The weather

Variable cloudiness, breezy and cold with chance of snow flurries Saturday and Saturday night. Highs in the low to mid 40s, lows Saturday night in the mid 20s. National weather map on page 5B.

News summary

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Rebellious Episcopalians from six states, upset because they feel the church has strayed from tradition, will meet in Salem, Mass., Nov. 19 to take their first step toward establishing a New England diocese of a breakaway church.

A spokesman, Rev. Fred Preuss of Moretown, said Friday two dioceses of the new Anglican Church of North America have already been formed on the West Coast and the New England venture could be the third in the country.

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — An airport workers strike Friday closed Spain's airports and stranded 300,000 travelers. One group of irate passengers stormed aboard an idle plane and demanded to be flown to their destination.

The strike by 13,000 technicians, mechanics, luggage handlers and firefighters closed all the nation's 36 airports at the start of a three-day work stoppage.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 36-year-old Connecticut artist has won a $150 first prize and 30 stamps signed by the U.S. secretary of the interior for his winning design for the government's 1978 Duck Stamp.

Al Gilbert, of Washington, Conn., submitted a water color of a male hooded merganser in full black, white and reddish breeding plumage to serve as the government's 1978 stamp, purchased by hunters who shoot migratory birds.

STORRS (UPI) — University of Connecticut officials Friday took a significant step toward acquiring Hartford Seminary Foundation property to relieve overcrowding at the UConn law school.

Trustees of the state institution approved a resolution allowing the state department of Administrative Services to buy the Hartford seminary's buildings and land. The purchase and renovations is estimated to cost $5.8 million.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration announced Friday it has some good financial news—the current fiscal year deficit is expected to be $3 billion less than forecast.

The new estimate for federal spending for fiscal 1978, ending Sept. 30, 1978, is $459.8 billion or $3.1 billion less than the $462.9 billion estimate made July 1. The anticipated improvement was rounded off to $3 billion by government officials.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House disclosed Friday that U.S. foreign arms sales exceeded official estimates by at least $1.4 billion in fiscal 1977, and blamed the error on outdated Pentagon computer programming.

An administration source said, however, the figure is likely to go higher because the Defense Department is still examining the records.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate negotiators, breaking a final deadlock with a compromise agreement to ban decorative outdoor gaslights, finished work Friday on the second of five major sections in the nation's new energy plan.

The measure accepted by the conferees is designed to switch Americans away from natural gas and oil to coal, the most bountiful domestic fuel. Conferees predicted their measures would be effective despite many loopholes.

Costa wins by 102

Greg Pearson
Herald reporter

Republican Nicholas Costa has won a seat on the Manchester Board of Education, and his victory was by an even wider margin than originally announced.

The official returns from Tuesday night's election had Costa squeaking out a four-vote victory over another Republican, Paul Willhide. The two candidates were seeking the third Board of Education seat available for the 1977-1980 term.

Friday's recount, however, found that there was an addition error in one voting district and Costa actually had won by 102 votes.

Democrats Leonard Sander, with 7,182 votes, and Peter Crombie, with 7,162 votes, finished first and second for the 1977-1980 terms. In the original count, Costa received 6,463 votes, and Willhide received 6,479. The top three vote-getters are elected. After Friday's recount, the figures were adjusted to, Costa, 6,582, and Willhide, 6,480.

Town Clerk Edward Tomkiel said that an error in addition of 100 was found in the total from the eighth voting district, where voting is done at Verplanck School.

Costa was given 100 less votes than he actually received, Tomkiel said. The figures were taken down correctly from the voting machines but an error was made in adding them, he said.

The recounting procedure began Friday at 8:30 a.m. It was completed shortly before 3 p.m.

"I'm naturally pleased that my election was reaffirmed," Costa said Friday after learning of the result.

"To restate what I said Tuesday night, I pledge myself to work for the maintenance of quality education in our community," he said.

Costa, who is a professor at Greater Hartford Community College, said that he was not nervous about the recount, but he admitted that he did cancel his last class of the afternoon so that he could find out the final results of the recount.

Smiling faces tell the story, after Nick and Amelia Costa hear the news of his win over Paul Willhide in a recount of votes for a seat on the Board of Education. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Gulf fined in transport of Nixon campaign funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gulf Oil Corp. has been fined $229,500 for secretly bringing money across U.S. borders for illegal contribution to the campaigns of Richard Nixon and members of Congress, the Treasury Department reported Friday.

Treasury sources said fines would be imposed on other major corporations in the next few months for similar violations of the Bank Secrecy Act.

The law requires a report to the Customs Bureau of all cash in excess of $5,000 that is either carried into or out of the country.

"The law took force June 1, 1972 after Nixon's fundraisers completed the financing of his presidential re-election campaign," said a spokesman for Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., who pressed the Treasury to impose the fine on Gulf.

The spokesman said the alleged infractions were uncovered last year at hearings by Rosenthal's House subcommittee on monetary affairs.

Gulf was convicted in 1973 of illegally contributing $125,000 to the presidential campaigns of Nixon, Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and then Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

Other contributions went to the House campaigns of Gerald Ford and to former Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania.

It is a violation of federal law for a corporation to donate to a federal election campaign.

In a 1975 report, Gulf said it donated more than $10 million to U.S. political campaigns and to foreign political leaders between 1960 and 1973.

But regarding the bank secrecy violations, Gulf said it "provided the Customs Service with the information to settle this civil action."

Gulf described the transport of money across international borders in a Dec. 30, 1975 report to the U.S. District Court in connection with a civil suit brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Gulf report said William Viglia, comptroller of a subsidiary firm in the Bahamas, brought $470,000 into the United States on 19 trips between June 19, 1972 and July 19, 1973, when the laundering operation was halted.

Before the bank secrecy act took effect, Gulf's report indicated, Viglia had transported about $5.3 million across U.S. borders without reporting to Customs.

In a sworn statement to the court, Viglia said he usually carried $25,000 in cash in his jacket pocket or inside his brief case. He said he was such a frequent visitor that he became a speaking acquaintance of the customs officers.

Lebanon bombed

By United Press International

Israeli warplanes bombed southern Lebanon for the second time in three days Friday. Lebanese reports said the air strike hit a refugee camp, but the Israeli military command said the planes attacked a Lebanese missile position.

Both the Israeli government and witnesses in Lebanon said the attack came after Palestinian anti-aircraft positions fired on four Israeli jets flying reconnaissance sorties over border villages destroyed in Wednesday's massive airstrike.

In Beirut, one radical Palestinian splinter group — the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine — said its anti-aircraft fire had downed one Israeli jet.

Israel had said none of the planes were shot down or hit during the 30-minute overflight.

Right-wing Phalangist radio in Lebanon said in a bulletin report, "A surprise air attack by Israeli planes began against the (Palestinian refugee) camp of Rashidiyeh at 4:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EST)."

Houley may seek second position on state ticket

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. Robert Houley, D-Somers, Friday added his name to the list of potential candidates for lieutenant governor next year.

Houley confirmed he is passing the word he would be interested in the number two spot on the Democratic state ticket in 1978.

Houley is the cochairman of the Legislature's budget-writing Appropriations Committee and has acquired a reputation as being a fiscal conservative during his tenure.

"I am serious about this. I don't know what's going to happen as much as the next guy. I am not unhappy as state senator. If nothing happens I will run again for the Senate," he said.

"I'm not waiting for a groundswell because such things don't occur unless they are self made."

Lt. Gov. Robert K. Killian has indicated he may not seek another term, although there is speculation he might contest Gov. Ella T. Grasso for renomination.

Other party members have also threatened a primary to deny her renomination, a prospect that does not sit well with Houley.

"If you have to go the primary route you may as well hand the thing over to the other party. If the Democratic Party gets itself into a major primary battle for governor, look for the possibility of enough divisiveness that you would in effect jeopardize the ticket itself," he said.

Among those who have expressed interest in the number two spot on the Democratic ticket are Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, State Treasurer Henry Park and House Speaker James J. Kennedy, D-Hartford.

Gov. Grasso hints at cut in taxes

MYSTIC (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso indicated Friday she might recommend some tax cuts next year, but declined to be any more specific.

During a question and answer session before a meeting of the New England Society of Newspaper Editors in Mystic, she said she hoped to make some "tax adjustments" in the budget to be submitted to the Legislature in February.

Asked about her comments, a Grasso spokesman said, "This could mean cuts in some taxes." He also indicated it might not.

Neither the governor at the session, nor the spokesman later, would be more specific.

The spokesman explained the situation was uncertain because state revenue projections were not yet available for next year.

The Connecticut Public Expenditure Council recently said the state was in a strong enough situation for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1978, to cut taxes $27 million.

Last spring, Mrs. Grasso warned of an impending budget gap that would almost certainly require a tax increase.

She backed away from that statement as the economy in Connecticut improved over the summer and now says it's unlikely higher levies will be needed. But she has not said a tax cut is in the offing.

The CPEC is among a number of groups who would like any cuts in levies to come from business taxes as a means of helping revitalize the economy.

Last year the Legislature cut some business taxes, but not nearly as much as business groups wanted.

In her budget message last year, Mrs. Grasso went on record recommending the phase-out of the taxes on business services and purchase of new industrial equipment.

New Hope graduates three

New Hope Manor, residential rehabilitation center for teen-age girls with drug or alcohol-related problems, recently graduated three girls from its therapeutic program.

Members of New Hope's board of directors and the girls' families attended the graduation ceremonies at the Hartford Road facility.

For the past seven months, the girls, who come from Willimantic, Coventry and Newington, have been living at home as part of the last phase of the program — re-entry into the community.

Gary Sylvestro, director of New Hope, said the graduates are a living testament to the success of New Hope Manor.

All three girls have jobs. Two of them are enrolled at area community colleges, and the other has returned to high school and is in its honors program.

Burfoot to defend title in Five Mile Road Race

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor

What may be good news for race promoters and spectators but bad news for competitors was receipt of a signed entry from Amby Burfoot to compete in the 41st edition of the Five Mile Road Race in Manchester Thanksgiving morning.

No one man has dominated the state's biggest foot race like the defending champion. The long-striding, tall 31-year-old bearded Burfoot has returned to the winner's circle eight times in the last nine years. This year's appearance will be the 15th in succession and his overall record in phenomenal.

In his maiden appearance in 1963, the Fitch High runner was 14th.

Year	Time	Place
1963	25:59	14th
1964	24:50	7th
1965	24:55	6th
1966	23:27	2nd
1967	23:19	2nd
1968	22:34	1st
1969	22:38	1st
1970	23:24	3rd
1971	23:45	1st
1972	22:21	1st
1973	22:37	1st
1974	22:32	1st
1975	22:34	1st
1976	22:34	1st

Since that year, he has finished no worse than seventh and in the last 11 years has won on eight occasions, been second twice and third once. Six of his triumphs in the last nine years have come in succession. The expected leader, for more than a decade one of the country's leading distance runners, also holds the course record of 22:21 set in 1972. Over the last five years he has averaged 23:30 for the race which is expected to attract more than 1,000 entries for the second straight time. Burfoot's winning time the past two Novembers was an identical 22:34. Since flashing home first in 1968 for the first time, his only defeat in the last nine years came in 1970 when John Vitale and Irish Olympian Pat McMahon showed their heels. It took Burfoot six tries, including a pair of seconds, before he broke the tape first but since then he has dominated the AAU-sanctioned event. Vitale, like Burfoot, holder of a number of National AAU records, was second last year and has been runner-up four times in his last five appearances. Vitale was among the early entrants. Burfoot, who ran for nearly a decade wearing a white painter's cap, has rivalled the now retired Joe McCluskey and the still active Charlie Robbins as the most popular runners over the years. The latter will be in his 32nd Five Mile Thanksgiving. After his triumph last November, Burfoot announced he was going into semi-retirement as a runner but would still compete for fun. Three

Amby Burfoot semi-retirement as a runner but would still compete for fun. Three weeks ago in Hartford, sharpening up for the Five Mile, he trailed Vitale home by just several seconds. A protégé of Little Johnny Kelley, who was his first coach at Fitch, Burfoot attracted national attention while at Wesleyan when he was the individual winner in 28 straight cross country runs, added the New England and ICA titles and the Boston Marathon. Kelley won the Five Mile six times but hasn't appeared in the Manchester run for a half dozen years. Deadline for entries is Wednesday.

JoJo White retirement ends in day

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtic all-star guard Jo Jo White ended his one-day retirement Friday night when he showed up for a scheduled game against the Buffalo Braves. White left the Celtics after Wednesday night's 129-114 loss to the San Antonio Spurs — the eighth defeat for the Celtics in nine starts. White was the target of some biting remarks by General Manager Ed Auerbach after Wednesday night's game. He returned to the team after missing a Thursday practice and meeting Friday with Auerbach and Coach Tom Heinsohn. "Everything's cool now," White said Friday before the game. "If we win tonight I'll know that what I did had a positive effect on the team." The seven-time all-star guard was fined and for a while it appeared White threatened to leave the team. The Celtics are off to their worst start in memory. "It's a lot of different things — the team, my foot, personal problems," White said Thursday in explaining his absence from practice. Despite being troubled by a bone spur in one heel this season, White still is leading the team with an 18.7-point average.

Mitchell stops Cougars, 4-0

By DAVE ROBACK Correspondent

Two-and-a-half months of living, working, and playing together ended last night as Manchester Community College's 1977 soccer team stepped off the bus for the final time. Home-standing Mitchell College shut out the Cougars 4-0, yesterday in the semifinals of the NCAA Region XXI tournament in New London. Top-ranked Mitchell, 14-1, will face the winner of the Massachusetts-Middlesex CC match today at noon. MCC bows out at 10-5-1. The Pequot wasted no time as they were the honored guests at the fourth annual sports night. Social hour starts at 6 followed by a potluck dinner. Tickets are available at the club. A strong crowd caused havoc with the MCC officials with the locals having to play catch-up. A slugging Mitchell since the last two met, went into the locker room well contained by the Cougars but with a 1-0 edge.

With the start of the second half, the Pequot wasted no time scoring on a wind-assisted goal. With the crosswind, Bob Kellogg took a chipshot that fell short of the awaiting Gerber and headed over the keeper with Hiram King blasting in the score. Seventeen minutes expired in the second half when a Hiram King shot deflected off Gerber with Humphrey Fred bowling the deflection off two MCC defenders covering the net. The final score came three minutes later as Gillian King inched a shot between the crossbar and an outstretched Gerber with the ball settling in the upper right-hand corner. MCC found itself outshooting 16-12, with Gerber grabbing 12 outsets.

Turnpike rivalry spices NFL play

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's called the Turnpike Rivalry, but for the Cleveland Browns it's been the road to nowhere. Cleveland, just 125 miles down the Ohio Turnpike from Pittsburgh, which holds a tenuous one-game lead in the AFC Central Division, Sunday take on the Steelers at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, where they have yet to win a game. "People around here get pretty excited about the so-called Turnpike Rivalry, no matter where the games are played," said Browns co-captain Jerry Sherk. The Browns, coming off a 10-7 loss Sunday to Cincinnati, are 5-3 in the division. The Steelers are coming off a 21-7 defeat to Denver and are 4-4 in the division, along with Cincinnati and Houston. Should the Steelers, Bengals and Oilers win this weekend, the AFC Central will be bumper-to-bumper with all four teams at 5-4. But if the Browns are to act like a first-place club they must cut down on turnovers. Two fumbles and two interceptions were largely responsible for last week's loss when Chris Blair kicked a 47-yard field goal to win it. The Steelers have statistics going for them this year but don't have much to show for it. They lead the AFC in defense and are second to Oakland in offense but a 500 record is the bottom line thus far and for all their impressive statistics, injuries are doing a number on the Steelers. Middle linebacker Jack Lambert is out with a damaged knee while defensive ends L.C. Greenwood and John Banaszak are also sidelined. In other Sunday games, Houston is at Oakland, Denver at San Diego, Baltimore at Buffalo, New England at Miami, Seattle at the New York Jets, Detroit at Atlanta, Los Angeles vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, the New York Giants at Tampa Bay, San Francisco at New Orleans, Cincinnati at Minnesota, Kansas City at Chicago and Washington at Philadelphia. St. Louis is at Dallas Monday night. Houston is fighting its way into the top of the AFC Central while the Raiders are trying to hold off Denver in the AFC West. The Oilers billed Chicago, 4-1 Sunday, as their record for most points in a game. Minnesota will be looking to preserve its half-game lead over Detroit in the NFC Central when it hosts Cincinnati in an inter-conference game. A good matchup in quarterbacks can be expected with Ken Anderson of the Bengals going against Fran Tarkenton of the Vikings. Representing Connecticut are freshmen Glenn Fladori of Manchester and Luke O'Conner (Rockville), sophomores Pat O'Neil and Bob Sloss and juniors Tim Kane, Pete McLennan and Jim Somers.

Football teams not in top 10 set to get into bowl bidding

NEW YORK (UPI) — While bowl bids aren't officially extended until Nov. 19, several college football teams not ranked among the top 10 can increase their chances considerably for a post-season invitation by scoring a victory Saturday. Clemson, Florida, Florida State, North Carolina, Colorado and either Brigham Young or Arizona State are in position to get bowl invitations next week if they can impress the scouts Saturday. Clemson, which hasn't been to a bowl game since 1959, being courted by several bowl committees and could start selling tickets if it can beat fifth-ranked Notre Dame. The 16th-ranked Tigers have never met the Irish before and would appear to be in for a difficult afternoon, but Clemson's defense has allowed only 31 points in nine games and the Tigers will undoubtedly be emotionally ready for the test. The Tigers (7-1-1) haven't lost since their upset with Maryland, while Notre Dame (8-1) has put together a six-game winning streak since losing to Mississippi in its second game. Notre Dame, whether it wins or loses appears to be heading for a major bowl, is averaging 33 points a game and last week handed Georgia Tech a crushing 69-14 thrashing.

Seven members of the University of Connecticut's men's cross country team will travel to Van Cortland Park in New York to run in the ICAA on Monday. Representing Connecticut are freshmen Glenn Fladori of Manchester and Luke O'Conner (Rockville), sophomores Pat O'Neil and Bob Sloss and juniors Tim Kane, Pete McLennan and Jim Somers.

Teaching pro

Bonnie Castleman of Manchester has been added to the teaching professional staff at the Glastonbury Racquet Club. She will teach junior and adult clinics and conduct private and group lessons. Workers needed Dave Saunders has volunteered to tabulate the finishers in the Five Mile Road Race but needs eight volunteers. The work will be done following the race at the East Side Rec. Anyone interested may contact Saunders at 643-0003.

Workers needed

Annual meeting of the Manchester Country Club will be held Dec. 1 at the clubhouse. Tom Wall, chairman of the nominating committee, has proposed the following slate for the 1977-78 season: Bert Davis, president; Pete Teets, vice president; Tony Pietrantonio, Jack Shea, Nick Carlo (one year); Rudy Piero, Bob VanderKall and Mark Warren (two years) and Rocko Bonadies, Jim Moriarty and Jane Stuek (three years), all on the board of governors. Nominating committee consists of Wall, Vito Agostinelli, Rishar Flydai, C.D. McCarthy, Tina Mikolowsky, Pat Mistretta, Grace Shea and Burt Tarca.

Gain semifinals Bobcat booters top Ledyard, 2-0

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter

Maybe they're not all that impressive looking, but South Windsor High gets the job done. That's all you can ask.

The Bobcats in typical fashion moved into the semifinals of the Class I Division in the CIAC State Soccer Tournament yesterday with a 2-0 whitewashing of Ledyard High at Manchester's Memorial Field. The third-ranked Bobcats, now 16-1-1 and architects of 12 shutouts, will face the winner of Windsor Locks-Bristol Central Tuesday at a site to be announced. Ledyard, seventh seed, bows out at 11-5-1. Jim Gouin's goal at the 25:47 mark of the first half gave South Windsor the lead, a lead by rights deserved by Ledyard. The Eastern Connecticut Conference club, even against a brisk wind, dominated play but still trailed.

Yale and UMass after area football honors

BOSTON (UPI) — Head coach Frank Tomahawk and south Ivy fans; trek north Yankee watchers; go west Little Three followers. All roads lead to The Big Game. Yale can wrap up the Ivy race or Harvard can tie for the 94th time at the Bowl in New Haven. Massachusetts can take the Yale Conference crown, and probably gain a NCAA Division II playoff berth, with a win against New Hampshire at Durham. A New Hampshire win could lead to a three-way tie. Amherst is out in the western reaches of Massachusetts to face Williams, with the winner gaining the Little Three crown. A Harvard win over Yale, combined with a Dartmouth victory at Penn and a Brown triumph against visiting Columbia would lead to the first four-way tie in the Ivy League history. "They say every year that the Ivy League is balanced but this year there really are four or five even teams," said Yale Coach Carmen Cozza. "You just don't know about this league and that's what makes it exciting." The players to watch in the game are Yale fullback John Pagliaro, who needs 90 yards to become the school's all-time rushing leader. Harvard counters with quarterback Larry Williams, who set a school passing mark of 349 yards last week, and wide receiver Jim Curry — a pro prospect. In Durham, the Wildcats send record-breaking Bill Burnham and quarterback Jeff Allen after the Minutemen. Burnham has broken most of the rushing marks in New England, including the single season record of 1,341 yards. Massachusetts' answer is a beely offensive and defensive line and the steady running of Billy Coleman. A New Hampshire win, combined with a Rhode Island victory against visiting Connecticut, would cause a three-way tie in the Yankee Conference.

Baseball salaries too high

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn doesn't think salaries paid to major league baseball players are too high, at least for now. "I think salaries were increased for a significant rise," he said. "I am not worried about where they are now, but I am concerned about where they might head." Kuhn, whose rulings in recent years have sparked heavy criticism from fans and team owners, also said the free-agent re-entry draft is one of the reasons for "interest in the league's popularity during the last season." Speaking Thursday night to the Yale Political Union, Kuhn called last year's increase in attendance at professional baseball's major and minor league parks remarkable. "The excitement generated by the re-entry draft, whether you like it or not, has been incredible," Kuhn said. "Never have we seen any sport make such a vault ahead in popularity." Kuhn noted overall baseball attendance rose nearly 54 million last year, including a 15 percent rise at minor league parks. The controversial re-entry draft, which allows players to play out their contracts and then negotiate as free agents, was responsible for part of that upsurge in popularity, Kuhn said. "This system (re-entry draft) has got the potential," he said. "The weaker teams should use it to make the league more competitive." He said the leagues became more competitive as a result of the draft, but warned the so-called Sunbelt teams, where some franchises have more money, might obtain unfair advantages in the future. Kuhn was the first major speaker to appear at Yale in two weeks. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall and former Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir canceled speaking engagements at the school because they did not want to cross the picket lines of 1,400 striking blue collar workers.

Years on Yale gridiron were a dream come true

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — For Yale running back John Pagliaro, a kid from the nearby industrial town of Derby, his years on the Eli gridiron were a dream come true.

Pagliaro's last game in a Yale uniform Saturday, against arch-rival Harvard, ending an association with the Ivy League school that extends back to almost all of his 21 years.

As a youth Pagliaro sat in Yale Bowl to watch coach Carm Cozza's Bulldogs do battle, led by future National Football League great Calvin Hill.

The desire grew into a dream as Pagliaro, growing into the star running back for state champion Derby High School, watched Cozza and Yale this time led by Dick Jauron, the first Yale runner to gain more than 1,000 yards in a season.

Finally the dream became reality and Pagliaro no longer had to just watch. Accepted at Yale in 1973, he became a part of the team and a student of Cozza, who ranks him with Hill and Jauron.

"I always dreamed of playing for Yale," said the 1976 Ivy League player of year.

"I would go to the Yale games hoping that some day I could be playing, not only watching."

A Dallas Cowboy fan, Pagliaro remembered Hill "as my favorite player. I used to go to the bowl to watch his moves."

He is shy to discuss his records. He needs only 69 yards Saturday to surpass Jauron's 2,947-yard career record. Pagliaro also would become the first Yale player to score 1,000 or more yards in two seasons. His 33 career touchdowns are also a Yale record.

"They're nice I guess, but I really don't appreciate them now as much as I will in five years.

"I'm just a part of this great team. Saturday's game is the greatest traditional rivalry in football," said the young athlete. "I'm proud to have played with the greatest bunch of players and coaches," he said.

Yale, 8-5, will be seeking its first undisputed Ivy League crown since 1967, against a 4-4 Harvard team in the 94th renewal of the Ivy League classic.

"We've really improved the past four games and if we play like we've played the last two games we will come up with a victory," he said.

Pagliaro's gridiron career has been followed closely by his parents, a 16-year-old sister and a following from his Italian-Irish neighborhood. His cousin, Brian Pagliaro, is a starting junior linebacker for Boston University. They both played in the 1975 state champion Derby High School team.

More than 60,000 people are expected to witness Pagliaro's farewell but it's also a threshold. A sociology major, he plans to attend graduate school "if nothing happens," meaning he is interested in playing professional football.

Although his 5-foot-10, 190-pound frame is considered small for pro football Pagliaro believes "I can do well. A lot of teams have indicated interest," he said "but there is nothing definite at all at this point."

Would a good professional offer offset future education plans? "I have to look at the offer before I decide. I like football. I've played organized ball for 14 years and I like to play pro."

If pro football is not to be, Pagliaro said he will pursue his major "or possibly business. There are lots of opportunities if pro football doesn't work out."

Pagliaro extends no further than Saturday inside the Yale Bowl, for one last time.

Wightman Cup final exhibition

OAKLAND (UPI) — The final round of the Wightman Cup scheduled Saturday night has been reduced to an exhibition following the United States' sweep of the first four matches, but the competition remains attractive enough to draw a sellout crowd at the Oakland Arena.

The opening night singles players will switch opponents with Chris Evert taking Great Britain's Sue Barker and Billie Jean King meeting reigning Wimbledon queen Virginia Wade.

The doubles pairs Evert and Rosie Casals against Wade and Barker.

The Americans ran their Wightman Cup domination to 40 victories — against 9 defeats — with Evert defeating Wade, 7-5, 7-6, and King stopping Barker, 6-1, 6-4. Tuesday night and Casals beating Scheide Tyler, 6-2, 6-4, and King teaming with JoAnne Russell to take the first doubles from Sue Mappin and Lesley Charles, 6-0, 6-1, two nights later.

The first two days of the tournament drew 12,165 fans and that total is expected to be near for the finale.

Although the U.S. team has clinched the Cup, team captain Casals said her players will try to complete play with a sweep.

"We are going all out to win the final matches," she said Friday during a brief practice session. "It would be nice."

It would be doubly nice for her since her victory over Tyler was the first in four Wightman Cup singles. Casals, who is from San Francisco, added, "It's always nice to win at home."

Billie Jean King, shown here, won the first of four Wightman Cup singles titles.

White sparks Celts

BOSTON (UPI) — Jo Jo White's 23 points spurred the Boston Celtics to a 109-101 win over the Buffalo Braves at Boston Garden Friday night.

White sat out a Thursday practice and was fined by Celtics general manager Red Auerbach after a Wednesday night loss to San Antonio.

He and the rest of the team were berated in the Celtics locker room after that game for being "quitters" by Auerbach.

But White scored eight points in the final 2:23 of the game to pull the Celtics from a 101-99 deficit.

He got the Celtics off to an 11-point lead in the first period. At one point Boston led the game by 15.

The Celtics were also buoyed by career-high 21 points from rookie forward Cedric Maxwell. Joining them was guard Charlie Scott, who threw in 22 points before fouling out late in the fourth period.

But Buffalo, behind the red-hot shooting of Randy Smith with a game-high total of 33 points, led the contest with as little as 2-05 remaining in the fourth quarter.

The win was the second of the season for the Boston Celtics, who have lost to five. The defeat dropped Buffalo to 1-8 on the season.

Interest worldwide in Yale-Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The annual Ivy League grudge match between Harvard and Yale is proving to be three times more important than any other game either team has played this year.

The 94th game between the two rivals will be watched by an expected total of 68,000 fans at Yale Bowl, triple the average of 22,000 for other home games this season.

Additionally, a Harvard win would tie the Crimson with Yale — and possibly Brown and Dartmouth — for the Ivy League title. Yale enters the game with a 6-2 overall mark and 5-1 mark in the league, including four straight wins. Harvard is 4-4 overall and 2-2 in Ivy play.

The game is unlike any other in New England — more of a happening than a football contest. Yale leads the series 41-55-4.

"Both teams have played so well against each other over the last five or six years, that it makes for an incredible game for the fans and players," said Yale Coach Carm Cozza in trying to explain the attraction of THE GAME, as it is known regionally.

"Both teams have seemed to play a close game for at least three periods over the past few years, which is part of it. But then, this is Harvard versus Yale. It seems to have that mystique."

Harvard Coach Joe Ristic, who is 14-5 against Yale, says the interest in the game is "unbelievable."

"I never go through another experience like this all year. It has to do with it being Harvard and Yale playing and that the games have been so close," said Ristic.

"The interest is worldwide. I've gotten telegrams from people all over the world. The way they talk we haven't played any games yet. This is the one and if we don't win, it makes for a long winter."

Yale has the apparent edge, with talent at the offensive skill positions. John Pagliaro is the all purpose fullback who has gained more than 150 yards in each of the past four games to pull within 60 yards of Dick Jauron's career marks at Yale.

Left-hander Bob Rizzo is the captain and quarterback who adds a passing thrust to Yale's traditionally ground-oriented game. The Eli have a group of good, tall receivers, paced by John Saegusa. The defense is always tough.

Eagles bow to St. Paul

Turnovers and penalties were major factors last night as East Catholic High suffered defeat again.

Host St. Paul of Bristol administered a convincing 29-8 Hartford County Conference success which sent the Eagles down to their fourth straight setback and seventh in eight starts this season before 800 fans at Murray Field.

St. Paul upped its record to 5-4, 2-1. Pacheca tossed to Mike Furlong and the play covered 19 yards for a TD. Pacheca flipped to Mike Frelheit for the two extra points late in the final quarter.

Pacheca completed 10 of 32 passes but had five intercepted. East fumbled three times at crucial times, losing the ball twice.

East's offense resulted in 67 yards rushing and 160 through the air while the home team chalk up 194 yards on the ground and 90 more through the air lines.

Fred Cecchini was the lone Eagle who showed any running ability, gaining 36 yards in six carries.

White snow cover awaited in Vermont

NEW YORK (UPI) — The snow reports in the Rockies are far more encouraging than last year. Vermont now is waiting its turn for the white blanket that stimulates the economy and brings visions of Olympic downhill medals to thousands of skiers.

It's also a nostalgia kick for the old-timers who sit around the fireplace at historic Woodstock Inn in Woodstock, Vt., remembering when the first ski tow in the United States was built on a hill at Clinton Gilbert's farm in February, 1924.

At the time, the most popular winter sport in Woodstock was snowshoeing. Trails for stomping snowshoes abounded around "the village that is noted for its arts and crafts. Ice skating, tobogganing, sleigh riding and cross country skiing enthusiasts got in their ticks, too.

Ardent downhill skiers, however, were easily discouraged. Their few moments of exhilaration weren't enough compensation for the time-consuming efforts in climbing hills. Despite the time, expense and effort spent on a weekend, the maximum runs a skier could enjoy were six or a day. Something had to be done before inn rooms as well as slopes began to empty.

One day, 45 years ago, three young businessmen — Thomas Gammack, Douglas Burden and Bartlie Henry — approached Robert and Elizabeth Royce, owners of the now-closed White Opboard Inn, with an electrifying thought.

"Mr. Royce, you ought to be able to think of something to get us up these hills," said Gammack. "Each of us is spending $40 a piece to enjoy the weekend in Vermont, yet the most we can do in a day is to climb a hill a half-dozen times. We want to do something that we can do all day. I estimate that modern towing equipment can lift 4,000 skiers an hour to the top of their run.

"Of course it's never run at that capacity," Russell says. "At any given time, one-third of the skiers are on the lift that goes up 2,000 feet, another third on the slopes and the final third in the lodges around the area."

"We're a small family ski area, handling about 25,000 people a season. We aren't out to compete with a place like Killington, but we feel our isolation provides lots more skiing time for our customers. Devoted skiers can make about five runs an hour on our slopes."

Key to consistency: Keep forward lines

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins know the key to consistency: Play every other day and keep the same three forward lines.

Unfortunately for the Bruins, the quirks of the National Hockey League schedule has them playing a series of four-day layovers.

Then there is Coach Don Cherry, who likes to shuffle his forwards, use four lines instead of three and act more by instinct than by routine.

"Every other day would be nice, but it doesn't work that way," said goalie Ron Grahame, who has backstopped the Bruins to two straight wins. "I would like to play 60 days, take six months off and play another 60 days. That would make two seasons in one year."

Center Jean Ratelle, the playmaker on a new line between Terry O'Reilly and Stan Jonathan, said he would settle for a regular series of three line shifts. "After playing with three lines," as Boston did Thursday in topping Los Angeles, 5-2, "you start to really get into the game more. With four lines, you're not in the game as much and you don't develop the rhythm you need."

Coventry councilmen get and give awards

Jack Myles, newly elected chairman of the Coventry Town Council, at his first meeting Wednesday night, presented recognition awards to outgoing councilmen and they, in turn, presented awards to several town employees.

Myles gave awards of recognition to Jesse Brainard, Leonard Giglio, Gerry LeGrand, Robert Keller and Robert Olmstead.

The council, after Tuesday's election, changed from a Republican majority to a Democratic majority. Brainard, who has served the town in various capacities since 1937, failed in his re-election bid. In his farewell speech, he vowed that he and his wife, Suzanne, who was also defeated in the school board race, would continue to be active in the town and to be concerned about its welfare. Brainard received a standing ovation from the some 60 persons attending the meeting.

Awards from the outgoing council went to several town employees, were also presented and along with the awards each employee was given an appropriate nickname. The employees, their positions, and nicknames included Gerard Lavie, tax collector, "Mr. Dependable"; Deborah Wojcik, secretary to the town manager, "Ms. Performance"; John Willanier, building inspector, "Mr. Service"; Audrey Bray, tax collector, "Ms. Results"; Donald Holmes, sanitation, "Mr. Consistency"; and Susan Rogers, assistant to the town manager, "Ms. Reliable."

Also: Ernest Wheeler, zoning agent, "Mr. Helpful"; Gregory Padock, town planner, "Mr. Potential"; Robert Kjellquist, chief of police, "Mr. Team Player"; Dean Wiley, street superintendent, "Mr. Leadership"; Barbara Carr, secretary, "Ms. Most Long Suffering"; Abbot Schwelb, town attorney, "Mr. Defense"; Elizabeth Rychling, town clerk, "Ms. Dedication"; and Frank Connolly, town manager, "Most Valuable Player."

Robert Keller, retiring chairman of the Steering Committee, in a lengthy speech, praised the council's record and his role in it and criticized the town as "overgoverned."

He also criticized the public for using town officials as "punching bags," and the press for what he called lack of objectivity. He also accused the Republican Town Committee of not supporting the Republican-controlled council.

Music filled the air and art work of every kind was displayed at the East Hartford schools' Arts Festival Wednesday night at Penney High School.

Art exhibits from the town's two high schools, four middle schools, and all the elementary schools included paintings, drawings, sculpture, ceramics, paper mache, macramé, rug art, mobiles and weaving.

Teachers and students demonstrated their arts to crowds.

The music department offered six programs during the evening.

Elderly housing plan advances in Andover

Plans for housing for Andover's elderly residents are progressing. The Hop River Homes Housing Group (volunteer residents from Andover) is optimistic that a mortgage and site engineering work will be approved within the next few weeks. The approval is expected from the Farmer's Home Administration and the State Department of Health respectively.

If it is received, the group will seek approval for the project from the Andover Planning and Zoning Commission.

The housing group proposes to build a 24-unit apartment complex for the elderly on a 15.9 acre site off Long Hill Road. The land is presently owned by Ernest Reed.

The idea for elderly housing in Andover was suggested several years ago by The Rev. Arthur Higgins, a guest speaker at Andover Congregational Church.

The United Church of Christ found there was a need for elderly housing in Connecticut. It formed the New Samaritan Housing Corp., a non-profit organization that uses federal money to construct the housing units.

Those involved locally with the project sit on the Board of Directors of the New Samaritan Housing Corp. Local residents on the board are Chris Reese, Bette McDonald, Margaret Juravoy, William Austin and Inny Richards.

The committee has met with the management of New Samaritan Housing Corp. and an architect. It has discussed how to make the units more livable and practical for the elderly.

The local group usually meets the first Wednesday of each month at the home of Mrs. Reese.

Student races set Nov. 20

Coming up a week from tomorrow on Sunday, Nov. 20 will be the fourth annual student road races sponsored by the Manchester Lions Club.

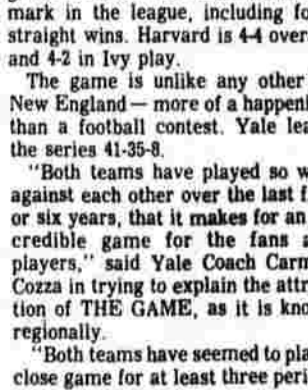

Four divisions with two races in each are slated. The events will start at 1 o'clock with the starting and finishing point at Mt. Nebo.

Races will be held in rain or shine and students will be competing for trophies, three in each division.

Age brackets will be 8-9, 10-11, 12-13 and 14-18.

Entry blanks are available at local schools.

SPORTSQUIZ

before letting lanky Junior Larry Brown handle the job. He has progressed steadily and set a school record against Penn last week by passing for 349 yards, while hitting 15 of 32 passes.

"I don't know how anyone can figure Ivy League games," said Cozza, now in his 14th season at Yale. "You just never know. That's what makes it exciting."

"The veteran center said the Bruins have started to play well," beginning with the second period (of a 5-3 win Sunday) against the Islanders.

Still lobbied by knee injuries to goalie Gerry Cheevers and forwards Gregg Sheppard and Dwight Foster, the Bruins have received an offensive lift from Terry O'Reilly. The winger scored three times and added an assist Wednesday in the win over Los Angeles.

"The Los Angeles win was very important," said the red-haired sparkplug, who returned from a three-game suspension. "We have been inconsistent, but now we've won two in a row. Now we've got to get something going, win two or three more in a row and get a streak going. We've got to start somewhere."

Gilles Gilbert was expected to be in goal Saturday night when the Bruins played the Flames in Atlanta. The teams skated to a 2-2 tie in the season opener at Boston as Willis Plett notched both Atlanta goals.

Ex-Bolton man had part in historic discovery

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter
A light was extinguished more than 100 years ago, but the lantern that held the flame is still quite intact, even though it lay submerged in the Atlantic Ocean from the time the light went out until it was salvaged last July.

Barry Sheridan of Ft. Pierce, Fla., formerly of Bolton, witnessed this discovery, which had special merit because that lantern is said to have been hoisted from the Monitor before it sank in a storm off Cape Hatteras.

N.C., in December 1862, after battling 20-foot waves. Sheridan, 28, was a member of the crew of the ship which was assigned a special mission to research the possibility of rescuing the ironclad Civil War battleship, famous for its encounter with the Merrimack earlier the same year.

With a bachelor's degree in ocean technology from the Florida Institute of Technology, Sheridan is serving as a seaman on board the R.V. Johnson, a research vessel.

The ship is funded by the Harbor Branch Foundation which was founded by Edwin Link and Seward Johnson, both semi-retired business magnates. Link designed the Link Trainer, a simulated cockpit used for pilot training. He has also designed many underwater habitats and underwater submarines. Johnson is head of the Johnson & Johnson baby products.

The Harbor Branch Foundation (HBF) was established in 1970 to research pollution aspects of the ocean, marine plant and animal life as affected by polluted and unpolluted ocean areas, to devise new engineering tools and improved safety equipment for marine and oceanographic research, to develop methods for changing the character of pollution using nutrients, and to prepare publications, lectures and seminars on oceanography.

The HBF provides personnel and surface and underwater vessels for its research missions.

Last July, the foundation was asked to recover the Monitor's deck plate and lantern if possible.

Sheridan said a four-man crew in a submersible craft left the R.V. Johnson in the vicinity of the sunken vessel to explore the Monitor and what was salvageable. The crew was able to retrieve what they had been sent for—the Monitor's deck plate and the lantern. They also recovered camera equipment which had become snagged in the wreckage by a photographer in an exploratory mission.

Sheridan said the reaction of those on board who witnessed the recovery of the items from the Monitor was "fantastic."

In order to preserve the deck plate and lantern from disintegration, they were kept in fresh water until they could be treated for further experimentation for preservation. The foundation will determine whether it is possible or feasible to continue with the recovery of the Monitor. Until such time, the "cheesebox," as the battleship was nicknamed, lies in an area designated as a Marine Sanctuary 16 miles off Cape Hatteras.

In the meantime, Sheridan will continue to go with the R.V. Johnson as it fulfills various research assignments, and as it fulfills Sheridan's lifelong dream to be around water.

He described some of his seagoing adventures recently to a Manchester civic group while he was on vacation visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Sheridan, in Bolton.

Talk today on animals at museum

The Lutz Junior Museum, 126 Cedar St., will sponsor Animal Day today at the museum. At 2 p.m., the animal curator will lecture on the live animals living at the museum. The talk will be geared for adults. At the same time, the children will participate in supervised activities in the next room.

At 3 p.m., the curator will discuss animals with the youngsters. This program is free to the public.

The "Who Discovered America?" program originally scheduled for Nov. 19 has been canceled. The guest speaker was unable to meet the commitment.

MCC will test blood pressure

Free blood pressure tests will be given Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Manchester Community College.

Appointments are required and may be made by calling the college nurse at 646-4900, extension 269.

Free literature will be available. The public is invited.

Nature film scheduled

"Secrets of the Wildlife World," a nature film showing birds, bugs, fish and animals in their day-to-day struggle for survival, will be sponsored by the Manchester Land Conservation Trust Wednesday at 8 p.m. at East Catholic High School auditorium.

Dr. John Paling of Oxford, England, an ichthyologist turned film-maker, will be the narrator. Among the several degrees he holds from Birmingham University in England is a doctorate in fish biology. Wednesday night's program is free to members of the trust, with a nominal admission fee for non-members and a lower charge for senior citizens.

Before the program, Dr. Paling will be honored at a cocktail party and dinner starting at 5 at Willie's Steak House.

Advance reservations for the program and dinner are required and may be made before Tuesday by calling trust headquarters, 646-2225, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Payment for either the dinner or program will be accepted at the door.

The lottery

HARTFORD (UPI)—The number drawn Friday in the Connecticut Daily Lottery was 894.

Multi-media program slated

The Rev. James Floyd, staff representative of "Compassion," will speak and present a multi-media program Sunday at the 6:30 p.m. service at Calvary Church, 647 E. Middle Turnpike.

The Rev. Mr. Floyd is a former resident of Manchester and was an employee of Pratt and Whitney Division of United Technologies Corp. A graduate of Zion Bible Institute, East Providence, R.I., he and his wife, Naomi, served as missionaries in the Philippine Islands for about eight years before joining the Compassion staff.

Compassion, Inc. with headquarters in Chicago, Ill., was organized in 1952 and now cares for over 52,000 needy children in 24 countries. Missions which cooperate with Compassion include the Assemblies of God, Salvation Army, American Baptist Convention, Southern Baptist Convention, Christian and Missionary Alliance, and many others. The founder of Compassion was the late Everett Swanson, missionary to Korea.

The Rev. Mr. Floyd recently concluded a three-week tour with Compassion's six "Children of Promise" from Korea.

The public is invited to attend the service, according to Rev. Kenneth L. Gustafson, pastor.

Look To Lamb For Variety

Variety, that spice of life, is the spice of the table as well. A limited recipe repertory results in "ho-hum" meals, since even a favorite entree loses appeal with too frequent repetition.

Fortunately intriguing variety is within easy reach. There is as much diversity at the meat counter as in the greenhouse with its fascinating array of plants for the home. At the market are displayed hundreds of meat cuts that can be prepared in thousands of different ways. Yet some of the best possibilities are unexplored.

Lamb is a delightful source of variety that is virtually untapped by many meal planners. This favorite of Egyptian pharaohs, European kings and our early presidents is a veritable storehouse of the basic ingredients for delicious and different entrees. Once a spring-only treat, this fine meat is now available and equally good at all seasons, including autumn.

Too often knowledge of lamb is limited to the popular leg roasts and elegant loin and rib chops. But the wise shopper explores further. For lamb also means economical blade and arm chops cut from the shoulder, meaty shanks, neat packages of riblets and cubed lamb for stew or shish kebobs. These less familiar cuts are the potential for many exciting taste adventures.

Although a limited supply of lamb keeps the price up on the most popular cuts, the varying spread of demand makes for some especially good buys in the less familiar cuts—some that provide desirable menu variety. Knowing that lamb can be scarce, smart shoppers purchase good lamb buys when they spot them in the market and freeze them for the future. Frozen lamb will maintain top quality when properly wrapped and stored at 0°F. or lower for a period of 6 to 9 months (3 to 4 months for ground lamb).

Since lamb is from young animals, all of it is tender. Economical cuts, including shoulder chops, riblets and cubes, can be broiled for quick and delicious meals. But you won't want to miss the tempting flavor developed by braising lamb with vegetables and spices as in the recipes for Braised Lamb Shanks and Zucchini and Lamb Curry.

Braising brings economical lamb blade and arm chops and riblets to the table in a tiffy for two different and delicious meals.

Glazed Lamb Chops

6 lamb blade or arm chops, cut 3/4 to 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons currant jelly
1/3 cup orange juice concentrate

1 tablespoon lemon juice
3/4 teaspoon salt
Salt and pepper
Lemon Cup Garnish*

Melt jelly in small saucepan. Add orange juice concentrate, lemon juice and 3/4 teaspoon salt and cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Remove jelly and any excess fat from chops and place on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 inches from heat. Broil 5 minutes, season chops with salt and pepper and turn; broil second sides 5 minutes and season with salt and pepper. Brush with orange glaze and broil 4 to 8 minutes, turning occasionally. Serve with Lemon Cup Garnish, 6 servings.

Barbecued Lamb Riblets

4 pounds lamb riblets
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons water
2 teaspoons soy sauce

1/4 cup chili sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cloves
1 package (7 ounces) macaroni
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen mixed vegetables

Add instant minced onion to water and soy sauce. Stir in catsup, chili sauce and cloves. Place riblets on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 inches from heat. Broil 12 minutes, turning occasionally. Brush riblets with sauce and continue broiling 5 to 8 minutes, turning occasionally with sauce and turning occasionally. Cook macaroni and frozen vegetables in salted water according to package directions for each and serve with the barbecued riblets, 4 to 6 servings.

Your neighbor's kitchen

By BETTY RYDER

Karen Johnson of 35 Woodstock Drive admits she has a "meat and potato" family where appetites are concerned, but she still likes to prepare fancy dishes for dinner party guests.

Her husband, Walter (Skip), is with the Power Systems Division of United Technologies Corp. in South Windsor, and with three active sons, hearty menus prevail.

Chris is a junior at Manchester High School, John is a sophomore at Norwich University in Vermont, and 9-year-old Erik is in the fourth grade at Buckley School.

Karen divides her time between cooking, caring for her family, and doing volunteer work.

She is a member of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's board for the second year, chairman of its self-service building, and a volunteer librarian at Buckley School and also serves on its board. She is a former member of the Junior Women's Club of Manchester and was its secretary for five years. She also serves on the Youth Council at Concordia Lutheran Church.

"The boys are all bowlers," she said. "Erik hit 133 with ducksins last year," she said proudly.

The Johnsons have lived in Manchester since 1964 and prior to that time lived in Worcester, Mass., Arizona and Florida.

At their busy home, Hildy, a German shepherd and Husky dog live with two cats for the attention of the lady of the house.

Chris is a paper boy for The Herald and also a drummer. His brother, John, was a Herald paper boy, and passed the route on to him.

"When Erik is 10, Chris will pass the route on to him," Karen said.

One exception to meat and potatoes which finds great favor with the Johnson men is "Scallop Paxton."

"It's a delicious scallop dish. I got the recipe from Skip's aunt, Mrs. Gladys Berg of Paxton, Mass.," she said. "I also have included one for an

1 soup can cream
1 can small shrimp
15-20 Ritz crackers, crumbled
Grease bottom of 1 1/2 quart casserole dish with butter.
Layer of each: Scallops, shrimp, and cracker crumbs.
After layering, pour can of mushroom soup and 1 soup can of cream over mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 3/4 of an hour. Makes 4-6 servings.

Egless Lime Cream Pie

Prepare: Lime pie shell.
Combine: 1 can sweetened condensed milk - 14 ounces
1/2 cup lime juice
1 tablespoon grated lime rind
1 teaspoon salt
Stir until thickened. The thickening results from the reaction of the milk and citrus juice. Blend in yogurt: 2/3 cup well-drained canned pineapple. Turn the filling into the baked shell. Chill about 3 hours. Serve garnished with whipped cream and shaved sweet chocolate.

Braised Lamb Shanks and Zucchini

4 lamb shanks
2 tablespoons cooking fat
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon mint leaves
1/4 teaspoon thyme
2 cloves garlic, minced

1 1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 medium zucchini, cut in slices (1 1/2 inch thick)
3 medium tomatoes, peeled
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cup water

Curried Lamb

2 pounds lamb for stew
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons cooking fat
2 small onions, cut in rings
1 clove garlic, minced

1 can (5 1/2 ounce) apple juice
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup raisins
1 tablespoon brown sugar
3 medium apples
10 1/2 cups cooked almonds
13 1/2 cups water and 1/2 cup oil
if desired

DiCioccio-Brown

Pamela Jean Brown and Steven Michael DiCioccio, both of Manchester, were married Oct. 29 at the Church of the Assumption in Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brown Sr., of 84 Center St. The bridegroom is the son of John DiCioccio Sr., of 20 Fulton Road.

The Rev. George Laliberte of the Church of the Assumption performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a polyester knit gown trimmed with silk veil lace and designed with an Empire waistline, high Victorian neckline, long-fitted sleeves, front bodice draping at left shoulder, and A-line skirt cascading to a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a Camelot cap covered with lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath.

Miss Joann Cardinal of Manchester was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Judy Stino and Miss Mary Ann Stino, both of Glastonbury and cousins of the bridegroom. Miss Kimberly Baviello, the bride's niece, was flower girl.

Bruce Brown of Manchester, the bride's brother, served as best man. Ushers were Carl Hovey of Kittery, Maine, and Timothy Catinaga of Manchester.

A reception was held at the Garden Grove Caterers in Manchester, after which the couple left for the White Mountains in New Hampshire. They will reside in Glastonbury.

News for senior citizens

Hil May we extend our sincere congratulations to the winners in last Tuesday's election and wish them success in their endeavors during their reign of office. Also, I would like to thank all of our seniors who were able to get out and vote, especially with all the rain and dampness.

Well, by now of course our Holiday Fair is history and because this column must be turned to the Herald by noon on Thursday, we'll have to wait until Wednesday's paper to hear how well we did. I can tell you this much: It was certainly a team effort all the way as we have so many volunteers who worked very hard and long preparing for this affair. Our staff is certainly proud of our members and are very pleased with the wonderful job everyone did.

Now that it's over, there is a little lull in the air, and I guess just to keep our team going, we'll have to come up with another project.

With all the hard work and long hours, it gave our members a true sense of value, and they feel better seeing their efforts turn into a super success.

Bowling

News here starts with our Tuesday afternoon Senior Bowling League scores:

Class A high triple, Frank Wotruba, 538; Mary Chaves, 412; Class B high triple, Russ Nettleton, 482; Kay Nettleton, 553; Class A high single, Frank Kusinas, 193; Mary Chaves, 156; Class B high single, Russ Nettleton, 189; Kay Nettleton, 129.

Pinochle

Then on Wednesday morning we had 36 players for our pinochle games and the winners were: John Phelps, 649; Martin Babatan, 595; Helena Gavello, 595; Mike Habereri, 592; Marge McLain, 684; Bob Schubert, 576; Ernestine Donnelly, 569; Lillian Lewis, 545; John Galley, 545.

Bridge

In the afternoon our bridge players had to play downstairs and we must apologize to them for some of the noise made while moving tables, etc., for the fair. The lucky winners in the game were: Marge McLain, 5100; Vivien Leprance, 4470; George Last, 3620; Mary Greene, 3590.

In the afternoon, Ray Stewart and George Jay were really busy setting up the scene in the main hall for the fair. Then in moved the volunteers. Then on Wednesday morning we

Wings of morning

By CLIFF SIMPSON

An anecdote about Da Vinci. An occasional complaint about preaching is that it is too vague and theoretical. Ministers are well aware of this danger and are always seeking for illustrations. In the words of one parishioner, "Give me a 'for instance.'"

The other day I came across this anecdote about the famous painter, Leonardo da Vinci. The source and the author were not given. It seems that da Vinci had a great dislike for a fellow-painter. As he was working on his famous painting, "The Last Supper," he decided to get back at his enemy by using his features on the face of Judas.

Finally he came to realize that the trouble might have something to do with his hateful act to his fellow-painter. The next day he repainted the face of Judas so it was no longer similar to the man he disliked. As he turned back to the features of Jesus his work went smoothly and well.

This is a good suggestion. The careful reading of a hymn often reveals the beauty of the poetry as well as the depth of thought. One hymn I recently read carefully was written by Curtis Beach, the United Church of Christ minister in Blue Hill, Maine. Last month I preached there while we were visiting Adam and Alison Rhodes, formerly of Manchester. Mr. Beach has written several hymns which are in our UCC hymnal. Let me share the beauty and penetrating insight of one of them, it is based on Psalm 8.

O how glorious, full of wonder is thy name o'er all the earth; Thou who wrought creation's splendor, bringing sun and stars and light to birth! In reverence we adore thee, marveling at thy mystic ways.

When we see thy lights of heaven, moon and stars, thy power displayed, What is man that thou shouldst love him, creature that thy hand hath made? Child of earth, yet full of yearning, mixture strange of god and ill.

Supper in Coventry

The First Congregational Church of Coventry will have its supper of the month today from 5 to 6:30 p.m. in the vestry of the church. Proceeds go toward reducing the church debt. Tickets will be sold at the door. The supper is open to the public. There will be reduced prices for senior citizens and children.

Church bulletin board

At the end of the march participants will be given a hamburger and soda, courtesy of Michael Walsh of McDonald's, and ice cream, courtesy of Anthony Muro of Good Humor. Teen-agers participating, besides those from Manchester, will be from Coventry, East Hartford, Vernon and South Windsor. Some 500 are expected. Mary Muro of Bolton, volunteer director of St. Jude's Hospital for the Hartford and Tolland area, recruited the participants by visiting the schools in the respective towns. She also recruited several volunteers from her hometown. The date of the march will be changed to Nov. 20 in the event of inclement weather this Sunday.

One way to find out what houses are available is to shop the newspapers. The big house displays usually appear in the weekend papers. Study these advertisements to find out the kinds of houses on sale and how much they cost. Look at the classified home listings for sale or real estate agents advertise this way.

Another way is to get the word around to your friends that you are in the market for a house. This may lead to a good buy. Watch for "open house" signs. A sign in the most unlikely spot may produce exactly what you want for your family.
