Eagle Bicycles

EVERYBODY SAYS:

"That's the best looking wheel I ever saw". Look it over and you will see how STRONG it is, too.

Every Joint Re-inforced.

ALUMINUM RIMS:

Are indestructible. They can be bent back after bad accidents. Many of the largest bicycle manufacturers have tried to lease these rims, but you find them only on Eagle wheels. Wood rims are fitted by special order, if you desire them.

LADIES

Will ride this year more than ever before. The importance of having a strong wheel should not be overlooked. The Eagle with tri-tubular frame is the strongest. Price $100.

Eagle Bicycles are STRONG, LIGHT and BEAUTIFUL and Leave Nothing to be Desired.

A MIRACLE IN CYCLOPAEDIAS. AN EXPLANATION WHICH WILL BE READ WITH INTEREST.

It is sometimes urged that because the People's Cyclopaedia is published in six volumes it must be too much condensed. But let us see. By taking the printer's estimate of type matter, we find that it had been set in ordinary type and ordinary octavo space with the usual amount of space allowed for margins, it would have been twenty volumes of over 500 pages each. Now, if we can divide up a twenty volume cyclopaedia into six volumes, it is not too much condensed, but you would take it for granted that it must be a very condensed work.

Do you understand how a family Bible is compressed into a pocket edition without condensing a single sentence? Whether you do or not, you know it is done. Largely by the same method, by using a solid, compact type, a single volume of the People's Cyclopaedia contains as much reading matter as three volumes of Appleton's Cyclopaedia. In the People's Cyclopaedia the columns are wider and longer, consequently the volumes are larger, consequently they are six volumes only to pay for instead of fifteen or twenty.

The enterprising publishers of the People's Cyclopaedia, Messrs. Hunt & Eaton, New York, were the first to put into practice the principles of the hydrostatic press applied to bales of manuscript. They compress into six super royal octavo volumes in the People's Cyclopaedia what before occupied from fifteen to twenty.

Horace Greeley once said: "I want just three books always at my elbow when I am writing—an Atlas of the World, Webster's Dictionary, and an Encyclopedia of not more than six volumes—and this book should have every general article abridged as much as possible, or, as we say in Vermont, 'balled down.'" It is needless to say that Mr. Greeley's model cyclopaedia would have been a model of cheapness and condensation, as is the People's.

Read the following testimonials: South Manchester, Conn., Mar. 6, 1895. My Dear Sir: The set of People's Encyclopaedia ordered from your office has just arrived. I examined it very closely and am persuaded that I have made no mistake in selecting it from others of your library. For some time I have felt a need in my study for an encyclopedia other than the Britannica, yours commends itself to me particularly for the clear and freshness of its subjects, the accuracy of its facts, and the low price at which it may be purchased. I am anticipating much pleasure in the use of my set.

Very sincerely yours, JULIAN S. WADSWORTH, South Manchester, Conn., Mar. 7, 1895. My Dear Sir: For several years I read the first edition of the People's Encyclopaedia, finding it a ready and reliable work of reference. This new edition, brought down to date, I welcome to my library, believing that in its enlarged and improved condition it will prove even more handy and helpful.

Very truly yours, THOMAS SIMMS, Among those who have purchased the work are the following: The Rev. George M. Stone. The Rev. C. A. Paddock. The Rev. C. M. Lamsom. The Rev. Joseph Irons. The Rev. W. A. Richard. The Rev. E. L. Thorpe. The Rev. Frank Dixon. The Rev. Asher Anderson of Meriden and many others.

In the fall of 1893 a son of Mr. T. A. McFarland, a prominent merchant of Live Oak, Sutter Co., Cal., was taken with a very heavy cold. The pains in his chest were so severe that he had spasms and was threatened with pneumonia. His father gave him several large doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which broke up the cough and cured him. Mr. McFarland says whenever his children have croup he invariably gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always cures them. He considers it the best cough remedy in the market. WOMAN'S WORLD.

PRINCESS BEATRICE, THE YOUNGEST DAUGHTER OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

Princess Beatrice, the youngest daughter of Queen Victoria, is undoubtedly the favorite of all that sovereign's many children and exercises the greatest influence upon her mother, whose constant companion she has been ever since the death of the prince consort. Not even the marriage of the princess has diminished the intimacy of the relations between mother and daughter, and when her majesty travels the princess is always with her, either in the carriage or in the train, either with the children or with the gentlemen in waiting.

Princess Beatrice has always been known as the most accomplished musician of the royal family. When quite young, she developed a wonderful gift for playing difficult music, and this has been carefully cultivated. She is also a most graceful composer and has set to music various poems by Lord Tennyson. These songs were heard at the wedding of the princess.

Lambrequin and Draperies. In the interest of true art the old style of lambrequin is no longer in vogue. In place of it is long, soft drapery, fastened to a window or festooned about it, and either falling in straight voluminous foldings or leaping into graceful cascades. The heavily carried cornice, with an embossed central ornament, is no more to be seen. Indeed, with accumulated dust of months of sweepings.

Equal Rights of Parents. In the Pennsylvania legislature a bill has been introduced to make mothers and fathers equal in their rights of parental control. It provides that every child who is the mother of a minor child, and who contributes by the fruits of her own labor to his support and education, shall have equal control and authority over the child and equal right to its custody and services as is now by law possessed by the father alone, and if the appointment of such guardians is not consented to in both parents it is void and of no effect. In all cases the mother shall have sole control of the child and the sole right to its custody and services after the death of the father. These provisions in the bill require that the mother of a minor child be qualified as a fit and proper person to have control and custody of it. A committee of Philadelphia ladies are working to secure the passage of this bill. It ought to become a law. - Woman's Journal.

Total of the Empress Frederick. A pretty act of kindness on the part of the dowager empress took place the other day at Potsdam as follows: It is told in an English paper by an eyewitness. A patient was at death's door, and his wife had been hurriedly summoned. With her baby in her arms she was walking up and down the waiting room close to the ward in which her husband lay.
