Text: "He was a mighty hunter before the Lord."—Genesis L. 9.

In our day hunting is a sport; but in the lands and the times infested with wild beasts it was a matter of life or death with the people. It was very different from going out on a sunshiny afternoon with a patent breachloader, to shoot reedbirds on the flats, when Pollux and achilles and Diomedes went out to clear the land of lions and tigers and bears. My text sets forth Nimrod as a herowhen it presents him with broad shoulders and shaggy appeared and sunbrowned face, and arm bunched with muscle—"a mighty hunter before the Lord," I think he used the bow and the arrows with great success practicing archery.

Thave thought if it is such a grand thing and such a brave thing to clear wild beasts out of a country, if it is not a better and brave thing to hunt down and destroy those are like of society that are stalking the series of society that are stalking to a country, to see that grew upon the battle-flats and one over the plains, here a coyote trotting along, almost within range of it. No one cares for that; it is worthless. The good game is hidden and seed the souls that will be of most worth for Christ and of most value to the church are secluded. They do not come in your way. You will have to go where they are up in that garret. Far away from the door of any church, the gospel arrow has not been pointed at them. The trast of the trough the trees gets a momentary sight of a particular of the properties of the such as a least of the convention stage on the decorations were united states flag was the most in evidence, although the Confederate battle flags and State worth for Christ and of most value to the church are secluded. It was that arrow that struck in Luther's heart when he cried out: "Oh, my sins! Oh, my sins!" If it strike a man in the head, it kills his skepticism; if it strike a man in the heel, it will turn his step; if it strike him in the heart, he throws up his hands, as did the Emperor Julian of old when wounded in the battle, crying, "O Galilean, Thou has conquered!"

I am sore that there are some here who at some time have been hit by the gospel arrow. You felt the wound of that conviction, and you plunged into the world deeper; just as the stag, when the hounds are after it, plunges into Scroon lake, expecting in that In the armory of the Earl of Pembroke way to escape. Jesus Christ is on your quered?"

In the armory of the Earl of Pembroke there are old corselets which show that the arrow of the English used to go through the breastplate, through the body of the warrior and through the backplate. What a symbol of that gospel which is sharper than a two-edged sword, piercing to the dividing asunder of body and soul, and of the joints and marrow! Would to God we had more faith in that gospel! The humblest man, if he had ehough faith in it, could bring 100 souls to Jesus—perhaps 500. Just in proportion as this age seems to believe less and less in it, I believe more and more in it. What are men about that they will not accept their own deliverance? There is nothing proposed by men that can do anything like this gospel. The religion of Ralph Waido Emerson was the philosophy of icicles; the religion of the desert covering up the soul with dry sand; the religion of Renan was the romance of believing nothing; the religion of the Huxleys and the Spencers merely a pedestal on which human philosophy sits shivering in the night lieving nothing; the religion of the Huxleys and the Spencers merely a pedestal on which human philosophy sits shivering in the night of the soul, looking up to the stars, offering no help to the nations that crouch and groun at the base. Tell me where there is one man who has rejected that goapel for another who is thoroughly satisfied and helped and contented in his skepticism, and i will take the car to-morrow and ride 500 miles to see him. The full power of the gospel has not yet been touched. As a sportsman throws up his head and catches the ball flying through the air, just so easily will this gospel has not yet been touched. As a sportsman throws up his head and catches the ball flying from its ordit and bring it back to the heart of Christ. Give it full swing, and it will pardon every sin, neal every wound, cure every trouble, emancipate every slave and ransom overy nation.
