White Trio Arrested In Negroes' Deaths

(THIRTY-SIX PAGES-TWO SECTIONS)

(AP)-Shotgun blasts from moving car killed two Negro transients last night n Sacramento's skid row area. Police arrested three white men. The victims, shot in the neck and groin, fell in the Old Sacramento district made up of flop houses, abandoned buildings dating from the gold rush, saloons, a strip tease joint, cheap restaurants and small motion picture houses. Arrested were three young men from towns across the Sacramento River, to the west. Police, citing recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions concerning the rights of defendants, refused to give details. Warrior's Promise was in the 1940s, in the infancy of sodern expressway warfare, that the Wilbur Cross Highway came to divide

It swept around the town in a grand flanking maneuver that left the town's northwest quaking and alone, and its residents rushing for the asylum offered by East Hartford and Wapping. In the intervening years, the art of highway destruction has grown ever more sophisticated; the capacity to ever-build has kept well apace of the ether arts of warfare. Thus it should have come as no surprise when the highway department announced a new eampaign, to conquer once again a peopie who might be making their various ways back to one another: expansion from four lanes to ten of the Wilbur

Another would-be conqueror trumpeted his intention to drive his forces traight through the town-but promseed too to strew his path with coin of resim and other economic benefits. Rt. 6 was on his way, and the gates were being held open so that he-and his exchequer-might enter.

etizenry and an effort not only to make the highway attractive to the five-minste resident, bound from somewhere to somewhere else in his automobile, but for the poor fellow who must live his years beside thundering concrete and the sweet scent of diesel exhaust.

What the highway department would so this time, would be to line its bands of highway with a soft border of green, and lace the green with paths and walkways to hold together what the highway would otherwise divide.

The walks would meander from the town into the hills, ducking under the highway; they would tie into one comfortable garment a playfield, and a nature area, and a shady stream, and a mountain side; they would provide a way to get from here to there without the automobile (if such can be beheved), in safety and pleasant sur-

They could the oncoming warrior hinted, bring to the town a fresh, new taste of life; a conqueror's culture to fuse with the simpler life of the uncon-

Such is the promise. The warrior will come anyway, whether we welcome him or not, we know. He may, we also know do no more than divide from our main body the untried legions to our south, the new land that is largely undeveloped and must someday decide just where its loyalty is to lie-to us or to

But his promises seem true and his motives true to them. (He is, after all, though great, only human, and seeks our admiration as well as our obeigance) Perhaps the time has come to join the others at the gate, and hope to make our peace with him.

The Bathhouses

Somebody should be complimented on the good looks and efficient design of the bathhouse at the new Waddell swimming pool which went into operation

And while compliments are being passed out, somebody ought to be given redit, belatedly perhaps, for opening pools a little earlier than called for in the rigid schedule. That was a bonus a lot of young people in Manchester seemed to appreciate. And it was free,

The trouble with the Waddell bathhouse however, is that it points up some shortcomings in the bathhouses at the companion Verplanck and Saulters' cools. It is not fair, of course, to compare the brand new facility to the two which have been in use over the years, one of them for many years.

Nevertheless, the new bathhouse seems to invite good housekeeping and discourage abuse while the others re-ing the bathhouses decent falls on the people who use them. With the plumbing manufacturers' labels still pasted on he fixtures at Waddell there have already been lumps of paper towels thrown around for somebody to clean up and the usual forgotten or abandoned articles of clothing tossed into

At Waddell, though, the reaction of a ovstander with any kind of a housewifely bent is to clean up a bit. At the other pools, one is more likely to shake his head and throw up his hands. The Waddell standard should be the one the town adopts in any future pools it builds, and maybe someday, even within economical budgeting, it will be possible to go back and make the existing bathhouses as good as the pools they brainstorm has turned into a Main St. scatterbrain idea, with all of the contests counterbalancing each other. Now, each major oil company can claim that it gained customers from its competitors, but, when all the results are in, which of them can lay claim to any overall increase? People are the same everywherethey all seek something for nothing and, the present craze is right up their alley, for, aren't they always buying gasoline anyway, and isn't the prize dollar or five, or the television set an extra

Sure it is? But, who do you suppose is paying the tab? Is it the oil company-the individual gasoline station? Not at all. The owners of the approximately 93.000,000 motor vehicles, from coast to coast, are paying the tab. Virtually unnoticed, and certainly without fanfare, every major oil company, in the past two weeks, has raised prices by one cent per gallon.

Imagine - 93,000,000 vehicles are now filled with gasoline that costs one cent per gallon more than just two weeks ago. At that rate the contests could go on forever, and never again will we look forward to a decrease in gasoline prices.

Life In 41

There was a country-club feeling about college life as the 1940s began rumpus room of the fraternity house seemed never to have heard of it. Did the early autumn air seem sweeter to these young men because they were not involved? Or did the girls hold tighter to them out there on the lawns, with the sweet brassy tides of Glenn Miller surging around them, because, with women's presentiment, they knew it

Those were the days when Americans, living a supposedly sophisticated life, watched Betty Grable movies about the Gay Nineties because life was so much simpler then-saloons, can-can girls, and the big songs in which the only serious word was a breathily voiced "baby," as in "Hello baby," "Don't ever say good-by, baby" and, inevitably, "It's love, baby."

The disappearance of rumble seats had not reduced the popularity of parked cars, though they all seemed to get started again by 1 a.m. for the final event of the evening, gathering at the Snappy Service chili parlor for nothing stronger than a hamburger or a bowl beans and coffee. The event was made exciting by the hilarious banter about nothing more important than the way Marge kept vowing she would never marry or how Roy had managed to avoid flunking an English lit test.

The campus wasn't central to the ourpose of life, which was-well, who hought about such things, except philosophy majors? Anyway, the campus was where you met people and the classes kind of gave your day a framework, because what else was there to to in the morning arryway, except hunch back in your chair and listen to gray-haired professor, who seemed to be just putting in his time, drone out some of the most beautiful lines Keats ever put on paper? (He had been a Navy officer, you found out later. He really was just putting in his time, because he knew that the future, for some of these boys, was going to vanish in flashes of gunfire over the stormy North Atlantic.) In those days there was no crowding on the campus. Counselors worked hard to keep you in school-even when you would out all but the first few classes

It was the era of the "gentleman's C." a term now obsolete. If you got a C in every course, that sufficed. An occasional B might be good, to offset the inevitable D, but to push constantly for higher grades marked you as a student who was bound to make the gentlemen look bad, and that was inexcusable. The cost of living wasn't a problem. The National Youth Administration, a Federal aid program for students started in the Depression, was available if you ran out of dimes (which was all a milk shake cost), or the student employment office would get you a job

But who really cared? When the fresh breezes of Oregon caught up the sweet smell of a newly mowed lawn and you knew that you were young, hat there was plenty of time to enjoy living; and that the pleasures of that day would continue to lie before you forever, as they did on those campus afternoons in 1941. - WILLIAM R. Wayne, discussing his recent visit to Viet Nam at a news conference Tuesday, said: "Maybe it's because the guys I met in New Guinea during the time and didn't have enough ammunition or food. They were beat and morale was bad. These boys in Viet Nam know that they'll have only a year's tour of duty, and they're out thereand ready."

Rayburn and James Madison, fourth President of the United States and father of the Bill of Meanwhile, the library, which cautiously describes it self as "in all probability the world's largest," is housed in an ornate and overcrowded Italian Renaissance building completed in 1897. A more austere, and also overcrowded, annex was completed in 1939. And the library uses portions of buildings at the former Navy Gun factory several niles away on the Anacostia River and an abandoned aircraft hangar. Arrangements are now being made to lease a warehouse given up by a Washington department store..

Although Congress loves its library, the agony of decision-making has delayed the new

"At least two years have been lost," protests Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., a library buff who is chairman of the approsible for financing the library. "This funny monstrosity of a bill requires 42 different people to agree before anything can be done. It will be a miracle if the library can move into its new building five years from

D-Ill., who piloted through a sea of compromises the bill authorizing a $75 million building, insists it is workable legis-

KEEPING HEATING COSTS DOWN

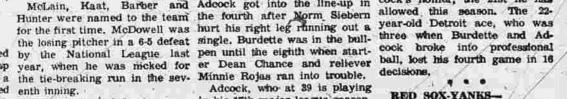

We have our own servicemen. Not everyone does. Our men are interested in making your furnace perform at its highest efficiency and lowest cost because then you'll keep buying oil from us. Remember, three out of four furnaces weste fuel. Thanks to Mobil Technical Research our men have the latest facts on how to make your furnace the one-in-four that keeps heating costs at a minimum. There's a big difference in distributors. Let one of our servicemen earn another gold star by showing you how hig that

Just say "charge if" at the stations displaying the sign below. You won't need much credit. though, because nobody can beat the price a service station can give you on a quality muffler job. Nobody, And, your local station makes it easy for you by installing your muffler in less time than it would take to drive clear across town for one of those "deals." So be smart, and stop at the sign of the best muffler service (see below). It means AP mufflers, too, with up to 33% thicker, coated steel. If you're that smart, you deserve
