Table-thumping deadlock

Gas-guzzler blocks energy bill passage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A dispute over the gas-guzzler car pushed House and Senate energy negotiators into a table-thumping deadlock Friday and blocked completion of their energy conservation bill.

The House-Senate conference on energy legislation broke up angrily for the weekend, instructing its staff to gather many more statistics and try to find some way out of the impasse by Monday.

The gas-guzzler is the only issue left to be solved in the conservation bill which conferees have worked on for the past two weeks.

The issue is whether to prohibit outright any 1980 model car that gets fewer than 16 miles per gallon of gasoline. The Senate negotiators said "yes" by unanimous 10-0 vote. The House negotiators said "no" by unanimous voice vote.

The Senate ban, sponsored by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, would start with 1980 models which get less than 16 miles per gallon and increase one mile per gallon a year until it reached 21 in the 1985 models.

It also would double the penalty, from $50 to $100 per mile, for cars which do better than 16 miles per gallon but are still below average fuel economy standards.

Neither provision was in the House bill.

Metzenbaum, one of the conferees, dismissed a letter from Joan Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, in which she estimated the car ban would save only the equivalent of 100 barrels of oil a day.

"She doesn't know what she is talking about," said Metzenbaum.

Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, said, "The application of this ban does not have any effect at all on energy conservation."

"If that is so," Metzenbaum said, "then what is the harm in doing it? ... What is the argument all about?"

"What happens to the factory making a car that does not meet the standards?" Rep. John Dingell asked Metzenbaum.

"They close down," Metzenbaum said.

"Precisely," Dingell said, thumping the table.

"But the industry said they can make the standards," Metzenbaum said.

Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said prohibiting the worst cars "helps break the big-car habit in this country."

The conference has essentially finished work on other issues. The bill as it stands would make utilities the centers for advice and even some loans to Americans to weatherize their homes; would give billions of dollars in grants and cut-rate loans for energy-efficiency increases in home, school and factory, and would require new home appliances to meet energy standards.

Carter hopes to ease tax reform package

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, worried that hefty increases in Social Security taxes may dampen the nation's economy, said Friday he may try to ease the pocketbook impact through his tax reform package.

"There's no alternative that we have," Carter said in a telephone address to the National Newspaper Association convention in Houston. "We've got to increase the contributions to the Social Security System so it won't go broke."

The House approved a bill Thursday that raises Social Security payroll taxes for employers and employees starting next year. The measure awaits Senate action.

Carter said the remedial legislation must nonetheless "make sure it has a minimum adverse effect on the economy and ultimately the working people of our country."

"I think that this (the increased Social Security tax) is, to some degree, inflationary, but I believe that the major impact might be a dampening effect on our economy."

"Our feeling would be that if the Social Security tax increase is substantial after the economy shifts, we'll try to compensate for this in the tax reform package."

Carter was not specific on the new timetable for his tax package, which aides said may contain as much as $22 billion in tax cuts.

The President announced Thursday he has decided not to send Congress the tax reform package until next year, so as not to distract it from its work on the energy and Social Security bills and so that he may first judge the economic impact those bills may have in their completed form.

In the telephone hookup address, he also said that he favors eventual deregulation of natural gas prices, but said that move must be made gradually to control the economic shock.

The issue of deregulation is one of the items splitting the House and Senate over a national energy bill. The Senate approved deregulation, while the House supported Carter's plan to continue and expand controls for the time being.

"My goal is still to deregulate natural gas," he said. "I don't think

Now for an extra hour of sleep!

We ought to do it all at once. It would be too much of an impact on our national economy.

On other subjects, Carter: Said he believes the present limit of two four-year presidential terms "is the best one" and he does not favor proposals to limit presidents to one six-year term.

Reaffirmed his intention to support U.N. sanctions against arms sales to South Africa and expressed hope the "condemnation" will bring about progress toward racial equality there.

Mayor ending marriage with town

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Serving on the Manchester Board of Directors has been like being married, according to Mayor Matthew Moriarty.

"People can tell you about it, but you have to do it to know what it's like," he said.

Election Day, Nov. 8, will mark the start of two-year marriages for nine members of the board. Moriarty, however, will not be one of them.

Last June, he told the Democratic Town Committee that he would not seek re-election. The time spent in the director's job, particularly in the role of mayor, meant time not spent at work or with his family. Now, with less than two weeks left in his term, he still supports that decision, but he does admit that he will miss the service on the board.

"I wish I could continue. Maybe, there will be a time when I'll get another crack at it," Moriarty said.

Six reasons he decided not to run reside at 7 Bruce Rd. — is wife, JoAnn, and their five children who range in age from two to 11.

"I've got a very tolerant family. They're growing up without me," he said.

Moriarty began serving on the board in February 1974 and was elected mayor in November 1975.

He said that his biggest surprise was the work load and the diversity of knowledge required of the directors.

"I take my hat off to anybody who has served or will serve on the board. It's a thankless job," he said.

And, the work required of the board is increasing, according to Moriarty.

"There are so many more things the board now has to address that it didn't have to 10 years ago," he said.

He said that eventually this increase in work will probably result in an increase in salary for the board members. The members now receive $500 per year, except for the secretary, who gets $650 each year, and the mayor, who gets $750 each year.

"I think that works out to about 10 cents an hour," Moriarty said with a smile. Moriarty feels, however, that the system centering on a nine-member elected board and an appointed chief official, the manager, is a good one.

"I'm convinced that's the only way to run a town this size," he said.

Town Manager Robert Weiss once said that Moriarty was one of the most low-key mayors he has ever worked with. Moriarty said that he would not dispute that description.

"That's just the way I am. It's my lifestyle," he said.

The low-key approach, at times, may have disturbed some members of his party, he said. "But, I can't be something I'm not. I can't be all things to all people."

If he had to single out one accomplishment during his term, he said that it would be the work on the town budgets.

That's the most significant thing we do. It sets the town for the entire year," he said, and he has been pleased with the final products.

For the future, Moriarty set a general goal for the new board and the town administration. He said that there has to be a "constant alertness" by both bodies to the problems and concerns of the town and its residents.

Those problems and concerns will be handled without Moriarty's direct participation at upcoming board meetings. In fact, only three members now on the board are seeking re-election.

Thus, several newcomers will get to experience firsthand the uniqueness of a "marriage" to the City of Village Charm.

Rachel Rd. tenants organize

A group of residents at Rachel Rd. is forming a tenant's organization and has contacted a local attorney to represent it. "I hope to bring this place back to where it was when I was first here," Walter Moske, an organizer of the group, said. Moske has lived on Rachel Rd. since the moderate-income housing project opened eight years ago. Moske, along with Jean Marchuck and Ted Anderson, take credit for forming the group. During August, residents of the road met to protest a proposed rent hike for the apartments in the complex. Because of the protest, there was a temporary rescinding of the proposed hike. At the August meeting and subsequent sessions, the residents discussed the formation of a tenant's organization. The summer meetings were led by Carolyn Alaimo, also a Rachel Rd. resident. Ms. Alaimo sought to form a tenant's group that would not be incorporated and would not hire a lawyer. Moske disagreed with this approach. Thus, he plans to have his group become incorporated. He also has hired Robert Bletchman, an attorney in Manchester. "I give her credit for getting the ball rolling," Moske said of Ms.

The brunch is being held to benefit the campaign fund of the Republican Town Committee. Anyone seeking information on attending the event should contact Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson, Vice Chairwoman Elsie "Biz" Swenson, Central Committeeman Wallace Irish Jr. or Campaign Chairman George "Ted" LaBonne.

Correction

Mary Goodwin, president of the East Hartford League of Women Voters, did not make statements about Tuesday's LWV Candidates' Night that were attributed to her in the Herald Wednesday. She was quoted as saying she was disappointed in the turnout and blamed it on the refusal of the GOP candidate for mayor, Anthony Donatelli, to attend. "I thought it was a good, informative meeting. I did not blame anyone for the turnout," she said. She also denied making comments about the lack of hot issues this year. The Herald regrets not accurately identifying the woman who did make the comments.

East Hartford zoners getting tough on liquor

The East Hartford Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) appears to be getting tougher on requests for liquor permits to restaurants. The ZBA voted unanimously Thursday night to deny the request for a variance to allow the sale of beer under a tavern permit at Fabian's East, 310 Main St. The motion to deny cited "lack of proof of hardship" by the owners of Fabian's, Anthony Sabatini and Alfredo DiBonzio. Last spring the ZBA had approved a similar request to sell wine and beer with meals at the Golden Pizza restaurant at 808 Silver Lane. The Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) had earlier denied Golden Pizza the same request. The PZC sued the ZBA over the matter. In other action Thursday night, the ZBA denied the request of Griesse Advertisements of Hartford Inc. to allow a 14-by-46-foot billboard at the rear of 310 Silver Lane. The ZBA approved: • The request of Sebastian and Linda K. Caromile for a four-foot sideyard variance to build a garage and family room at 111 Whitehall Dr. • The request of Maurice J. Labonte for a one-foot sideyard and one-foot rear yard variance for a detached garage at 64 Porterbrook Ave. • The request of the Town of East Hartford for a variance to allow erection of two accessory buildings for storing and maintaining golf course equipment at the East Hartford Country Club on Long Hill St. • The request of Superior Hardware Supply and Harry Ravalese, its president, for a

WRPA explains study on lake management

The Windham Regional Planning Agency (WRPA) has met with Residents for Responsible Planning, a Coventry group opposed to sewers, and explained a study the agency is conducting on lake management. Robert Fitch, president of the residents' group, said that "the study will use data collected on Coventry and Columbia lakes to develop a general procedure for lake-use planning and watershed management." The study will report on eutrophication, a progressive fertilization of lake water which leads to increased plant growth and algal blooms that ultimately choke out desirable fish. In similar studies it has been found that the annual supply of phosphorus came mainly from erosion rather than from septic tanks, Fitch said. Consequently, urban land use generated the element at a far higher rate than any other use. "This further clarifies the two-sided issue of installing a sewer system in the Coventry Lake basin," Fitch concluded. "Although promoted to reduce a potential health hazard, the resulting increase in housing density which sewers make possible does pose a clear and undeniable threat to the further eutrophication of the lake." Candidate seeks building "Coventry must encourage new building — be it private homes, apartments, businesses or warehouses," Leonard Giglio, incumbent Republican candidate for the Town Council, said. Giglio feels that North Coventry is especially in a position to receive the initial impact of new growth because of Manchester's new industrial complex. He also said that as transportation to the Willimantic area is improved, South Coventry will rapidly feel impacts from that direction. Others assisting with arrangements for the event, which is open to the public, are Mrs. Gordon Allen, Mrs. Irene Bergin, Mrs. William Giently, Mrs. Robert Milkowski, Mrs. Arthur Smachette, Mrs. Howard Beaupre, Mrs. William Burke, Mrs. Joseph Hammond, Mrs. Hector Rivard, Mrs. Edward Socha and Mrs. James Tam.

Favors capital punishment

DR. CHARLES E. JACOBSON
 Forty years ago I lived for four years in New York City and while there would wander through Central Park at all hours of the night seeking relief from the intense heat of a summer evening; or would walk along the East Side observing with interest every ethnic neighborhood known to man, or would be called upon to perform home deliveries in Harlem, or would trek through Greenwich Village examining the avant-garde artist's works, or sample the food of a small home owned restaurant, all in complete safety and oblivious to any sense of danger, for there was none.

It would be sure, an occasional murder would occur in the city, and like all medical students I would visit with interest and excitement the morgue at Bellevue Hospital to see which of the latest gangsters were lying on the slab. New York City was a safe place in which to live and to work!
 Today New York City is a jungle! Central Park after dark is unsafe even for a policeman, even when they come in pairs, and the East Side and the Village are no longer considered safe after dark even for the "locals." Harlem is simply out of bounds for everyone.

What has happened?
 Obviously there are many causes, but first and probably foremost is a complete breakdown of our system of law and order, and I believe the judiciary is primarily responsible. They have accepted the idea that society is at fault and the individual merely a pawn in this unfortunate social climate of ours. The constitutional iniquity of the psychiatrist is no longer responsible; it is society's fault!

My letter is prompted by the front page of a recent issue of The Manchester Evening Herald that suggests every effort was made to persuade a man to surrender and to give up the idea of suicide. This effort was being made after he had already murdered his wife and child and had previously killed a woman in 1963. He was now free after serving some ten years in jail. Why the great effort to save someone who has killed several people and might kill again?
 Capital punishment in Great Britain is forbidden by law, yet 78 per cent of the people there are in favor of capital punishment. Why? I believe the people of Great Britain are sincere and desirous to avoid the prospect of repulsive murders. An executed murderer does not return to kill again! Approximately 75 per cent of the dwellers in New York City, according to Mayor Beame, favor a return to capital punishment and the reason surely must be obvious to all. Capital punishment does deter premeditated homicide. Ask yourself if it would deter your committing murder if you knew you were going to pay the supreme penalty. Crimes of passion, of course, will always occur as they are part of our animal heritage.

A former member of the Hartford Police Force estimated that 95 per cent of the crime in Hartford could be eliminated by incarcerating 300 chronic offenders, but this has not been possible for the criminals are out on the streets again sometimes hours after their arrest. Discount had is one of the reasons.
 Tabor's is a prime example of a murderer, convicted, but released on a technical charge who later killed two more people. Capital punishment, in his case at least, would have spared two innocent souls.
 Soon there will be five billion people on this earth, and it is high time for someone to think of preserving society, my children and yours, and not preserving an individual who has forfeited his right to life, not only once, but in some instances several times.

In Spain punishment is quick and severe, and crime is at a low rate. Murders do occur but many of these are politically inspired by dissidence and are done in the interest of a "cause celebre." The average individual in Spain has great respect for the judiciary as he knows that they cannot be bought, and the punishment is usually severe and meted out equally for the rich and poor alike.
 How long must we wait for the judiciary in our country to appreciate the fact that a crime deserves appropriate punishment and as it was administered some 40 years ago! At that time policemen and firemen were among the most highly respected of our public servants and were not referred to as "pigs" or stoned when fighting fires.

13 areas of involvement

JAMES C. BREITENFELD
 Executive Vice President
 Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce
 In a guest editorial column on Oct. 8, William Johnson, president of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, discussed the current drive by the chamber to identify and address issues of concern in our community. This article was then followed by a review of past chamber efforts in The Herald Managing Editor Hal Turkington's "Reflections" column on Oct. 10.
 Now, as we at the chamber move more earnestly into the collection of ideas and suggestions, we are seeking input from area residents. In the next few weeks, the chamber will be polling its members and conducting fact-finding sessions with local civic and social organizations. More information is needed, however, and it is our hope that the citizens living in the community will come forward and share their concerns.
 Briefly, we have identified 13 areas of involvement in which we feel chamber activity is appropriate. Please take just a minute to review this list and jot down any specific issues or projects which you feel the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce should consider.
 In compiling your list, please keep two points in mind. First, the chamber is non-political in nature and will not become involved in strictly partisan issues. Second, we cannot guarantee to investigate every proposal raised nor can we guarantee success in those we do undertake. We do, however, feel that our past record of accomplishment is worthy and our hope for the future of our community is great.
 Join with us as we at the Chamber of Commerce look around Manchester. Share your thoughts and let's all work together to keep Manchester a good place in which to live and earn a living.

Thought

A good way to conclude our thoughts on the matter of "faith" is to consider the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. This chapter is sometimes called the "Hymn of Faith," as I Corinthians 13 is the "Hymn of Love," and Genesis 1 the "Hymn of Creation."
 Faith makes the uplook good, the outlook bright, the outlook favorable and the future glorious. (V. Raymond Edman)

It's Benoit vs. McCoy for Vernon mayor

McCoy: Finish things

By BARBARA RICHMOND
 Herald Reporter
 Frank McCoy, Republican candidate for mayor of Vernon, has already served three terms as mayor and he said he would like to serve again to finish up some things he started and which he said he feels have not been given attention over the past two years under the Democrats.
 He said he wants to resume the sidewalk reconstruction program in Rockville. He said while he was mayor he had carefully considered a program that the town could afford over a five-year period "but the Democrats knocked out the program."
 He said costs of construction continue to rise and now the program will cost a lot more than it would have. He said the disruption of the program was an expensive decision for the taxpayers and property owners of Rockville.
 Another plan he said he developed before going out of office in 1975 is one to build a footbridge over the Hockanum River to connect the Skinner Rd. area with the approaches to Rockville High School and the businesses along Rt. 83.
 He said this would cut down considerably the time it takes students from that area to walk to Rockville High School. He said when he was in office he asked the Planning and Zoning Commissions to study the possibility of a right-of-way for pedestrians and bicyclists. This approval came from the developers of the Nutmeg apartments on Rt. 83. At the same time he said the town was granted the right-of-way for the proposed footbridge.
 He said this project could possibly be the start of the Hockanum linear park that has been talked about.
 McCoy also thinks the Economic Development Commission should be forcefully directed to look at further commercial and industrial development.
More recreation
 "I think we have to apportion funds to further development of Camp Newboos too, McCoy said. He thinks more attention should be paid to recreational facilities. He said the town has growing recreation programs and has to find the time and the room for them. He said there

Benoit: Proud of work

By BARBARA RICHMOND
 Herald Reporter
 After spending almost two years in office, Mayor Thomas Benoit who is seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket, said, "I don't believe a town can ever be a point where there is no problems."
 He said his administration has been criticized by the Republicans for raising the taxes seven mills over the past two years.
 He said all of the so-called fixed costs in the town budget went up, cited Blue Cross, CMS, and pension insurance which increased from some $42,000 to more than $70,000. He said Social Security went up by some $10,000 and the education budget, although only increasing four percent, went up by $400,000.
 "Figures do lie," he said. "These are the reasons why taxes went up and I have no control over that."
Sense of pride
 He said he looks back over the past two years he has served with a sense of pride and accomplishment.
 He said during his entire term the people of Vernon have been able to personally talk with the mayor and the council members through the Open Forum.
 He said over the two years the people and firemen and public works employees have been provided with safe and usable equipment. "For two years we played 'catch up' on equipment," he said.
 He also cited the revitalization of the Youth Services Bureau under his leadership.
 "In 1975 it died a slow death and soon after my election a council sub-committee did a detailed analysis of the town's needs in this area and concluded it was a program vitally needed in Vernon," he said.
 He also said that revitalization of the Rockville section of town has begun.

Looking ahead
 Looking ahead to the future he said he feels that those who seek public office have an obligation to tell the voters what they are for — what they advocate — not merely what they're against.
 He said the Democrats have proposed a second industrial park for Vernon to attract more industry and will shortly begin a search for a refuse facility; a capital improvement program will be introduced in December; a mayor's business council will be established to promote greater understanding and cooperation between the government locally and the private sector.
 "My family and I call Vernon home. I'm proud and optimistic as your mayor and proud of what we've done; optimistic as to what can be done to move forward on the course we have charted to inspire the quality of life in Vernon and to make our town the kind of community we know it can be. This is a challenge I gladly accept," Benoit said.

Limits of criminal law: 'Non-victim' crimes

CRIME & JUSTICE

COURSES BY NEWSPAPER

By JOHN KAPLAN

The drug pusher lurks by school yards and tempts our youth.
 The big-time gambler bribes our police and corrupts our judges.
 The gaudily dressed prostitute is an affront to our morality and a spreader of disease.
 These images of so-called non-victim crime cause great apprehension in America.

Yet the economic and social costs of enforcing laws against these crimes are also great — perhaps too great compared to their benefits. In 1975, for example, 38 per cent of all arrests were for non-victim crimes, putting an enormous strain on our criminal justice system.

Actually, "non-victim" is really a misnomer. The major non-victim crimes — drug offenses, gambling, and prostitution — often do have victims. The participants themselves, their families, and often the whole society.

It would be more accurate to call these crimes "consequential," to emphasize that those participating in them do so willingly.
 The consensual crimes that trouble us most are those in which human weakness, economic incentives toward criminality, and often a basic ambivalence toward the activities account for the great reluctance of our legislators to withdraw the sanctions of the criminal law in these areas. Yet there are reasons to be privacy, including illegal search, eavesdropping, and entrapment.

 Indeed, the successful prosecution of such cases often requires police infringement of the constitutional protections that safeguard the privacy of individuals.
 The major charges against marijuana laws is that their enforcement accomplishes little, and at considerable cost. First, though no drug is completely safe, marijuana is simply not very dangerous, at least compared with alcohol. Second, the lack of significant increase in marijuana use in those states which have "decriminalized" small-scale possession indicates that criminal penalties for such conduct were never very effective.
 We simply do not catch a high enough percentage of users to make the law a real threat, although we do catch enough to seriously overburden our legal system.
 In the United States, in 1975, there were over 400,000 marijuana arrests — a number which were for small-scale possession.

Moreover, criminal prosecution for the use of marijuana inflicts a sizeable injury on many otherwise law-abiding youths and engenders hostility toward the police.
 In addition, since many users see harm in marijuana, they have become skeptical of educational programs designed to lower use of "hard" drugs.

Drug offenses
 Drug offenses, primarily against the marijuana and heroin laws, may be regarded as the prototypes of non-victim crimes today.
 The private nature of the sale and use of these drugs has led the police to resort to methods of detection and surveillance that intrude upon our

Gym panel begins work

Andover
 The Andover Elementary School Gymnasium Building Committee held its first meeting this week, less than three weeks after being created and having its members appointed by the annual Town Meeting. Michael Tulman was elected chairman and Richard Higgins was elected secretary.
 Committee members voted to request $10,000 for an architect, to start interviewing architects and to ask the state for more money.
 The committee will ask the Board of Finance for $10,000 to hire an architect for preliminary plans for the proposed gymnasium. If the finance board approves the appropriation, it will go to a Town Meeting for approval. If the appropriation is rejected by the finance board, the project will be shelved.
 Committee members, on an optimistic note, voted to contact several architects and plans to interview them Nov. 9.

 First Selectman J. Russell Thompson said he is also a member of the building committee, "We might get shut down by the finance board before we get that far."
 Donald Berger let them know what committees to the Board of Education that it investigate the possibility of getting more money.
 About a year ago the school board applied for a $514,800 grant from the state for the proposed gymnasium. In June, it learned the state had committed to pay half the estimated amount.
 Beatrice Kowalski, chairman of the school board and a member of the building committee, said more money is needed because residents told members of the committee they would like a music room, stage and kitchenette as well as the gymnasium. All the facilities could be used by the community when school was not in session.
 Mrs. Kowalski said if the matter is approved by the school board at its next meeting they will find out if any money is available and apply for it.
 Gym classes for students at the school are now conducted in the all-purpose room which also serves as a cafeteria.
 The committee will meet Wednesday at 7:30 at the school. It is not known when the finance board will schedule as it does not file a meeting of regular meetings.

 First Selectman J. Russell Thompson said the phone at the Town Office Building will be manned from 6 p.m. to midnight on Halloween for anyone having any problems. He said complaints will be on duty throughout that period.
 Anyone having problems should call 742-7365.
 Thompson urges parents to dress their children in bright colored clothing and be careful.

Smith stresses economy

South Windsor
 Democratic Town Council candidate Jackie Smith said today she favors a full-time economic development director to show that South Windsor recognizes the importance of economic growth.
 Mrs. Smith said, "The present part-time job status is not enough to cover all phases of economic development and to seek new opportunities for the town."
 "My suggestion does not imply criticism of the present arrangement," Mrs. Smith added. "I think the set-up itself is inadequate, not the person."
 Mrs. Smith said that she has not decided on the question of a town-wide industrial park. She says it is clear from the number of letters requesting support are going out to local religious and civic organizations.

 Co-chairperson Jane Hutchins said this year's increase is calls to FISB indicates the need for this type of director for South Windsor residents. During the first nine months of 1977 FISB received 320 calls. There were a total of 280 calls in 1976.
 "An investment in the economic developer is one of the wisest moves South Windsor could make," Mrs. Smith said.

Wings of morning

Three donkeys

A man and his son were walking along the road leading their donkey. Some people passing by remarked, "Isn't that strange? Why doesn't one of those boys ride on the donkey?"

The man overtook and put his boy on the donkey's back. Much to the surprise of the onlookers, the father passed and said, "Look at that strong young boy riding while his poor father has to walk."

The next passerby remarked, "Think of that man riding while his poor boy is made to walk. Why don't they both ride?" That is a good idea, the man thought so he took the boy up with him.

As others passed he heard them whispering, "How cruel! Two people on one little donkey, they should be ashamed."

There was only one thing left to do. Feeling sorry for the donkey, the man tied the animal's legs together and placing a pole through the straps carried it on his own help.

They crossed a bridge it swayed as they and finally one of the diggers blew up at the boss, "You make fools of us. We no more work. Why you tell us to dig holes, then fill 'em up!"

The superintendent then explained having firm convictions and steadfast purposes, too many people are tossed to and fro by the opinions of others.

Work and Worship. Work is devout, and service is divine. Who stoops to scrub a floor.

Evil turned to Good

The story of Joseph in the book of Genesis is one of the most fascinating in the Old Testament.

You recall that Joseph was sold into slavery by his brothers and after a series of mishaps became second only to Pharaoh in Egypt. Subsequently his brothers had to come from Canaan to Egypt to get grain because of a worldwide famine.

Ultimately Joseph brought his aged father and all his descendants down to live in Egypt. When their father died, the brothers feared vengeance from Joseph. We read in Genesis 50:15.

"Then his brothers themselves came and bowed down before him. Here we are before you as your slaves, they said. But Joseph said to them, 'Don't be afraid; I can't put myself in the place of God. You plotted evil toward me, but God turned it into good for me.'"

This is a great verse, not only because it shows the forgiving nature of Joseph but because it shows that God works in history in such a way that evil can be turned into good.

A maxim. In the light of "The Three Donkeys" this word from Eric Guter has some light to throw on everyday living.

supported by tunds gathered at his various crusades. Graham said, "So you see, we have all sorts of wonderful activities like our schools of evangelism."

And we keep them all a secret," he quipped indirectly referring to the charges. "But now we're going to start telling people about all these wonderful activities."

There was a brief talk by football star Archie Griffin. "When I'm out on that football field and you see me raise one finger in the air, I'm not saying Archie Griffin is number one."

There was the now-famous call for "those who are coming back to Christ" to leave their seats and get below Graham.

"God is calling you," Graham said. "This is your big moment. You may never have another chance to do it again." Perhaps 500 came down to stand beneath the podium.

Before the benediction closing the ceremony, Graham says he has four guidelines to help those who have gathered around him to "find Jesus Christ."

"Read your Bible every day... it will help you grow."

"Prayer. Just talk to the Lord as though he were your best friend."

"Witness. Witness your new attitude evidenced in your work or your studies, your family, your attitude toward people of another race."

"Get yourself to church where Christ dwells."

Then it's over. In less than two hours, the crowd of 17,000 held quietly for the exits. Their general silence may be an indication Graham has moved them.

Service unit incorporates

Manchester Community Services Council has decided to incorporate the Child Advocate program in its new Child Advocate for Neglected and Abused Children program.

The Child Advocate program is being sponsored by the council under a contract with the state Department of Children and Youth Services. The program has been signed but will not be in force until signed by other state officials. The council decided it will not begin the program until some sort of protection, such as incorporation, is provided for the council officers and the child advocate.

Named incorporators are Pat Schardt, Ethel Robb and Archibald Stuart. The council, which is concerned with the pressing social problems facing Manchester.

The Bible Speaks Eugene Brewer. In a recent newspaper article the successor to Dr. Kinsey of the famed "Kinsey Report" predicted that the incidence of premarital and extramarital sexual activity will increase in our society to about 80% before leveling off. However, he did not foresee this as a threat to the nuclear family. Whether this predicted growth of promiscuity reached or not, it does threaten family life. While I believe marriage poses no threat, indeed, it is already contributing heavily to the exploding divorce rate with its many-faceted impact toward disintegration of the nuclear family. When man ignores the eternal laws of God, whether religious, moral, or physical, he will pay the price. The Bible states it (Romans 8:21) and history confirms it. Reformation Sunday service, film, "Martin Luther" will be shown. Sunday, October 30 at 6:30 p.m. CALVARY CHURCH 647 East Middle Tpk., Manchester

Just wondering

Just Wondering Department: If admission prices for pro athletic events at the Hartford Civic Center are too high? They could be with only $5.00 showing up to see the Boston Celtics open their NBA season at "Home" and the New England Whalers had 8,228 fans on hand and a lot of empty seats for their game with defending WHA champion Quebec. True, the Celtic attraction with lovely Atlanta wasn't top grade but the Whalers-Nordique meeting putted the No. 1 team in the WHA against the much improved home team...

Giants on tube

Monday night's NFL telecast will feature the New York Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals, and Howard Cosell, Frank Gifford and Don Meredith, George Pfeiffer, the state's top ranking male duckpin bowler in Connecticut and one of the best in the country, enjoyed three good payoffs in recent weeks, winning $25, $175 and $450 on the Pro Bowlers' Tour while Cathy Dyak, also of Manchester, the nation's top average female roller, was in the money twice on the Women's Pro Tour, winning $90 and $70. John Sommers of Vernon is a starting split end with the Nichols College football team this fall. Sommers, in his fourth grid season, also catches with the Nichols baseball team. Top pointmaker with the Eastern Connecticut State College soccer team this season is Manchester High product Werner Cacee. In his first nine games, Cacee has eight goals and six assists. Basketball clinic for men interested in becoming officials starts Tuesday night at Kingswood. Seven sessions will be held prior to the writing exam. With a shortage of officials, Bill Sacherer was taken off the electric clock assignment and given a spot on the field in one of last week's area high school games. Never before has there been such a crying need for grid officials. Colgate alumni are happy with the play of Mark Van Eggen, the four-year vet with the Oakland Raiders who has taken over from another former Red Raider as the top running back. Mary Hubbard was the Raiders' bread and butter man when a yard or two was needed before Van Eggen arrived. The latter hails from Cranston, R.I. Have a nice week!

Tribe CCIL soccer hopes ends in 5-1 loss to Hall

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports Editor

The bubble didn't burst. It was smashed. What fleeting hopes Manchester had of annexing the CCIL soccer title were shattered yesterday by Hall High, 5-1, in West Hartford. And now, it is Coach Dave Deacon's Warrior contingent which must hope Conard fathers. Hall stands 11-2, on a seven-game winning streak, with 35 points with a closing home date against Fern. Conard, which by far had an easier tour through the league, is at home today against Enfield and winds up with Simsbury. Only the latter, it appears, will stand in the way of the Chiefs, 10-1-1. Manchester, previously undefeated, slips to 8-1-3 and headed for a third-place finish. The last time the perennial rivals met, the Silk Towners won, 3-0, and it could've been much worse. The same can be said about this result. "Our kids were ready," offered Deacon. "We've been looking forward to this game. The kids wanted to prove they weren't as bad as they looked the first time."

Warriors' speedy combination of Fred Daugh and Gary McKinley on the wings just ran right past the Indian fullbacks. Manchester scored three goals, and McKinley, with one assist, got plenty of help. It was McKinley though who got the Warriors in high gear early in the third stanza. He outpaced fullback Ed Kenison down the left wing after taking a pass from Blumenthal and fired on net. His shot was blocked by busy Tribe keeper Mark Copeland but the rebound got away with Daugh slamming it home for a 2-0 edge. Simon Ostrov, a junior transfer from Moscow (Russia) via New York City had a major role. He joined Hall about two weeks ago. "Simon gives us more added control," Deacon explained. "In the middle he can change the flow. And he does things instinctively. Others don't."

Jets need haymaker to win big in NFL

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Coach Walt Michaels says the New York Jets are learning to be counterpunch, but they need to apply the haymaker to win in the National Football League. "The Jets, who used a few mistakes to beat the New England Patriots four weeks ago, will be after another knockdown Sunday at Schaefer Stadium. "I said before the season that anyone who played us would know they were in a hell of a game," said Michaels this week. "It's just a shame that the way these kids played (in losing to Miami, 21-7, and Oakland, 28-7, the past two weeks) that they couldn't pull it out. "Now we'll just have to be ready for New England. It's good for us to be playing these good teams because our players are learning all the time. One thing they have to learn is that they have to be able to deliver a knockout blow. Like when you're facing the heavyweight champion, you have to knock him out. The same when you're playing the Super Bowl champions."

High girls stroke to easy swim win

As expected, Manchester High girls' swimming team stroked to an easy 112-56 triumph over Enfield High yesterday in Enfield. The Indians now sport an unblemished 8-0 over-all mark and are unbeaten in six CCIL outings. Next start is Tuesday at Fern High in Enfield with the showdown Friday at 7:30 against Windham High with league honors at stake. Manchester won eight of the 11 events and swept three. Leslie Scott was a double winner, in the 200 free and 100 backstroke. Shelly Valentine, Diana Siebold, Carolyn Kukish and Bette Sheldon were also individual winners for the locals. Field hockey MANCHESTER HIGH Any hopes Manchester High's field hockey team had of qualifying for the state tournament were dashed yesterday at Hartford. The girls' team was outplayed by the Warriors marching towards CCIL honors. Manchester is now 4-4-2 for the season with only a Tuesday date at Wethersfield High remaining. It was scoreless after the first half but Hall got things together and scored five minutes after the break. Another tally followed later. Manchester's Jayvees fought to a 1-1 tie the Peggy Mulvaney scored her 10th goal in the season. The Warriors' goalie Deb Dawson made numerous outstanding saves to preserve the deadlock. The Jayvees stand 7-3-1 for the campaign. BASKETBALL Bennet's field hockey team dropped a 3-0 duke to Webb of Wethersfield at Mt. Nebo. Bennet is now 1-3-3 for the season. VOLLEYBALL MANCHESTER HIGH Powerful Simsbury High had too many weapons as it downed Manchester High, 15-13, 4-15, 13-15 and 2-15, in girls' volleyball action yesterday in Simsbury. Conard at East Hartford, 8-4 locals. Manchester exhibited a strong defense against the Simsbury spikers, but not enough overall. Simsbury also took the Jayvees contest, 15-3, 13-15 and 14-16. Jean Henning and Lauri Turkington were standouts for the Jayvees. EAST CATHOLIC East Catholic girls' volleyball team was pushed to the limit before winning. The Eagles downed E.O. Smith in Storrs yesterday by 5-15, 15-6, 11-15, 15-13 and 15-12 scores. Simsbury also took the Jayvees contest, 15-3, 13-15 and 14-16. Jean Henning and Lauri Turkington were standouts for the Jayvees.

Swimming program unusual for Eagles

Manchester's Jayvees fought to a 1-1 tie the Peggy Mulvaney scored her 10th goal in the season. The Warriors' goalie Deb Dawson made numerous outstanding saves to preserve the deadlock. The Jayvees stand 7-3-1 for the campaign. Bennet's field hockey team dropped a 3-0 duke to Webb of Wethersfield at Mt. Nebo. Bennet is now 1-3-3 for the season. Volleyball MANCHESTER HIGH Powerful Simsbury High had too many weapons as it downed Manchester High, 15-13, 4-15, 13-15 and 2-15, in girls' volleyball action yesterday in Simsbury. Conard at East Hartford, 8-4 locals. Manchester exhibited a strong defense against the Simsbury spikers, but not enough overall. Simsbury also took the Jayvees contest, 15-3, 13-15 and 14-16. Jean Henning and Lauri Turkington were standouts for the Jayvees.

What do youngsters have to go through to get to practice? For most, it occurs right after school and is in close proximity. It's an entirely different story, however, for members of the East Catholic girls' swimming team. They have to go to great lengths, at a most unusual hour, to get practice laps in. The two-year old program is run by Ralph Vitan, on a volunteer basis. Secondly, the Eagettes do not have a pool of their own, necessitating the use of facilities at Penney and East Hartford High Schools. Sessions are held in off-hours. It could be classified a minor accomplishment making practice in the wee hours of the morning. But attendance is virtually 100 per cent all the time. The girls climb out of nice warm comfortable beds heavy-eyed, trying to shake themselves awake at 5 o'clock. Traveling from South Windsor, Manchester and assorted addresses with car headlamps blazing is the norm. Attire for most is usually bathing suits and bathrobes, depending on the weather. That's not all they pack, though. What is could possibly fill a steamer's trunk. Breakfast (orange juice, pop tarts, Granola bars, etc.) must be eaten on the run. Then, after practice, the paraphernalia needed is astounding. The list, maybe partial, includes: hair dryers, curling irons, complete school uniforms (no excuse is accepted), toothpaste, toothbrush, shampoo, makeup, hair brush, school books, notebooks, etc. In addition, five - Siobhan Scalleigh, Kathy Viola, Julie Tucker, Kelli Dakin, Karen McCaffrey - are cheerleaders. That means a good case of cheerleading uniforms, pom-poms, shakers, smackers, whatever else is needed. It's more than an arduous for aught. And being late for school isn't recommended. Why do they do it, why all the sacrifice? Why do they do it, why all the sacrifice? One answer has to be they're dedicated, to the team and to the coach. Loyalty plays a major part. And what helps is having supportive parents. Guess who does the driving before the crack of dawn? What the girls tankers experience isn't unusual. But then again, they're not a usual bunch. How else could you describe them. And as someone noted, there has to be a message here. KINGSTON, R.I. Ivy League features quartet of top games

BOSTON (UPI) — Ghosts of Halloween's past could haunt the leaders this weekend when the Ivy League race turns into a witch hunt. Harvard, one of the three co-leaders, faces Brown, a team that spoils the Crimson every autumn. Yale, also 2-1 in league play, is at Cornell against Bob Blackman's winless but scary Big Red team. Dartmouth, also knotted atop the circuit, faces an erratic Columbia squad that bewitched unbeaten Colgate offensively last week. Waiting to count the fallen bodies will be the winner of the Princeton-Penn game. "This league really has tightened up this year to a point where there are no easy games anymore," said Dartmouth Coach Jake Crouthamer. With three league games remaining, any one of six teams stands a reasonable chance of winning the title that was shared last season by Brown and Yale. Brown, 2-2 in the league, must start its charge Saturday by beating Harvard for a second straight year. The Bruins know they have no treat in store, dealing with Harvard's tricky offense and potent defense. "Harvard has the best talent in the league," Coach John Anderson said this week. "Defensively, I don't think there's a better team quality-wise. Nobody in the league plays man-to-man coverage the way they do. We

Leading Big Eight backs displayed on same field

NEW YORK (UPI) — The two best running backs in the Big Eight Conference, Terry Miller of Oklahoma State and I.M. Hipp of Nebraska, will display their considerable talents on the same field Saturday when the Cowboys take on the Cornhuskers before a sellout crowd at Stillwater, Okla. Nebraska, ranked 10th in the nation, and Oklahoma State, rated 18th, are both 2-1 in Big Eight play, tied for second place with Iowa State behind 3-0 Oklahoma. Overall, OSU is 4-3 and Nebraska is 5-2 and history is on the side of the Cornhuskers. Nebraska has dominated OSU over the years, with a record of 14-2-1. Nebraska has won 14 of the last 15 games between these two teams including last year's contest, as the Cornhuskers came from behind to win 14-10. Last week Nebraska registered its most impressive victory of the season, defeating previously unbeaten Oklahoma State 35-15 as Hipp ripped through the Colorado defense for 172 yards. Oklahoma State, meanwhile, breezed by Kansas 21-0 as Miller rushed for 48 yards and became the most prolific runner in Big Eight history. Miller now has a career total of 4,117 yards rushing, breaking the record of Oklahoma's Joe Washington

Perfect Denver slate on line with Raiders

NEW YORK (UPI) — Throughout their 17-year history, the Denver Broncos have never been able to rise above mediocrity. They have managed only three winning seasons and none of those was good enough to earn them a spot in post-season competition. But six games into the season, the Broncos have not only shown themselves to be a good, solid team — they've reached perfection. Along with the Dallas Cowboys they are the only undefeated club, having won their first six games. Although it's still a bit early to be thinking playoffs, only a major collapse will stop the Broncos from extending their season. And the Broncos will get a taste of a playoff-like atmosphere this Sunday, when they take on the defending champion Oakland Raiders at the Mile High Stadium. "The pressure from without doesn't bother me," said Devere's wide receiver — Cliff Branch, Fred Biletnikoff and Mike Siani — have combined for only 34 catches, just three more than tight end Dave Casper has managed on his own. In addition to Casper, fullback Mark Van Eggen has been having a sensational season, as he leads the AFC in rushing with 384 yards. "This is our seventh game of a 14-game season," Oakland coach John Madden said. "Sure, what happens WASH. (UPI) — The biggest thrill in winning, if I had not broken the record and we would have won, I would have been happy. If I had broken the record, but we had lost, I wouldn't be nearly as happy. It's a good feeling for me. I know there have been a lot of good backs and I think you've got to look at all of the circumstances they play under. I'm really not an emotional guy, but there was a feeling down inside of pride." Miller is now the third-leading

Dick O'Connell noncommittal on ugly part of his dismissal

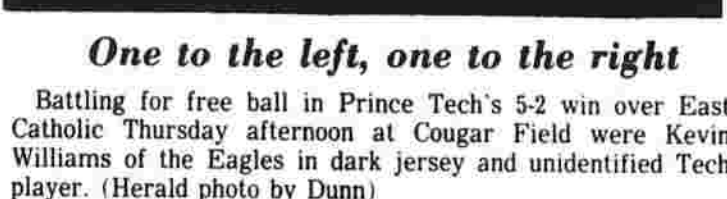

BOSTON (UPI) — Dick O'Connell doesn't want to make any comments on the ugly part of his dismissal. It's enough for him to know he's no longer part of the team he's been associated with for 31 years. "O'Connell, fired Monday as the Boston Red Sox general manager, said he felt better than I did yesterday," O'Connell said. "As a matter of fact, I don't seem to have the worries I had in the last few months. It's just been very good at the present time. What the future holds, I do not know. "He said he could see his firing coming when Yawkey died in July 1976. "I was friendly with Mr. Yawkey and the like," he said. "I'm happy to be back in baseball, and I'm happy to be in this area. "It's not that easy to go somewhere else. It would take a lot of

North Stars cry at Bruins' play

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota North Stars, in a protest to the National Hockey League, have blamed Boston Bruins Coach Don Cherry for inciting stick-swinging fights in their Wednesday night game. Club President Gordon Ritz also accused rookie referee Denis Morel of "inept officiating" and asked that he be barred from future Minnesota games at Met Sports Center. Ritz said Friday a video tape of a game, which the North Stars won 3-0, was an outrage to Brian O'Reilly, NHL executive vice-president in charge of discipline. Ritz claimed that Cherry was the "cheerleader urging his players on," and that Morel could have avoided the brawl near the end if he ejected Cherry. Cherry replied: "If I had a chicken club like that, I'd complain to everybody, too. They need all the help they can get. Everybody hates us and they're all out to get us. "The first fight broke out in the first period between Brian John Wensink and North Star Tom Rennie and was aggravated when Boston's Terry

Willhide supports career education

Paul Willhide, a Republican candidate for the Manchester Board of Education, has said that he supports career education - training students for the future. "Career education is more than just vocational or cooperative education. It is preparation for the roles of adulthood - wage-earner, consumer, family member and citizen - in the broadest sense," he said. Such education starts in kindergarten and continues through a person's life. It involves the relating of training to work and life experiences, Willhide said. He believes that such career education can be incorporated in the

Seafood Salute to the Gulf

Truly an American bicentennial birthday celebration is a Seafood Salute to the Gulf. From the Cajun, French, Black, American Indian and Mexican cooks developed recipes using fish and shellfish from the Gulf of Mexico to create what would become Southern American traditions. From the Rappahannock River in Virginia, following the coastline south to the Florida keys, back up into the Gulf, past the mouth of the Mississippi, to the tip of the Texas coast at the Rio Grande, delectable seafood abounds. Two hundred years ago, new Americans favored the catch from the Gulf because of the flavor. Today its good nutrition and low calorie count are equally appealing.

Your neighbor's kitchen

By Betty Ryder

When the Child & Family Services in Manchester held its fund-raising luncheon recently at The Signature Restaurant in Hartford, members of the Signature restaurant, including Chef Galazzo, executive chef of Davre's Civic Center Restaurants. Chef Galazzo, who conducted the Cooking Class Luncheon, is in charge of the kitchens of the Signature, the Promenade and the Asylum Bar and Cafe. He began his career more than 20 years ago at the internationally renowned cooking school at La Spezia, Italy. From there he worked in numerous restaurants on the Italian Riviera before coming to the United States in 1964. For the next 10 years, Chef Galazzo worked in restaurants in the New York area, familiarizing himself with American cooking and American tastes. During this period, he also managed to travel extensively, working on cruise ships where he distinguished himself as a master at the preparation of banquets featuring specialties of international cuisines. He began with Davre's at the International Cafe in Kansas City, Mo. He moved to Hartford and was named executive chef of Davre's Civic Center Restaurants since August 1976. Chef Galazzo is currently conducting Cooking Class Luncheons every Tuesday at noon at the Signature at which time he demonstrates the art of six different international cuisines: French, Spanish, Greek, Italian, Mexican and American. At each session, he shows the secrets of making a good appetizer, a delicious entree and a superb dessert. Classes will continue through Nov. 14. Here are the recipes for this Greek cuisine: Achala-Clausau Ouzo-Stuffed Eggs. Hard boil 6 eggs and separate the yolks from the whites. Make a smooth paste of the yolks with 1 tablespoon ouzo. Blend into the paste 1 tablespoon parsley and a pinch of mint. Fill the egg whites with the mixture and top with a dash of finely chopped parsley. Arrange on a platter and garnish with fresh water-cress. Chicken Breasts with Feta Cheese. Bone and skin 4 chicken breasts, and pound until very thin. Dredge them lightly in flour and saute in olive oil until tender. Season lightly with salt and cayenne pepper. Place breasts in a shallow baking dish and top with 3 or 4 previously sauted, thinly sliced mushrooms. Cover each breast with one piece of thinly sliced feta cheese. Put in a hot broiler until cheese is melted. Serve immediately. Yogurt with Honey. Blend in 1 cup of honey with 1 tablespoon grated orange rind and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind and then stir in 1 tablespoon marmalade wine. Beat with a whisk (or use an electric blender) until smooth. Add to the mixture 1 tablespoon orange juice and 1 teaspoon lemon juice and continue beating until frothy. Blend in 1 quart plain yogurt and stir until well mixed. Chill in a mold or in individual dessert cups until very cold. Chef Galazzo also suggests Zuppa Alla Pavesese when dining in the Italian manner. Zuppa Alla Pavesese. Saute four slices of Italian bread both sides until golden brown. Place the breaded bread slices in individual soup bowls. Poach four eggs and gently place each one on top of the bread. In a separate sauce pan heat 3 cups of chicken stock (either fresh or canned) to the simmering point. Sprinkle the eggs with 1 tablespoon each of imported freshly grated Parmesan cheese. Pour the stock into each of the soup bowls and serve at once. If you fancy Spanish cuisine, try the chef's Murcian Salad. Rub a large wooden bowl with some garlic. Put a layer of shredded lettuce in the bowl, and then alternate layers of diced green peppers, peeled and diced cucumbers, finely chopped onions, chopped, peeled and seeded tomato. Make a vinegar and oil dressing consisting of 2 tablespoons olive oil with 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, a dash of salt and a dash of sugar. Shake thoroughly and pour over the salad. Cover the salad and refrigerate for about 2 hours.

Chef Galazzo instructs a class.

Mrs. Marian Turkington at her desk at Savings Bank of Manchester.

Mrs. Turkington notes 25th year in banking

She came for a year and stayed for over a quarter of a century. That describes the career of Marian Kilpatrick Turkington who celebrated her 25th anniversary at the Savings Bank of Manchester Oct. 27th.

It was on Oct. 27, 1952, that Mrs. Turkington joined S.B.M. as a mortgage clerk. She says, "I had planned to work for one year to buy things for our new home... but I got used to the paycheck and the one year turned into twenty-five."

Mrs. Turkington has stayed with the mortgage department throughout her banking career. "I like having personal contact with the customers, helping them buy new houses," she says, and adds, "I especially like to share in the excitement of helping young couples buy their first home."

Married to Austin Turkington, who retires shortly from the U.S. Post Office department, Marian is the mother of two girls, Carol Shroyer of Coventry and Karen Lewis of Bolton, and she has five grandchildren.

In four years Mrs. Turkington will take early retirement and join her husband in their favorite activity, traveling.

Although the Turkingtons have traveled during every vacation, their next trip may be their most memorable. They have been selected as two of the 400 Connecticut people to represent this country in President Carter's program called the "Friendship Force."

They will soon learn which country the Connecticut people will visit as "ambassadors of the United States." As Mrs. Turkington says, "It's a perfect way to celebrate her 25 years at the Savings Bank of Manchester."

Surgeon now fellow
Dr. Harvey A. Kahaner of Manchester became a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons (FACS) recently at the Dallas Convention Center in Texas.

Dr. Kahaner, an ear, nose and throat specialist, was appointed to the medical staff of Manchester Memorial Hospital in 1971. He came to Manchester earlier that year.

A native of New York City, Dr. Kahaner received his M.D. degree from Tufts University School of Medicine. He served his internship at Brookdale Hospital Center, Brooklyn, N.Y., and residency at Washington Hospital Center, Washington, D.C. He also served with the U.S. Army.

Coffee drop hurts

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) - General Foods Corp., the nation's largest coffee roaster, says lower coffee prices and a drop in worldwide consumption attributed to a 37 per cent decline in 1977 second-quarter earnings.

General Foods reported earnings for its second quarter ending Oct. 1 fell to 57 cents a share from 90 cents a share despite a 9 per cent rise in sales to $1.19 billion from $1.10 billion in the same quarter last year.

General Foods had a loss on its coffee operations in the second quarter, but the company's non-coffee products showed an increase in profitability.

James L. Ferguson, chairman and chief executive, said Wednesday global coffee sales dropped 30 per cent in the second quarter from the year-ago level because both consumers and grocery retailers are keeping less coffee in stock in anticipation of lower prices.

Ferguson also cited a decline in worldwide coffee consumption.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why are some people always late? I know two—a man and a woman. The woman has no excuse whatsoever because she has no job, no children and all the time in the world. The man is self-employed, and his reputation for tardiness is so well-known that when he makes an appointment it is assumed that he will be anywhere from half an hour to an hour late—and he always is. He has never been known to apologize for his lateness. My time is every bit as valuable as anyone else's, and I resent being kept waiting. Why, oh why, are some people always late?

DEAR HATES: Show me a "latenick" and I'll show you a person who is selfish, inconsiderate and emotionally immature. Like children, they live in a timeless world, and they couldn't care less about the inconvenience they cause others. Occasionally, one who is meticulously punctual will be made late through no fault of his own. But those who are chronically tardy are invariably immature and inconsiderate in other ways.

DEAR ABBY: When I recently extended an invitation for an 8 o'clock dinner at my home to a couple we know and like, she said, "May we bring our children?" They are 5, 7, and 9. I said, "I am sorry, but this party is for grownups. I'll have the children another time when we plan a cocktail." She became very angry and said, "Well, if our children are not welcome, don't count on us!" Then she slammed the telephone down on my ear.

DEAR HOSTESS: I'm with you. CONFIDENTIAL TO BITTER AND DESPERATE IN BIRMINGHAM, ALA.: In my sister's kitchen in this famed philosophical gem—outdoor unknown. Perhaps it will help you. "Life is easier than you think. All you have to do is accept the impossible, to without the indispensable. And bear the intolerable. (And be able to smile at anything.)"

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Win at Bridge

Use finesse from beginning. Instead, he led the ace to guard against a possible singleton queen in the West hand. Not that a club trick won by West would hurt South. South could not lead a spade successfully.

ANYWAY, South played the club ace. In the second club play, the king of clubs and jack of clubs. East took his queen, led a spade and it was his time.

BEFORE a hundred readers write in to tell us that South could still make his contract after displaying the clubs, we know that he could have done just that.

HE SHOULD simply cash the red aces-kings and throw West with the seven of hearts. West could take whatever hearts he still held, but would then have to play a spade and give South a trick with the queen.

There was nothing wrong with South's three-trump contract except it turned out that South didn't come close to making it.

AFTER the spade lead he could be sure of nine tricks if he could bring in four clubs without letting East into the lead. Hence, he should have played a low club from dummy at trick two and finessed in his hand back to the board with the ace of clubs and a second finesse to bring in all five clubs.
