So serious was the prospect that the fire gwould spread end that a panic would follow that not only was the entire fire department ordered to the scene, but those of Somerville, Cambridge, Newton, Waltham, Brockton and Quincy came rushing to town. It also seemed best to call out the militia to assist the police in preserving order. The First and Ninth Regiments and two naval battalions were ordered under arms, but the firemen succeeded in checking the fire and the threatened panic was averted.

The wind was blowing a gale before the fire started, and as soon as the flames had full sweep it increased to such violence that the firemen were in great danger of being blown from the tops of the buildings, which were the only available places from which the fire could be fought. The wind sucked the blazing contents from the buildings and carried them for blocks. As these firebeands fell they started fires in a score of places, but the danger had been foreseen and the fire was confined to the district in which it started.

Lost Puts an End to Her Lite. Miss Julia Hall, of New Cannan, Conn., daughter of Russell Hall; a banker of that town, committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a locomotive on the Connecself in front of a locomotive on the Connecticut Valley division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road. She was instantly killed and her body was frightfully mangled.

Miss Hall was recently sent to the insane asylum at Middletown, Conn., from New Cansan, and was the young woman who created so much excitoment last November by wandering away from home. She disappeared twice and on both occasions hosts of men in the neighborhood of her home turned out to search the woods for her. On the fatal morning she was out walking in the grounds with an attendant. Suddenly she started for the railroad track, and before the attendant could stop her, Miss Hall threw herself in front of a fast approaching train.

World's Fair people in Washington. By a remarkable mistake in writing the final draft of the World's Fair appropriation the Women's Board is given absolute control of the $770,000 for all World's Pair premiums and awards and also, it would seem, the entire power to appoint all jurors, male and fomale.

In short, by an error, the entire system of granting premiums at the World's Pair is turned over by Congress to women.

The error came about by the clerkwrite-ing the world "Lady Managers" in the wrong blank space.
