We may not have had 16 years experience in Photographic and Crayon work, but it is a well known fact that all persons have not equal ability in learning. Some acquire more skill in one year than others can in ten, and the proper way to test the matter is not by newspaper talk, but by actual comparison of the work turned out. We invite this comparison as to the merits of our work, with that of any other

The first thing necessary for a visitor to do is to get the general effect of the architecture and the grounds. This is best accomplished taking the Intramural Railway, an alevated road which runs inside the fence of the Park and takes in the complete circuit of the Fair grounds. The fare is only ten cents, and the cars are comfortable and thus far have not been crowded. But the Intramural does not afford one a satisfactory look at the largeons and the basins, and to accomp at the lagoons and the basins, and to accom-plish this it is advisable that the fifty cents necessary for a trip in an electric launch or in one of the gondolas be expended. The more picturesque craft is, of course, the gondols, but it does not move quickly and is route is shorter than the
