News summary

Howling winds piled up heavy snows from a surprise blizzard in towering drifts in South Dakota and spread through Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and Iowa Wednesday. The snow caused traffic accidents, power outages and school closings.

At least two persons were killed and two others were missing in the storm. An elderly man died of exposure in Fergus Falls, Minn., and two duck hunters were missing at a reservoir in western Minnesota. And in Thief River Falls, Minn., a man was killed when the bucket of a snow-loading truck fell and crushed him while he was shoveling snow.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut has received a $4.9 million grant to improve its criminal justice system for juveniles, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today.

The money from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration "will enable the Connecticut Justice Commission to initiate significant projects in the field of juvenile justice," Mrs. Grasso said.

Among the projects the money will be targeted for are a series of model community-level prevention programs and local support programs for "high risk" families.

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Emergency crews worked into the early hours of the morning trying to dissipate anhydrous ammonia liquid leaking from a ruptured, 33,000-gallon tanker, one of 35 cars from a Louisville & Nashville freight train that derailed late Wednesday.

When the tank car overturned it sent ammonia gas fogging through a wealthy residential area, killing one man. Sixteen other persons were hospitalized, four in critical condition. Police evacuated a 3-mile-square area along Escambia Bay.

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Astronomer Charles Kowal of Caltech discovered what he called a "mini-planet," for want of a better name in October and his announcement of the discovery this week set astronomers trying to determine just exactly what it is.

The object is from 100 to 400 miles in diameter, about one-sixth the size of Earth's moon — too small to hold an atmosphere or to be seen by backyard astronomers with mail order telescopes. "My first reaction is that I wish I knew what it was," said Professor Hyron Spinrad of the University of California at Berkeley.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Anthony Kiritis, who had been charged with kidnapping, armed robbery and extortion in the abduction of real estate executive Richard Hall last February, was found innocent by reason of insanity.

Wednesday he was turned over to the Indiana Department of Mental Health by a judge who ruled he is still dangerous. But, Richard Kiefer, one of Kiritis' lawyers, said he does not think any commitment could last more than three or four months and for that reason, his co-counsel Nile Stanton, said, there will be no appeal.

LONDON (UPI) — Labor is all a dither in England, because although the government adamantly defends its 10 percent wage ceiling in dealing with unions, the Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey announced Wednesday Queen Elizabeth was given a $522,000 pay raise, which amounts to 18 percent.

Willie Hamilton, a member of Parliament from the ruling Labor Party, attacked the action, saying the pay raise "is thumbing a nose at working-class people who are being asked to tighten their belts." And miners union president, Joe Gormley said, "They are making us all a bit more bloody minded than we are."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has granted the request of U.S. Roman Catholic bishops to lift the penalty of excommunication for Catholics who remarry after divorce, Archbishop Jean Jadot, apostolic delegate to the United States said today.

The U.S. bishops voted in May to petition the pope for removal of the excommunication penalty, imposed by the Plenary Council of Baltimore in 1864.

Carter says job answer is not easy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said today there is no easy answer to high unemployment because it is "a tedious, slow process" affected by a worldwide economic slowdown. He repeated his support for the concept of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill.

Carter said he would have an announcement on Humphrey-Hawkins "within the next few days," and hopes a final agreement will contain an anti-inflation clause as well as full employment provisions.

He said he hopes the White House and Congress can hammer out some differences in the bill and it can go to the House and Senate with his full support.

Unemployment has been hovering around the 7 percent level for seven months, despite Carter's pledge to try to have joblessness down to about 6.5 percent by the end of the year.

He told his twice-monthly news conference of his employment efforts. "We believe that this will have a beneficial impact on the unemployment rate, but it certainly won't solve the problem."

Carter said that whatever is done to hold down joblessness must have "some flexibility to accommodate changing times in the future."

"There's no easy answer, of course," to the unemployment question.

"We will by next June have 725,000 jobs under the comprehensive education training program. This is the highest level since the New Deal days. I think the worldwide economic slowdown is causing this problem to be felt in all nations."

He noted that unemployment had fallen from 8.1 percent in December to about 7 percent this spring "and remains at about that level."

Carter was asked about the conviction of former CIA Director Richard Helms for lying to a congressional committee about CIA activities in Chile. Helms' attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, called the conviction "a badge of honor," but Carter said, "It is not a badge of honor, and a public official does not have a right to lie."

Carter said the recent flare-ups on the Israel-Lebanon border "show the need for a Geneva conference" as soon as possible.

"The loss of life is deplorable, but the situation is never going to be improved in my opinion until those nations involved there are going to go beyond debates and squabbles, and start dealing with the real issues," he said.

Carter said it was "too early to lay down a schedule" for the administration's specific proposals for national health care, but that he expected that "by early next year we will have the principles."

He said the "exorbitant increase" in national health care cost — "particularly hospitalization" — is a cause for concern, but that health care is a problem "with many facets."

To a question about federal funding of abortions in light of revelations that four poor women had died after crossing the border to Mexico to have abortions, Carter said he "deplored any tragic loss of life" resulting from illegal abortions.

But he said, "My stand on federal financing of abortions has not changed. I oppose federal financing of abortions."

Carter said he "strongly supports the autonomy and independence of the Federal Reserve, but there is a fairly good balance in my opinion" between the Federal Reserve Board, Congress and the president.

"I wouldn't want to change that basic structure. I think it's good."

Ella seeks rail funds

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today she will ask Congress to change the law to allow Connecticut to target unused highway funds for rail freight lines.

Mrs. Grasso said the change was needed because last month the Federal Highway Administration refused her request to trade in $3.8 million in federal highway funds to use to rebuild the rail line between Willimantic and Manchester.

Mrs. Grasso made the comments in a speech to the Connecticut Rail Seminar.

"It is my intention to ask federal transportation officials to support my recommendations that the Congress change the existing law. The change will make rail freight lines eligible for these trade-in funds," Mrs. Grasso said.

"The estimated $3.8 million needed to restore the 20 miles of track would be a sound investment in the economic future of this area," Mrs. Grasso said. "However, federal officials said that existing law allows the use of trade-in funds only for other highways or mass transportation projects."

Heart disease risk up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Evidence is accumulating that American schoolchildren increasingly show risk factors for future heart disease.

A number of recent studies indicate environmental, nutritional and other deficiencies could be endangering the future well-being of youngsters from coast to coast. Heart disease, the nation's leading killer, accounts for about half the deaths in middle-aged men.

"There seems to be no doubt that the roots of arteriosclerosis (one type of hardening of the arteries), certain cancers and stroke begin in childhood, and that many of these 'roots' are related to our personal habits and style of living," one study said.

Evidence mounts: • 46 percent of a sample of 8-to-12-year-old boys in California had one risk factor for coronary heart disease, and an additional 14 percent had two or more risk factors.

• A continuous rise is shown in children's blood pressures throughout the school years, according to one study. High blood pressure is considered one of the risk factors for diseases involving the heart and blood vessels. Others include cigarette smoking, obesity, poor physical fitness and high levels of fats, like cholesterol, in the blood.

• A federally subsidized study of school-age children in Rochester, Minn.; Bogalusa, La., and Muscatine, Iowa, found that "some children attain levels of cholesterol and blood pressure that when present in adults are predictive for the development of future coronary heart disease."

Veterans Day plans set

Manchester's annual Veterans Day observance will take place Friday at 10:45 a.m. at Manchester Memorial Hospital, which was built and dedicated as a memorial to Manchester men who lost their lives during World War I.

Maj. John P. Carragher of the Connecticut Army National Guard, will be the principal speaker. Maj. Carragher is attached to the headquarters of the 43rd Brigade, 26th (Yankee) Infantry Division. He formerly served with the 169th Infantry in Manchester. He served with the Army from 1958 to 1960 and then joined the Connecticut Army National Guard.

The program will begin with an introduction by Thomas Moran, chairman of the veterans council. After the invocation by the hospital chaplain, the Rev. Ernest Harris, the group will be welcomed by Paul Moss, assistant administrator of Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Remarks by Robert Daggart, a World War I veteran, will precede the lowering of the flag by youth groups from various veterans' organizations.

Wreaths will be placed at the base of the monument at the base of the flag pole by Mrs. Muriel Grover, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Helen Foley, president of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, and Mrs. Elizabeth Von Hone, commander of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

Donna McCarthy, Salvation Army bugler, will play Taps. The program will conclude with a benediction by the Rev. Harris.

The public is invited.

Holiday closings

The Town of Manchester's Municipal Building will be closed Friday in observance of Veterans Day.

Emergency telephone numbers for the day are as follows: Highway, 649-5070; refuse, 649-1886; and sanitary sewer and water, 649-9697.

All schools, public, parochial and state, will be closed Friday. All banks will be closed Friday, but those which normally have Saturday hours will be open Saturday.

The records department of the Manchester Police Department will also be closed Friday. The post offices will be open, as the federal observance of Veterans Day was in October.

Recount begins Friday

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

A recount in the race between Nicholas Costa and Paul Willhide, two Republican candidates for the Manchester Board of Directors, is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel began making arrangements today for the recount, which is mandated by state law if the final difference between candidates is less than one-half percent of the total vote.

Costa defeated Willhide by just four votes for the third available seat for three-year school board terms that begin this year.

Democrats Leonard Seader, with 7,182 votes, and Peter Crombie, with 7,182 votes, finished first and second for the terms that run from 1977-1980. Costa received 6,483 votes for the position and Willhide received 6,479. The top three vote-getters are elected.

A recount could be avoided if the losing candidate signs a waiver. Willhide, however, has not done so and is not expected to. He could not be reached for comment today.

Russell Prentice, who lost in the race for Board of Selectmen, has signed a waiver, so a recount will not be required in that race.

Prentice lost the third spot on the board to Joseph Reynolds by nine votes. Both men are Republicans.

Democrats Irene Pisch, with 7,897 votes, and Chester Bycholski, with 7, 598 votes, were the top vote-getters for the board. Reynolds finished third with 5,872 votes and was followed by Prentice, who received a total of 5,863 votes.

Tomkiel has notified Kevin O'Brien, chief moderator for Tuesday's election, that a recount will be needed in the Board of Education race. Tomkiel said that two absentee ballot counters, two machine counters, both registrars of voters and a mechanic will be notified of the recount, which will start at 8:30 a.m. Friday, he said.

Absentee ballots will be counted in the Municipal Building. The rest of the workers will travel to all ten of the town's voting districts and will recheck all of the machines.

Cummings: 'I have too many jobs'

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

Following his party's fourth consecutive victory in a Town of Manchester election, Ted Cummings indicated Wednesday that he might cut back on his present responsibilities.

Cummings is the Democratic town Chairman and the state representative from the 12th Assembly District, which is made up of four of Manchester's ten voting districts. He also operates a full-time business, the Ted Cummings Insurance Agency, in 1984.

"I've got to look at my obligations to myself, my family and my party. My talents and time are limited," Cummings said.

If he does decide to reduce his present responsibilities, Cummings gave no indication Wednesday where that cut might happen.

"I feel my obligations to all of those things — my job, the party, my family. I've got to assess them all," he said.

He is serving his second term as the state representative from the 12th District. He was first elected in 1974 and won re-election last year to another two-year term.

He is probably best known around town, however, for his work as Democratic town chairman. He has served in that position since 1961 and during most of that time the Democrats have maintained control of the town's major boards.

Members of both parties have commented in the past about the ability of Cummings to be successful politically while running a business and holding two key political positions.

Many have admired that ability. Many have wondered where he finds the time.

Now, apparently, Cummings is questioning the time factor involved in his various responsibilities. The work of Cummings as town chairman has drawn comments from both sides of the local political spectrum.

"The very fact he has remained town chairman this long indicates that he has a very good political savvy," a leading member of the Manchester Republican Party said.

"I think the Democrats won this year mainly because of Ted Cummings," the Republican said. There had been predictions this year that the Democrats might not do well in the election because it was running a slate of new faces. Only one candidate for the Board of Directors, Stephen Penny, had served previously on the board, and he had been appointed earlier this year.

The admiration for Cummings among his own party is reflected by comments made Tuesday night by Stephen Cassano, one of the six Democrats elected to the Board of Directors.

"There is no one else in Connecticut who could pull out a 6-3 majority with all new people. Ted Cummings has something special," Cassano said.

New youth choir rehearses

Members of the Manchester school system's new youth choir work on their parts with Mrs. Mary Kahlfleisch, co-director and accompanist for the group. The children are, from left, Heather Horniak, Bentley School, and Kathie Gaffney and Paul Morrissette, both of Martin School. There are about 75 members in the chorus representing students from the sixth grades in all the town's schools. Grasso boosts Naugatuck

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso is proposing a $12.9 million revitalization program she calls the most ambitious in Connecticut history to help boost the economically ailing Naugatuck Valley.

The governor said Wednesday it was aimed at building or renovating five industrial projects in Waterbury, Naugatuck, Seymour and Torrington.

The most comprehensive plan of economic recovery ever developed by the state of Connecticut "was her description of the effort.

She said $9.35 million was being requested from Washington, with the remaining $4.55 million to be shared by state and local governments.

She said an application for the federal money had been submitted to the U.S. Department of Commerce and a meeting with federal officials was set for next week.

The five specific projects are:

- Renovation of the former Chase building in Waterbury into an industrial plant for extracting businesses and the attraction of new industry.
- Creation of a centralized metal plating disposal system in the Captain Neville Industrial Park in Waterbury to relieve companies of having to install individual waste outlets.

- Construction of two industrial buildings in the Naugatuck Industrial Park to help attract and retain business and industry.
- Establishment of a 100-acre industrial park in Seymour to assist economic development efforts in the surrounding area.
- Creation of additional industrial land and space in Torrington to serve the northern part of the Naugatuck Valley.

Labor favors state-run game

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's top labor leader says if anyone makes huge profits from legalized gambling, it should be the taxpayers, not private entrepreneurs.

John Driscoll, president of the Connecticut State Labor Council, AFL-CIO, Wednesday proposed the state buy out legalized gambling operators and run the facilities itself, thereby greatly increasing its gaming revenues.

Driscoll proposed a special authority be set up to buy and run the jai alai frontons in Bridgeport, Hartford and Milford and the Plainfield dog track.

Those facilities are now run by private firms and regulated by the state gaming commission.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, questioned whether the state could legally force owners to sell their firms, although he said he thought the idea was worth exploring.

State Gaming Commission Chairman Beatrice Kowalski said she opposed such an idea.

In other gambling news:

- A state gaming commissioner thinks bettors should be a legal voice representing their concerns before gaming regulators. Lester Snyder Wednesday suggested the powers of Connecticut's Office of Consumer Counsel be expanded to allow the representation of bettors in legalized gambling matters.

Barbershop night slated

The Silk City Chorus, Manchester's barbershop harmony singers, will sponsor a special guest night Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Manchester Recreation Center off Keeney St. Men interested in singing four-part harmony are invited to attend.

Plans for the evening include a performance by the chorus for the guests and an appearance by Connecticut's novice quartet champions, the Sound Assurance.

The chorus makes more than 20 appearances annually for area civic, social, and fraternal organizations.

The chorus is a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America Inc., and is directed by Vincent A. Zito of Thomas Drive.

Information about Monday's program is available by telephoning Jim Dunn, 568-5249 or Zito, 646-8009.

Students suspended

CROMWELL (UPI) — More than 100 students who walked out of Cromwell High School in protest over English curriculums, open study halls and the amount of time allowed students between classes have been suspended.

The walkout followed a demonstration Wednesday outside the school by the Council of Students, a group of students formed about a week ago. The council said school authorities have been stalling on student requests.

Flying high

Mary Reppard celebrated her 102nd birthday Wednesday with two firsts. She rode in an airplane and she took a drink.

She liked the flight — says it was "smooth" — but said the champagne poured in a toast in her honor tasted "bitter."

And why did she want to fly, after 102 years with her feet on the ground? Says she, "I decided to try just for a change, I guess. I wanted to do something different."

Pride of Dracula

The cast of the Broadway show "Dracula" produced a black and white wedding cake — with just a tasteful touch of red — Wednesday night for Frank Langella, who plays the bloodthirsty count, and Ruth Weil, his bride of two days.

Among those congratulating the couple were Don DeLoatch, who attended a matinee of the show and stayed for the party at Martin and Theater.

Caffeine blues

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says cutting his 10-cup-a-day coffee intake is tougher than kicking the tobacco habit — which he accomplished two years ago. But, says Bergland, "I'm off coffee... for my health."

He says coffee was wrecking his sleep — that "I woke up tired... I was rundown just sitting still... I quit coffee Saturday and I feel better than I have in six months."

He admits he cheats a little. He still downs one cup in the morning at home, and one more when he gets to work.

The new work, unlike previous volumes of historical philosophy, is the story of their own 64-year love affair.

MCC women continue series on lifestyles

The Manchester Community College Women's Center is continuing its "Helping Women Grow" series of informal programs through Dec. 15.

This month's series on lifestyles will include a program today at 7:30 p.m. on parenting led by Sue Esperson-Vater and Susan Adamak, director and head teacher respectively at the MCC Day Care Center-Nursery School.

The women will discuss what is involved in parenting and family relationships, communications, expressing emotions and other family-related topics.

All the informal group discussions are held in the Women's Center next to the library on the main campus off Bidwell Street.

A program on "Children's needs Parents" was led by Mrs. Margaret Sumner of Hartford Child and Family Services Tuesday afternoon.

Programs next week will deal with problems of women who are single, either widowed or divorced. Sandra Stanlake, professor of psychology at MCC, will discuss the emotional aspects of becoming single Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

On Nov. 17 at 7:30 p.m., Alexandria Tomany, professor of accounting at MCC, will discuss the special financial problems that single women encounter.

A discussion of lesbianism will be open to all women Nov. 22 at 1:30 p.m.

Pierrette Buisserre of Hartford will discuss communal living on Nov. 29 at 1:30 p.m.

Carol Petrucelli, director of the Women's Center, noted that a non-traditional careers weekend which had been originally scheduled for Nov. 18 and 19 has been postponed until April.

The Women's Center topic for December will be careers, which will include programs led by members of the college staff, the counseling center, the Women's Center, placement office, community services and faculty.

The topics will be "careers open to community college students" Dec. 1 at 7:30 p.m.; resume writing Dec. 6 at 1:30 p.m.; job search Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m.; affirmative action Dec. 13 at 1:30 p.m. and women and work Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The current woman artist featured at the Women's Center is Mary Krach, an art student at MCC, whose work features drawings of nudes and still-life drawings.

An opening for the art show of JoAnn Ball of MCC will feature drawings, paintings and sculpture Nov. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

All events and services of the center are available to persons in the 14-town Manchester Community College district.

Opinion

We agree with Ella

Gov. Ella Grasso says she will ask the 1978 General Assembly to name that section of Route 72 that passes through New Britain "The Gardner C. Weld Highway."

What a fine tribute to a devoted servant of New Britain. Mr. Weld was the president of the New Britain Herald. He recently passed on to that celestial lodge above at the age of 85.

We recommend to our legislators in Manchester that they support Gov. Grasso in her request.

New Britain needed a corridor to connect it with other roadways and link it more closely to its neighbors. That section will open within a year.

In her letter to Mrs. Judy Weld Brown, editor and publisher of the New Britain Herald and the daughter of the late Gardner and Agnes Weld, the governor said, "Others might have won headlines, but your father was instrumental in building the highway."

Gardner Weld was a skilled technician, he was a family man, and he devoted his publication to keeping his families informed. His was, and is, a family newspaper.

Paths of journalists cross often—at state meetings, wire service gatherings, and regional conventions. We always searched out the Welds; they were a happy, friendly people, and more than willing to pass along to younger journalists their experiences which made the fine afternoon papers in this state.

And they left that tradition in the hands of one who, herself, knows the value of true journalism—keeping the public informed.

Cable TV unleashed

The U.S. Supreme Court makes as much law by the cases it chooses not to hear as by those on which it hands down decisions.

Early in October, the court declined to review a ruling made last March by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia in the matter of the Federal Communications Commission versus Home Box Office.

The action — or non-action — could have far-reaching effects on the kind of television programming available to Americans in years to come.

The decision by the Court of Appeals was the culmination of a long-running battle between commercial television broadcasters and the cable television industry. The so-called free TV and pay TV, with the FCC in the middle.

At issue were the FCC's regulations limiting movies and sports events which could be shown on cable television, the system under which subscribers pay a monthly fee to have special programs piped into their homes.

And should the adverse effects the Court of Appeals saw no sign of beginning to materialize, there is nothing to prevent Congress from enacting legislation to protect free TV.

What the decision has done is to lift a cloud of uncertainty that has hovered over the future of cable TV and give promise not of less but of greater program diversity for the television watching public.

Kekkonen's re-election foregone conclusion

By PHILIP M. STONE
HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — President Urho K. Kekkonen has started actively campaigning for his re-election in January. But the only real question is by how large a margin he will win.

Kekkonen, 77, has been president of Finland since 1956. He has won three election terms of six years each and in 1973 parliament passed a constitutional amendment extending his term of office until 1978.

There was a move to pass a similar amendment for the Jan. 15-16 elections. But Kekkonen stopped it, saying it was not in the best interests of democracy to cancel elections.

Six major parties — the Social Democrats, Center Party, Communists, Liberals, Conservatives and the Swedish Party — have nominated Kekkonen as their candidate. They control 93.5 per cent of the seats in parliament.

Other parties have nominated four candidates in opposition, but most Finns would be hard pressed to name more than one of them.

Kekkonen's strength comes from his success at running Finland's foreign policy — a duty the constitution prescribes as the domain of the president.

The main purpose of Finnish foreign policy is to keep the country at peace with the Soviet Union, its eastern neighbor with whom it shares a 785-mile border. But at the same time, the Finns are considered one of Europe's neutral nations.

During his 20 years as president and the five terms he served as premier previously, Kekkonen formulated very close personal relations with the Soviet leadership. The Soviets have stated several times how deeply they appreciate that relationship.

Thus, the reasoning in Finland is that what is good for Finland's relations with the Soviet Union is best for the country. And that means Kekkonen.

"I said, it's a petition to relocate all French and British diplomats to this neighborhood."

ILO was good idea

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — The International Labor Organization was a good idea. It was founded in the hopeful year 1919, when people still talked of permanent peace and the world dictatorship was not in common use. The only cloud on the optimistic horizon was the new Bolshevism in Russia, which was not given long to live.

In that atmosphere, the ILO seemed to promise a new day for the laboring man. Its function, under the ill-fated League of Nations, was to promote labor standards in all countries and collect statistics on labor issues. Pretty sound stuff.

But dictatorships are almost everywhere one looks today. Under authoritarian governments in the Soviet Union, Communist China, Latin America and much of the Third World, the working man's rights have dwindled to one: the right to behave himself. The ILO became another political mitchel maker among many in the United Nations.

And so the other day President Carter withdrew the United States from membership in the ILO. In a statement read by Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, Carter said, "The United States remains ready to return whenever the ILO is again true to its proper principles and procedures."

Predictably, UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim called the withdrawal a "retrogressive step from the principle of collective responsibility and from the goal of universality in United Nations bodies." For Waldheim could hardly say anything else. But as his staffers remarked, "The United States' move was inevitable."

It was inevitable because the ILO had ceased to have any meaning to the democratic community. Its members spent most of their time moonlighting as political hatchmen for their dictatorial regimes back home.

The Hartford Seminary Foundation's board of trustees Wednesday voted unanimously to offer their property to the state for $1 million. UConn has been trying to buy the seminary property for three years because it says its West Hartford campus is overcrowded and its law library has to be expanded.

Kekkonen was a former Center Party man and had always been the presidential candidate.

When Kekkonen accepted the Social Democrats' offer, the other major parties quickly joined the bandwagon. One of the oldest and most popular Finnish jokes at the time was that the Social Democrats would nominate Kekkonen for president in 1978.

That astounded everyone — the Center Party most of all since politics as the country's economic crisis grew worse, wrote a letter to the party leaders.

He criticized the coalition for giving government ministers a 20 percent pay increase; he lambasted the Center Party chairman who was finance minister for attending a conference in Sri Lanka while the economy was in crisis, and he said he might just dissolve Parliament and call new elections.

The political parties panicked. Nobody was ready for an election — the Social Democrats least of all. Kekkonen followed in which the president laid the groundwork for the laws he thought should be passed before parliament recessed for the summer.

The politicians agreed, and within days the Social Democrats suddenly announced they would nominate Kekkonen for president in 1978.

Special education matters increase with new laws

By SUSAN VAUGHN

Herald Reporter

The Manchester Board of Education is getting more requests from parents for special education hearings since new state and federal laws regarding hearing procedures were implemented last year.

Allan B. Chesteron, director of pupil personnel services for the school system, said the hearing requests are taking about half of his time and involve a number of other school personnel also.

At the present time, one hearing case is in the final stage of hearings and a third has been sent to the state Board of Education to request a mediator. Chesteron said he does not know the status of that case. Because of the extensive time involvement for school personnel, School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said he is recommending that the local board hear any cases first before referring to the state board. He said the cases sometimes involve large sums of money for the school board.

Most of the hearing requests are for placements outside the school system, Chesteron said. Chesteron said one reason for more hearing requests is greater knowledge by parents of the procedures.

The Pupil Personnel department sends out a brochure to parents which outlines the services for exceptional children and the procedures parents should follow in requesting special education.

The first step parents should follow, either by their child's school or by the Pupil Personnel Services and the school principal to discuss the need for evaluation of the child. If the school system does not provide the evaluation or necessary special education prescribed for the child, parents can then request a meeting with the school superintendent.

If the problem is not resolved with the superintendent, parents may then either request in writing an official hearing with the local board or, in lieu of a hearing, agree with the board to submit the matter to the state Board of Education for mediation. A time limit on both methods is set. If mutual agreement is not possible after mediation, within 15 days, either party may request in writing a review of the problem by the state Department of Education. The state board must then establish within 30 days a hearing board of no fewer than three persons to review the problem.

Once the hearing board has made a decision either to concur with the child's existing education program, modify it or reject it and prescribe an alternative, the local board must then decide within 15 days.

The entire procedure is available to parents at no cost. If the complaints or requests are not resolved through the local school system or the procedures through the state Department of Education, then parents can initiate legal action in the Court of Common Pleas.

A child's educational progress must be reviewed once a year once he or she has been placed in a special education program, according to the new state mandates.

Parents are entitled to examine all their children's educational, medical or similar records upon written request to the local school principal. Children who might qualify for special help under the Special Education Law are those who have physical, hearing, vision, or emotional problems and those who are mentally retarded, socially disadvantaged or have specific learning disabilities, any of which make them incapable of successful participation in regular school programs. The special programs must be designed to meet the individual child's needs.

Welfare probe shifts

Welfare fraud investigators trained in another agency will be assigned to the Department of Social Services to circumvent red tape delaying a probe of that department, Gov. Ella T. Grasso said today.

The delay is caused by federal requirements that only department employees can see the records containing recipients' names and other data.

In other matters Mrs. Grasso said she knew of a some Connecticut companies that were considering a "few scattered layoffs," but she would not be more specific.

PUGA meets next week

A Public Utilities Control Authority commissioner says he expects his panel to meet next week to consider whether to reopen the controversial rate case in which Northeast Utilities won a $5 million rate hike.

Northeast had requested a $90 million rate increase. The PUGA ultimately granted a $45 million rate increase. Miffed at the decision, Northeast announced plans to lay off 450 of its own employees and 1,200 construction workers who are building Millstone III for the utility.

Newspaper plan announced

Backers of the new Hartford Tribune have promised to launch a "vigorous" daily afternoon newspaper next week that will have "no taboos or sacred cows."

The tabloid, which will begin with a circulation of 35,000 to 50,000 copies on Monday, will be the first afternoon daily for Hartford readers since the demise October 1976 of the 156-year-old Hartford Times.

Law school campus due

After three years of negotiations, it appears the University of Connecticut law school will finally get a new campus.

The Hartford Seminary Foundation's board of trustees Wednesday voted unanimously to offer their property to the state for $1 million. UConn has been trying to buy the seminary property for three years because it says its West Hartford campus is overcrowded and its law library has to be expanded.

Brand Loyalties Shaken By Taste Impact Of Low Tar Merit.

MERIT taste delivery switching high tar smokers away from age-old favorites.

There is a taste alternative to high tar cigarettes.

Modern technology created it. Tests proved it.

Smokers are confirming it.

Today most MERIT smokers are coming from high tar cigarettes — many from brands they had been loyal to for years.

Yet they're switching to — and sticking with — MERIT.

The reason is a real advance in tobacco technology that resulted in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

100's: 12 mg "tar," 0.9 mg nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Space mining is coming

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI)—Experts say space mining is feasible by the end of this century. A 30-member scientific panel asked by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to study "near-Earth resources" talked of fabricating satellite solar power stations out of material taken from the moon and asteroids.

Dr. James Arnold of the University of California, chairman of the group, said the concept is that metals, chemicals and gases from the moon and asteroids could be readily used to build solar power stations in high Earth orbit, in addition to the space colonies that would be needed to support the station builders and maintenance people. Scientists already have a pretty good idea of the materials available from the moon. The moon can provide aluminum, iron, and titanium, and silicious lunar soil would yield substances to make fiberglass and inorganic adhesives. But the researchers are anxious for more detailed data to come from an unmanned geochemical mapping satellite that NASA hopes to be able to rocket into a polar orbit around the moon within a few years. Arnold said the panel was not yet ready to say when resources from space could be mined. "Much depends on many things we do not understand," he said. But it's generally agreed that "a significant level of production of useful material can occur, say by the year 2000." It may take as long as 15 years to develop the facts needed.

Committee members generally favor keeping and expanding the new computer system, but not without a thorough knowledge of all the cost ramifications and comparisons in order to prove that the new system will be a definite cost savings to the town.

The committee plans to meet next week with Ernest Machell, Manchester's former collector of revenue and current zoning enforcement officer, to discuss disposition of the Burroughs machine which the town has used for several years. Machell was involved in setting up the Burroughs system during his term of office in the tax department.

The subcommittee wants to explore the possibility that the Burroughs system might be used in another town department.

Next Wednesday, the subcommittee members will begin to draw up their recommendation for approval by the full advisory committee before presenting it to the Board of Directors.

The subcommittee wants to explore the possibility that the Burroughs system might be used in another town department.

Next Wednesday, the subcommittee members will begin to draw up their recommendation for approval by the full advisory committee before presenting it to the Board of Directors.

Vernon recount set to settle one contest

There will be a recount of the votes for Vernon council members starting at 8 p.m. today. The recount is to settle the race between incumbent Republican John Guilletti and Democrat Joseph Merizutto.

There was a 41-vote difference between the two candidates and because Guilletti apparently failed to obtain more than a half of one percent margin over Merizutto said requires the recount.

Candidates elected will be sworn in on Nov. 15 with the exception of one person elected to the Board of Education.

M. Russell McPadden, Republican, who was elected to fill a two-year vacancy on the school board, will be sworn in immediately. He has been filling a vacancy on that board for the past several months.

The existing school board will have its last meeting Monday.

The Town Council doesn't meet until the 15th so the existing council, in effect, held its last meeting on Oct. 24.

At next Tuesday's council meeting the Republicans will take over the council under newly elected Mayor

Many mix-ups result from voting in state

Every election produces its share of voting machine malfunctions, silly write-ins and political squabbles. Tuesday's municipal contests in Connecticut were no exception.

A ballot machine mix-up has cast doubt on South Windsor's Town Council elections. Republican candidate Richard Ryan ended up with more votes in the second district than polling machines had recorded.

Town Clerk Charles Egan said voters will be reexamined Saturday, but he thinks the election probably will be contested in court by candidates upset with the recount.

In Thompson, a voting machine mangled during the town's long-standing Republican tradition. The machine recorded as Democratic the votes of 107 persons who had pulled the Republican party lever.

The mistake, which was discovered about 2 p.m., did not affect the election which was won handily by the Republicans.

In Clinton, Republican Vera Fanning won election as an alternate to the Planning and Zoning Commission

Bolton board seeks FOI details

Selectman Joann Neath, on behalf of the Bolton Board of Selectmen, has written the Freedom of Information Commission for clarification of several points of the Freedom of Information Act.

Mrs. Neath said she received a response from the FOI Commission. She said, "It doesn't really answer any of the questions. It's not much help."

One of the concerns of the selectmen is whether an executive session called during a special meeting must be included in the agenda of such meeting.

The selectmen are asking for clarification of chance meetings. They want to know if chance meetings include when three selectmen -- happen to be present in the selectmen's office at one time with no intent to meet but for the purpose of catching up on reading reports and communications."

The selectmen also want to know if they are in violation of the FOI Act when several members from one town board attend another town board's meeting as individual citizens.

In the letter to the FOI Commission Mrs. Neath said, "We applaud the Freedom of Information laws and have made every effort to comply,

Andover librarian quits after 19 years

Adele McBride has resigned as librarian of the Andover Public Library after 19 years of service. Mrs. McBride agreed to stay on the job until the first of the year, although she would like to resign as soon as possible.

Her resignation was accepted with regret by the Board of Library Directors. The board is advertising for a qualified person for the position.

This weekend residents will receive a brochure on the history of the library in celebration of its 50th anniversary.

Fifty years ago Friday, the building was officially dedicated. The Andover Republican Town Committee is questioning a $35 retroactive service charge on its checking account imposed by Hartford National Bank. And the town committee is asking that the money be returned to its account.

Spending recommended

The Andover Board of Finance will recommend to a Town Meeting that it approve appropriations of $10,750 for various town projects.

The finance board appropriated $7,500 to the Andover Elementary School building committee. The vote was not unanimous. John Yeomans, board chairman, and James Hohman voted against the appropriation.

The money will be used for preliminary plans for the proposed addition to the school.

The board obligated $1,200 for microfilming land records, $1,500 for the Town Hall and $200 for the Town Office Building from federal anti-recession money.

Hohman voted against spending the money for microfilming land records. The money for the Town Office Building is needed for a vinyl tile floor. Hohman voted against the appropriation and Susan Lossee abstained from voting.

The board unanimously voted to appropriate the money to repair the heating system at the Town Hall.

Thoughts ApLENTy

By Len Auster

Indians awakened

Before last Friday's big swim meet with Windham, Manchester High girls were somewhat psyched out. That's the word given here. The Whippets had a reputation, and a 23-meet win streak to boot.

Team effort

The idea, of course, was to get Manchester thinking. Whatever the strategy it backfired in a colossal mess.

"What Windham did got us up definitely," Tribe Coach Dave Frost said. "My team was angry about it."

Times changed

An article in The Christian Science Monitor illustrates how times have changed. This year there are more than 400 colleges and universities offering athletic scholarships for women in basketball, gymnastics, swimming and diving, and tennis to name a few.

Finally, former UConn star Bruce Sweet, who if memory serves me right was a New England champion, handles the superb group of Windham divers. They took 1-33 against the locals. Sweet believes Frost is reimbursed by Whippet head coach Mary Lou Yourcoski. Frost is thinking of doing something similar.

Division effort in last Friday's championship meet. Manchester High harrier Schmidt wove two peanut butter sandwiches and washed it down with orange juice.

Evert plans to rest after Wightman Cup

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Chris Evert says she is tired and when the Wightman Cup competition against Great Britain ends Saturday night she is going home to Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and then to an unannounced site for an indefinite vacation.

"I want to stay as active as I can," said King, who beat Sue Barker 6-1, 6-4, the same night Evert took Wade. "What I need now more than anything else is playing time. My game isn't sharp. I'm not always able to do what I think I should be doing. I'm not in command of all my shots."

King underwent knee surgery for the third time exactly a year ago. It was another two-plus months before she could start a rehabilitation program.

Closing out his season last night with a twin triumph was Manchester Community College's volleyball squad.

The Cougars topped Tunxis, 15-8, 16-6, and trimmed the same foe in the nightcap, 15-1, 15-8.

Despite the victories the locals failed to gain a journey bid Manchester finished with a 1-7 record, placing fifth in Region XXI NJCAA and only the top

Goal in final minutes ends MHS soccer year

By LEN AUSTER

The end came swiftly, unexpectedly, painfully. Multi-faceted Chris Conte's near impossible to stop goal with only 1:48 left in regulation lifted North Haven past Manchester, 2-1, in a CIAC State Soccer Tournament tilt yesterday in North Haven.

The triumph by the Housatonic League runner-up advances the eighth ranked Indians, 14-3, into Saturday's quarterfinals in the Class LL Division. North Haven will face the winner of Websterfield-Hill at a site to be announced. Manchester, 12th ranked, bows out with a 10-3-3 ledger.

The ball eluded netminder David Conte, who lofted a boot from the left side about 30 yards out. It had plenty of overspin and kept on rising, nestling under the crossbar and out of reach of Tribe goalie Mark Copeland. The junior keeper leaped but couldn't get a hand on it.

It was scores after the first half with the hosts breaking through at 3:35 of the second 35-minute session. Conte, down the left wing eluded a Tribe fullback and crossed to the middle.

Lombardo was on the spot and drilled a left-footed blast into the net for the early lethal goal.

Coaches' corner

Manchester High let me with a numb, disbelieving feeling when it was very tough to accept. For the first time in a long, long time, we were ahead at the half.

Yet, we let the game slip away from us. The blocked Enfield punt and consequent run for a first down certainly was the turning point of the game. We were just not the same team from that point on. I guess when you're having problems everything goes wrong.

Several players did have good games, though. Mike Linsenbiger turned in his usual solid performance at the center position and created all kinds of havoc for the Enfield offense while at the nose guard. Dave Tvo, before leaving the game early in the third quarter with a shoulder injury, blocked real well and was a terror on defense.

Sophomore running backs John Haney and Peter Tvo ran extremely hard with the ball and gave our quarterback good pass protection. This week we return to Enfield to face the Fernal Falcons. The Falcons have been playing good football of late, defeating Windham and East Hartford the past two weeks. We will have to be at our best to come out on top. Hopefully, our players learned some important lessons from last Saturday's contest.

MCC booters win in rugged play, 4-2

In other countries, soccer is known as football. In East Longmeadow, Mass., soccer apparently is also known as football, only without the pads.

After a day postponement and a change of fields, Manchester Community College physically battled Springfield Tech in a 4-2 victory yesterday in the opening round of the NJCAA Region XXI Tournament. MCC, 10-4-1, will travel to New London to face top-ranked Mitchell College Friday. Mitchell defeated MCC, 4-1, during the regular season and will be playing on its home field.

Clarcia lofted a chip over the defensive wall to Bill Young who was left unmarked. He capitalized on the one-on-one situation heading the ball over the Tech goalie.

The Cougars' final score came with 15:22 gone in the second half. Jim Bolles, traveling down the left side crossed to a charging Clarcia, who booted home his second goal.

The Bay Staters, 8-5, forced the locals to play defense the entire second half as they outshot MCC, 21-13. A tripping violation set up Springfield's final tally. Herman Dias rocketed the penalty kick past Gerber, who made 15 saves.

Phil Esposito now No. 2 on all-time NHL point list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Phil Esposito's two first-period assists, which Wednesday night helped stake the New York Rangers to a 2-0 lead, were enough to boost him into second place in the National Hockey League's all-time point-scoring parade, behind the great Gordie Howe.

When the record was announced to the capacity audience of 17,300 at Madison Square Garden, the Rangers captain received a one-minute standing ovation — from a group that had many times in the past booed, rather than cheered, the high-scoring center.

"It felt very nice," said Esposito, who also scored two goals in the Rangers' 8-4 victory over the Buffalo Sabres. "I was utterly unaware of the record until I heard it announced."

"But I can't savor this. I don't have time to worry about the game past. I've got another game to play Saturday at Detroit, then Sunday with Atlanta 2-0. Esposito's two scores, 2, and St. Louis outscored Vancouver, 8-6, in the World Hockey Association, Cincinnati edged Birmingham, 3-1, and Winnipeg edged Houston, 4-3. WHA Dennis Abruzzi's goal

Yale finale. NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Yale plays its final game Saturday against Harvard as the Elis try to nail down their first undisputed Ivy League crown since 1971. The game will be the last one for 21 Yale seniors including trailblazer John Pagliaro, who needs 69 yards to surpass the one-season rushing record of 1,055 yards set by Dick Jaourin in 1972. School officials said they expected a crowd of 80,000 at Yale Bowl for the classic.

Celts called quitters after latest defeat

BOSTON (UPI) — Doug Moe beamed while Red Auerbach steamed and screamed after watching the San Antonio Spurs cream the Boston Celtics.

Showing confidence and teamwork, such as Boston displayed against last season, the Spurs defeated the Celtics, 129-114, Wednesday night. The win pushed the Spurs to 6-5 this season and the loss dropped Boston to 1-8.

San Antonio Coach Moe credited his team with playing "good, quick, unselfish basketball."

In the other locker-room, Boston General Manager Auerbach criticized the Celtics for their uninspired play. The door was locked but the reporters outside could hear the architect of 13 NBA titles yelling, "You guys are quitters."

Auerbach could have pointed to the Spurs' selfishness and always-on-swing offense as examples of what the Celtics used to do. The Spurs, who lost six straight games to Boston last year, including two in the preliminary round of the playoffs, won their second game of the season over Boston by finding the open man — and by making 61 percent of their shots. The Celtics took 16 more shots but made four fewer field goals.

George Gervin set the tone, scoring eight in the first quarter that turned a 22-20 edge into a 32-21 lull. Boston got as close as two points, 37-35, after Sunday. Wicks opened the third period with two of his 18 points.

But the Celtics, trying to get the missing momentum back into their game, kept running into each other while San Antonio got open shots. The Spurs regained the seven-point lead, 87-80, and parried Boston in the fourth quarter.

At final period, Mark Olberding netted 12 points. Larry Kenon and Mark Olberding had 12 each and 20. Bristow and Olberding were seven-point lead, 87-80, and parried Boston in the fourth quarter.

Seven Spurs finished in double figures, led by Kenon with 27. Gervin had 18 each, Billy Paulitz 16, Louie Dampier 12 and Mike Stutes 12.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old born-again Christian. I studied for the priesthood, but dropped out because I felt I wasn't "good" enough to serve the Lord while living a lie.

DEAR MISERABLE: The Lord created all of us, and why He gave you a man's body, but the feelings of a woman. I do not know. Nature sometimes makes biological blunders, as in the case where one's body does not conform with his (or her) natural feelings. You are not alone. Don't feel guilty. One cannot help what he feels.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you recounted the instance of a woman who was trying to talk her boyfriend into going with her to a nudist retreat. (He wasn't too keen on the idea.) Do you suppose she just wanted to air her differences?

Gardening

By Frank Atwood

It takes 18 months to produce cyclamen flowers from seed and it is a job left, for the most part, to professional flower growers equipped with greenhouses, some hard-to-get and dangerous pesticide chemicals and "green thumbs."

Cyclamen plants for the holiday season have just come on the market and those we found for a photograph at the Whitman Nursery in Bolton came from a cyclamen specialist, Bruno Patria of South Windsor.

Mr. Whitman suggested that the Patria greenhouses might not be a favorable place to take a picture of massed cyclamen blooms since retailers like himself go to the greenhouses, choose the plants that have started to blossom, pay for them and go away. The plants they leave have green foliage but few flowers.

I saw this happen. While I talked with Mr. Patria in a greenhouse near a long bench filled with cyclamen plants a young woman came in, took a clean empty cardboard box and filled it, one by one, with blossoming plants. She filled a second box, and a third, before carrying them to her car. She had taken most of the color from the bench.

The customer, Mr. Patria said, has a plant store in Springfield. She might come another time for other plants but this is cyclamen season. There were, when sales began, almost 400 pots of cyclamen.

In growing cyclamen, said Mr. Patria, "the basic thing is soil." It must be light and porous so that water drains through it easily. It must also be free of disease organisms and insects.

The greenhouses on Strong Road, just off Route 5, are on land that grew tobacco for years and is naturally light and sandy. The soil mixture for cyclamen is half South Windsor soil. The other half has equal parts of vermiculite, perlite and peat moss. The mixture is slightly acid.

The soil brought in from the lot has first been sterilized with methyl bromide, better known as tear gas. It is important to wear gloves when the gas is handled.

Temperatures must be cool. The thermostat for the greenhouse is set for a night temperature of 52 degrees. When cyclamen plants are brought into a home they should be kept "as cool as possible," says Mr. Patria. He suggests that a plant be set "up against the glass" where night temperature will be lowest. During the day the plant should have "all the sun it can get."

Careful watering is needed. The soil in the pot should not be allowed to get dry, but over-watering is to be avoided.

The cyclamen now moving out to retail stores were started from seed in June of 1976, in flats. Germination is slow and the growth of the young plants also is slow. When growth is well started the plants are set in small pots and transplanted later in four-inch and then in six-inch pots. In the summer the plants must be shaded. They can be "burned" by too much exposure to hot sunlight.

Shading is stopped in the last week of September when buds are formed, appearing on separate stems that soon grow above the foliage. New buds continue to appear under the leaves for several weeks. New flowers replace those that fade over a similar period.

Many people try to keep a cyclamen for a second year of bloom and Mr. Patria says this is possible, but 90 percent of the time the attempt ends in failure. For the best chance of success, Mr. Patria recommends that the plants be moved outdoors in the summer, with the pots plunged in soil, in the shade. They can be brought back in the house about Labor Day.

One of the hazards in holding cyclamen for a second season is infestation with cyclamen mites, tiny insects that hatch from eggs laid by a tiny fly. When damage is observed it is too late to save the plant. The only protection is frequent spraying at intervals of two to three weeks. Malathion is best for use in the home and is sold only in commercial-size containers of 40 pounds.

Mr. Patria learned how to grow plants from his parents who came to the United States from northern Ireland and made a living in South Windsor raising market vegetables. They built their first greenhouse to start early plants for their own garden, sold surplus plants to their neighbors, found a demand also for house plants and finally stopped raising market produce. Ninety percent of Mr. Patria's sales now are to retailers. Customers come from Connecticut shore towns on the south to the Canadian border on the north.

By SHEILA TULLER Herald Correspondent

The girls swimming teams of Penney and East Hartford high schools competed last Friday at Penney for their last meet of the season. EHSIS won by 89-83.

Wednesday top swimmers of both schools began swimming for honors in the state Class I Division Championships.

Qualifiers included Sharon Waz (EHSIS) and Sue Berg (Penney) in the 50-yard freestyle. Linda Ward (EHSIS) and Elin McAvoy (Penney) qualified in the 100-yard backstroke.

Karen Gove (Penney) broke her school's record in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 1:02.4.

Miss Waz broke an EHSIS record in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 59.8.

Penney's Miss Berg and Monique Lussier qualified for the breast stroke event. Both schools qualified for the 200-yard medley relay and the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The schools divers will compete Saturday at 1 p.m. at Penney. The top 12 will compete in the Saturday night meet at Penney.

Marie Murphy is the new EHSIS diver. Nancy Barton, Nicki Maszafra and Tammy Nelson will dive for Penney.

Rosanne Heinemann of EHSIS will race in the 50-yard freestyle event. Anne Parsons, her teammate, will do the 100-yard fly and the 200-yard individual medley. Michele Parsons also qualified for the 200-yard freestyle and the 50-yard freestyle. Kim Kasavage also made the 50-yard freestyle.

Penney Coach Tom Bojko said after the EHSIS meet. "We've got a good thing going here. Our meets with EHSIS always come down to the last relay."

EHSIS Coach Sue Rogers, delighted with the win Friday, said, "Penney's always pretty strong. It's our first win over them in a while."

Both teams should stay evenly matched for another year. EHSIS will graduate only two of its 35 swimmers. Penney will graduate only six of its 32.

Miss Heinemann and Miss Kasavage are captains of the 8-8 EHSIS team. Dawn Blake and Sue Popp captain the 6-5 Penney team.

Latecomers for BAND-AID East Hartford's Town Council majority leader Henry Green, third highest vote-getter in Tuesday's town elections, told of one of the last acts of the council before elections.

The council members agreed that any member coming late to a regular meeting would forfeit $1 to a latecomers fund. Despite twice-monthly meetings for the nine-member council, there was only $16 in the fund at the end of their two-year terms.

They voted to turn the fund over to the East Hartford High School BAND-AID fund. The band and drill team are trying to collect $20,000 to fund their trip Feb. 22 to Disney World.

Police report David K. Dutton, 30, of 207 Greenwood St., East Hartford was arrested this morning about 2 a.m. and charged with fourth-degree sexual assault. The charge stems from an incident in town this morning, police said.

Dutton was being held this morning on $1,000 surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 today.

Joel M. Hay, 20, of 24 Leitcher Drive, East Hartford was arrested Wednesday outside Part's Warehouse at 19 Thomas St. and charged with breach of peace.

Hay was one of a group of men picketing the auto parts firm Wednesday, police said. When one of the workers came out, Hay allegedly began fighting him, police said.

Hay was released on his promise to appear in court Nov. 28.

Barry sure he was right

"I was sure we would be concentered," said East Hartford Town Clerk John Barry Jr.

"We run everything openly here." He was referring to the letter he received last week from Samuel E. Slaihy, executive director and general counsel for the state Elections Commission. Slaihy wrote, "The commission hereby dismisses the complaint."

The complaint concerned the missing report of the finances of Mayor Richard Blackstone from the 1975 campaign. Joseph Paquette forced primary this summer with Blackstone for the Democratic Party's nomination for mayor. In his campaign, he said he could not get a copy of the 1975 statement of the clerk's office.

Paquette complained to Slaihy's office Aug. 12. The commission investigated and Slaihy's letter was the result.

Barry said the missing statement had been thrown out by error with other papers. He was able to dig up a new copy for Paquette but by then Paquette had filed his complaint. Slaihy wrote the commission was satisfied the misplacement was "due to inadvertent error rather than any intentional violation. Your office made every effort to voluntarily comply with the statute (requiring the statements be kept for candidate's term in office)."

Slaihy finished his letter with "The commission trusts that lessons have been learned."
