TOWN NEWS.

It is the intention of the Trolley Company to put in another trolley on the line, so that Manchester patrons returning from Hartford will not have to come down to the southern terminus of the line as at present. Until it is done, the inconvenience cannot be overcome. James Maxwell of Birch street has secured a situation as weaver in the silk mill at Stonington and is making arrangements to move his family there after the Fourth of July. His step-daughter, Jennie Lyddy, left for Stonington last Wednesday afternoon.

The following persons have been engaged to teach in the eighth district school during the ensuing year: P. A. Little, Catharine O'Connell, Mary L. Miner, Mary J. Blake, Nellie J. Jacobs, M. Lizette Griswold, Lina H. Beebe, Ella G. Parker and Misses Woodward and Day. Henry G. Russell, brother of Captain C. L. Russell has moved his family, consisting of a wife, four sons and one daughter, from West Avon, and is located in Munro C. House's tenement on Charter Oak street. He has secured a position as motorman on the local trolleyway.

Mrs. Lyman Bidwell of Wetherell street died at 11:45 p. m. last Tuesday night. She was 79 years of age, had been an invalid for 25 years and died of bronchial consumption. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 3 p. m. tomorrow, Rev. Thomas S. Simms officiating. Interment will be in the East cemetery.

A valuable alligator hand satchel, made by Tiffany of New York, and bearing Mr. Cheney's name and residence and the name of the store, together with a search of the ladies' rooms disclosed the fact that a couple of gold watches, not of much monetary value, were taken, one of them being an heirloom and valued for that more than anything else.

The ladies' watches contain the names and residences of their owners. The extra pair of trousers was found out in the yard among the shrubs. No further disclosures were made during Wednesday night, but on Thursday morning it was discovered that Robert Cheney's room had also been entered and a number of scarf pins stolen.

Drippings from a candle were found in the rooms, and the floors were littered with burnt matches. The work was carefully planned, quickly executed, and showed that it was done by experienced hands. It is supposed that they entered by the rear door, went right up the back stairs and began work at once.

The moving of a wooden settee up stairs made the noise that attracted attention and no doubt as soon as they found they were discovered, they beat a hasty retreat.

The rope ladder must have been arranged in advance as they had no time to fix this, after the ladies heard the noise and started the search. No clue to the burglars has at this writing been discovered.

HURT AT THE CIRCUS. After the street parade of Reynolds' circus at noon yesterday, a performer was giving a free exhibition of walking on a tight wire at the circus grounds a large crowd of people gathered around to witness the performance. Among others was Mrs. Curran of North Elm street, who had an infant in a baby carriage.

In the midst of the performance the cable broke, and one of the poles fell striking Mrs. Curran on the head, knocking her insensible and cutting quite a gash in her head. The pole also struck and broke the baby carriage, but luckily did not injure the sleeping babe. The escape was miraculous.

Mrs. Curran was carried into Mrs. Doane's residence over the way, where Miss Alice Grey, a trained nurse, happened to be visiting and she applied restoratives, bound up the wounds and after a time sent her home in C.O. Treat's little cart, his son happening to be present with the pony and cart at the time.

The performer was severely cut about the head, and had several other places where he was hurt. The other pole striking him in his downward course. This should be a lesson to persons attending these exhibitions, to keep back a safe distance and thus avoid injury. The woman who was hurt is a sister to Constable John Crockett, who is employed in Williams' feed and grain mill.

REV. MR. BIDDLE'S BOOK. Rev. J. A. Biddle, rector of St. Mary's church here, has written a book entitled "Social Regeneration," which is now in the hands of the publishers, The Students' Publishing Company of Hartford, and will be issued soon. This concern has bought the copyright, and will handle the sale of the work. It is a book of 250 pages and was suggested by "Kid's Social Evolution," but takes the religious rather than the scientific view of the social question, showing that social regeneration comes from God and is developed through the church, rather than through evolution as Kid has it.

BURGLARS AT CHENEY'S.

The residence of Harry G. and Robert Cheney was invaded by burglars last Wednesday evening, somewhere between eight and nine o'clock. H. G. Cheney left home about eight o'clock and went over to his uncle's close by, Frank Cheney's, and this was the first time that he had gone out of an evening for quite a while.

After he had gone a short time, the ladies heard footsteps up stairs and going to the foot of the stairway called one of the servants but received no answer. A visit to the kitchen revealed the fact that none of the servants were upstairs. A servant was then sent up the rear stairway to see what the disturbance was, and on coming through the hall to the front stairway, was joined by one of the ladies and the two searched all the rooms but found no one.

The servant however, going out on the veranda noticed that the awning rope had been cut away, was fastened to a circular opening overhead and suspended to the ground.

She took it in, showed it to her mistress and then Mr. Cheney was sent for, post haste. He arrived on the scene soon after and instituted a search of the rooms. He did not miss anything at first, but on making a more diligent investigation, he found that one drawer in a chiffonier had been completely rifled of its contents, chief among which were a suit of heavy winter clothing and an extra pair of trousers, together with a number of society emblems and a cheap Waterbury watch.

A valuable alligator hand satchel, made by Tiffany of New York, and bearing Mr. Cheney's name and residence and the name of the store, together with a search of the ladies' rooms disclosed the fact that a couple of gold watches, not of much monetary value, were taken, one of them being an heirloom and valued for that more than anything else.
