COOL TRAIN ROBBERS The Outlaws Use Dynamite and the Train robbers wrecked Passenger Train No. 20 on the Southern Pacific Bailroad at Roscoe Station, twelve miles north of Los Angeles, Cal., at 1 o'clock a. m. They blew open the express car with dynamite and fired several shots at the trainmen, who st-tempted to escape. Those shot by the rob-bers or injured in the wreck were. Foster, —, brakeman; cut on head and badly bruised; Granger, -, who was stealing a ride on the train, shot and killed; Mass, Arthur, fireman, shot and killed while extricating himself from the wrecked locomotive; Thomas, David, engineer, probably fatally injured by falling off his locomotive.

The robbers escaped with several strong boxes belonging to the Wells, Fargo Express Company, but the total amount of cash was believed to amount to not more than $1000, None of the passagers were tribered. None of the passengers were injured. The robbery was the most daring and cool plece of work done in the West in years, and it was believed that "Chris" Evans and Morrell, the outlaws for whom California officers have been searching for months, planned and executed the crime.

The switch was thrown and the train ran on a short spur, throwing the engine and two cars off the track. The robbers then blew the xpress car open with bombs and robbed if were three men in the gang, and they started north on horseback after the robber everal men boarded the train at Burbank and at Roscoe their accomplices ditched it and commenced shooting. If for the next thousand years ministers of religion should preach from this Bible, there will yet be texts unexpounded and unexplained and unappreciated. What little has been said concerning this chapter in Job from which my text is taken bears on the controversy as to what was really the leviathan described as disturbing the sea. What creature it was I know not. Somesay it was a crocodile. My own opinion is it was a sea monster now extinct. No creature now floating in Mediterranean or Atlantic waters corresponds to Job's description.

If for the next thousand years ministers of religion should preach from this Bible, there will next in the next thousand the passed on through life and out of it and into a future that I am not now going to depict.

I do not propose with a searchlight to show the breakers of the awful coast on which that ship is wrecked, for my business now is to watch the sea after the keel has plowed it. No phosphorescence in the wake of that ship, but behind it two souls straggiling in the wave into the colestial what was really 1900 years ago, angelic hosts chanting, and from the celestial what was really 1900 years ago, angelic hosts chanting, and from the celestial what was really 1900 years ago, angelic hosts chanting, and from the heavens nearly 1900 years ago, angelic hosts chanting, and from the heavens that ever tossed. Its billows were made up of the wrath of men and devile. Herodic and santedrinic persecutions stirring the deposition of the water of the awful coast on which that ship is wrecked, for my business now is to water the keel has plowed it. No phosphorescence in the wake of that ship, but behind it two souls straggiling in the water tossed. Its billows were made up of the wrath of men and devile. Herodic and santedrinic persecutions stirring the deep with red wrath, and all the hurricanes of the awful coast on which that ship is wrather that I am not now going to depict.

You find it the words of the waters flashing and resplendent. In the words of the text, "He maketh a path to shine after him." What was that illumined path? It was phosphorescence. You find it the words of the sailor, and on board the ship Harhim." What was that illumined path? It was phosphorescence. You find it in the wake of a ship in the night, especially after rough weather. Phosphorescence is the lightning of the sea. That this figure of speech is correct in describing its appearance I am certified by an incident. After crossing the Atlantic the first time and writing from Basic, Switzerland, to an American magazine an account of my voyage, in which nothing more fascinated me than the phosphorescence in the ship's wake, I called it the lightning of the sea. Returning to my hotel, I found a book of John Ruskin, and the first sentence my eyes fell upon was his the first sentence my eyes fell upon was his description of phosphorescence, in which he called it "the lightning of the sea."

A few days ago I stood beside the garlanded asket of a gospel minister, and in the parable of the prodigal son, and that I pass down through these galleries, and I am looking for one who will have no influence in this world 100 years from now. But I have found the man who has the least influence, and I inquire into his history, and I find that by a yes or a no he decided some one's eternity. In time of temptation be gave an affirmative or a negative to some temptation which another, hearing of, was induced to decide in the same way.

Somebody, either in right or wrong directions.

A few days ago I stood beside the garlanded asket of a gospel minister, and in my remarks had occasion to recall a snowy night in a farmhouse when I was a boy and an evangelist spending a night at my tarber's house, who said something so tender and beautiful and impresssive that it led me into the kingdom of God and decided my destiny for this world and the next. You will, before twenty-four hours go by, meet some man or woman with a big pack of care and trouble, and you may say something to him or her that will endure until this world shall have been so far lost in the past that nothing but the stretch of angelie memory will be checked in the same way. tion which another, hearing of, was induced to decide in the same way.

Clear on the other side of the next million years may be the first you hear of the long reaching influence of that yes or no, but hear of it you will. Will that father make a path to shine after her? It is an everlasting nuisance. Every rider knows that, Think of the sand and dust it collects, the snapping, the loosening and tightening, the continual wearing.

Some riders are covering theirs. No wonder. The best made chain wheel on the market contains 200 more parts than the Chainless. Think, 200 more parts to wear that is all! 200 more chances of failure! 200 more places to break and stretch! 200 times more trouble in the end! Remember all these points if you are thinking of getting a wheel this spring. The Ladies Chainless Safety is the perfection of a wheel. Call and get a Catalogue. Be a progressive
