Mrs. M. E. A. Gleason, of Rockville, Mass. one of the National W. C. T. U. lecturers, and a very talented speaker, will give an address under the auspices of the South Manchester local union next Sabbath evening at 7:30 o'clock at the South M. E. church.

Thomas Hayes of School street is the happy father of a fine eleven month daughter born in Middle town last week. Mother and child are doing nicely. This is their first born and they are receiving the congratulations of their many friends on the new arrival.

A new two inch water main is being placed in the East Cemetery, and faucets will be arranged in accordance with the recent vote of the town meeting. Superintendent Cole has a notice elsewhere in THE NEWS that will interest plot owners in that cemetery.

M. J. Maguire started for the World's Fair Wednesday. The milk route will be conducted as usual by Joseph Powell, west of Main street and Hugh Fulton on the east side, both of whom are diligent young men and attentive to the wants of their patrons.

John Forsyth is erecting a new double tenement directly south of his present group of buildings. It is deserving of credit for his pluck in going ahead with the work at the present time, this keeping the dollars moving and furnishing employment for willing hands.

Captain Bissell and Lieut. Porter have won sharpshooters' badges in the company competitions. This will make two sharpshooters' badges and one first class marksman's badge that the Captain will carry on his oxidized silver, ten years service badge.

At the recent regimental shoot for the Bannister medal Captain Bissell won a $1.00 cane, Lieut. H. K. Cheney an elegant ivory handled cane and Lieut. Porter a handsome parlor mantel clock. Private Fletcher also came in for a prize at the same contest.

Rev. D. H. Strong has taken the agency for "Shepp's World's Fair Photographs" and is soliciting subscriptions for same hereabouts. It is a well gotten up work, the pictures are beautiful half tone engravings and are said to be the only authorized photographs of the great exposition.

The Talcottville drum corps had a celebration at the residence of Robert Crooks, Apol's Place last week Friday night, some twenty couples taking part in the festivities. They brought along provisions and had a fine supper at Mr. Crook's residence and did their dancing in Apol's opera house. Two of Mr. Crook's sons are members of the drum corps. The young people had quite an enjoyable time.

R. J. Mommers has secured rooms in Orford Hall for the Torbett Concert Company who are to appear in Cheney hall next Monday evening. They cannot be accommodated with meals here, as the cook has been dismissed. Some difficulty is likely to be experienced in the matter of harboring theatrical companies who may give performances in the Army during the present season.

Magnell the tailor is doing business at the old stand, his Fall and Winter suits are now in, as well as overcoat materials, and he endeavors by good work, square dealing and reasonable prices to earn good patronage. Remember these facts when you need anything in his line.

PRETTY SOUVENIRS.

Herbert Homerson of C. E. House took photographs of the altar in the Central Congregational church last Monday. He has front and side views showing all the decorations as used for the Harvest festival. They are past proof copies of the event, and no doubt all who took part in the arrangement and execution of the program, as well as many others will be glad to secure copies. They are worth preserving.

HEALTHY GROWTH.

Twenty three new members were admitted in the Swedish Lutheran Church Sunday Oct. 1. The recent membership of this vigorous and prosperous organization is 223 and four years ago it was but 60. This growth is very encouraging and pleasing to all concerned and shows a gratifying unity and harmony of action between pastor and people. All are to be congratulated upon this fine showing of progress.

MODIN-WENNERSTROM.

A worthy wedding took place last week Friday at the residence of Mrs. Martin on Walnut street. The contracting parties were John M. Modin and Miss Anna G. Wennerstrom. CLOSING THE SEASON.

The final contest of the season will take place on the Mt. Nolo grounds tomorrow afternoon when the New Britain base ball club will strive for the honor with the South Manchesters. The game is called for 2:45, the admission is 15 cents and ladies are free. The victors have played some excellent games this season, and this promises to be a close one. It is expected that the South Manchester nine will do their level best to win the last game of the season, and in as much as they have conquered every nine that played on these grounds but one, they will surely make a strong effort to maintain this record.

A GOOD BEGINNING.

The social dance given by the St. Mary's T. A. Society in Apol's opera house last Thursday evening was well attended, and proved a very pleasant occasion for all. The young people were well patronized, their friends turned out in large numbers to show their appreciation and lend them encouragement in the good work they have in hand.

They netted over $50, and gave $20.00 of the sum to the "Sacred Heart Cadets" who are organized in connection with St. Bridget's church, as they are trying to secure money enough to buy uniforms and drums for themselves. The St. Mary's are going to buy new furniture and fit up comfortable rooms for themselves. It is expected that they will conduct a series of these pleasant dances during the present season as they are warranted in doing so by their present success.

BASE BALL HEADQUARTERS.

The South Manchester Base Ball Club have taken rooms over Cheney's store, and expect to take possession of their new quarters tomorrow evening. They have bought furniture and means to keep up a permanent organization. In all probability they will add to the social features of the season by giving a few dances during the winter, as the boys can dance as well as play ball. It will also be convenient for them to have rooms where they may receive and entertain base ball friends when they come to town. They have had a prosperous season, have furnished good home amusement for the people at a reasonable cost, and have been well supported and appreciated. South Manchester people think a good deal of their base ball nine, and the few records they have made, and will be pleased to see them keep up their organization and continue to play good ball in the future as they have done in the past.

The Brave Hussar. They thought Austria were ranged in grand review. Mounted on their chargers proud, all soldiers good and true.

From out the thirty thousand a thousand whirled away. The chosen warriors of them all—the flower of the army.

And every heart ceased beating, in dumb and hopeless fear. But the brave hussar from his horse was caught near.

And oh, what joy the hussar felt!—the emperor's hand on his forehead. And down on his saddle-bow the laughing child was seen.

Grandmother Kirke. "How do you like it?" said Charley Clare to Melicent Kirke, as he pointed to the cottage he had selected for them to keep home in when they should be married.

"Oh, it is beautiful!" she whispered. "But, Charley, don't you think it's rather small?"

"Well, yes—perhaps so; but what do we want of anything larger? The bedroom over the hall is really quite a good size, and—"

"Yes, it is settled!" "Yes," said Melicent; "it is settling."

Why, he's been courting her long time—sending her flowers and books and music, and all that sort of thing. And the old witch of Endor is to live with them! I suppose, I wouldn't have stood it! I went on Clara, growling more heated and angry as he talked.

And the tone of voice in which Mr. Clark spoke indicated anything but sympathy with the benevolent aspirations rather than the benevolent aspirations shadowed forth by his words.

Frank Blakestone and Melicent Kirke had not been married more than a year when a dark messenger came to the door of his humble, yet infinitely contented little home—Azrael, the mighty and relentless!

"You've been very kind to me, Frank and Milly," said Grandmother Kirke, "but I wish you were lying 'awake nights'!" I asked him.

"What makes you work?" I asked with real curiosity. "What impels you to this constant, tireless struggle? You have shown that you care comparatively nothing for the money it makes, and you have no particular enthusiasm in the attending fame."

"Grandmother, there is money here, sewed to the inside of each leaf—hundred dollar bills."

"Grandmother Kirke smiled serenely. "How many, Melicent?"

"Ten, grandmother."

One of the ancient customs connected with Swedish funerals was to place a small looking-glass in the coffin of an unmarried female, so that when the last trump sounds she might be able to arrange her tresses. It was the practice for Scandinavian maidens to wear their hair flowing loosely, while the matrons wore it bound about the head and generally covered with some form of cap.

Edison's genius comes near to justifying that definition of the word which makes it an infinite capacity for taking pains.

"The needle-book, Milly," she said faintly. "Look in the needle-book!"

Imports of autumn military are made up of round hats with the Napoleon turned straight up in front, introduced in the spring; cooked hats, three-cornered and four-cornered, with the brim rolled against the crown, and those with cleft brims, and of bonnets in small, close shapes, that add little to the size of the head.

A woman with red hair should be of pink, strawberry and scarlet. Blue above her waist is apt to make an unpleasantly strong contrast. Green is her color, white will be her standard, and there are reds, browns, coffee, oak and copper that will make her a model for an artist who does on beauty.

A feature of the winter wraps is the abundance of little ruffles both on the sleeves and the yoke of these garments. A charming model of this sort is a nameless brown broadcloth hat the yoke covered with eight narrow ruffles, lined with cream white silk.

Plaid silk is the lining to use for wraps. Braids will be the ruling trimming on woolen gowns.

Children's shoes in red and blue and brown suede will be worn in the house during the winter.

Wedding rings engraved with the device of a heart and two clasped hands have been found in Egyptian tombs dating B. C. 2000.

Black makes a woman look slender; it is the thinnest color a fat woman can wear. It also makes a person look old. It is the worst color an aging woman can wear.

In the religious orders of the different churches the black uniform is adopted, not for economy but to protect the gentle nuns and novices from admiration. There is no color so generally leveling and unbecoming as black. Black is awe inspiring, black is also depressing; it has a disagreeable effect upon men and animals.
