HRC plans to appeal adverse FOI decision

By ALICE EVANS

Herald Reporter
Manchester's Human Relations Commission (HRC) will appeal the Oct. 12 ruling of the state Freedom of Information Commission that the town commission must allow access to tapes of executive sessions held in a racial bias case.
The HRC Tuesday night voted to make an appeal, which must, according to state statutes, be filed within 30 days of the ruling in the Court of Common Pleas in Hartford.
The complaint to the FOI Commission was brought by Marc Gunther, a reporter for the Hartford Courant.
The HRC had conducted executive sessions in July and August to discuss a charge made by John Flanagan of 95 Galaxy Dr. Flanagan, who is black, charged that his family was the victim of racial discrimination in incidents involving the children of four white neighboring families.
The HRC heard testimony from the Flanagans and the four neighboring families before ruling that there was no evidence of racial discrimination. The testimony was heard in two executive sessions, which were tape-recorded.

Frank Livingston, a member of the commission whose family was involved in the case, absented himself from the closed sessions. He also abstained from voting Tuesday night on the appeal.
The commission will request the town counsel's office to furnish it with appropriate counsel for the appeal.
Lee Ann Gundersen, commission chairman, said this appeal will be a test case for other similar state commissions.
"We believe in the right of people to know what is going on, but we also believe in the right of people to privacy," she said.
Commissioner Durwood Miller said that the FOI ruling will have a direct effect on people coming before the commission. He and the other commissioners couldn't understand why the local commission does not have the same rights at the state Commission on Equal Rights and Opportunities. Miller said "I see no difference between the function of this commission and the state commission."
"The kindest thing we can do if someone comes to us with a complaint, since the state FOI has tied our hands, is to suggest they take their complaint to the state," Commissioner Joseph Sweeney said.

The HRC would like to operate like the state commission, but doesn't have the resources, members agreed. The state, according to HRC members, doesn't have hearings but uses investigators to obtain information. By statute, the state Commission on Rights and Opportunities is free from the FOI law, according to the local commission.
A spokesman for the FOI Commission said today that the commission has jurisdiction over both town Human Relations Commissions and the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities. However, he said, special exemptions were permitted last year in specific state commission cases involving confidentiality and investigations.
If the HRC loses the appeal, it has decided to then go to the legislature for assistance in ensuring complainants of confidentiality, which it is unable to do at the present.

Alternatives considered to dental clinic plan

By JUNE TOMPKINS

Herald Reporter
In an unexpected turn of events, the dental clinic committee of the Manchester Advisory Board of Health discussed alternatives to a proposed dental clinic which has been the object of study since the beginning of the year.
Because of the high operating cost shown in a budget proposal submitted Tuesday by Michael Gallacher, committee member and assistant administrator of Manchester Memorial Hospital, the committee discussed other plans which would be much less costly.
Gallacher based his report on 1,347 Manchester school children who are either on the federally funded free lunch or reduced meal program.
Assuming that the clinic would be located in Manchester Memorial Hospital, Gallacher's proposed budget showed an estimated $71,000 annual operating cost. With an expected income of about $41,000 from state aid, Gallacher's budget showed that the clinic would operate at a net loss of over $30,000 per year.
Gallacher said he feared that in the second year there would be a cutback in child patient attendance which wouldn't be made up even if the elderly were admitted.
Speaking for the Manchester Dental Society, Dr. Michael Goodman, a Manchester dentist, said that at the last society's meeting, the membership agreed to help the dental clinic in Manchester become a reality if a need for such facility could be proved, but the society does not feel a need exists.

Dr. Goodman currently treats most of Manchester's child welfare patients. He previously treated all the Head Start children. Of the 31 dentists in Manchester, only seven are seeing welfare patients, according to Dr. Goodman.
One of the issues causing local dentists' reluctance to see welfare patients is the difficulty in providing transportation for the welfare and low income children to the dentist's office. It's costly to set aside appointment time and not have it kept.
"Unavailability of dependability," Dr. Norman Dutton, another dentist on the committee, called it.
"If you can arrange transportation and guarantee that a child gets to the dentist, he will be happy to take him," Dr. Dutton assured. Dr. Goodman agreed that a key to the problem is "getting people to the facility."
As the talk began to turn away from the idea of a costly clinic, committee members instead talked about the best way to provide the least expensive services to the most needy children.
Suggestions included making the best of existing facilities, spreading the welfare patient load more equally among the town's dentists, and finding a dentist who would be willing to work on a salary basis a couple of days a week with assistance provided by Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) help (assistants and a dental hygienist).

At this last suggestion, the dentists present agreed they would not want an outside assistant working with their equipment unless trained by them.
Any thought of looking into funding for the dental project was interrupted by the change in events in the committee's study.
"I won't know what ask for in funding because today we have turned ourselves around completely," Dr. Alice Turek, town health director, said.
The committee established three alternative plans to study for handling the dental needs of needy children, plans which might eventually be expanded to include the elderly.
Those plans are: (1) To operate a free standing separate clinic staffed by dentists working for the clinic; (2) contact for time and office space with an existing dental office, and (3) supplement the patient's ability to pay and help provide transportation.
Dr. Goodman said he would present the contract plan at the next Manchester Dental Society meeting and will report at the next dental committee meeting Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 4:30 p.m. in the town health department office.
Also attending the meeting were Mrs. Robin Smith, representing the Manchester Community Services Council, and Don Olsen, head of the dental health care task force of the Health Systems Agency (HSA) of North Central Connecticut.

Carter optimistic on energy program

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Carter told friendly House negotiators today he thinks the Senate will surrender to public pressure and approve "the basic thrust" of his energy plan as the House has already done.
Carter met with 17 Democratic congressmen for a pep talk in the White House Cabinet Room as House-Senate conferees prepared for their second meeting later in the day. Republicans were not invited to the White House meeting.
Before reporters were ushered out, Carter praised the House for doing a "superb job" in "carrying out the basic thrust of our energy program courageously."
"It's my belief the Senate will take the same action in its ultimate votes," he said, apparently referring to such issues as House approval of keeping federal control over natural gas prices.
It was the second consecutive day

Carter held talks with the legislators who will play an influential role in drafting a comprehensive energy program. He plans to meet with others Thursday.
Obviously intending to increase public pressure on Senate negotiators to give in on key issues, Carter repeated a warning stated earlier in the week:
"I believe the success or failure of this year's Congress will be determined by what happens to the energy program. If we should fail, the country will be deeply disappointed and I think it will be almost impossible to revive this spirit of hope confidence and commitment."
Carter told the conferees international interest in what they eventually produce is "almost more acute than it is in the United States."
"I'll be working closely with you," he told the House group. "I'll need all the help and advice I can get on action that I should take. I feel a sense of partnership."

A Carter spokesman said Tuesday the president was trying to smooth the way for congressional compromise.
Deputy press secretary Rex Granum said Carter "is clearly taking a direct role... to try to clear up misunderstandings and to try to overcome reservations" as the conference committee meetings get underway.
Meantime, Carter continues to seek a consensus through talks with Democratic friends and foes. He met Tuesday with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who told reporters afterwards that "my feeling is we're going to succeed and I would predict the conferees will try to work with the President." Ribicoff added it would have to be a "give and take" proposition.
Texas Democrat Lloyd Bentsen said he told the President there should be deregulation of gas "in a reasonable time," but did not see eye to eye with Carter on the subject.
Also on the energy front, Carter was scheduled to speak to the International Nuclear Fuel Cycle Evaluation at the State Department after meeting with the conferees.
In other developments, Granum told reporters Carter was "somewhat pessimistic" at a breakfast meeting with congressional leaders over the chances of passing a bill to limit hospital costs, but later amended his remarks.
"The use of the phrase 'somewhat pessimistic' to describe the President's feelings about the chances of passage... overstates the case," he said. "The President is very concerned about the bill, he still very much supports it and certainly hopes that it will be passed in this legislative session."

Friendly's to seek new restaurant site

By GREG PEARSON

Herald Reporter
Neighborhood opposition to a proposed Friendly's restaurant on Center St. has resulted in the ice cream company scrapping the plan and beginning a search for another Manchester location.
The Friendly Ice Cream Corp. of Wilbraham, Mass. announced last summer that it planned to locate a new restaurant on Center St. between McKee and Dougherty Sts. The company now has two restaurants in Manchester, one on Main St. and one on Tolland Tpke.
The proposal, however, drew strong opposition from residents of the area. They were concerned about increased traffic and flooding problems that might result from the development.
The group, headed by Patrick Dougherty of 17 Dougherty St., sent letters to the company and town officials to express its concern.
Dougherty received a letter Tuesday from the ice cream company that said it had abandoned the proposed Center St. site because of the opposition.
A spokesman for the company said today that the neighborhood response was the major factor in the decision.
"The last thing a restaurant wants to do is get into a fight with people, because people are your customers," he said.
He said that he felt the situation might develop into one where the neighbors would seek injunctions against the building of the restaurant.
"What do we need that kind of hassle for?" he said.
He did say that the company has started looking for another site in Manchester where it might locate a new restaurant.
"We'll be there yet," he said.
Town Engineer Walter Senkow had questioned drainage in the area and had asked the Friendly Corp. to revise a drain plan it had submitted to the town.
The Friendly spokesman said that this was a minor problem, however, and probably could have been resolved through proper engineering

Dougherty said that the neighborhood group was pleased with the decision.
"All the reasons we stated in the past 1 1/2 years meant something to us," he said of the group's opposition.
He said that he might support other development on the site, such as a professional building, which would generate less traffic, require fewer parking spaces and create fewer drainage problems.

State

WINDSOR — Gov. Ella T. Grasso says the controversy over the Peter A. Reilly case has not caused her to ask State Police Commissioner Edward P. Leonard to resign nor has Leonard offered to resign. Leonard has been criticized for defending a state police report which holds Reilly is the prime suspect in the slaying of his mother, Barbara Gibbons in 1973.

HARTFORD — The Supreme Court often ends up setting policy because Congress won't, according to F. Lee Bailey, the attorney who defended kidnapped heiress Patty Hearst. He spoke to the Bushnell Morning Lecture Club and said the Allan Bakke reverse discrimination case is a policy decision the Congress could have settled with legislation years ago.

WINDSOR — Connecticut has become the testing ground for a major effort to prove the feasibility of using coal-produced gas to general electrical power efficiently. A 16-story test facility was dedicated Tuesday and is funded by Combustion Engineering Inc., U. S. Department of Energy and the Electric Power Research Institute.

Robinson art featured in magazine

Art work by a teacher in the Manchester adult education program is featured in a national magazine.
 A needlepoint wall hanging by Mrs. Carol Robinson of Glastonbury is illustrated in the November issue of Good Housekeeping magazine. The item is a six by eight inch Christmas tree wall hanging which has been a popular subject for many of her classes. The work consists of only seven different stitches worked in red, green and white yarn.
 Mrs. Robinson has taught needlepoint in several Manchester area art stores and also teaches in her home.
 Mrs. Robinson's needlepoint class is one of 88 courses offered in the Manchester adult education program—a program that offers classes in basic education as well as a variety of arts and crafts.
 About 2,000 persons are enrolled in the program, fewer than last year, according to Ernest Lewis, director of the program.
 Many former students of the program have applied their knowledge gained from various courses to either begin or further their own business.
 Some students of the adult education program are reupholstering and chair caning classes have turned their training into lucrative vocations.
 Three students of Katherine Hendrickson's oil painting class have not only won prizes for their paintings, but have also sold some of their works.
 The ladies who learn to decorate cakes from Flo Bombardier mostly want to use the art in their own families.
 "Many just want to be able to make their own daughter's wedding cake," Mrs. Bombardier says.
 She is teaching two classes now in the adult education program with about 30 ladies in each class.
 Lewis says that although the adult education program is publicized, there are many persons who don't know that such a program is offered to the community.
 The courses which are offered for men and women in assorted arts and crafts and general education programs will be offered next spring.

Challenge of mental illness

Anywhere between 20 and 32 million Americans are suffering from severe emotional stress and are in need of mental health care at any one time.

So said the President's Commission on Mental Health the other day as it reported the findings of a study conducted for it by the National Institute of Mental Health.

Even those figures may be conservative, say some members of the commission, who think it is probable that 47 million Americans have "diagnosable mental disturbances" and are in need of professional care.

Now 20 or 32 million people is an awful lot of people. But before we all begin casting suspicious glances at our neighbors, we should bear in mind that terms like mental illness or mental disturbance can cover a wide variety of human behavior.

disturbances" will be found. This is not to make light of the problem of mental illness, which can be one of the most painful — and expensive — experiences any individual or family can go through.

Because the nation is already making such an enormous outlay, the commission did not call for a massive step-up in federal expenditures in the mental health field.

Actually, the case makes itself. Coverage of mental illness or psychiatric treatment is already included in many private medical and hospitalization plans and certainly should be part of any national system of health insurance.

The real question is whether the nation needs national health insurance in the first place, or whether improvements in the present mix of Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance could do the job.

Wall Street bust

The New York Stock Exchange has fined and suspended two of its members and censured a third for allegedly running a bookmaking operation right on the floor of the exchange.

The "big board" claims the three were handling a volume of $2,000 to $7,000 a week among fellow investors, brokers and clerks in wages on horse races and other sporting events.

In announcing the sanctions, the NYSE stated that such enterprises are "detrimental to the interest and welfare of the exchange."

Which will strike among people, who may or may not have dropped a bundle on Wall Street, as a prim and proper way of saying that in the midst of the gamble known as the stock market, gambling is not to be tolerated.

"There still seems to be a gap."

Voters asked to check South Windsor school records

To the editor: Contrary to the idea that the Democrats are trying to put across to the voters of South Windsor, the Republican candidates are in favor of the enrichment programs in the school system.

Board of Education minutes of previous meetings definitely show that the present Republican board members have consistently voted for additional education such as the string program, the gifted program and the expanded athletic programs for both boys and girls.

In fact, their own children are involved in many of them. These, they feel, are just as important to their educational growth as the academic subjects. For the last several years, these programs have expanded and flourished and have given your children the exposure that is so necessary for a well-rounded education.

But, the advantages realized by these programs will be useless to the children of their foundations in the basic skills are being neglected or rushed because of too little time or emphasis. And this is the area where our young people are being short-changed.

A slight improvement in the SAT scores for a one-year period (for boys only) is not an indication of a reversal in the downward trend. Past years' performances showed a one-year climb to a few points above the national average.

Our children should have — and are capable of — a better scholastic average than those nationwide. For this reason, some means of determining that they are learning, not only what they need simply to survive in the "world outside," but also what they need to be successful in this same world is not only advisable — it is imperative.

May I suggest that if you are really concerned for your children, look at the records. They are readily available to you at the superintendent's office.

Retiring director thanks administration

Gentlemen: These past two years on the Town Board of Directors have been a most rewarding and exciting experience. It has been a pleasure to serve the townspeople in this capacity.

I also want to thank the administration and the press for their patience and understanding and express the hope that I can be of some future service to the people of this wonderful town.

Sincerely,
Paul E. Willhide

Uncle Julius thinks the Peter Reilly case will never be closed as long as some writer or attorney feels there is a buck to be made out of it.

There seems to be a current rash of "rewriting" history or trying to project what history might have been. We have a movie rehabilitating the Lincoln assassination with all kinds of come-ons attempting to convince

Even stranger is the so-called trial of Lee Harvey Oswald on the tube

While I worked in a hospital for mental patients, where all doors are locked between wards, a patient who had been there some years described an outing where staff and patients left the hospital grounds for a picnic.

On the way, they stopped at a supermarket while the staff member bought some paper plates and napkins. Intrigued with the doors that opened by themselves, the patient, accustomed to locks on all doors, stepped on that mat and saw the door swing open for her. Her reaction was priceless.

Side glances

"His only hope of curing that slice is a pilgrimage to Lourdes!"

the gullible that there was conspiracy that had not been solved. We remember when this was pulp magazine fare back in the days of our boyhood and it doesn't ring any more true today. We think it is a subject for historians not fast-back fiction writers.

While we have long opposed the live telecasting of true court trials, we are not too sure that it should not be tried for a while for the people's sake. After watching a few actual courtroom dramas, the viewer will know better when he is being had by so-called "artistic license" which may loop up ratings but sure bruise the truth.

The successful attack on the hijacked airplane this week by West German commandos deserves praise for not causing any casualties among the hostages.

However, future hijackings may not have the same happy ending for surely there will be some hijackers more desperate than these.

It is time the rest of the world considered some of the anti-hijacking measures now employed in the United States which has practically eliminated airplane hijackings.

If the independent-minded Americans can undergo electronic screening, we don't see why others should object.

But the problem is much deeper. Some thought needs to be given to stopping this trend toward "might makes right" actions by outlaws. Maybe capital punishment would reduce the number of prisoners hijackers seem to want released in exchange for hostages.

Well, it's a thought anyway.

This is a beautiful time of the year—if you don't have to rake leaves. But, then even raking, in moderation of course, is good conditioning for other activities ahead like shoveling snow.

Why is it we think the birds are dumb? At least most of them go south for the winter.

GRANNY GLASSES: Queen Elizabeth, who becomes a grandmother next month, donned spectacles in public for the first time Tuesday. The 51-year-old monarch, whose daughter, Princess Anne, is expecting a baby in November, put on the half-moon, gold-rimmed glasses to read a speech — in French and English — to open Canada's Parliament in Ottawa. A spokesman says it's the first time the Queen ever has worn her specs in public, though she privately wears reading glasses.

SINATRA SUES: Frank Sinatra is suing Los Angeles Times columnist Jody Jacobs for $3 million. He says she incorrectly wrote that he failed to show up to present comedian George Burns with the Jack Benny Memorial Award — that Jack Benny's widow had to present the award because Sinatra "arrived too late from Dodger Stadium to do the honors."

SPAC HALL OF FAME: Three former astronauts, a Swedish rocketry pioneer and a late U.S. senator will be inducted into the International Space Hall of Fame at Alamogordo, N.M. The inductees are Sens. John Glenn, D-Ohio, and Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M.; Michael Collins, director of the National Air and Space Museum at the Smithsonian Institution; the late Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M.; and the late Wilhelm T. Uge of Sweden. Glenn, Schmitt and Collins are former astronauts, and Anderson was a key congressional figure in promoting the early U.S. space program.

WHO PAID TIP'S RENT?: If the House Ethics Committee wanted to know who paid the rent on House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill's apartment, all they had to do was ask him. That's the word from an angry Rep. Edward Boland, D-Mass., who used to room with O'Neill at the apartment in question. The panel has subpoenaed O'Neill's rent checks, to see if Korean businessman Tongson Park ever paid the tab. Says Boland, "They should have come to the two people who know the most about it, and that's me and O'Neill." He adds the committee has handled the matter in an "abominable manner."

Curator congratulates Dinosaur Park promoter

Mrs. Josephine Newton of 188 Benton St., president of the Friends of Dinosaur Park, has been congratulated on the work the organization is doing by Nicholas Horton III, research curator of the department of paleontology at the National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

Horton, in a letter to Mrs. Newton, said that he thought the response of the people of Connecticut to the discovery of the dinosaur footprints in Rocky Hill is "nothing short of inspiring."

Sign critics chided

Stephen Cassano, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, has criticized Republican Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson for his concern about campaign signs.

Ferguson recently charged the Democratic party with not following agreed-to procedures governing the posting of campaign signs.

"Mr. Ferguson should search for political issues, not cardboard signs," Cassano said.

The candidate said that all his signs are posted with permission of the property owners. Also, none are placed on stakes in lawns.

Cassano also responded to a charge by Ferguson that the campus of Manchester Community College is not supposed to be used for political posters.

Cassano said that there is no state law regulating political signs on campus and that Republican candidates have posted signs on the MCC campus in past elections.

Rail line removed from scrapping list

A rail line in Manchester has been removed from Conrail's list of tracks to be scrapped.

The 1.9-mile line runs from Cheney Mills to the area of the N. Main-Hillard St. intersection. It had been on the list of tracks being considered for abandonment but has been removed, the spokesman for Cotter's office said.

A total of nine tracks had been on the list originally. That number is now down to two, the spokesman said.

The two remaining lines being considered for abandonment include one from Broad Brook to East Hartford.

Demolition costs

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Hartford Seminary Foundation has started looking into how much it would cost to have its 50-year-old stone buildings torn down because the state has not responded to offers to sell the property.

Acting Seminary President Harvey McArthur said Tuesday the cost searching was to be considered "as simply a backup exploration."

He said there have been three years of vague discussions and a year of more formal talks with the state about using most of the 35-acre campus as a new home for the University of Connecticut Law School.

State officials said Tuesday the main hurdle in completing a deal would be to get authorization for a bond sale to finance any purchase.

High School in the Shop

She was a grandmother, about to turn 65 and retire. And she had just become a high school graduate through a new program at United Technologies.

"You never have enough education, no matter what your age," said Elina Sartucci, a parts inspector at the North Haven plant of our Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group. "Now, in retirement, I may want to go on, possibly into adult education classes."

Mrs. Sartucci was one of 269 employees who recently earned their high school diplomas in a pilot program of high-school equivalency testing and remedial instruction at our Southington, Middletown, and North Haven plants. The graduates made up the largest single group of people ever to complete their high school education in an industrial setting in Connecticut.

Husbands and wives studied and earned their diplomas together, and two brothers were graduated in the same class. Diplomas were awarded to employees with as much as 30 years' service.

The program was set up at our request by Connecticut's Adult Education Department. Because it was so successful in pilot form, we're now providing it at all Pratt & Whitney Aircraft plants in Connecticut. It's another way we're helping our employees develop their potential for promotion.

Tests are administered by state educational personnel before or after work on all three shifts. Teachers assigned by the state come into our plants to conduct remedial classes in such subjects as American history, English and mathematics. Many of the participating employees are foreign-born naturalized citizens or members of minorities.

With their newly earned diplomas, they can take advantage of opportunities for career advancement for which they lacked the educational qualifications. For example, they may become eligible for company training programs in which a high school diploma is a minimum requirement.

We at United Technologies have long encouraged and helped our people to get more education. Employees who improve their skills through education enrich their lives. They also enlarge their potential for better jobs and more pay. We all benefit.

Mrs. Emerson elected state CC board trustee

Mrs. Betty Emerson of Manchester, a student at Manchester Community College, has been elected to a two-year term as a student member of the state Board of Trustees of Regional Community Colleges. Mrs. Emerson was elected last week by a statewide assembly of community college students which met at the State Capitol in Hartford.

Mrs. Emerson is a sophomore, majoring in music and social science. She is 39 and the mother of two grown children. She is a member of the Manchester Student Senate and has been active on the Senate's Cultural Programs Committee. Also involved in community affairs in the Town of Manchester, she currently serves as an assistant registrar of voters and as a member of the jury commission.

Mrs. Emerson's election came on the first ballot in a race among four candidates.

Mrs. Emerson will be sworn in at the meeting of the trustees Nov. 21. The 16-member board is responsible for governing the state system of 12 regional community colleges.

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Hartford man who was accused in a July 29 incident which led to a Hartford policeman accidentally shooting himself to death has been put on probation for three years and given a suspended one-year sentence.

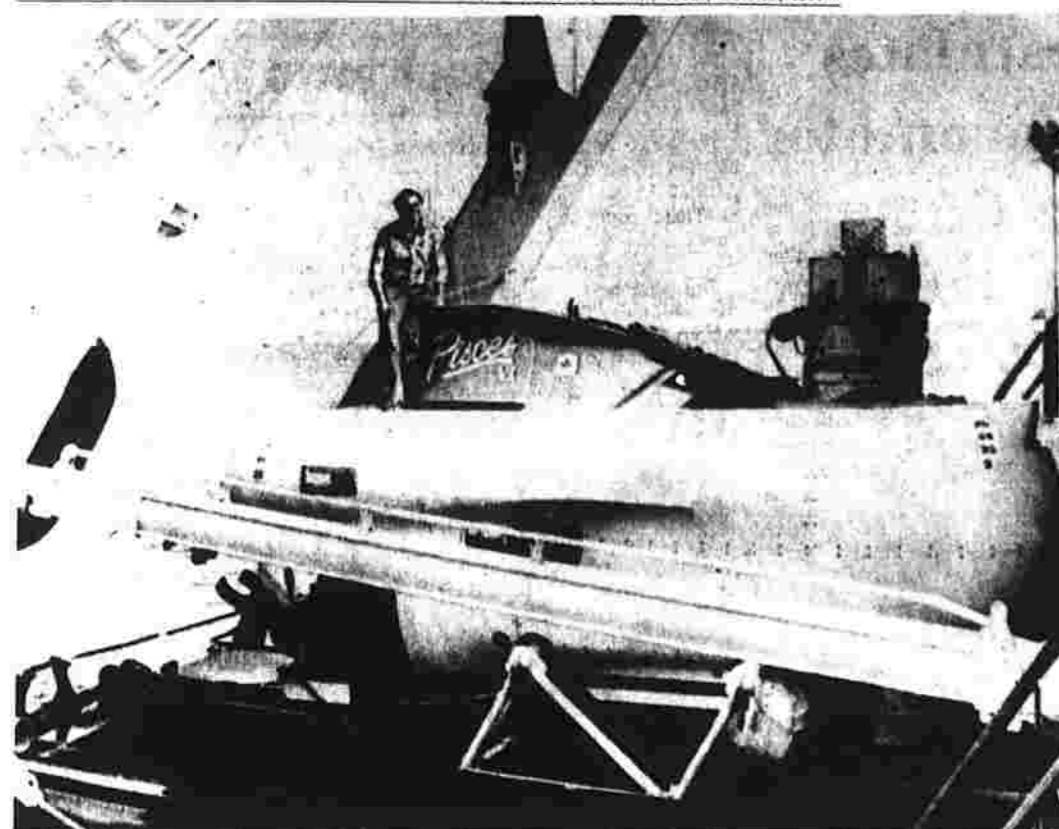

Robert Donaghe, 45, pleaded guilty Aug. 30 to reckless endangerment and discharging a firearm within city limits. He was accused of using a shotgun to shoot out the windows of a parked car.

Police said when he stuck the gun out the door of a house, a patrolman, John F. Daley, 29, ran for cover from possible fire. As he ran, police said, Daley tripped and the revolver he had in his hand discharged, shooting him through the side.

Research submersible

A crew member of the research vessel Pandora emerges from the manned research submersible Pisces VI, carried on the Pandora's stern. The mini-sub will be used by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to make detailed observations on the condition of radioactive waste containers which are under 3000-5000 feet of water in the Pacific, some 50 miles SW of here. Drums from different water depths will be recovered and examined, as part of a program to study effects of past dumping of radioactive wastes. More than 45,000 low-level radioactive drums were dumped at this site between 1946 and 1965. (UPI photo)

Supreme Court to consider rights of prisoners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court will step further into the area of prisoners' rights this term and decide whether it is "cruel and unusual punishment" to put an inmate indefinitely in a punitive isolation cell.

The justices have agreed to review Arkansas' appeal from a lower court ruling that state inmates may not be disciplined by confinement for more than 30 days in a tiny cell without recreation and other benefits received by the general prison population.

In Arkansas, prisoners usually are not placed in actual "solitary confinement" but are isolated with one or two others in extremely small cells. Their status is reviewed every 14 days. While most inmates return to the general population within that time, some stay months in punitive segregation.

U.S. Circuit Judge J. Smith Henley, sitting in Pine Bluff, Ark., ruled that confinement of an inmate for over a month in such circumstances is "cruel and unusual punishment" barred by the Constitution.

He noted that inmates in isolation are fed a diet of "gruel," a tasteless substance. Every third day they get a regular prison meal and leave the cell to take a shower.

Anti-hijacking unit welcomed as heroes

COLOGNE, West Germany (UPI) — The military heroes of the daring commando raid that freed the hostages on a hijacked West German airliner returned home Tuesday as casually as a football team returning from a winning game.

Interior Minister Werner Maihofer congratulated the troops for what he termed a small miracle.

The shock troops emerged from a Lufthansa jet at Cologne-Bonn airport dressed in sport shirts, sport jackets, and sweaters to the applause of their wives, children, well-wishers and government officials. No one wore military attire.

Not even Ulrich Wegener, head of the 28-man commando unit, wore a hat or tie.

The lack of spit-and-polish was deliberate. The West German government, exultant in a major victory over terrorism, did not want to mar the homecoming with a ceremony that might remind the world of Germany's history of militarism.

So absent was the military note that Wegener shook hands with Maihofer, who has jurisdiction over the force, instead of saluting him.

"It is a small miracle," Maihofer said. "All the surviving 86 hostages were rescued alive. Only one man in the unit suffered a slight injury. We had not dreamed of such a happy outcome although we hoped for it when we made our decision... We are proud of you."

Sixty men of the anti-terrorist unit, known officially as Unit 9 of the Border Police, flew to Somalia to storm the hijacked Lufthansa airliner at Mogadishu. The unit, which has 90 men in all, was formed after the Arab terrorist massacre of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics in 1972. The Bonn government wanted a force that could prevent another such incident.

It had never gone into action before.

Growth credited to stable taxes

Thomas Connors, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, said that the town's stable tax structure is one reason that the J.C. Penney Co. decided to locate in Manchester.

"Stable tax structures are not incidental accidents, nor random happenings. They are the results of imaginative management, good planning and sound political leadership," Connors said.

He said that some years ago, the town leaders, with support from the Chamber of Commerce, established a tax incentive plan known as "The Industrial Guidelines." This joint effort led to development of the Colonial Rd.-Progress Dr. industrial complex and the Sheldon Rd. connector, he said.

"Based on the same kind of forward thinking, the current town government under the leadership of the Democratic party" spurred a drive to seek further stabilization of the tax growth through sound industrial park growth," he said.

The result — The J.C. Penney Co. has picked Manchester for the location of a regional distribution center," Connors said.

"It was no accident that J.C. Penney picked Manchester. An examination of the town's budgets, its lack of deficits, its tax structure, and its comprehensive services to businesses and residents during the past fifteen years gave Penney more than ample evidence of responsive and prudent government that encourages constructive growth," he said.

Estrogen warning required

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Since Tuesday, druggists who fill prescriptions for the estimated 5 million American women taking estrogens for menopausal symptoms must warn customers of the risk of developing cancer of the uterus.

The information contained in a pamphlet which pharmacists will have to include with each prescription under a Food and Drug Administration order.

The FDA said it believes manufacturers of the drugs will make every effort to supply druggists with the leaflets, even though the controversial requirement has been delayed by legal and procedural challenges and still is being contested in court.

About 22 million prescriptions are filled for the drugs each year. The biggest seller is "Premarin" while others on the market include "Hormonin," "Estratab," "Evas," "Mensel," "Femogen" and "Ogen."

The consumer information leaflet will say, in part: "If estrogens are used in the postmenopausal period for more than a year, there is an increased risk of endometrial cancer (cancer of the uterus). Women taking estrogens have roughly 5 to 10 times as great a chance of getting this cancer as women who take no estrogens... For this reason it is important to take estrogens only when you really need them."

The pamphlet also will cite the risk of other possible kinds of cancer, including cancer of the breast, cervix, vagina and liver — all of which are still subject to study — as well as other problems such as gall bladder disease and abnormal blood clotting.

Estrogens have been widely touted as youth restoratives in post-menopausal women. But the pamphlet, seeking to dispel that, states: "You may have heard that taking estrogens for long periods (years) after the menopause will keep your skin soft and supple and keep you feeling young. There is no evidence that this is so, however, and such long-term treatment carries important risks."

A federal court earlier this month overturned objections by the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association and the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists to delay the requirement, but legal challenges still exist in other federal courts.

News for senior citizens

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi! The weatherman sure hasn't been helping us, especially on weekends. However, although it was cloudy for our foliage trip last Thursday, it didn't rain. We were able to catch some nice views of the foliage and everyone enjoyed the trip.

Penn Dutch trip
 First important bit of news is about our trip next Monday to Penn Dutch Country. We will be leaving our center at 7 a.m. and we will have name tags for your suitcase. We'll hand them out as you arrive that morning.

Back to the action here at the center and last Friday afternoon we had 36 players for our setback games and the winners were: Caroline Frederickson, 136; Paul Schuetz, 127; Mina Reuther, 125; Josephine Schuetz, 120; John Phelps, 118; Oscar Cappuccio, 118; Bea Mander, 117; Bernice Martin, 115; Grace Windsor, 115. Pinochle

Then came a rainy cold Monday — so what else is new? — and we had a large turnout for our kitchen social games in the morning, a record turnout for our noon lunch and then for our pinochle games we had 44 players and the following winners: Fritz Wilkinson, 811; Ellen Bronkko, 784; Arvid Peterson, 754; Helen Silver, 744; Marie Hebenstreit, 735; Olive Houghtaling, 730; John Kluck, 727; Claire Renn, 718; Ernestine Donnelly, 718; Rene Maire, 715; Bob Hill, 714; Martin Bakstan, 714; Catherine Gleason, 711.

We were told that Esther Anderson is a patient at the local hospital and Albert Piantanda underwent surgery this past Monday at the hospital.

Halloween dance
 A reminder about our big Halloween Dance coming up on Thursday, Oct. 27. If you are thinking about coming, and would come if the bus was running, then stop in pick up a ticket and sign up for the bus. If we get enough names, we will take the bus. It's planned to be a real fun night with a Halloween costumes parade, with prizes, dancing to the tunes of Lou Joubert and his band, lots of goodies to munch on and door prizes.

Holiday Fair
 Also don't forget about our Holiday Fair coming up on Nov. 10. We need some of your homemade articles and also items for our white elephant sale and Wishing Well. So look around and drop off some items that are just collecting dust. Please bring only articles that you yourself would be happy to buy. Also, think about baking some of your favorite goodies as we'll have a bake sale as well.

And don't forget we need your help in selling tickets for our two beautiful gifts. A large braided 9' X 10' rug and beautiful star pattern comforter all hand quilted. By the way, these two items will be on display in Watkin's window the last week of October and first week of November.

Fun Day
 Tomorrow, our Fun Day will have Dr. Douglas Smith who will give a brief talk on the Manchester Land Conservation Trust. After the talk, we'll take a quick trip the races. It should be quite interesting and an informative program so why not plan on coming to lunch?

An old lady seeks a home

BOSQUE DEL APACHE, N.M. (UPI) — Two years ago Ida was an orphan. Barely 6 months old, she traveled 800 miles with her foster parents across the plains and mountains of the West.

Now, though not completely mature, Ida is the "old lady" among a select group seeking a new home.

Ida is a whooping crane, one of only about 120 in the world. She and her peers are the largest birds in North America and, until recently, her kind appeared doomed to extinction.

Her brilliant white plumage shined in the bright sun, Ida flew into New Mexico's central Rio Grande Valley this fall, ending an 800-mile migration from Idaho. With her came a new member of a tiny flock of whoopers.

Ida and her companion were the first of an experimental flock of whooping cranes to arrive at Bosque del Apache National Wildlife Refuge this fall. Tom Smylie of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said six or seven more whoopers are expected.

The two birds arrived at Bosque del Apache last weekend after migrating from their nesting grounds at Grays Lake

National Wildlife Refuge in Idaho. The rest of the flock has stopped at a refuge near Monte Vista, Colo., and will continue to Bosque del Apache later.

The Fish and Wildlife Service hopes to establish the Western flock of whoopers to protect the bird, which stands four feet tall. The main flock, once numbering in the thousands, migrates each year 2,450 miles from northern Canada to Texas' Gulf Coast.

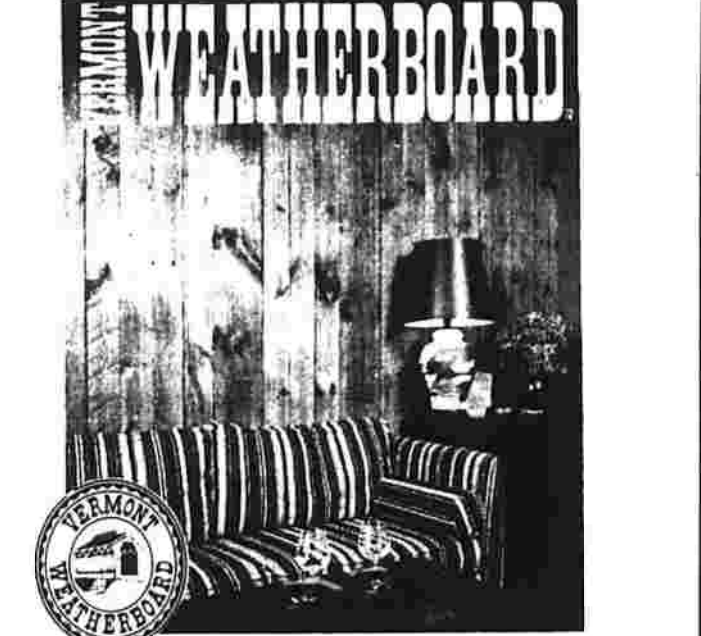

The birds in the experimental flock were hatched from eggs taken from the main flock. The eggs were placed with sandhill crane foster parents at Grays Lake, with the hope the fledglings would adopt the migration patterns of the sandhills.

Ida first came to New Mexico with three other whoopers in 1975. The flock grew to six last year and wildlife officials hope it will increase to eight or nine this year.

Smylie said it will be several more years before biologists know if the experiment is successful. The test will be completed when the mature whoopers mate and have their own offspring and continue the migration.

Elderly couple dies in blast

HAMDEN (UPI)—Investigators returned to the site of a damaged apartment complex today to try to determine the cause of explosions that killed an elderly couple and injured another resident.

Witnesses at a service station across the street said they heard screams from the unidentified victims in the two-story building on Whitney Avenue shortly after three explosions that knocked out windows in the area.

On committees

Two local town officials are serving on a Connecticut Conference of Municipalities (CCM) committee that will develop recommendations for school funding.

Witnesses said the explosions knocked out the front door and windows of the apartment building and shattered plate glass windows at the service station across the street.

Sewer study doubted

Vernon
A complaint made by a Vernon builder that Vernon's engineering report on the Vernon Ave. sewer line doesn't accurately represent the facts or the actual conditions in this part of the line will be turned over to the Sewer Authority for recommendations.

Eric S. Santini, builder and developer, plans to bid 42 homes in the area. He was granted approval for a zone change by the Zoning Commission for the 12.65-acre parcel on South St.-Vernon Ave. on June 16.

He said that the commission questioned discrepancies in three reports submitted between March 1973 and June 1977 concerning the capacity of the sewer line.

Santini said that before starting on a plan of development or making financial arrangements for construction mortgages, that the town engineer should answer his questions concerning the true capacity of the line.

Santini had the engineering firm of Lee Pare & Associates, Inc., prepare a lengthy report on the sewer line. He said it was prepared at his request "because I believed that the reports and statements by the town's consulting engineer did not accurately represent the facts or the actual conditions in this part of the line."

"The report of Lee Pare and Associates confirms my belief. It disclosed errors made and facts misrepresented by your engineering consultant in his inflow/infiltration analysis of June 1974," Santini said.

He asked the mayor to read the Pare report "because I believe now that the errors and factual misstatements as to the Vernon Avenue segment might be indicative of a fundamental invalidity of the entire inflow/infiltration report."

The town's inflow/infiltration analysis was prepared by A. R. Lombardi Associates, Inc., the town's consulting engineer.

The engineers of Pare Associates, in their report, conclude that the sewer line on Vernon Ave. is "generally in good, sound condition and is capable of serving the town adequately for many years in the future."

Pare said the Lombardi report stated that the infiltration/inflow rate for the Vernon Ave. area was 115,000 gallons each day for each inch of diameter for a mile of pipe. They claim it is their conclusion that this rate is in error, "being more than twice the rate that the line could handle."

The lengthy technical report will be turned over to the Sewer Authority. The mayor appointed Councilmen Morgan Campbell and Joseph Merluzzo to sit in on the meetings and report back the findings.

School committee begins fact-finding

Vernon
The Committee on Public Education (COPE) met recently and formed research groups which will begin fact-finding efforts on several concerns expressed by people in Vernon.

The meeting discussed the upcoming local election of Board of Education members, the appointments of a principal for Rockville High School and a superintendent of schools, and voting mechanics in the book that a plea was made for citizens to become involved and for them to communicate with members of the school board on what they want as goals of the educational system in Vernon.

Those attending were told that these goals are not as defined as they might think.

Some of the matters the various research groups will explore are the lunch program at the high school, pre-school screening (how it is administered, interpreted, and used), and the types of tests given in the schools and their usage.

New fire truck okayed

South Windsor
The South Windsor Town Council has voted to appropriate $85,000 from revenue sharing for the replacement for Fire Engine No. 3.

American-LaFrance of Elmira, N.Y., was the low bidder. The council had authorized the Fire Department to seek bids before it approved expenditure of funds.

The pump, which will have an automatic transmission, will arrive in town in eight to 10 months.

The old fire engine is 20 years old. It would have been used as a backup in emergencies, but it was involved in an accident a few weeks ago. It is estimated to cost about $8,000 to repair the engine, plus labor.

Contest winners
Winning South Windsor Fire Prevention Art Contest posters have been selected by judges from the school art department and the Fire Department. The contest was open to all children attending elementary school.

Kathryn Emery, Grade 2, Eli Terry School, was the winner in the Grades 1-2 division. Michael Plourde, Grade 4, Wapping School, was the winner in the Grades 3-4 group. Melissa Neel, Grade 5, won the winner in the Grades 5-6 division.

Winners received $25. Nearly 1,000 students participated in the contest.

GOP's Halloween
The South Windsor Republican Party and candidates have scheduled an old-time Halloween party Friday at 8 p.m. at Mitchell Fuel Co., 1209 Sullivan Ave.

Goblins, pumpkins, witches' brew and treats will be presented. Also featured will be the annual drawing for raffle prizes and a mini-auction, games and dancing.

No tickets are necessary.

British newsman visits

Covestry
If you've seen a British built, fair-haired youth with a British accent around Covestry this week, it was probably Patrick Webb, a reporter for the Covestry Evening Telegraph in England.

Webb was named Student Journalist of the Year in his hometown and is using the award money for his four-week visit to the United States.

Covestry, England, is a metropolis of some 500 people, and Webb said he experienced "culture shock" when he came to New England.

"Many of the people who steal do so to feed their families and are likely to get off with a suspended sentence," Webb said.

While visiting Covestry, Webb has been a guest of Robert Keller, Robert Olmsted, Douglas Whipple, Albert Bradley, Claire Connelly, and other townswomen. He has toured the area with town officials and local reporters.

Glaucoma screening

The South Windsor Lions Club will sponsor free glaucoma screening Sunday, Oct. 30, at the Wapping Elementary School cafeteria. Clinic hours are 1 to 4 p.m.

Glaucoma, the second leading cause of adult blindness, can be detected in its early stages by an eye examination. If detected early, glaucoma can usually be controlled.

When left untreated it will always result in impaired vision and can lead to complete blindness.

A Lions Club spokesman said the screening clinic is open to the public and examinations will be performed by a licensed optometrist. Examinations will take about five minutes. For further information or free transportation, contact Bob Kerns, 644-2517.

Freedom of Information

The selectmen questioned the article in Tuesday's Herald saying they apparently violated the Freedom of Information (FOI) Act when they held an executive session at a special meeting without noticing it.

The board members felt it was okay to have an executive session at a special meeting and did not feel their action Saturday morning was a violation.

According to the law the notice for a special meeting must specify the time, place and business to be transacted.

The notice for the special meeting Saturday said the board would tour town buildings. It did not say the board would discuss the potential purchase of property.

First Selectman Henry Ryan instructed Selectman Joann Neath to write to the Freedom of Information Commission to get several questionable parts of the law clarified.

Curriculum Implementation

The staff of Grades 9-12 will work on the high school evaluation plans. This will also be scheduled for May 17.

Deadline set
Forms listing personal property must be filed with Calvin Hutchinson, assessor, by Oct. 31.

The following is a partial list of personal property that must be reported: Non-registered motor vehicles, snowmobiles, trailers, machinery, farm animals, commercial and farm equipment and tools, boats and all other taxable goods.

A sum equal to 10 per cent will be added to each list not filed by Oct. 31.

Disabled veterans must file a certificate of disability with the assessor. Those who have reached age 65 and are receiving disability are entitled to a $1,000 exemption if they file a copy of their birth certificate with the assessor.

New blind applicants should notify the assessor of proof of their disability.

Farmers must file their application for exemption during October. New applications for farm and forest

Police station bids due

Vernon
Bids for the first phase of construction of Vernon's new police station will be opened tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building. The Town Council has authorized the mayor to sign a contract.

The authorization was given Tuesday night with the provision that the amount of this first phase, which will be site work and foundations, doesn't go over $100,000.

Mayor Thomas Benoit said town officials were told by the architect that this part of the building program probably won't cost more than $50,000 to $60,000.

The mayor asked permission to be able to sign with the lowest acceptable bidder, to save time and to avoid calling a special council meeting.

Stanley Roesser, director of administration, said he was urging the formal bid award and contract signing as soon as possible to begin construction before bad weather and to trigger the payment of federal funds. The federal grant will not be awarded until on-site work was started, Roesser said.

The grant is for $1,126,000. Federal regulations require that the work be started 90 days from the time the town was notified it would receive the grant. This would bring it to Nov. 20.

The bids for the next phase will be opened Nov. 25. The station will be built next to the existing station at the corner of West St. and Rt. 30.

GOP talks in education

Vernon
The Vernon schools have many good qualities but there are areas in which I would like to see improvements and to develop work and a good self image in Vernon youth.

Mrs. Belanger also said she favors citizen input on the education budget before the Annual Town Meeting.

She termed as the most important job of the board this year that of selecting a new superintendent of schools. Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, present superintendent, will be retiring at the end of this school year.

"As a leader of the educational community this person will greatly influence our schools," she said.

She said she hopes the voters will give her an opportunity to work in these and other areas as a member of the Board of Education and invites anyone who has questions to call her at 675-7127.

McPadden invites M. Russell McPadden, Republican candidate for re-election to the Vernon Board of Education, today invited residents who have received unsatisfactory responses to school-related problems to contact him for full details.

McPadden has been on the board for the past few months, filling an unexpired term.

Citing the need for increased administration accountability, McPadden said he has learned during this election campaign that a number of Vernon residents don't even know who to call with their questions, or if they do call somebody they get no results from the administration.

He said, "It is easy to gain voting support by securing all of the details of problems and causing objectives to be effected."

He said he hasn't chosen this approach "but instead has asked people to call responsible officials in the administration and if they receive inadequate responses, to contact me."

He said he has had many such secondary contacts and has been involved in attaining mutually satisfactory results.

Burglaries investigated

Vernon
During the week of Sept. 30 to Oct. 8, Vernon Police investigated 15 burglary complaints. The estimated value of items taken in the breaks is $3,000.

The breaks were into businesses in Rockville Center, Main St., and Park Pl., apartments on Ward St., Old Town Rd., Elm St., Regan Rd. and Highland Ave., and single homes on Carol Dr., Irene Dr., Dun-caster Lan and Frederick Rd.

During the same period police issued 36 motor vehicle summonses for speeding and failure to obey traffic control signals.

Police brutality charge rejected by prosecutor

Vernon
Atty. Arthur Meisler, Common Pleas Court 19 prosecutor, after reviewing charges against a Vernon police officer, has concluded the charges are unfounded.

Paul Margelony of Church St., Vernon, filed a complaint against Officer James Hodges on behalf of his son, Alan Margelony, 17.

Margelony claimed he was pushed around during investigation of an accident in which he was involved and he in turn allegedly pushed the officer.

The internal affairs officer of the Vernon Police Department reviewed the complaint and turned it over to Meisler.

Meisler, in a brief statement, said the charges are unfounded and that "Officer Hodges actions were reasonable in effecting the lawful arrest."

The charges of police brutality were filed with Donald B. Caldwell, state's attorney for Tolland County, Gary Fluckiger, 18, of Village St., Ellington, also filed a brutality complaint in connection with his arrest.

Reggie Jackson made Martin's day

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Steinbrenner himself couldn't have written the final script any better: Reggie Jackson making Billy Martin's day.

Billy Martin's day began with a $500 bonus, a new car and the security that, after nearly being fired three times this season by Steinbrenner, his contract is still good for two more years.

It ended with his most vocal antagonist in this long and agonizing season — Jackson — slamming a record-tying three homers and driving in five runs to provide Martin and the New York Yankees with an 8-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers and their first World Series championship since 1922.

"Jackson was sensational," said Martin of the man whom he nearly punched out in Boston in mid-June and most definitely cursed out only five days ago. "He was really up for this game and he's a super guy. I know next year will be much easier for him."

Jackson was indeed "up" for Wednesday night's storybook finish to the Yankees' most turbulent season. The controversial right fielder, for whom Steinbrenner paid $3 million to obtain in last winter's free agent sweepstakes, walked on four pitches in the first inning and saw only three strikes thereafter — all of which were deposited in the out reaches of Yankee Stadium's 55,000 seats.

With the third blast he tied Babe Ruth's record for most series homers in one game.

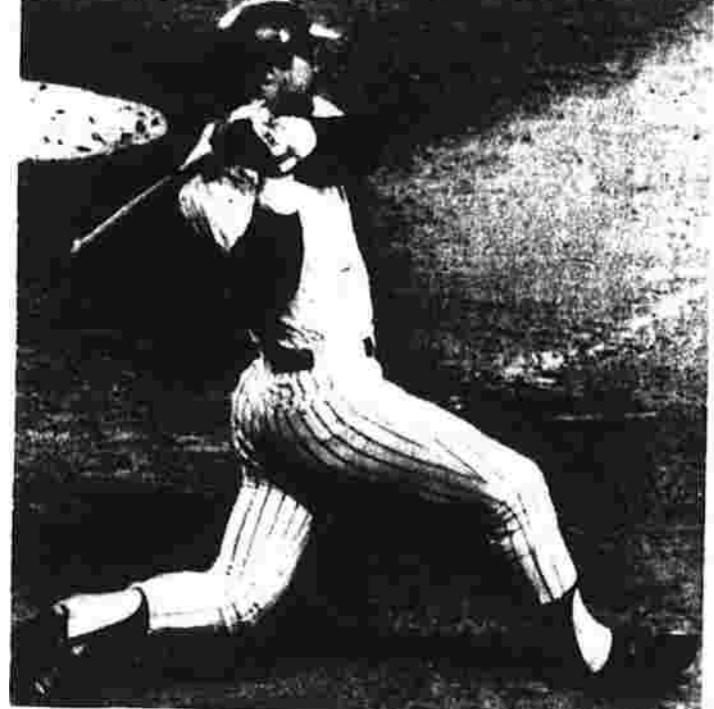

"The guys throw the word 'superstar' around," said Jackson in the Yankee clubhouse afterward.

"but at least for one day I can say I am."

Indeed, Jackson was voted the most valuable player of the series with a .450 average, five homers and eight RBI.

The happy ending to the Jackson-Martin-Steinbrenner soap opera practically overshadowed the dodged, route-going pitching of Mike Torrez, who spaced nine hits to stop the Dodgers for the second time in the series.

Torrez, the 6-5, 220-pound Mexican right-hander, was roughed up for a pair of runs in the first on Steve Garvey's line drive triple into Jackson's right field corner, and a solo homer by Reggie Smith in the World Series win 21st for New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — The feudin' and fussin' New York Yankees won their first World Series since 1922 Tuesday night, defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4.

In winning the best-of-seven Series in six games, the Yankees thus notched their 21st World Championship, a record held by the legendary Babe Ruth and his five homers for the Series set a record.

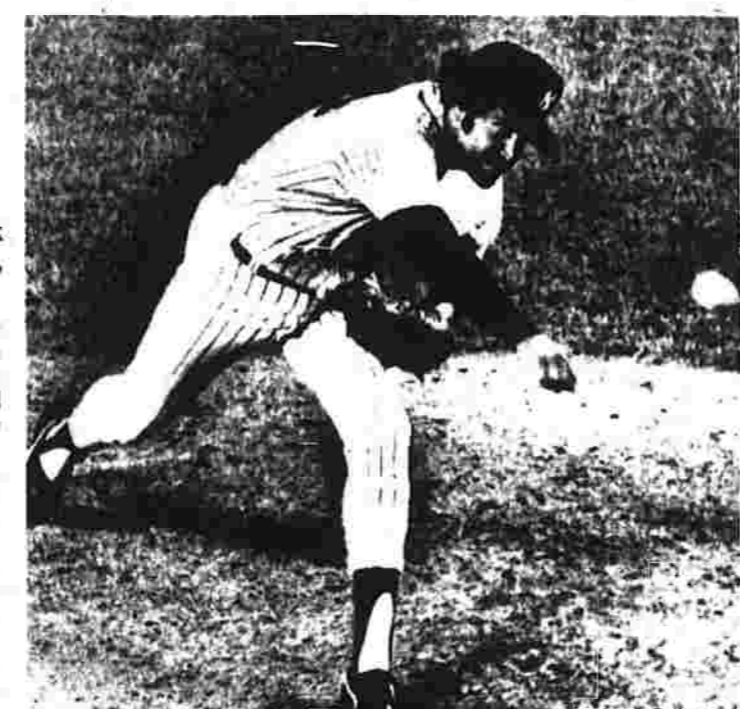

The Yankees' Reggie Jackson set a World Series record by hitting three home runs and knocking in five runs — a solo shot 40 feet into the center field bleachers in the eighth — living up to his reputation as one of baseball's top "money" players.

Jackson's three home runs equaled the World Series single game record held by the legendary Babe Ruth and his five homers for the Series set a record.

Mike Torrez also played a prominent role in the clincher. The right-hander stopped the Dodgers on nine hits in beating them for the second time in four days, both complete games. He gave up two unearned runs and a 425-foot homer to Reggie Smith, his third of the Series, in the third, but gave up only four hits and one run over the last five innings.

The Yankees' victory was perhaps inspired by the vote of confidence given to Manager Billy Martin earlier in the day. Yankee broadcaster Gabe Paul ended speculation that Martin would be fired by saying he would return for the final two years of his contract — and with a substantial bonus.

When the game ended on a popout to Torrez by pinch-hitter Lee

No favorites

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three different Los Angeles Dodgers' pitchers threw to Reggie Jackson in the wrong spot Tuesday night and contributed to what Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda called "the greatest performance I've ever seen in the World Series."

"We were supposed to get the ball in on him," a saddened Lasorda said of Jackson, whose three home runs gave the New York Yankees an 8-4 victory and the World Series championship.

"We tried to pitch him in a certain area and we didn't get it there. He had a helluva ballgame. It's gotta be the greatest performance I've ever seen in the World Series," Steinbrenner continued. "I have no regrets. I wouldn't change a thing if I had it to do over again. This was worth every penny and every headache."

"The things this team went through steered them for the World Series," Steinbrenner added. "And what a job Martin did. He did such a great job in the playoffs and the World Series."

Martin, who embraced Steinbrenner and club president Gabe Paul several times during the Yankees' clubhouse celebration, was emotionally drained as he talked to reporters. Gone was the familiar bravado. Billy The Kid was humble.

"It is hard to compare winning a World Series as a manager with winning one as a player," he said. "I have a greater feeling of accomplishment than I can describe."

Long ball killed Dodgers' hopes

NEW YORK (UPI) — A saddened Tommy Lasorda called Reggie Jackson's three home runs Tuesday night the greatest performance he's ever seen in the World Series.

"We lived by the long ball all year and we got killed by the long ball tonight," said Lasorda, sipping a beer and sipping at a sausage and pepper sandwich after the Dodgers' 8-4 victory over the Yankees. "Jackson had a helluva ballgame. He got to be the greatest performance I've ever seen in the World Series."

Chris Chambliss hit the Yankees' other home run, tying the game 2-2 in the second inning, before Jackson belted his first homer in the fourth to send the Yankees ahead 4-3.

"Everything happened so quick," Lasorda said. "Four hits and they scored seven runs. We couldn't move quick enough. We tried to pitch them in a certain area and we didn't get it there."

Garvey and Dusty Baker singled with one out in the Dodger ninth and second off reliever Elias Sosa in the fifth and the final shot off Charlie Hough, the fourth Dodger pitcher, in the eighth.

"If he doesn't hit the first one out he's got a hole in his head," said Los Angeles catcher Steve Yeager. "Our pitchers couldn't get the ball inside. If you pitch him properly, he's not gonna hit those homers. Everything was down the middle of the plate and away. Boom, boom, boom, there it is."

"Would I have done anything different? I wouldn't have gotten up this morning."

Worth every penny and every headache

Owner sounded warning: Yanks will become stronger

NEW YORK (UPI)—George Steinbrenner came off like gangbusters but Billy Martin played the pussycat when the New York Yankees' season of turmoil ended with the club's first world championship since 1922.

Dripping with champagne poured in him by Thurman Munson after the Yankees' climactic 8-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night, Steinbrenner sounded a warning to the baseball world that the Yankees will become even stronger.

"We're gonna stay on top," said Steinbrenner. "We're starting Wednesday morning to do everything we can to improve the team. What will we spend or what will we do? We'll do anything and everything we can to make the team stronger."

"If there was a lot of turbulence this season it was my fault," Steinbrenner continued. "I have no regrets. I wouldn't change a thing if I had it to do over again. This was worth every penny and every headache."

"The things this team went through steered them for the World Series," Steinbrenner added. "And what a job Martin did. He did such a great job in the playoffs and the World Series."

Martin, who embraced Steinbrenner and club president Gabe Paul several times during the Yankees' clubhouse celebration, was emotionally drained as he talked to reporters. Gone was the familiar bravado. Billy The Kid was humble.

Martinez Jackson proud of his son, Reggie

NEW YORK (UPI) — To the rest of the world perhaps, Reggie Jackson is the biggest thing in pinstripes today since Babe Ruth. To the man who knows him best, though, his father, he's still the same kid who'd do anything to get out of working in his tailor shop.

Martinez Jackson is enormously proud of his son. You can tell that by the way he talks about him and by the way he shows you the 1974 World Series ring Reggie gave him after earning it with the Oakland A's that year.

Never was that pride more obvious than it was Tuesday night when Reggie Jackson's father stood silently beside his son, practically sandwiched inside his locker by the great wall of humanity positioned in kinds of sports so he could avoid working in his tailor shop.

"Originally, football was his big sport. He was a four-letter man in high school, you know, football, baseball, basketball and track, and I'd always insist he help me in the tailor shop if he didn't make the first team."

Martinez Jackson glanced over toward his son again. The crowd of newsmen around him had grown even larger and the Yankee right fielder was so weary, he moved back inside his locker and sat down. Some of the writers now were asking Reggie Jackson's father his feelings about having such a celebrated son.

"Well, his ego is inflated to a certain extent, but I think that makes him a more competent performer," said the elder Jackson. "It is similar to Cassius Clay in that he's a great public relations man and he is capable of rising to an occasion like this one."

Without realizing it, Martinez Jackson was saying the same thing about his son the Dodger scouts said about him in their reports before he wound up hitting 450 in the Series and being named the Most Valuable Player.

"Our scouting report on him said he had certain weaknesses but the one big thing I emphasized was that he could rise to the occasion," said Dodger outfielder Reggie Smith.

"There was a certain way we were supposed to pitch him, inside. We tried it and weren't successful, especially in this last game. Our pitchers got the ball over the plate too much. But you can't take anything away from Jackson. He put on the greatest performance I've

Two contrasts

Talk about contrasts in a person's makeup, New York Yankee Manager Billy Martin has been the center of attention and embroiled in controversy from spring training days right through the championship American League season and into the playoffs and finally the World Series. Yankee players, front office executives, team owner and the media have all had their moments of disagreement with Martin. On the other hand, Tom Lasorda, who guided the Los Angeles Dodgers to the National League pennant in his freshman season, has struck up a father and son relationship with his players and his rapport with members of the media and his bosses has been on the highest grade. The only time you see Lasorda's name in print was when one of the members of his squad praised his efforts or he was singing the praises of his players. "I have not only good ball players, but outstanding guys. A manager has to have respect and I've earned that from my 25 guys and they've earned it from me. Believe me, I've got 25 great guys," he continued when we talked at Yankee Stadium. Asked before a series game what the Dodgers game plan was against the Yankees, Lasorda answered in one word, "Win!" Simple as that.

Coaches' corner

Manchester High

Despite the outcome of Saturday's game with Conard (13-0 loss), our boys can certainly hold their heads high with the effort they gave. They were scrapping all the way and as Conard Coach Bob McKee said, "You gave us all we could handle." One halfback pass and a poor punt were the only differences in the game.

It's been a long time since the Manchester defense hit so hard and refused so stubbornly to give in. It would be almost impossible to list all the defensive heroes but a few do stick out.

Middle guard Bill Stokes played an absolutely phenomenal game. Despite being double and triple teamed, he was consistently in the Conard backfield creating all kinds of havoc. Unfortunately, he suffered a concussion and will be lost for a month. Colin O'Neill had another fine game at the left end position and tackle Dave Marshall, making his first start due to a bad shoulder, really stuffed the off-tackle hole. The bruising tackling of cornerback Mike

MHS booters win in OT

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

It can't do things the easy way. The Manchester High soccer team has played nine games and only four have finished in regulation.

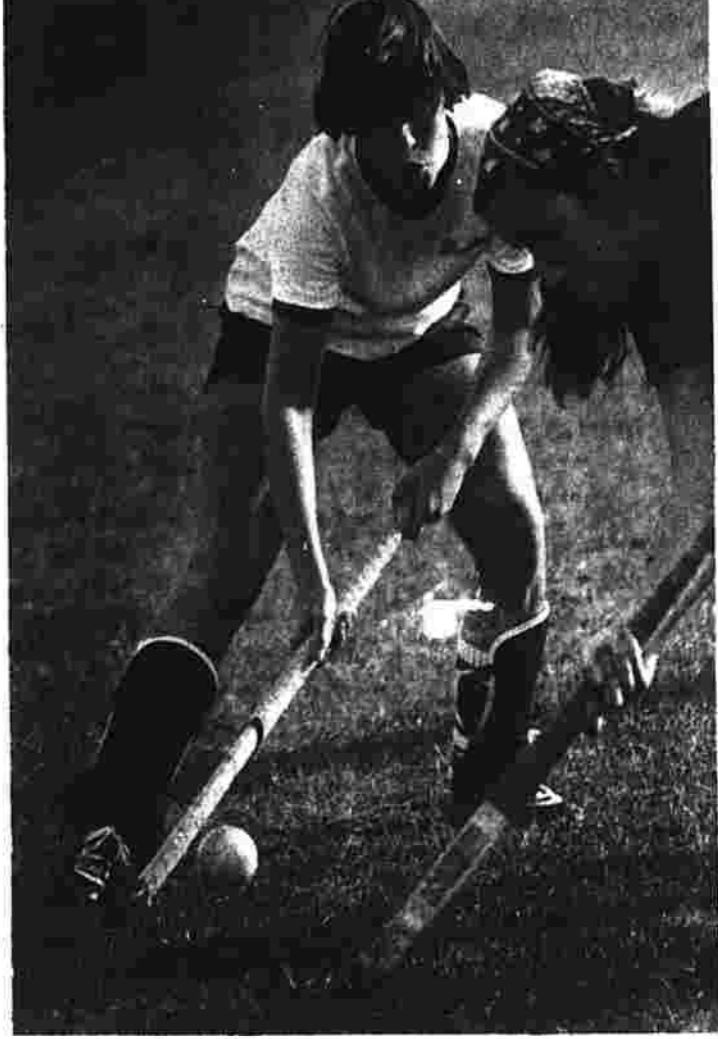

The Silk Towners did it again yesterday in Willimantic, struggling to a 2-1 overtime decision over CCLL Ice Windham.

The victory leaves Manchester with a 6-3 league mark while the lowly Whippeters slip to 1-9.

"I can't believe we're unbeaten," enunciated Tribe Coach Dick Danielson. "Yes, definitely, this has to be the strangest unbeaten team in the state," he answered.

It was an individual effort by junior Jack Medzela which produced the winning tally. He raced down the right wing and fired on goal. Keeper Mike Chase made the initial stop but the rebound went right back to Medzela. He fired again, finding the short side at the 2:19 mark of the first of two five-minute extra sessions. It was Medzela's second goal of the season.

It was a secret first half with the best chances coming with 15 seconds left. Danielson and his assistant,

Tribe harriers in twin victory

The stage is set. Tuesday's meet in Willimantic will decide the CCLL championship.

The Manchester High boys' cross country team whipped Wethersfield, 17-0, and dangerous East Hartford High, 25-30, yesterday at Center Springs Park to remain unbeaten in league competition.

Thus, Coach George Sutor's Indians, who are 8-0 in the CCLL and 11-0 overall, can take league honors by defeating Windham, also unbeaten in league competition.

East Hartford, one of the favorites in the state Class I division, topped Wethersfield, 21-39.

Results: 1. Jardin (EH) 13:43 for 2.52 miles, 2. Lemieux (M), 3. Fedorchak (M), 4. Brenna (EH), 5. Locke (M), 6. Zito (W), 7. Timbrell (M), 8. Lewis (EH), 9. Borman (EH), 10. Labda (M).

Gustamachio paces Cheney x-country

Getting close to the .500 level, the Cheney Tech cross country team downed Rham High, 24-33.

The Beavers now stand 4-3 for the season with a meet today in Colechester against Bacon Academy.

Cheney's Dave Gustamachio took individual honors with a 15:26 clocking for 2.8 miles. Ed West garnered three places for the Techmen with teammates Ken Pitts in fifth, Frank Foster sixth and Peter Fitzgerald ninth.

Results: 1. Gustamachio (CT) 15:26 for 2.8 miles, 2. Morris (R), 3. West (CT), 4. Horton (R), 5. Pitts (CT), 6. Foster (CT), 7. Rihm (R), 8. Fournier (R), 9. Fitzgerald (CT), 10. Beauchesse (CT).

Eagle and St. Paul booters deadlock

East Catholic and St. Paul battled to a 0-0 soccer tie yesterday at Cougar Field.

It was a "fantastic game," noted Eagle Coach Tom Malin, "in which both teams had numerous scoring chances but couldn't cash in on them."

"We had been inactive for over a week and really produced this game and hopefully set the stage for the rest of the season," Malin continued.

St. Paul, 9-1, had 28 shots on net with East goalie Don Martin making 17 saves. East, 1-5-1, had 20 shots with Falcon netminder Bob Majowski making 14 stops.

"We're not discouraged. We lost four games by a total of four goals and are now ready to close with a rush. We just have to learn to finish off offensive thrusts," Malin penned.

Martin in goal and new fullbacks Fred Nassif, Kyle Ayer and Terry McConville were Eagle standouts.

Illing High loses race

Illing seventh grader Bob Sawyer led individual honors but it wasn't enough as Timothy Edwards Junior High of South Windsor took a 25-34 cross country duke yesterday at Center Springs Park.

Sawyer turned in a 9:33 clocking for the 1.8 mile course with Edwards third and Satoro Matsuoka second behind. Another Illing seventh grader, Gary Gates, was third with a 9:35 clocking.

Larry Dupont was seventh and Scott Holmes 12th for Illing.

Results: 1. Sawyer (I), 2. Anderson (E), 3. Gates (I), 4. Ingraham (E), 5. D. Sewall (E), 6. J. Sewall (E), 7. Dupont (I), 8. Wolf (E), 9. Henry (E), 10. LeBlanc (E).

Booster Club lists tag sale

Off to a fine start in its membership drive is the Manchester High Boosters Club.

One money-raising project will be a tag sale Saturday, Oct. 29 at Manchester High adjacent to the Clarke Arena. Hours will be 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Norma Marshall will serve as sale chairlady.

Field hockey team loser via shutout

Suffering the affects of a 10-day layoff, the Manchester High girls' field hockey team dropped a 1-0 duke to Windham yesterday at the locals' field.

Windham put the winning tally on the board with two minutes left in the first half. Three successive penalty corners were awarded the visitors across the circle and belted the ball into the nets for the lone score.

Manchester's attack spluttered at times and could not get anything running smoothly. The Indians, 3-1 for the season, had four shots on goal the first half and none after intermission. Windham only had three shots.

Lori McCurry and Cindy Formica were the Manchester players on the defensive end.

The Manchester jayvees won, 4-0. Peggy Muldoon scored two goals and Deb Ogren and Patty Gronda one each for the locals. Joanne Weiss up front and Pam Harmon and Beth Schendel on defense played well.

Gorr scores twice for Cheney booters

Sophomore Jack Gorr scored two goals and assisted on a third in leading Cheney Tech to a 4-3 win over Bolton in Charter Oak Conference soccer action yesterday in Bolton.

The triumph brought the Beavers conference mark to 2-2-2 and over-all ledger to 4-4-2. Bolton is winless in nine starts.

The home-standing Bulldogs jumped out to a 3-1 lead after the first 35 minutes. Brad Smith at 5:49 with a 25-yarder and Brian Winkler at 13:45 with a 15-yard boot gave Bolton a 2-0 lead.

Gorr at 15:15-mark cut it 2-1 with a 12-yard unassisted tally for Cheney but before the half Marty Ferguson with a close in shot made it 3-1 Bolton.

Gorr at 9:30 of the second half assisted by Mike Fraser cut it to 3-2. Senior Doug Victor at the 18-minute mark tied it with a penalty kick.

It remained that way until 20:30 when Jim Boudreau, accepting a pass from Gorr, drilled home a three-yard shot for the game-winner. It was Boudreau's fifth goal of the season.

Victor, Wil Smith and Jim Raymer on offense. Luis Crema at midfield and Gorr and Fraser at forward starred for Cheney. The Beavers played the last 25 minutes with only nine men, two ejected, but still managed to garner the win.

Cheney's Gorr scored twice, 18-16.

The Beavers' next tilt is Friday at 3:15 at home against powerful Rham High.

Deadheat in MHS victory

Sophomore Lynne Wright and junior Kate Hennessy crossed the finish line in a deadheat in leading the Manchester High girls' cross country team to an 18-41 win over East Hartford at Center Springs Park yesterday.

Wright and Hennessy were each caught in 16:59 for the 2.25 mile course. Lee Sadokey was third for the Indians with Lauren Woodhouse fifth.

Results: 1. Hennessy (M), 2. Wright (M) 16:59 for 2.25 miles, 3. Sadokey (M), 4. Rabnett (EH), 5. Woodhouse (M), 6. Fitzgerald (EH), 7. Tilden (M), 8. Brown (M), 9. Cheney (M), 10. M. Santana (M).

Noone gets double in swimming win

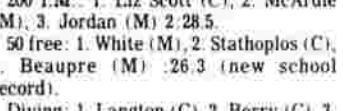

Two school records were broken as the Manchester High girls' swimming team remained unbeaten with a 94-78 triumph over Concord yesterday at the local pool.

Junior Chris White continued her attack on the record book lowering the standard in the 50-yard freestyle to 25.3. It bested her previous best by one-tenth of a second.

The lead exchanged hands twice and the meet was decided until the final 400-yard freestyle relay event. In that, the quartet of Sandy Beaupre, Tess Mazzotta, Kim Noonan and White turned in a 4:10 clocking to break the previous mark by almost four seconds.

Catholic tankers bow to champs

Jane Price took two events but it wasn't enough as defending state Class LL champ Glastonbury High sunk the Eagletes, 91-78, last night in Glastonbury.

The Tomahawks now stand 7-2 for the season while East is 3-2 heading into Friday's meet at Windsor Locks.

Price capped the 50-yard freestyle with a 28.0 clocking and the 100-yard freestyle in 1:00.8. Freshman Claire Viola captured the 100-yard butterfly and took second in the 200-yard individual medley while sophomore Kelly Dakin won the 100-yard breaststroke.

Results:
200 medley relay 1. Glastonbury (Jacobs, Vaylakte, Docherty, Wyman), 2. Glastonbury 2. East Windsor 3. 200 free 1. Rowley (D), 2. Anderson

Whalers and Racers tie

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The New England Whalers and Indianapolis Racers swapped goals in the first period then battled for the next 50 minutes to a 2-2 overtime tie Tuesday night.

The game was the opener for Indianapolis at home in the Racers and it was played before a crowd of 6,362 in Market Square Arena.

The Whalers are now 2-1-1 and Indianapolis 1-2-1.

Senior Junior White continued her attack on the record book lowering the standard in the 50-yard freestyle to 25.3. It bested her previous best by one-tenth of a second.

The lead exchanged hands twice and the meet was decided until the final 400-yard freestyle relay event. In that, the quartet of Sandy Beaupre, Tess Mazzotta, Kim Noonan and White turned in a 4:10 clocking to break the previous mark by almost four seconds.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: With the school season just commencing, you'd be doing a real service to urge girls not to pass up a boy just because he's short.

DEAR MISSED: And speaking of boys that have been missed, let's look at the guys who've left themselves on the dock.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was recently honored at a banquet by the company he works for.

DEAR SECOND: I think you should have applauded with your HANDS as well as with your heart.

Win at Bridge

A wide variety of scores

DEAR EASTS would duck. South would win, ruff his last club, cash dummy's last trump and lead a second spade to East's ace.

DEAR NORTH played in spades he always had to lose a spade and a diamond, but a couple of North players were doubled at five spades for very good scores.

DEAR WEST: When North played in spades he always had to lose a spade and a diamond, but a couple of North players were doubled at five spades for very good scores.

DEAR SOUTH: Friends will cooperate today, but only if you treat them with kid gloves. Throwing your weight around could cause a serious quarrel.

Assistant U.S. attorney

Constance L. Belfiore, a native of Manchester, has recently been appointed to the position of assistant United States attorney in Washington, D.C.

She graduated in 1976 from the Catholic University School of Law, where she was an editor of the Law Review, active in several student organizations, and a participant in clinical programs.

During the past year Miss Belfiore served as a judicial clerk to the Hon. Stanley S. Harris, associate judge of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

She is a graduate of East Catholic High School in Manchester, and Kirkland College, coordinator at Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y. While a student there she participated in internship programs in the office of the then state's attorney for Hartford county, John D. LaBelle and at the Connecticut Public Expenditures Council.

Miss Belfiore is a member of the Connecticut and Hartford County Bar Associations, as well as the Bar of the District of Columbia. (Naylor photo)

Jerry Morel

Buy's firm

Jerry Morel, who has been associated with Douglas Motor Sales since 1963, has recently bought the business from Douglas Dumas.

Morel has been in the auto sales business since 1956. He worked for the former Gengras Ford in Hartford.

A native of Hartford, Morel served in the Navy from 1952 to 1956. He has lived in Tolland for the past 15 years with his wife, Patricia. They have three children. He is a member of several fraternal organizations in Rockville.

Morel plans to continue the Douglas Motor Sales as it has been run since 1945, but plans to provide some expanded services.

Pioneer Systems, Inc. (AMEX) of Manchester has announced un-audited operating results for the nine-month period ended Aug. 27. Net sales were $32,650 compared to $32,836 in 1976.

Net income for the period, after extraordinary gain, amounted to $182,000, equivalent to six cents per common share, compared to $866,000, equivalent to 30 cents per common share in the prior year.

The selection of Mrs. McMullen was based on her experience in export marketing gained as president of the Pressure Blast Manufacturing Company, Inc., designers and builders of abrasive blast finishing equipment. Mrs. McMullen spearheaded her company's drive to open markets throughout the world, a program undertaken in the early 1960s. Since that time, Pressure Blast equipment has earned a high degree of acceptance throughout the industrial world.

Mrs. McMullen is a director of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and serves on the Associate Board of Directors of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. She is also a member of the Manchester Economic Development Commission.

Named to council

Helen L. McMullen has been named to the Connecticut District Export Council by U.S. Secretary of Commerce Juanita M. Kreps.

The Connecticut District Export Council is one of 43 such groups in the country organized to serve as vital links in the joint government industry export expansion program.

Wrigley promoted

Spartan Pools Corp. has promoted John Wrigley of Hebron to national sales manager of the company, a position unfilled for over a year. The appointment was made by Spartan Pools president Jerry Lansky.

John Wrigley has a wealth of experience on both sides of the business, said Lansky in announcing the promotion.

"His activities as a retailer in the pool business, plus his rapid acclimation to and growth in the factory side of the business was consistent with our increasingly more successful seasons in the past three years."

Wrigley, his wife, and three children will move to northern New Jersey this fall.

Management forum

William Sheehan, a senior vice president of ABC News, New York City, will take part in a forum discussion on "How Executives Manage" Nov. 15 at the University of Hartford.

Joining Sheehan in the 7 p.m. event in Holcomb Commons, Gengras Student Union, will be two fellow executives — Norman E. W. Erickson, president and treasurer of the American Savings Bank of New Britain, and Bill L. Richards, president of The F.I.P. Corp. in Farmington Industrial Park, Farmington.

The public is welcome to attend, and there is no admission charge.

Hamilton contract

The state of California has awarded United Technologies' Hamilton Test Systems subsidiary a contract to operate a motor vehicle inspection system aimed at helping reduce air pollution in Los Angeles and five adjacent counties.

Seventeen inspection facilities with 45 high-automated lanes will check the emissions of autos and other light-duty vehicles which fall into two categories. Those which change ownership and out-of-state vehicles being registered in California for the first time.

Under terms of the five-year contract, Hamilton Test Systems will construct, equip and staff the inspection network and begin its operation on Jan. 2, 1979.

California's Air Resources Board (ARB), which will supervise the program, will pay Hamilton $4.49 to $6.70 per vehicle. The exact fee will depend on the number of vehicles inspected which will range between 1.3 and 2.2 million a year.

CBT earnings

CBT Corporation, the holding company whose major subsidiary is The Connecticut Bank and Trust Company, reported today that earnings for the quarter ended Sept. 30 were $2,772,000, or $1.48 per share. This result represents a 33.3 per cent increase over the corresponding period of 1976 when earnings were $2,079,000, or $1.11 per share. For the first nine months of 1977, per share earnings were $3.88, 12.5 per cent over the $3.45 earned in the first nine months of 1976. Income before securities gains and losses for the nine months ended Sept. 30, was $7,278,000, compared with $6,473,000 for the first nine months of 1976.

Net income, which reflects results after securities gains and losses, was $7,294,000, or $3.88 per share, for the first nine months of 1977, compared with $6,149,000, or $3.28 per share, for the comparable period of 1976. Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30 was $2,772,000, or $1.48 per share, compared with $1,997,000, or $1.07 per share, for the comparable period of 1976. All per share calculations are based on 1,877,361 shares outstanding for each period.

On second thought

By Jan Warren

Pull here to open

The other day my son's English teacher asked him to write a 350 word essay on the subject "My Pet Pevee." "What a stupid assignment!" said John. "I think I'll write that my pet pevee is stupid assignments." While John was talking I was trying to open a bag of potato chips. First I tried to tear it, then I pulled, then I tugged. Finally, in desperation, I reached for a knife, poked a hole in the package and hacked off the top. "There!" I said waving the package in the air. "That's my pet pevee. Why don't you write about fancy packages that say 'tear here to open' and they don't open?" "You're no help!" said John. "How could I get 350 words out of that?" Now, unlike John, I could get 350 words on the subject without even trying. The worst thing about boxes, cartons, bottles, jars, cans and plastic bags is that they all open differently. The jumbo box of soap powder has a red tab that says "pull here to open." The cereal box says "press to open." The cookie sack instructs you to tear along the perforated line. And the medicine bottle says, "Turn end to open." The cans that state imperiously "Open this end only!" fill me with suspicion. And those baby proof aspirin bottles are always adult proof, too. Obviously the manufacturers responsible for this multiple jumble think that housewives have nothing better to do with their time than read the small print on their box tops. It's a situation that leaves me pushing when I should be pulling and tearing when I should be turning the arrow. Last night I almost severed my thumb in the process of opening a coffee can that was equipped with an "easy open key." My husband came running to the kitchen to see what all the noise was about. "I almost killed myself," I cried, as I wrapped my thumb in a wad of paper toweling. "Why do they make these things so complicated?" My husband looked at me and then at the coffee can. He responded with maddening calm. "The trouble with you, is that you don't follow directions. Everytime you open something you fight with it. Look, this can is all bent out of shape." "Yeah!" cried John, who suddenly appeared in the doorway. "And you ought to see what she does to a bag of potato chips. She hacks the thing apart and then yank... all the potato chips get stale." John paused for a moment, a reflective look on his face. "Hey! That's it. That's what I'll write my essay on. My pet pevee is people like mother who hack the top off potato chip bags!"

VA news

Q - What rating must a veteran receive for a service-connected disability to permit the spouse to be entitled to her claim and attendance if disabilities warrant?

A - The disabled veteran must be rated 50 percent or higher.

Q - In order to be eligible for a VA education loan, what is the minimum training time a veteran must be enrolled in school?

A - A veteran must be enrolled at least half time in institutions of higher learning or in a nondegree technical course, requiring at least six months to complete.

Q - If I surrender my NSLI ordinary life policy for paid-up insurance, do I continue to receive dividends?

A - If the parent policy earned dividends the reduced paid-up policy will also earn them. Also, all reduced paid-up policies have cash and loan values.

Q - Under what conditions can a VA home loan entitlement be restored, once used?

A - If the property is disposed of and the loan paid in full, your entitlement may be restored. Also, a veteran with full entitlement may assume your loan and substitute his or her entitlement for yours.

Winners in the Vernon Senior Citizens Pinocchio Club tournament Oct. 13 at the Senior Citizens Center are Jean Carrion, 415, Jennie Stankle, 604, John Fry, 594, and Ann Scogaglio, 592.

Manchester Police Chief Robert D. Lannan is advising motorists to get prepared for winter driving with vehicle maintenance now.

Stalled vehicles choke off vital community services and Chief Lannan contends that future winter tie-ups can be avoided by a little advance preparation.

Basic suggestions and tips, endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, have been recommended by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards.

In addition to a complete tune-up, motorists are advised to have mechanic check the battery, the entire electrical and heater-defroster systems.

Other items recommended for checking include the brakes, exhaust system, windshield wiper blades, tires and vehicle lights, which must be kept clean.

Lannan also suggests the following emergency equipment be kept in the vehicle trunk: booster cables, reinforced tire chains, sand, rock salt and a traction mat; a shovel, safety flares or reflectors, tow chain, cable or strap, extra windshield washer solvent, window scraper and paper towels, heavy gloves and extra winter clothing.

Lannan noted that all the Manchester Police Department vehicles are being checked now according to the guidelines.

Fateful Congress The 26th Congress held by the Soviet Communist Party Feb. 16-25, 1956, was one of the most fateful gatherings of modern times. At the Moscow session, Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced Joseph Stalin, repudiated the crimes of Stalinism and proclaimed a new policy of peaceful coexistence with the West. The new party line alienated Chinese Communists and hastened the split that continues to divide the Communist world.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Barbara quit her job as a bookkeeper because she was "fed up" with the manager of the office. Then she put in a claim for unemployment compensation. However, the company opposed her claim on the ground that she had not been fired.

But the court decided she could not collect compensation. The court said most employees would be able to cope with this kind of aggravation without going so far as to quit. Barbara did have a point. Unemployment compensation laws usually cover only those who are fired but also those who quit for "good cause."

Every (employee) has some special gripe, grudge or grievance which could be pumped up into a cause if desired. The possibilities stagger the imagination. The average employe has, or should have, a modicum of tolerance to bear these matters."

Social Security

Q. We have a son, 15, who's been disabled since he was 10. A friend told me that my son can get monthly Social Security payments on his earnings record even though I won't be eligible for retirement benefits for about 15 years. Is that true?

A. No. Your son could only get childhood disability payments on your earnings record if you became disabled, retired, or die after working long enough under Social Security. However, your son may be able to get monthly Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments as a disabled child, depending on your income and other resources. If you think he may be eligible for SSI payments, you should contact any Social Security office.

Q. My boss told me if I continue to work after 65 and don't apply for monthly Social Security checks, I can get higher payments when I do apply. Is that true?

A. If you delay your retirement past 65, your monthly Social Security payments will be increased by 1 per cent for each year until 72 that you could have been getting monthly benefits but didn't apply for them.

Q. I applied for Social Security disability payments about two months ago when I first became disabled. Is it true I have to wait five months before Social Security lets me know if my claims have been allowed?

A. No. As soon as Social Security makes a decision on your claim, you'll be notified. There is a five-month waiting period before payments can start, so the first payment is for the sixth month of disability.

Q. My husband and I have been married 35 years. Last year he left me, and now he's asked for a divorce. I have very little in the way of Social Security earnings credit on my own. Would he be giving up my rights to Social Security payments on his record if I agree to give him a divorce?

A. No. Because you and your husband have been married for 35 years, a divorce would not affect your rights on his Social Security earnings record. If your husband gets disability or retirement payments, you can start getting monthly checks at 62. If he dies after working long enough under Social Security, you can get widow's benefits as early as 60.

Q. I applied for SSI payments recently. The fact that I own the house I live in will not disqualify me, I was told. I'm now waiting to hear if I'm going to get these monthly checks. But I have a question I forgot to ask at the Social Security office. Will it affect my payments if I sell my house?

A. Yes, it will. To be eligible for SSI checks, a single person's resources can't be more than $1,500 or $2,500 for a couple. The value of your home while you're living in it is not included in the limit on your resources. However, if you sell your home, the money you get from it becomes part of your countable resources. Since undoubtedly it would be more than the limit set on resources, you would then be ineligible for SSI checks.

Enrollment concerns Costa

Declining student enrollment is the major issue confronting Manchester today, according to Professor Nicholas Costa, a Republican candidate for the Manchester Board of Education.

Costa, speaking at a gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Davis Wiggins, said that taxpayers and educators have an opportunity to achieve what they have desired—a viable student-teacher classroom ratio without placing in jeopardy the tenure of any educator or increasing the budget.

"An adherence to such a position is to maintain our traditional moral and educational commitment to the citizens of our community and to the principle of quality education," he said.

Church rents teen-agers

Vernon
On Saturday, Vernon residents may rent a teen-ager to do odd jobs around their homes.

The Senior High Pilgrim Fellowship of Union Congregational Church is conducting "Rent-a-Teen" day to raise money for activities such as camping trips, retreats, exchange with other youth groups, supper meetings and parties.

There is no set charge per hour. The person renting the teens can pay what they feel the services are worth.

Teens can be rented for the morning or the afternoon or both.

Workers should be picked up at the church and returned there or the church will arrange pickup and delivery.

The work day will run from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and persons interested may rent one or two teen-agers.

The "employer" is asked to provide a beverage if the workers are there at lunch time. The workers will bring their own lunch.

Those asking for a helper should not request a specific person but the church will try to provide people suitable for the job.

The fellowship said they are non-sexist in work assignments. "We believe our girls can clean out garages and take leaves as well as boys and that boys can wash windows as well as girls."

Some suggestions for work projects are cleaning out garages and basements, raking leaves and yard work, window washing and putting up storm windows, washing cars, painting, cleaning, housework and other miscellaneous chores.

The youth group advisors are Charles and Pat Bettinger, 29 Foster Dr., Vernon. The number of teen-agers available to work is limited and requests will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Teacher, firemen save young girl

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

Jennifer Gagliardi, 18 months old, of Windsor Locks is alive and breathing well today at St. Francis Hospital thanks to a Manchester teacher and East Hartford fire fighters.

Jennifer is a member of a class for mentally retarded children run by the North Central Regional Center in the Willowbrook School, in the South End of East Hartford near the Connecticut River. She was in the "infant stimulation" room run by teacher Kelly Rockwell of Manchester Tuesday afternoon.

Ms. Rockwell said Jennifer has seizures at times which cause her to stop breathing for a moment. Tuesday she stopped breathing again and Ms. Rockwell held her. Then Jennifer's heart also stopped.

Ms. Rockwell teaches cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) classes at night for the Red Cross. She was able to begin CPR on Jennifer as she told her aide, Joyce Moran of South Windsor, to phone the fire department.

The fire department logged the call at 2:16 p.m. Engine Co. 5, on Main St., was closest and the dispatcher sent that company to Willowbrook.

Lt. Robert Devaux arrived first with Fire Fighters Richard Senerth, Bruce Newberg and William Miller. "She wasn't breathing then as far as we could see," said Lt. Devaux. Senerth took over from Ms. Rockwell as the other firemen gave him aid.

"The East Hartford people were fantastic," said Ms. Rockwell. "I was so impressed."

She also praised the school's staff for holding up dismissal while fire fighters came and went. East Hartford's paramedics stationed on Burnside Ave. came to take over from Lt. Devaux's men soon after a heart beat was restored.

Ms. Rockwell said Jennifer's mother called her this morning to tell her how well the girl was doing and to thank everyone responsible.

Lt. Devaux said Senerth, Newberg and he were all EMTs (emergency medical technicians). All the men of his company were never as pleased with their work as they were Tuesday afternoon, he said.

"It was the most beautiful thing in the world to see a baby born," he said.

Hockanum area people ask for better parks

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

"My backyard has better facilities than Hockanum Park," Thornton Fleisher of 77 Sunnyside Dr. told the Town Council Tuesday night.

Fleisher and about 10 other members of the Hockanum Area Association (HAA) attended the meeting to ask the council to improve their park in the South End of East Hartford, on Main St. and the Hockanum School.

Fleisher listed their park complaints.

The park has one ballfield with hills and bumps in the outfield. The backstop can be pushed over easily. The water fountain doesn't work.

There is one set of small swings and one set of big swings, both in poor shape, he said. One weak chinning bar and an old set of monkey bars complete the park.

Residents have complained as individuals in the past, he said. His wife, Lynn, said she wrote to the mayor and the Department of Parks and Recreation director, Frank DeGregorio, last May but never got an answer.

This summer residents formed the HAA which is a member group in the East Hartford Citizens Action Group. They asked DeGregorio to meet with them and he did in September.

"He told us his hands were tied," said Fleisher. "He said we'd have to come to the council. Here we are."

Fleisher said he grew up in the North End near McAllister Park. He had high praise for the park which has a stadium, lighted tennis courts, a pool and much more.

Fleisher said the Hockanum School has 700 students and there are many more younger children and high school age people in the neighborhood who could use a good park. He said they desire something closer to what the North End people have.

Mayor Richard Blackstone said, "We've been working on improvements for that area of town."

He noted the town will build its largest, most complete pool there standing in early December. It will cost $24,000 in federal Public Works Act funds.

The town now owns about 100 acres of land in the Keeney Cove area by the Connecticut River. Plans involve making a park there with an access road off High St., he said. But the town doesn't have funds for it yet.

"We know about the pool," said Fleisher. "We want to know about our own tax dollars. There's been nothing spent in the town budgets of the last five years for Hockanum Park."

HAA members then came before the council and gave examples of what could be done at the park. They included:

- Two swings costing $1,000 and monkey bars at $500 are needed, said Ida Carr of 38 Naubus Ave.
- A $50 wood backboard would be great on tennis courts with lights, said Janet Clinton of 246 High St.
- Picnic tables at a cost of under $75 each would be used, said Wilton Webber of 15 Keeney Cove Dr.
- Lights for the tennis courts as well as the basketball courts would be appreciated by many, said Mrs. Fleisher.
- Sidewalks are needed on Main St., said John Lazarowski of 25 Sunnyside Dr.
- A fence along High St. would protect children playing ball from running into the heavy car and truck traffic there, said Fleisher. He suggested the cost would be under $5,000.
- Donna Russell, president of the Hockanum Valley Association, said many of the village's children go to the park for recreation. She and the village parents support the HAA members' requests, she said.
- Joseph Larosa, HAA member, asked the council at the end of the night, "What will happen?"
- Mrs. Esther Clarke, minority leader, said she will make sure the park is in the next agenda in November if she gets re-elected Nov. 8.
- Acting Chairman Henry Genga, also majority leader, said all the HAA comments and questions will be referred to the mayor and his staff. The council will speak on the park soon. He suggested budget setting time this winter will be a good time for them to speak again.

East Hartford police report

Scott E. Dube, 16, of 30 Leichter Dr., East Hartford, was arrested Tuesday on a warrant issued by Common Pleas Court 12 charging him with second-degree burglary and third-degree larceny.

Police said the arrest was made in connection with a house break March 11. Dube was released on his promise to appear in court Nov. 7.

In separate incidents two Hartford persons were charged Tuesday with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting).

Linda J. Ward, 27, was charged in connection with a complaint from Zayre's, Antonio N. Acosta, 26, was charged in connection with a complaint from Bradlee's. Both were released on their promise to appear in court Nov. 7.
