The disbandment of the Chinese Six Companies, marks another step in the decadence of San Francisco's Chinatown. For forty years this organization has been the banker and confidential agent of nearly every Chinaman in California.

In its treasury were thousands of dollars to care for the sick and to remove the bones of the dead to China. It was trusted implicitly, and its officers were never above reproach. No accident ever tainted its management. It retained much of its old power until two years ago, when funds in China tumbled led to the formation of the See Yip, or Four Companies.

This was represented as not a seceder from the Six Companies, but a new organization, yet set it took two-thirds of the business away from the old society the result was the same.

Texas is a Southern state which can "point with pride" to the self-supporting labor of her convicts. Ten years ago the state purchased a large farm for convict working 2,000 acres of which are now under a high state of cultivation.

The chief products are cotton and sugar, and the value of the annual crop has increased within a few years from $33,000 to $81,000; this, in addition to the food and forage raised for the convicts and the farm stock. This farm is operated by "second-class" colored convicts, who are physically unable to meet the requirements of convict labor, for the majority of the prisoners are still working under contract. The fact that these "second-class" prisoners have proved more profitable to the state than the able-bodied convicts hired out to contractors furnishes an argument that appears to every taxpayer favoring the recommendation of the penitentiary superintendent, based on the grounds of humanity as well as of economy, for the employment of all the prisoners under direct state supervision.

A New Hampshire woman has accomplished the feat—something which no woman, so far as known, has ever done before. This daring innovator, says the New York Times, is Mrs. Marilla Marks Roker, whose home, when she is not traveling in Europe, living in California, or practicing law before the Supreme Court at Washington, is in Dover, and the basis of the second claim to originality which her friends make for her is the fact that she has altered a serious application for the position of United States Minister to the United States of Colombia. Nobody goes quite so far as to say that she will probably get the place, but it is asserted that she has the support of both the New Hampshire senators, and that her candidacy will be warmly advocated by woman suffrage clubs and similar organizations all over the country.

Ricker was born at Durham in 1843. She was married in 1863, and has been a widow for twenty-seven years. She studied law in the office of Albert G. Biddle and Arthur B. Williams. In 1890, after a hard fight, she won admission to the New Hampshire bar. Mrs. Ricker has long been prominently identified with the woman suffrage movement, and since 1870 has often taken the stump for the candidates of the Republican party.

THE WRONG MAN.

When our foreman went away to the Northwest territory to find a cattle range unoccupied by settlers, Robert was put in charge of the ranch.

The Good Roads Congress in Florida has the satisfaction of knowing that few people, if any, disapprove of its avowed purpose, observes the Washington Star. This country is not lacking in labor, material or expense for the enterprise.

A Canadian boy and I am a Hamiltonian, said Robert; if we like to trot together, I guess the other horses on this range will have to take our dust.

The friendship between these two men was founded on complimentary qualities, and only a woman could break it. The woman in this instance was Miss Bell, the schoolteacher at the Bend.

The burned child dreads the fire, but a bird will return and again dash into the flames. Robert's encounter with the fair fence-sitter was like some to the bird. He sought an introduction and forthwith became a suitor for her hand.

"You are a bird, aren't you?" said he; "the girl mesmerized you once, she'll bamboozle you for twice, and bounce you for three times. What do you mean to do?"

"I mean to marry her if she will have me," replied Robert, simply. "Yes, I know I told you plenty times that a cowboy had no business to marry, and that's right, but I'm an exception. I don't know how I don't know why, but I know I'm his hand. I go to have her."

So Robert, big, hulking, forty years old, was in love for the first time in his whole life. If iron and earnestness were his, he should win.

Love forward, less earnest, half an old, Biddy was in the same plight. His advice to Robert—to let the girl alone was in good faith; he thought it the best thing for Robert—but he had a bad case of "physician help thyself" upon his hands. He, too, was resolved to win and marry Miss Bell. He did not say to Robert, so hard is it for most men to be open in a love affair, and for a time Robert knew nothing of it. Everyone else, it is said, and Scotty told Biddy he had better stand from now.

"If you look horns with Robert," said he, "he'll get you down and walk all over your frame." And Scotty added some reflections on the law of supply and demand. "If there were twenty schoolma'ams round here you would not look at one of them, but because there is only one, you are ailing to get your skin so plump full of bullet holes that the wind won't whistle at all blows through."

Biddy laughed and went his way to call upon Miss Bell and urge his suit. And Robert went with him, which was the same way, upon the same errand. I do not know whether Miss Bell gave to either man any encouragement, but as the dead-slit is said to add nothing to the warbling. I am to it is supposable that about this time this young lady increased her list of rejected suitors by the names of these two cowboys.

It was done in her kindest manner, this rejection, and she had said to each: "I am sorry this has occurred, but since you have no honored one, you must come to my wedding. I am to be married next month in the church at Hammond. I shall really feel it if you do not come."

And each man had promised to be there. It had come to Robert's notice before this time that Biddy was his rival, but with the hope and intention of success strong within him, he had been affected differently from Scotty's forecast. He went straight to Biddy and told her to "go in and win if you can. I don't want the girl unless I can."

A Question of Pronunciation. Gness (seriously)—How do you pronounce the word "alecarmarine?" Hotel Water—I pronounce it "but-ter," or I'd lose my job.—Boston Traveler.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Boil the potatoes until they are cooked through. Do not, however, cook to a mushy state. Carefully cut away any blackened parts. Slice them in thin slices say one-fourth of an inch in thickness; place a frying pan over the fire and heat; drop in the potatoes and let them brown, sprinkle generously with sugar. Let them remain until the sugar has melted and formed a brown candy coating. Serve piping hot.

Take a good compact piece of beef, trim it neatly. Put a couple of spoonfuls of fat in a kettle, let it get hot, put in the meat and let it sear, turning over and over till the outside is partly cooked. The object of this is to close the pores of the meat so that the juices will not escape. Then fill the kettle with boiling water, barely covering the meat, and let it simmer slowly till tender. Salt and pepper when half done. When the meat is done pour off the water, put a piece of butter in the kettle and let the meat roast or brown in this, turning it often. Pour in a bowlful of the liquid in which the meat was boiled into the kettle, and thicken with a little flour stirred smooth in cold water. A tablespoonful of tomato catsup imparts a very agreeable flavor.

HOME-MADE FRUIT GLAZES. Of the 1,200 varieties of candies, fruit glazes are the most expensive and most popular. But they can be made at home just as well as at the factory. There seems to be only one method, as follows: Take two cups of granulated sugar and one cupful of cold water. Pour them into a large bowl and stir them up thoroughly. Do not stir the sugar and water after it is on the stove. Put the mixture on a very hot fire, and allow it to boil until—here is the point—until a spoonful of it dropped into cold water will scatter and fly into tiny pieces like burnt glass.

This is the crucial test. There comes only a certain stage when the mixture gives this sign, and immediately it must be taken off the fire, and poured into warm bowls. It is well to have several cups or bowls in the oven while the mixture of sugar and water is boiling. Now, quickly plunge your aprons, your cherries, your Tokay grapes, figs into the burning syrup, and as quickly pull them out. They spread the fruit over the pans which have been thinly buttered. Take care the butter be not too thick, else the candies may savor of it. Finally, lay the tin pans with the fruit away in an ice cold place, or in the open air on a winter's day. When dry fruit glazes are cold, they are all ready for Miss For. McFlimsy and her schoolgirl friends. The whole operation should be taken over half an hour, and then you will have candied fruit, fresh and at a small cost.—New England Homestead.

A London thief has been doing a thriving business by providing himself with a hat attached to a line, by means of which he managed, from the flat roofs, to secure bridgeworks and their inmates, that he sold at a great profit on his investment.

The largest mountain lion probably ever killed in the State of Washington was killed near Mount Baker two weeks ago by a hunter and brought to New Whatcom. Its body is seven feet long, and with tail outstretched it is more than ten feet altogether.

The "Drummer boy of Arcole," who saved the day for Napoleon, is not a myth. At least France does not consider him a myth, and is about to erect a statue in his memory at Castanet, in Vancluse, his birthplace, where he was known as Andre Etienne.

King Humbert of Italy holds the record of having shot the largest ibex ever seen. The horns measure thirty-five inches in length, the circumference at the base is nine inches, and the distance between the horns twenty-seven inches. He has also shot the second best specimen, whose horns measure thirty-four inches.

Perhaps the most remarkable article which is here illustrated, is a pair of pants in the Ville-Erard system in Paris. Most of the pants in the system have been painted or designed, and the physician in charge inaugurated a "salon" of their works. The effect on the minds of patients is said to be excellent.

WOMAN'S WEAR.

What Fashion and Fancy Say It Should Contain. Spring Styles Now Displayed by New York Tailors.

(Special New York Fashion Letter.) Now that we have quite bidden adieu to winter purchases, women are on the qui vive to know what to buy for the future. The modes are never stagnant, and surely there never was a time when Fashion was more variable than at the present moment, or when her indications leaned toward such a multitude of pretty whims and details.

New York is now fully prepared for spring; not so much with made-up goods, which demand freshness about all things, but with models, material and trimmings, which have come to supersede the more regal magnificence of velvets and furs. Any doubt as to the popularity of tailor-made gowns have been entirely laid to rest by the latest importations of Gotham's best tailors who are, in fact, preparing with style and materials for both the spring and summer seasons. Many changes and some improvements are noticeable in these new models. The skirts are cut with very little flare at the sides and front and they are nearly as full as those of the early winter. Sleeves are decidedly less obtrusive and have every iota of their clinging effect, fitting the arm snugly to above the elbow where they flare into a very moderately-sized puff.

When we come to discuss the forthcoming materials and colors to be worn, we open a wide field of inquiry. The choice wisely, for in every displayed silk and is trimmed on each side of the front with an applique design of light tan cloth.

Dainty Eton suits will be more worn than ever by young girls between the ages of ten and sixteen years.

Invariably they are made of dark mixed or plain materials, for during the very warm weather the little skirt is worn with dainty cotton shirt waists which can now be obtained in sizes to fit girls as young as six years.

The jackets of all the new suits are quite short, not reaching to the waist line, and the trimmings, if any are used, are narrow braid or a few bright brass buttons. The Eton suit, made into quite a dressy affair by having a soft, dainty front of crepe or chiffon and replacing the leather belt by one of wide satin ribbon that is drawn out in a girlish fashion in the front, and is finished at the back by a jaunty bow and long ends that reach nearly to the bottom of the skirt.

The wash, of course, is charming if matching the color of the fancy fabric, but for serviceable wear a black tulle or satin ribbon. Instead of ending at the back with a large bow its ornaments are in the front and consists of just two ends of the ribbon drawn through a tiny buckle of yellow enamel.

The skirt and jacket suit is developed in one of the new illuminated

AMERICAN RAILWAYS.

The latest general balance sheet of the railways of the United States, writes Robert P. Porter, gives us a total valuation of railway property, close to ten thousand millions of dollars, and over one hundred and eighty thousand miles of track. Next to our farms, which aggregate thirteen thousand millions, these great systems of transportation have proved the most valuable assets of the Republic. The number of manufacturing plants is less than half that invested in railways, yet the condition of our manufactures is far more favorable than that of the frequent rail application, since to command much more public attention. The construction of these great systems of transportation has proved an important, if not the most important part, in the progress of the Nation during the last half century. By the extension of these railways, property has been distributed, large areas of country have been opened up for settlement, better manufactures established, mines developed, foreign trade increased, and the varied products of our vast domain brought from tropical and arid zones to the temperate regions of denser population. In short, the laying of the track, and the penetration of the locomotive have been time time with the building of the Nation itself.

A railway company is a great proprietor, not only of the land it occupies, but of the direct employees, which reach nearly eighty hundred and seventy-five thousand men, as well as of the indirect employees, who are engaged in the construction of the railroads, and the maintenance of the equipment. The total number of employees of the railroads is estimated at over one million. The total value of the property of the railroads is estimated at over ten thousand millions of dollars. The total value of the property of the railroads is estimated at over ten thousand millions of dollars.

PEARLS OF THOUGHT. We are always in great danger, when we hold on to a little sin. The great man of today shows us what all men may be by and by. Whenever faith moves a mountain, love should direct where it is to go. The faultfinder would growl about the weather if it were raining money. No man is strong whose character has not stood the test of many trials. When we get to the end of life we shall find that nothing good has been lost. Give until you feel it, and you will feel more like living than you did before. When people find out that it is blessed to give, they never want to stop. It is hard to believe that there is death in the air that wears a mask of good. The greater our growth in grace the greater our use of common sense. The world is full of blind Sadducees, who spend their lives grinding in a mill. A big man in a little world is as much out of place as a little man in a big one. There is nothing like telling good news, for imparting a pleasant tone to the voice. The man who sits on a limb and sees it off is a Solomon compared to the one who sits on a limb and sees it without to suffer.—Barn's Horn.

THE LABOR WRULD. New York is to have a labor temple. America contains 200,000 machinists. Denver (Col.) women's wages will be cut. Pittsburgh, Pa., has 10 1/2 union stock makers. London manholes regularly employ 10,000 men. Indianapolis, Ind., has a new union of canvassers and agents. Seven Knights of Labor assemblies will be formed at Cleveland, Ohio. Washington Central Union wants the Commonwealth, Pa., to be a free trade zone. San Francisco unionists endorse the Southwick bill to compel the training of convicts. The Pioneer Iron Works at Hollidaysburg, Pa., will employ 100,000 men in six months. The models operated at the station of London are likely to form a trade union, so as to exclude foreign competition. After thirty-five years constant service as Assistant Secretary of the American Work of Dunbar, N. Y., Anthony Jackson has resigned. The latest news from New York City furnished temporary relief for 21,000 unemployed men, and one city, in 1906, 181,000 men. The House of Representatives has passed a bill to make it unlawful for any company or corporation to prevent employees belonging to labor organizations. The first labor party in the United States was organized by the Evans, Dow, Cox English labor reformers. Its constitution was composed by the National Labor Union of America. The American Federation of Labor is now a national organization, and has its headquarters at Washington, D. C., 14th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Frank J. O'Connell, of New York, has been elected to the position of Secretary of the American Federation of Labor. The Grand Rapids (Mich.) Typographical Union admits reporters and printers to membership at Front Street, Grand Rapids, Mich. The opinion that the day is not far distant when the world will be governed by the "Gymnasium Religion" is being expressed in the following report. The will of George B. Roberts, late President of the National Labor Union, is being disposed of an estate estimated at $6,000,000. The will was made in 1890, and is now being administered by the executor, Mr. Roberts. The new Liberal Member of the British Parliament, Samuel Woods, is a son and grandchild of the late President of the American Federation of Labor. He was a worker in the pits when he was seven years old, and grew to be a successful mining engineer and education under more than ordinary difficulties. Garret A. Roberts announced that he would give up, March 1, all business offices held by him which might hamper his public duties as Vice-President. Stephen A. Roberts, the husband of the "Father of the House" in the next Congress. He has served without interruption since 1851 a period of sixteen years. He steps into the shoes of Judge Caberton, of Texas, who holds the Senate seat in the present Congress. Lord Nelson is the only one living who was a peer at the time of the Queen's accession. The great admiral, who was created Viscount Nelson, was created by a pension of £12,000 a year, but that was superseded by a pension of £20,000 a year, payable to all holders of the Barons.

We are buying our meats and groceries at Strickland's now, and such nice things as we get would make anyone hurry home. Just call at Strickland's market and try some of their fancy beef, some dressed chickens, spring lamb and veal. Did you know that Mr. Pitkin, who has charge of the market, can beat them all on corned beef, and prices are so low too.

My wife says that "Strickland's Best" flour makes a fifth more bread than any other we ever used. And such coffee, it's just delicious and I heard they have just lowered the price.

They have the "SELF RISING BOSTON BROWN BREAD FLOUR." Baked beans in tomato sauce, canned cabbage, sauer kraut, rhubarb and lots of other things I'll tell you of later. C. D. Strickland & Son.
