Lucky Bridge Player Picks Poe Carefully
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
If you want to be a lucky bridge player don't expect more than your share of the high cards. They tend to even out over a very short period of time. Just choose the kind of opponent who plays automatically instead of thoughtfully. Then you may have the kind of luck that South did not experience in today's hand.
Opening lead — Queen of Hearts.
South won the first trick with the king of hearts and led the queen of spades for a finesse. East won with the king of spades and counted the probable tricks.
The situation seemed hopeless unless his partner had the ace of clubs. But then should he rely on one trick in each suit or should he try for two diamonds instead of one heart and one diamond? East thought a heart trick was a poor bet, so returned the three of diamonds.
West's ten forced out dummy's queen of diamonds, and declarer drew trumps and led clubs. West got in with the ace of clubs and led another diamond. East thereupon took two diamonds, defeating the contract.
Poor Choice
We can see immediately that South made a poor choice when he got in a game with an opponent like East. South played his cards badly, and East made the best of the underdog's position. Players like South should choose weaker players as their opponents.
South had the chance to put his game on ice if he had played the right black suit at the second trick. Instead of trying a trump finesse, South should have led clubs to knock out the ace of clubs. It will do him no good to shift to diamonds. Declarer is in position to discard a diamond from dummy on the heart trick was a poor bet, so returned the three of diamonds. He then can afford to lead trumps.
Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: Spades, A-10-3; Hearts, 10-4-3; Diamonds, 6-5-4; Clubs, K-4. What do you say?
Answer: Pass. You have 12 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton bid, but you should resist the temptation to bid. You have nine very low cards, no long suit and a difficult hand to describe. If you do choose to open the bidding, General Features Corp.

Christmas Eve Of the Gypsies

A very long time ago, in a far away land, there was a band of traveling gypsy players who would travel to the marketplaces and gather groups of people around them. They would put on performances for the people's amusement, for which the people would indicate their pleasure by tossing coins to the gypsies. This is the way the band of gypsies supported themselves.
One Christmas Eve, the gypsy players wondered about their next meal, for the soup pot held meager portions and they would not be performing because it was Christmas Eve. But the people in the marketplace gathered round anyway and would not accept "no" for an answer. They wanted to see a play.
And the gypsy Melchior said to the people that not many persons realize that he is a direct descendant of one of the Great Magi Melchior, one of the original three kings who visited the babe Jesus on the night of his birth, offering gifts. The gypsy players agree, although there are not enough of them that they will each take two or three roles, and recreate the Nativity for the audience.
This is the story of "Christmas in the Marketplace," which will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church of Andover. Henry Glimco is directing the production, which is open to the public free of charge. He will be assisted by Leslie Caine, stage manager. Music for the performance has been recorded by Kathy Keller, her of Coventry on a recorder.

IQ of 200 Prompts Thought Of School Program for Gifted

An exceptionally gifted child has been identified in the Vernon School system and the system does not have a program to accommodate such children.
Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent of schools told the Board of Education, the child has an IQ of 200 or more. He said the school system's Planning and Placement team has recommended that the Board seek an established gifted program in another school system and to bus the student to the program daily.
While the state has not mandated such programs, Kerkin said he has in other special education areas, Kerkin said the board should think about it as there are many other gifted children in the system who could benefit by such a program.
On the recommendation of the board's gifted committee, Kerkin said he will be investigating the possibility of developing such a program in Vernon. If a program, acceptable to the state, developed the cost would be two-thirds reimbursable, Kerkin said.
Kerkin also told the board there is an extremely mild handicapped child in town. He said the system cannot provide an adequate program for this child and that the planning and placement team is seeking such a program somewhere else in the state. He noted that this would require the child's traveling about 75 miles a day, to many other gifted children in the area and from the school. He questioned whether this would be good for such a handicapped child and agreed to table the matter until further consulting the parents.
The hiring of an aide to travel with a group of children who attend the American School for the Deaf, in Hartford, was also approved by the board. Kerkin explained the bus driver has had severe problems on the run to Hartford each day.
A request for some part-time help in the psychological testing department, was denied by the board at this time. Kerkin explained that the psychological testing, evaluation and follow-up are still extremely critical. He said the department cannot keep up with the actual need let alone the emergency situations.
Another request made by Kerkin for an additional full-time staff member or two half-time assistants to work in the programs for the perceptually handicapped and the educable retardates, was tabled for further study.
Kerkin explained that case loads have increased considerably and are larger than transitional classes of basic programs. He told the board additional staff is needed to meet the present needs and perhaps to take a few more children in from the State Public Utilities Commission for the sale of all assets.

Water Firm For Amston Seeking to Sell Assets

The Beesock Lake Water Co. of Middletown, which furnishes all the community water supply for Amston Lake, is seeking approval from the State Public Utilities Commission for the sale of all assets.
This would include franchise rights of its Beesock Division which currently provides water to Middletown as well as to Middletown as well. Community water is furnished to Amston by the company only to summer residents from May through November. Year-round residents at the lake have their own wells.
The Commission has scheduled a public hearing on this matter to be held at Room 265A of the State Office Building on Monday, Dec. 27 at 10:30 a.m.
Both elementary schools have scheduled Christmas programs for next week to which all parents are invited to attend.
The program at the Gilead Hill School will be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the All-Purpose Room. The theme will be "Holiday Seasons Around the World" and will be coordinated by art teacher Mrs. Rose Mary Cocca and music teacher Zemy Tapley.
The following night, the Hebron Elementary School will conduct its program at 7 in the school auditorium. This program is also under the direction of Mrs. Cocca and Tapley and all classes will participate.
The Hebron school has also scheduled an informal carol sing for Thursday morning of next week at 9:30 in the auditorium. Monday through Wednesday at the Hebron school has been designated "buddy" class days for the holidays. Each day a class will draw a "buddy" class from a hat to do something nice for the day. The identity of the giving class will be kept a secret until the last day.
And at the Gilead school, the staff, rather than exchanging

South Windsor Police Shift Ruled Charter Violation

The South Windsor Personnel Board has ruled in favor of the South Windsor Police Association (SWPA) in its contention that the appointment of police officer Edward Kasheta to the rank of detective by Police Chief John Kerrigan without benefit of competitive exams—a promotion and should have been made in accordance with applicable provisions of the town's Charter and the personnel rules.

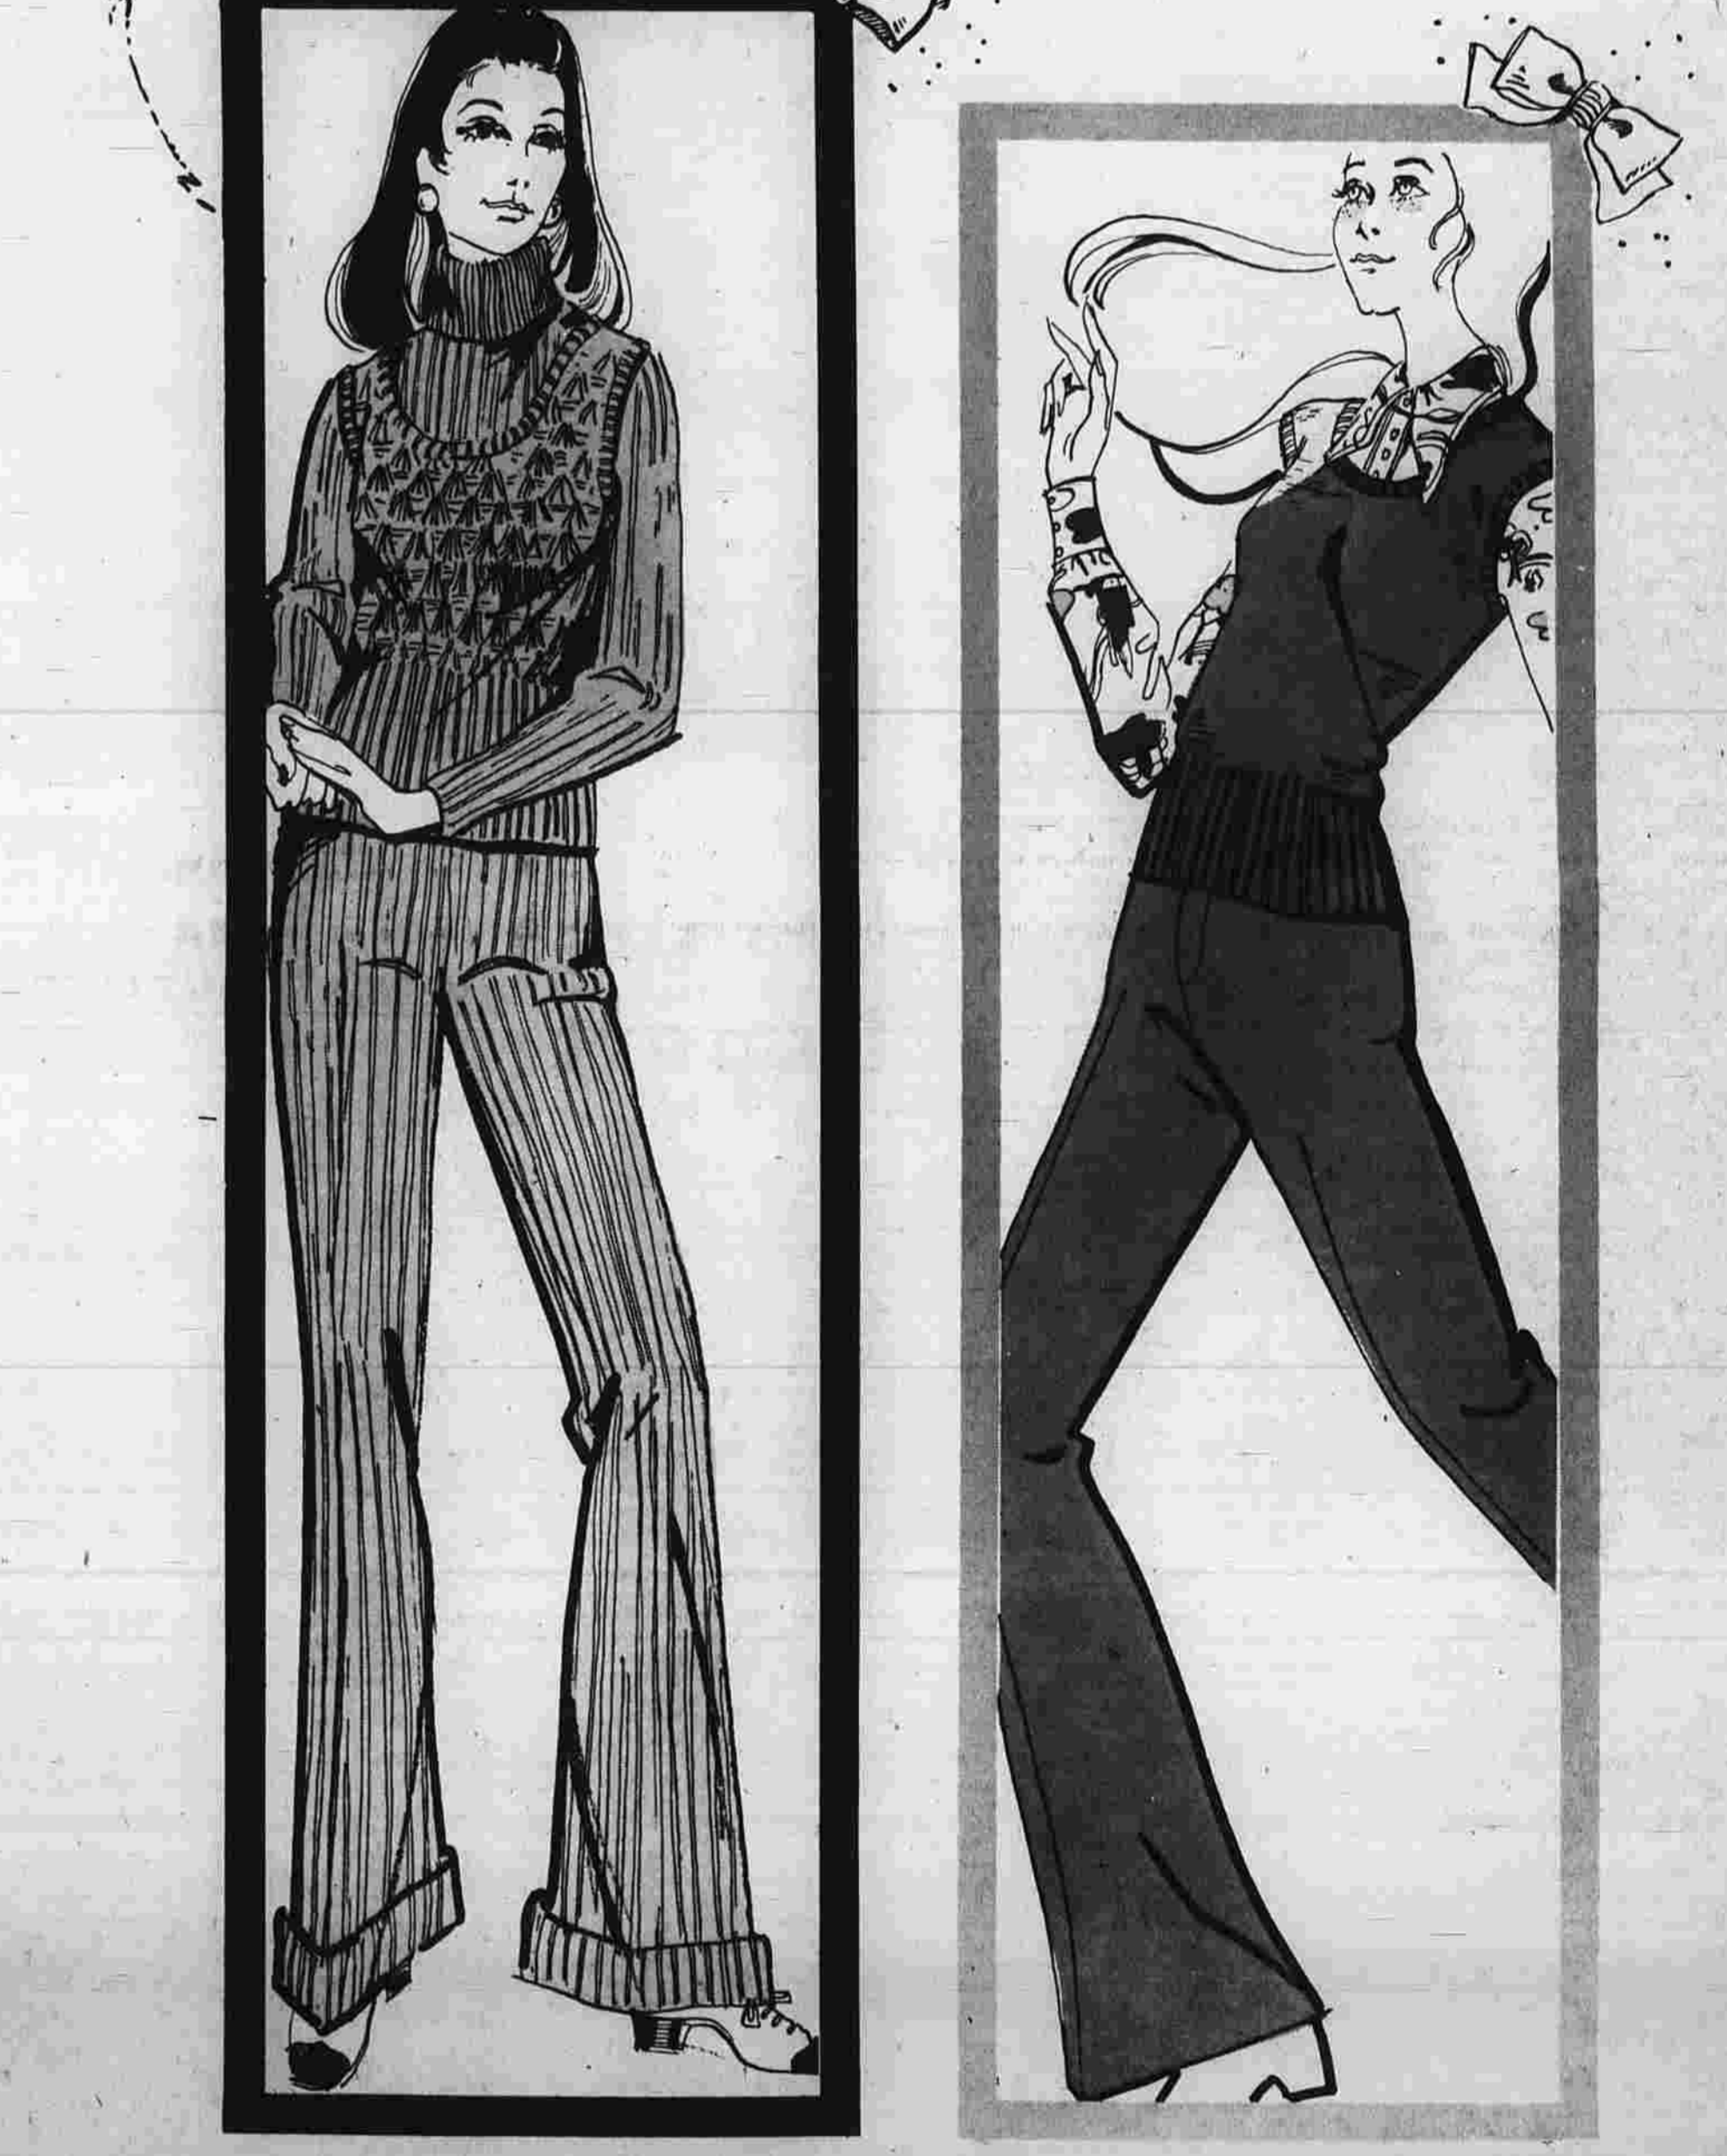

The board, consisting of John Kearney, Royal E. Cowles, and Edwin Lassman, chairman, last month was asked to hear the SWPA grievance and decide on the issue. The SWPA claimed the appointment was a promotion and it violated the town's Charter and the personnel rules since the merit system was not used.

The Layman and Devaluation

The ordinary layman trying to understand devaluation of the dollar might do well enough by telling himself it means abandonment of an artificial effort to pretend the dollar is worth more in terms of gold metal or in terms of other currencies than it is in terms of the market place.

All the experts tell us laymen that this is something almost purely technical and that, so far as our own American living among ourselves is concerned, it has almost no importance at all.

In the same breath, however, the experts also say that devaluation of the dollar is going to be good for the United States economy as a whole, because, as a practical and realistic adjustment to actual conditions in the world currency situation, it will prevent further informal actual cheapening of the dollar and stabilize our buying and selling relationship with the rest of the world on a basis more favorable to American products both at home and abroad.

If all this makes devaluation of the dollar seem logical and desirable—if, as most comment seems to think, the President's agreement with Pompidou is going to mean nothing but good for everybody—why hasn't it been done before?

Why, if this is such a good thing to do, has President Nixon himself so frequently vowed that it was one thing he would never do?

We think the answer lies in a theme which has been on top of so many of President Nixon's pronouncements on both national and athletic subjects lately—the precaution with being "Number One." Just as the President does not want us to slip into being number two in any other respect, just as he sees no sensible goal for any football team but that of trying to become and remain number one, so there has been, in the dollar, a symbol of United States supremacy and power which the President would defend even natural instinct to maintain and defend, even if the cost of doing so, in practical terms, might seem something difficult to meet and bear.

Now, the President is acknowledging that the dollar no longer rules first currency in the world, but only as one of a family of currencies.

The good consequence of such modesty, such abandonment of an over-extended, precarious position is that the dollar can now defend itself in its more modest position more efficiently.

And what President Nixon is admitting, by his turn of policy, is that it is time to be number one, if you can afford it, but sometimes better merely to try to be one among equals, with nobody number one or number two or on top or underneath.

But, although everyone now proclaims this to be a great game plan for currency and trade and balances, we do not visualize anybody trying to work it into the kind of pep talk one gives a football team. There is a difference, sometimes, between the kinds of games people and nations have to play.

"For Studying"

First, there was a strange report from Yale, to the effect that studying seemed to be becoming, this year, the liveliest undergraduate enterprise.

What about the greeting? What of the revolution?

And now there is equally disillusioning word coming down from Harvard.

There the book circulation is the

Harvard and Radcliffe Libraries

Harvard and Radcliffe libraries is up by 28 and 35 per cent over the level of two years ago.

This almost excessive cracking of books is occurring on the same sites which, only two years ago, could still hear police cracking undergraduates heads.

The explanation? There is really no explanation, merely an occasional description of what is happening as, for instance, a professor of political science expressed it the other day.

"They have the bizarre notion," said Prof. Stanley H. Hoffman, "that a university is for studying."

And there, we guess, goes the fine, filling hope we of older generations once thought we had—the hope that there had at last come along one younger generation which was going to refuse to sober down and grow up, admitting, in the end, that it could do no better with this poor old world than we have done. Some generation, some time, has to do better.

Blissful Second-Guessing

As an example of how American liberals think on foreign politics, consider the range of reactions to the India-Pakistan tragedy.

Senator Harris arises to deplore President Nixon and "the tragic setback for our nation and world peace which his administration's neglect of the India-Pakistan crisis has brought about."

He offers a letter also signed by Senators Mondale, Packwood, Bayh, etc., etc., giving historical perspective on the cause of the conflict between India and Pakistan is the continued suppression of popular will in East Pakistan. Their solution to what Mr. Nixon has "brought about": Take it all to the UN.

The editors of the Washington Post tell us that India is indeed trying to use the refugee crisis for the "diminishment of Pakistan, but after all India is the larger and more important of the two, and the President should be aided in largely sentimental considerations" by "farsely cold calculations of power politics."

Communist Joseph Kraft writes that the administration mishandled the "India-Pak crisis" because it failed to pressure Pakistan into negotiating with Bangla Desh leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman "even after Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India visited Washington and named that as a price for peace."

Senator Church is more blunt. He says India has intervened in the civil war of her neighbor, let's remember that we are in Vietnam with our less than "provocation." Senators Kennedy and Muskie charge that the administration was too slow in cutting off aid to Pakistan, and too quick to brand India as the aggressor and to cut off its economic aid, and therefore its policy is not neutral but pro-Pakistan.

These are the same people, remember (as if they will let you forget), who condemn the United States for playing "world policeman," who elevate non-intervention to the highest principle in the case of Vietnam, who think we should lay aside power politics in favor of moral judgment in relations with Greece or Rhodesia, who are at the same time the most enthusiastic about closer relations with the People's Republic of China.

In this view, it's horrible for the United States to intervene in Vietnam but quite fine, thank you, for India to do so in East Pakistan. The United States should not play world policeman in Southeast Asia but should settle things between East Pakistan and West Pakistan. What Pakistan does to its dissidents should be the controlling factor in our India-Pakistan policy, but what China or Cuba have done to their dissidents is an internal matter that should not influence our policy.

That message is couched in no such complimentary language. But the implication is nonetheless clear that Mr. Nixon's "crust and cruffy clique" is following "17 years of re-education" in making a false detente against what can be solved by a powerful and aggressive Communist political structure in South Vietnam.

In a series of recent articles published in the North Vietnamese army daily newspaper, Quan Doi Nhan Dan, the North Vietnamese administration is credited with having played smart politics in South Vietnam by employing a series of "economic and political tricks" to win over the civilian population.

These "tricks" are, in fact, long overdue in the ten years of efforts by Washington and Saigon to "win the hearts and minds" of the people. Until recently, however, they invariably fell far short of the goal. Now, reading between the lines of Quan Doi Nhan Dan, they are beginning to have solid impact.

Thus, the army daily admits that dollars and consumer goods are now being used "to create a false prosperity" by making it possible for peasants to acquire pumps, plows and harvesters—a revolution in the rural areas U.S. planners have been pushing for years.

In an even more revealing admission, Hanoi now concedes that "a fairly large quantity of assorted consumer goods such as motorcycles, transistor radios and television sets" have been put on the civilian market.

"In the hope of making the people lose sight of the patriotic struggle."

Finally Hanoi's evaluation of the pacification program states that "the American and South puppeteers have fabricated many cases of desertion by guerrillas and revolutionary cadres in order to neutralize the revolutionary ranks. . . . They have sought by all means to insure that a growing number of people are closely connected with their regime."

What that bleak recital means is that Hanoi now faces

Nixon's "Cruffy Clique"

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—With a candor that surprises experts here, North Vietnam is now warning the remnants of its political structure in South Vietnam that President Nixon's "very insidious" pacification program is having a remarkable success.

That message is couched in no such complimentary language. But the implication is nonetheless clear that Mr. Nixon's "crust and cruffy clique" is following "17 years of re-education" in making a false detente against what can be solved by a powerful and aggressive Communist political structure in South Vietnam.

The trouble is that there isn't very much balance in the way the ideas of public criticism center to and fro. Take the case of the lawyers in the General Assembly.

The lawyers of the General Assembly are currently being put under the spotlight for their particular profession, or for their effort to bring the state's attorneys of the state closer to potential political control.

There is no need for this situation, however, to be a signal for a progressive attack on every angle of the status of lawyers in the General Assembly.

And there is one angle of their relationship, as legislators, to the judicial branch, which makes sense, and ought to be defended.

The particular criticism against which the lawyers need to be defended is that which comes from Rep. Victor Tudan, a Windsor Democrat, who seems to have a sort of talent for proposals which have a chance of getting under the skin of lawyer-legislators.

Tudan's latest proposal is one for abolishing the secret balloting which the General Assembly employs, by law, for its voting on the confirmation of the appointment of judges to the various state courts.

His argument is that the provision for secret balloting confers a special hidden privilege for the lawyer members of the General Assembly and that there is no reason why the public should not be entitled to know where they stand on the appointment of various judges, with a public record of their vote such as is available on such controversial issues as abortion, racing and income tax.

The answer to him is that the provision for secret balloting is indeed a kind of special protection for the lawyer members of the General Assembly, but that the reason for this is not so much to serve the state by guaranteeing that they shall be free to express their opinion of judicial records without being exposed to possible future retaliation, from the bench, in their own practice.

How else could one guarantee, among lawyer-legislators of only normal courage, a free and conscientious appraisal of the actual status of a prospective judge or the actual record of a judge's past practice?

Operating under the protection of the secret ballot, the General Assembly has, on extreme occasion, taken off the bench a judge who was deemed to be disgracing it. It has, on other occasions, by various gradations of negative voting, signed up his name for removal from the bench.

Tolland County Superior Court

Sentence Suspended In Armed Holdup Case

A suspended sentence along with psychiatric treatment was ordered for Johnnie Walker yesterday in Tolland County Superior Court after his attorney begged the court to look at the one unexplainable crime against hard work at two jobs for his home and family.

The crime was the armed holdup of the Howard Johnson's Restaurant on St. 30 in Vernon in July, 1970 when a man dressed as a woman forced the night manager and two men working there into a freezer and left with about $1,800.

There had been a trial and halfway through it, although he didn't admit guilt, Walker, 38, of Bloomfield, changed his plea, taking advantage of some plea bargaining offered before the trial. He decided to plead guilty to the charge of theft from person instead of taking the chance, which he had not looked good to him at that point, to plead guilty to robbery.

Walker had worked at the restaurant as a chef for two months before the robbery and was fired.

It was a look back at Walker's life style yesterday which apparently saved him from having to serve a prison sentence. His attorney, Milton Sorokin, said he came into the case in the middle of the trial when Walker changed his plea and although "reluctant to take the case" he has been "profoundly affected by this involvement."

He said there was no way to understand this act of Walker's, that, perhaps it was some affect of his father's death which had just occurred or part of some "tenacious struggle for viable life."

There were many staunch believers in Walker's character, the attorney said who were willing to come as witnesses. Walker was under psychiatric treatment by Dr. Louis H. Gold, who didn't believe extensive treatment was required. The assistant state's attorney, Abbot Schweibel, earlier had referred to Dr. Gold's finding of some mental aberration.

The defense attorney asked the court to allow Walker to continue the best kind of rehabilitation, that of commitment to his wife and children by continuing his hard work.

Judge Henry J. Naruk observed that this was Walker's first admission of involvement in the crime and told him he was one step away from "fantastic trouble," that after suffering a loss of faith in the system hard for 20 years, it was that system which worked for him that he ordered and suspended an 18 month to 3 year prison sentence with probation for three years on the condition he obtain any necessary psychiatric treatment.

NYC Firm Hired For Impact Study Of New I-291

HARTFORD (AP)—Volmer Associates of New York City has been hired to make an environmental impact study of the proposed Interstate 291 which runs near reservoirs in West Hartford, the state Department of Transportation announced Wednesday.

Until the study is made, federal funds for the $110 million highway will be withheld.

However, Angel J. Siccardi, division engineer for the Federal Highway Administration, said that the preliminary designs and to pay 90 per cent of the study.

The state DOT announced Dec. 1 that it was going ahead with its original route which caused so much controversy.

Tolland County Superior Court LaPoint Imprisoned For Beating of Girl

Robert LaPoint was sentenced yesterday to 4 to 7 years at the state prison for the severe beating of 15-year-old Susan Leach of Rockyville last spring. He was found unconscious and in serious condition off a country road in Stillington early on a Saturday morning.

LaPoint, 19, of Vernon, had first pleaded innocent to the charge of assault with intent to murder but later withdrew it to plead guilty to assault with intent to kill which carries a 15-year maximum sentence. He was arrested on a bench warrant four months after the assault when the girl recognized him among a group of young people. She had not known his name when she accepted a ride on his motorcycle the night of the assault.

State Atty. Donald Caldwell said the beating had been so vicious they were lucky this wasn't a homicide case and that the girl will bear the scars of the experience for life. He said LaPoint had told the prosecution officer he couldn't remember anything about it, but commitment to the prison.

He said if there was a perfect solution it wouldn't be to lock up his body but rather to unlock his mind and find out what triggers such a thing. There is a possibility that LaPoint could be transferred to an extended psychiatric treatment into a maximum security center at the Connecticut Valley Hospital to ascertain the source of his problems, Judge Naruk said but it is not available to him now. He specified that LaPoint should be transferred there as soon as possible after member anything about it, but commitment to the prison.

CAC Meets On Monday

A meeting of the Citizen's Advisory Committee has been called for Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Highland Park School to review and compare recommendations of the CAC task forces with those of the CDAP agency.

Among the officers to be elected is a new chairman, Eugene Montary, of 280 Ferguson Rd., who was chairman, but was not reappointed to the committee. Chairman of some task forces must be replaced due to resignations and reshuffling of the CAC membership when many Democrats were appointed to replace Republicans on the committee.

The seven task forces of the CAC are those which have been considering and recommending plans for 12 areas of community life under the Manchester CDAP program.

Recommendations for all 12 of the areas have been received by the CDAP Agency which has returned them and made its recommendations. In a very few cases, the task force ideas and the agency recommendations do not coincide, according to John Harkins, assistant town manager and CDAP coordinator. These will be discussed at Monday's meeting, Harkins says.

Public hearings on the CDAP recommendations are planned for January, Harkins says. The procedure for conducting these hearings will also be discussed.

Prior to the hearings, a "school" is planned at which the public will be invited to examine the CDAP proposals. This will probably be held in the first week in January, Harkins says. Harkins says that anyone who wishes to look over the CDAP material may do so in his office during normal business hours.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices rallied strongly for the second session today.

Investors anticipated some new gains as a result of the monetary program. Trading was very active.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 2.9 to 873.04.

Advances led declines by more than 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors were encouraged by signs of progress toward an international monetary agreement and by the improving economy. They also noted investors were pleased by the ability of the market to overcome profit-taking pressures and move upward again in Wednesday's trading.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock average rose 2.7 to 144.45, with industrial stocks up 4.4, steel and farm implements up 7.7, and other stock categories were higher.

Non prices on the Big Board also included Kemptec, up 1/4 to 24 1/2; Ramada Inns, up 1/4 to 24 1/2; GAF, up 1/4 to 24 1/2; and Brant, up 1/4 to 25 1/2.

The American Stock Exchange prices included Kaiser Industries, up 1/4 to 42 1/2; SynTex, up 1/4 to 8 3/4; Champion Home Builders, up 1/4 to 44 1/2; and Stilk, up 1/4 to 21 1/2.

Nixon Hopes Indians Pull Out of Kashmir

KEY BISHOP, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon still seeks a total Indian withdrawal from Kashmir, a source close to the White House said today.

Private Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon, spending the morning in his office here, was keeping in close touch with developments in the south Asian war through telephone calls to Henry A. Kissinger, his security affairs advisor, in Washington.

Ziegler said that if India and Pakistan agree to a ceasefire in the west, to accompany an already negotiated in East Pakistan, "that of course is an encouraging turn."

Asked if the United States continues to hope for an Indian withdrawal from East Pakistan, Ziegler said, "We still would like to see foreign forces withdraw from that area."

Vernon School Hit By Vandals

The Maple Street elementary school was extensively damaged by vandals last night by the school early this morning.

Vernon police are investigating the incident, said there was no sign of how the vandals gained entry to the building. Police said several classrooms were spilled with smashed fruit, vegetables, Christmas decorations were destroyed, and a teacher's desk was damaged. The police office was riddled.

State police are also investigating a similar incident that occurred at the Longview School in Ellington, last night.

Anthony Augeri, 28, of Middletown was arrested on a warrant issued by Circuit Court 12. He was charged with larceny and released on a $200 surety bond.

Peter Lonsdale, 38, of Windsor, was charged with larceny in the fourth degree in connection with a shoplifting incident at the Sage-Allen store, Vernon, on Dec. 10.

Nurses Voting Today On Bargaining Agent

BY BILL COE

(Special to the Herald)

A collective bargaining election among staff nurses at Manchester Memorial Hospital proceeded quietly this morning in the former doctor's dining room under the auspices of the State Labor Relations Board. By 10 a.m., 67 nurses, or 58 per cent of 115 declared eligible, had cast ballots.

The election is being held to determine whether Local 26 of the Connecticut Nurses Association (CNA) will continue to represent the nurses in collective bargaining with the hospital administration. The union's contract expires at the end of this month.

Of the 67 votes cast this morning, only one was challenged, said Mrs. Elizabeth T. Sullivan, assistant agent for the SLRB and moderator for the election. She said she challenged one nurse not on the eligible list, but allowed the vote subject to disqualification later, on the basis that the nurse's name may have been omitted through an oversight.

Observers during the morning were Mrs. Claire Roy, nursing personnel scheduling clerk, representing the hospital; Mrs. Sue Wilson, R.N., for Unit 26 of CNA; and Mrs. Carutha Lechausen, R.N., for the non-union faction of nurses.

Mrs. Lechausen and Mrs. Catherine M. Maloney, R.N., head the group seeking to oust the union. They petitioned to the State Labor Board last August for decertification of Local 26 after the aides failed to agree among themselves on an election.

The hearing was held Sept. 23 at the SLRB office in Hartford, at which the board heard testimony from both sides. A board rule that at least 30 per cent of the eligible nurses had to sign a petition calling for a hearing before it could be held. Later, a motion was filed by the hospital to postpone the hearing, on grounds that additional material evidence had been gathered pertinent to the case.

The board, however, in a finding issued early this month, denied the union's motion and ordered the election.

The bargaining representative for the nurses in 1969 after a long court case, the SLRB ruled in favor of the union. The union has been in existence for more than a year. It has a substantial number of ballots and has renewed vigor with many former voters who are now active in the fight against the hospital.

Doctors Can Go Up 2.5% And Hospitals Can Go 6%

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your doctor now charges $15 for an office call, he can tack on another 2 1/2 per cent, but not a penny more unless the government approves the rise.

A hospital which charges $50 a day for a room can add $3, but no more unless the government says it's okay.

The Price Commission handed its first attempt to regulate medical costs across the board in the United States.

The American Medical Association, which has consistently fought government regulation, has no objection to the guidelines, which have been approved by the AMA officials.

Dr. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said he was not surprised that the guidelines were approved. He said, "The way you avoid war is not starting up tanks and putting bullets into rifles."

He declined to say whether Nixon would reply to Mr. Gandhi's letter.

Town Given $15,000 Grant For Youth Service Center

Manchester has been named the recipient of a $15,000 grant under Title I of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. The award is for the establishment of a youth service center.

The funds are for an eight-month period and are renewable. The center will be supervised by a board of directors, which will be appointed by the town.

Robert Digan, coordinator of youth services for the Board of Education; and his assistant, Richard Provost, will be project coordinator and supervisor, respectively. Dr. Donald J. Hennigan, superintendent of the Criminal Administration, Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Nurses Voting Today On Bargaining Agent

BY BILL COE

(Special to the Herald)

A collective bargaining election among staff nurses at Manchester Memorial Hospital proceeded quietly this morning in the former doctor's dining room under the auspices of the State Labor Relations Board. By 10 a.m., 67 nurses, or 58 per cent of 115 declared eligible, had cast ballots.

The election is being held to determine whether Local 26 of the Connecticut Nurses Association (CNA) will continue to represent the nurses in collective bargaining with the hospital administration. The union's contract expires at the end of this month.

Of the 67 votes cast this morning, only one was challenged, said Mrs. Elizabeth T. Sullivan, assistant agent for the SLRB and moderator for the election. She said she challenged one nurse not on the eligible list, but allowed the vote subject to disqualification later, on the basis that the nurse's name may have been omitted through an oversight.

Observers during the morning were Mrs. Claire Roy, nursing personnel scheduling clerk, representing the hospital; Mrs. Sue Wilson, R.N., for Unit 26 of CNA; and Mrs. Carutha Lechausen, R.N., for the non-union faction of nurses.

Mrs. Lechausen and Mrs. Catherine M. Maloney, R.N., head the group seeking to oust the union. They petitioned to the State Labor Board last August for decertification of Local 26 after the aides failed to agree among themselves on an election.

The hearing was held Sept. 23 at the SLRB office in Hartford, at which the board heard testimony from both sides. A board rule that at least 30 per cent of the eligible nurses had to sign a petition calling for a hearing before it could be held. Later, a motion was filed by the hospital to postpone the hearing, on grounds that additional material evidence had been gathered pertinent to the case.

The board, however, in a finding issued early this month, denied the union's motion and ordered the election.

The bargaining representative for the nurses in 1969 after a long court case, the SLRB ruled in favor of the union. The union has been in existence for more than a year. It has a substantial number of ballots and has renewed vigor with many former voters who are now active in the fight against the hospital.

Man Injured When Train Smashes Car

WEST HARTFORD (AP) — A man was critically injured today when a freight train struck his car at a railroad crossing on Oakwood Avenue.

The unidentified motorist was rushed to St. Francis Hospital in Hartford. Bylanders said he was seriously injured and was killed because his car was smashed into pieces.

The train, which was moving on its way to Hartford from New Haven, was only slightly delayed and was able to continue.

Cuban Gunboat Seizes Freighter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban exile owned freighter, crippled by machine gun fire from a Cuban gunboat, was under tow today by the Communist island today with the fate of the wounded captain unknown. His wife said she would appeal to President Nixon for help.

Following the attack on the high seas Wednesday, Capt. Jose Villa radioed that the ship is covered with blood. "I am dying from the wounds," he said, which alluded to "dying and being wounded" crew members, who were rescued from the boat Monday morning.

The general will be tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. from the Belmont Funeral Home, 29 S. Main St., Colchester, with a Mass of the Resurrection at 10. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Colchester.

There are no calling hours, and it is a very grave situation. The family suggests that the use of flowers memorial contributions may be made to the Multiple Sclerosis Fund, 104 Asylum St., Hartford.

WE HAVE WHAT HE'LL WANT TO HAVE THE DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS.

Christmas is Butterfield's time to show off. The biggest and newest fashion store in Connecticut is just bursting with good things to give.

I'm especially happy with our men's department. The women who shop there can find hundreds of things that the men she loves will love to find on Christmas morning. And many of Butterfield's men's gift items are trimmed with special prices.

So here are six things I think you'll like, just to whet your appetite. (You can imagine how many things it takes to fill up a store

- Sweaters $13.99 To warm his body and his heart. Many more than we can mention.
- Ties $2.99 His dress shirts.
- Pajamas $3.99 Looking good at night isn't expensive.
- Knit Shirts $9.99 From Leonardo Stracci. Very dashing.
- Suede Suburban Coats $49.00 Luxurious suede and nylon pile lining.

the size of the Yale Bowl, so naturally we can't mention everything.) And in case this will be your first visit,

Vernon Snow Scene Chosen Best Oil of Month

An oil painting, "Snow Scene" by Mrs. Mildred Lusk, has been chosen as the picture of the month by the Tolland County Art Association. It will be on display at the Rockville Public Library.

The artist of the month, Miss Emma Bais, has a display of her paintings on exhibit in the main reading room of the library, and a collection of paintings done by Mrs. Doreen Saab of Ellington is on display at the Chamber of Commerce office, LaFayette Square, Rockville.

Other paintings on display in area banks and libraries are "Late Autumn Afternoon," a watercolor by Charles Krut of Vernon; "Fishing Boats," a pastel by Barbara Orlowski of Ellington; at Tolland Library, "At Bay," a watercolor by Barbara Swenson of Ellington; at the Connecticut Bank and Trust, Rockville; "Bill Lusk" an oil by Alma Lane, Rockville, at the Savings Bank of Rockville.

Also, "Quiet Night," an oil by Carol Bushey of East Windsor, at the Savings Bank of Tolland; "Whittower" Equestrian, a pastel by Jenni Bates of Ellington; Hall Memorial Library, Ellington; "A Peaceful Day," a painting by Mrs. Doreen Saab of Vernon, at People's Bank, Rockville and "Born Free," an oil by Mrs. Hoffman of Ellington at the Mary Dumphy Dance Studio, Vernon.

Four large paintings hanging in the Rockville Library reading room, were executed by four "teams" of artists at the association's Christmas party. Each team member was allotted three minutes at a time to add or change the painting to their liking.

Library Program

The Rockville Junior Library will present a program "Dinosaurs," Saturday at 10 a.m. It is recommended for children in Grades 3 through 6.

A Christmas puppet show will be presented Dec. 20 with one show scheduled for 10 a.m. and one for 2 p.m. Free tickets will be available at the library, starting Dec. 20.

All Tolland residents are invited to attend. Two presentations were planned because the concert hall is not large enough for one performance, to accommodate those wishing to attend. No admission fee will be charged.

Awards Medals

Students attending the baton class conducted by the recreation board have presented medals as follows: Caroline Jesania, Dunny, Eileen, Linda Koch, Denise Bean, Gina Vonick and Donald Howard, first place.

Kim Grant, Bette Foster, Amanda Blala, Ann McTeelvey, Holly Flatchek and Connie Oaks, second place.

Michelle Cavanaugh, third place.

Bookies Form Trade Union In England

(C) 1971, THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN LONDON—A Trade Union for bookmakers' employes has been formed with the help of the Church of England.

Church officials have been acting as advisers in an attempt to organize the 50,000 men and women in Britain's legal gambling industry.

Tom Chapman, industrial liaison officer at Church House, agreed to help after a group of bookies' men had listed their complaints about working conditions. These include falling real wages over the past five to six years, a basic six-day week and a nine-hour day, for many employees; and matched lunch breaks, which are nonexistent on Saturdays.

Chapman says that gambling is such a specialized industry that a new union seems the best way of organizing the employes. He sees nothing incompatible in churchmen helping to organize it.

"On the contrary," he said, "it is our duty to help all who seek our assistance — even if they're atheists."

Andover ZBA Grants Permit For Auto Junkyard

MacDonald said he will check with Andover Elementary School principal Donald Libby to see whether it would be possible to obtain use of the school for the series of dance classes and whether there would be any charges involved.

The possibility of initiating a program of winter sports was also discussed, and MacDonald said he will discuss with Libby whether the school grounds can be used as readily available for these purposes.

MacDonald also said that he is official to discuss with a state representative the possibility of obtaining for Andover a grant for a rural music program.

The junkyard itself is fenced from the road by a high wooden fence and is located some distance back from the road.

Contained in the junkyard are junk cars, metal parts and other such materials. Town officials have indicated that the area has been checked periodically and there is no pollution of the Hop River, to which the junkyard is adjacent, and no effluents are disposed of in the area.

Because Andover's zoning regulations require that such a permit is not transferable and application for the permit must be made to the Zoning Board of Appeals, the new owners, Laurence and Birolis, had to make the application, which automatically called for a public hearing on the matter.

Although the matter of the junkyard permit was the subject of discussion among town officials, and town groups such as the Planning and Zoning Commission, the Conservation Commission, the Andover Environmental Action Council, there was evidently no opposition to the granting of the permit.

Recreation Commission Meeting

The town's Recreation Commission met last night at the town office building, and plans got under way to begin a square dance program in January.

Recreational Director Gordon MacDonald said that he spoke to "caller" who informed him that the usual procedure is to schedule a series of 10 classes without charge for the first three lessons, and if through interest has been generated, then it would continue with a small charge per lesson.

David Munson said that the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Congregational Church is having a collection of clothing and toys and gear, to be distributed to the children.

Gunfire Continues in Belfast As Peace Talks Planned

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Guerrilla snipers struck again in Northern Ireland today amid forecasts of political talks to try to end the bloodshed.

Gunmen opened rifle and sub-machine-gun fire at three British military patrols on Belfast's streets of the underground Falls Road, a Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army.

Bullets ricocheted off the soldiers' armored cars and muzzle flashes split the darkness as the two sides traded fire. One soldier was hit in the stomach. Two more bullets thudded into the ambulance that sped him to a hospital.

The gun battles followed a meeting in London by Prime Minister Edward Heath, opposition Labor party leader Harold Wilson and other political leaders. They agreed to plan talks of the British government to the new year with Northern Ireland's political parties to against the IRA, he said.

A major point of discussion would be Wilson's plan to set up a constitutional commission and work for an eventual union of Northern Ireland with the neighboring Irish republic.

Northern Ireland's one million Protestants — who outnumber Catholics 2 to 1 — are generally opposed to joining the Catholic-dominated republic.

The IRA is fighting to drive the British out of the republic by force. The Irish strife has taken 1971 lives in 28 months.

Many Northern Irish Protestants were reported upset today by a British Cabinet minister's going to Assisi, $25,292 to Walsbury and $47,124 to Hartford.

Area Students Given Grants

Three Manchester residents have been awarded a total of $1,000 in scholarships from area civic organizations for study this year at the University of Connecticut.

In accepting the grants recently, the board of trustees thanked the donors for their generosity and pointed out how important these scholarships are to UConn students during a period of sharply escalating costs.

Students receiving assistance are John R. Briggs, 21, Perugino Rd., 1100 from the American Baptist Board of Education and Publication, Valley Forge, Pa.; Richard Joyner, 27 Sealers Rd., $500 from the Frank Rowell Fuller Scholarship Fund, Hartford; and Steven Haugh, 68 Helms Rd., $200 from the New England Farm and Garden Association, Inc., Boston, Mass.

Greater Role in Politics Wanted by Lady Democrats

HARTFORD (AP) — House Speaker William Hathorn and Democratic State Chairman John M. Bailey spelling out their requests.

In their letter to Bailey, they said: "The number of women in the state legislature has seriously declined since reappointment in 1966. In order to maintain and strengthen the role of women as leaders, we must encourage more women to run for state legislative office and for positions such as delegates."

The Democratic women in the House already have an assistant leader in the person of Rep. Ruth Truce of Websterfield.

And they asked that more women be encouraged to run for state offices and the General Assembly and that more women be put on the Conventional delegation to the Democratic National Convention next year.

"The special problems of women must be recognized and dealt with at all levels," said the Democratic women, "ranging from equal opportunities for employment and education to concerns with the health of children and the state's welfare and housing policies."

The group sent letters to

Emotional Trial Lawyers Say No-Need for No-Fault

Lambert felt the no-fault commission spellbound for over an hour.

When he got through, commission member Lou Pollis, an insurance agent, summed up Lambert's arguments in less than one minute.

Lambert's main point was that if the legislature felt it had to do something about improving the system by which auto accident victims are compensated, it should change the "contributory negligence" principle to a "comparative negligence" system.

In no event, said Lambert, should the General Assembly do away with the present system of awarding damages for "pain and suffering."

Under the contributory negligence doctrine, a person who is partly at fault can not collect damages from the person whom he blames for an accident.

Under comparative negligence, the percentage of blame is determined and the damages assessed on that basis. This, in turn, is the way insurance com-

Rocky To Head Nixon Campaign

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he has agreed to head President Nixon's re-election campaign in New York next year.

Rockefeller told a news conference Wednesday "that the President stands better with the voters of New York State right now than he has at any time in his recent past."

He said he would be pleased to lead the campaign in New York, but he would not be in charge of the national campaign.

Town Will Sell Old Fire Truck

It's big, it's red, and it would make a fine Christmas gift. It's a 1942 vintage fire engine, seldom used by the town now, but still in pretty good condition, according to William C. Mason, town fire chief.

Bids for the old engine No. 4 will be opened Dec. 29 at 11 a.m. in the Municipal Building.

Also to be opened that day will be bids for one Remington Rand Desiggraph photostat machine and one electric simplex ideal print dryer. This equipment was formerly used by the town clerk's office in recording public records, but the records are now microfilm.

The fire apparatus is a 70-gallon American LaFrance pumping engine.

The engine was originally ordered by the Board of Fire Commissioners in 1942 before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Mason says, and cost about $2,000 then, the Board of Fire Commissioners used to govern the South Manchester Fire District.

When World War II began, various priorities on war materials delayed the engine's delivery until July 3, 1942. The new engine replaced an old engine which had been bought in 1914, and was the first engine bought by the South Manchester district after 1929.

The engine was first used to fight a fire at the old Case Bottling Plant. The engine it replaced was also first used at a fire at Case Mills.

The engine is now stored in the School St. firehouse.

Groups Donate Holiday Funds

Two groups holding holiday activities at Willie's Steak House Tuesday night made a cash donation to the Hartford Regional Center, Office of Mental Retardation, State Department of Health.

Members of the Connecticut Landscape Contractors (CLC) and employees of the Savings Bank of Manchester collected $115. It was presented to Dr. A. Z. Sosenko, superintendent of the Hartford Regional Center in Newington, who was a guest of the CLC.

John Elliott of 26 Summer St., a CLC director, was chairman of the Christmas party. He is owner of the Elm-Bell Landscaping Co. in Westfield, Mass.

CLC's share of the gift was $50. The gift was presented to the center in June, members landscaped the grounds. All labor, materials, and use of equipment were donated.

New MV Terminal Will Serve Area

Police officials from Vernon, Glastonbury, South Windsor and Coventry gathered at the Manchester Police Headquarters yesterday, at Chief James Reardon's request, to see a new motor vehicle computer terminal that will serve the Manchester area.

The terminal, provided a direct line to the Department of Motor Vehicle's Hartford computer, and will give quick response to officers requesting license and registration information, and will replace the older slower teletype system.

The terminal was installed last week and represents part of a modernization of communications in Manchester paid for by a series of federal grants recently awarded to the town.

The terminal costs $2,500, and is one of 22 placed around the

Youths Will Spend Holiday At Orphanage in Jamaica

Five young people from Trinity Covenant Church will spend most of the holiday period in a volunteer work project at an orphanage in Jamaica. They will leave Dec. 27 and return Jan. 5.

The project is sponsored by World Vision International and is coordinated by the Rev. Richard Hamilton, East Coast director of World Vision.

The high school volunteers participated in a similar effort last December at an orphanage in Mexico.

The students will be part of a group that will spend 10 days at the orphanage, painting, repairing the roof and ceiling, and installing plumbing. They will also distribute gifts at a party given Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

MHA Learns Contractor Finishing Mayfair Work

A letter demanding completion of work at the Mayfair Elyria Housing project, sent Nov. 29 to the Rockyland Casualty Co., which provided the performance bond on the project, seems to have done the trick.

At its meeting last night, the Manchester Housing Authority thus taking a giant step toward resolving the long-standing dispute over the project.

The MHA has withheld $75,000 in payment, even though the housing units were occupied a year ago, claiming failure of the contractor to complete certain "punch list" items.

The contractor, MHA and MHA agreed finally, last month, that the MHA would monetize, or in other words, do themselves, all but the largest of these remaining items. It was reported that Marcellino workers have repaired the blacktop, and have finished the blacktop, the largest of the tasks left to them to complete.

ATY Vincent Diana, chairman of the MHA, said the contractor must still repair the heaters in the community hall at the N. Main St. project, but said when formal agreements are reached on certain subcontractors, the MHA will be able to begin releasing funds. The MHA will retain a portion of the $87,000 still to be handed out, in order to have any small remaining items finished.

Oil May Bring Economic Windfall Ecuador Optimistic

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — In its 149 years of independence Ecuador has never had an economic windfall quite like the one which is expected to double exports by 1973, increase the national budget by 50 per cent and add 10 per cent to the gross national product.

These prospects are anticipated as a joint Texaco-Gulf Oil venture to develop oil reserves located under the jungles of eastern Ecuador.

Revenues are expected to start pouring in late next year following completion of a pipeline to the port city of Esmeraldas. The initial production target is 200,000 barrels a day. American, British and French companies are vying for the rights to develop the oil fields. The United States is inviting Ecuador's rakeoff under a proposed tax plan should reach $100 million for 1972.

Various interests are lining up for a share of the spoils. The military, for example, has asked for an annual allocation of $11 million. Surpluses of an $11 million per capita will be earmarked for jet fighters to replace Korean War vintage fighters and bombers. American, British and French jet salesmen have been active since the bidding.

Company officials concede there is a risk in making an investment in Ecuadorian oil at a time when American business is rising elsewhere in Latin America. The initial production target is 200,000 barrels a day. American, British and French companies are vying for the rights to develop the oil fields. The United States is inviting Ecuador's rakeoff under a proposed tax plan should reach $100 million for 1972.

200-mile maritime limit. About 20 American fishing vessels have been seized in tuna waters. Ecuador claims sovereignty over them but the State Department regards them as international territory.

Thus far the voices protesting the $300-million U.S. oil investment have been relatively isolated. With this nation's intractable economic problems, many Ecuadorians seem to feel that the lure of an extra $100 million in the national treasury outweighs the negative consequences of turning over a valuable natural resource to Yankee businessmen.

At present Ecuador is barely able to make a dent in its multi-billion dollar foreign debt. The 1971 federal budget is smaller than the yearly outlay of the Washington, D.C., public school system. The country has a short of cash that many economists fear will not be met until next year.

More than a fourth of Ecuador's six million people live outside the money economy. A third are illiterate. At $270 a year, the nation's per capita income is the lowest in Latin America. Foreign exchange reserves are at a dangerously low $20 million and jet salesmen have been active since the bidding.

Oil will add to government revenues, but even high government officials are skeptical how the money will be used. There are 1,400 autonomous agencies in Ecuador. The labor force is composed of women, but figures vary considerably. Following are the most widely cited figures: 37 per cent of the labor force is female. Belgium, 28 per cent; Italy, 27 per cent; and the Netherlands, 25 per cent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With key issues still to be resolved, the United States expects to force a new international monetary settlement by the time the 22nd Congress reconvenes Jan. 18.

If it works out as planned, the settlement would include agreement on a new pattern of money-exchange rates, elimination of some trade barriers to U.S. goods, and some sharing of defense costs by U.S. allies.

The Nixon administration then would be ready to introduce in Congress its bill to devalue the dollar. It is expected to do in principle earlier this week. It might also be the time for the death of the imposition of a 10 per cent surcharge.

Pilot Unhurt As Plane Falls And Explodes

SMARBURY (AP) — A light Cessna 182 airplane crashed and exploded atop Avon Mountain Wednesday, but the pilot walked away, apparently unharmed, officials said.

The pilot, Ralph Boehm of Simsbury, said he was flying at 1,300 p.m. in Simsbury, near the town's boundaries with Avon and Bloomfield.

Boehm was alone in the four-seat aircraft, officials said.

Reports Condors Will Shift Club To New Haven

HARTFORD (AP) — The Hartford Times reports that the Connecticut Condors of the American Basketball Association is expected to move to New Haven by Jan. 1.

The move reportedly is tied to a television contract with WTNH-TV, channel 3. The paper says the Condors want a contract signed before they move but that nothing has been signed yet.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By VIVIAN F. FERGUSON
A handful of people or a few extra for dinner doesn't upset Nancy Lowe a bit. She's a very adaptable person. Her mutual friend, Margie Kravitz, told me. Another friend, Ruth Morrison, commented that she can handle a large crowd with the greatest of ease.

Mrs. Frederic Lowe

Over the Christmas holidays, extra coats will be set up for house guests. At one meal or another, she'll be one or more of the children's friends. Nancy will take it all in stride.

"Do you plan ahead, keep things on shelves and in the freezer?" asked.

"Oh, no," Nancy laughed. "I'm the type who throws another cup of water in the soup."

"Do you have a lot of young people around?"

Both she and Margie, who was present at the interview, chimed "Yes" in unison. "Quite a few. I like kids of all ages," said Nancy. "I'm probably more partial to teen-agers than to the younger age level, but I like them all."

Nancy has moved from one house in 25 years. "Before," she said, "I lived in 14 houses in 15 years. Before I married, I thought I would like to settle down in one spot and stay there forever. Actually, I never minded any of the moves Fred and I made."

Nancy is the daughter of Francis E. Engleman who was once commissioner of education for the State of Connecticut. Her parents traveled a good bit and she went with them.

The Lows have three children. Officially, he is Frederick William Lowe III but everyone knows him as Dick. He was born in 1945. Nancy was born in 1941. They have a son, Fred, who is now a junior at the University of Connecticut. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

er columns, salad dressing in her, celery, cauliflower) as well as the taste of the potato chips.

At present, he plans to enter the field of obstetrics.

Daughter Ginny is a junior at the University of Connecticut. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

The Lows came to Manchester from Pittman, N.J., where Fred was head of the English Department at Glassboro State College. (You may recall the visit of Soviet Premier Aleksei Khrushchev which took place at the school a few years ago.)

"I guess you would call me a casual home-maker," said Nancy. "I like to cook very much but I'm not a person who follows recipes very much. I add something or subtract something. My mother always cooked that way. I always use cake mixes but make my own frosting."

"One thing people like—and it is very easy to have—filled with mince-meat. It's especially good with poultry. . . . You just take the peach halves set them in an ovenproof dish, fill them with mince-meat. You can bake a little bit each then broil or bake. So easy when you buy the prepared mince-meat."

"I make lots of fudge, at least once a week," Nancy continued. (With her tin figure, I doubt she eats it herself.) When it comes to entertaining, Nancy prefers small groups of 6-8 for dinner. "I think, for conversation," she says, "a small group is better."

"Sometimes when I have lots and lots of people, I take crab meat, some chopped celery, mayonnaise, a tiny bit of chopped onion and lemon juice. Using dinner rolls, I can serve this for cocktails or a snack. I like to put lots of crabmeat in it."

A few weeks ago, we gave you a history of hors d'oeuvres which ranges from simple dips to hot dishes. Nancy is sharing three of her recipes for easy entertaining.

The first makes a good lunch, sandwich, is served to the Lowe family with onion soup, and is cut into smaller pieces for hors d'oeuvres.

Cheese Dreams
1 lb. sharp cheddar cheese
1 small onion
1 large green pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire dash Tabasco sauce
1/2 to 3/4 cup mayonnaise
Put cheese, onion and pepper through food chopper. Add other ingredients. Slice hot dog rolls and spread mixture on each half. Place under broiler until bubbly. Good served with onion soup. May be sliced into smaller pieces for hors d'oeuvres. (May also be served on toast rounds.)

Former Mayor and Legislator Dies in Meriden

MERIDEN (AP)—William J. Cahill, a former mayor of Meriden who also served in the State Senate, died in Meriden Wednesday after an illness. He was 85.

Cahill, a Democrat, scored an upset victory in 1951 over incumbent Mayor Howard E. Houston by 133 votes. His victory ended 14 years of Republican rule.

The young mayor won nationwide attention when he refused to accept a proposed pay raise. Seventeen months later, Cahill announced he would refrain from personal reasons from seeking a second term.

In 1964, he accepted the Democratic nomination for State Senate from the 13th District and was swept into office in the landslide victory of former Governor Abraham A. Ribicoff.

Cahill again ran for mayoral office in Meriden in 1969, but was defeated by his brother-in-law, Republican John Ivers.

Cahill was a self-employed engineering estimator until he was appointed chief of the Building and Grounds Department in the state Department of Public Works. By 1971, he was that department's chief administrative officer.

A military funeral is scheduled for Saturday morning in Meriden for the World War II veteran, who served as a navigator on more than 30 bombing missions over Europe.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, two sons and a grandson.

French Academy Hails Rubenstein PARIS (AP)—Pianist Arthur Rubinstein has been formally installed as a foreign associate member of the French Academie des Beaux Arts. He was hailed as "the living god of the piano."

"At last you are here among us; we have been waiting a long time," said Jacques Chaban, president of the Academie, during Wednesday's ceremonies.

Gentlemen, the living god of the piano is with us."

The 82-year-old Rubinstein, in turn, described himself as "the old wandering pianist."

Women Are Invading World of Tattooing

By DAVE DISTEL
(C) 1971, The Los Angeles Times

LOW ANGELES — She had never done anything like this before and she looked a little frightened. Still, the girl looked determined not to scream, cry, moan, whimper or move a muscle, no matter what happened.

"Now, it won't hurt a bit," reassured little Fran, turning on the grinding, buzzing tattoo machine. "And if you jump around, I'll ruin everything."

"It just sounds so scary, that's all," apologized the girl, flinching despite herself as the needle point bit the tender flesh.

Five minutes later, an ink black outline gleamed across her irritated red skin. The pretty, well-dressed Los Angeles secretary, 21, had just gotten herself a tiny, everlasting butterfly, and her equally chic friend, who was waiting to get a red rose, declared, "How groovy!"

But the job was only half finished.

Brushing back strands of her long auburn hair, little Fran began the slow, hypnotic coloring process—spraying away at the inflamed skin with her heavy machine, depositing tiny pools of bubbling dye, wiping off of whatever didn't soak in. More scraping, more wiping.

Fran over again. Finally, she added a vivid fringe of green, then twin dabs of sunburst yellow on the West Coast.

It was finished in about 20 minutes.

"Thank you, it's really pretty, it did hurt," she added, eyes slightly watering. Then, sweating lightly, she settled back to her part, too, of the blooming American masterpiece of tattooed ladies.

It is the passing of one of the most cherished male traditions of them all.

"That ancient art world of tattooing, once the almost exclusively domain of male vandals, has been invaded by women."

By the liberated thousands, they are burning through traditionally off-limits doors, crashing recklessly into those legendary dens of smoky, hazy, seamy, and seamy where sword-wielding men dared set her dainty foot.

For every burly man getting a skull-and-cross-bones etched in his chest, an eagle-like helmet embossed across his forehead, or a flower-encrusted "mother" laid into his chest, there's apt to be a frail lady sitting alongside, getting a rose on her leg, a sunburst on her shoulder, an astrology sign, a heart, or a dashing little red devil.

"That's the word, anyway, from little Fran, who's been playing the tattoo trade for 15 years at the West Coast Tattoo Studio in the heart of Los Angeles and who claims to be the last remaining woman tattoo artist in the United States, if not in the world.

... from simple names to body decorations.

During her career, she's done "more tattoos than I could count—thousands." Her first job was as a 57¢ eagle-and-male battle-axe-wielding warrior, a design named Billy McCall.

Since then, she's done everything from simple names (a few dollars) and small roses (about 5 dollars) to full body decorations.

She's even done four tattoos on her aging mother, a fact she admits with some embarrassment. "They're usually got her mind made up to have a tattoo. But men sometimes they'll wake up really sorry tomorrow."

Beyond the inherent sturdiness of the female character, women make better clients from a professional standpoint. "Their skins are usually better. They're finer and hold the ink quicker. Some coarse male skins are a mess to work with."

Nonetheless, there are some women little Fran won't touch. "Some come in here and I know they really don't want a tattoo," she said. "Maybe they got a little high or they just had a passing whim. If I tattooed them, they'd wake up really sorry tomorrow."

2.06 Pct. of Students in Negro Colleges

WASHINGTON—The nation's 111 predominantly Negro colleges enrolled 2.06 per cent of college students during the 1970-71 academic year and received 2.4 per cent of all federal aid to higher education.

Most women only want one $28 million. This was a 16 per cent tattoo. And they usually want it in a place where it can over the previous year.

Coventry
Town Gets Finding On Police Contract

Robert D. McGrath of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration has submitted his report to the town, and although it is dated Oct. 29, it has only recently been accepted by the town council.

The report deals with negotiations between the town and the local police union. Negotiations began last March and continued through June, but no agreement was reached by the July 1 contract deadline date. During July, a member of the Connecticut Labor Relations Board met with both parties. Factfinding was then requested, and was conducted by Rido Camarero, secretary of the Connecticut State Board of Mediation and Arbitration. A fact-finding hearing was held in September.

McGrath explained that because of the possibility of mediation, the fact-finder's report was withheld and a continuance was granted to Nov. 19 by the board.

Areas of difference between the two sides centered on wages and pension. The town presented a final proposal 6.5% increase which would grant a patrolman with a year and half to two years of experience a starting salary of $4,938, or an increase of $200.

This figure represents a 5.5% cost of living adjustment plus an additional one per cent.

In June, the town cited other concessions made in the cost package, according to McGrath, such as education incentive pay, increase in meal and mileage allowance, travel time, one extra holiday, and three personal leave days.

It also presented wage scales for towns of comparable size.

National Survey Chief However, McGrath said, the union presented little factual information, but indicated a national survey that shows an average nine per cent increase in police salaries. The union requested a 12 per cent increase, raising the present base of $4,838 to $5,422.

McGrath said the town's offer was "reasonable," but pointed out that the 6.5 per cent increase includes the 6.5 per cent cost of living increase between the old contract and the new one now under dispute.

"The reasoning of the town is that in times of economic recession, the wages should remain somewhat static and the town will pay for part cost of living increases," McGrath said. He called for a 7.5 per cent increase plus a fringe benefits package as of last July 1.

In the area of pension, the town stated that the plan established in 1969 and requires payment of 5.8 per cent of the employee's base pay. But the union felt this was not an acceptable pension plan for police, McGrath said, and objected to the retirement age presented a specific plan prepared by the State Mutual of America, which would apparently provide the protection the policemen felt was needed.

Differing philosophies McGrath felt there was a difference in philosophy between the parties concerning the purpose of pension. "The town believes that a pension is a just recompense for services rendered to the town in the years preceding retirement," McGrath said. "The union believes it is a reward for services being rendered."

He went on to state that the union is "on solid ground" in its assertion that the present pension plan is not adequate for patrolmen. However, he said that the fact-finder did not feel that the union was correct in its demand for a pension plan submitted to him since it would not be within his competence to recommend it.

The fact-finder also stated that a pension plan should be initiated with the possibility of vesting rights, and a vesting retirement age considered.

He felt an employee contribution might be required to accomplish this since "it is common practice in most pension plans which grant special benefits for early retirement and resignation rights."

PZC Meeting The Planning and Zoning Commission will recommend to the Town Council that a piece of property and most roads in the Coventry Hills subdivision be accepted by the town.

Acting at a meeting this week the PZC agreed that all roads in Coventry Hills except a portion of David Dr., which does not conform to the subdivision plan as submitted by the developer, should be accepted into the town road system. The commission also agreed to recommend that the council accept a portion of property on the corner of Rt. 31 and Daley Rd. plus drainage easements. The property, owned by the Stevenson family, is being deeded to the town in accordance with a court order issued last summer in connection with the expansion of Tomlin's Five and Ten in the Stevenson complex of stores.

In the case of the Coventry Hills roads, Town Attorney John Shea has informed the PZC that all roads cannot be accepted because of encroachments. In the map, Elm Industries, developers of the subdivision, must submit an application for readjustment since state law stipulates that roads cannot be accepted unless they conform to the map on file, which is not the case with the portion of David Dr.

A cut-de-acc on David Dr. does not appear on final subdivision maps, but has been built, thus causing the discrepancy.

If the council accepts the roads at its Dec. 20 meeting, the town will be responsible for maintaining all but a stipulated portion of David Dr.

To Study Road Report The Hartford Chapter of the OCLU has formed a special committee to study the report issued last Saturday concerning a Nov. 11 drug raid at a Rt. 31 house.

The committee is expected to issue a statement, probably tomorrow, concerning Town Council action on the report which resulted in a general reprisal to the entire Coventry Police Department.

Three persons in the house were arrested for possession of marijuana as a result of the Nov. 11 incident, after which residents of the house charged that police had ransacked the premises.

Charges against the three occupants were later nolleed in court.

Three Who Rob And Whip Rabbi Caught by Police

NEW SQUARE, N.Y. (AP) — This 17-year-old community of Hasidic Jews had its first robbery early Wednesday morning but the robbers, who thought they were grabbing bingo receipts from a rabbi, got caught except a briefcase full of papers and were caught within 20 minutes, authorities reported.

Rabbi Joseph Blaton told police he had just returned by car from officiating at a charity bingo game on New York City's lower East Side when three men got out of an auto parked in front of his house, pistol whipped him, took his briefcase and fled.

He said they had demanded the money," and hit him when he said there was none in the bag.

He immediately notified police who sent out a radio alarm for the car. Police on the Palton road at Interstate Parkway stopped a car answering the description at Alpine, N.J., and arrested the three men inside.

Charged with robbery were Robert Valentin, 28; Richard Yantz, 34, and Ralph S. Semidey, 21, all of New York City. Police recovered the briefcase which, they said, had been taken from the car.

This community was founded as a village on a 130 acre tract off Route 48, just north of Spring Valley, by Hasidic Jews from Brooklyn.

Tardy Governor

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Francis W. Sargent was 30 minutes late Wednesday for a briefing held by a committee studying transportation problems in the Greater Boston area.

His official car got tied up in traffic.

Groman's in upset Against Moriarty's

Groman's Sport Shop pulled off the first upset of the year in the Senior League I last night as they handed Moriarty's their second defeat in as many weeks by the score of 14-7. The night's second game saw Langan Volkweg trompe Groman's playing deliberate ball at times and fast breaking when the opportunity arose, carried a 19-12 lead into the second period behind Jim Purtil's score.

Moriarty's fought back to score Groman's, 9-2, for the first 2:28 of the second period to make the score 14-7. The remainder of the stanza saw top-notch defensive performances by Groman's Tom Riss and Moriarty's Greg Turk who kept the game close with Groman's on top 41-38 at intermission.

Once again Moriarty's started quickly and scored the first eight points of the third period to take over the lead, 44-41. As Kent Smith contributed 14 and the undermanned Moriarty crew began to tire, Groman's once again settled down to regain their advantage and then

Hathaway's Shooting Helps Sink Cougars

The deadly shooting by Middlesex Community College's Ted Hathaway helped propel them to a 108-89 victory last night over Manchester C.C. at Woodrow Wilson High in Middletown. With the victory, Middlesex added its record to 6-0 overall and 4-0 in the conference. Manchester presently sports a 1-1 league mark and 14-13 overall.

Hathaway, a former Middletown high scoring sensation and All-State selection, scored 13 consecutive points as the hosts enjoyed a comfortable 67-42 half-time lead. Manchester cut the margin down to 45-37 before Hathaway got hot and blew the game wide open.

The local collegians fought back gamely in the second half but Hathaway led all scorers with 33 points, hitting 16 field goals and one from the charity stripe.

Wives of Pro Gridders Worry, Offer Ice Packs and Sympathy

NEW YORK (AP)—A shoulder operation and a couple up his knee in an exhibition game in San Francisco, Mrs. Betty Manders doesn't fret. Betty and Dave were childhood sweethearts in the ski-swinging the telephone and wip-wops of Kinsford, Mich., on which angry ambers off Casse's wife of Pontiac, Mich., said. "The injury did me in," she said. "I'm glad to see you're getting better."

When the Manders were married, the football wasn't in hand discouraged, down. You can't play all the time, she said. "I've had to be patient and wait for my chance to play again."

At the University of Buffalo, Manders went to the Cowboys-center Dave Manders. "At first you don't worry," she said. "You just wait until you get hurt. Then you worry."

Gerry and Dave both are 6-foot-2, 245 pounds and 30 years old. Philbin joined the Jets in 1964 as a third-round draft choice out of the University of Buffalo. Manders went to the Jets in 1967 as a free agent, two years after graduation from Michigan State.

Both have been on Super Bowl teams, have been spared the trauma of trade rumors, and have suffered their share of injuries.

The third time came when the Jets were in Houston and Jerry was watching the game on television with Betty Baker, the wife of linebacker Ralph Baker. "I saw the doctor put his foot on Gerry's chest and yank the shoulder back into place," said Trudy, wincing. "I think I could feel the pain as much as get hit with a sack and he did. They shouldn't show things like that on television."

Trudy missed the next nine games because she was still recovering from the injury. "I was in the hospital for three weeks," she said. "I was in the hospital for three weeks, and I was in the hospital for three weeks."

Trudy's husband, Gerry, is a 28-year-old star player on the Jets. He has played in three Super Bowls and has been named to the Pro Bowl three times. He is a member of the NFL Hall of Fame.

The DRY Side of Sports

By DEAN R. YOST

So until it gets a lot colder, or old man winter comes back from his vacation in Florida, the snow reports will probably be the same at the same time.

During the Boston High-Chester Tech basketball game an official blew the whistle for a technical violation. After the ball was brought inbounds the referee to a player, "Boy did I blow that. What can I do now? This goes to the other side."

At the South Windsor High-Glastonbury contest just before the buzzer sounded for the half, an official yelled to the referee, "The other side of the ball is the back of the court. The referee said, 'What do you do now? This goes to the other side.' The referee said, 'The other side of the ball is the back of the court.'"

Most recently while keeping score during the Manchester-Norwood game I overheard one spectator say, "It could only happen to me. I'm the referee. The person was referring to the numerous turnovers Manchester committed."

Sign at a South Windsor pep rally: Victory is the only way to win. CVC. Shake well. Result, conference.

Also, during the Manchester contest both teams played faultless ball during the first eight minutes. It didn't last long in the second act as the white toeders called nine personal fouls.

The Hartford Auto Show is the next big event scheduled indoors. Frank Maratta, the organizer and promoter of the spectacular, has secured Mark Donohue as his featured guest.

The show is slated January 21-23. Donohue, a superb driver in any type of machinery, is a four-time Indy 500 champion. He is also a graduate of MIT.

Last season marked the maiden venture of this writer and Greg Fox into the world of racing. The two of us went to the Indy 500 race, open cockpit Indy machine, and finished in full blown Grand National car.

Work was started on a new car immediately and presently awaiting the Hartford Auto Show as part of the Stafford Speedway exhibit of the season. It is a new six-cylinder machine.

The color shift change, but the old number 33 will still be intact.

Dolphins Leading AFC on Offense

NEW YORK (AP)—The leading passer in the National Football League's American Conference is Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins. And the leading scorer is also a Dolphin, the same Miami Dolphins. So it is any wonder that Miami is one of the teams in the NFL's post-season playoffs?

Griese's passing game is a 54.3 per cent average on 122 completions of 242 attempts including 19 touchdowns this season. He has thrown 26 of 37 at-tempts for touchdowns.

Griese's passing game is complimented by the rushing of Larry Csonka, whose 983 yards gained are second only to Denver's Floyd Little, who has gained 1,054. Csonka's running game is led by Jim Kiick, who has gained 684 yards, eighth best in the conference.

The pass-catching leader is Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff, who's grabbed 39 compared to 23 for Ole Taylor of Kansas City.

In the National Conference, the leading rusher is rookie John Brockington of Green Bay who scored over the 1,000 yard mark last week and now has 1,022 compared to 971 for Willie Ellison of the Los Angeles Rams.

Roger Staubach of Dallas, averaging 9.9 yards gained with 277 completions pass, is the leader among the conference quarterbacks while Bob Tucker of New York, with 31 catches, is the top receiver, leading San Francisco's Ted Kwalick by two receptions.

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP)—The Board of Directors of the New England Patriots have reached no decision on whether to trade quarterback Tom Mauer, general manager Upton Bell said Wednesday.

Born as Richard Thum in Franconia, N.H., Mauer was in the heart of Buffalo, N.Y., where he was schooled by Anglican missionaries and spoke with a cultured British accent. When he became world champion he was extremely popular and relatively wealthy in his homeland, then a united Kingdom.

But with the outbreak of fighting between secessionist Biafra and Nigeria, Tiger lost most of the wealth he had accumulated in his homeland. He returned from Biafra last July to meet again next week to decide whether to retire Mauer who was in Biafra's army a year ago.

'Substantial Raise' Will Be Given Blue

OAKLAND (AP)—Pitcher Vida Blue, the American League Cy Young and Most Valuable Player award winner, will get a "substantial raise" over last year's $14,750 rookie contract, says Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley.

"I don't know. I've never had anyone ask me for $100,000," Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, has sent a letter to players bringing up the matter of increases for athletes and entertainers.

Finley said he is awaiting a letter from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on contract guidelines.

Blue himself is on the way to Vietnam with Bob Hope and other entertainers, but he has been quoted as saying, "I'm going to make a whole lot more money next year than I did this year."

Asked about his reaction to what Vida came up with a figure of around $100,000, Finley replied: "I don't know. I've never had anyone ask me for $100,000."

Gilmore Living Up To Coach's Praise

NEW YORK (AP)—"Artis Gilmore will be Kentucky's what Bill Russell was to Boston," declared Bill Sharman before the start of the season.

But so far, at least, Gilmore has lived up to his advance billing.

The 7-foot-2 first-year center, who made the ABA All-Rookie team, moved on the offensive Wednesday night, pouring in 24 points in 30 minutes.

In other ABA games, the 24-year-old center from Kentucky scored 22 points in 30 minutes in a game against the Memphis Pros.

Staggered Scoring Keys Rockets' Win

NEW YORK (AP)—The Houston Rockets have figured out a way to win: Staggered scoring.

Stu Lantz fired in 26 of his game-high 30 points in the first half Wednesday night, as the Rockets built up a 62-53 lead by intermission.

Eight players scored in all, but 24 points in the second half, the Hawks rallied from 18 points down with 9:37 left to play to tie the score 106-106 at the end of regulation play.

The Rockets' offense scored points of all came in overtime from Cliff Meyers, Houston's rookie forward.

Who hit a baseline jump shot with just four seconds left to tie the score 117-116.

Phoenix won the game over the stubborn Hawks.

Winless Cheney Five Bombed by Windham

Slumping Cheney Tech dropped its fourth consecutive basketball game this season as Windham Tech pinned a 58-34 setback on the Beavers yesterday afternoon in Willimantic.

This was the third time the Techmen have been limited to below 24 points. In Tech's first outing Beavers won 15-0. Cheney triumphed 82-33. Coventry's score was 86-32.

Windham was paced in the scoring column by Skip Justice who ripped the cords for 20 points. He made 10 field goals and canned six from the charity line. Bud Bahus tallied 12 markers, all from the floor.

Cheney's little man, Tom Tomko pumped in 17 points. He was the only local hooper to record double figures.

At the halftime break, Windham held a 25-14 advantage.

Former Ring Champ Tiger Dead at 42

ENIGUI, Nigeria (AP)—Dick Tiger, the former world boxing champion who lost most of his ring earnings during the civil war between his native Biafra and Nigeria, is dead of a liver ailment at age 42.

Tiger beat Gene Fullmer to become world middleweight champion at age 35, lost the title to Joey Giardello, then won it back two years later, but lost it to Muhammad Ali in 1966.

The pass-catching leader is Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff, who's grabbed 39 compared to 23 for Ole Taylor of Kansas City.

Point Touch By Melchioni Turns Tide

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The increased scoring punch of Bill Melchioni helped turn the trick for the New York Nets Wednesday night.

Melchioni, who was a leader in assists last year, pumped in 25 points to lead scoring and give the Nets a 106-100 American Basketball Association victory over the Memphis Pros.

"It's true Melchioni is giving us more scoring balance. He is scoring more and helping us score more balanced offense," said coach Leo Cowie.

The balance showed in the game statistics, with double figures in the eyes of Melchioni and Al Roche who was only three points behind Melchioni, and Dick Ricketts who had 12.

"I'm more conscious of my scoring this season," Melchioni explained after the game.

"Last year, I think my defenders started slacking off me because they knew I was passing off shots. But I'm scoring more and they're having to defend me tighter. That makes it easier for me to drive," he said.

Rondon After Title Fight With Foster

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion Vicente Rondon, unmarked while recovering from an eighth round technical knockout over challenger Doyle Bailey here Wednesday night.

Rondon peppered a helpless Bailey with left and right combinations in the final round and referee John Christopher called the Venezuelan the winner as soon as Baird fell flat on his back for the third knockout.

It was Rondon's fourth successful title defense in 10 months and he was visited in the locker room by Agustín Barrea, a San Juan, Puerto Rico, fight promoter who wants Rondon to meet Foster there Feb. 18.

Voyagers Hot, Just Like Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fledgling Boston Braves are setting a torrid pace in the American Hockey League's East Division, but the Nova Scotia Voyageurs aren't conceding a thing.

With the Braves idle, the Flyers and Rangers accumulated their last go-round—beaten string to seven games and closed to within 10 points of the lead with the Bruins.

Referee Ron Wicks, who couldn't have lifted his arms, said Sather, "I think he was trying to get both with fighting majors and when they continued the fight out of his system, Foy did a nice job of it."

The only scoring Sather and Foy did was with their fists.

The Rangers had busted the game wide open with flurry of four goals by Park, Ted Irvine, Bill Fairbank and Jean Ratelle in less than eight min-

Goalies Rate Point Assists

NEW YORK (AP)—National Hockey League goalies went on the offense Wednesday night.

Three of them—Tony Esposito of Chicago, Gilles Villeneuve of New York and Ken Dryden of Montreal—all picked up assists in their team's victories.

Esposito set up Bobby Hull's second goal of the game as the Black Hawks held their four-point lead over Minnesota in the West Division, edging Buffalo 2-1.

Villeneuve, the netminder with the lowest goals against average in the league, assisted on Jean Ratelle's 17th goal of the season as the East Division leading Rangers trounced Philadelphia 6-2.

And Dryden got his point on Frank Mahovlich's 17th goal as the Canadiens defeated Los Angeles 3-1.

Bruins in 'Must Win' Game with Rangers

BOSTON (AP)—The Bruins face a "must win" game with the Rangers on Tuesday night as they try to overtake New York in the East Division.

Hull opened Chicago's scoring at 4:07 of the first period with a 10-foot shot past Buffalo goalie Dave Dryden, then took a pass from Esposito and skated the length of the ice for a power-play goal—his 10th of the season—at 15:35 of the second period.

Paul Henderson's 10th goal of the season, at 13:30 of the final period, broke a 2-2 tie and lifted Toronto past Pittsburgh.

She Says China Is 'Not Bad'

BY LEE LINDER PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mary Ann Harbert, the 25-year-old secretary held by the Communist Chinese for 3 1/2 years, says life in China's countryside was not too unpleasant after the first year of captivity. Miss Harbert said Thursday that she lived in a small farmhouse in a rural commune, raised pigs and had a vegetable garden. To pass the time Miss Harbert played badminton, Ping Pong, cards and chess with Chinese who brought her food and who could speak some English. She said she was never held in a prison. "There was usually a guard with a submachine gun and bayonet ready at any time, but it wasn't necessary," said the 5-foot woman. "I could hardly overpower him."

Indian War is Over

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and foreign minister, he peeted most Indian forces to withdraw within weeks. In a short speech to her Parliament, Mrs. Gandhi said India's relations with Pakistan on a "basis of friendship." "This is what precipitated us to call western countries," she said. India had Soviet backing in the war while China supported Pakistan, but there has been no evidence of direct intervention by either power. The Soviet role included votes in the United Nations to delay a call for cease-fire. Mrs. Gandhi said: "The coming months will especially bring new and complex problems. We must be very vigilant to safeguard our integrity and independence and above all our fundamental beliefs of our national existence." A Bangla Desh civil administration, led by four senior civil servants, was set up in Dhaka. Mrs. Gandhi said: "The coming months will especially bring new and complex problems. Foreign Aid Bill Passed, Congress Packing Luggage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed a foreign aid bill today after a 20-hour session. The bill, which would authorize $2.7 billion in new foreign aid for fiscal year 1972, passed by a vote of 357-77. The Senate is expected to pass the bill in the next few days. The bill would authorize $2.7 billion in new foreign aid for fiscal year 1972, including $1.5 billion for economic development and $1.2 billion for humanitarian aid. The bill would also authorize $1.5 billion for economic development and $1.2 billion for humanitarian aid.

A Nation Is Born

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally opened the crucial conference of the Group of Ten richest nations seeking solution of the world's monetary disruption after talking newsmen: "I am very hopeful we can wind it up here." Connally, chairman of the assembly of finance ministers, spoke last night with reporters as he entered the "old red castle" of the Smithsonian Institution for the start of the two-day conference seeking realignment of the non-Communist currencies. Connally did not predict a favorable outcome despite his expressed hope of a weekend solution. Whether there will be a settlement "is not for me to decide," he told questioners. "It is for other nations to decide—I don't want to be too optimistic." Connally said: "We are ready to push it to the limit. I am not too optimistic that we will."

Federal Paychecks Leaner On Stopgap Financing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employees of at least one federal agency face the prospect of pay cuts because of a stopgap financing plan. The plan, which would reduce federal pay by 5 percent for the next two weeks, is being considered by Congress.
