Warns of potential 'ripoff'

Carter attacks big oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter warned today of the potential for "the biggest ripoff" in the nation's fight to secure energy independence, denouncing oil and gas companies for wanting to "profiteer" and "grab" money from the pockets of the American consumer.

Reiterating his claim that the energy crisis is "the moral equivalent of war," Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference, "The question is — who will profit from these prices and to what degree?"

He said his energy package "assures that the American people will not be robbed" and provides adequate incentives for domestic oil and gas exploration.

"But the oil companies apparently want it all," he said. "We are talking about enormous amounts of money."

He accused industry of trying to take money out of the pockets of American consumers and putting it in their own pockets.

His energy program in deep trouble in Congress, Carter said "I hope the American people will join with me" in fighting for his proposals.

"In April, when our national energy policy was presented to Congress and the people, I said this was the moral equivalent of war. I haven't changed my mind.

"As in the case of war, there is potential war profiteering in the energy process... this could result in the biggest ripoff in energy history."

Carter, who makes a two-day visit to the Midwest and West later this month, hopes to bring strong public pressure on a House-Senate conference committee which must iron out a compromise on his tattered energy program.

The House voted down Carter's proposed gasoline tax increase, but passed most of the remainder of his proposals with considerable modification. The Senate Finance Committee has voted down the gas tax, proposed domestic crude oil tax and a tax on industrial use of oil and gas.

And despite White House urging that federal price controls be kept on natural gas, the full Senate has also voted to phase out those controls.

Carter said energy prices have risen extensively in the past few years.

"The oil companies apparently want it all," he said, "and we are talking about enormous amounts of money. The struggle is intense and it's going to go on for a long time, but the basic question is going to be answered in the next few weeks in the Congress."

"We believe in the free enterprise system," he said. But he added that oil and gas "are not part of that system" because domestic energy is so heavily influenced by foreign production and imports.

At industrial park trial

Data said insufficient for air pollution claims

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Brian Kenny of the Air Compliance Division of the State Department of Environmental Protection testified this morning that traffic information provided for the town of Manchester's proposed industrial park is insufficient to determine the effect the project will have on air quality.

Kenny's testimony, given this morning in the seventh day of the trial, differed from that given by Dr. Thomas Sharpless.

Sharpless, a chemistry professor at the University of Hartford, testified last week that, based on information from the park's plan, traffic generated by the park would increase air pollution.

Kenny said that other information besides that provided in the project plan is needed to determine the effects on air quality. He used the blackboard to depict how pollutants increase while others decrease with increased traffic speed. Thus, traffic flow and speed and road layouts are also essential parts of the air quality formula.

Kenny had also testified last week. He was called at that time by Atty. Anthony Pagano who represents the plaintiffs. This morning, Kenny was asked to testify by Defense Atty. Bernard McGovern.

In another development this morning, Superior Court Judge T. Clark Hull, granted amendments requested by Pagano in his complaint. The amendments include a claim that the project was initiated by the Department of Commerce and that it will lead to unreasonable pollution.

The defense attorneys objected to the change, but Judge Hull ruled the changes would not place the defendants at any disadvantage.

Defense attorneys in the case are McGovern, an assistant attorney general who represents the Department of Commerce, Atty. Rolland Castleman, who represents the Manchester Economic Development Commission, and Atty. Bourke Spellacy, who represents the J. C. Penney Co.

Attorneys involved in the case said Wednesday that the trial should end this afternoon. Judge Hull then is expected to visit Manchester and look at sites related to the case, including the proposed park site, the location of the home and business of Michael Dworkin, a plaintiff, and the location of the home of Edith Schoell, also a plaintiff.

The plaintiffs say that Edward Stockton, the state commerce commissioner, did not weigh properly the environmental effects of the proposed J.C. Penney Co. catalog distribution center. The center would be the major occupant in the town's planned industrial park.

In Wednesday afternoon's session of the trial, Theron Schnure of the state Office of Policy and Management talked about steps that the state takes while reviewing a project like Penney's.

Pagano asked Schnure about two reviews of the Penney project by the Agriculture Department. One said that the project might be inimical to the department's policy, the second said that the project would not be inimical.

A non-inimical finding is required from all state agencies reviewing such a project.

Schnure said that if an inimical finding is based on an inadequate reason, his department will contact the agency and ask for a clarification. This is what was done with the Agriculture Department.

When Pagano asked again about the differences in the Agriculture Department reviews, Judge Hull said, "The first statement was based on something that was not a state policy. I do believe you're building a lot on nothing."

The normally jovial judge expressed some impatience Wednesday, the sixth day of the trial. At one point, he talked to Pagano about the length of his speeches when raising objections. He also asked all attorneys for brevity in their briefs.

"I want them as simple, as direct and as short as possible," he said.

Town gets grant for housing program

Manchester's Housing Authority has been awarded a $397,640 Public Housing grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to buy one or more buildings to house 10 low-income families.

Announcement of the grant was made Wednesday evening by U.S. Rep. William Colter's Washington office in a call to The Herald.

Housing Authority officials reported no knowledge of the grant this morning. The authority has applied for a number of programs which could apply to this grant but officials were not able to pinpoint the specific application.

Pascal Mastrangelo, chairman of the authority, told The Herald two weeks ago that he was told HUD was interested in buying houses to provide housing for low-income families.

Details of the grant are still sketchy, but it apparently has designated that the housing include four-, three- and two-bedroom units.

Court ponders Bakke case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today shifted its dramatic "reverse discrimination" case from heated courtroom arguments to the isolation of a walnut-paneled conference room and the quiet chambers of the nine justices.

Months may elapse before the court answers the crucial question: Can state professional schools consider the race of applicants in an effort to compensate minorities for past wrongs?

And the more specific question: Was the California Supreme Court right in ordering Allan Bakke, a 37-year-old white man, admitted to the University of California's Medical School at Davis?

Bakke sued on the ground only his race kept him out, since the university reserved for disadvantaged minorities 16 of the 100 slots for beginning students.

The justices will discuss the case in a private conference Friday with no one else present. Some observers have compared the lawsuit to the landmark 1954 school desegregation case Brown vs. the Board of Education. That one was discussed at many conferences before an opinion took shape.

Each justice writes an opinion and these drafts are circulated to each of the nine.

In nearly two hours of arguments Wednesday, lawyers for both Bakke and the university claimed the facts in the case were crucial. Both relied on the same facts to win.

Questioning from the bench tends toward sharpness and Wednesday was no exception for Professor Archibald Cox of Harvard, who represented the university; Reynold Colvin of San Francisco, attorney for Bakke; and U.S. Solicitor General Wade McCree, who spoke for the Carter administration.

Chief Justice Warren Burger asked if there was any evidence that medical school had excluded minorities in past years.

Answering the chief justice, McCree said there was no evidence of improper exclusions but the court must be aware of much discrimination in California, for instance in the public schools of Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Francisco.

McCree joined Cox in asking that the California court be reversed.

House rejects reform bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bearded chairman of a panel that labored 18 months to bring reform out of last summer's congressional sex scandals only to see it scuttled in the House said philosophically "...the members have just had it."

Follow-up legislation to a measure passed earlier this year restricting members' outside income and ordering other new and tougher ethics provisions, was defeated Wednesday on a 253-169 procedural vote, without a debate on the substance of the bill.

The defeated measure would have set up an administrator to handle all the House business, created a panel to streamline the committee system, provided a grievance procedure for members' employes and done away with free plans, picture framing and foot lockers.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., chairman of the Commission on Administrative Review that was created after the Wayne Hays-Elizabeth Ray sex scandal, said the key element that beat his bill was frustration by members that — despite reforms — Congress still is under heavy public criticism.

"Probably the most important reason was emotional reaction to the acid rain of criticism, which has been directed at the House for the past number of years," said Obey. His bill, he said, "provided a vehicle for them to take out their frustrations and they did."

"It has not been a pleasant three or four years for members to serve in this place and I think all of those frustrations were finally expressed today and members have just had it," said Obey.

Committee chairmen like Oregon's Al Ullman of Ways and Means voted against it because, said Obey, "we had people trying to protect their own turf."

Others feared the grievance procedure that would allow their own employes to file complaints of job discrimination against them.

Still others, like Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, said members should not "abdicate our responsibilities to a non-elected super administrator."

The vote was a repudiation for Speaker Thomas O'Neill, who implored members to adopt the rule that would have brought the measure to the floor for debate and further voting.

"Afterwards, O'Neill acknowledged the 'timing was bad,' because the measure came up a day after news stories on the semi-annual report of the House clerk showing how taxpayers money was spent for the last six months.

"I know there is resentment by many members because they have to reveal to the public so many things," O'Neill told the House. But, he said, "we badly need better management around here and that is all this bill does."

Students in Unit A at Nathan Hale School check out the warning of the stop light recently installed in their cafeteria as a device to keep lunchroom noise to a minimum. Leo Diana, principal of the school, heard about a similar system being used at a school in Tolland and decided try it out. The students think the new system is great and only had the red light warning put on by the lunchroom aide a few times in the first week of operation. The green light means everything is "go" and yellow serves as a warning. (Herald photo by Pinto)

School lunches are 'fun-filling'

By SUSAN VAUGHN
Herald Reporter

Having lunch in a school cafeteria last week was an enlightening, fun and "full-filling" experience. And it was not even too noisy, thanks in part to a unique new system for keeping down lunch room racket at Nathan Hale School: a full size stoplight, that turns red when the noise level rises.

The lunch itself, a tasty, nourishing beef stew, was as good as Mom's, or better. Even the kids agreed. A group of fifth grade boys sitting with Principal Leo Diana were raving about the stew. Keith Blanchard, a fifth grade student said it was his favorite lunch, but then, he said all of the lunches are his favorite. Only one boy did not like the stew, but he said he does not eat his mother's stew either. He gave the stew to another boy who ate both helpings with delight.

Most of the students' comments defied the "lunches are yukky syndrome" and they agreed that the lunches were "pretty good" overall. They named some of their favorite lunches, with grinders topping the list, then, of course, hamburgers and hot dogs, and macaroni and cheese.

Some of the suggestions for improvement were:

Directors okay funding for three large projects

The Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night approved the appropriation of three federal grants that will finance sidewalk repairs, drainage work on Thompson Rd. and renovations to the police station.

The three projects were approved for funding through the federal Public Works Employment Act, which sought to fund projects that could provide near-immediate employment.

The board appropriated $750,000 for the police station, $775,000 for the sidewalks and $245,000 for the Thompson Rd. work.

The directors also approved a $1,500 allocation for a sanitary sewer line to service restrooms at Mt. Nebo. An additional $1,900 was also approved to complete work on the adjacent refreshment stand. Both appropriations came from other budget accounts.

In other actions Tuesday night, the board:

- Approved an additional $54,574.55 to extend the Deinstitutionalization of Status Offenders program through July 11, 1978. The program is handled by the Youth Services Department and money is provided by a state grant.

- Appropriated $37,222 for instruction of handicapped children. This money is also provided by a state grant.
- Agreed to a $7,500 settlement with Dorothy Collier, who broke her ankle in a storm sewer drain in 1975.
- Granted approval to fill a clerk II vacancy in the Sanitation Department.
- Approved the waiver of a building permit for the police station renovations.
- Allocated $1,300 from the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund for work at the Charter Oak refreshment stand and restroom facility.
- Appropriated $10,000 from the Water Reserve Fund to buy two vehicles and $45,000 to buy new water mains for the White Brook project.
- Accepted Angel St. and Meshville Rd. as town roads. These roads will be abandoned if the industrial park project moves forward, but to abandon them the town must first accept them — a step that has never been taken.
- Granted approval for the Human Resources Development Agency to file an application with the state Department of Community Affairs for day care funding not to exceed $46,317. Town Manager Robert Weiss was appointed to fill the role of the agency.
- Approved the sale of the Old Kenney St. School for $18,375.
- Appropriated state and federal grants of $1,021 for vocational education and $6,712 for programs for disadvantaged children in non-public schools.

Water service plan clarified for town line area users

A small group of residents on the Manchester and Glastonbury town line will remain as water customers of Manchester even if a larger group in Glastonbury become customers of the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC), according to Frank Jodanis, Manchester water and sewer administrator.

Town Manager Robert Weiss sent a letter to the Town of Glastonbury last week asking it to reinvestigate the use of MDC water for about 250 customers in Glastonbury who are served by the Manchester Water Department.

Those customers as well as about 25 residents of both Manchester and Glastonbury along the town line on the Roaring Brook Reservoir, but that water will first be pumped to the new water treatment plant, treated and pumped out again to the customers, Jodanis explained.

The problem with the Glastonbury customers in the section south of Mountain Rd. has been with two pumps which often fail, Jodanis said.

The cost for improvements to service those 250 Glastonbury customers has been estimated at about $1.3 million, or about 17 percent of the $7 million estimated for the town's new treatment plant.

The costs would have to be passed on to Glastonbury, Weiss said.

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

White rose blossoms in a tangle of weeds at home of the late Howard Tenner on Hebron Ave., Glastonbury. Mr. Tenner maintained a private rose garden here for many years. Some of the rose plants will go to Hartford's Elizabeth Park. (Atwood photo)

Several hundred rose plants, some of them old and rare, are growing in a weed-smothered garden on Hebron Ave., Glastonbury, where they were planned and cared for by the late Howard Tenner. What will be done with them has been a question for the Glastonbury Bank & Trust Co., executor of Mr. Tenner's estate.

In his will, the hobby rose grower provided that the roses should be given to the Connecticut College arboretum in New London, but word of the bequest came as a surprise to college officials and they have regretfully declined the gift. The college does not have funds, they said, to pay for digging roses, taking them to New London, and then planting and caring for them.

Seeking to carry out the spirit of the bequest, the bank then offered the roses to Hartford's Elizabeth Park, where shortages of money and manpower have left the park's rose garden with many empty flower beds. Superintendent of Parks Charles Meli has said he would like to have some of Mr. Tenner's plants.

Mr. Meli came to look at the roses in the summer and is waiting for a frost to slow down the rate of top growth when he will select the roses he wants to take and move them to the park. They will be "heeled in" for the winter with their roots covered in a trench, then planted in the spring.

Weeds allowed to grow

Edward Nordstrom of Glastonbury, a friend and neighbor, said Mr. Tenner told him some years ago that there were 1,400 rose plants in that garden. There are not that many bushes now and, although Mr. Tenner took care of his garden in the spring, there has been no one to do this work since he died in June and the roses are growing in a thicket of tall grass and weeds.

Frank Haines, trust administrator for the bank, gave me permission to explore the garden and take pictures. I found a dozen plants with blooms, mostly one flower to a plant at this late season. The white rose pictured on this page is labeled "Frau Karl Druschki," a German variety, classed as a hybrid perpetual. Once widely grown, these roses have been replaced in popularity by the hybrid teas.

Mr. Tenner imported some of his plants from Europe and had to keep them in quarantine until they could be inspected and tagged as free of disease by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. A sign in the garden indicates an area set aside for roses in quarantine.

Variety names indicate other German roses. Some are French, including La Reine, Mereville de Lyon and Reine des Violettes. There are his heirs are two Manchester sisters, Miss Lois Brock and Mrs. Alex Ferguson. Both told me of his love for the roses and admiration of their beauty.

"It was almost as though they were his children," said Mrs. Ferguson.

Before his funeral, in June at the peak of the season for rose blooms, Mrs. Ferguson cut 800 roses in Mr. Tenner's garden, took them to a Manchester florist and had them worked into a floral blanket for the casket. The florist said there were a number of roses he had never seen.

Land from the Tenner farm was sold several years ago to become the site of the new Pilgrim Baptist Church. Mr. Tenner was glad to have the church as a next-door neighbor. He said it would have pleased his mother. He gave the church some roses and four trees that he planted on the church grounds as memorials to his father, mother, his late sister and himself.

Mr. Haines said that to settle the estate, remaining land and the house, with its old barn and outbuildings, will be sold but the property is not yet on the market.

School lunch proves 'fun-filling' improvements to the lunches included more potato chips, more salt and pepper and eliminating veal and replacing it with the overwhelming favorite: PIZZA. Pizza is served at secondary schools and apparently the elementary students think they deserve it, too.

The average daily lunch count during the month of September this year was 3,277, up 89 from last September, which Mrs. Upping finds encouraging since the enrollment in the schools is down by about 300 students.

The student's comments coincided with cafeteria director Mary Upping's, who agreed with their favorites and added toasted cheese sandwiches, spaghetti and shells as the overall favorites in the schools.

As director of the Manchester public school lunch program, Mrs. Upping is in charge of planning for the $85,989 lunches which were served in all the schools during the 1976-77 school year.

The averaging daily participation in the school lunch program throughout the system last year was 28 per cent, Mrs. Upping said.

That figure can vary considerably depending on the school, the age of the students and the menu for the day. For example, Belling Junior High School always has about 30 per cent participation, but Belling Junior High can go as high as 50 per cent, Mrs. Upping said. The elementary lunch counts depend on the menu.

The high school hot lunch count is way down, which Mrs. Upping attributes to a lot of snacking, the open campus system and sandwiches being served besides hot lunch.

The lasagna will take the 104 cafeteria workers in all the schools two days to prepare. Mrs. Upping expects high lunch count on that day.

Mrs. Upping plans the school menus by the month, using some of the food provided by the Department of Agriculture, but buying most of it from local food distributors.

The town receives a cash reimbursement of 14 cents per child per lunch as well as 1 1/4 cents per child in commodities. Mrs. Upping said she cannot always use what the government has in commodities and she would prefer to receive a straight cash reimbursement. She said she can buy the food for less than the government does, when all the expenses of shipping the food several times are taken into account.

The Department of Agriculture is currently considering several ways to change the school lunch plan, which costs the federal government about $2 billion a year. Included in those changes are the cash only reimbursements and serving smaller portions to young children and large portions to teen-agers.

Mrs. Upping knows that the lunches are not appetizing to all the students and it bothers her when she knows some children buy only ice cream and cookies with their lunch money. She tries to have a variety in the meals, not having hamburgers and hot dogs more than once every two weeks. "Some children like macaroni and cheese and tuna casserole, too," she said.

The total cost of the Manchester school lunch program, including cafeteria personnel, is $650,000 which is completely self-sustaining.

The only cost to the town is $24,000 for the director, her secretary and new and replacement equipment.

The school lunches may have to be increased by five cents after January 1, if the minimum wage is increased, however, at that rate, it's still quite a bargain.

Parents at Nathan Hale School have been asked to find out for themselves what school lunches are like this week. Over 50 parents had signed up to have lunch with their kids.

U.S.-Soviet peace plan threat to America

Much has been said and written in recent days deprecating the opinions and statements of the Israel lobby. If the truth were known, every American would share those opinions. Unfortunately, we have been confused by contradictory statements from usually reliable sources.

Two referendums on ballot Nov. 8

The November ballot for the Town of Manchester will include two referendum questions for funding sewer installation and road improvement projects.

Schardt to manage campaign for Seader

Dr. Walter M. Schardt has been named campaign committee chairman for Leonard Seader, Democratic candidate for the Board of Education.

Dr. Walter M. Schardt

Dr. Schardt served on the Board of Education for nine years, retiring in 1972. He is currently chairman of the town's Advisory Board of Health. Other members of the committee are Edith Gottlieb, treasurer; Constance Piepler, publicity; Raymond Damato and Alfred Campbell.

About town

A Bible study is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 at the United Pentecostal Church, 187 Woodbridge St.

All-Anon family groups will meet tonight at 8 at the Pathfinders Club, 102 Norman St. and Friday at 10 a.m. at South United Methodist Church campus. The beginners group will meet tonight at 7:30 and Alateen for the 12- to 20-year-old children of problem drinkers will meet at 8 at the Pathfinders Club. The family groups are open to those affected by someone with a drinking problem.

Chapell Circle of North United Methodist Church will meet tonight at 7:45 at the home of Pat Gaboury, 67 Laurel St.

The Manchester Radio Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at First Federal Savings on Middle Tpke. George Markland from the Natchaug Radio Club will talk on "Short Scan TV." The public is invited.

tion of a trunk sewer from the Union Pond area to Tolland Tpke. and street sewers in the Baldwin-Concord area.

A sewer installation in the area was considered before but was rejected because the cost to the adjacent homeowners would have been too high.

The town, however, has received a federal grant to pay most of the cost of the project. The town cannot borrow in anticipation of state or federal funds without the voters' approval.

If the referendum question is approved, the town would borrow money for the project and then wait for the reimbursement through the $1.3 million federal grant. The borrowing would not cost the town anything but would ease the cash-flow process, Jay Giles, director of public works, said.

Even if the referendum is voted down, the project could still go forward, but it would create a more difficult cash-flow situation where the town would have to make payments for the project from its budget and then wait for the reimbursement through the grant.

The town's cost of the project, estimated to be $315,000, will be paid through assessments to property owners adjacent to the new sewer lines.

Road improvements
The other referendum question asks for voter approval to borrow $1,560,000 to pay the town's share for four improvement projects.

The projects are—Reconstruction of Main St. from Charter Oak St. to Ford St., reconstruction of the intersection of Main and Center Sts., improvements to Vernon St. and Vernon St. West from Lydall St. to the town line and renovations to the Adams St. Bridge and the street from the bridge to New State Rd.

All four have been selected to receive federal turnback funds, which are monies that had been designated for now-abandoned highway projects.

The town's final cost will be $1,002,000, but the initial cost is higher before the town is reimbursed for engineering work and rights-of-way purchases.

Thus, the town is seeking to borrow $1,560,000.

The most expensive project would be the reconstruction of downtown Main St. expected to cost $1,375,000. Giles said that the town expects to repave and level the street as part of the project. Improvements to storm drainage and street lighting will also be made, he said. All necessary sidewalk repairs should also be included, and there may be some sidewalk replacement, he said. The improvements to the intersection of Center and Main Sts. would cost $500,000. Giles said that the actual changes will not be known until planning designs are completed.

He did say that the state has completed a first-step phase for improvements to the intersection. The state had developed the plan based on $50,000 worth of improvements.

The improvements in the state plans are immediate one that include the relocation of traffic islands. The plan, however, does not include such items as paving the roads and more extensive improvements, Giles said.

Giles said that the Adams St. project is probably the easiest of the four. The bridge would be reconstructed and a curve that is presently in the bridge would be straightened. Also, the stretch of Adams St. would be straightened and a sidewalk on the east side would be continued to New State Rd.

The cost for the work is estimated at $605,000.

The fourth project—the Vernon St. work—would cost $780,000. It would include the smoothing of the road surface, which is bumpy, Giles said, and the straightening of some curves in the road.

This winter, here's how to heat your home at lower cost, with less concern.

Natural Gas. There is enough for the customers of Connecticut Natural Gas.

Last winter, nobody really wants to talk about. But what if it happens this winter, too? CNG wants to talk about it, and wants you to know how to get the most heat if it happens again. Because natural gas is the cleanest, most environmentally desirable, and most efficient energy source. CNG's job is a matter of showing everybody—whatever kind of heating system you have—how best to conserve energy and save money at the same time. To make you less concerned about home heating is something we're concerned about. CNG has made a careful study of all the latest technology in improving home heating, from the most sophisticated electronic devices to the modernization of old heat insulation techniques, and we're making it available to everybody, absolutely free and without obligation. Because CNG knows. Knows, for example, exactly how to help you save energy and money by replacing your old heating unit with a new gas unit that's designed for saving. A unit with no pilot burning all the time. A unit that delivers more of the generated heat to the areas where you live. A unit that can save you more on your total heating bill. Because no two homes or heating systems are the same, CNG can help you only by checking your home, your heating requirements, and your present heating costs.

Whether you heat with warm air, hot water, or steam, CNG will show you how you can save by replacing your old unit with a new gas burner that uses clean, safe, efficient natural gas. And CNG may show you how to save even more by recommending new fuel-saving control systems.

Use the coupon to obtain free, no obligation information on how to heat better for less this winter and in the future.

Religious music concert Friday

"The Liberated Walling Wall" is not simply a place in Jerusalem. It is also the name of a group of Jewish young people who will appear in concert at the Manchester Church of the Nazarene, 236 Main St., Friday evening at 7:30.

The group is best known for its Jewish gospel music, a unique form originated in 1968. "The Fraylach forms and Nigun melodies are particularly effective in setting the mood for religious experience," according to Stuart Daerman, music director and composer of their music.

Barry Rubin, leader of this group of instrumentalists and singers, has said that "Whatever we do, whether preaching or singing, our mode is Jewish. We don't find any contradiction between Jewishness and Christianity." The public is invited to this presentation.

Democrats accused of evading town budget shortfall issue

Manchester's Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson today charged the Democratic members of the Board of Directors with avoiding the present budget situation.

Ferguson referred to the board's decision to not hold a budget workshop. The workshop was proposed by Republican Director Vian Ferguson following a report of a possible deficit from Controller Thomas Moore.

Moore's report pointed out areas of the budget where the town could have shortfalls in its projections for the 1977-78 fiscal year. The report said that the shortfalls could be as much as $668,000.

Democrats, however, called the report "irresponsible." They said that it reflected only one side of the picture and did not include possible increases in revenues.

The Democratic members, as well as Town Manager Robert Weiss, said that it is too early to draw any accurate conclusions about a budget deficit.

Ferguson said that the Democrats avoided the issue when they refused to support the workshop. He said that it is time for the voters to elect responsible, responsive Republicans," Ferguson said.

Farmers reminded to vote

Tolland County

The Tolland County Agricultural Center reminds county farmers to vote for the Agricultural Stabilization Committee serving their town. Petitions for candidates must be returned to the county office, Rt. 30, Vernon, by Oct. 31.

The office is also still trying to reach 100 per cent reporting for crop acres. Mrs. Mary Koelsch, executive director, said most crop growers have filed but those who haven't should contact her office. Fruit and vegetable growers are also asked to file a report.

Loans to construct extra storage facilities, such as wet storage structures, grain bins and drying equipment, may also be applied for through the county office.

Mrs. Koelsch said that under this program, eligible producers may borrow up to 85 per cent of the cost of buying and installing the needed facilities, not to exceed $50,000. The rate of interest is seven per cent.

Farmers interested in filing for the 1977 wool incentive program should mail or bring their original sales slip to the county office and application will be prepared for signing by the farmers.

Mrs. Koelsch said the office will need to know the number of animals shorn, the month and year of shearing, and if the wool was from any purchased unshorn lambs has to be given and entered on the reverse side of the sales slip.

FISH gets more calls

South Windsor

The South Windsor chapter of FISH (Friends in Service Here) logged 53 calls in September, probably the largest number of requests received by the organization, according to FISH co-chairman Phyllis Oswald.

"We have already exceeded the total of calls for 1976," says Mrs. Oswald, "and we will still have three months to go in this year."

So far in 1977, FISH has received 320 calls. The total in 1976 was 264.

Most of the calls are for transportation requests, while a few are for emergency meals, child care, reassurance calls and companionship.

"Most callers needing transportation have some sort of injury or illness, either physical or mental," says Mrs. Oswald. "They need to go to hospitals, doctor's office or clinics for diagnosis or treatment."

FISH is run entirely on a volunteer basis, with most volunteers serving one weekday per month. There are lists of standby for weekends, evenings and those who will supply meals, provide child care, make reassurance calls or be a companion to a frightened or lonely person.

All South Windsor voters are invited to meet with the Republican candidates running for all local offices in a "get-together" at Larry's Auto Mini-Theater, Rt. 5, Saturday, and the chamber should be invited to the board's student work committee, said the committee is exploring the possibility of organizing training programs for students in local industries.

Most volunteers are women with preschool or school-age children. However, the volunteer list includes several men, a few senior citizens and two handicapped persons who themselves have received FISH assistance.

There is a normal turnover rate in volunteers of two or three a month, as husbands are transferred or women return to the job market, according to Mrs. Oswald. Additional volunteers are always needed.

Interested persons may call Linda Johnson at her home at 10 Barbara Rd.

Applicant screening set for Vernon school posts

Two committees have been named to screen applicants for Vernon superintendent of schools and a principal for Rockville High School.

Supt. Raymond Ramsdell will retire at the end of the school year and Martin Fagan, principal of the high school, will retire in January.

The Board of Education decided on the makeup of the committees and designated William Houle, board chairman, to choose the people.

On the committee for screening for the superintendent's position are Dr. Daniel Woolwich and Robert Schwartz of the school board, Joseph Bellis, Vernon Administrators Association, Mrs. Miriam Bouley, Vernon Education Association; Mrs. Elizabeth Phelps, League of Women Voters; James Beattie, PTO Council, and Charles Brown, representative-at-large.

Dr. Ramsdell has been designated as central office coordinator. Those named to the committee for screening for the principal are Mrs. JoAnn Worthen and Mrs. Devra Baum, school board; Ronald Kozuch, Vernon Administrators Association; Mrs. Bouley, Vernon Education Association; Mrs. Elaine Sullivan, League of Women Voters; Weller Dugan, PTO Council, and Alfred Adam, representative-at-large.

Asst. Supt. Albert Kerkin will be central office coordinator. Mrs. Bouley, president of the education association, was named to the committee and the administrators association will meet Oct. 19 at 8 p.m. in the school administration building to discuss contract negotiations.

Chamber sets priorities

Vernon

Improvement of communication among members of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce is one of the priorities set by the new chairman of the board, Harvey Desruisseaux.

At Wednesday's board meeting, Desruisseaux called on board members to contact other chamber members at least once or twice a year to find out their thoughts about what the chamber should be doing.

Larry Merlino, assistant chairman of the board's student work committee, said the committee is exploring the possibility of organizing training programs for students in local industries.

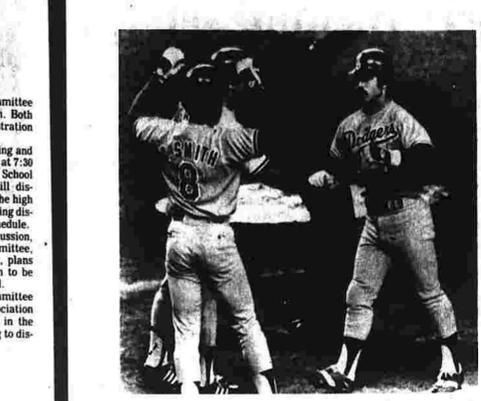

Merlino also said they are planning to restaff the committee which has students on it. He said in the past there have been high school seniors from Rockville, Ellington and Tolland on the committee.

He said this meant that each year these students would have to be replaced. Plans are to appoint some juniors.

Merlino, who was also just named chairman of the board's economic and development committee, said the committee is preparing a questionnaire asking how the chamber can help with problems which might lead businesses to move from the area.

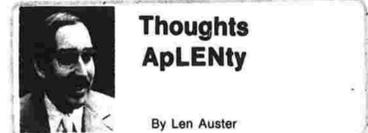

Four new members were accepted. They are Currie Coy Center of Vernon, Robert DiCarli of Ellington, Tolland Mobil Station and New England Building Systems, Inc. of Vernon.

The Vernon Women's Club has volunteered to take over the duties of the chamber's beautification committee and has asked for suggestions for projects.

Thoughts ApLENTy

By Len Auster

Illing Junior High's football team lost to J.F. Kennedy in England Friday. The final score was 16-6 in an abbreviated contest, three minutes short in fact. It was because Ram head coach Bill Troy pulled his graders off the field.

What "broke the camel's back" was running back Paul McCloskey getting slapped on the back right under the nose of an official, with no call forthcoming.

"We had a couple get hurt by what I considered cheap shots," Troy illustrated, "what I wanted to make sure was no one else gets hurt."

Another incident which outraged Troy was when Illing was heading for an apparent second touchdown. A Ram back fumbled the ball out of bounds, a Kennedy player fell on it, and possession was awarded to E-field.

Troy was contemplating pulling his team in the third quarter, with Illing still ahead. "I should have," he said with hindsight.

"The kids wanted me to turn them loose," Troy related. They wanted to retaliate. He didn't. They didn't. Illing has a contest Friday in England against Kosciusko. "We'll go, it wouldn't be fair to the team," Troy stated, "but if it's the same officiating crew, we'll get on the bus and come home."

Finally ditched East Catholic football coach John LaFontana was a happy man after last Saturday's game. His Eagles defeated Northwest Catholic in a penalty-filled engagement in which three players, two from Northwest and one from East, were ejected. It was his first victory ever over Northwest and Coach Willie Stoney in five tries. The previous meetings ended in 0-42, 12-41, 0-20, 0-18 scores.

"I was dreaming the other day of scoring 63 points on Northwest," LaFontana mused. "I remember when they scored 61, Walt said he was waiting for me to put my jayvees in before he did."

"I told Al (assistant coach Al Freihelt) and he said he'd settle for 7-6."

The final was 14-13.

Trophy case smashed The trophy case at Manchester High was smashed Tuesday, the glass reportedly kicked in, and about 10 trophies were severely damaged. That has to be an all-time low at the school.

They have a different style than Yale (whom Dartmouth beat, 3-0, last week). That's different than being better or worse than Yale. It's just different. I'm looking forward to the toughest game of the season."

Joe Restic, whose Harvard defense was being ridden by Colgate and Massachusetts in non-league losses, said the Crimson defense played well in a 17-7 win at Cornell Saturday.

"Our defense is a strong point and we don't do well on that side of the ball, then we're in a lot of trouble."

The Dartmouth defense was exceptional against Yale. Yale, coming off two straight

Dodgers' home run bats sounded thunder in win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Their record-setting home-run bats having sounded their first World Series thunder, the Los Angeles Dodgers return home all even at one game apiece with the New York Yankees.

Yankee Manager Billy Martin who gambled and won with an injured Don Gullett as his starter in Tuesday night's first game victory over the Dodgers, tried to coax another miracle from his depleted pitching staff in the person of Catfish Hunter Wednesday night — and got walloped.

Idled with a mysterious neurological ailment since Sept. 10, Hunter was kayoed after only 2 1/3 innings when the Dodgers, with four players who hit 30 or more homers this season, sent three hanging sliders into a five-run cushion after only three innings very satisfying.

"I learned to keep cool," said Hooton, who tamed the Yankees on five hits while striking out eight and walking only one. "Still, there's nothing routine about pitching a World Series game."

Hooton retired the first six Yankees in the game — four of them by strikeouts — and didn't run into any serious trouble until Willie Randolph and Thurman Munson led off the fourth with singles. But a line drive by Reggie Jackson, which

Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey converted into a double play bailed him out of that jam at the expense of one run, and in the fifth, after allowing singles to Graig Nettles and Bucky Dent, he struck out pinch-hitter George Zebner and got Mickey Rivers on an inning-ending flyout.

After that, it was clear sledging for the blood, curly-haired right-hander, who retired 12 of the next 13 batters.

One negative note in the Dodgers' victory was an incident in the ninth inning. Smith was struck by a ninth ball thrown from the stands and crumpled to his knees in pain.

Dodger physician Dr. Leroy Perry placed a cervical collar around Smith's neck, but the Dodger right fielder insisted he would play Friday.

"All I know is, the light went out," said Smith. "But even if I have to come to the plate in a wheelchair, I'll be playing."

Pitching gamble of Yanks failed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Martin had little choice. A tough five-game series with Kansas City and Ed Figueroa's injured hand left only Catfish Hunter to start the second game of the World Series for the Yankees.

The gamble didn't pay off. Hunter, who hadn't pitched since Sept. 10 because of a urinary infection, gave up three home runs and five runs in 2 1/3 innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Yankees, 6-1, Wednesday night to even the Series at one game apiece.

"It felt like spring training," said Hunter. "I hadn't been out there in a month. I was throwing high."

"I knew he (Martin) didn't have anyone else to pitch," Hunter said. "Every time I hung a ball, they hit it out. In the bullpen, I was throwing good. I got two strikes on (Ron) Cey and hung a slider. The pitch to (Steve) Yeager was a hanging slider over his head. In the third inning, the ball was right where I wanted it — went out and got it."

"Of course not. I need Tidrow in the bullpen," Martin said. "He (Hunter) hung three sliders and all three were hit for home runs. Those things happen. He was the only pitcher I had to go to."

The Yankees had a difficult time against winning pitcher Burt Hooton, who said they didn't see as many of his baffling knuckle-curves as they expected.

"He didn't throw it that much," said Jackson. "He was throwing it in the right spots. I think we were looking for the knuckle-curve more than we should have."

Hooton learned to keep his cool

NEW YORK (UPI) — Burt Hooton of the Los Angeles Dodgers, a 27-year-old right-hander with unlimited potential, world his education in the pressure-cooker of playoff and World Series competition.

The first was to keep cool, no matter what, and the second was not to rely too much on his unusual knuckle-curve.

"I learned a lesson in Philadelphia," said Hooton, referring to Friday when he lost his composure and walked home three Philies runs in the third game of the National League playoffs. "I learned my lesson — to keep cool."

Hooton learned the second lesson Wednesday night when the Yankees World Series pitcher, he said, "This is the first club that ever has had four 30-homer hitters in the same season. These guys are real. They can hit the ball out of the Grand Canyon."

"We started to mix the knuckle-curve with other pitches and had clear sailing."

Manager Tom Lasorda seemed a bit annoyed when asked if the Dodgers could continue their heavy hitting against the Yankees in Los Angeles.

"It is ironic that people ask about Dodger power," he said. "This is the first club that ever has had four 30-homer hitters in the same season. These guys are real. They can hit the ball out of the Grand Canyon."

Cashman suspended

BOSTON (UPI) — Paul Holmgren, Boston Bruins forward Wayne Cashman says for a reason to suspend him for three games after a fight with Philadelphia Flyers executive vice president Brian O'Neill Wednesday suspended Cashman because of allegations he had with Philadelphia Flyers Jimmy Watson and Paul Holmgren. "We have to stick with our policy of dealing severely with incidents that can prove dangerous when players use their sticks or skates," O'Neill said.

The Bruins said the NHL informed them a three-game suspension had also been imposed on Holmgren and a two-game suspension against Watson.

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — New Hampshire tailback Bill Burnham, a senior from Boston's Dorchester section, and University of Massachusetts halfback Billy Coleman, a senior from Ipswich, were selected offensive players of the week in the Yankee Football Conference for last weekend's games. Defensive honors went to Union linebacker Joe McLaughlin, a junior from Stoneham, and University of New Hampshire linebacker Greg Donahue, from Norwood, Mass.

"I realized then that you just can't stay there and throw the same every time even if it is one at a time," he said before.

Nathan Hale card

Postal event Friday

Frank M. Sommerkamp, northeast regional postmaster general, will be the main speaker at first-day-issue ceremonies for the Nathan Hale postal card Friday in Coventry, where Hale was born in 1755.

The ceremonies, beginning at 10:30 a.m., will be in the Coventry High School Gymnasium. The nine-cent postal card will be the latest in the U.S. Postal Service's Patriots Postal Card series.

Sommerkamp will trace the history of events leading up to Hale's death. The Revolutionary War officer and hero was hanged as a spy by the British in 1780. Tradition attributes to him the saying that he only regretted that he only had but one life

Furbish challenges McCoy

George A. Furbish, seeking reelection to the Vernon Town Council on the Democratic ticket, has challenged former Republican Mayor Frank McCoy on statements concerning construction of the new police station.

McCoy, who served three terms as mayor, is running against incumbent Democrat Thomas Bennet on the November ticket.

Furbish said, "Republican candidate Frank McCoy's recent statements concerning the $1.5 million federal grant for construction of a new police station seems to indicate that he is either uninformed or wishes to convince the electorate that the grant was really a political pie that he would have cut into pieces to please a number of interest groups."

Furbish said that McCoy's statements imply that an addition to the existing police station would have been adequate and less costly, which seems to typify his "Band-Aid" approach to local government.

"As chairman of the council subcommittee that helped initiate the police station project, I can assure Mr. McCoy that an addition was thoroughly explored and found to be totally unrealistic, both from cost as well as a functional standpoint," Furbish said.

Furbish said he also read with interest the former mayor's statement indicating the desirability of a police substation in Rockville to improve police protection in that section.

"His concern may well be legitimate, but one can only wonder why he didn't initiate and implement such a project during his three terms as mayor in the not too distant past," Furbish said.

He concluded, "We all know that in the heat of a political campaign, there is a tendency to promise a little something for everybody, but I respectfully suggest that the Republican candidate refrain from misrepresenting the facts when discussing the police station grant."

Defense keys MCC tie at Brown

By DAVE ROBACK

When one piece of the machine falls, another part has to work twice as hard to achieve the end product. The same principle applies to soccer.

Manchester Community College's team had a breakdown on offense, and relied on the defense to tow it through a 1-1 draw against Brown University's "B" team yesterday in Providence, R.I. The locals, 6-2-1, face Worcester Jr. College Saturday morning at 11. Parents Day, at Cougar Field.

Lafleur big gun with Canadiens

NEW YORK (UPI) — Canadiens' super scorer Guy Lafleur thinks his team's first National Hockey League game this season was the toughest he'll have, there would seem to be little point in playing the other 719 contests.

Although press reports during the first two periods-plus, the two-time defending Stanley Cup champions powered home three goals in the final 14 minutes to grab a 7-3 decision over the young Minnesota North Stars.

Lafleur picked up where he left off last season — a 28-game regular-season scoring streak — with two goals, including the game winner. "Flower" scored at 14:12 of the opening period in a power play to give Montreal a 2-1 lead and fired in his second tally 4:21 into the third session.

"The first game is always the toughest," he said. "It takes a little while for you to reach your full capacity. But I'm sure there'll be some improvement as the season progresses."

Minnesota Coach Ted Harris, who saw his team take a 1-0 lead and narrow two-goal deficits has no doubt the Canadiens will improve.

"The Canadiens are a powerhouse," he said. "They probably won't lose more than one game all season."

Doug Riesenbrough, rookie Pierre Mondou, Doug Jarvis, Guy Lapointe and Yvan Cournoyer added one goal each for Montreal. Nick Beverley, Pierre Larry and Roland Eriksson shot goals for Minnesota.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the New York Rangers whipped Vancouver, 6-3. Pittsburgh skated past St. Louis, 2-2, and Los Angeles blanked Cleveland, 2-0.

In the World Hockey Association, Indianapolis rallied for a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati. New England blanked Houston, 3-0, and Winnipeg defeated Edmonton, 7-3.

MCC's offensive attack in the first period and the first 10 minutes of the second was normal with good movement and opportunities. Then the locals started to stretch and not move off the ball, and the attack fizzled.

Cougar goalie Gerber did a superb job with perhaps his best performance of the year, rejecting 19 of 24 shots on goal and 10 corner kicks.

The defensive backs, Bill Young, Gary DeGiacomo, Charlie Markman and Paul Richards deserve credit as well as the entire defense for many individual saves, which would have their way to Gerber and possible scores. Brown, now 2-0-2, outshot the Cougars, 24-10, with Center collecting five saves.

Leadership unsurpassed

Veal inspiration to girl runners

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports-writer

She suffered through the dog days, the first two years, when 2-5 and 1-2 records were compiled.

She also "went out last year and recruited four or five girls. Maybe they weren't that big but they were bodies. We wouldn't have a team without her," states Coach Phil Blanchette.

Now the Manchester High girls' cross country program is prospering. It has 17 active members, those serious about running.

And now times are good for Lori Veal. She, junior Katie Hennessy and sophomore Lynne Wright are usually the top finishers. In meetings that they've taken turns beating each other and the opposition. But when you talk about leadership, Veal stands head and shoulders above the rest.

"She was an inspiration to the other girls even in 10th grade," Blanchette started. "She'd go jogging by the junior highs and you'd see the others wanting to be like her."

"Her leadership ability is unsurpassed by any team captain in any sport here," Blanchette insisted. "She knows how to get girls up for a meet, more than I can do. If I have someone with a problem I usually send them to Lori. With girls, peer influence is more important and that's why she's so effective. She's been there just about everything imaginable."

"At the big meet (Knights of Columbus Invitational) the other continued to rattle off in machine-gun fashion," the sophomore seemed nervous but at the line Lori cracked a joke or something and calmed them down."

"Lori thinks nothing of running after practice. She'll grab a couple of teammates and have them run with her and it seems to have helped. It seems her pupils are blossoming and beating her now."

"I don't think she'd mind if five on the team beat her as long as it wins the state championship. That's what I'd like. I'd like to win the state title this year for Lori. She's struggled through three years to get it going and would be real nice to cap things off like that," Blanchette said wistfully. "It would be fitting, too, if Veal led the way to victory."

Her leadership also comes in an informal form. "She's not improving as rapidly as last year but still steadily. But Lori is still the yardstick. She's the measuring stick of the whole team. At the end of the meet the girls come and ask their time compared to her," Blanchette rambled.

"Also, most teams know about and are pointing at her while Hennessy and Wright go zooming by. It's made it easier for the others. They're left to run their races without anyone breathing down their necks."

The active senior, secretary of the National Honor Society, member of the Harvard-Radcliffe Book Award for being the most outstanding young man, and in the top 10 per cent of her class throughout high school, is a competitor. She likes to win, but individual honors aren't foremost.

opening period in a power play to give Montreal a 2-1 lead and fired in his second tally 4:21 into the third session.

"The first game is always the toughest," he said. "It takes a little while for you to reach your full capacity. But I'm sure there'll be some improvement as the season progresses."

Minnesota Coach Ted Harris, who saw his team take a 1-0 lead and narrow two-goal deficits has no doubt the Canadiens will improve.

"The Canadiens are a powerhouse," he said. "They probably won't lose more than one game all season."

Doug Riesenbrough, rookie Pierre Mondou, Doug Jarvis, Guy Lapointe and Yvan Cournoyer added one goal each for Montreal. Nick Beverley, Pierre Larry and Roland Eriksson shot goals for Minnesota.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the New York Rangers whipped Vancouver, 6-3. Pittsburgh skated past St. Louis, 2-2, and Los Angeles blanked Cleveland, 2-0.

In the World Hockey Association, Indianapolis rallied for a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati. New England blanked Houston, 3-0, and Winnipeg defeated Edmonton, 7-3.

Phil Esposito scored one goal and added three assists as the Rangers awarded rookie Coach Jean-Guy Talbot with a victory in his New York debut. Mike Walton had two of the three Vancouver goals.

Marcel Dionne and Ernie Hicke each scored a goal and assisted the other's tally and Glenn Goulop assisted on both as one line accounted for all the scoring. Rogation Vachon stopped 24 shots for the Penguins. 4, Blues 2

Ball passing night

Jake Banks, who spent many years in pro baseball and who played with several Manchester teams in the old Two League, wasn't able to attend the West Side Old Timers' reunion due to illness, but he did remember Matt Moriarty Sr. John Chomick, right, a former teammate of Banks, was asked to present a ball autographed by members of the St. Louis Cardinals to Moriarty. Banks was once in the St. Louis organization and trained with the club in the 30s. Moriarty said the ball would be turned over to a grandson. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been discussing well-established working people at present. We are happily in love and communicate fantastically well. He is very active in sports and doesn't appear to be. I have been through a marriage and children before. (I haven't.) I am confident we would be good parents and have a lot to offer a child.

Do you think it's fair to a child to have a father with less than a full-term parenthood expectancy? We'd like your opinion and perhaps the opinions of readers who have experienced this.

FACING FACTS

DEAR ABBY: Never, but never, did this ancient, retired schoolteacher think he would take pen in hand for such a purpose.

Before I give you the bad news, let me give you the good news: You get straight A's in written English, spelling, grammar, sentence structure and vocabulary.

But, alas, teacher must flunk you in United States history! In attempting to console a bachelor, you stated that James Buchanan, our 16th president, was also a bachelor.

Dear, dear Abby, for shame. Buchanan was our 15th president. Abraham Lincoln was our 16th.

HISTORIAN: NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

DEAR HIS: When I goof, I take my lumps. But this time I was the victim of typographical error.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you answer this because I know I need help. I just hate children! Every time I'm holding her baby and making a fuss over it, I want to snatch it away from her, beat it and then drop it on its back.

I'm at the age (23) when a girl starts thinking of marriage, but I loathe the thought of getting married and running the risk of having a kid. I am sure I would make a rotten mother. I can't stand to hear a baby cry. I just know I'd beat the kid to death if it ever cried for very long. Do all people hate kids deep down, or is there something wrong with me? If you think I need help, where can I go?

HATES KIDS

DEAR HATES: I do think you need help. Get in touch with your local Mental Health Association. They're listed in your telephone book. I commend you on being wise enough to know that you need help and courageous enough to ask for it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVES TO SHARE": Another reader who loves to share her home-baked goodies wrote: "I always send my baked goodies in foil or on a paper plate so no one will feel compelled to give me something when returning my pan or platter."

What a thoughtful gesture!

Ask the Jacobys

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Texas team of Curtis Smith, Dan Morse, Eddie Wolf, Bob Hamman and Bob Wolff was the grand national team championship by beating the Washington team by the smallest possible margin (1 IMP) in the final. Here is one of the most remarkable hands played early in the match.

It is remarkable in that the bidding at both tables was identical. In each instance,

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been discussing well-established working people at present. We are happily in love and communicate fantastically well. He is very active in sports and doesn't appear to be. I have been through a marriage and children before. (I haven't.) I am confident we would be good parents and have a lot to offer a child.

Do you think it's fair to a child to have a father with less than a full-term parenthood expectancy? We'd like your opinion and perhaps the opinions of readers who have experienced this.

FACING FACTS

DEAR ABBY: Never, but never, did this ancient, retired schoolteacher think he would take pen in hand for such a purpose.

Before I give you the bad news, let me give you the good news: You get straight A's in written English, spelling, grammar, sentence structure and vocabulary.

But, alas, teacher must flunk you in United States history! In attempting to console a bachelor, you stated that James Buchanan, our 16th president, was also a bachelor.

Dear, dear Abby, for shame. Buchanan was our 15th president. Abraham Lincoln was our 16th.

HISTORIAN: NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

DEAR HIS: When I goof, I take my lumps. But this time I was the victim of typographical error.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you answer this because I know I need help. I just hate children! Every time I'm holding her baby and making a fuss over it, I want to snatch it away from her, beat it and then drop it on its back.

I'm at the age (23) when a girl starts thinking of marriage, but I loathe the thought of getting married and running the risk of having a kid. I am sure I would make a rotten mother. I can't stand to hear a baby cry. I just know I'd beat the kid to death if it ever cried for very long. Do all people hate kids deep down, or is there something wrong with me? If you think I need help, where can I go?

HATES KIDS

DEAR HATES: I do think you need help. Get in touch with your local Mental Health Association. They're listed in your telephone book. I commend you on being wise enough to know that you need help and courageous enough to ask for it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVES TO SHARE": Another reader who loves to share her home-baked goodies wrote: "I always send my baked goodies in foil or on a paper plate so no one will feel compelled to give me something when returning my pan or platter."

What a thoughtful gesture!

Bolton begins anti-burglary effort

More than 100 Bolton residents and businessmen attended the first public meeting on a burglary prevention program Wednesday at the Community Hall. Those in attendance ranged in age from school children to senior citizens.

State Police Sgt. Walter Nieliwicki, who will be in charge of the program, gave a brief description of how and why it got started.

Sgt. Nieliwicki said the biggest crime problem in the 13 towns served by State Police of the Colchester barracks is burglary. Bolton is one of the towns with the highest burglary rate, he said.

Through the program, people will learn how to make their homes and businesses more secure, to engrave their property to make it difficult for burglars to get rid of, and to be aware of what is going on in their neighborhood.

He said there will be an attempt to increase patrols using Auxiliary State Police.

Robert Peterson, resident state trooper, said there was a burglary in Bolton Wednesday morning. The burglars were seen by someone in the neighborhood. If that person had called the police, there would have been a good chance of catching the burglars, he said.

Peterson said if anyone sees strange cars or people in the neighborhood, they should call him. He doesn't mind checking everything.

An auxiliary trooper who researched burglaries in Bolton gave some statistics. In 1976, there were 52 burglaries in Bolton. So far this year, there have been 82 burglaries.

The trooper said 50 per cent of the burglaries are in private homes, 40 per cent happen in the daytime, and 21 per cent of the places are hit more than once.

After seeing two films on burglary prevention, residents had the opportunity to ask questions. Few were asked.

Sgt. Nieliwicki said most burglars are young, in their late teens or early 20s. Up to now, apprehension has been poor, he said.

Sgt. Nieliwicki said many people would be the meeting all charged up but things such as changing the locks at their home might fail by the wayside (because of costs).

He asked everyone to identify their property and watch their neighbors, two important items in crime prevention that don't cost anything.

There are nine engravers at Bentley Memorial Library that may be borrowed by residents.

Anyone wishing a home security check should leave their name, address and phone number with the selection's office.

Planners reject fast food place

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

By a 6-1 vote Wednesday night, the Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) voted down a Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers restaurant proposed for 345 Main St.

The vote followed a lengthy hearing on the restaurant. Atty. Francis Vignati, representing Flanagan Enterprises, the Hartford County Wendy's franchisee, made a detailed and lengthy plea for the fast-food restaurant.

But Atty. James Throwe, representing Angie and Ray's Drive-In at 214 Main St. and other area businesses, made a five-minute talk against Wendy's.

Vignati said Wendy's would enhance the area. Dwight Pettay of West Hartford, president of Flanagan, planned to raise several "deplacidated" houses at the site and build a brick and glass structure. Tall shrubs would shield it from neighbors. Most customers would be adults at lunch time.

Throwe, a part owner of the building housing a Constitution Bank & Trust Co. branch at 405 Main St., argued that area of Main St. opposite Pratt & Whitney does not need another fast-food restaurant. He said there is too much traffic in the area now.

Throwe pointed out Vignati had brought the plea for Wendy's to the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) in June. The ZBA denied it citing traffic problems. Robert Argazzi of Pratt & Whitney spoke against it then, also citing traffic.

Throwe said Wednesday no need had been shown for another restaurant.

PZC member Anthony Kayser said during the hearing he was surprised to see Wendy's was to be built on only two lots and not three as he had understood earlier.

PZC member Fred Bartlett said, "I don't think there's a busier place in the whole county than right here on the stretch of Main St. in front of Pratt & Whitney."

PZC member Jack J. Davis questioned Vignati and his traffic expert, Fred Hesketh of Bloomfield, about customers making U-turns to get to the Wendy's. Despite his questions, Davis was the only commissioner to vote for Wendy's.

Voting against it were John Groote, Kayser, Bartlett, George Goodberg, Dominick Serignese and Russell Bernier. Bernier was filling in for Chairman Walter Forrest, who had disqualified himself due to public comments he made favoring Wendy's in June.

The Wendy's would have seated 80 patrons and cost more than $200,000 to build. It would have employed 20 to 30 persons, mostly young men and women.

Housing approved

The PZC unanimously approved the maps of the 23-lot Burnham Estates subdivision proposed by Pasquale J. Salemi for 13.4 acres of land at the corner of Burnham and King Sts.

Atty. Vignati represented Salemi in the matter.

Radar use helps cut accidents

East Hartford police have shot down accidents this year since getting new weapons.

The weapons are radar guns. A federal grant gave the town funds enough to arm itself with three of the latest type of radar gun. An officer can hold it in his hand, aimed at a speeder coming or going, and get a "fix" on his speed.

The "fix" has been accepted in state courts as good enough proof to sustain police arrests for speeding. Commander Lowell McPherson said his records justify the radar guns.

During the period from July 1 to Sept. 30, 1976, there were 490 auto accidents in town, causing a total of 221 injuries.

Then the town got the radar guns. This year in the same period, there were only 462 accidents resulting in 141 injuries.

The drop in accidents is 18 per cent and the drop in injuries is 36 per cent.

During the 1976 period, police made 188 speeding arrests. But during the 1977 period, police used radar for 536 speeding arrests.

"This is proof it helps," said McPherson.

The radar guns are used at all times of the day and night on the town's main arteries. Drivers can't count on "safe" speeding areas. There aren't any, said McPherson.

Police Chief Clarence Drumm said he is pleased with the drop in injuries. He praised his officers for the speeding crackdown.

Three admit hijack plot

HARTFORD (UPI)—Three Connecticut men have pleaded no contest to charges in a 1975 plot to hijack a New Jersey truckload of meat.

Anthony D. Volpe, 44, of West Hartford; Francis Lisella, 48, of East Hartford; and Dennis J. Byrne, 34, of Meriden were accused of conspiracy in the plot, which was never carried out.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Volpe last summer was sentenced to three to 10 years in prison with a $20,000 fine after convictions for extortion, gambling, racketeering and conspiracy.

All three Wednesday made their plea with the understanding they could withdraw them if government electronic surveillance in the case ruled the indictment in the case said.

Chief U.S. District Judge T. Emmet Clarke, who presided in the hearing where the defendants entered their pleas, has ruled the warrants of a Hartford storefront were legal. Clarke's decision has been appealed.

Authorities said the three men conspired with several others in January 1975 to take a truck parked along the New Jersey Turnpike filled with meat. The grand jury which handed down the indictment in the case said Byrne intended to use previous experience as a trucker to arrange for the truck to be abandoned.
