3 nabbed in holdup

An armed robbery at the A-1 gasoline station on East Center Street Monday night resulted in the apprehension of three men after a chase into the Wapping area of South Windsor involving three police departments, state police and tracking dogs.

Manchester Police arrested Joseph Brian Dupre, 20, Steven M. Ouellette, 16, both of Fall River, Mass., and Michael M. McCarthy, 27, of East Hartford, all on charges of first-degree robbery, second-degree larceny and third-degree larceny. All three were being held on $25,000 bonds for presentation in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford today.

Police described the incident as follows: Three white males entered the station about 9:30 p.m. One was armed with a shotgun. They demanded money and took an undetermined amount from the lone attendant and left the scene.

Shortly after, Officers John Marvin and John Hanley of the Manchester Police Department observed a car with New Jersey registration plates carrying four white males, three of whom matched the descriptions from the robbery.

Attempts to stop the vehicle failed and resulted in a pursuit along Tolland Turnpike, Deming Street and into South Windsor where the suspects stopped and fled on foot into a swampy area with dense woods and underbrush. One suspect was apprehended almost immediately by Officer Marvin. The other three fled into the field.

A search was arranged involving about a dozen Manchester Police officers, South Windsor and Coventry Police, state police and two state police tracking dogs and one dog from Coventry Police. A second individual was apprehended about a half hour later and the third shortly after midnight.

The arrests were the result of excellent police work and excellent cooperation between police department, according to Manchester Deputy Chief Richard Sartor.

The investigation will be continuing and further action is expected, Sartor said.

Police also said the car in which the suspects were apprehended was stolen from Fall River, Mass., last Wednesday. The second-degree larceny charge is in connection with the stolen vehicle.

Water policy in region said lacking

BOSTON (UPI) — Federal water policies do not adequately address New England's water pollution and control problems, according to Massachusetts Secretary of Environmental Affairs Evelyn Murphy.

Federal programs do not include funds to rehabilitate older water supply and sewage systems, Ms. Murphy said at a meeting in Washington, D.C., attended by Assistant Secretary of the Interior Guy Martin and Elliot Cutler, deputy director of the Office of Budget and Management.

Ms. Murphy said the meeting "was an initial step designed to make the federal government aware of New England's interest in reforming water policies."

Ms. Murphy said other problems with current national water policy included:

- Inadequate and inflexible federal funding of water programs;
- Lack of federal support for a comprehensive water management system;
- Inconsistencies in cost-sharing arrangements between states and the federal government.

The meeting also included delegates from New York, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Delaware. They are seeking federal funds for maintenance of the old water supply systems.

They discussed their problems with Martin who is preparing a report to President Carter on a new national water policy. Carter requested the report in his May environmental message and plans to announce a policy, possibly to include new laws or legislation, in February.

In addition to funds for maintenance of older water supply systems, the group asked the government to move away from "structural" solutions to water problems—such as building dams—and toward other options such as helping communities buy wetlands or watersheds.

The delegation told Martin the states were fortunate that heavy rainfall has boosted water supplies because some systems, such as Boston's, lose almost one-third of their supply through leaks.

Theodore Hullar, deputy commissioner of the New York State Environmental Conservation Department, said it is fortunate for New York City that weak links in the two century-old tunnels which supply water from the Catskill Mountains have not collapsed. He said the system has no backups and the result would be "a major water disaster."

Ms. Murphy said Boston uses 350 million gallons of water each day, yet its reservoirs in a drought year could supply only 300 million gallons of

Diet probe seeks links with deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has started an investigation into reports of several deaths among persons using the popular predigested liquid protein diets, it was learned today.

The deaths, which may number as many as 11, have not been confirmed as being directly linked to the diet fad, but the Food and Drug Administration said it is working with the Center for Disease Control to check medical records and autopsy reports, if any, to see if there is a link between the diets and deaths.

In some cases, an FDA spokesman said, the agency has been informed directly of suspected problems from the diet. Other cases under investigation were reported elsewhere, it said.

One case was reported by a doctor who had a relative whose death was supposedly linked to the diet, the agency said. "We are working with the CDC to investigate reports of several deaths associated with liquid protein diets," the FDA said.

In recent weeks the FDA has announced two recalls of predigested liquid protein products because they were packaged in bottles that were defective and could have caused bacterial growth.

At the same time the agency has been saying it questions the validity of the diet to do anything more than a simple restriction of caloric intake would accomplish. It also said it is concerned about persons using the diet without medical supervision.

"This has a rather high priority at FDA right now," the spokesman said of the agency's overall investigation into the products, their labeling and the claims made for them. "We are extremely concerned."

"We remain concerned about the use of these products without medical supervision," he said, adding that research is going on and if a usefulness for the diet is proven it would probably be "primarily for the management of extremely obese people under strict medical supervision."

The agency said there is now no scientific evidence that liquid protein diets have any value in weight reduction "over any other diet which involves the same amount of calories."

"We're not saying there have been or have not been deaths," the spokesman added. Eventually, he said, state health departments may be asked to cooperate.

In addition, the FDA is involved in a continuing investigation of the booming liquid protein market to make sure the products maintain the quality required by law.

Some doctors have said one potential danger from the diets under unsupervised conditions could be a reduced level of potassium, which can result in an irregular heartbeat.

Blaze of glory

PORTAGE, Mich. (UPI) — Monday was Fire Chief Jake Mein's last day on the job, and he went out in a blaze of, er... glory.

Shortly after midnight, the 65-year-old firefighter was called to the parking lot of a local factory where a three-holed outhouse was engulfed in flames.

water daily. Meanwhile, she said, the system loses 90 million gallons of water every day due to leaks.

Dan Varin, chief of the Rhode Island planning program, Department of Administration, said some federal policies — such as a new Housing and Urban Development Department insurance plan for homes in flood-prone areas — actually have induced development in flood plains and contributed to the New England area's heavy flood losses.

"Bankers are saying they are giving loans for year-round homes in areas they never would have considered without the federal insurance program," he said.

Fire union board backs Democrats

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The executive board of the union that represents Town of Manchester firefighters has endorsed the Democratic party's slate for the Town Board of Directors.

The endorsement is from the union officers, who make up the executive board. No vote of the entire union was taken or is planned, Robert Martin, president of the union, said.

The move by the union leaders has drawn a strong reaction from local Republicans, including GOP Town Chairman Thomas Ferguson, who said that the endorsement "grossly distorted the stand of the Republican party."

This is the first time the executive board has ever been involved in a political endorsement, Martin said. He said that the action was taken because of the controversy surrounding Buckland.

Buckland is the area of Manchester that is the subject of the fire jurisdiction case between the town and the Eighth Utilities District.

The town constructed a firehouse in Buckland, a move that has been criticized by the Republican Party. "The Republican Party, calling itself the party that responds, is not responding to the best interests of Manchester but rather to the requests and whims of approximately 15 percent of the population, the area known as the Eighth Utilities District," Martin wrote.

"They advocate giving town property (and tax money away to the district," he said. The Republicans on the Board of Directors had not supported an appeal of the Superior Court decision in favor of the district. That appeal, favored by the Democratic members, is now in process. Martin also commented this morning that some Republican candidates have said that the Buckland firehouse would be traded to the district if the town loses its appeal.

Ferguson said this morning that the Republicans' position is that building the firehouse before the court case was completed was "an irresponsible act." "The statement of the firemen's union indicates that the Republican party has taken a stand which favors the Eighth District. This is a gross misstatement of fact which would tend to inflame a local issue which has not been in question during this election year," he said.

Benjamin Civiletti revealed Parker had refused to bind himself to the plea agreement and could impose a jail sentence if he so decided.

The charge said Helms on two occasions "did refuse and fail" to give the committee full facts about CIA efforts to prevent the election of Chile's late Marxist president, Salvador Allende, in 1970.

Facts turned up later revealed the CIA funded and engaged in propaganda and directly and indirectly financed various Chilean individuals and groups opposing Allende's campaign, the Justice Department said.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker was believed preparing to sentence Helms in a day or two. Assistant Attorney General

Manchester Democratic Town Chairman Theodore Cummings has challenged a statement by Cummings Town Manager Robert Weiss has sought a nine to 10-mill tax increase.

The final budget, passed by the six Democratic directors, had a mill increase of slightly more than two, he said. (The three GOP directors abstained from voting on the budget because they felt it was unbalanced and that they had not been consulted in the final decisions.)

Dollar takes a beating

By United Press International - The U.S. dollar took another beating in the world money markets today, again losing to the British pound and hitting a postwar low against the Japanese yen.

The British pound, which London allowed to float Monday, began rising in early trading today and gained three cents to reach $1.86 before falling back and holding steady at around $1.8540.

Amnesty Day

It is let your conscience be your guide time again in Manchester.

On Nov. 5 and 6, citizens are invited to return—with no questions asked—street signs, traffic signs, books, construction barrier lights, traffic cones, and any other town-owned property that you may have borrowed during the past year.

Initiated for the first time last year, the project did enable many citizens to clear their consciences by dropping off many of the items mentioned and others at the firehouse during Amnesty Days.

The project is sponsored by the MOTION Committee of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce as a means of cutting the demand for tax dollars.

The committee said that vandalism and theft of public property in Manchester costs the taxpayers $142,840 in the 1976-77.

So bring the stuff in folks. No questions asked.

P. S.—Wouldn't it be nice if Amnesty Days did not become an annual event because vandalism and theft did not occur?

A dog and purse act

Sometimes the most fascinating stories in the news are the shortest ones.

A wire dispatch, all of 15 lines long, told the tale of a purse-snatching bulldog in Cincinnati the other day.

Seems the animal jumped on a bus at a stop, darted to the rear and grabbed a passenger's purse. Other riders yanked it away from the beast, whereupon it seized another purse. When this, too, was retrieved, the dog ran from the bus and disappeared in a nearby yard. End of story.

Was this just one of those crazy things that happen? Or does there lurk somewhere in Cincinnati a sinister canine-coaching Fagin who schools innocent pups in the crafts of thievery?

We'll probably never know—unless the bested bulldog strikes again.

Racial democracy

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON—This is the time of the American winter's annual purgatory on earth. First the regular-season games, then the playoffs, and then the presumptuous Super Bowl will keep some 50 million fans glued to the tube at the National Football League dawdles to the end of its violent whodunit.

Since nothing can be done about it (fortunately for this gridiron boob), we all might make the best of this fascinating lunacy by approaching it as a sociological exercise. Don't go away. I'm not about to turn cartoonish shriek and discuss the impact on Ken Stabler's position on free silver of a dropped pass.

But I suggest that all these games tell us something good about racial democracy. I have made no head count, but it would be impossible to dispute the assertion that a whopping number of the stars seen in this round-robin display of legalized thuggery wear black skin.

Outstanding players
It is a happy coincidence. None of those players made it with his team because he was black. All of them made it because they were, and are, outstanding football players. There is no racial tokenism involved, no quota system. No black wears an NFL uniform because a civil rights law was invoked.

Unlike some of our leading politicians, the NFL's bosses didn't get together and decide they had to have some blacks on their teams. They turned a lot of young men loose on their practice fields and let the better players win.

The attitude of these absolute dictators was a simple and pragmatic one, best expressed by a specially luminous colleague, the late Vince Lombardi.

"I want to win," said Lombardi when he was coaching Green Bay. "I don't give a bleep if everybody on the team is polka dot." Certain New Leftists might recall the Lombardi was of Italian origin the next time they accuse so-called "ethnics" of racism.

True, it has taken time. It was only in a relatively recent year that Jackie Robinson became the first black player in major league baseball, and for a long time a black professional football player was a member of a conspicuous minority. But it has happened. Today, when one thinks of baseball, one cannot overlook the Reggie Jacksons, the Hank Aarons, and the Jim Rices. Almost all the stars in pro basketball are descendants of African immigrants. Indeed, it should be argued that professional sports is the only field of American endeavor in which there is absolutely no discrimination because of race. As the '76 Presidential campaign revealed, there is still a self-consciousness on the part of many whites. On one side, the black was championed because he was black; on the other, he was often neglected for the same reason.

Strict merit system
Sure there are some black and white cliques on sports teams. That's because athletes are just as human as WASPS who prefer the company of WASPS and Poles who socialize with Poles. But a lot of blacks and whites are on-the-road roommates, which is more than you can say for the crowd at the Federal Reserve System or General Motors.

Anyway, the question of palship off the field is irrelevant. It has nothing to do with Sam Cunningham's capacity for averaging four yards per carry. Instead, I suggest that from the White House on down the country's leaders would do well to learn from the experience of professional sports and opt for a strict merit system.

If, that is, they really want to win the biggest ball game.

Candidates meeting set for Wednesday evening

One week from today the voters of Manchester will select the people who will make governmental decisions affecting all of us for the next two years. There are 13 candidates running for the nine seats on the Board of Directors. We will each be asked to choose from this group of 13 candidates the six people we feel will do the best job.

How well do we feel we know these 13 people—their political philosophies—their positions on the issues? Do we feel that these 13 people know what concerns each of us most deeply about our town?

The Candidates Meeting tomorrow evening, Nov. 2, will give you an opportunity to meet all the candidates for the Board of Directors face-to-face, to hear and compare their views. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Iling Junior High School cafeteria. All 13 candidates will be present and available to answer our questions.

Those who wish may prepare questions in advance or materials will be available at the meeting to write questions addressed to any or all of the candidates. The Manchester Council of P.T.A.s, the League of Women Voters, and the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the meeting, believe that there is no substitute for the person-to-person contact it will provide.

I urge all Manchester residents to attend. Learn more about the candidates. Let them know what is on your mind.

Sincerely,
Rebecca D. Jananda,

Saints among us
All Saints' Day, which is celebrated today in many churches, is a special day on the Christian calendar for remembering those holy people from the past who were canonized by the church. We picture them in our minds' eyes, adorning the carvings, statuary or stained glass windows of churches and cathedrals.

But when we read Paul's letter to the Philippians 1:1, "To all the saints in Christ Jesus who are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons," and again in his letter to the Colossians, 1:2, "To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ at Colossae," we see that it is the ordinary Christian followers of his day that he addresses as "saints." What made them special

Last Tuesday night's forum for Manchester Board of Education candidates was a worthy event and provided a fine opportunity for residents to listen to the people who they will be electing Nov. 8.

The three sponsoring agencies—the League of Women Voters of Manchester, the Manchester Council of Parent Teachers Associations and the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce—deserve credit for organizing the event.

The only disappointment of the night was the turnout—an audience of about 70 showed up at Iling Junior High School for the two-hour session. While the attendance figure was enough to provide a lively session, it still left plenty of empty seats in the room.

The three agencies will hold a similar event Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Iling for the 13 Board of Director candidates. Hopefully, there will be a larger turnout for the Wednesday get-together.

The speakers are asked to abide by short time limits for speaking, and the event provides a chance to see and hear all the candidates in two hours.

The Tuesday session, moderated by Nancy Carr, provided a good balance among the eight candidates. No one candidate dominated.

Questions from the audience were written on cards and screened by members of the sponsoring groups to avoid duplicate questions.

The audience, while on the small side, was an active one. Several questions were answered and at 9:30 p.m., the announced finishing time for the session, there were still about 50 questions that had not been asked. These questions will be typed and sent to the candidates who may use them for future campaign purposes.

Anyone who doubts the capabilities of town employees should step into the town clerk's or registrars' of voters offices about this time of the year. An election multiplies the work load in these two offices, but the employees, with some outside help, manage to get the election work done and still keep up with the day-to-day job demands.

Abortion protesters face charges

NORWICH (UPI)—Six persons face criminal trespass charges for refusing to leave a planned parenthood clinic where they tried to convince women against having abortions.

Demonstrating to "protect mothers and their unborn children," the six were arrested Monday when they refused to leave the Case Street office of the Planned Parenthood League of Connecticut.

The 9 a.m. demonstration had no effect on operations at the clinic. A spokesman for the league said 14 scheduled abortions were performed at the clinic later in the day.

The incident was the first reported case of anti-abortion activism in Connecticut and was similar to a demonstration in a Virginia clinic where six persons were arrested last May. Trespassing charges were eventually dropped by a judge who ruled the protesters believed they were trying to save lives.

Charged with criminal trespass were: Siski, John Cavanaugh O'Keefe, 27, of Windsor; Jeanne Miller, 47, of New Haven; June O'Donnell, 47, of Enfield; Linda Kovalanka, 30, a registered nurse from Montville, and Burke Balch, a New York University law student from New York City.

Ms. Kovalanka was also charged with breach of peace. All were released without bond by Court of Common Pleas Judge William S. Ewing Jr. for a further hearing Nov. 14.

The demonstrators were carried by Norwich police as 20 other protesters who said they belonged to the Ad Hoc Right to Life Committee paraded outside the clinic.

Warren Goddard, a committee member, said the demonstration was held in hopes that officials of the clinic would cancel abortions scheduled for the day.

"We have come to the clinic to protect mothers and their unborn children. We wish to counsel and support any woman who may desire our help," he said.

A spokesman for the league said later, however, the 9 a.m. demonstration was staged while contraceptive servicing was going on. She said 14 abortions were performed at the clinic in the afternoon.

Another demonstrator, Maryann Lawler, said those arrested had tried to counsel young women inside the clinic. She said, "We have a right to try to save the children's lives."

League President John U. White of Darien said the organization "will continue to provide its services to women who need it."

"We will take whatever measures are necessary to safeguard the privacy and freedom of choice of its patients (and) we will not permit trespassers to interfere with our right to operate our clinics," he said.

Syski was among six persons who tried to stop 18 abortions that were scheduled May 14 at an Amundale, Va., clinic.

On Oct. 17, General District Court Judge Lewis Hall Griffith upheld the claim the demonstrators acted on common law principles of self defense and necessity.

Griffith issued his ruling after the defense presented evidence by a pathologist who said life begins at conception. In its historic 1973 decision allowing abortion, the U.S. Supreme Court sidestepped the question of when life begins.

Judge names guardians in case

HARTFORD (UPI)—Three lawyers have been appointed guardians for three blind, deaf and retarded girls whose parents want them sterilized because they would be unable to cope with pregnancy.

U.S. District Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld previously had suggested guardians "for the better protection of all concerned in this matter." Counsel for the parents agreed and filed the motion which the judge implemented Monday.

He named James Wade, Richard Reynolds and Brenda Eckert, all attorneys with Hartford firms, and said he would file an order defining the roles and responsibilities of the guardians.

Blumenfeld set Nov. 21 as the date for a final hearing in the matter.

Judith Mears, counsel for the parents—two sets of mothers and fathers and a divorced mother whose names have been shielded by the court—said the parents believed the guardians would serve to ensure both fairness to all parties and the appearance of fairness.

Ms. Mears said the parents made the motion realizing the case has aroused considerable public interest and not from any conviction their interests are different from their daughters' or that sterilization would not be in their daughters' interests.

"But rather than a desire to put before the court the most complete exposition of the important legal issues raised by this case," she said.

The girls range in age from 12 to 15. Two are certified blind and deaf, the other has limited vision and is deaf. They are named in the court papers as Diamond, Ruby and Pearl.

The Manchester Community College Art Club will sponsor an informal lecture by Connecticut artist Kitty Winslow Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the art studio at MCC's Hartford Rd. building.

She will show slides, explain the development of her work, and answer questions.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Buying a used car

Many motorists avoid buying new cars in the belief that after a car has been used a year or two the original owner will have taken care of all the little, nagging problems that show up, as well as absorbing the heavy depreciation that is usual on new cars. Lower taxes may be another factor in the decision not to buy a new car.

Buying a used car can be personally satisfying and save you money; however, the deal can also end in frustration, financial loss and a threat to safety.

In shopping for a used car, be cautious and suspicious. Keep in mind that the previous owner had some reason for selling it.

Generally, your best buy in a used car is one that is only two or three years old. There are exceptions, of course. Look for the year and model you like and can afford, and when you find such a car, check the odometer to see how many miles it's been driven. A Federal law passed in 1972 makes it illegal for anyone to do anything that would cause a vehicle's odometer to show the wrong mileage.

Examine the car's exterior thoroughly. Look for rust, dents or evidence that portions of the car have rusted out and have been repaired using body putty. Be especially careful in examining areas around the bottom of the doors and the rear fenders.

Look under the car. Check for breaks in the frame or signs that the frame has been welded. Look for excessive rusting of the frame.

Avoid buying at night, in the rain or under any conditions that could keep you from seeing everything and examining the car thoroughly, inside and out.

Avoid buying where you are refused to test drive with you behind the wheel or if you're refused a request to allow your own mechanic to check the car.

Finally, be sure you understand the conditions of any written warranty that may come with the car. A car is a big investment, you should know what your money buys.

Betty's notebook

By Betty Ryder

It was a beautiful weekend, but I picked up a beautiful cold. We also picked up three puppies, or rather my daughter did.

It seems the pups were abandoned, along with several other animals at a home in the East Hampton area. Margaret and her friend, Carol Glenney, spotted a hungry, bloated puppy who was obviously suffering from malnutrition. She asked me could she bring it home. Just till it was better.

"Well, she arrived home and I said, 'Where is it?' And she cautiously answered, 'Well, mom, it isn't an IT it's a THEM.'"

She hurriedly explained that when she saw three pups she couldn't possibly just take one when the others were equally neglected.

Consequently, we have three lovely puppies available to loving homes. They are German shepherd and collie (we think) and have been to the veterinarian for a checkup. They are very affectionate—perhaps because they spent their first few weeks alone and out-of-doors, and answer to the names Flute, Jason and Jeremy. They are all males.

I checked with the Connecticut Humane Society and they, in turn, have removed some of the other animals, including five other dogs, several chickens and seven geese from the yard of the unoccupied home.

So, if anyone would like a little bundle of affection, please call me at 649-9223 after 4:30 p.m.

Jazz fans

If you like jazz as much as I do, you'd have loved hearing the Coon-Sanders Original-Nighthawks play impromptu music last Sunday afternoon.

The Connecticut Chapter of the club met at the Mataree Restaurant on the Berlin Tpk. and really played up a storm.

Gene Androle of 50 Parkview Dr., South Windsor, a big man with a big tuba who plays just about any kind of music was among the group.

Gene, who is a baker for the John Williams Pastry Shop in the Hartford Civic Center, played with the Shriner's Band, the Hartford Symphony and is well-known throughout the state for his Bavarian-style oompas.

Also met Ellsworth Newberry and his wife, Helen, of South Windsor; Ellsworth, an organist of note, operated an organ sales establishment in Hudson Valley, N.Y., for several years, before retiring recently.

Other jazzmen, who just walked up, instruments in hand and played along were Lucky LaChance, considered by his colleagues to be the best trumpeter playing in the state, John DeChesser of New Britain, whose imitation of Louis Armstrong singing "Hello, Dolly" made you do a double-take, and Norbert Saenger of West Hartford, group conductor and violinist, who gave a great rendition of "Estrellita."

When a couple of the men started playing the strains to "Caravan" other musicians just left their tables and walked up and joined in.

"We're not organized as far as the music is concerned, we just play right off the cuff," Saenger said.

Organized eight years ago, the Connecticut Chapter of Coon-Sanders Original Nighthawks began with 28 members and now has 300.

While the Sunday afternoon jam sessions are not open to the public, Pat Harrington, emcee for the group, said, "If people are really interested in our kind of music, they are welcome." Incidentally, he writes a syndicated column for many area newspapers.

The club's next jam date is Nov. 20, moved up a week due to the Thanksgiving holiday.

Charity Ball

Excitement is running high as the date for the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's Black and White Charity Ball nears.

The event, slated for Nov. 19 at The Colony, should be an exciting affair.

While black and white is the theme, it is not necessary for women to wear black and white gowns if they prefer not to. They may also wear a mask, if they wish, and

Moriarty opposes Hatch Act update

Manchester Mayor Matthew Moriarty has joined a national effort to block revision of the Hatch Act. The act, enacted in 1939, restricts federal workers from certain types of partisan political activity. The last session of Congress approved amendments to modify the act, but President Gerald Ford vetoed the proposed changes. Congress later sustained the veto.

Candidate has idea for drinking water

Stephen Cassano, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, has made three proposals that could provide safe drinking water almost immediately. He suggested that the town consider drilling community drinking wells in various parts of town. Several Manchester homeowners who have wells also have excellent water, he said.

Democrat asks for big voter turnout

Betty Intagliata, a Democratic candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors, has issued a statement urging all Manchester citizens to vote Nov. 8. She said that she has talked to many people who are not registered to vote or who do not plan to vote. She said that it is understandable that some people have a low opinion of the political scene with problems like Watergate and Koreagate.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE A BILCO DOOR MAKES

Here's the way to add new beauty to your home. Replaces that wooden hatchway with a modern, all steel Bilco Door. It's ruggedly built, weather-tight, and so easy for everyone in the family to use. What's more, it will make your basement more secure against intrusion. And it will pay for itself many times over by saving repair and replacement costs.

If your home was built without the convenience of a direct basement entrance, ask us for Bilco's new handbook "How to Add Valuable Space to Your Home."

Stop in and see our display. We'll give you free literature on how to do it. Or, we can suggest a man to install it for you.

Industry uses sun

WINDSOR, Vt. (UPI) - The One Blanchard Machine Co. has begun installing solar panels to heat its domestic water in what is believed to be one of the first industries in the state to use energy from the sun. Plant engineer Dean Osgood said Thursday its solar collectors will be installed in three sites at the plant. Although the project will not save much money, Osgood said, "We felt it will act not only as an experiment but to help energy conservation." The decision to convert to solar energy came while the plant was undergoing building expansion, he said.

WESTPORT (UPI) - Well southpaws, its almost here. The long-awaited left-handed monkey wrench. Aristera Left-Handed Products Inc. of Westport says the unusual tool will be ready for sale sometime early next year. "The wrench is still in the design stages," Peter Neiman, president of Aristera, said. "But basically it will have the worm gear reversed to make it easier for lefties to operate."

FBI joins taping probe

Vernon Frank McCoy, Republican candidate for mayor of Vernon has called on the FBI to investigate circumstances surrounding the discovery of tape recording equipment in the basement window of his Brookside Lane home.

McCoy said Monday night he had quietly called for the investigation but someone picked up his call to the police on a radio scanner and the news had gotten out.

He said since he decided to seek election to the office he held for three terms, before being defeated narrowly two years ago, he has been conducting campaign meetings in the basement of his home because it has been more convenient.

He said on Oct. 23 a meeting was held (the meetings have been on Sunday nights) and 15 or 16 candidates, campaign workers and some members of his family were present. He said a tape recorder, microphone, recording tape, extension cords and such were discovered outside the basement window of the ground and on the wall of his home.

He said parts of the Oct. 23 meeting and the Oct. 16 meeting were found on the tape.

He said he called on the Vernon Police Department to investigate and the following day the FBI entered the case and an investigation is currently in progress.

He said the FBI agents have been questioning people in the neighborhood, but he did not care to discuss the case at this time except to say that he and his family were very upset about the incident.

Sadloski seeks a debate

Betty Sadloski, Republican candidate for Manchester town treasurer, has challenged incumbent treasurer Roger Negro to debate.

Negro today said to letter to Mrs. Sadloski rejecting the idea "due to the lateness of the request."

Mrs. Sadloski said, "I have always believed an informed public makes wise decisions, and it is our duty to keep them informed."

She said that she would participate in the debate at any site and would like to do it within the next few days since the election is Nov. 8.

Negro responded that he has many commitments involving his campaign. He said that he felt it would be very difficult to line up a moderator and site and do the debate properly with just a week left before the election.

He called Mrs. Sadloski the request a "last-minute tactic."

Mrs. Sadloski said that she will be at Republican headquarters Thursday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. to answer any questions.

Police received reports of two robberies of Halloween candy from youths Monday night. One was an armed robbery near apartments on West Middle Turnpike across from Wickham Park in which two males, one armed with a knife apprehended an 11-year-old boy took his Halloween candy and fled into the park.

A 12-year-old girl was robbed of her Halloween treats by two black males who grabbed the girl's bag and knocked her to the ground, then fled in a car, police said. The incident occurred on Carpenter Road, about 8:45 p.m.

Police also received reports of Halloween candy which had been tampered with. In one substantiated incident, some pins had been stuck in a candy bar, police said. The other report of suspicious candy was not substantiated.

Police station bids sought The Town of Manchester is seeking bids on the first phase of work for the $700,000 renovation project at the police station.

The project will be funded by a federal Public Works Employment-Act grant. The grants were awarded for projects that would provide near-immediate employment.

Thus, a 90-day limit was set for starting work from the time the grants were awarded.

The 90-day period for the police station expires Dec. 11. Deputy Chief Richard Sartor, who has worked closely with the project, said.

The town will open bids for the first phase of work Nov. 17. This will leave less than a month to award the contract and begin work, a time frame that should be met.

The first phase includes site work and foundation construction, Sartor said.

Most of the project work, including above-ground construction of the 10,000-square-foot addition, will be included in the second phase of the project and will start in December.

Plans for the second phase of the project are expected to be presented to the Town Building Committee tonight.

The town received two other grants through the Public Works Employment Act. One is for sidewalk repairs, and bids have already been opened for part of that work. The other is for a drainage improvement project on Thompson Road.

Bids will be opened for Thompson Road on Nov. 28. Jay Giles, director of public works, said. The work will have to be started by Dec. 15 to meet the 90-day limit.

This could present some problems if the contractor has to have pipes for the work delivered. The town, however, does have some 42-inch pipes that it has not used, he said.

If necessary, these pipes could be used by the contractor to start the project on time and then reimbursed to the town later, Giles said.

Members of the Anderson-Shea Post and Auxiliary of Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Wednesday between 6:15 and 8:30 p.m. at the post home for a visit to Newington Veterans Hospital.

Vernon gets $$ for rental plan

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The U. S. Department of the Department of Urban Development through Connecticut Housing Finance Agency (CHFA) has set aside $517,740 in Section 8 rental assistance for elderly citizens of Vernon.

The funding is the key to the conversion of the former U. S. Envelope factory in Rockville, into apartments for the elderly.

Barkan Development Co. of Massachusetts plans to develop the former factory into 115 units of elderly housing. The notice of the rent subsidy money for the future tenants paves the way for Barkan developers, who also has CHFA reviewing a funding application from them. This would be in the way of a long-term financing project.

The announcement of the housing subsidy loan was received late Monday by Mayor Thomas Benoit, through the office of Congressman Christopher Dodd.

Louis Garfield, vice president of Barkan said it will cost from $25,000 to $30,000 to construct each unit but declined to say the price the firm is offering for purchase of the factory. He said the mortgage on the renovation will be about $3 million.

Mayor Benoit said the development of the factory will be another major step toward the revitalization of Rockville and will provide much needed housing for the town's elderly population. He said it will also tie in with other rehabilitation projects under way in town.

He said the town will now work with Barkan through its various commissions, and through this local review process the project will be refined to where it is in the best interests for all town citizens, but especially for the future of the elderly.

Bolton team has outstanding game

The Bolton Bulldogs senior pony football team beat the Lebanon Dolphins 45-0 Sunday at Herrick Park in Bolton.

The Bulldogs are now 7-1 for the season. Steve Everett ran for a touchdown, three touchdowns passes to Mike Boshnell and John Roach, kicked three extra points, ran for another conversion and threw a conversion pass to Mark Hopper. On top of all that, Everett tackled a Lebanon ball carrier in his end zone for a safety.

"An outstanding game," said Bulldogs Coach Steve Narsavage of Everett.

Brian Christie and Shannon Young both scored on 20-yard runs. Roach tallied the final Bolton TD on a pass interception.

Mike Bieu, Alan Butkus, Ray Myette, Mickey Chemerka and Mike Holbrook led the defense.

Midgets finish undefeated
The Bolton Tigers midget football team beat the South Windsor Imperials Sunday at Herrick Park in Bolton by 28-0.

Chris Morianos scored on runs of 45 and 43 yards. Charlie Anderson scored on runs of two yards and 40 yards. Morianos and Jim Wilson scored the points after.

Anderson, Bucky Taylor, Scott Arsenault and Scott Young were outstanding on defense, said Coach Gil Boissonneau.

The win means the Tigers have finished their third straight season undefeated.

The Tigers, champs of the Eastern Conference Southern Division, will meet the Glastonbury Tomahawks, Northern winners, in a championship game at the Glastonbury High School field Sunday at 2 p.m.

That game will be preceded by a ramer-up game between the Coventry Panthers and the Tolland Tornadoes at noon.

Principal's costume fooled most people

Andover
David Kravet, Andover Elementary School principal, will be very busy making ice cream sundaes for the 11 students who correctly guessed he would dress as a school bus for Halloween.

The winners were Chris O'Brien, Tracy Hutchinson, Judy Wirth, Ralph Jeanmotte, Joe Violette, Mindy Haganer, Brenda Heas, Jody Cady, Linda Bell, Ellen Anderson and Jandice Kilduff.

The most popular guesses were that Kravet would be either a book or a teacher. Each one was incorrectly guessed by 25 students.

Other guesses and the number of students making them were principal, 22; kid, 19; pencil, 16; school, 10; paper, 8; eraser, 8; desk, 7; chair, 7; bathroom, 4; clothes, 4; dictionary, 3.

Costumes receiving one guess each were school nurse, Miss Carter, God, builder who builds schools, Abraham Lincoln, Roadrunner, purple people eater, pencil and sharpener, sun, sink, recess, America, ape, aspirin and brain.

Altogether, 406 students guessed incorrectly. Kravet's hints to those guessing were, "Without this, we could not have school and lots of people see me every day."

Parent advice group will meet Thursday
Coventry
The Special Education Parent Advisory Council of Coventry elementary schools will hold a public meeting Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Capt. Nathan Hale School.

Daniel Turro, special education director in Regional School District 10, will speak on learning disadvantaged children from an educational perspective. A pediatric neurologist from Newington Children's Hospital will touch on medical perspectives for such children.

Area ballot asks charter revision

South Windsor

On Nov. 8 South Windsor voters will be asked to vote yes or no on four Town Charter revisions approved for referendum by the Town Council.

One proposed change deals with conflict of interest and requires that office holders record their financial interests in town affairs with the town clerk. This measure is to prevent possible conflicts of interest arising from business connections from affecting an official's seat on a board.

Another change would allow the sale of town-owned property (without going to referendum) for commercial or industrial purposes. The present charter states that land valued over $25,000 must go to referendum.

A third change would prohibit teachers and other full-time employees of the Board of Education who reside in town from holding elective office. They may serve on commissions and in other appointed offices.

The fourth change provides for routine "housekeeping" changes to bring the charter into conformity with present state statutes.

Democrats to roast mayor

Plans are now complete for the annual Democratic mayoral roast. Outgoing Mayor Sandy Bender will be "roasted" by her fellow Democrats Thursday at Manna Mia Restaurant on Tolland Pike, Manchester. Social hour begins at 6:30 p.m., a buffet dinner at 8, and the program festivities at 8:45.

Vinny Callahan will be the official roastermaster, and will be assisted by several roasters: Jim Thrope, Bill Young, Ed Lassman, Winifred Wison and Barbara Zelli.

Notes off the cuff

Will Hadden, general chairman for Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, sponsors of the annual Five Mile Road Race Thanksgiving morning in Manchester, has saved the envelopes forwarded by David Low to the race committee the past six years and will frame them in a grouping. Low is the young man with the artistic touch whose Old English penmanship appeared on each of his envelopes with his race entry enclosed since the 1972 race. This year, Low, a second-year medical student at Harvard, also used his gift hand on his check, plus his entry blank and envelope. Rockville High will honor Jay Ramadell, who will retire in June as superintendent of schools in Vernon, by naming the football field after him. A nice honor for a great guy. Saturday's football game in Enfield should be a honey when Enfield High entertains Manchester High. Both schools have yet to post a victory this season. The locals haven't been able to get a point on the scoreboard in their last four outings...Jack Redmond and Tom Routledge, prep for the Five Mile here, competed in the 10-mile road race Sunday at Wesleyan in Middletown...Marv Hubbard, former Hartford Knight and Oakland Raider running back, is now with the Detroit Lions in the NFL...Wall Nadzak, UConn football coach, won't win any trophies among the officiating fraternity until after his comments following defeat No. 8 in a winless season against Delaware last Saturday. It's pretty small potatoes when a coach blames the officials for a 28-0 loss.

Indian, Eagle runners qualify for state meets

Both Manchester High and East Catholic qualified for state class meets at yesterday's Eastern Sectionals at Eastern Connecticut State College.

Manchester won its sectional to qualify for the state Class LL meet. The Eagles took eighth place in their qualifying test to qualify for the state Class L meet.

Both will be run Friday afternoon at Timberline Golf Course in Berlin. The LL race is slated for a 1:45 start while the L Division race will have a 3:45 start.

Manchester totaled 69 points to finish ahead of North Haven 92, Conard 103, Norwich 104, Newington 133, Hall 210, Simsbury 216, Westfield 217 and Notre Dame of West Haven 217.

Individually, Wes Fedorchak was second, Ed Lemieux fourth, Dave Locke seventh, Dave Timbrell 86th, Paul Johnson 30th, Bob Michael 41st and John Laha 47th for the Indians.

The L sectional was taken by Xavier with a point total of 51. East Hartford High followed with 79, Waterford 111, Windham 114, Bulkley 159, Montville 163, St. Bernard 180 and East at 184.

Sophomore John Clifford took third place for the Eagles with a 16:46 clocking followed by Rick Walsh 17th, Dave Kittredge 48th, Pete Kiro 40th and Kevin Skehan 67th.

Giants' offense stalled in blanking by Cards

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — New York Giants defensive tackle John Mendenhall offered the St. Louis offensive line a compliment, in a backhanded sort of way.

"Their offensive line is good, but it's not the best," Mendenhall said after the Cardinals shut out the Giants, 28-0, Monday night.

Mendenhall and his New York cohorts had sacked Washington's Billy Kilmer six times in their last game and hoped to test the Cardinals' Jim Hart in like manner.

With both teams 3-3 and vying to stay in contention for a wild-card spot in the NFC East, a battle royal erupted in the second quarter when St. Louis safeties Tom and Dick Butler sacked Washington's QB Earl Fawcett for a 28-0 shutout over Texas Tech last weekend.

The top six teams retained their positions as all of last week's top 10 teams were victorious. Alabama remained in second with one first-place vote and 300 points; Oklahoma was third with 281, Ohio State held onto fourth with 257, Notre Dame, the only other team to receive a first-place vote, was fifth with 219; and Michigan was sixth with 177.

Penn State and Arkansas reversed positions, with Penn State moving into the seventh spot and Arkansas dropping to eighth, while Nebraska held onto the 10th spot.

The only new team in the top 10 was Pittsburgh, the defending national champion which moved into ninth place following its 48-0 victory over Tulsa, Texas A&M, No. 9 last week, dropped out of the top 10.

Rec volleyball loops to start

Twelve men's and eight women's teams will make up the adult Volleyball Leagues in the Recreation Department's indoor season.

Action in both loops will take place at Iling High with the men getting underway Tuesday night with six matches and the women staging four matches Wednesday night.

Opening games Tuesday pit the Leavitts vs. North Enders, Walkins vs. Dean Machine, ABA Tool vs. Tierney's, Pratt & Whitney vs. M.E.A., Inners vs. CBY, Economy Electric vs. Lloyd's Auto Parts.

Wednesday lineup lists Dolphins vs. Marlins, Sails vs. Oysters, Porpoises vs. Links, Moriarty's vs. Parris.

Asked about next season, he replied: "I told Calvin I didn't feel like managing expansion teams any longer. I want to Minnesota under the premise that we were going to win games. But if the team is going to be decimated by losing good players, maybe the premise I want to give is that I will see things develop in the next couple of weeks. I don't think I'm in a position where I have to be definitive."

The major shakeup in the Angels' front office with the hiring of E.J. "Buzze" Buzzi as the club's new executive vice president, a job Harry Dalton has held, touched off speculation that Garcia was also on the way out.

Reds' rebuilding program started

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds, whose hopes for a third successive National League pennant were dashed by a rash of pitching failures in 1977, have taken the first step to rectify that problem with the acquisition of veteran right-hander Bill Bonham.

But their off-season dealing may have just begun.

The Reds acquired Bonham from the Chicago Cubs Monday for hurlers Woodie Fryman and Bill Caudill, plus some cash.

After the deal was announced, Reds President Bob Howsam gave some indication his club may not be finished trading. "We'd like to take a look and maybe give some more depth to our relief staff. And we'd also like to see what we can do about improving our bench."

But he added, "This is not the start of a mass movement of players in the off-season."

Monday's trade was an attempt by the Reds to bolster their much-maligned corps of pitchers. In trading Fryman, Cincinnati got a 37-year-old veteran who would only play for them anymore. But they also gave up a promising young right-hander in Caudill, although he

Maucho sounded the Angels out about the job but Griffith denied California owner Gene Autry permission to talk to Maucho. "I wouldn't want Gene Autry to be put into a position of having to give compensation for me," said Maucho, who resides in the off season at Palm Springs, Calif. "My guess is that the thing is dead."

Asked about next season, he replied: "I told Calvin I didn't feel like managing expansion teams any longer. I want to Minnesota under the premise that we were going to win games. Garcia, by default, still Angels' boss

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dave Garcia, by default, is still the manager of the California Angels, but only because Angel owner Gene Autry couldn't pry Gene Mauch away from the Minnesota Twins.

That became obvious Monday night when Twins owner Calvin Griffith confirmed that Mauch, his manager for the past two seasons, has threatened to sit out the final season of his three-year contract in 1978.

"His heart was set on managing the Angels next year," Griffith said when he reached in Minnesota.

But the fact is he has a contract with me. I went out and paid dearly to get him. I'm aware of the fact that we've got a very unhappy manager. He's talking about sitting out next year. He's told me he'll give me a week to think it over and let me know."

Garcia, 57, became manager of the Angels just before the All-Star break last season after Norm Sherry was fired and was given a contract through 1978, but is reportedly not sure he'll be retained in that capacity.

The Angels were the biggest flops in baseball last season, finishing 28 games out of first place in the American League West with a 75-86 record. They were 36-46 under Garcia, who was the club's third-base coach at the start of last season.

Uninspired soccer defeat for Indians

Neither side seemed mentally prepared for yesterday's contest. Both qualified for the state tournament and had really nothing to gain.

It showed as Wetherfield High subdued traditional rival Manchester, 1-0, in an uninspired CCLL soccer bout at Memorial Field.

Despite the triumph the Eagles couldn't supplant the Triuk Towners in third place in the league standings.

Manchester is 8-2-3 with 46 points and closed the season Friday at home against Fermo. Wetherfield winds up 8-4-2 with 44 points heading into post-season play.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Paul Wiggins weeded through a mass of papers and notebooks stacked on his soon-to-be-vacated desk and pulled out a thick red binder that housed his diary of the 1977 football season.

He stood it on end at the corner of his desk and pointed to the dates scribbled on the side of the binder — July 18-October 31. Wiggins had been fired as head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs on the final day of his diary.

"I usually use two binders a season," said Wiggins. "Now they won't even have to buy me another one."

East is now 3-7-3 for the season with a final date Wednesday in Bloomfield against St. Thomas Seminary. Vinal now sports a 5-5-2 mark.

Both teams had scoring chances but the game was destined to be one open for the goalies as each came up with excellent saves.

Goalie Don Martin came up with some sparkling saves for East, finishing with 14. Sophomore fullback Jim Neiswanger and senior wing Kevin Williams also performed well.

Spurs outscore Suns

PHOENIX (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns picked an appropriate night to try a trick on the San Antonio Spurs.

The second best defensive team in the NBA, the Spurs came out running and shooting with the Spurs who rank fourth in offense.

San Antonio was almost too surprised to react, but hung on and scored a 145-143 victory in Monday's Halloween night encounter.

Executive of year awarded to Veeck

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Veeck, the old "music man" of the 1940s and '50s who returned after a 14-year absence from baseball to lead the Chicago White Sox back to respectability, today was named the UPI's major league executive of the year.

The 63-year-old Veeck was the choice of 16 of the 24 sports writers who participated in the UPI's annual post-season survey and won the award in a landslide vote. Gabe Paul, president of the New York Yankees, received two votes and six other executives got one each.

"I'm pleased," Veeck said when he learned that he had won the award. "But I can think of more deserving people."

Veeck then listed Business Manager Rudie Schafer, Treasurer Leo Green, Vice President Rowland Hemond and his wife, Mary Francis, as "ones who should share in the award."

"Rudie Schafer would really be a more logical choice," said Veeck. "He does all the work and I take the bows."

"I honestly believe this honor should go to a club instead of an individual," Veeck continued. "It's a team operation. The way I look at it is that I'm honored that the club won."

A promotional wizard, who has repeatedly offered the baseball establishment during a 44-year career in baseball. Veeck started out in baseball mulling out tickets for the Chicago Cubs' Ladies Day games.

"Then I branched out," he recalls. "I was a stockroom boy in the concession department. I sold concessions. I worked with the ground crew. I painted and cleaned up the park. I did everything but play shortstop. I was a lousy ballplayer."

Veeck enjoyed his greatest success with the Cleveland Indians from 1946 through 1949. The Indians, who hadn't won a pennant since 1920, doubled their attendance in his first year and set an attendance record in 1948. They capped that season by defeating the Boston Braves in the World Series.

Veeck, who also won a pennant with the White Sox in 1959 before ill health forced him out of the game two years later, returned to baseball in 1975. But the White Sox finished sixth in the American League Western Division and had a home attendance of only 91,945 in 1976. The White Sox were Western Division challengers until mid-August in 1977, however, finished third and had a home attendance of 1,866,135.

Sale of Red Sox poses problems

BOSTON (UPI) — Major League Players' Association Executive Director Marvin Miller says all he knows about the pending sale of the Boston Red Sox is what he's read in the newspapers, and that's enough to worry him.

Miller said Monday he wants the American League owners to meet with the players association on possible contract violations cropping up from the sale.

"I know nothing except what is in the press," he said. "The thing we are concerned about primarily is the dollar limitation on the payroll."

If the facts, as I understand them from the reports in the news are accurate, then we have some serious questions about the validity of this sale," Miller said.

Miller was responding to various stories about a loan from the State Street Bank to prospective owners Haywood Sullivan and Buddy Leffaux.

"According to what I have read, this sale, if approved, would enable the bank to limit the payroll," he said.

"Personally I am astounded that someone would try to make a deal like this, where the bank in effect would have any control over the player contracts," Miller said. "To me, it's nonsense and in violation of the collective bargaining agreement."

Miller said he has sent letters to the league's 23 other club owners and American League President Lee MacPhail's office, seeking a meeting prior to the Thursday gathering of owners to vote on the sale of the Red Sox.

"Under the basic agreements players have the right to refer contract disputes to binding arbitration," he said. "What happens if an arbitrator rules in favor of a player but the bank says the team can't make the payments?"

Council to hear citizens

Two East Hartford Citizen Action Group (EHCAG) members will address the Town Council tonight at 8 at the Town Hall. The groups are the Prospect-Center School Area Association and the Hockanum Area Association.

The Prospect group is seeking action concerning serious traffic problems on Prospect Street.

The Hockanum group will hear the council's response to their request two weeks ago for new playground facilities at the Hockanum School.

The associations are urging all the residents in the neighborhoods to attend the council meeting to support action on these issues.

East Hartford police report

Nicholas J. Dellaripa, 26, of 378 Burrside Ave., East Hartford was arrested at his home Monday at 8:26 p.m. and charged with assault on a police officer (four counts) and illegal possession of a controlled substance.

Someone complained to police about a fight at Dellaripa's home. The four police officers responding arrived to find Dellaripa armed with a club, police said. While he was being arrested, he struck or kicked the officers, police said. None received injuries requiring medical attention.

Police took Dellaripa to Manchester Memorial Hospital due to his erratic behavior, police said. There he gave police "a hard time" and was charged with interfering with a police officer, police said.

He was later sent to the state hospital in Norwich. He is being held on $10,000 surety bond there and is scheduled to appear in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford Nov. 21.

Harry Egazarian has concern about health

By MAL BARLOW
East Hartford Reporter

Harry A. Egazarian, Democrat, candidate for the East Hartford Town Council in the Nov. 8 election, is concerned about the health of East Hartford.

The owner of Pat's Medical Pharmacy at 1001 Main St. since 1963 listed the issues of most concern to him as the fall campaign comes to a close.

The mental and physical health of the town's residents living and working along town streets cluttered with highway through traffic bothers him the most.

The economic health of Downtown Main Street will also continue to suffer as long as the trucks pour through it, he said.

The town's moral health concerns him. He was pleased he was part of the council this fall which passed tough town laws on adult books and massage parlors. He praised Mayor Richard Blackstone (D) for his refusal to alter figures on the application for federal Community Development Act (CDA) funds.

"He could have lied just to get the money. But he didn't," said Egazarian. "I like that."

As a councilman, appointed in January to fill a vacancy, Egazarian said he will continue to work for the town's better health there also.

Into business

Egazarian said he wanted to go into business for himself in late 1962. He bargained for the Best Pharmacy then on Burnside Avenue. He was going to tell Gullotta about when the man became ill about Christmas time.

"I never did tell him," Egazarian said of his friend.

Gullotta's illness worsened. He went into a hospital. Egazarian ran Pat's from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. every day until the man's death March 15, 1963. Egazarian later bought the store from his estate.

"I couldn't work those hours today," he said.

Marilyn Egazarian worked with her husband in the store from 10 a.m.
