Yavis will head education board

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

It was an evening for praising Manchester and selecting its leader for the next two years.

Democrat Stephen Penny was picked to be Manchester's mayor for the next two years, and John Yavis was selected as chairman of the Board of Education.

Members of the Board of Directors and newly elected members of the Board of Education were sworn in Monday night in a ceremony at Center Congregational Church's Woodruff Hall.

Following the ceremony, which was attended by 100 friends and family members, both boards held brief organizational meetings.

The directors selected Penny, 29, to serve as mayor. He was the leading vote-getter among board candidates in the Nov. 8 election and is also the youngest mayor under the council-manager form of government.

Stephen Cassano, the second highest vote-getter, was picked to be deputy mayor, and Betty Intagliata was chosen as secretary. Both are Democrats.

The Board of Education held a separate meeting and selected Democrat Yavis, a member of the board since 1972, as chairman. Eleanor Colman, also a Democrat, was chosen secretary.

All of the selections were unopposed except that of Mrs. Intagliata, who had been the fourth-highest vote-getter among the board candidates.

Republican Carl Zinsner nominated fellow party member Vivian Ferguson, who had finished third in the directors race, for board secretary.

Mrs. Intagliata was selected by a 5-3-1 vote. The three Republicans voted for Mrs. Ferguson and five Democrats voted for Mrs. Intagliata, who abstained. The GOP members then asked that one unanimous ballot be cast for the winner.

The members of both boards were sworn in by Judge of Probate William FitzGerald, a former director who talked about the town's government.

"Manchester has been blessed with fine leadership. The result is a town that anyone would be proud to live in," he said.

He praised the work of former Mayor Matthew Moriarty and former Board of Education Chairman Allan Thomas — praise that drew a round of applause from the audience.

The guest speaker for the ceremony, Robert Franklin, executive director of the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council, also talked about local government and Manchester, a community that he said "has a great deal to offer."

He suggested that the new board members think about developing a priority list of what to do in the future.

"The resources in our community are limited. We need to make choices, but we need to make them on an informed basis," Franklin said.

He also talked about local matters such as maintaining the water supply and beginning to think about long-term consolidation with the Eighth Utilities District.

The Board of Education meeting included the presentation of a list of committees that will be operating. The list included a planning committee that will concentrate on looking to the future needs of Manchester's school buildings and enrollments.

Turkey makes its comeback

BOSTON (UPI) — The wild turkey is making a comeback in New England.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society says Vermont — which had a population of only 500 turkeys in colonial days — now has about 5,000 birds.

All are the offspring of 31 transplanted turkeys captured in the wild.

Other New England states are also trying to increase their wild turkey populations by releasing the birds within their borders. The Audubon Society said.

Massachusetts began releasing turkeys in 1911 and now concentrates its efforts in the Quabbin region in the western part of the state. Connecticut recently released 22 birds in the Litchfield Hills, and Maine got back into the turkey business by releasing wild-trapped birds in its southern tip.

New Hampshire, which has a wild turkey population of about 500, tried to raise that level to the 5,000 of colonial days by releasing 25 turkeys in the Waipole area two years ago. Rhode Island has a few turkeys on Block Island and sees occasional birds flying in from Massachusetts.

CETA plans involve 46 jobs

By GREG PEARSON
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Board of Directors tonight will consider five projects through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act program that will provide 46 jobs for one year.

The proposals include the hiring of 12 people to conduct a survey about town services and the hiring of seven people to update Water and Sewer Department records.

The projects, all of which would be only for the one-year period, have been approved by the Comprehensive Manpower Office in Hartford, the local coordinator of the CETA program, Steven Werbner, personnel assistant, said.

The town had received as many as 100 one-year positions through a branch of the CETA program. The Board of Directors already has approved nine positions for the Manchester Area Conference of Churches. It must approve any other positions granted to the town through this segment of CETA.

The town is not expected to fill all 100 slots offered in this part of the program. But the board will be presented tonight with five proposed one-year projects.

Those projects are as follows:
• A townwide survey to determine the impact of services and activities provided by the town. This would help determine unmet needs and would provide a demographic survey focusing on handicapped and minority residents, according to a letter sent to board members. The project would employ 12 people.

• A group of seven people would be employed to update records, maps and do connection and watershed surveys for the Water and Sewer Department.

• Cleanup projects for the Highway and Sanitation Department would be done by a group of 13 people. The group could also work on landfill control, truck maintenance and insulation of the highway garage, the letter said.

• A land management program for Case Mountain and Center Springs Park. This would employ seven people.

• A basic information system for the Health Department would require seven positions. This proposal includes establishing a reference library, recording and analyzing reportable diseases, births and deaths and automating housing code enforcement reports and other environmental health reports.

An environmental study to pinpoint sources of well and water pollution might also be conducted. The Health project would employ seven people.

The first $10,000 of salaries for CETA jobs and fringe benefits are paid by the federal government. The town has to pay any salary costs that exceed $10,000.

In another CETA matter, Werbner said that the Board of Directors also will be asked to approve a change in a previously approved CETA position.

The board had granted approval to the town to apply for 12 CETA positions for full-time jobs in the town government.

Werbner said that the town has received no applicants for one job, a junior engineering aide in the Engineering Department. Thus, the board will be asked to reclassify the position to a human services technician, a person who would assist that department in research work and other areas.

The town has had some problem filling skilled jobs, such as the junior engineering aide, through the CETA program, which hires people who have been unemployed for a designated length of time.

If the position is not filled, the town might lose that CETA opening. Thus, rather than lose the position, the town is seeking a change in the job.

Some Arabs back Sadat

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Jordan threw its weight behind Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's peace venture with Israel today, leaving only Syria among the three major Arab states bordering on Israel opposing the move.

Jordan's Information Minister Adnan Abu Odeh said Sadat's visit to Israel has "broken the ice and removed the psychological barrier between Arabs and Israelis."

Syria appeared to roll back on its media attacks on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and a Jordanian official said in Amman that Premier Mudar Badran was in Damascus for "policy coordination" talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad. Conservative Arab states such as Saudi Arabia kept silent in what diplomats saw as a wait-and-see attitude.

In the wake of a flurry of anti-Sadat diplomatic activity involving Syria, Iraq, Libya, Algeria and Palestinian guerrilla leaders, Assad met today with Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat and other guerrilla officials on "Sadat's treacherous visit to Israel."

Official Damascus radio, in its morning newscasts, stopped referring to Sadat as a "traitor" for the first time in 72 hours and limited itself to broadcasting criticism from other Arab quarters.

Sadat's unprecedented visit to Jerusalem and his "no war" agreement with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin drew ceaseless condemnation Monday from Libya, Iraq, Algeria and the guerrillas.

"Sadat invites his friend Begin to visit Cairo," the Syrian newspaper Al Baath said in its main front-page headline today.

In an editorial, Al Baath no longer referred to Sadat as a "traitor," but said he had "burnt all the resolutions of the Arab summits... and the Arab League and ignored the Egyptian constitution" in his visit and talks with the Israelis.

District fights use of funds

By ALICE EVANS
Herald Reporter

The Eighth Utilities District Board of Directors will begin its fight tonight to stop the town's proposed plan to use revenue sharing funds to supplement the budget of the Town Fire Department.

The directors Monday night instructed Attorney John LaBelle Jr., district counsel, to attend the town Board of Directors meeting tonight to discuss the district's dissatisfaction with the town's planned appropriation of $65,000 from revenue sharing funds to the fire department. Gordon Lassow, district chairman, said the district wasn't asking for a share of the $65,000, but "We want the town to know of our dissatisfaction with revenue sharing in this town."

"I think it is wrong for the town to use these funds, which are raised by federal taxes from everyone, to benefit just a portion of the town and a portion that is already tax supported," Lassow said.

The directors also sent back for rewording prepared agreements that, if approved, would allow the town to install sewers in the Bryan Farms area and another project, which would serve the proposed J.C. Penney warehouse and catalogue distribution center within the industrial park on Tolland Turnpike.

The request of Jay Giles, town director of public works, to have the two sewer projects put before district voters in January was denied by Lassow.

"We're not calling meeting number one until we have satisfactorily answered all the questions on these projects and make sure our district is protected," he said.

"In February, we have to decide if we're going into the sewer business. We have to start thinking and having valid discussions and come up with a valid statement if we want to go into the sewer business in the Buckland area and over near the Acadia Restaurant. We have to start writing regulations and plans, and it's going to take some research," Lassow told the directors.

An inspection of the Eighth District Fire Department's equipment and pumps is scheduled for Nov. 28. The inspection is being done at the request of Town Manager Robert Weiss so that changes in fire insurance may be made to lower rates.

The district directors will invite the town Board of Directors to meet with them at the Eighth District Fire station Jan. 16, so that members of both groups may get to know one another. It was also suggested that members of the Eighth District board serve on town committees such as the town sewer commit-

Concorde begins regular service

NEW YORK (UPI) — Air France and British Airways today landed Concorde supersonic jets at Kennedy Airport, starting regular passenger service into the lucrative New York market.

The giant needle-nosed jets swooped down out of the cloudy sky, one behind the other, with the Air France Concorde touching down at 8:50 a.m. EST. The British plane followed two minutes later.

Each then taxied to terminals where security was beefed up because of protest demonstrations by area residents who, along with the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, waged an unsuccessful court fight for nearly two years to keep the faster-than-sound jet from landing here.

The landings marked the start of service that British Airways' acting board chairman, Ross Stainton, said "is expected to earn more revenue for British Airways within the next four months than in the whole of the previous financial year."

Hundreds of protesters, most of them area homeowners, marched at entrances around the airport. They object to the plane's noise and vibration levels.

But to reporters, the plane did not sound any louder than conventional jets, except when the pilots reversed engines to slow the planes on the field.

The two planes left within minutes of each other from Roissy-Charles de Gaulle airfield in Paris and Heathrow airport in London.

The French plane took off at 5:10 a.m. EST and its British counterpart at 5:29 a.m. EST, 19 minutes later.

"The long awaited day has finally come," said French Transport Secretary Marcel Cavaille, who was on board the Air France plane.

"We must look towards the future. Henceforth, London and Paris are only a few hours away from New York."

The official French party included Edmond Giscard d'Estaing, 83, the father of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. Gen. Jacques Mitterrand, president of the state-controlled Aerospatiale Company. Air France president Pierre Giraudet and fashion designer Pierre Cardin.

The British Airways Concorde carried 51 fare-paying passengers and 49 official guests, reporters and photographers.

New Yorkers, who for the past 19 months waged a pitched battle to keep the Anglo-French SSTs from landing at Kennedy for being too noisy, planned to demonstrate outside the airport.

The SSTs cover the London-New York route in some 3.5 hours — more than twice as fast as the fastest subsonic jetliner, but passengers must pay nearly five times the cheapest fare available.

A London-New York round trip costs $1,586 on the Concorde compared with $236 on Freddy Laker's Skytrain and $1,312 for a first-class ticket on a subsonic jetliner. A Paris-New York round trip costs $1,640

Selling of First Brother

Some people have been complaining that William Alton Carter III, of the Georgia Carters, has been trading on the fact that his brother holds a rather important position with the U.S. government.

The younger Carter would be the first to agree. Who would ever have heard of Billy Carter, gas station operator and part owner of a peanut warehouse in Plains, Ga., if Jimmy Carter had not been elected president?

Latest promotional chore for Billy is to spend 12 days a year helping a Louisville, Ky., brewery sell a new beer bearing his name.

Directors' agenda includes watershed purchase

The Manchester Board of Directors will meet tonight to discuss several items, including the proposed purchase of watershed property in Glastonbury.

The town is considering the purchase of 30 acres of property in the Buckingham Reservoir area. This 30-acre purchase, which will cost $22,500, would give the town ownership of all but 27 acres of the watershed property.

This would allow the town to maintain control over future development of the property.

The watershed purchase will be one of 14 public hearing items on the board's agenda.

Other public hearing items include the following:

- A proposal to amend the town's ordinance governing use of the landfill. The board will consider changes to the fines and suspensions established for anyone who is discovered dumping out-of-town refuse in Manchester's landfill.
- An appropriation of a $175,000 grant to continue the Comprehensive Employment Training Act program to Sept. 30, 1978.
- An appropriation of a $9,748 grant for the Outreach for the Elderly program.
- Other items on tonight's agenda include allocations for improvements to the sewage treatment plant and for a water treatment plant site study.
- The board will consider appropriating $15,000 for safety improvements to the sewage plant, including the rewiring of a pump room and the installing of a chlorine emergency detector.

The $12,000 site study is needed to review proposed locations for the water treatment plant.

The board may also consider a recommendation from Town Counsel Victor Moses on the staffing of the town council's office.

Moses, who will step down from the office, has recommended that four part-time positions be created rather than the two part-time and one full-time positions that the board approved when it adopted its 1977-78 budget.

Weathervane will open Friday

The Weathervane, a junior fashion store will have its official grand opening Friday at 10 a.m. in the Manchester Parkade.

Stephen T. Penny, new mayor of Manchester, will officiate at the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

Designed by the Weathervane Store planning division the new store is done in Colonial style with old-fashioned wood beams, pine floors with brick paving, stained glass and rustic country decor, including early American antiques.

The store is located in a portion of the former Grant's building.

The Weathervane features extensive collections of fashions, apparel and accessories for juniors and the young miss.

This store is the 24th Weathervane shop in New England. The first store opened in Wethersfield in 1969. Other Weathervane stores are located in several Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire cities.

Shoppers may open a charge account acceptable in all the Weathervane stores.

The Manchester store will be open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The store manager is Miss Nadine Prusick.

Executive officers of Weathervane, Inc. are Phillip T. Davidson, president; Donald Davidson, chairman of the board and Lawrence J. Davidson, vice-president and treasurer.

However, he said reports indicate some firms are planning to have their employees work an extra day on some future Saturday to make up the lost time.

Reilly to seek damages for being prosecuted

LITCHFIELD, UPI — Peter A. Reilly has decided to file a lawsuit seeking damages for being prosecuted in the 1973 death of his mother, one of his most outspoken defenders said.

Author Donald Connery of Kent, who has written a book on the case, "Guilty Until Proven Innocent," said Monday Reilly has decided to file a civil lawsuit seeking damages from the state for prosecuting him. Connery says Reilly's attorneys have been waiting until after a court hearing scheduled for today to file the suit.

Reilly was scheduled to seek a formal order in Litchfield Superior Court today making him immune from further prosecution in the case.

If the judge formally declared him totally free and out of danger from prosecution and the door would be open for the 22-year-old ambulance driver to file a suit against them, charging deprivation of civil rights.

Reilly's attorneys were to ask Judge Maurice Sporn for the ruling and they expected no resistance from state prosecutors, among them Dennis A. Santore, who decided not to prosecute Reilly despite police pressure to do so.

Defense lawyers asked that the manslaughter charge against Reilly be dismissed last year because the "evidence surfaced with Santore's appointment as prosecutor, be dismissed with prejudice," which cuts off any other criminal charges.

When he a judge doesn't say if it is with or without prejudice, then it is an unclear result and the question becomes what does the ruling mean?

Duke said.

Sporn served as a one-man grand jury and investigated the Reilly case earlier this year. He also looked at the state police handling of the case.

Sporn concluded there was no reason to prosecute Reilly and chastized the state police for the way they built their case against Reilly to the exclusion of other suspects.

It was learned Monday Reilly may seek $1,300 to $1,800 in Social Security payments that normally are available to a student deprived of a parent until the student is fully employed. The payments were denied Reilly after his mother's death.

Greenwich vote review brings more confusion

BRIDGEPORT, UPI — More confusion than clarity has emerged so far in a court review of the Nov. 8 Greenwich first selectman election and recount which left the top two candidates separated by one vote.

Election referee Cornelius McNamee told a Bridgeport Superior Court judge Monday he counted an unsigned and undated absentee ballot when tallying the votes cast in the election.

State law requires ballots to be signed and dated to be valid. If the vote is declared invalid, the election officially would be a tie between incumbent Republican Rupert Vernon and Democratic challenger Ruth L. Sims.

Levine has withheld a ruling in the case and will hear more testimony today.

Mrs. Sims was declared the unofficial winner Nov. 8 but a recount later in the week reversed the declaration, giving Vernon a one-vote margin of victory.

Levine refused Monday to grant a motion by Vernon's attorneys to order a runoff election between Sims and Vernon.

ZBA denies bid for retail-office

By SUSAN VAUGHN
 Herald Reporter

The Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals denied a request to establish a retail or office space in a Residence A zone on East Middle Turnpike Monday night after more than 20 residents appeared to oppose it.

The application for a variance by Joseph Gordon was the second attempt since July to get a zoning change to allow business on the 1.1 acres on the south side of East Middle Turnpike between Ferguson and Arnot roads. Gordon, represented by Atty. Leonard Jacobs, in July applied to the Town Planning and Zoning Commission for a change from Residence A and C to Business II. That request was also denied.

Lawrence P. Rubinow, representing the abutting property owner Mrs. Suzanne Smith Hauser and other residential property owners in the immediate neighborhood, said the change of use for the property would depreciate property values in the area. He also cited problems that a parking lot facing Ferguson Road would cause and the fact that the remainder of Ferguson Road from the Hauser property is an A zone.

Walter Cassells, a Ferguson Road resident, also cited the safety hazard a business at the corner of Ferguson Road and East Middle Turnpike would have for children who board the school bus there.

Judy Carvel, also a Ferguson Road resident, told the ZBA, "It seems ridiculous that we have to come here from time to time to listen to someone who is trying to make a fast buck."

Jacobs called the location of the property unique because it is an A zone surrounded by commercial property. He said, "If there is any economic depreciation, it has already taken place. The character of Middle Turnpike is already determined."

Jacobs did not describe what kind of business is planned for the location, but he said it would not be a big business which would generate a lot of cars. He questioned whether anyone would want to build a home on the property which is next to a package store and across from a bank.

Rubinow countered that there is "no evidence it cannot be developed as residential use."

ZBA member Harriet Haslett moved to deny the application saying that she feels a residential property could be built on the site and that the only reason to establish a retail or office space is to make money.

John Caglianella said he voted against a previous application two years ago by Chevron's Package Store to expand that business next to Gordon's site. He said he feels it is an isolated case and he cannot see any harm in a business at the location. Caglianella also said he feels the Planning and Zoning Commission should do something about the main thoroughfares and zone them properly; however, he said the present application for the property was incomplete because it outlined no definite use and did not designate lighting and depress.

Paul Rossetto, member, was the only dissenting vote.

The board also denied a request by Harold Basser to erect a free-standing sign, larger than permitted by the zoning regulations at property at 250 Spencer St. The sign would be for a Samba's restaurant, a national chain restaurant, which plans to locate on the site on the south side of Spencer Street, next to the Mott's Shop-Rite shopping center.

Buzz Weres, representing the company, said the 176 square-foot requested sign is the standard size used in the firm's other restaurants. ZBA chairman Bernard Johnson said no other businesses in the area had signs larger than permitted. Four other items on the board agenda were approved.

Those included the following:
 • Three free-standing signs, larger than the regulations permit, for J.C. Penney Properties, Inc. at the site of the proposed Penney Catalog Distribution Center. The signs would be located at intersections with Burnham Street, Tolland Turnpike and Interstate Highway 86 and the town's Industrial Park.
 • A 22.5 square-foot free-standing sign for Marshall's Inc. at 310 Broad St.
 • A variance to use part of a Residence A zoned lot at 148 Main St. for parking purposes. The request was by Attorney Leonard Jacobs, who intends to use the property for law offices.
 • A request to permit the temporary sale of alcoholic liquor (beer) at the Manchester Racquet Club Feb. 3 and 4, 1978.

Money dumped

STAMFORD (UPI) — Three state policemen, three Wells Fargo employees and three highway workers spent more than two hours Monday picking up $1,500 in quarters that spilled on the Connecticut Turnpike.

State police said three plastic bags full of quarters fell out of the back of a Wells Fargo armored car near Exit 9 when a guard apparently leaned on a handle and accidentally opened a door.

The quarters were scattered across the turnpike when trucks following the Wells Fargo armored car ran over the plastic bags. State police said they recovered all but $125.

Voter leagues set dialogue on energy

The Leagues of Women Voters of Vernon, South Windsor and Manchester will sponsor a dialogue on nuclear energy, Nov. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of the Stop & Shop in the K-Mart Plaza, Rt. 30, Vernon.

Three experts in the nuclear energy field will participate in the program subtitled, "Weighing the Risks."

One of the participants will be Robert Busch of Northeast Utilities. Busch is an engineer and said he participates in such workshops at his own expense and interest.

Busch said he sees nuclear power as necessary at least until a more desirable alternative is available.

Another participant will be Thomas Gutman whose career began in the nuclear industry and who was the technical researcher for the Connecticut Temporary Nuclear Evaluation Council. He will report on conclusions from the council's report and will speak to both sides of the issue.

Paul Gionfriddo from the People's Action for Clean Energy Committee, will speak from an antinuclear power point of view.

Each speaker will talk for 20 minutes and then be allowed five-minute rebuttals. A half-hour will be allowed for questions and then each speaker will give a five-minute summation.

League members said they do not envision the program as being a debate but more as an information gathering session on some of the nuclear power risks.

The league has asked the speakers to address themselves to such topics as the health hazards of radioactivity, the waste fuel pools, transportation of spent nuclear wastes, permanent disposal of nuclear wastes, the safety of nuclear reactors, and the security precautions at nuclear power plants.

Vernon panel will study school screening plans

The Vernon Committee on Public Education (COPE) has picked up the community concern for the pre-kindergarten screening program and has formed a subcommittee to investigate what other towns are doing in this area.

Besides comparing with other towns, the committee is reviewing personal reports from individual screening cases and information is being gathered from files, via parents and interviews.

The COPE committee was formed last summer after several parents appeared at Board of Education meetings to complain about the screening program and the communication between school officials and townspeople.

The purpose of the committee is to provide a means of direct communication among parents, citizen taxpayers, teachers, students, the Board of Education and the school administration.

Members feel the committee will provide a forum for issues in the local school system and will act as a fact-finding body to research issues for the school board.

The committee's intent is to give a full report, of all facts obtained, to the school board and others interested, early in 1978.

The committee said it first looked into the Vernon system and then reviewed the program in eight other area towns — Manchester, Ellington, Tolland, South Windsor, East Hartford, Bloomfield, Griswold and

Mediation due in Bolton for teacher pact talks

The Bolton Education Association (BEA) and the Bolton Board of Education has declared mediation in their negotiations for the 1978-1979 year. The two sides were unable to reach an agreement.

Members of the BEA negotiation team are Patricia Bankel, Robert Hamer, George Lesniak, Marjorie Anderson, Mary Missels and Dawn Varava.

Negotiators for the school board are Louis Cloutier, Dr. Gil Boisneau and Joseph Halaburda.

Both Mrs. Bankel and Cloutier said they had no other comments.

By state law the negotiations were to be completed by Nov. 14 (180 days before submission of the budget). Because the negotiations were not completed in that time, the state intervenes with a mediator.

The state gives a list of mediators to both sides who, in turn, are supposed to select a mutually agreed upon mediator. If the two sides are unable to select a mediator, the state will choose one.

By state law both sides have 30 days (from Nov. 14) to settle in mediation. If they are unable to reach an agreement in mediation, the matter will go to arbitration. The present contract between the two

One of best fields in years out to end Burfoot's skein

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor

Eight times in the last nine years, Amby Burfoot has broke the tape first in the Five Mile Road Race.

If the long striding, slender course record-holder and the most dominant man in the 40-year history of the Thanksgiving morning race is to repeat he'll have to do it against one of the best fields in years. The race starts at 10:30.

The final count of entries, a record 1,665, includes a number of class distance runners.

Among the last minute entrants were Wayne Jacob, Bruce Clark, Tom Derderian, Bob Hensley and Pat O'Neil. Anyone of this quintet is capable of showing his heels to Burfoot.

Tuss in the likes of John Vitale, Charlie Duggan, Bob Day, Jack Mahurin, Paul Oparowski, Kevin McCusker, Craig McGill, Steve Gates and Tom Hollander, and you have perhaps the best field since the race was revived in 1945 after World War II.

Jacob was eighth in his last two appearances, 1974 and 1966. He's a teammate of Burfoot with the Mohegan Striders. The former Johnson-Wales student has been a consistent high finisher this fall.

Clark and O'Neil are products of the University of Connecticut. The former graduated last spring and was the No. 1 man with the cross country team. O'Neil, a sophomore, has moved into the top spot with the UConn runners and is the same lad who won the Three Mile run in the Manchester Community College Relays last June.

Derderian, out of the University of Massachusetts, has finished among the prize winners in several previous appearances.

Hensley, out of the University of Oregon, has enjoyed a big cross country season. Two years ago he was not registered, ran the course and chased Burfoot and Vitale across the final line.

Post entries will not be accepted. Race headquarters will be at the East Side Rec.

Murray top AL freshman

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eddie Murray set no goals for himself this season but nevertheless made an unexpected mark in baseball history: the first designated hitter to win a season award.

The 21-year-old Baltimore Oriole 1B Monday narrowly won the American League Rookie of the Year Award over Oakland's Mitchell Page, the favorite for the honor. It was the first time over a DH was recognized for anything in the short history of the position.

"I don't set goals — I never have," said Murray after learning of his award. "I just tried to do a good job."

"I knew it (the voting) would be close. I knew I had a good year and I knew I could win it, but I tried not to think about it. Maybe it would come — and it did come."

Murray, who batted 283 with 27 home runs and 88 runs batted in for Baltimore, won the AL honor by three votes over A's outfielder Page. Murray collected 12 full votes and shared another with Page for a total of 12½ points, while Page had 9½.

Second baseman Bump Wills of the Texas Rangers was third with four votes and pitcher Dave Rozema of the Detroit Tigers was the only other player to receive support, was fourth with two votes.

The voting was conducted by 28 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America, two from each AL city, with each member selecting only one player.

It feels good to win this award especially over the crop of rookies who had this year — guys like Mitchell Page and Bump Wills," Murray said. "The main thing that worried me was playing DH. I was the DH for so many games.

Murray, Baltimore's third selection in the June 1975 draft, was primarily a right-handed hitting first baseman when he started his career. But he converted himself to a switch-hitter in 1976 while playing with Charlotte and Rochester in the minors and then became an outfielder and designated hitter at Baltimore because of the presence of slugger Lee May as first base.

A patient hitter, Murray displayed his power by stroking many of his homers to the opposite field. He also proved to be a clutch hitter, accounting for five game-winning hits alone against the World Champion New York Yankees.

"I believe he has a chance to become an outstanding hitter," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said of Murray late in the season.

He has great knowledge of hitting for a young player and he certainly has demonstrated the ability to get hits when they're needed.

Murray returned the compliment to Weaver.

"I like him," said the rookie. "He coaches each guy differently. That's important because we've got 25 individuals."

Page batted .307 at Oakland with 21 homers, 75 RBI and 42 stolen bases. Wills, the son of former Los Angeles base-stealing star Maury Wills, had a .287 average with 28 steals at Texas and Florida was 15-7 despite missing several weeks in the second half of the season with arm trouble.

The National League Rookie of the Year will be announced Wednesday.

Texas holds place at top of ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Texas, with a Cotton Bowl berth against Notre Dame as its next target, easily held on to the top ranking in the latest rankings of the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The Longhorns, who encountered some resistance from Baylor this past week before downing the Bears, 29-7, received 35 first-place votes of the 38 cast and 386 points. A win Saturday over Southeast Conference foe Texas A&M on the Aggies' home turf at College Station — or a tie — would put Texas into the Cotton Bowl against the Fighting Irish, easy 49-0 winners over Air Force.

The resulting matchup would be one of the most attractive bowls in recent years, with Texas currently at 10-0 and Notre Dame 9-1. The Irish, who pulled one first-place ballot, still have a game against Miami of Florida Dec. 3 but took advantage of Ohio State's loss to Michigan to move up one place to 11th position.

Oklahoma was idle, while awaiting its Nov. 25 matchup against Arkansas for the Big Eight title and the Orange Bowl berth that goes with it, as was Alabama, with a Sugar Bowl berth already secured and now knowing its opponent there will be the Buckeyes. The two clubs held on to second and third place, respectively, with Alabama receiving three first-place designations.

Michigan, its emotional 14-6 win over Ohio State enabling it to capture the Big Ten's berth in the Rose Bowl, replaced the Buckeyes as the fourth-ranked club. Woody Hayes' group dropped as fast as the cameraman he

"Goose Lane from Maple Hill Farm to the intersection with North River Road is an accident waiting to happen," the petition alleges. "The road is blind, very narrow, and poorly marked."

Ms. Johnson claims she was almost hit by a truck last week while transporting four children in her car. George Ross of the North Coventry Volunteer Fire Department concurred with the charges of the residents and stated the road is barely

School closing meetings slated in South Windsor

The South Windsor Board of Education will hold a series of five information meetings regarding the proposed closing of Wapping Elementary School following the present school year.

All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. Concert scheduled

The South Windsor High School Vocal Ensemble, consisting of 65 students, will give a concert Nov. 29 at Wapping School beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Wapping School PTO is sponsoring the concert to assist the Vocal Ensemble in the fund drive for a forthcoming trip to the American Choral Directors Association Convention in Pittsburgh.

The local vocal group was selected through tape audition to perform in February.

The PTO is also sponsoring a Book Fair in conjunction with the concert. The Book Fair is scheduled for Nov. 29 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Torrez might save Red Sox franchise

BOSTON (UPI) — Mike Torrez might not win the World Series for the Boston Red Sox, but he could save the franchise for prospective owner Haywood Sullivan and company.

Passing his first test as a major league general manager, Sullivan announced Monday he had come to terms with the right-handed Torrez, the World Series savior for the New York Yankees this fall.

Sullivan, whose group has been the subject of a court suit by another bidder and close scrutiny by other American League owners, also announced the signing of free agent reliever Dick Drago, who helped Boston to the 1975 pennant before moving on to California and Baltimore. Both pitchers signed undisclosed, multi-year contracts.

Sullivan, named general manager by the trust that runs the ballclub until the ownership dispute is settled, concentrated on signing the 6-foot-5 Torrez. The big right-hander attended seven of the nine sessions held in Phoenix last week between Sullivan and agent Gary Walker.

Reports indicate the Red Sox, who lack a consistent starter in their little flag chase of 1977, will pay Torrez $2 million for five years.

The agreement gives credibility to the Sullivan group, which must ward off the suit filed by A-T-O of Ohio and prove its financial stability to the other 13 league owners.

Asked if the acquisition of Torrez would show the new group's dollar strength, Sullivan said, "I would hope that would be the case. This should put the ownership situation to rest."

Torrez, 31, a native of Topeka, Kan., has a 114-84 lifetime record with a history of pitching well in the late stages of the season. He started in the St. Louis Cardinals' organization but was traded to Montreal in 1971.

His best year came in 1975 when he was 20-9 for Baltimore. The following season he was traded to Oakland in a deal that sent Reggie Jackson to the Orioles. Early last season, the Yankees acquired him for Dick Ellis and two other players.

He had a 14-12 mark with New York, winning seven straight complete games beginning in August and

Millionaire status for Lyman Bostock

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Lyman Bostock signed a five-year contract estimated to be worth $3 million with the California Angels Monday, making him possibly baseball's highest-paid player. Reggie Jackson of the New York Yankees has a reported $2.9 million pact.

Bostock, who is 27 today, played by his option with the Minnesota Twins last season and was picked by the Angels as one of the 13 of the 26 major league clubs in the second re-entry draft.

Bostock, a product of Los Angeles' Manuel Arts High School and Cal State Northridge, hit 14 homers and drove in 90 runs last season. He got a salary of $20,000 from Twins' owner Calvin Griffith while playing out his option.

"People always look at athletes and say the money they make is ridiculous," Bostock noted. "Well, they never look at a singer like Elton John and say that about what he makes. If a job in baseball pays two and a half million dollars, a player should play for it."

Asked if he now was baseball's best-paid player, he replied, "As far as I know."

Midget players honored

Trophies and awards were handed out Thursday at the annual Manchester Midget Football Banquet at the Army & Navy Club.

Trophies were presented to members of the co-champion Eagles and Chargers and their cheerleaders. Awards went to Frank Marandino of the Giants as best back, Jim Kibber of the Patriots as best lineman, and Tim Fogarty of the Chargers the Horvath Trophy for sportsmanship.

Manchester High faculty member Walker Briggs was guest speaker.

Deputy mayor

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hartford City Councilman Nicholas Carbone apparently has lined up enough votes to become the city's deputy mayor.

Carbone has the support of four Democrats on the council. Democrat Barbara Kennelly, whose husband is Connecticut House speaker, has the support of two Republicans and an Independent with Democratic leanings.

Carbone said Monday he wants to be mayor, but denied reports he has worked out a deal where current Mayor George Athanson would step down later this year and he would take over.

First CETA crew happy with jobs

By MAL BARLOW, East Hartford Reporter

The first men put to work in the new Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program in town were a happy crew in a stream bed off Andrew Drive in the north end Monday.

East Hartford has been in the CETA program for the past two years. Under the original programs, there are now about 50 CETA workers in different town departments.

But these first CETA workers are impossible to tell from workers on the town's payroll. They are spread all over town in a wide variety of jobs.

The newest CETA program is different. The workers will be working on projects that would not be done without them.

The town has the okay to hire 115 CETA project workers. The first project approved is for stream bed clearance. The Public Works Department has hired four crews of 10 men each. They will work on the town's large and small streams over the next 10 months cutting away brush, digging deeper beds, and shoring up the stream banks.

Sid Burleigh is the chief of the first CETA project crew which waded into a stream bed Monday. They first cleared brush off the sides of a portion of the little Goodwin Brook where it runs by Andrews Drive. They will dig the bottom lower and dig into the sides, Burleigh said. Then they will put large, screen boxes at the banks and fill them with rocks, he said.

The boxes of rocks should hold the banks in place for many years, he said. The work should last as long as many of the jobs done by the WPA and CCC work crews of the Great Depression years, he said.

The men in the crew looked pleased to be struggling with the brush, mud and cold water. New boots and other special gear will help them keep working outdoors right through the winter, they said.

Robert Parker, superintendent of streets, said the other three crews are just about ready also. One of them has been working to drain the swamp lands behind the town incinerator. Residents in the area have long complained about mosquitoes, he said.

Tom Malecky, the man in charge of the CETA projects in the town personnel office and a CETA worker himself, said the town has already hired 23 more workers for the Housing Authority. They have been doing long-delayed painting and repair projects on the town's 879 units of low-income and elderly housing.

The town should soon get approval of a home health nurse's aide program. About eight people will work in it, Malecky said.

The Board of Education has asked for 25 CETA project workers. They will work as science lab technicians, career resource technicians, and in projects to move children from special programs back into regular classrooms.

The final 18 CETA project jobs may be in the Park Department. The town needs approval for a project on the town's 106 acres of land in the Keeney Cove area. About 18 workers will clear a path for a roadway onto the land and then clear off much of the former farm land. They will be preparing the land for development as a new, passive recreation, town park, said Mayor Richard Blackstone.

"We've moved along very well," said the mayor Monday. "We're opening up new areas. And we're hiring many good people who have been out of work."

East Hartford police report

Two Manchester men were arrested early this morning after they refused to leave the gaming room at the Ramada Inn in East Hartford, at closing time.

Richard Amotio, 30, of 87 Tudor Lane was charged with gambling, first-degree criminal trespassing, breach of peace, and interfering with a police officer.

Rachel Road was charged with gambling, first-degree criminal trespassing, breach of peace, interfering with a police officer, and possession of narcotics.

Police said there were four men who refused to leave the inn when told it was closing. Police waded through the bushes to get into the room and they were taken to the police station and were later released on $1,000 bonds for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, Dec. 12.

A Country man was beaten and robbed early this morning in the parking lot of Dunkin' Donuts on Main Street, East Hartford. Police did not release his name.

Police said the victim said he chased them but they escaped. The incident is under investigation.

William LaPenta, 18, of 88 Madison St., East Hartford, was arrested Monday on a Common Pleas Court warrant charging him with three counts of third-degree larceny by possession. He was presented in court Monday and his case was continued.

Police are investigating a break reported at an apartment on Burnside Avenue. Police said a screen was cut and a window was forced open. A television set and antenna were reported missing.

Trustees favor funds for day care at MCC

The Regional Community Colleges Board of Trustees Monday voted that Manchester Community College fund its day care center at current levels for the rest of the academic year.

The administration at the college had proposed a cutback at the center to stay within the present fiscal year budget. There also had been some discussion that the center might be closed at the end of this semester.

The vote by the board, however, apparently rejects any such cutback, a center facility this year.

The center, located in the basement of the Center Congregational Church, provides a day care for students who attend the college. Some of those who use the day care said that they would not be able to attend the college if the center was closed.

School officials had suggested that parent volunteers be used at the center to offset cuts in student labor at the center. This idea was rejected by the board's vote Monday.

Church seeks FBI data

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The Church of Scientology has filed a Freedom of Information request asking the New Haven office of the FBI if it infiltrated or spied on any of the church's Connecticut branches.

The church has employed the Freedom of Information Act frequently in the past to obtain information from FBI offices in other parts of the country. Its request for information from the New Haven office came Tuesday.

Alexander Jones, regional director of the church, said the FBI "has collected thousands of pages of information on churches of Scientology throughout the country."

"Only the naive would believe that this strange compulsion of the FBI to spy on our religion would ignore one of the active areas for Scientology in New England," he said.
