Frocks That Make the Wearers Look Like Spring Flowers.

(Special New York Fashion Letter.) The immortal Bard it was, I think who said, "Throw physic to the dogs." He meant, throw it away. But at Madison Square Garden it took hteattendants all their time to keep the young folks from throwing chocolate creams enough to kill the lot. Before the dog show was ended the physic was probably in great demand.

I was particularly attracted to a trio of lovely girls, about 14, 16 and 17 years old, accompanied by their governess, who were enthusiastic enough to bring a smile to the face of the most blase dude. They looked as dainty and fresh as spring flowers in their new frocks. The youngest wore a double-breastad reefer coat and a short skirt, of cloth of a tinted mixture of cream and dark fawn. The coat was open to show a turn down collar and a tie. It had four large buttons, and, as a finish, two rows of stitching around the edges and on the pocket flaps. The skirt had a saucy look that suited the wearer's jaunty style to perfection. Her hair hung carelessly about her cars; the cap was Turn-o'Shanter, and the gloves tan sucile.

check designs. One were a blazer coat and a skirt of a large check in green and brown. This was very effective, the collar of the cost forming two square tubs, the revers being carried from the bottom tab and broadening at the lower end. This gave an entirely new and very dressy effect. Three buttons were on each rever. The sleeves were leg-of-mutton and the whole had a double row of stitching. The skirt hung in graceful folds to the boot tops. A green and old rose shot-silk waist was worn with cream lace at the throat.

The other girl had a neat suit of a small check pattern in green and white, with a black thread running through it. Her jacket was an Eton, cut so as to show the whole front of a pretty pale blue silk blouse. A single dart kept it well in place at the waist; and on the broad revers reaching t the armhole were three buttons. There were three also on each side of the dart at the bottom. for the determination of its most profitable use after it is upon the market. To make the test, a good grade of yellow Dent corn, on the ear, of this year's crop, and not thoroughly dry, was burned under the boiler used to supply power for the department of practical mechanics, and the amount of water evaporated by the burning of a known quantity of corn was noted. The test lasted nine and one-half hours, and 5,232 pounds of corn and cob were consumed. The next day the same boiler was heated with screened Rock Springs nut coal for five hours, burning 1888 pounds of coal, and the amount of water evaporated was re-

The data thus obtained show that one pound of coal evaporated 1.9 times as much water as one pound of corn. In other words, 1.9 times as much heat was liberated in burning one pound of coal as in burning one pound of corn. Several calorimeter tests were made, which agreed very closely with these results. The coal used cost at Lincoln $6.65 per ton. With coal selling at this price, and worth 1.9 times as much or fuel as an equal weight of corn, the fuel value of the latter would be $3.50 per ton, or 12.25c. per bushel. The following table shows how much coal is worth per ton when its heating power is the same as that used in the experiment, and when corn is selling at a certain price per bushel:

ity of coal were selling at less than $6.50 and corn were bringing 12c., it would pay to turn corn, while coal must sell as low as $5.41 per ton to be us cheap as fuel at 10c. per bushel.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man-besides, a man does not understand-simply because he is a man. Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman, whose - knowledge from actual experience is greater than any local physician in the world. The following invitation is free;y offered;

accept it in the same spirit: MRS. PINKHAM'S STANDING INVITATION.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.-Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
