Engineering work to start on town's industrial park

The Manchester Economic Penney project.

Development Commission this mor
The council is considering passing Development Commission this morning granted conditional approval to a resolution voicing its support for begin engineering work for drainage construction in the town's proposed industrial park. The step is one of several that the town has taken recently to prepare for a decision expected soon from the J.C. Penney

J.C. Penney is supposed to meet within two weeks to decided whether to build its proposed catalog distribution center in Manchester, Town Manager Robert Weiss told the commission. The firm's center, which would be two-million square feet, would be the major building in the proposed 393-acre park. The EDC approved a motion to grant approval to the engineering design required for five construction steps. The engineering work, which would cost about $135,000, would not start until and unless J.C. Penney makes a commitment to build in Manchester. The five construction contracts include a sedimentation basin, the relocation of Windsor Road, water storage tanks, well water supply improvements and a railroad spur. This is the first work that would be required for the proposed park project.

The proposed J.C. Penney development has faced several court challenges, including a recent case in which a Superior Court Judge ruled that the state's approval of the park was valid.

That decision is expected to be appealed. There also is a suit challenging the sale price of property to J.C. Penney and a possible federal environmental suit.

There have been some optimistic statements, however, that J.C. Penney may decide to go forward with its Manchester construction despite the pending legal matters.
Weiss said that he expects officials from the firm to meet within the next two weeks to decide whether or not to proceed. He said that he hopes for a decision by the end of the year. The step this morning by the EDC 'shows our continuing commitment to the project," Weiss told the Alan Lamson, town planner, said, 'We feel once we get a commitment from J.C. Penney, we ought to proceed. There's a lot to be done." In a related matter, the Capitol Region Council of Governments is considering a proposal to provide further support for the proposed J.C. We can use all the friends we can get," Weiss said with a smile. Weiss said of the CRCOG proposal, "It's to indicate the regional importance of the project to the entire area's economic situation.

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old son has been having an affair with his 17-year-old cousin. I have just learned that this has been going on for three years!

Both have been raised in good Christian homes, and my sister (the girl's mother) is beside herself with anger and grief. Of course we have laid down the law, and the children are not to see each other without close supervision. These aren't problem children. We who know what has appened are simply amazed. My nicce is rather immature at her age, but my son has several older girlfriends who hink he is a freshman in college.

My question is, "What next?"

IN SHOCK IN INDIANA DEAR IN: A thorough briefing, I hope, for both "children" who have been playing adult games for three years. Skip the preliminaries about the birds and bees, and get down to brass tacks and babies before your tribe

DEAR ABBY: My husband occasionally plays in a band ith four other musicians. Our flat is the most practical cation to store equipment and rehearse, which leads to my problem:

What makes the wives of these musicians think that because their husbands come to my house, they too are automatically invited? when the wives come over, I have to clean house for company, assume the role of hostess, and serve refreshments. I'm not able to visit my mom or spend the evenings just doing nothing if I feel like it. I'm forced to entertain and clean up afterward.

I have two preschool children and work part-time, so I'm not a lady of leisure.

How do I tell these wives that the band practice is for the guys? We don't socialize outside of these circumstances, so please tell me how to handle this tactfully.

ON THE SPOT DEAR ON: Phone the wives before the next rehearsal and tell them you may not be home. Hold the refreshments down to coffee or a cold drink, and let the guys help themselves.

Ropeat this procedure before each rehearsal and they'll soon get the message that somebody at your flat is sharp.

DEAR ABBY: Do kids ever get too old to kiss their parents? And what do you think of boys kissing their fathers? I don't mean every time they see each other, but when one of them has been away on a long trip.

I'm a 15-year-old boy who still kisses both my parents, and I've been criticized for it.

DEAR ME: Kids never get too old to kiss their parents.
And I see nothing wrong with boys (and men) kissing their fathers, their brothers or anyone else they feel like kissing.
A kiss is not—as the song goes—"just a kiss." It's a lovely way of saying, "I like (or love) you."

Elderly go to hospital too much

BOSTON (UPI) - The elderly are hospitalized too often and take too many drugs because doctors are not adequately trained to treat them, said a Harvard Medical School professor in a New England Journal of Medicine article published Wednesday.

"Elderly patients use a third of the hospital beds, a fourth of the medications and 27 cents of every health care dollar in this country," said John W. Rowe, also a physician at Boston's Beth Israel

"The amount of hospitalizations precipitated by adverse drug reactions is 50 percent higher in elderly patients than in those under 60 years old," said Rowe. The average elderly American is given 13 prescriptions a year.' Rowe recommends elderly patients regularly bring all their medications to a physician for review of their safety and usefulness. Rowe's article noted fewer than half of U.S. medical schools offer courses in gerontology, the subject of aging, and he attributed the "neglect" in PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (UPI) - Two giant American-owned tankers, one oaded with crude oil, collided in fog off the South African coast Friday and exploded in huge sheets of flames fueled by a spreading, 60-mile oil slick. Port authorities said it was a 'miracle" that all but two of the 84crew members from the sister ships were plucked to safety by a helicopter dodging the flaming WASHINGTON (UPI) - Personal income showed a healthy inrease in November and construction of new homes and apartments was at the second highest level of 977, the government said Friday. The Commerce Departmen said that while housing starts, a traditional bellweather o economic performance, fell 5.4 percent in November, last month's level topped all previous nonths this year except Octobe percent, signaling more activity than any single month since May, 1973, so the November drop was not considered a worrisome sign Personal income, which ofter indicates future consumer spending, rose 0.9 percent last month and followed a revised 1.4 percent increase in October. It equaled the second largest increase since early spring, the department said.
