Mrs. Lyman Bidwell of Wetherell street died at 11:45 p. m. last Tuesday night. She was 79 years of age, had been an invalid for 25 years and died of bronchial consumption.

Arrangements are being made to have Pope's military band of twenty-two pieces give a series of open air concerts during the present season, on the square in front of Cheney's store.

These open air concerts have become quite popular in other towns, notably in Glastonbury, and no doubt will be quite an attractive feature here.

On Thursday evening June 27, Orford Lodge No. 58, A. O. U. W. will initiate four or more candidates. The degrees will be worked by the degree team of Walsworth Lodge No. 60 of Hartford.

There was a great packing up of trunks at the Teachers' Hall last Wednesday evening and yesterday morning the ex-presidents had all they could do getting the 40 or 50 trunks to the depot, as most of the teachers left town for the summer vacation and Teachers' hall will be a lonely place for the next ten weeks.

Mrs. Curran was carried into Mrs. Doane's residence over the way, where Miss Alice Grey, a trained nurse, happened to be visiting and she applied restoratives, bound up the wounds and after a time sent her home in C.O. Treat's little cart, his son happening to be present with the pony and cart at the time.

James Sergeant and Mary Ellen Turkington will be married at five o'clock this Friday evening at the residence of James Finnigan on Spruce street. Rev. J. A. Biddle will officiate. The attendants will be James Finnigan and Maggie Gibson. The bridal couple will board with Mr. Finnigan for the present.

Lost—A pair of gold bowled eye glasses, in a case, somewhere between Elbridge and Center streets on Spruce. The glasses were lost last Sunday afternoon and the finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving them at the residence of George Johnson, 33 Elbridge street, South Manchester.

BURGLARS AT CHENEY'S.

The residence of Harry G. and Robert Cheney was invaded by burglars last Wednesday evening, somewhere between eight and nine o'clock.

A servant was then sent up the rear staircase to see what the disturbance was, and on coming through the hall to the front staircase, was joined by one of the ladies and the two searched all the rooms but found no one.

She took it in, showed it to her mistress and then Mr. Cheney was sent for, post haste.

He arrived on the scene soon after and instituted a search of the rooms. He did not miss anything at first, but on making a more diligent investigation, he found that one drawer in a chiffonier had been completely rifled of its contents, chief among which were a suit of heavy winter clothing and an extra pair of trousers, together with a number of society emblems and a cheap Waterbury watch.

A valuable alligator hand satchel, made by Tiffany of New York, and bearing Mr. Cheney's name and residence and the name of the store, was also missing. A search of the ladies' rooms disclosed the fact that a couple of gold watches, not of much monetary value, were taken, one of them being an heirloom and valued for that more than anything else.

The ladies' watches contain the names and residences of their owners. The extra pair of trousers was found out in the yard among the shrubs. No further disclosures were made during Wednesday night, but on Thursday morning it was discovered that Robert Cheney's room had also been entered and a number of scarf pins stolen.

It is supposed that they entered by the rear door, went right up the back stairs and began work at once.

The moving of a wooden settee up stairs made the noise that attracted attention and no doubt as soon as they found they were discovered, they beat a hasty retreat.

The rope ladder must have been arranged in advance as they had no time to fix this, after the ladies heard the noise and started the search. No clue to the burglars has at this writing been discovered.

After the street parade of Reynolds' circus at noon yesterday, a performer was giving a free exhibition of walking on a tight wire at the circus grounds a large crowd of people gathered around to witness the performance.

In the midst of the performance the cable broke, and one of the poles fell striking Mrs. Curran on the head, knocking her insensible and cutting quite a gash in her head.

The pole also struck and broke the baby carriage, but luckily did not injure the sleeping babe. The escape was miraculous.

Mrs. Curran was carried into Mrs. Doane's residence over the way, where Miss Alice Grey, a trained nurse, happened to be visiting and she applied restoratives, bound up the wounds and after a time sent her home in C.O. Treat's little cart, his son happening to be present with the pony and cart at the time.

Rev. J. A. Biddle, rector of St. Mary's church here, has written a book entitled "Social Regeneration," which is now in the hands of the publishers, The Students' Publishing Company of Hartford, and will be issued soon. This concern has bought the copyright, and will handle the sale of the work.

Henry C. Strong of Chicago, claims to be the first inventor of the telephone. He made his first one in 1877, out of a piece of gas pipe, a block of wood, a reel of copper wire, and a bit of sheet metal. He applied for a patent in the spring of 1877, but only got it a few years since, as a fire in the patent office destroyed his model, and caused a delay.

Much attention has been directed to late to the gradual sinking of the entire Atlantic coast of this country. A landmark set up in Fairfield County, Connecticut, a little more than one hundred years ago, is now deep under water at low tide, and along the New Jersey shore it has been necessary to move houses back at intervals of thirty days. At one point on the Florida coast a light house had to be abandoned and another built higher on the shore. The indications are strong that Long Island was once a part of the mainland. Along the Atlantic in northern Europe the coast is slowly rising, but the Italian shore is subsiding. Fortunately, scientists maintain that there is an alteration in this movement.

Sanitary science must be accorded with a great victory in its grapple with cholera in civilized countries. The British government's report on cholera in England in 1893, recently issued, shows that the disease was introduced into sixty-four places, 287 persons were attacked, of whom 135 died. In two-thirds of the places the disease was stamped out after a single outbreak. So much for the present, but in the year 1849 the cholera epidemic in London numbered 14,067. The Spanish epidemic of 1855 attacked nearly a quarter of a million persons. In no epidemic manner, but with a hearty realization of the teaching of experience and common sense, we remark that "heaven helps them who help themselves."

What shape by exile dreamed elated? Like her whose hand, a fortress of the poor. No blood in mortal vengeance spelt beneath? Was never turned a suppliant from her door? Whose conquests are the gains of all mankind?

Today her limbs shall fly on every wind. Untraced, untraced, from shore to shore. One love, one hope, and not a doubt behind: Can you not claim to be her friend? Her children shall rise up to bless her name And with her harmless length of days. The mighty mother of a mighty brood. Bowed in all tongues and dear to every blood.

Seven years long was the bow Of battle bent, and the lightning. Storm-bangs convulsed with the throes Of their unaccountable lightning: Seven years long heard the sea. Crash of navies and war-borne thunder. Then drifted the cloud-rack away, And new stars were seen, the world's wonder.

Each by her sister made bright, All binding all to her august, Cluster of manifold light. Men looked up and grew pale: Was it a comet or star. Ours of blessing or curse, Hung over the ocean afar?

Stormy the day of her birth: Was she not born of the storm? She, the last ripeness of earth, Beautiful, prophesied long. Stormy the days of her coming. How are the perils that beat: Hither for perils outside. Making them fawn at her feet. Was she not born of the storm? Was she not born of the wise? Darting and counsel below. Of right to her confident eyes. Human and motherly they. Careless of station or race. Heavens! her children to-day. Shout for the joy of her face.

From Lowell's Ode for the Fourth of July.

CUPID'S FIRECRACKERS.

HE bunch of firecrackers is harmless enough — Equally harmless to the small — Equally as safe — when asleep. Combined and active, they represent, too, the same of innocent nose, burned fingers, profanity, eagerness, despair and innumerable other qualities and properties, governed in each case by the individual standpoint from which the Fourth is viewed.

One of these small boys stood in a cross street, pretty well up town on the West Side. In one hand he held the bunch of firecrackers, without which, of that day of days, he would have been incomplete. His pockets bulged out from the presence of several other bunches.

The most wonderful thing to relate is that the small boy was not accompanied by any other small boys. He had wandered away from the rest, and was in search of solitary fun—the surest sign of coming mischief.

From an open window near him came the sound of a piano and the added sound of a sweet feminine voice raised in song.

"If she wanted to make noise to-day why didn't she buy firecrackers?" growled the boy, in a tone of deep disgust. People who are so stung that they make noise with things they have every day in the year, are too mean to live. Smoky skyrockets, won't she jump in a minute!"

"Blow! blow!" he cried, springing into the hallway.

"Bang! bang! bang!" The firecrackers on the parlor floor within began to explode.

Naturally, the young lady at the piano stopped playing and bounded to her feet. Her notes of melody changed to shrieks of alarm.

"Not even if I am killed for remaining," he retorted, promptly.

"But you must go, Mr. You have no right to enter here, without my aunt's consent."

"Lemme go!" yelled the small patriot-joker, squirming and kicking.

"Come in, and shut the door!" "Madam, I entreat you—"

"Don't listen to him a moment longer." The elderly woman looked puzzled. Not knowing exactly what she ought to do, she hesitated.

"Come in, aunt!" insisted the young woman, pulling at her relative's arm. She succeeded in getting her inside, and tried to close the door, but Jack's foot across the threshold foiled her design.

"You are not going to close the door until I am on the inside side of it," he asserted, with the air of a master.

"The young lady was a little determined. "Robbie," she called, "run and bring a policeman, and I will pay you for it."

"You'll find out soon enough. Do you know that you can be sent to State's Prison for ten or fifteen years for a howling to set fire to a house?"

"You see how your implied threat led him up the steps to the house. A splash of water being thrown from a pail could be heard in the parlor, and a voice said:

"There, now; I guess we've put out the last spark."

A ring at the bell brought an elderly woman to the door.

"Here's the young rascal who tried to set fire to your house," said the man, winking significantly at the woman. "Shall I give him over to the police?"

nothing for Miss Zelle to do but to State's Prison."

"Don't please don't!" howled the small boy.

"He really ought to go to prison," said the woman, entering into the spirit of the affair.

The prospective young felon screamed more loudly than ever, and wriggled like an eel, only to find himself in a ditch from which there was no escaping.

"I didn't mean nothing—I don't want to go to prison!" he protested.

"Ah!" replied the man, "but those who don't want to go to prison shouldn't attempt to set fire to houses."

"The noise made by the small boy brought to the door the young lady, who was just admiring the house singing, but he was interrupted by the sudden advent of the firecracker."

"Why, Robbie Appleton," she exclaimed, "aren't you ashamed of yourself? What do you suppose your mother would say to you, if she were to hear what you have been doing?"

"I was only joking," mumbled the small boy, ready to blubber.

"I-I won't do it again."

"You'd better"—"not."

"Lemme go," begged the small boy.

"I didn't mean nothing—I don't want to go to prison!" he protested.

"Ah!" replied the man, "but those who don't want to go to prison shouldn't attempt to set fire to houses."

"The noise made by the small boy brought to the door the young lady, who was just admiring the house singing, but he was interrupted by the sudden advent of the firecracker."

"Why, Robbie Appleton," she exclaimed, "aren't you ashamed of yourself? What do you suppose your mother would say to you, if she were to hear what you have been doing?"

"I was only joking," mumbled the small boy, ready to blubber.

"I was only joking," mumbled the small boy, ready to blubber.

"I-I won't do it again."

"You'd better"—"not."

"Lemme go," begged the small boy.

"You'll find out soon enough. Do you know that you can be sent to State's Prison for ten or fifteen years for a howling to set fire to a house?"

"You see how your implied threat led him up the steps to the house. A splash of water being thrown from a pail could be heard in the parlor, and a voice said:

"There, now; I guess we've put out the last spark."

A ring at the bell brought an elderly woman to the door.

"Here's the young rascal who tried to set fire to your house," said the man, winking significantly at the woman. "Shall I give him over to the police?"

nothing for Miss Zelle to do but to State's Prison."

"Don't please don't!" howled the small boy.

"He really ought to go to prison," said the woman, entering into the spirit of the affair.

The prospective young felon screamed more loudly than ever, and wriggled like an eel, only to find himself in a ditch from which there was no escaping.

"I didn't mean nothing—I don't want to go to prison!" he protested.

"Ah!" replied the man, "but those who don't want to go to prison shouldn't attempt to set fire to houses."

FIRST OF NATIONS.

One of the marine wonders of the world is the great Barrier Reef of Australia. This stupendous rampart of coral, stretching in an almost unbroken line for 1,250 miles along the northeastern coast of the same island, presents a picture of interest which is not to be equaled in any other quarter of the globe. Nowhere is the action of the little marine insect, which builds up with unerring industry those mighty mountains with which the tropical seas are studded, more apparent.

By a simple process of secretion there has been reared in the course of countless centuries an adamantine wall against which the billows of the Pacific, sweeping along in an unintermitted course of several thousand miles, dashed themselves in ineffectual fury. Inclosed within the range of its projecting arms is a calm inland sea, dotted with a multitude of coral islets, and presenting at every turn objects of interest to the unlearned traveler and the man of science.

Here may be witnessed the process by which the way gelatinous mass hardens into stone, then serves as a collecting ground for the forams and jetsem of the ocean, and ultimately develops into an island covered with a luxuriant mass of tropical growth.

Here, again, may be seen in the section depths of placid pools extraordinary forms of marine life, aglow with the most brilliant colors, and producing in their infinite variety a bewildering sense of the vastness of the ocean.—London Public Opinion.

Great pots of molten metal go daily spinning under the Eric R. Kelly from the Cleveland Rolling Mills. The Kellys central blast furnace to the Newburg mills as steadily as if this traffic were of long standing. The plan, put into operation last Monday, is a perfect success.

It takes just fifteen minutes for the metal, after it is poured into the ladle cars, to reach the rollers. Eight miles, some five miles away, the metal is rolled into sheets. At the Cleveland Rolling Mills, the metal is rolled into sheets. At the Cleveland Rolling Mills, the metal is rolled into sheets.

TOWN NEWS.

In last week's issue we gave a notice of the marriage of James Sergeant, and in some unaccountable way the bride's name was misstated. It should have been "Mary Ellen Plimpton," instead of "Mary Ellen Turkington," as it appeared.

The ladies of the South Methodist church held sewing meetings in the church Wednesday and Thursday afternoon of this week, making necessary articles for the cottage at the Willmantic camp meeting grounds, which will be fixed up more attractively than ever this year.

Ogden & Willis the Wells street photographers, have taken and finished a nice picture of James H. Quinn, his horse and buggy. The picture was taken in front of the Methodist church, on Main street, the maple trees making a very pretty background. The familiar countenance of Charles Portland beams forth beneath the bonnets.

A new batch arrived in town last Saturday in the shape of a bouncing boy born to David McIntosh, head engineer in O. F. Mannell's meat factory on Charter Oak street. This is David's first born, and he is naturally very proud over the event and is dispensing fragrant Havanas to his friends as a token of his good will.

H. G. Cheney has had a large drain pipe placed under the sidewalk at the Hartwood road that will throughly drain the foot passage at that point and make it much more pleasant for pedestrians in winter usage. It was much needed as water accumulated there at every suitable occasion and sometimes rendered it almost impassable for foot passengers.

Advised Letters South Manchester, Conn. June 25, 1895. Mrs. Catharine Robt. Curran, Mrs. James Dillon, Edward Grogan, Augustus A. Hills, Andrew Hillery, James Kerr, Nora Lee, John Leavitt, Anne Leavitt, Mrs. Bridget McCann, Thomas Reardon.

ROLIN M. ROOD, P. M. A delegation from Clan Gordon visited Wm. C. Brown and family last Sunday and enjoyed a very pleasant time. A dinner was served at which Mrs. Munro provided some dishes that are peculiar to the Scottish people, and the visitors enjoyed them amazingly, as some of them had not tasted any of the kind for a number of years. They were a merry party and were delighted with their visit here.

BADLY HURT. Almeron G. Hayes slipped and fell at his residence last Monday evening, striking on the small of his back heavily and causing him an injury that may prove serious, as there is great fear that his spine is injured and meningitis or paralysis are likely to ensue. He is a heavy man and fell with great force. He is employed in the Rogers' east paper mill.

MAY GO AWAY. Miss Bertha M. McCowley, who is a general supervisor of model schools and has charge of the undergraduate of the normal school, who teach here, has two most tempting offers to go to - Massachusetts and take a superior position, at a largely increased salary over what she is receiving here. Gentlemen have been during the week, trying to induce her to leave. She is considering their propositions.

MRS. HARRY BARROWS' DEATH. Mrs. Harry Barrows of Oakland, whose serious illness has been mentioned in these columns several times, died last Monday. She was 22 years of age and had been married but a year and a half. She leaves a husband and an infant daughter. Her remains were taken to Broad Brook yesterday, where funeral services were held at the Congregational church and interment was in Melrose.

AMERICAN MECHANICS. Wadsworth Council No. 39 O. U. A. M. elected the following officers for the ensuing year: last Monday evening, and they will be installed by J. W. Wickham Monday evening July 5. Counselor, W. W. Bidwell, vice-counselor, Charles A. Sweet, recording secretary, George W. Gammons, financial secretary, E. E. Bidwell, treasurer, George H. Hall, inductor, Charles Rieley, examiner, I. N. Johnson, inside protector, Fred Rieley, outside protector, J. E. Sherman, representative to State Council, W. W. Bidwell, alternate, J. E. Sherman.

HUGH MORIARTY WILL MOVE. Hugh Moriarty, who has conducted the stove, tinware, plumbing and steam fitting business at the corner of Main and Maple streets these many years, has decided to give up his present location, erect a new shop for himself on his own land on Birch street and transfer his business there. The building will be 30x60 feet, he will have it fitted up in good form, will arrange a nice display room, and thus be the better enabled to exhibit his wares, make a more attractive store and show up his goods to better advantage. He intends to begin operations at once. Goetz's ice cream delivered to your house, from one quart up, week days and Sundays.

SCHOOL APPROPRIATIONS.

In our account of the school appropriations last week our figures were taken from the wrong schedule and should have been as follows: District 1, $475; " 2, 800; " 3, 850; " 4, 850; " 5, 825; " 6, 535; " 7, 1,000; " 8, 6,100; " 9, 17,000.

AARON JOHNSON'S NEW STORE. Aaron Johnson has made arrangements with Frank Cheney, whereby his new store building will be placed directly across the street from his present location, on Chestnut street, instead of to the east as was at first contemplated. Stone for the foundation is being drawn and men are at work there now. The new building will be 32 x 45 feet and two stories high.

THEY KNOW A GOOD THING. The settee that Rev. J. S. Wadsworth so thoughtfully placed at the terminus of the tramway here, for waiting travelers, is well patronized. In the absence of travelers however, a solid delegation of local celebrities enjoy their sestas beneath the umbrageous shelter of the spreading maple, so that as a whole, the settee is in constant demand and apparently very much appreciated. Some sweet day, more ample accommodations may be provided, but the passing moment is not allowed to slip by unnoticed on that account, by any means.

BUILDING AT BUCKLAND. The E. E. Hilliard Co. of Buckland have decided to erect a new mill 60 x 120 feet and three stories high, with basement.

C. O. Treat has the contract for the mason work and Robert Palmer for the wood work. The new mill will give employment to about 100 additional operatives. The company manufactures cast-iron and engine parts about 130 people now.

AFTER MAY DAYS. Gordon Dunn, son of Thomas and Mrs. Dunn of High street, who was injured at the fire in Cheney Brothers' silk mills on Sunday morning January 1, 1895, has been in the Hartford hospital undergoing treatment for the past three months and finally came home last Monday.

He is able to move about a little, on crutches, and his parents, relatives and friends are rejoicing even at this much progress and are full of hope that in time, he may be all right again. He has had a long and hard struggle of it, and it is to be hoped that the most sanguine expectations of his friends will be fully realized.

BAND CONCERT SATURDAY NIGHT. Owing to the very welcome rain of yesterday afternoon the concert to have been given by Pope's band last evening on the square in front of Cheney's store was postponed, but will be given tomorrow evening instead, and the following program will be given under the direction of Frank Seltzer:

1. March, "Star," Seltzer. 2. Overture, "Bolshoi's Opi," Seltzer. 3. Polka, "The Merry," Seltzer. 4. Music, "Huguenot," Meyerbeer. 5. Waltz, "Whispering," Seltzer. 6. Duet, "Misers," from Traviata, Verdi. 7. Patrol, "Crack Regiment," Moore. 8. Medley, "All The Slights," Seltzer.

GIVE HEED TO THE CALL. An official call for a special town meeting will be found in another column of The News and it is requested that the careful attention of our readers be earnestly directed to it. The principal item in the call is section 2, which refers to the erection of a new town hall, or addition to the present one, with provision for vaults to secure town and probate records and also accommodations for a lock-up. These things have been looked for and for quite a while, and every tax payer who can, should make an earnest effort to be present, and lend voice and vote to the proceedings. Action will be taken on the matter of the Hartford bridge, on the petition of the Rockville and on the advisability of borrowing $15,000 to meet the current expenses of the town for the balance of the fiscal year. These matters all require careful consideration and it is earnestly hoped that the tax payers will all be on hand. Remember that the hour is 9 o'clock in the afternoon and the date, Tuesday July 5, 1895. For Sale - Two nice building lots on Hollister street, close to line of electric cars.
