The fleron winds swept at this time absorbs so largely the attention with unabated fury. The flerce winds swept the shores near New York leaving behind unsightly piles of wreckage, where once stood stately hotels and neat pavilions. The wind blew with a terrific velocity. At Sandy Hook, N. J., it reached a velocity of seventy. five miles an hour. The destruction wrought | in its patriotic endeavor, I am yours, very in and near New York will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Summer Resorts Ruined. Tremendously high tides helped the devastation along the water front and the shores of Long Island and New Jersey. Coney Island, Gotham's famous seaside resort, is a wrock. The fiercest waves ever seen there have washed away the beach along the shore. Many buildings have been totally destroyed, many others seriously damaged, car tracks have been washed away, and the Brighton Beach race track was submerged.
Seidl's concert pavilion at Brighton Beach was destroyed. Pavilions everywhere along the beach have been demolished, boardwalks crushed and acres of the beach have disappeared.
The transfer was the beach to the property of the beach have disappeared. The iron pier at West Brighton was out in two, and some thirty feet of the massive structure tossed about. The damage all along the beach, from Norton's Point to the Oriental Hotel, was very heavy, and bathing pavilions, large board walks, photograph and shooting galleries were carried out to sea. The station of the Marine road near the Brighton Beach Hotel went seaward at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. At Coney Island alone it is estimated that the total loss will not fall much short of $200,000. At Bockaway Beach and Far Bockaway the loss was at least $30,000.

There was vast ruin at Atlantic City and other points along the South Jersey coast. The loss to property owners living between Elberon and Highland Beach cannot be safely estimated. Cliff Anderson, in attempting to save him, was carried out by a breaker. The two men were nearly exhausted when Captain Charles H. Vandyke reached them with the aid of a rope that he tied about his body. Captain Vandyke brought the men safely to land. Cranberry Bogs Flooded. About Hammonton, N. J., the meadows cranberry bogs were worrying lest what was left of their crops after the devasting fires of last spring would be ruined. Of the thou-sand little islands which dot the Jersey shore from Great Bay southward, almost every one was under water all day. The Long Beach Bailroad from Beach Haven to Harvey Cedars, a distance of eight miles is washed away. In Barnegat Bay much damage was done to sailing craft. Several score of small boats were ruined or sunk. In New York City little damage was done, beyond the flooding of cellars in South and West streets. Subject: "Divine Chirography."

TEXT: "Rejoice because your names are heard him tell the story of his life. He had TEXT: "Bejoice because your names are written in heaven."—Luke x., 20.

Chirography, or the art of handwriting, like the science of acoustics, is in very unsatisfactory state. While constructing a church, and told by some architects that the voice would not be heard in a building shaped like that proposed. I came in much anxiety to this city and consuited with Prof. Joseph Henry, of the Smithsonian Institution, about the law of acoustics. He said: "Go ahead and build your church in the shape proposed, and I think it will be all right. I have studied the laws of sound perhaps more than any man of my tigge, and I have come so far as this: Two auditoriums may seem to be exactly alike, and in one the acoustics may be good and in the other bad. In the same unsatisfactery stage is chirography, although many declare they have reduced it to a science. There are those who say they to a science. There are those who say they all the curtains of bright expectations! Yes! orn read character by handwriting. But there is only one word on all this subspirit; but if there be anything in this science. ject of Divine chirography in heaven that there must be some rules not yet announced, confuses me, and that is the small adverb for some of the boldest and most aggressive which St. John adds when he quotes the text

But while the chirography of the earth is uncertain, our blessed Lord in our text presents the chirography celestial. Wher addressing the seventy disciples standing before Him. There is the ink it is red guratively while talking about books and from the Calvarean sacrifice. And there is orchards with twelve crops of fruit—one crop each month—and about the white horses of heaven's cavalry; but we do well to follow out these inspired metaphors and reap from them courage and sublime expectation, and consolation and victory. A religious meeting was thrown open, and all those who caples correspond with the record in the genealogical table. It may not be the name by which we were called on earth, but it will be the name by which heaven will know us, and we will have it announced to us as we pass in, and we will know it so certainly that we will not have to be called twice by it, as in the Bible times the Lord called some peoin the Bible times the Lord called some people twice by name: "Saul! In examination of your name in the heaventy archives, if you find it there at all, you will find it written with a bold hand. You have seen many a signature that because of sickness or old age had a tremor in it, yet it was as bold as the man who wrote it. Many an order written on the battlefield and awidence of excitement in every word and every letter and in the speed with which it was folded and handed to the officer as he put his foot in the swift stirrups, and yet that commander, notwithstanding his trembling hand, gives a boldness of order that shows itself in every word written.
