A curious example of the vicissitudes of fortune is that of the late Mr. Pattison, who recently died at Rockhampton, in Queensland. He was a butcher, who struck gold, came very rich, went into politics, was made Postmaster-General, lost his money, and returned to his butches shop again, dying a poor man.

Turkey's military system makes trained soldiers of nearly all its ablebodied men. The standing army numbers 180,000 men, and the soldiers who have served six years and passed into the reserves would raise the forces that could be placed in the field to 300,000. The Turkish navy consists of nineteen iron-clads, frigates and corvettes, with about 250 wooden vessels stationed at different points o the coast. Here are men and ships enough to make a determined resistonce, but the treasury is in no condition to maintain them during a long war. Discord among the powers is still the sultan's best defense and the Armenians' greatest calamity.

CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.

Two men who went a few miles down the coast returned to Cedar Keys and reported finding the bodies of eight men washed ashore. These men were the crew of a sponging vessel, and the crews of most of the other vessels have undoubtedly met a similar fate. Four men reached Cedar Keys in a dingy. They were part of the crew of the schooner Rosalie, and report the vessels unk and eight of their companions drowned.

Those who escaped death in Cedar Keys had a terrible experience when the tidal wave overwhelmed the town. Many of the people floated in the water, clinging to pieces of timber, while others clung to tree-tops for hours, until the water receded. They were tuffeted by wind and wave, and many are still missing.

While the gale was at its height fire broke out in the Bettini House, and it was burned. The force of the wind demolished the large and handsome Methodist Episcopal Church, the Cedar Keys High School building, the Christian Church, three colored churches. Many private houses and all the fishhouses except one. The Suwanee ice factory, Wolf's cedar mill, the Eagle Pencii Company's mill, the large lumber mill of V. J. Unusual importance attaches to the elections this year, and every man who is entitled to the privileges of a voter, should use them according to the dictates of his own conscience, in harmony with the freeman's oath, and according to his own a crowded car.

They have a push button beside each window in the trolley cars in New Orleans, and the passenger who wants to leave the car, or call the conductor for any purpose whatsoever, touches the button and rings a loud hell, which can be heard by that official distinctly on any part of the car. This is a great convenience, prevents people from being carried beyond their destination and saves the great annoyance of trying to arrest the attention of the conductor on a crowded car.
