burglary prevention program will be Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Bolton's Community Hall.

Bolton was chosen by the State Police of the Colchester barracks as the first town of its area for such a program. Bolton was chosen because it has one of the highest burglary records of 13 towns served by the Colchester barracks, and because of its geography and population.

First Selectman Henry Ryba and Resident State Trooper Robert Peterson contacted all local businesses and invited them to the program.

Ryba and the entire Board of Selectmen urge all residents to attend Wednesday's meeting.

In conjunction with the program, students in Grades 5 to 8 at Bolton Center School are participating in a poster contest on crime prevention. Awards for the best posters will be presented Wednesday. The winners will receive shoulder patches donated by State Police.

Football results
The Bolton Tigers defeated the Glastonbury Warriors, 44-6, in midweek football action Monday at Mt. Nebo. Bolton's record is now 5-0.

Bolton touchdowns were scored by Jim Wilson, Richard Rose, Jeff Balch, Charlie Anderson and Chris Morjans. Wilson and Anderson tallied extra points.

The Tigers travel to Coventry Sunday to meet the Panthers.

In senior pony football Sunday, the Bolton Bulldogs beat the Tolland Eagles, 8-0, in Tolland. The Bulldogs' record is now 4-1-0.

Mike Ouellette scored Bolton's TD and Steve Everett scored points after touchdown.

The Bulldogs' next game is Sunday at Stafford Springs, where they'll try to avenge their only defeat this season.

Correction
Grade 2 students in Thelma Friedman's class will present a Halloween play for parents Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at Bolton Elementary School. Monday's Herald incorrectly said it would be a Halloween party.

Educator measures IGE

Dr. Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent of schools in Vernon, has completed a study on the relationship between the Individually Guided Education (IGE) program and student achievement.

Kerkin, who made the study in connection with work on his Ph.D. degree at the University of Connecticut, said the study investigated the differences that may exist in Grades 1 and 3 achievement in word attack skills.

In reference to the Vernon school system, Kerkin said a management system such as IGE does appear to improve student achievement especially in the case of word attack skills in Grade 1.

He also said the IGE approach works better if movement of pupils among teachers is reduced.

He said this approach allows the system to better know each child through assessment and record-keeping but still permits flexibility in terms of the instructional setting for each child.

He said it allows for continual addition to the curriculum through establishment and upgrading of a central resource file. The central resource file also leads to continual staff improvement, he said.

Kerkin recommends that the several year policy committee, appointed by the Board of Education every two years ago, assess the benefit to each school of the program improvement committee and the instructional and resource unit, assess the development of central resource files in areas of curriculum development, and assess the use of the central resource file in instruction.

He said based on these assessments, the committee should recommend to the board a system to be followed for kindergarten to Grades 12 and a timetable for adopting such a system.

The Daily Numbers explained, in advance.

You can't win if you don't play. And we want you to win. State Law: you must be 18 or older to play.

There are two ways you can do it. By asking your agent for advance tickets, you can play any number, any way, for any amount, on any day up to 6 days in the future.

If you want to play every day without having to buy a ticket every day, ask your agent for a multiple ticket. That way, you can play the same number, the same way, for the same amount, every day for up to 6 days in a row, and collect your winnings any time after the last day of your ticket.

As a matter of fact, you can collect on any winning ticket—advance, multiple or regular—for up to a year.

Tickets for a day or a week, in advance. It's for the player who's got the hunches, but not the time.

'Money' pitchers tabbed to start World Series

Gambled and lost

Yale football coach, Carm Cozza, is a gambler.

This is not to be confused with the guy who'll wager his week's pay on a sporting event.

Cozza proved himself quite a gambler last Saturday, but, like most, wound up a loser.

Dartmouth was leading Yale, 3-0, with 1:12 to play in the final period. Yale had the ball on the Big Green's three-yard line, fourth down.

Instead of sending in his kicking specialist to try for a field goal and three points, Cozza advised quarterback Bob Rizzo to call standard running back John Pagliaro's number.

Cozza gambled and lost.

Pagliaro was trapped behind the line of scrimmage on a pitch-out and tackled on the nine-yard line. Dartmouth took over the ball, ran out the clock and had one of its most cherished victories in recent years.

The shutout was the first for a Yale team in 60 games. The last team to turn the trick during the 1970 season was Dartmouth.

"You play to win," a disappointed Cozza said.

That's the way football should be played.

Old Blues (Yale grads) may disagree but if Yale had gone in to score and win Cozza would be lauded as a genius.

Win, lose or tie, Cozza is one of the better coaches in the much-maligned profession.

Odds-makers right

It doesn't pay to go against the odds-makers who tabbed New York and Los Angeles to wind up in the World Series. The smart money boys rarely take a "bath." ... Chuck Toomey of Manchester will operate the electric clock in Saturday's Notre Dame Army football game at Giants Stadium in New Jersey. The retired local official worked the clock at Yale Bowl last Saturday for the Yale-Dartmouth game. ... Frank White, Kansas City second baseman, is the only graduate of the now defunct Kansas City Royals Baseball School in Sarasota, Fla., with the major leaguers. The school became too costly to operate and went under financially. ... Just Wondering Department: If regular season prices for preseason exhibition games held down attendance for New England Whalers and Boston Celtics offerings at the Hartford Civic Center. The guess here is that the ticket scale is too high for exhibitions, which also include National Football League preseason tilts. The Whalers, who fashioned a brilliant exhibition record of 6-1-1, including 5-1-1 against National League clubs, have just three home dates this month, Saturday night against Birmingham, Oct. 16 with defending champion Quebec and Oct. 29 against Gordie Howe's old club, Houston. Official entry blanks for this year's Five Mile Road Race include a map of the route, compliments of the Savings Bank of Manchester.

Notes off the cuff

Among the many who turned out to help honor Dick Cobb at the West Side Old Timers reunion last Saturday night at the Garden Grove was Johnny Taylor, one of the all-time black pitching stars. Taylor performed with several crackerjack black teams before Jackie Robinson broke the color line and made it into the major leagues. Promotions well deserved at the Courant now find Owen Canfield stepping into the late Bill Newell's spot as sports editor and Tommy Hine moving up as assistant sports editor. Harold Binks came away with two door prizes at the West Side dinner, a bottle of champagne and a flashlight. Jake Banks, who was to have been honored with Dick Cobb at the West Siders annual get-together, was hospitalized and former teammate Johnny Chick stepped in and accepted his award. Banks has been ailing since struck down by an automobile several years ago. ... Paul Ryan, biggest booster of St. Bonaventure basketball in these parts, reports the Bonnies will represent the USA in hoop play next month in Yugoslavia and Italy. Collections amounted to nearly $3,000 at Hartford Two League baseball games last summer in which Moriarty's completed, plus $943 for the playoffs and $227 for the championship games. Top collections during the regular state were taken at Moriarty Field when MB's performed. The locals reign as play champs.

Coaches' corner

By JOHN LAFONTANA
East Catholic

It's a lot easier writing this column when you have something positive to talk about (14-13 win over Northwest Catholic). Our come-from-behind victory was very satisfying for several reasons.

First of all, it was the first time we had beaten them since 1971 and it was the first time I had beaten Northwest while head coach. More importantly, however, to me was the fact that the players proved to themselves they could win if they're willing to give that little extra. This they did and the results were obvious.

There is a temptation to be overly modest and say we were lucky to win but there was good and bad luck on both teams and it was the good play of all and the outstanding play of a few that made the difference.

We made some changes last week as we had been doing each week after losing a game, and this time the results were positive. ... The biggest change was replacing Ken Brasa to halfback and replacing him with sophomore Tony Pacheco (at quarterback). We felt Ken was our best running back ever when he was playing QB, so in order to take advantage of this we decided to make him a running back where he could use his skill more effectively.

He showed us by his play that our feelings were justified. He ran well outside and inside and on a couple of plays showed amazing second effort to gain yards. The sad part of this is he suffered a broken (left) arm and will be out about five weeks.

As far as changes go, the most spectacular results came from our change in QB. Pacheco, we felt, was going to be the quarterback of the future after he got game experience in jayvee contests and in varsity games as a second stringer. But as George Allen of the Redskins is fond of saying, "the future is now." Tony was pressed into service and responded by performing high above our expectations.

Not only did he complete 11 of 26

Don Sutton

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers, two teams which have created some of the most memorable moments in World Series history, meet in the first game of a best-of-seven playoff for the world championship tonight with each manager banking on his "money" pitcher.

Right-hander Don Sutton, a Yankee fan as a kid who fulfilled his lifetime ambition of pitching in Yankee Stadium during last July's All-Star Game, will start for the Dodgers, while the Yankees will counter with left-hander Don Gullett.

The Dodgers are 6-5 favorites for the first game and a 13-10 choice to win the Series.

Both pitchers have a reputation of being at their best in post-season competition. Sutton boasts a perfect 3-0 record in National League playoff competition and is 1-0 in the World Series, while Gullett, a former star for the Cincinnati Reds, is 2-1 in World Series competition with a 2.72 earned run average.

"The guy, Don Sutton, has won more games than anyone in the history of the Los Angeles franchise," said Dodgers' Manager Tom Lasorda. "We couldn't ask for a better pitcher to start us off."

Sutton makes it clear this will be work and not play.

The selection of Gullett to pitch is somewhat surprising since the fast-balling left-hander was believed to be finished for the season after hurting his shoulder in the first game of the

what you have on any given day."

The Yankees and Dodgers have met seven times previously in World Series competition, with the Yankees holding a 6-2 edge. But, they have been matched only once — in 1963 — since the Dodgers moved out of Brooklyn to Los Angeles 20 years ago. Los Angeles swept that Series, four games to none, behind a couple of pitchers named Don Drysdale and Sandy Kousser.

To show his respect for the Dodgers' club, Yankees' owner George Steinbrenner invited their entire squad and their wives to lunch at a posh restaurant this afternoon.

The good feelings will end tonight.

Denied addition

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has denied the New York Yankees permission to use Dell Alton as a 25th player in the World Series.

In a letter to Yankee President Gabe Paul, Kuhn said he referred the dispute to the National League and was informed that "the National League opposes any waiver of the rule."

X-country runners score fine finishes

Manchester High boys and girls and East Catholic boys' cross country squads turned in top-flight performances in the fifth annual Knights of Columbus Invitational Meet at Mountain Park in Holyoke, Mass., yesterday.

Coach George Sutor's Manchester boys took fourth place in the Grand Knights Race with a total of 124 points. Connecticut state champion Xavier High of Middletown won with 70 points followed by two New Hampshire schools, Manchester Memorial at 114 and Portsmouth at 118. A team had to win at least 75 per cent of its meets to qualify for this race.

East's third-placed team was the Heeded Varsity Race with 164 points. Lynne Wright and senior Lori Vea led the Manchester girls effort. They took seventh, eighth and ninth places respectively with Hennessy turning in a 18:42 clocking. Sophomore Sue Brown, "uncorked a good race and couldn't have timed it better," with a 20th place finish. Lauren Woodhouse was 30th, Lisa Tilden 33rd and Chris Cheney 48th among the 120 entrants from four states.

Manchester took second place in the boys' jayvee race, trailing the Grand Knights Race with 164 points. Junior Cliff Ford took second place in the Seeded Varsity Race behind Bethel's Pat Wild. Clifford turned in a 14:37 clocking for the 2.79 miles. Senior Rick Walsh was 15th, Dave Kittredge 24th, Pete Kiro 46th and Jim Kane 67th for the Eagles.

Junior Kate Hennessy, sophomore Lynne Wright and senior Lori Vea led the Manchester girls effort. They took seventh, eighth and ninth places respectively with Hennessy turning in a 18:42 clocking. Sophomore Sue Brown, "uncorked a good race and couldn't have timed it better," with a 20th place finish. Earl Ballsieper
Country Club member 50 years

Earl Ballsieper all-time champ

Records are made to be broken but one that seems safe for a good many years is the one boasted by 85-year-old Earl Ballsieper.

Club Championship, Governor's Cup, President's Cup, Seniors' Tournament, Calcutta, Two-Ball Championship have all been won by the one-time all around athlete.

It took 37 years of trying but Ballsieper finally scored a hole-in-one, the feat coming a week before his 82nd birthday in 1964. His ace was scored on the eighth hole at the South Main Street course.

Twice Ballsieper, one of two playing brothers, won the coveted Club Championship, the first coming in 1924 - before 90 per cent of the current membership ever lifted a golf club - and the second title was achieved in 1928. Earl's brother, Paul, won the club honor twice, too, in 1936 and 1938.

Earl Ballsieper also annexed two President's Cup and as many Governor's Cup tournaments. He was also a winner of two Two-Ball Club events, reigned once in Calcutta play and scored in one Seniors' journey.

The Country Club has been a second home the big man admits and when not playing golf daily, Monday thru Friday, he passes away the time playing cards.

Ballsieper passes up weekend play and the extreme hot spell this summer set down on his playing schedule.

Today, Ballsieper has a 23 club handicap and still scores in the high 80s. His lowest round was a 69 in 1937. Sports have always played a major part in his life. During his school days at South Manchester High, Ballsieper earned letters in baseball, basketball and track. A big lad then at six foot and 200 pounds, he had the ideal build for football but the school did not field a team.

The 1910-11 SMHS basketball team capped the State championship with Ballsieper one of the leading figures.

For five years Ballsieper was a hard-hitting fullback in amateur circles, two years with the South East Tigers and three with the Army & Navy Club.

He also starred with Company G, one of the state's best basketball teams when each side was allowed six men on a side.

A Manchester native, he was employed for 48 years at Cheney Brothers in the Project Department. For five years he played baseball in the Cheney League.

During World War I, Ballsieper served in the Navy as a chief petty officer. One of his assignments was to chauffeur Thomas A. Edison in his private gig. For eight months, the Silk Towner was behind the wheel with the famed inventor as his passenger.

That was one of the highlights in his lifetime but since 1926 when he first arrived at the Manchester Country Club he has been carrying out an enviable record that may never be matched on the golf course.

Avellini called plays in win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bob Avellini achieved an ambition Monday night and it paid off in a victory for the Chicago Bears.

The one-time Maryland quarterback, starting his 22nd game as the Bears' signal-caller, called his own plays for the first time with amazing success. He threw three touchdown passes and Bob Thomas kicked a 33-yard field goal to give the Bears a 24-23 decision over the Los Angeles Rams.

"We cut down on our game plan and told Bob early in the week he would call the plays," said Bears' Coach Jack Pardee. "We thought we needed more leadership on the field and that was one way to get it."

Avellini wound up with three spectacular touchdown passes. Two went to James Scott and covered 70 and 72 yards — the longest pass completions or receptions for both the passer and receiver. The winning touchdown came on a 29-yard throw to tight end Greg Latta.

"I saw Greg in the end zone and I had been kind of scrambling backwards and I threw as hard and as high as I could throw and he made a great catch," Avellini said of the winning score.

He also credited Scott for great catches on the other two touchdown strikes.

Avellini out-pitched the Rams' quarterback star Joe Namath, who wound up completing 16-of-40 passes for 203 yards. But he threw four interceptions, was sacked twice for 19 yards and failed to connect for a touchdown.

"It had trouble handling the ball in the first half," Namath said.

NHL clubs draft only three men

MONTEAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League had prided itself on devising a plan to spread its talent around, but judging from the first waiver draft few clubs feel they're the league's weak-link.

The NHL move to create a more balanced league saw only three players chosen, while high priced talent as Pat Martin, Dennis Hull, Vic Hadfield, Derek Sanderson, Ed Giacomin and Ed Johnston were passed up.

The Detroit Red Wings put out $50,000 for Montreal Canadiens' defenseman Paul Woods, who Washington Capitals took Boston Bruins left wing Dave Forbes and the New York Rangers got Toronto Maple Leafs goalie Wayne Thomas.

Montreal General Manager Sam Pollock said he was disappointed at the draft results. But, he said, it shows there was no bias for criticism often leveled against Montreal for having cornered the market on talent while other clubs must struggle along.

"We offered some very good hockey players and I'm surprised that only one of us was taken," said Pollock. "People accuse me of having all the best players, so I was willing to spread some of them out and still there were no takers."

Woods, a 22-year-old center who had 90 goals and 18 assists last season with Montreal's Nova Scotia farm club, was the first choice in the waiver draft.

"I didn't expect to get drafted — in fact I didn't," said Woods. "It's great. I'm really excited."

The Rangers made goalie Gilles Gratton available to take on Thomas, who said he's looking for opportunities under New York General Manager John Ferguson that he never had in his two years at Toronto.

"I'm glad John had enough faith in me to take me," said the 30-year-old goalie, who will back up John Davidson in the Rangers' home opener Wednesday against the Vancouver Canucks.

Washington found some much-needed muscle and speed with the addition of Forbes, a six-year veteran with the Bruins but used sparingly on a four-line and as a penalty killer last season.

"We were sorry to see Dave leave us but it was best for him," said Bruins' General Manager Harry Sinden. "Dave wanted to play regularly and he wasn't going to be able to do that with us."

Top pitchers

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Nolan Ryan was voted Pitcher of the Year in the American League and Steve Carlton won the same honor in the National League in a poll of players conducted by The Sporting News.

West Siders honor Cobb

Dick Cobb, second from right, former Twilight League baseball player and current director of athletics at Manchester High, was saluted at the annual West Side Old Timers' reunion last Saturday night at the Garden Grove. Jake Banks, who also was to be honored, was ill. Looking on are Tom Conran, John Chomick who came up from West Palm Beach, Fla., and accepted gift on behalf of Banks, Cobb and Fran Mahoney. Whalers cut Mayer; Raeder, Maxwell out

HARTFORD (UPI) — In order to reach the World Hockey Association's 19-player limit, the New England Whalers sent rookie right wing Jim Mayer to Springfield of the American Hockey League Monday.

Also caught up in the numbers game were goalie Cap Raeder and defenseman Bryan Maxwell, who were released by Springfield.

Maxwell is headed for Binghamton, N.Y. of the AHL, but Raeder is now a hockey player without a team.

Mayer, who played for Michigan last season, joins Steve Carlsson, Danny Bolduc and Andre Pelofsky at Springfield. They will form the Whalers' reserve corp along with Raeder, who the Whalers will try to place with another team.

The Whalers, who compiled a 6-1-1 record in exhibition play, including a 5-1 mark against National Hockey League teams, have five of their first six games on the road in seven nights beginning with Saturday night's home opener with the Birmingham Bulls.

The season opener for New England will be Wednesday against the Houston Aeros.

MMH credit union declares dividend

The Board of Directors of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Credit Union today announced the posting of a 5.5 per cent per annum dividend to the accounts of eligible shareholders for the quarter ending Sept. 30. The increased dividend reflects the rising loan activity of the credit union, which now controls assets of nearly $900,000.

The MMH Credit Union serves employees of both Manchester Memorial and Rockville General hospitals, members of their families, and retirees from both institutions. Current membership shows about 970 accounts for members affiliated with Manchester Memorial and about 230 Rockville General accounts.

Credit union schedules will be expanded later this month. In addition to Manchester Memorial Hospital's office schedule of 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, it will remain open until 6 p.m. Wednesdays, effective Wednesday, Oct. 19. Beginning Tuesday, Oct. 18, the credit union office at Rockville General Hospital will be open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Employees from either facility can be served at either of the two offices with a full range of credit union transactions.

A truck of unknown destination roars past Governor St. on Prospect St. Monday afternoon, the driver apparently ignoring the "No Trucks" sign. Residents along Prospect St. claim truckers take the narrow, residential street night and day. Few take the town's prescribed truck route, leading away from the Governor St. exit off I-84. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Trucks still use Prospect Street

By MAL BARLOW East Hartford Reporter

"We have been bitterly disappointed," John Sullivan of 283 Prospect St. told the Town Council this morning.

He told the council that signs placed by the town with the okay of the state Traffic Control Commission (TCC) gave area residents peace for about two weeks. The signs read "No Trucks" and "No Trucks Between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m."

Only the trucks of the Hartford Dispatch firm located on Prospect St. were exempted.

But truckers soon learned they could ignore the signs. The noise picked up again. Tractor trailers roared over the road late at night, sometimes in convoys of six or more.

Residents have complained for years. The highway Department of Transportation (DOT) has plans to run a stretch of superhighway from the Governor St. exit out to South Windsor by the Bissell Bridge.

In the meantime, Governor St., Prospect St. and other local roads receive a heavy load of through-traffic. What bothers the residents most is truck traffic.

The older homes shudder and shake as the trucks roar past. Bumps in the road cause the earth to tremble as truck wheels hit them.

"For Sale" signs have sprouted in front of stately homes. Prices are said to be lower than they should be. But the sellers just want away from the noise, vibrations and fumes.

Sullivan asked the council if the signs on Prospect St. are valid. "Do we have the right to enforce those laws?" he asked.

Mayor Richard Blackstone told Sullivan and the council what he has been explaining to angry citizens groups there. The signs only prohibit "through" trucks. All other trucks which stop or start somewhere in East Hartford can ignore the signs. Local trucking firms, such as the large Mashkin Freight Lines off Park Ave. in the North End, do ignore the signs. And the state laws allow them to do so, said the mayor.

Town Corporation Counsel Timothy McNamara got angry when Sullivan said TCC officials told him it was up to the town to stop the trucks.

"This upsets me," McNamara said. "The state was making representations to you that aren't true. They can do something about it. But they don't want to."

"It is inexcusable for the state TCC to tell a citizen they have no power here," Mayor Blackstone said today. The town is still seeking permission from Jet Banking brings back the day that made borrowing simpler and faster.

Until last spring, getting a loan was a dragged out routine of filling out applications and then waiting anxiously for the bank to answer.

That's why CBT introduced Loan Day. It was just what people were waiting for: a fast and simple way to apply for a loan. In a very short period, over 10,000 people used our easy Jet Banking ways to apply for loans at CBT.

So if you need a loan this fall we're making it faster and simpler again. With Loan Day Two.

It's Saturday.

Most CBT offices will be open for loan applications on Saturday mornings. From 9AM to Noon, until November 5.

It's everyday.

If weekdays are more convenient for you, Loan Day Two also brings you a lot of ways to make applying for a loan simple, fast and easy. For example:

It's a same day loan.

Apply for your loan any weekday before noon and in most cases, we'll have an answer for you by 3 o'clock that same afternoon.

It's a phone loan.

Maybe you just can't get to the bank at all. So just pick up your phone and dial 1-800-842-2060 (toll free) weekdays 9AM-9PM, Saturdays 9AM-1PM. That'll put you in touch with someone who will be happy to take your loan application over the phone. And call you back with an answer the next business day.

It's a take home loan.

Who said loan applications have to be filled out in the bank? Loan Day Two lets you take an application home, fill it out at your leisure and mail it back to us or drop it off at the CBT branch most convenient to you.

It's hard-to-beat rates.

CBT's loan rates are competitive with most other banks. And it costs you nothing extra for the Jet Banking service you only get at CBT.

It's simple ways to repay.

With CBT's Jet Banking, paying back your loan is simple too. If you want, we'll remember to make your payments for you. If you pay in person, our Jet Deposit Box eliminates standing in line. Or, use Barney, CBT's Alltime Jet Banker, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

We want to give you your next loan

Ambulance suit filed

Professional Ambulance Service of Hartford, with an office on Burnside Ave., East Hartford, is suing the Town of East Hartford, the state Office of Emergency Medical Services and the Manchester Ambulance Service, for $500,000.

The suit filed in Hartford Superior Court claims East Hartford's Monday action making the Manchester service its primary ambulance service will hurt Professional.

Mayor Richard Blackstone said today, "All I'm doing is reluctantly following a directive of the state."

New state laws on ambulances mean a town must choose one ambulance service as its primary service. Police and fire fighters must call that service whenever an ambulance is needed.

The mayor said he was forced to make a choice among the three services which had been on a rotation basis in town. They were Professional, Manchester, and Trinity Ambulance of Hartford, which maintains an office on Main St. just north of Prospect St.

The mayor studied the matter and took advice from police and other town departments dealing with ambulances. He chose Manchester.

Harvey Kagan, president of Professional, fought the move. Roger Talbot, president of the Manchester firm, chose Trinity as his backup service.

Talbot said today, "If Harvey wins this suit in any way, it blows the whole emergency medical service program (run by the state) out the window."

"We didn't push for anything. We just went down the list of requirements. So did Mayor Blackstone even when he didn't want to."

"I don't think anything is out of line with the law here."

Talbot said he is moving into the Main St. office of Trinity. Trinity, run by Peter Topa, is moving to 1739 Main St. to larger quarters.

About Topa, Talbot said, "We've never had any trouble, arguments maybe. We don't sue each other. He runs a nice service."

Professional sued. The suit filed in Hartford Superior Court claims East Hartford's Monday action making the Manchester service its primary ambulance service will hurt Professional.

East Hartford police report

Ronald Karlson, 28, of 184 Cambridge Dr., East Hartford, was charged today with third-degree criminal mischief and driving while under the influence of liquor.

Police said the arrest was made about 1 a.m. after a patrolman saw a car tearing up grass at the Hocknam School playground.

Karlson was held on a $100 bond and was to appear in Common Pleas Court 12 today.

Bulletin board

NOW's president For the second year in a row, the National Organization for Women (NOW), Central Connecticut Chapter has elected an East Hartford woman as its president.

Jane Mendonhall Echelson of 41 Richard Rd. was recently elected to head the chapter. Celeste Bayek of East Hartford led it during the past year.

The chapter has championed women's rights and has urged the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution.

Chamber workshop The East Hartford Chamber of Commerce will hold a Quits and Fire Workshop Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 8:30 a.m. at the Holiday Inn on Roberts St.

Speaking will be Theodore Hatcher, director of employment service, and Charles Harlow, manager of the merit rating office, both of the state Labor Department.

Martin H. Lee, manager of labor relations at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's manufacturing division, will speak on internal unemployment compensation controls at 10:15 a.m. To learn more, call the chamber at 289-0229.

Explorers' spaghetti The East Hartford Explorer Fire and Rescue Post will hold an "all you can eat" spaghetti dinner Tuesday, Nov. 1, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the South Congregational Church on Forbes St.

Prices are lower for children and senior citizens. Fire fighter Sam Cipolla, department chef for 29 years, is in charge of the kitchen.

The proceeds from this second annual spaghetti dinner go towards the Explorers' uniforms and gear including pumps for emptying flooded cellars.

Voter sessions Two special voter making sessions will be held Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The registrars of voters will conduct one at the Gateway Apartments, 233 Ellington Rd., in the game room.

The Board of Admissions will also hold one at the same time in the registrars' office at Town Hall.

Midgets win Monday

Defensive end T.J. Fogarty chipped in six points when he stripped the ball from the Jets' quarterback's hands and ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

Chris Darby's pass to Cassarino was good for the extra points.

Wayne Polansky and Gary Bruton set up another scoring drive when they blocked a Jet point on the 12-yard line. Rodegher ran the ball in for the TD and Anderson ran in for the extra points.

In the third quarter, Rodegher set up another score when he ran 30 yards past most of the Jets before being stopped. On the next play, he added 15 more yards and six more points.

Elks coach Bob Blake, impressed that the Jets never gave up, said, "They came back with a strong running game in the second half."

The Jets scored again in the third quarter.

The Elks A team added the final TD near the end of the game when John Rodegher's 35-yard run got him over the goal line.

Scott Sirois passed to Ken Puchalsky for two more, making the final score 48-12.

Blake said defensive standouts were Danny O'Connell, Tom Parlante, Rick Hatters, John Geres and Steve Lord.

The other midget games will be made up later.
